GREATER BUYING POWER FOR FARMERS' DOLLAR

Three developments of interest to the American farmer are reported in a review of the natural nitrate industry which has just been published by the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau. These developments, affecting the price of natural nitrate, its mechanical condition and the bags in which it is sold, show, among other things, considerable increase in today's buying power of the farmers' dollar. Turn back the calendar to 1927. That year new and more economical mining and refining methods went into operation. Price reductions followed. Today the price of natural nitrate of soda is about $20 per ton less than in 1927. Mechanical condition has steadily improved. Today farmers everywhere are familiar with the famous natural nitrate pellets which are so easily applied and which resist the hardening and caking to which other nitrogen fertilizers are subject. The improved form of this hundred year old product retains, of course the natural balance of many plant food elements besides nitrate. Thirdly, in a large-scale effort to assist in developing new uses for American cotton, natural nitrate of soda was offered in April 1940 as clean up and fix up week. Let all of us cooperate to clean up the town. This the 26th day of March, 1940. R. W. Carter, Mayor.

APPLICATION FORMS FOR FREE CLASSING READY FOR GROWERS

Memphis, Tenn., April 1.—Forms for making request for the free classing of cotton of their 1940 crops are available for one-variety communities and other cotton improvement groups at the Memphis, Tenn., classing office of the Agricultural Marketing Service, H. K. Tinsley who is in charge of the office announced today. Interested groups in the mid-south may obtain sets of these application forms by applying to the Agricultural Marketing Service, Box 363, Memphis, Tenn. Any group may file its application as soon as members have planted their cotton. Dead line date for filing application in the states of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana this season is August 1, and in Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee August 15. In considering requests early applications will be given preference after allowance is made for the different dates of planting over the Cotton Belt. Last season the Service approved 918 groups for the free classing. "Early filing of applications," Mr. Tinsley said, "will help the classing offices arrange for the work and assure the group that its application will be acted upon in time for early-picked cotton to be classed. Last season some applications were received so late that the groups did not have time to make sufficient plans and consequently were not able to benefit from the services on their early ginned cotton." The Service will supply free market news reports again this season to supplement the free classing for improvement groups.

HERE AND THERE BY Wilmer Price

White Book.

The Germans have created a big to-do all over the world by their publication of what they call "the white book." This so-called book is supposed to contain sixteen documents which the Germans say they found in Warsaw when they captured that city. These documents were sent by the Polish Ambassador in Washington to his government, and they are a record of conversations which he had with several U. S. Ambassadors to foreign countries. These ambassadors are supposed to have told the Polish diplomat that the people of the United States would go in on the side of the allies when war started, and they encouraged the Polish government to resist the demands made by Hitler. The reason the Germans published the contents of "the white book" is because they say the President and high U. S. government officials foresaw the war and had a hand in starting it by inciting the small nation of Poland to defy Hitler. Further, they also claim that the United States had an understanding with England and France to the effect that the democracies would work together. Let us remember, however, when considering the importance of this so-called "white book," that there is nothing official about the documents set forth therein. They are merely a record of opinions expressed by two U. S. ambassadors, and do not reveal anything that everyone did not already know. People in this country felt that war was at hand months before it actually began, and sentiment was strongly in favor of England and France. The consensus of opinion was that we would be forced into war on the side of the allies soon after hostilities started. I believe the reason we are not already involved in the conflict is that so much pressure was put on Congress to stay out of war that a peace bloc headed by the late Senator Borah gained great headway.

France.

Paul Renault, the new French premier, continues to give the impression that his government will launch some sort of action against Germany in the immediate future. However, as yet nothing of real importance has occurred in a military way either on land, on the sea, or in the air. This is probably due to insufficient cooperation from the slow-moving English.

England.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's government continues its do-nothing policy. They say that the blockade around Germany is being tightened and actually the English did sink a shipload of ore bound for Germany in a Norwegian vessel. It is estimated that 30 million dollars a day is being spent by the British and that the taxes will amount to about 150 dollars for every person in England. Therefore it is no wonder that the people are demanding action or else the war be stopped. The allies are having a hard time finding a point at which to strike Germany. Now that Russia controls part of Finland that opening is closed and if they start anything in the Balkan countries Italy may join forces with Germany. Thus, only the west wall of the impregnable Siegfried Line is left and it is so heavily fortified that it would be sheer folly to try to break through there. So what the the allies going to do?

Sumner Welles.

—Reporter.

Welles has returned to Washington after his tour of the great capitals of Europe. The newspapers reporters could gather no scrap of information from this polished diplomat regarding his talks with the heads of foreign governments. He has made his confidential report to Mr. Roosevelt who does not see fit to make public at this time the information which he received from his representative. However it is conjectured that part of Mr. Welles' mission was to foster more friendly relations between the United States and Italy, and perhaps lay the foundation for some reciprocal trade agreement.

