TO THE COTTON FARMERS OF MISSISSIPPI

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Under the leadership of Senator Bankhead of Alabama, Senators and Representatives from the Cotton Belt have been working hard to secure a good price for cotton seed for the year 1941. We have been unable to get the Commodity Credit Corporation to agree to a seed loan plan on cotton seed but after many conferences with Mr. Leon Henderson, the Price-Control Czar, he has agreed that no price ceiling will be placed on cotton seed or cotton seed oil unless the price gets out of all reason.

We all know that oils and fats are scarce in this country. We also know that there will be a short cotton seed crop this year, but the law of supply and demand under the circumstances, should and I am sure will bring about a good price for cotton seed.

It is my honest belief that if the farmers will take reasonable time in selling their seed this year they should and will get from 350 to 360 a ton. As most mortgages and liens do not cover cotton seed this just and fair price will be a great help to the cotton farmers. At $50 a ton the farmers will get for their seed this year half as much as they got for the entire cotton crop in 1931 and 1932 and five times as much as they got for their seed crop.

I want every farmer to use his own business judgment, but, personally, I can see no prospect for the farmer losing anything by holding and demanding a reasonable price for their cotton seed. Orderly marketing and the scarcity of oils and fats in this country should yield and I believe will yield to the cotton farmers $50 to $60 a ton for their seed, to which price they are justly entitled.

Yours for service,
Theo. G. Bilbo, U.S.S.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. How do I get the highest return on my investment in Defense Savings Bonds?

A. By holding each Bond for its full term of years you will secure the full maturity value. A Defense Savings Bond of Series E increases in value 33 1/3 per cent if held for 10 years.

Q. Is the Government concerned over whether I buy my Defense Savings Stamps at post offices, banks, savings and loan institutions, retail stores, or elsewhere?

A. No. The Government is interested in having as many persons as possible take a hand in the National Defense Program. Toward that end the Treasury is making Bonds and Stamps available for purchase in the largest number of places possible.

Note.—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at retail stores.

DOXEY CITES SUPPORT AND VOTE FOR FUNDS TO MAKE U.S. SECURE

Jackson, Miss.—Representative Wall Doxey continued his campaign for the United States Senate throughout South Mississippi this week with a discussion of "my consistent support of the Administration on national defense."

Mr. Doxey stressed the "need for unity and solidarity" in the "emergency which confronts us" and added that "everything I have ever accomplished has been through cooperation."

"Without cooperation, one can not get much accomplished in Washington. During my 13 years in the National Congress, I have cooperated and worked with all Mississippi congressmen and senators for the best interest of all Mississippians."

Discussing national defense, Mr. Doxey said that the records—the Congressional Records—will show that I have voted and worked for every proposal advanced in the interest of making our country secure.

"On the other hand, its not what my opponent has done FOR preparedness but what he's done TO preparedness by his negligence in voting on important defense legislation."

"Last March when the House passed the $7,000,000,000 appropriation bill to put into effect the lend-lease program in the interest of national defense, my opponent was recorded as NOT voting. I voted for the appropriation."

"In February of 1939 when the House approved the President's recommendations for an expenditure of $525,000,000 for the building of more planes and the strengthening of our forces, my opponent was recorded as NOT voting. I voted for the appropriation."

"In February of 1939 my opponent voted to eliminate from a naval construction bill of $5,000,000 appropriation for improving in the interest of national defense, the Island of Guam, an outpost of the United States in the Pacific. I voted for the appropriation."

"When the New York Republican, Hamilton Fish, the greatest obstructionist in the House to the defense program, sought to interfere with the draft with an amendment to the Selective Service Act, he had the support of my opponent, who was paired FOR the amendment. I voted against the Fish amendment."

"On May 24, 1939, when the House passed a bill authorizing additional funds for the Coast Guard in the interest of national defense, my opponent was recorded as voting NO. I voted for the appropriation."

"On August 1, 1939, when the opposition to the defense program tried unsuccessfully to recommit a bill providing for additional facilities at the Panama Canal, my opponent was recorded as NOT voting. I voted for the Canal Zone appropriation."

"On May 8, 1939, when the House voted to appropriate $770,473,241 for the Navy in the interest of national defense, my opponent was recorded as NOT voting. I voted for the appropriation."

"And my opponent's record further shows," Mr. Doxey said, "that he has introduced many, many bills but has succeeded in getting but a small per cent passed. Only a few ever came out of committee."

"On the other hand, Wall Doxey has his name on many bills which are now the law of the land. That has been done through cooperation and working with people."

About 50 per cent of all United States farm people live in 13 southern states, but they receive only 30 per cent of the national farm income.

NAA HOLDS DOORS OF SUCCESS OPEN TO MISSISSIPPI YOUTH

1000 Boys and Girls in Magnolia State Being Equipped For Battle of Life By Agency

Children of Low Income Families Are Afforded Sort of Training That Fits Them For Struggle

Eleven thousand young Mississippians who stand at the threshold of maturity are finding the National Youth Administration holding the door open for them.

The six-year-old NYA is spending upwards of $2,800,000 in Mississippi this year to equip these young people to meet the battle of life later on.

They need that sort of help because they come from low-income families unable to launch their young ones properly and because they are in the malleable years of sixteen to twenty-four.

NYA provides work experience for boys and girls in the great number of clerical and mechanical jobs opening up for people of some experience as the defense program gets under way. NYA also has many projects now operating directly in the cause of defense.

The NYA is, State Administrator J. C. Flowers, of Jackson, explains, a program to give young people a chance to develop manual and mechanical skills and get some work experience so that they may get jobs.

Today, about two thousand five hundred young people are getting work experience in NYA shops, keyed to the needs of defense industries.

NYA has proved that one of its most valuable assets is its flexibility so that its program, for out-of-school youth in a nation at peace with itself and with the world is changing to meet the demands of a country that overnight has had to plan and put under way the biggest defense program it has ever faced.

MEETING OF TISHOMINGO COUNTY TEACHERS ASSN

GAME COMMISSION ISSUES DUCK DATES

Jackson, Miss.—A 35 days reduction in the dove hunting season, removal of the three-day limit on Canvassbacks and Ruddy Ducks and opening of the season on Woodducks with one in possession limitation featured the new migratory game bird seasons just released by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickles.

Mississippi sportsmen will be permitted to hunt doves from December 1 to January 11, a period of 42 days. The 12 a day bag limit with 12 in possession remains unchanged.

Duck hunters will again have 60 days seasons with the same 10 a day bag limit, or 20 in possession. The new regulations, however, remove the limitations on Canvassbacks and Ruddy Ducks, permitting 10 to be killed a day. The three-day restriction remains in force on Bufflehead and Redheads. The season remains from No-

WATCH YOUR DRIVERS LICENSE; IT MAY EXPIRE SOON

Miss Lena Brock, Director of the Drivers' License Bureau, announced today the beginning of the next renewal period for drivers' licenses. Those having drivers' license marked "NOT GOOD AFTER SEPT. 30" should go immediately to the nearest sheriff and make application for renewal. "Although this renewal period will last the entire month of September, it is well to profit by experience in periods of the past and make your application early to prevent the last minute rush and confusion," stated Miss Brock.

Those drivers who have lost their drivers' licenses, or the renewal stub from that license will have to make application for both the duplicate and renewal. The cost of the renewal license is 25 cents plus a fee of 15 cents for the issuing sheriff.

