PLAQUE UNVEILED IN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY SUNDAY

Former Principal and Wife Honored By Friends In Dedication of Howard Auditorium

Of the several hundred who attended the unveiling of the plaque as a memorial to Prof. and Mrs. S. F. Howard in the new and beautiful auditorium Sunday afternoon, not one was pressed to discern and affection, and high esteem in the hearts of every participant in one of the most inspiring ceremonies held in Iuka in some time. From the first strains of music played with professional ability by Mrs. C. L. Woodley, to the benediction, spoken with humility, and sincerity, by Dr. R. R. Hill, the service carried the dignity, and beauty that would have pleased those in whose memory this occasion was prepared. W. S. Brown, Jr., who presided over the program, spoke from his heart, of the influence of Prof. and Mrs. Howard, not only in the intellectual development of their students, but in the physical and social realm. Many references to the kind wisdom of these two, testified to their ability to understand youth, and to hold the confidence of every child with whom they were associated. Mr. Ed Harvey spoke the invocation, after which Mrs. J. A. Roane read the poem, "Building A Temple," a selection made by the late John L. Payne, as most fitting the work of Mrs. Howard. Mr. Bill Graham entranced his audience with his ability to make the personality of his friends and teachers live again, with his beautifully phrased biography of the twenty-five years of service given to this community, by Prof. and Mrs. Howard. Mr. Graham spoke first of the graciousness always evident in the home, interspersing bits of loveable humor, remembered from his frequent visits to the children in the home. Mr. Graham related the influence of this unusual couple as having been the means of bonds that tie those who grew up in this community much closer, than the usual ties of small communities. Mr. Graham then cited the success of Iukans in the professional, business and military world as evidence of the lasting quality of this influence. He closed with these words, "It is good that we have this memorial. Its beauty and dignity are in keeping with the lives of those it honors. The inscription is a true and fine summary of their life's work. When we see it we shall stop and think a while about them and be thankful to the God they helped us to find, that we had such teachers." Tribute in verse and song were paid by Miss Dorothy Smith and Miss Willie Hiett, and Mr. Brown then presented the plaque, which was accepted by Prof. Epps on behalf of the school, and Mrs. Bessie Smith, whose acceptance on behalf of "Those bound to the loving memory of Prof. and Mrs. Howard by ties of blood" was both gracious and heartfelt. Ushers placed the plaque, and after the benediction, guests viewed and admired the memorial.

Highest praise goes to Will Brown for his tireless contribution to the success of this ceremony, during his brief vacation here with his family and friends.

WINSTON E. STRICKLIN TRAINING IN ARMY ENGINEERING AT CAMP FORT BELVIER

Private Winston E. Stricklin of R. F. D. 3, Iuka, Miss., has reported at Fort Belvoir, Va., to begin basic training in army engineering as a member of Company D, 4th Training Battalion. Upon completion of the very strenuous but interesting course, Private Stricklin will be eligible for transfer to an engineering unit. His training at Fort Belvoir, while including courses in close order drill, personal hygiene and first aid, rifle and machine gun marksmanship, bayonet drill, gas drill and other basic work, will also consist of floating bridge building, road building barracks building, field fortifications, demolitions, construction of tank traps and other duties of an engineer soldier.

Private Stricklin will receive basic training on land originally surveyed by George Washington, formerly owned by his step-daughter, and almost within the shadow of Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington, less than three miles away up the Potomac River. Fort Belvoir is situated in Virginia 20 miles South of Washington on Route 1. It is an old regular army engineer post now expanded to supply the increasing number of engineer officers and men required for a highly mechanized mobile army and air force.

MISS LILLIAN TRAYLOR

Miss Sadie Lillian Traylor, a life-long resident of Iuka, died at her home Monday afternoon, after several months illness. Miss Traylor was a member of the Methodist Church, and services conducted Tuesday afternoon, were under the direction of Rev. E. G. Mohler, pastor of that church.

Miss Traylor is survived by one sister, Mrs. Bill Sanders, and two brothers, Joel Traylor of Iuka and Sam Traylor of Knoxville.

COTTONSEED GROWERS NOTIFIED

State College, Miss., July 22.—Mississippi growers of cottonseed for planting purposes who expect to ship seed to Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas during the coming year are urged to apply before August 1, to the State Plant Board for an inspection of their cotton to determine the percentage of wilt and anthracnose present. These states require that cottonseed shipped to points within their borders must be inspected for disease while growing in the fields.