CAPITOL ACTIVITIES

By Walker Wood, Secretary of State

The Mississippi legislature is now in its fourteenth week since convening on January 2. Up to Tuesday, March 26th, there had been 184 bills enacted into law, and approved by the Governor. Of these 123 were house bills and 61 senate bills. Governor Johnson has vetoed three bills, viz: House Bills 275, 288 and 329. Sixteen house concurrent resolutions have been passed. Of the 184 laws enacted by the legislature 67 are of a general nature and 117 are what are known as local and private legislation.

Senate Bill No. 94, approved on March 22, by Governor Johnson, is of general interest to the public of our state, in that it tends to curtail and circumscribe the activities of loan sharks in our state by making it possible for Mississippi banks to make personal loans to individuals under more liberal terms than hitherto has been possible under existing banking laws in the State of Mississippi. The law in no way repeals any of the usury laws now in effect in our state.

House Bill No. 299, now a law by the approval of Mississippi's governor, will have a far-reaching effect. It will abate in a large measure the nuisance that employers faced in the past on assignment of wages by employees. This new law provides that no assignments or pledge of wages, in any form, made or executed, directly or collaterally, in the payment of, or as security for the purchase of or contract to purchase any goods, wares or merchandise shall be valid against or binding upon any employers, or the wages of any employee in the hands of, or owing to such employee, unless the assignee or pledgee thereof shall, prior to the delivery of the goods, wares or merchandise so purchased, or prior to the consummation of any contract to purchase the same, serve upon the employer a duly certified copy of such assignment, or pledge or contract and obtain such employer's acceptance of notice thereof and agreement in writing to be bound by the terms thereof.

At the recent bar examinations held by the State Bar Examiners twenty-three persons successfully passed the tests. The board of bar examiners is composed of R. M. Kelly, Vicksburg, Vice-President, W. H. Inzer, Pontotoc, Secretary and Earle L. Wingo, Hattiesburg, President.

The Northeast Mississippi Livestock show will be held in West Point April 16 through April 19. 22 counties compose the Livestock show and $2,864 in premiums will be awarded to owners of prize-winning cattle, hogs, work stock, sheep and poultry.

According to the Mississippi Forestry Commission citizens of our state were robbed of more than seven million dollars in 1938 by forest fires. This is an enormous amount of money for our people to lose in any one year, especially since most forest fires are preventable and are generally due to carelessness.

RIVERTON ROSE TRAIL INCREASED

Another link has been added to the Riverton Rose Trail this spring. Such marvelous luck was had with the original planting two years ago that it was decided to add another mile on the road from Riverton to Cherokee through the hills.
True this will in a sense be "gilding the lily," as the original wild flowers and natural beauty of the scenery is unsurpassed in this section of the state. However, with the very kind assistance of Mr. Melvin Harris, our wide-awake Commissioner, about a thousand more roses were planted along the Pickwick Lake Drive. Then being especially ambitious we added about a hundred other plants including buttercups, hollyhocks, August lilies and lilacs, hoping these would withstand the drouths and bloom at different times of the year thus adding interest to our Trail.

Some of the larger cities of the South have flower pilgrimages at certain times of the year. We are trying to make ours a year long pilgrimage, and with the help of Nature we firmly believe we will succeed.
In fact, Nature has already begun with her part. The wild plum and cherry, are already in full bloom, making a fluffy white bouquet amidst the green pines. These will be followed soon by dogwoods, redbuds and honeysuckle, and these will give way to Sweet William and wood violets. Then a little later comes the mountain laurel, and we defy anyone to find a prettier hill than one on the drive covered with these glossy green bushes filled with clumps of pink flowers. And just to make the menu interesting, there will be a profusion of wild hydrangea and ferns a little later. And then, the pink and white Dorothy Perkins roses on the safety posts will do their duty, or perhaps I should say share. They are trained up on trellises between the posts, and should cap the climax of a month long period of blooming flowers along the Riverton Rose Trail.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering! It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Fertilizer Supplies Assured Despite War

In contrast to the acute shortage of fertilizer materials suffered at the beginning of the last European war, the present purchasing season for fertilizer finds the country prepared with adequate supplies for this year's crops.

"At the beginning of the last World War an immediate deficiency of nitrogen carriers occurred," said Charles J. Brand, Executive Secretary and Treasurer of The National Fertilizer Association. "There was an almost total absence of potash. Although there was plenty of phosphate rock, there was a shortage of sulphuric acid needed to make superphosphate."

"When war disrupted shipping from 1914 to 1918, nitrogen materials for fertilizer became scarce, as we were once bound to Chile for nitrates," said Mr. Brand. "Today, we not only have adequate shipping service from Chile, but our country is the third largest producer of synthetic nitrogen in the world, and the largest producer of ammonium sulphate. The shortage of sulphuric acid during the last war was due to the heavy requirements of munition manufacturers for processing their goods. Improved methods of munition makers no longer require sulphuric acid. This leaves an adequate supply for use in making superphosphate."

"In 1914 we were entirely dependent upon Germany for potash. Today, we produce at home over 60 per cent of the potash we use and have sufficient reserves to care for our entire needs. In addition to this, French, German, Palestinian, and Spanish potash are available."

Prices farmers pay for fertilizer are now lower than before the World War; prices they pay for all commodities average 22 per cent higher.