IUKA BOY PROMOTED TO RANK OF CORPORAL

Fort Custer, Mich.—Claude N. Sanderson, 21, of Iuka, Miss., has been promoted to the rank of Corporal in Company E of the Eleventh Infantry Regiment here.

Corporal Sanderson belongs to one of the U. S. Army's oldest regiments. The Eleventh Infantry has a history and tradition which place it among the most famous, and well known regiments of the Army. The regiment and its predecessors have engaged in practically American war. During the late World War, men of the Eleventh Infantry left a record second to none.

Corporal Sanderson's regiment accompanied its parent unit, the motorized 5th Division to Tennessee recently for a six-weeks maneuvers period with the Second Army Corps. Back at Fort Custer, the Eleventh Infantry will soon leave with the 5th Division for the South to participate in another period of field maneuvers with the Second Army Corps.

September 2 to December 31.

The former closed season on Woodducks will be opened sufficiently this year with possession limited to one Woodduck.

Other amendments to the migratory bird hunting regulations close the season on Wilson's Snipe, and increases the Blue Goose bag limit to six per day if no other geese are taken. The Nov. 2-Dec. 31 season also applies to Coot, which has a 25 per day bag limit and 25 in possession.

Commenting on the shortened dove season, W. T. (Bill) Davis, Federal Game Management Agent for Mississippi, connected with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and it was necessary because the status of the birds was found to be worse than anticipated.

"The severe storm of January 1940, played havoc with mourning dove population in the southeastern states, and the number are still decidedly unsatisfactory," he said. "In all the areas in the south-eastern states where the mourning dove is an important game species, the birds was so scarce that sportsmen, naturalists and game administrators joined in demand that steps be taken to give them better protection."

"The seasons have, accordingly, been selected to permit some shooting but also to prevent excessive slaughter," Mr. Davis said. "The mourning dove is a prolific breeder and will undoubtedly come back if given a proper chance."

RIVER EXCURSIONS ON IDLEWILD

The Excursion Steamer Idlewild will come to Florence and Sheffield for Moonlight Dance Cruises. Saturday, September 13th and Sunday, September 14th. It will also run a Afternoon trip Sunday September 14th. The Idlewild is returning to the Tennessee River after a summer of running excursions on the Cumberland, Ohio, Mississippi, Illinois and Missouri Rivers. It is the only excursion boat known to have made all these rivers in a single season. The boat spent three weeks at Kansas City, Missouri. King Perdue and His Orchestra, the all star colored band from Louisville, Kentucky, will provide the music for dancing and entertainment. Smiling Dan Choisser, a new comer, to the Idlewild crew, will play the big steam calliope. On the Moonlight the Steamer will leave Florence at 8:15 P. M., and return at 11 P. M. It will leave Sheffield at 9:00 P. M. and return at Midnight. On the Sunday afternoon trip it will leave Sheffield at 2 P. M., Florence 2:30 P. M.

AUTO CUT

That fanfared OPM cut of 26½ per cent in auto production drew no cheers from war department chiefs. To them it was a big disappointment.

First of all the cut looks a lot bigger than it actually is. For one thing the OPM carefully did not reveal in its hoopla press releases was the fact that even with this curtailment auto production still will be 10 per cent greater than in 1938 and 1939.

In other words, notwithstanding the increasing shortage of strategic raw materials, such as steel, rubber, alloys and other metals, auto production is to continue at levels higher than in the peaceful years of '38 and '39.

Another reason for the army gloom was that it wanted an immediate cut of at least 50 per cent.

For months war department heads pleaded and argued with OPM mauls for drastic curtailment, on the ground that the material going into pleasure cars are desperately needed for planes, tanks, ships, guns and other vital armaments. But for months the OPM masterminds did absolutely nothing.

Finally, in July, scrappy OPACS Director Leon Henderson, who has seen eye-to-eye with the army on this issue from the start, took the bull by the horns and "ordered" a 50 per cent slash.

OPM's reaction was to hit the ceiling. It refused to accept the ruling. And while OPM battled behind the scenes with OPACS, autos continued to roll off assembly lines in record-breaking numbers. However, Henderson's bare-knuckling finally took effect. The 26½ per cent cut is a little less than half of what the army and Henderson wanted, but it is 6½ per cent more than OPM's original figure.

TANKS FOR BRITAIN

Some time ago the Merry-Go-Round revealed that a chief objective of Lord Beaverbrook's visit was to get more tanks—tanks for Iran; tanks for Egypt, tanks eventually for an invasion of the continent. Beaverbrook particularly wanted the new powerful 32 tonners that soon will roll off the Chrysler assembly line at the rate of 450 a month.

It can now be revealed that the British supply minister will not go home empty handed. He will take back with him very cheering assurances regarding the division of these tanks between the U. S. and British armed forces. But that isn't the end of his tank problem.

Allotting tanks to the British in this country is one thing, but delivering them across the Atlantic is another.

In fact, the problem of transporting large numbers of 32-ton tanks is the toughest shipping problem maritime experts have faced since the magnetic mine, which ravaged shipping until the de-magnetizing devices were evolved.

In a nutshell here is the problem: For every shipload of light 12 ton tanks sent to England or Africa, the same ship plus nearly three-fourths of another ship would be required to transport the same number of 32-ton tanks. In other words, they are bigger. Translated into specific figures—that 26-ship 'convoy' which landed 560 light tanks at Alexandria three months ago would have had to consist of 44 vessels to carry the same number of medium tanks.

With shipping scarcer than hen's teeth, a difference of 18 ships is an extremely important factor. Also, the necessity of traveling in slow convoys further reduces the amount of shipping available. Some experts estimated this reduction as high as 50 per cent. In addition the British sometimes take an excessively long time to unload cargoes.

So the tank problem thus also becomes an acute shipping problem. One bright spot in the situation is the great reduction in ship losses in the last 60 days since the extension of the U. S. neutrality patrols. But the basic problem of securing more cargo bottoms still remains.

Note: Since January 1, U. S. shipyards have turned out a total of 56 cargo vessels.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Army officers are singing the praises of 20th Century-Fox's Darryl Zanuck and many movie moguls for their big job in filming 100 reels of army training films. This was the first time training films have ever been taken, and Hollywood did them for 40 per cent of what it would have cost Hollywood itself to do the job. In other words, the army only had to pay union labor and cost of film, Hollywood supplying the studios, production, overhead and everything else.

The Washington Diplomatic corps is goggle-eyed over Mrs. Warren Pierson's new book, "The Good Neighbor Murder." Her husband is head of the Export-Import Bank which loans millions to the Good Neighbors.

Dr. I. Lubin, brilliant White House defense expert, is the most "officed" official in Washington. He has an office in the White House, another in the labor department as head of the bureau of labor statistics, a third in the labor division of OPM, and a fourth in the treasury as an adviser to Secretary Morgenthau.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

'Communist Plot' Is Charged by Vichy Following Shooting Attack on Laval; British-Russian Forces Occupy Iran; Senate Launches Gas Shortage Probe

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Some of the 11,000 workers in the Kearny, N. J., shipyards are pictured as they went back to work after the U. S. navy had taken over supervision of the plant. Producing defense shipping, the yards had been closed for 18 days because of a C.I.O. strike.