R. P. Colmer, chief inspector of the Board, advises that there is no charge for the inspections which must be made while the plants are still green. These inspections are for disease only and should not be confused with inspections made by the Mississippi Seed Improvement Association for arietal purity, truthness to type, etc.

equals news of winning a battle. Insiders are worried over the disappointing flow of scrap metals to blast furnaces which can't operate without scrap. Anyone who knows of a scrap metal pile and does not act to see that it gets into production is helping our enemies.

Useless Gold

One by one, metals and materials have been drafted for war. Ironically enough, only gold and silver at last remained worthless for the job which is our only job today.

Now silver is going to replace scarce copper and scarcer tin in engine bearings, solders, and electrical installations. For centuries the world's most treasured metal gold now stands alone as the world's most useless war metal.

But we are not fighting for gold or for the traditional values it represents. We are fighting to preserve freedoms far more important to us all.

G. B. REID ADDRESSES IUKA ROTARY

The place of our official organ in the life of our local chapter and "The existing gas and oil situation" subject of address.

Mr. C. B. Reid was the speaker at Rotary luncheon last week, and presented some significant facts pertaining to output, transportation and manufacture of gas and oil, and cited the significant place the State of Mississippi plays in oil production. He also presented the current issue of "The Rotarian" to the Club, and discussed it from the standpoint of the varied field of subjects covered, such as hobbies, current events, national affairs, and articles pertaining to Rotary Service. "It is one of the most widely quoted magazines published, being quoted in almost every issue of Reader's Digest," said Mr. Reid. The speakers for tomorrow's meeting will be Mr. R. A. McRee and Dr. R. R. Hill, when a good attendance is expected. Their subject will be "Our Club's Development and Goal."

SHOOK TO SPEAK, IUKA, SATURDAY, 10:00 A. M.

State Senator Arthur Shook, candidate for representative from the First Congressional District will return to Tishomingo County next week for several speaking engagements.

Mr. Shook will appear in Belmont, his home town Tuesday night, where he will speak in connection with a free picture show and other forms of entertainment.

He will speak in Iuka Saturday morning, August 8th at 10:30 and in Tishomingo at 1:00 o'clock.

The entertainment for Tuesday evening is being sponsored by friends interested in Senator Shook's campaign for Congress.

VEGETABLE SALES MEAN TINKLING DOLLARS

Atlanta, Ga., July 29.—The soldiers in training camps in the southeastern states are eating their way right through the truck farms of the district and there is a merry and prolonged tinkle of hard dollars as they fall into the pockets of the growers, as a result.

There are, in the office of the Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster here, figures that would indicate the total number of tons of vegetables consumed daily by the soldiers in Dixie, but to give those figures would be revealing something that Hitler and Hirohito would like to know.

Worked out, from these records, on the basis of vegetables supplied to each 100-man Army mess, it is shown that just one training camp with a strength of 50,000 men, receives approximately 2,878,000 pounds of fresh vegetables every month—and that's 96 carloads.

And it is pointed out, this is not just a one-month source of income to the growers. The southeast, because of its climate and soil adaptability, is one of the greatest vegetable-growing areas in the nation, produce dealers assert. This, coupled with the fact that the Quartermaster policy of buying food supplies as much as possible in the area where they are consumed, makes the Army one of the biggest year-around customers of southeastern food producers.

This buying is done on a vast scale at conveniently located market centers and, by the system adopted, a number of farmers may pool their produce into large shipments, each farmer receiving his proportionate part of the cash returns.

At the market centers, inspectors carefully check the vegetables purchased, to insure that the American soldiers, the best fed fighting men in the world, eat only the top grades.

STATE EXECUTIVE HERE FOR IMPORTANT RED CROSS MEETING

Chairman Mohler Calls Meeting

Mr. C. E. Patch, field representative for National Red Cross was in Iuka Tuesday for a call meeting of the local Chapter of Red Cross. Necessity for definite plans to establish offices and employ a part time secretary, were the items of business, placed before the representative. Mr. Patch instructed the executive Board to make out a tentative budget, showing their needs, and they would be given serious consideration by the State offices.

All phases of local Red Cross work were discussed with Mr. Patch and the board was given some enlightening information, as to the activity of the organization itself, and also of the conditions throughout our country that will effect the work of Red Cross. Those attending this meeting were Rev. E. G. Mohler, Mr. William Pyle, Mr. R. E. McRee, Mrs. Jack Roane, Mrs. Leslie Moser, and Mrs. R. R. Hamilton. Mr. Patch spent the day in Iuka conferring with chairman Mohler and other members with reference to their work.

TISHOMINGO TIPS

Mrs. Earl Hooper and little son, of Battle Creek, Mich., are visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bicklerstaff.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stricklin have been recent visitors in Memphis.