LAVAL:

And a Purge

In Paris three men were guillotined as the first action in a purge of anti-Vichy elements, following the shooting of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat, French leaders advocating closer collaboration with Germany. Special courts convicted the assassins and it was declared that the attack on Laval was but part of a vast "Communist conspiracy."

IRAN:

An Occupation

That the Russo-British action against Iran would be virtually an occupation rather than a full-fledged invasion was seen almost immediately after the troop movement started.

Two things were early indications of this fact, first the sending by British transport planes of small detachments of troops far into the interior to protect British industrial outposts; second, the fact that points like Bandar-Shahpur, which could have been bitterly defended, fell at once to the invaders.

In fact, it was apparent that while the Iran government might have been under the Nazi thumb because of the presence in the country of hordes of fifth columnists, it was not a heavily implanted thumb, and within the government itself was apparently enough friendly strength to create an early offer of peace.

That Russia and Britain would regard this peace offer as acceptable only if they were given control of key points, was obvious. The refusal of the Iranians to expel the Germans, as demanded by Britain and Russia, was Nazi-inspired, it is true, but the decision to offer to expel them after the invasion was under way, and the Nazi bluff had been called, was entirely too pat to suit the invaders.

A glance at the map was sufficient to show the tactical importance of Iran in any defense of India and the Middle East, and collaboration with Russia from the great centers of British supply would demand some point of land contact.

Also the oil establishments on both sides of the Caspian sea demanded protection, and the position of Iran demanded control of that area in order to accomplish this.

The Berlin reaction to the Iranian adventure of the Soviet and Britain was not expressed until the campaign was nearly over, and then it was called "a classical case of brutal attack on a neutral state which had done everything to prevent war and respect the interests of third parties..."

GAS:

Senate Probe

It was forecast that Leon Henderson, price administrator, was contemplating setting a ceiling price on gasoline in the East, as reports of profiteering by individual filling stations poured in as the shortage, real or imaginary, began to be felt.

The senate undertook an investigation to answer these questions: 1. Is the shortage real or imaginary? 2. Is there an organized effort to confuse the public? 3. Was the country justified in transferring 50 tankers from the gulf-eastern trade to Britain? 4. Are the tank cars being used to their fullest ability to overcome the shortage?

At the same time the President had signed an order giving the right of eminent domain to a company which was to build by December a 1,200 mile pipeline from the central southern oil fields to the southeastern refineries.

The mayor of Atlanta, Ga., showed how much confusion there was by informing the oil administration that the oil companies told him there was plenty of fuel oil and plenty of gasoline and plenty of transportation for Atlanta's needs. He asked: "Why, therefore, should Atlanta be made the victim of propaganda?"

RUSSIA:

Still Fighting

Despite the loss of Dniepropetrovsk, with or without the huge power dam, and in spite of repeated German communiques which announced the continued successes of the Nazi arms at the north and south, there was every evidence that the Soviet was continuing to fight, and to battle with an organized army of sorts.

It was one thing for the German-Finnish army to report itself 35 miles from Leningrad and another thing to explain the lack of announcements of airplane damage to the city of any extent.

The Germans also reported advances south of the city, yet these were averaging eight to nine miles a day, as against the 30 or 40 miles daily gained in the battles of France and Poland.

The Russians reported a fierce battle for the mastery of the skies over Leningrad with the issue in doubt. The city, they said, was still unhit. Moscow also elicited the breathless praise of the British mission for its defense against German air raiders. There was every indication that the Russian strength and ability had been underestimated both by Hitler and the rest of the world.

It was true that the third month of the war found the whole left bank of the Dnieper in German hands, but there was evidence that the Germans had planned to conquer what they sought of Russia in one month, and then to offer peace to Britain.

The peace offer was still in the offing—so was the German drive on Russia, as far as the objectives were concerned. Any serious capitulation on the part of the Soviet seemed as far distant as ever.

The Russians had reported a daring adventure on the central front, the sending of a well-equipped army in a southerly direction, to attempt to cut the German lines at Gomel, and to trap the entire advance force.

No definite report was forthcoming as to the outcome of this effort, but British hints sent out over the wire, after bright hopes had been entertained for nine days, during which some 20 villages were retaken, finally seemed to show a growing belief that the effort had failed.

JAPAN:

Again Storm Center

The official Japanese pronouncement that it would consider the shipping of oil to Vladivostok by Britain, the United States or the Dutch East Indies an unfriendly act again placed Nippon in the center of a storm, especially as this was considered Japan's official answer to the warnings of Churchill.

Russia's answer to Japan was that she would consider it distinctly an unfriendly act if Japan interfered in any way with Russia's commerce through her principal Siberian port.

The Russians called to the attention of Japan that the material thus received was not in any way to be used as a reservoir for any attack on the Japanese, but solely to defend herself against the invasion of Germany.

Any child could see the truth of this statement, but the more that Russia was on the defensive in the west, the bolder Japan was bound to be.

Japan, however much she might be worried by possible British-American-Dutch military and naval action against her, could not be expected to lose much sleep over Russia, which she had whipped in 1904, and which now was embroiled in a war to the death with the Nazis.

But if Russia's attitude was to be actively backed up by Britain was another picture, and if the United States was to become active in a British-Japanese war, then the picture was still different again.

To most observers, Japan seemed to be feeling her way.

FARM TOPICS

ELIMINATE HENS THAT DON'T LAY

Don't Keep Poor Layers When Easy to Cull.

By H. H. ALP
(Poultry Extension Specialist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.)

Can the birds in the home poultry flock pass the "physical" test?

If they can't, they shouldn't be "drafted" for another year of service in the "army" of egg layers, because chickens, like soldiers, are playing an important part in the present emergency. They have been "drafted" to furnish millions of healthful eggs under the nation-wide food-for-defense program.

If flock owners haven't kept accurate records of their layers' abilities, it is especially important that the birds' physical characteristics be studied carefully before they are put in their quarters for the winter. Fortunately, it is comparatively easy to distinguish layers from non-layers by the culling method, after a little practice.

Bald-headed as they often are, good layers are usually tight-feathered over the rest of their bodies. The feathers generally are dry, frayed and "washed-out," and good layers are active, good feeders, and have good dispositions.

The head of a good layer is usually clean-cut, well-balanced, of medium length and depth, and the eyes are quite large and prominent. Be suspicious of the laying ability of the bird with a thick or coarse head or the bird with a crow-head.

And the back of a good layer should be wide over its entire length and free from hard fat. A narrow spring of ribs or a back that tapers decidedly or slopes sharply to the rear indicates small feeding capacity.

The body should be deep, but flock owners shouldn't be fooled into thinking that birds have body depth just because the feathers are long and loose. Depth of the body can be measured by placing the thumbs on the front end of the keel bone and the middle fingers on the rear of the keel bone. Depth of the front and rear can be measured by spanning the body from back to breast with the thumb and middle finger and sliding them along the keel and back.

If the bird is a good layer, her comb, wattles and earlobes will be large, plump, smooth and waxy. If the comb is limp, the bird may be laying, but when the comb is dried, especially at molting time, the bird is not laying.

AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRY

By Florence C. Weed

(This is one of a series of articles showing how farm products are finding an important market in industry.)

Peaches for Fuel

Ingenious is the fuel business developed by a California man who makes a round of canning plants, collects discarded peach stones, dries them in the sun, then resells them for fireplace fuel. Scientists believe that some day important industrial products will be found in peach stones.

In colonial days, peaches were used for cider and brandy and were preserved by drying. Forsythe's famous fruit book of 1803 reports that peaches ripened from July to November and the great surplus was "applied as food to hogs."

When canning methods were perfected, the fruit grew in favor and now ranks next to the apple. From 30 to 50 million bushels are grown annually. In the Pacific states, 90 per cent of the 20-million-bushel crop is canned. Some commercial peaches are derived from the peach skins.

California, Georgia, Arkansas, North Carolina and Virginia produce peaches by the million bushels. Important areas are along the eastern and southern shores of the Great Lakes in Michigan and Ohio and around the Finger Lakes in New York. There in the spring, the heat absorbed by the lakes retards blooming and lessens the danger of frost. In the winter, the heat released from the water moderates the temperature and prevents wood and bud injury from freezing.

Nowhere, except in America, are peaches grown commercially. In England and on the continent, the fruit is a delicacy, grown under glass or trained on trellises. The results are excellent, but costly, and peaches there are a luxury only for the rich.

Rural Briefs

Water piped to the poultry range by a temporary system of old pipe or hose laid on the surface of the ground will save many hours in doing poultry chores.

Carelessness in handling eggs for market lost 5 per cent of the United States egg production in 1939. This loss represented 175,000,000 dozen eggs with a cash value of $30,000,000.

What Foch Told General Who Couldn't Hold Line

There is a fine story being told of Marshal Foch.

One day during the last war when the position of things was critical and further retreat would have endangered the whole line, one of his divisional generals sent him a message saying that he could not continue to hold a certain line of trenches which had become untenable.

In reply, the marshal sent him this message:
"If you cannot hold on, you must advance."

It is a great motto for life, and the power to advance in such circumstances is where the great test comes.

HIGH PRICES

Do Not Go WITH ADVERTISING

Advertising and high prices do not go together at all. They are extremely incompatible to each other. It is only the product which is unadvertised, which has no established market, that costs more than you can afford to pay.

Whenever you go into a store and buy an item of advertised merchandise, it doesn't make any difference what you are getting more for your money—more in quality and service—than you would get if you spent the same amount for something which was not advertised.

YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the legume bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?

● NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGUME INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It won a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904.

● NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world.

● NITRAGIN is the leader in its field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has rapidly increased year after year. During the fall of 1940 the Southern shipments of NITRAGIN were for more than 10 million pounds of VETCH and WINTER PEAS. This large demand is due to many field tests carried over after year. We prove by these tests that NITRAGIN is a good product.

Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper," showing pictures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes. If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation.

INSTALLMENT FOURTEEN—The Story So Far

Laura Maguire, wife of happy-go-lucky Mike, editor and mayor of Covington, is mother of four children, hit by the depression:

Tom, who separates from his wife, Mary Etta, when she refuses to give up her secretary job, to join him in the smaller town after his real estate job peters out.

CHAPTER XX

Shirley took a quick step forward, then paused abruptly, her knees trembling as Jaid went on.

"I found a second-hand clothing man who relieved me of my dress suit and studs for thirty dollars. But I've nothing else to sell, Joe. And you gotta be reasonable. A hundred and fifty's all this hole is worth. There it is on the table. Take it like a good boy and call it a deal."

"No! No!" cried Joe violently. "Two hundred dollar! Not a cent less."

"But, Joe—"
"No can do."
"I'll pay you the rest so much a month."

"All cash, no credit."
"But, Joe, have a heart." Jaid's voice was hoarse. "You don't know what this means to me. There's a girl. I love her better than—she's everything to me. Everything! And I'm losing her because we can't get married. You say there's a living in this place. If a man can make good by sweating his heart out, I will. Maybe she'd laugh in my face if I asked her to move into a dump like this. But it's my only chance. For God's sake try to understand. I'm losing the girl I love and I can't do anything about it."

"Two hundred dollars," insisted Joe.

"And I thought I'd found the way out," muttered Jaid with something that was almost a sob.

"You have," whispered the girl in the doorway to the rear room.

"Shirley!" At first he could only stare. At her radiant eyes, her tremulous lips.

"I sold your ring, Jaid, for a hundred and twenty-five. Here it is. Give Joe his price and tell him to clear out."

She was in his arms. They clung together. "It will be hard work and everybody will laugh at us," he whispered.

"Do you mind?"

"I don't mind anything when I have you in my arms like this."

"Neither do I," whispered Shirley.

Again his laugh rang out exultantly. He added to the pile of bills on the counter.

"Pack up your duds and beat it, Joe. This place has changed hands."

They hung out a sign, "Closed Temporarily for Repairs" and visited the dollar store. They had some working capital, that precious seventy-five dollars above the cost of the place. Shirley selected pale yellow dishes and green glasses with a cut crystal effect and glittery new pots and pans that had green handles. They bought yellow oilcloth by the yard for the table covers and window drapes. Shirley knew how to scallop them with the scissors. Jaid purchased paint and hammer and nails.

They were back at ten. They hired an ancient Negro with a moth-eaten mule to cart off loads of rubbish. They scoured the floors and Jaid painted the walls an apple green while Shirley did the chairs in ivory. They tacked up the yellow oilcloth drapes and stacked the new green glasses and yellow dishes behind the counter. Jaid solved the bedroom problem by turning the hose on it and leaving the sun and air to do the rest. Late in the afternoon they moved the furniture back inside and Shirley made up the bed with crisp new sheets and a green crepe spread.

"It doesn't look half bad," said Jaid with a throb of pride in his voice. "You aren't weakening, are you, darling?"

"No! No!" exclaimed the girl in his arms.

Again they clung together. They were going to be married at last, after four years! This was their wedding night. Shirley's heart thudded deliciously against her side. Jaid's face blazed with fugitive color. They looked up the place and walked down the street. Jaid's coupe had gone the way of his dress studs. But he had a marriage license in his pocket. His hand tightened on her arm. And they laughed above the tumult in their pulses.

Of course it was nothing like their plans, that quiet ceremony in the old Methodist parsonage. There were no bridesmaids, no flower-strewn aisles, no music. It was very still in the old-fashioned parlor. But the windows were flung open to the garden. The air was soft and sweet with dusk, the old minister's voice very gentle and reverent.

"I do pronounce you man and wife."

Shirley's hand closed convulsively on Jaid's. He stooped and kissed her. The old minister's wife wiped her eyes. She wasn't always happy about the couples who came unexpectedly to be married under her roof. But this boy and girl had meant it when they swore to cherish each other always—in sickness or in health, for better or worse, till death did them part. They were wedded to each other's hearts, those two. It shone from their eyes. Laura, with Lou's aid, was setting the table for dinner when Shirley and Jaid came in. Their faces were a revelation. They did not need to say anything.

"You're married! And you didn't tell me!"

For a minute Laura felt she couldn't bear it. She had tried never to fail her children. And yet Shirley, her beautiful sweet Shirley had married without a word. In someone else's house. Laura had not even been there, or Mike. It wasn't as if they would have disapproved. Laura was glad, terribly glad that Shirley was married. But it hurt that in the biggest hour of her life she had not come home to her mother and father, had not even told them.

And then with a glance at her daughter's radiant eyes, Laura swallowed her resentment.