Prof. and Mrs. Charles Stevens have recently moved to New Site, where both are teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Munson Neyland of Jackson, Miss., are receiving congratulations over a baby boy. Mrs. Neyland is remembered here as Miss Helen Ruth Nash.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Crow, Jr., of Corpus Christi, Texas, have been here recently.

Mrs. Clarence Perry and children of Birmingham, Ala., were here a few days ago. Little Jimmie Burns entered.

STATE AND TVA FORESTERS MEET AT IUKA

Plan For Fire Season

Mississippi State Forester Albert A. Leggett and Willis M. Baker, Director of the TVA Department of Forestry Relations, met in Iuka on Tuesday, July 28, to discuss forestry problems in Tishomingo County and to make preparation for the coming fire season.

Mr. Leggett and Mr. Baker, in company with other foresters, inspected a new 100-foot steel fire tower which has recently been constructed at Eastport. Mr. Leggett stated that the tower will be connected by telephone to the Iuka Exchange and will be ready for use before the fall fire season begins. The Eastport tower completes the detection system for Tishomingo County. Other towers have been constructed at Woodall Mountain and Dennis, and all of these towers will be manned about six months each year in order to discover forest fires and to report them to the county ranger.

Approximately 150 fires burned in Tishomingo County last spring and burned over 9000 acres. Mr. Leggett believes that the completed tower system will enable the Mississippi Forest Service to reduce the amount of area burned in this county. The prompt reporting of fires will mean quicker action on the part of the fire fighting crews.

The Forestry Movie schedule for next week will be as follows: Hubbard Salem School, Monday, August 10.

Central School, Tuesday, August 11.

Dennis School, Wednesday August 12.

All programs will start at 8:30 p. m. War Time. Everyone invited.

LOCAL YOUTH PROMOTED

Ira C. Epperson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Epperson of Burnsville, Miss., today was wearing the stripes of a Sergeant, after his promotion at New Orleans air base of the Army Air Forces.

His promotion was by order of Colonel J. H. Houghton, base commander of the southern air field. It cited that Sergeant Epperson "has proved able to perform technical duties, is attentive to duty, and has demonstrated soldierly qualities."

Before enlisting in the Army Sergeant Epperson attended the Burnsville High School.

tained his friends last Wednesday afternoon with a birthday party. It was a very happy occasion for all present. He celebrated his fifth birthday.

Miss Reba Gardner of Jackson, Miss., has been home recently.

Mr. Ben Burns is confined to his bed.

Dr. and Mrs. N. C. Waldrep are having their home remodeled.

Hoyt Phillips of Mobile, Ala., and Aaron Dean of Memphis, Tenn., spent the week end here.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Browning have just returned from a visit with their children in Florida and Jackson, Miss.

Prof. and Mrs. B. L. Mercer and Jimmie spent the week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Blissitt.

Mr. William Harris Monroe now stationed in New York, visited home recently.

Miss Louise Crawley, Bruce-ton, Tenn., is a guest of Mrs. Charlie Trim.

Mrs. Graner Spence and little son is spending a few days with her varents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hardy.

National Poster Contest

Here is Miss Edith Alexander of Itta Bena, who was just named state champion for Mississippi in a national poster contest in which 12,820 high school students of 41 states competed. The theme of this contest was MEAT AND VICTORY, according to the National Live Stock and Meat Board, contest sponsor. Miss Alexanders poster won this high honor on the basis of originality grasp of the subject and method of presentation in the opinion of the judging committee.

In a statement accompanying her poster, Miss Alexander called attention to the importance of meat in the diet of the soldiers and sailors as well as for people in all walks of life. One reason for this, she states, is the fact that meat is a good source of protein, so necessary for growth and repair of the body tissues, as well as of vitamins, minerals, and energy. "Never," says Miss Alexander, "has it been so important that we keep fit with a diet which includes meat."

The National Live Stock and Meat Board represents all branches of the live-stock and meat industry. It carries on a research and educational program in cooperation with high schools, colleges, universities and the United States Department of Agriculture.

RANKIN ANSWERS CRITICISM

Washington, D. C., July 31.—Replying to news articles, concerning criticisms of his opposition to the so-called Soldiers' Voting Bill, Representative Rankin of Mississippi today issued the following statement:

"I was surprised to note that the opposition was criticising me for opposing the so-called Soldiers' Voting Bill. How in the world any white man in Mississippi could oppose my stand on that measure and then expect white men and white women to vote for him for any office on earth is beyond me.

"That measure was merely a link in a chain of bills now pending before Congress for Federal control of our elections through out the South and for imposing upon us conditions as bad, if not worse than anything our fathers endured during the dark days of Reconstruction.