"You see," said Shirley when they had explained about the sandwich shop, "Jaid's mother will be furious. But she can't be angry at you, Mother, because you knew nothing about it. No one is to blame but Jaid and me. And I'm afraid we don't care a lot whether she ever forgives us or not."

"You're married!"

At least, thought Laura, none of her children had ever said quite that about her. She went upstairs with Shirley to pack her overnight bag. Her other things would be sent on in her trunk the next day. Laura managed to be very gay as she helped Shirley collect her frilly little pink negligee and a demure white nightgown from her hope chest.

But Laura was not really gay. It wrenched her heart when Shirley closed the door on her girlhood forever and came down the stairs to Jaid, but Laura did not betray it. Mike was waiting with his new son-in-law and he kissed Shirley and told her she had never done a smarter day's work and warned Jaid to expect him to drop in often for a free handout and sent them off with a chuckle. Only Laura knew that Mike's lips were quivering. Only she was there when he turned to her with blurred eyes.

The moon had risen when Shirley and Jaid came back to Joe's place. It silvered the oak leaves. Jaid snapped on the lights inside. They gleamed on shining walls and new china and glittering green glass. But in the back room, the moon cast light enough.

"It isn't the way I promised," Jaid said, "but I love you, Shirley. And I'll work myself to death to make up to you for everything you ought to have and haven't."

"What haven't I?" whispered the girl. "I've the man I love. I've his name and his love and his respect. The right to make him a home and bear his children. The right to live for him and for them. What more can any woman want?"

"Darling!"

His lips found hers.

"I love you, I love you!" whispered Shirley who had been unable to say the things that mattered.

Back home Laura Maguire wiped her eyes and carefully put away the miniature of Great-grandmother Ashe.

It had served its purpose.

CHAPTER XXI

Alec Maguire did not come home to dinner the night Shirley married. He did not even telephone. Laura found herself wishing that her son Alec, who, out of a job, had been running around with a flashy divorcee and who becomes interested in Lou Knight, the town drunk's daughter. Her father died rescuing a crippled boy in a fire. He takes her to his mother's home.

Shirley, engaged to Jaid Newsom, who is also out of work and whose mother wants him to marry Connie Mays, the banker's daughter.

Kathleen, who against her will, is becoming interested in Ritchie Graham, who is also a newspaperman and aids her father in angering the banker. The latter causes the paper to lose its advertising.

Shirley pawns her ring to buy a hamburger stand. Jaid also comes to buy it.

Alec was not too old for a session with the hair brush. It seemed to Laura that on top of everything else, Lou was just too much. Of all days in the year to be saddled with the girl. And such a tongue-tied, nervous little creature. Laura had talked herself hoarse trying to relieve the child's dreadful timidity. But Lou still trembled when Laura spoke, and her eyes watched the door—for Alec.

Kathleen was dining out. She might have helped. Lou had seemed less afraid of her than of the others. She shrank every time Mike addressed her. He had even less success than Laura with the poor little thing. Tom looked tired and depressed. He scarcely spoke at all. Mike had had another run-in with Banker Mays over an editorial in the morning Clarion. Mike detailed the episode with gusto. He thought it highly entertaining. But it worried Laura. Mike laughed when he discovered that Kathleen's engagement was with Eugene Mays' son. Laura also failed to find that amusing.

Altogether dinner at the Maguire house was not a happy occasion that night. Laura was glad when they rose from the table. Mike had a Council meeting. He was gone when Laura finished in the kitchen. Tom, looking drawn and white, went up to his room and closed the door. His haggard face haunted Laura. But it had not invited confidences. He wanted to be alone. She was his mother and she ached with his pain. But she could do nothing. Another woman had his happiness in her keeping.

Laura, with Lou trailing after her like a shy dejected shadow, sat down in a big wicker chair on the veranda and leaned her head wearily back. For once Laura's natural buoyancy deserted her. She had a wild desire to indulge in a few well-salted tears, a luxury she rarely allowed herself. Shirley was married, a bride this night in a hamburger joint. The bride's mother always weeps. Laura felt in the humor to do a lot of that. Only there was Lou, huddled in the porch swing, small, dejected, pitiful. Laura felt like weeping. She couldn't let down even for a minute and be just a plain discouraged human. She knew Lou would most likely faint with fright if her hostess put on a sob act.

"It's a lovely evening, isn't it?" murmured Laura, trying for the hundredth time to thaw the iced some ice between herself and her guest.

"Yes," whispered Lou.

"At least with Shirley gone I needn't inflict you with the couch," murmured Laura, thinking with a pang that Shirley would never again share Kathleen's virginal bed.

Lou's small hands clenched. "I'm going tomorrow," she said huskily. Laura glanced at her quickly. The girl's eyes met hers. They were very unhappy and very apologetic, Lou's big blue eyes.

"Alec shouldn't have brought me here," she said. "And I shouldn't have come. I knew you'd hate having me."

Laura flushed. "I don't hate having you, Lou. It's just that I've been a little at a loss fitting you in."

"I know," Lou said. "That's why I shouldn't have come. I don't belong here. I've never had anything or been anywhere. I'm poor white trash and you—you're lovely and so kind, but I—I'll go away tomorrow."

"Where will you go, my child?" asked Laura very gently.

Lou looked away. "I don't know."

Laura reached over and laid her hand on the girl's knee but Lou shrank away.

"You'll stay here till I can work something out for you," said Laura. "I would never forgive myself if I let you go otherwise. And neither would Alec."

"He's ashamed of me," Lou burst out in a smothered voice. "He took me to the Airdrome on a bet. But he doesn't like me. He's just sorry for me and kind like you."

Laura drew a breath of relief. So there was nothing between Alec and the girl except his instinct to befriend a friendless creature. Laura remembered how all his life Alec had brought in crippled sparrows and dogs with broken legs and insisted on repairing them.

"I can't believe Alec is ashamed of you, Lou," she said. "It doesn't matter that you are poor. So are we."

"But Alec's so wonderful!" breathed the girl with a little sob. "He's just as far above me as those stars up there, and always will be."

She got blindly to her feet and slipped into the house. Laura heard her going up the stairs, heard the bedroom door close behind her, and knew Lou was crying in that mute heartbreaking way she had. Of course she was in love with Alec. Laura sighed. And he hadn't come near her all day. Laura wondered where he was. She supposed he was helping Myra Boone massacre time as usual.

American Fashion Designers Stress Chic Simplicity Lines

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

YOU'LL find this a very exciting season, the most exciting we've had for years. The new fall fashions are really "new" and the new look can be distilled into the one word, simplicity. Simplicity is indeed America's fashion for fall, 1941.

Our American designers, standing squarely on their own feet and independent of Paris, have produced an entirely new silhouette inspired by our lithe, slim-bodied American figures. Highspots in the new styling are smoothly wide shoulders and deep armholes tapering down into an elongated midriff, softly rounded hips and slim skirt. The easyfit of the blouse above the waistline trends to almost a topheavy effect that is somewhat suggestive of an inverted triangle. Accent is often on hips, especially in tunic effects done in various ways. Deep necklines either "V," oval or square, are often used to bring the eye down to the diminishing midriff and feminine hips.

In coats and suits this new simplicity is seen in smooth shoulders and longer midriffs. Exaggerated padding is passe. You have a wide choice of raglans, shoulder yokes cut in one with the sleeves, deep dolmans and akin types. Most of us, however, will find the smoothly padded set-in shoulder easiest to wear. Suits, more important than ever this fall, are marked by longer jackets with easyfitting or inset belts to bring out this year's smaller waist. Coat and suit sleeves are kept very simple and the straight generously large sleeve looks fresh.

Dresses express the smooth shoulder in a still wider variety. Dolman sleeves cut in one, with the dress, cap sleeves, wide smooth shoulder yokes, shirred shoulders leading into a plain smooth sleeve, these are some of the ingenious ways our designers have found to interpret the smooth-shoulder, deeper armhole theme.

Displayed in the foreground of the illustrated group is a dress that expresses unmistakably the simplicity that is America's fashion for fall. Taupe wool lends itself admirably to this princess coat dress. Here you see a dolman sleeve shirred for batwing fullness, with smooth shoulder panel cut in one and emphasizing the top of the tapering figure. Dramatically "new"—this frock!

Skirt fullness is used a great deal this year, but a slim look is invariably the rule. The silhouette is always kept fluid as shown in the dress to the right. The long-torso smooth-fitting top is notably new and smart. This dress is especially good style made of brown (a featured color for fall) crepe, the deep armhole seaming accented with bands of crocheted done in contrast colors, gold, white and green. With black crepe the banding would be effective in bright cerise, blue and beige.

It's going to be a season of tunics. Note the dress to the left with a tunic Russian blouse. Note the subtle fullness introduced via an action pleat at the front of the skirt. The sleeves achieve the deep armhole and smooth-shoulder effect with fullness introduced at the wrist.

The row of thumb sketches below indicate new trends in coats, dresses and suits that will stand out in the new autumn fashion picture. Various interpreted in plaids, jerseys, velvets, corduroys, woolknit fabrics, gabardines and an endless variety of rayon weaves. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Frilly Accents

If one has to keep within an economy budget a sensible "buy" is a black crepe dinner dress that is styled along lines of simplicity. For week-end trips you will find a dress of this type easy to pack. Be sure to acquire a goodly collection of flattering accessories. Then with various changes, your simple black frock can be transformed in appearance to tune into the picture of any more or less formal social occasion. The vogue for exquisitely feminizing snowy frilly accents will continue through the fall. As you see here, there is eye-appeal in every detail.

Millinery Stresses

Feathers and Veils

Feathers galore are adorning the new fall hats. The restrictions that have been lifted this season on the use of wild bird plumage is reacting in a tremendous revival of the use of feathers. It will not only be a case of a "feather in your cap" but entire hats made of feathers is fashion's latest decree. The use of veils and veiling is assured for fall.

Back-view interest in hats leads to a new emphasis being placed on snoods, wimples, and curtain effects that conceal long bobs and hair-dos at the back. Very fanciful treatments are being given to these wimples and snoods, and also to bringing back the brims-down style, so as to fit snugly and securely.

Corduroy Is Topmost

Fabric for Fall Wear

A big revival is on for corduroy. It is being styled to perfection in sports clothes, in campus outfits, in mother and daughter fashions. In fact, recent showings displayed the entire family, mother, father, little sister and junior smartly outfitted in corduroy. You'll love the new corduroy suits, the slack costumes and the one-piece dresses of corduroy that are the last word for office and school wear.

Velvet Trim

One of the smartest fashion trends for fall is the use of velvet as trimming on contrasting materials. Afternoon gowns of black faille are given new distinction in way of wide borders of black velvet that finish off peplums and tunics and hemlines in general. This tendency to trim with velvet is well worth watching for the movement gives promise of developing into an important vogue.

Advantages of Difficulty

Difficulty is a severe instructor, set over us by the supreme ordinance of a parental guardian, and legislator, who knows us better than we know ourselves; and He loves us better too.

He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper. This amicable conflict with difficulty obliges us to an intimate acquaintance with objects, and compels us to consider it in all its relations. It will not suffer us to be superficial.—Burke.

FAMOUS ALL-BRAN MUFFINS. EASY TO MAKE. DELICIOUS!

They really are the most delicious muffins that ever melted a pat of butter! Made with crisp, toasted shreds of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, they have a texture and flavor that have made them famous all over America.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN MUFFINS
2 tablespoons 1/4 cup milk
shortening 1 cup flour
1/4 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg 2 1/2 teaspoons
1 cup All-Bran baking powder
Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 12 small muffins, 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

Try these delicious muffins for dinner tonight or for tomorrow morning's breakfast. They're not only good to eat; they're mighty good for you as well. For several of these muffins will add materially to your daily supply of what physicians call "bulk" in the diet, and thus help combat the common kind of constipation that is due to lack of this dietary essential. Eat ALL-BRAN every day (either as a cereal or in muffins), drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation due to lack of "bulk." ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

IN MEMORY OF OUR DEAR MOTHER

On August 11, 1941 the death angel came and took away our dear mother, Mrs. Nancy Honeycutt. Her place is vacant which never can be filled. It was so hard to give her up, but God knows best and doeth all things well.

Farewell dear mother, oh how we miss you

No one here can take your place,
But we will meet you yonder
And see again your smiling face.
Mother's life was full of beauty
And was loved by all who knew her best,

God has called her home to heaven

In Jesus arms she's now at rest.
Now our heart aches with sadness

Since our dear mother's went away,

But we know we will meet her yonder

On the resurrection day.

METHODIST NEWS AND OTHER ITEMS

E. G. Mohler, Pastor

A church or a cult that appeals to the dissatisfaction and confusion which infests this world, especially in this hour of stress, is unworthy. Very few Christians ever develop a Christian spirit by denouncing other Christians. The Kingdom of Truth is never served by ignorance.

We can overcome ignorance
by study, poverty by frugality and hard work, inferiority complex by building personalities.
There is no virtue in building up a defense against these defects or try to compensate for them in denouncing unhappy social conditions or saying "heaven is my home." Jesus is very much concerned about the "hurts" of His children here. Our business as Christians is to remove the "hurts" here and now.

The Junior choir and their mothers enjoyed a get-together party at Educational building Monday evening. Very good time reported. We are proud of this choir and expecting great things from it.

Remember our Rally Day will be at the 11 o'clock hour Sept.
14th. At this time we want every member of our church, Bible school, League and WSCS present. It is a sort of a "Home Coming." We need to get together and pull together in order to wind up a successful Conference year. Let every member put his hand to the plow and let our "watch word" be "forward march." Our annual Conference about two months off.

Brother Harvey led his officers and teachers in a most successful Worker's Council
Wednesday evening, counseling together for a bigger, more effective Bible school. We must expand or die, dry up. Let us all stand by this good man and give him our best. Let us be very much dissatisfied with anything but the best.

WALL DOXEY

because of the confidence, respect and esteem in which he is held by people of all groups is making for unity in Mississippi in this period of grave emergency.

Your vote for WALL DOXEY for United States Senator on SEPT. 23 will be a vote for
ice for all Mississippians.

For 13 years as representative from the Second Congressional District in the National Congress, WALL DOXEY has worked in harmony and co-operated with all of Mississippi's congressmen and senators. His spirit of cooperation has made him an invaluable leader in the Democratic administration. He knows Mississippi's needs and gets results.

Wall Doxey's record is a record of accomplishments

Long recognized as a leader in the field of agriculture, he has served as a member of the House Committee on Agriculture since 1931 and is now vice-chairman and ranking member of that committee, which handles all agricultural legislation. He has taken a leading part in drafting, shaping and steering to passage in the House all laws for the benefit of agriculture during the Roosevelt administration. The House Committee on Agriculture handles and manages all legislation pertaining to agriculture, soil conservation and forestry and AUTHORIZES the FINANCING of the various farm programs.

The many farm laws which bear the imprint of his efforts include the Agricultural Adjustment Act;
the Soil Conservation Act; the cotton program which provides for PRATY and conservation payments; the Cotton Crop Insurance Act; the Farm Credit Administration Act, which provides for seed loans, farm tenant loans, farm mortgage loans, drainage district re-financing loans and the Food Stamp and Cotton Stamp program and the Act setting up a separate financial structure for agriculture.

He has been a member of the National Forest Reservation Commission since 1932 and has been instrumental in having established and developed the national forests in Mississippi.

He has served as a member of the Democratic Steering Committee of the House which has a part in shaping the Administration Policy with reference to legislation considered in the House.

He has wholeheartedly and consistently supported the Roosevelt Administration's program for national defense in voting for laws and appropriations which will aid in making the United States a bulwark against aggression. He believes that preparedness is the best insurance for peace and will continue to work, act and vote for such a program.

He has continuously supported legislation beneficial to the veterans of all wars and their widows and orphans.

He has always been a friend of labor and has had the support of labor in every race he has made.

He has consistently worked and voted for every proposal for the advancement of education.

He has worked and voted for appropriations for rural electrification, the Civilian Conservation Corp, the NYA, vocational education and other programs which mean better home and community life.

He has actively supported all legislation for a reasonable old age pension and for the aid of the indigent, the blind, dependent children and the helpless.

IN RE: SALE OF REAL PROPERTY FOR THE 1940 DELINQUENT TAXES

Whereas it appears to the Board of Mayor and Aldermen the town of Iuka, Miss., from the report of the Marshal and Tax Collector that certain parcels of land assessed in the town of 1940 taxes have not been paid and that they should be advertised and sold for the unpaid taxes for the year 1940.

It is, therefore, ordered and adjudged by the Board
Mayor and Aldermen that all the land assessed for 1940 tax and on which the 1940 taxes has not been paid be listed by said tax collector and advertised in The Vidette, a newspaper published in said town and having a general circulation therein, at the said lands be sold on the Third Monday, the 15th day of September, 1941, and

It is further ordered that the sale of such delinquent land for the 1940 taxes shall be made at the South door of the County House of the county in the town of Iuka, Mississippi, and the terms of said sales shall be cash and that the time shall be during legal hours, which is from 11 o'clock a. m., until 4 o'clock p. m. All of which is ordered by the Board, this the 5th day of August, 1941.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

REVELATION: A MESSAGE TO PERSECUTED CHURCHES

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 1:3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.—Revelation 2:10.

The Revelation is so little known that we need part of our first lesson for an introduction to the book. The fact that this is a "revelation" which God gave to Jesus Christ, "to show unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass" (1:1), should make us all eager to study it. It is significant that there is a promise of special blessing to those who do read (1:3), and a solemn warning against tampering with the book (22:18, 19). Quite evidently God places great importance on the reading and study of this book. Can we do less?

The book is not easy to interpret, and men have differed greatly as to its meaning. There are four general schools of interpretation: (1) The preterist, which puts it all in the past. Since many of its predictions have not yet taken place, this view seems untenable. (2) The idealist, which regards the book as being entirely symbolical of spiritual principles. There is truth in this view, but it does not cover the historical events mentioned in the Revelation which are yet to take place in the world. (3) The historicist, which regards the book as mainly an outline of church history. This too fails to account for prophecies yet unfulfilled. (4) The futurist (which seems to be the best view); namely, that chapters two and three, while relating to actual churches then in existence, also outline the entire history of the church, and that the remainder of the book relates to future events. This is the interpretation which is largely held by conservative Bible teachers.

A brief outline of the Revelation is found (1:19) in the book itself:

1. "The things which thou hast seen" (John's vision)—chapter 1.

2. "The things which are" (the seven churches)—chapters 2 and 3.

3. "The things which shall be" (the six sevens; namely, seals, trumpets, personages, vials, dooms, and new things)—chapters 4 to 22.

Our lesson portion brings before us two of the seven churches of Asia—Ephesus and Smyrna—with their lessons for our day.

4. The Ephesus Church—Active but Cold, and Facing Judgment (2:1-7).

Following the salutation and the glorious vision of the Son of man (do not fail to read it, Rev. 1:9-13), John the apostle, who was the one to whom the vision came, is directed to write to the church at Ephesus, addressing it through "the angel" of the church. We do not know who he was, but since the word means "messenger," it may refer to a leading officer or elder.

The picture of the church at Ephesus was a very beautiful one. It was an active church, not afraid to work, patient under trial, commendably impatient with sin and worldliness. It was not afraid to exercise discipline, to discredit false apostles, and to stand against the evil works of the worldly-minded. There would seem that there could be nothing more said for a church, but there was a vital note lacking. In activity they were perfect, but they had departed from their first love.

What is meant by leaving their first love? "First love is the abandonment of all for a love that has abandoned all. . . . The church at Ephesus was still a remarkable church, but it lacked the element of that enthusiasm, which in the eyes of the calculating worldling, is imprudent. There are some people who imagine that this lack of enthusiasm is an advantage. May God have mercy on such. I pray the day may never come when the heroisms and enthusiasms of first love shall cease" (G. Campbell Morgan).

Repentance was called for, or God said He would extinguish the light of that church. The lesson for us is that cold orthodoxy will kill a church.

5. The Smyrna Church—Poor but Faithful, and Facing Persecution (2:8-11).

This is one of the two churches of the seven for which there is no word of rebuke, Philadelphia being the other. It was a poverty-stricken church humanly speaking, but rich in the sight of God. Such a church may be more useful to God and more precious to Him than a large church which is cold and indifferent.

What does He have to promise this church? Persecution. We who follow Him upon whom men spat, who was so buffeted and despised, yes, even crucified—shall we be surprised if a hostile world persecutes us?

Note that the Lord knew all about their sufferings, both present and future. He was with them and would continue to be with them, so they had no occasion to fear. Then, at the end of their suffering there would be the crown of life.

ADD ZEST TO MEALS WITH JELLIES AND RELISHES
(See Recipes Below)

LINE YOUR PANTRY SHELF!

As full of tang and zest as autumn are these recipes tailored to fit your canning cupboard. Crisp relishes, sparkling jellies, bright tomato catsup, and pickles of cucumber and peach—what a selection you'll have for making your meals a festive board!

Your pantry shelf lined with these sweet, spicy fruits and vegetables will be your line of defense, too, not only for meal planning but in working out a nutrition and food defense program. Generous supplies of fruits and vegetables now will assure you of plenty in fall and winter if you put them up.

Be sure to use a good quality cider vinegar to prevent pickles from becoming soft, tough, or shriveled. Good, full-bodied spices are also vital to successful canning.

2 tablespoons ginger
2 tablespoons turmeric

Let unpeeled cucumbers stand in water overnight. Then slice cucumbers and onions and place in pan with salt (no water). Let stand 1 hour, then rinse off salt, add vinegar, mustard seed, ginger and turmeric. Boil all ingredients until peel turns yellow (about 40 minutes). Pack pickles in sterilized jars. Seal and allow to stand 10 days before using.

Remember those amber-colored watermelon pickles mother used to put out? I'm sure you do, so here's the recipe which rates high:

*Watermelon Pickles.

Thinly cut the green rind from watermelon, removing soft part of pink meat. Cut in pieces and cover with salt water made from 1 cup salt to 4 cups water. Soak 12 hours, drain and cook in boiling water until half tender, about 10 minutes. For every pound of rind, allow a sauce made from:
1 3-inch stick of cinnamon
8 cloves without heads
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1 cup vinegar

Tie spices in a cloth bag. Cook all ingredients 10 minutes. Add rind and slowly bring to a boil. Remove spices. Place rind in sterilized jars, cover with hot syrup and seal.

Spice the fruits from your orchard or carefully chosen material from the market and you will always have something of a surprise to add to mealtime. Served as a meat accompaniment, garnish or a relish whole, luscious fruit decorated demurely with

LYNN SAYS:

Cookbooks that will make a difference in your life and also a difference in your meals are worth looking into. Fall's a good time to look when you think of the many holidays in the months ahead and the entertaining you're going to do and the new ideas you'll need.

"June Platt's Party Cookbook," published by Houghton Mifflin, is a classic in that the recipes are given in a conversational sort of way as though your very best friend and best cook were giving you some of her favorite recipes. Here you'll find such treasures as corned beef and cabbage, veal kidneys in mustard, hot buttered scones, and strawberry and almond soufflé.

Dishes you've never thought of and touches that add real distinction to everyday food are given in "Mrs. Lang's Complete Menu Book," also published by Houghton Mifflin. Menus for every kind of occasion are given and recipes, too, for every one of them.

cloves, ripened and mellowed in heavy syrup, fills menu demands beautifully.

*Pickled Fruit.

(Makes 5 to 6 pints)
2 cups vinegar
5 cups brown sugar or 2½ cups each, brown and white sugar
2 tablespoons whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
4 quarts peaches, pears, or crab-apples

Cook sugar, vinegar, spices 20 minutes. Select firm fruit, remove the thin skins from pears and peaches, if using them, but do not pare crabapples, rather leave them with skins on. Drop in fruits, few at a time, and cook until tender. Pack in hot sterilized jars, adding syrup within a half inch of the top. Seal and store in a cool, dry place.

Concord grapes, deep purple, velvety, and plump with juice are one of autumn's favorite fruits. They lend themselves nicely to jelly, either by themselves or in combination with other fruits. As conserves, too, they will help you make menu magic.

*Concord Grape Jelly.

(Makes 11 medium glasses)
3 pounds ripe Concord grapes
½ cup water
7½ cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

Stem the grapes and crush them thoroughly. Add the water, bring to a boil, cover, simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag and squeeze out juice (about 4 cups). Place sugar and fruit juice in large saucepan, mix, and bring to a boil over a very hot fire. Add pectin, stirring constantly, bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

*Grape Conserve.

(Makes 10 12-ounce glasses)
7 pounds Concord grapes
Sugar
2 pounds seedless white grapes
4 oranges, sliced thin
1 pound broken walnut meats
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Stem the grapes; wash and mash slightly. Cook slowly until juice is free, about 15 minutes. Force through a sieve to remove seeds. Measure pulp. To every 4 cups pulp, add 3 cups sugar. Add white grapes, orange slices, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cook to the jelly stage. Remove from heat; add nuts. Seal in hot, sterilized glasses.

Putting up a batch of tomato catsup offers pleasure in more ways than one. You enjoy the lusty, spicy odor of the cooking, and the fragrance seems to permeate the house for days. You'll enjoy seeing the jars of rich red fruit on the shelves, and then again you'll like tartness of the relish as part of your meals.

*Tomato Catsup.

(Makes 5 to 6 pints)
4 quarts of tomatoes, quartered
2 large onions, chopped
2 cups granulated sugar
2 cups vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons whole allspice
½ tablespoon whole cinnamon
2 tablespoons whole cloves
1 teaspoon whole black pepper
2 tablespoons paprika
½ teaspoon dry mustard

Simmer tomatoes, onions, sugar, and vinegar 2 hours. Tie the allspice, pepper, cinnamon and cloves in a bag and add with the remaining ingredients, and continue cooking for another hour. Remove the bag of spices and force the vegetables through a sieve. Reheat to bubbling hot and pack in hot, sterile jars.

LUKE AND ELMER ON THAT SEA CONFERENCE

"What do you think of the eight point program?" asked Luke Twitchell of his brother Elmer.

"Well, Wilson needed 14," replied Elmer. "So you see Roosevelt took six strokes off Woodrow's game."

"And Roosevelt is playing over a much tougher course," said Luke, always the golfer.

"I'll say so," agreed Elmer. "They didn't have so many hidden greens in Wilson's time, the course didn't cover so much territory and there were fewer contestants."

"I suppose it ain't quite right to speak of a terrible war like this in terms of golf," sighed Luke.

"Why not?" snapped Elmer. "It has all the violence, bad manners, cheating and general brutality of the public links game, anyhow."

"Why meet on a battleship to frame a program for peace and brotherly love?" asked Luke, plainly puzzled.

"Dramatic suspense, color, mystery and all that," explained Elmer. "It ain't so much what you do or say in a crisis like this. It's how you put it over. That meeting had everything but sex appeal."

"All it needed was some John Powers' models," nodded Luke.

"It got across without 'em," insisted Elmer, "but I wonder they weren't used, at that. John Bull and Uncle Sam are out to fire the imagination of the world, kindle the enthusiasms of all friends of freedom and get their message into the mikes and onto the front pages everywhere. And this sea huddle did it."

"Whoever thought Churchill, number one man of the British empire, would leave London, fly to sea and hold a conference with the President of the United States in mid-ocean? And who ever thought the President of the United States could drop everything at Washington to go to sea for the same purpose?" asked Luke.

"It would even have been cut out of a movie script as too far-fetched," declared Elmer. "Get the picture! Roosevelt gets on his yacht and disappears in one of the big moments of history. His disappearance is so complete even the newsreel men can't find him. The suspense is terrific. Democrats everywhere begin to fear something has happened to him."

"And Republicans begin to fear something has not," put in Luke.

"Rumors of a conference with Churchill at sea are spread, but discredited as something that the hair tonic company would delete as incredible even if Gabriel Heatter put it in his radio broadcast," continued Elmer. "Nevertheless it turns out to be the real McCoy."

"Can you imagine the fit Hitler must have thrown when he turned aside from his Russian blitz in what he thought was one of his big moments and realized that Winston and Frankie had grabbed all the headlines?" asked Luke.

"He's still howling," said Elmer.

"What do you think of the eight points themselves?" asked Luke.

"I don't see much new," replied Elmer. "They're just Wilson's old model streamlined and with the fluid drive. But there was nothing wrong with the 14 points except that we forgot 'em too soon."

"Do you think the Roosevelt Churchill eight points could have been improved?" asked Luke.

"I do," declared Elmer.

"By what?" asked Luke.

"By a ninth point," snapped Elmer. "A ninth point pledging Uncle Sam and John Bull not to go to sleep standing up in the middle of a howling alley."