"It would not have helped the soldiers in Mississippi at all and not a single one of them asked for it. It would not even apply to the primaries.

"Every single member of the Mississippi delegation in both Houses was with me in opposing that measure, and every candidate who is in the race for the United States Senate from Mississippi is opposed to it, and to all this other legislation that is designed to interfere with the election laws of our state.

"I have done as much for the men in our armed forces as any

Washington, D. C.

U. S. FOREIGN LEGION

Most people don't realize it, but there are many enemy aliens who are officers in the U. S. army. In fact the army, true to the American tradition of the melting pot, is made up of American citizens of almost every national and racial background including 2,720 German aliens, not to mention 2,700 Germans who are naturalized citizens.

The Italian total is 2,472 aliens and 3,781 naturalized. In addition, there are 644 Japanese in the army, plus 3,000 Japanese-Americans, formerly of the Hawaiian national guard, most of whom are assigned to the 100th battalion at Fort McCoy, Wis.

The army goes on the assumption that any man who wants to fight can be a good soldier. Of course, the "enemy aliens" are checked and double-checked before they are admitted for enlistment. The men who pass these tests are found to be even more zealous for the defeat of the dictators than the average American.

Latin-American Battalions.

To make the melting pot more complex, the army has a Filipino infantry battalion, and is forming a battalion for Norwegians in the U. S. and Norwegian-Americans. Instruction and conversation in this unit will be in the Norwegian language.

Equally eager to fight are thousands of Latin-Americans, especially from the nearer countries, such as Cuba and Mexico. The office of the U. S. military attaché in Havana is flooded with applications from young Cubans who want to wear the uniform of Uncle Sam. Most of them would renounce Cuban citizenship if necessary.

But what they do not realize is that if they come to the United States, they are likely to be swept into the U. S. army, whether they like it or not. Within five days after entering this country, aliens must register for the draft, and they had better leave the country pronto if they don't want to be inducted.

Not yet arranged, but highly desirable, is a Latin-American battalion. There are now ten Latin-American countries which have declared war on the Axis, and thousands of their young men want to follow up that declaration with something more than police duty at home.

BACK-BREAKERS

An American diplomat returning from Italy tells this revealing story about the true sentiments of the Italian people.

In his office at the U. S. embassy in Rome he found a clerk, an Italian girl, crying. When he inquired what was wrong, she replied: "Oh, I'm ashamed to be an Italian. You remember what boasting the Fascists did about the Greek campaign? They said: 'We will break their kidneys.' But everybody knows who really beat the Greeks; it was not our army; it was the Germans. But now—have you seen the poster on the streets this morning?" And the girl broke into tears again.

The diplomat looked outside at the poster, which that day was appearing all over Italy. It showed a Greek soldier lying on his face, with a steel bar across his back. On top of the bar was the Fascist insignia, and on the side, the swastika.

The caption read: "We said we would break their kidneys. Mussolini is always right."

Note: All reports from Italy tell of a growing disgust with the Mussolini government, and a growing hatred of the Germans. But the people are too cowed to revolt.

NO-CHAUFFEUR ARNOLD

Trustbusting Thurman Arnold hails from the small town of Laramie, Wyo., and he doesn't see any reason why he should hire a chauffeur to drive his car. So he drives it himself.

One evening, after he and Mrs. Arnold had been dinner guests of Mrs. Evalyn (Hope Diamond) McLean, they were going out the front door, when the doorman said, in his most elegant manner, "Shall I call your car, Mr. Arnold?"

With a dour expression on his face, Arnold said, "You can call it, but I don't think it will come."

CAPITAL CHAFF

The Thurman Arnolds are mourning over the fact that Angelica has eaten Henry Wallace's corn. When the vice president heard about it, he having given the Arnolds a present of Iowa hybrid corn, he remarked: "I hope the corn did Angelica some good." Angelica is the Thurman Arnolds' cow.

Mrs. Claude Pepper, wife of Senator "No-X-Card" Pepper of Florida, walks to social engagements or takes the street car.

There may be a gasoline shortage, but you would never know it at Washington's Congressional Country club. On a recent Sunday there were so many golfers that caddies had to double up and carry two or three bags each. . . . On the same Sunday, motorists so jammed the highways between Washington and Eastern Shore beaches that cars were lined up for three hours waiting for the Chesapeake ferry.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russian Crisis Heightened as Nazis Push on Toward Caucasus Oil Fields; 4,000,000 Men in Service, Says FDR; Japs Resume Offensive in New Guinea

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Attorney General Francis Biddle (right), who headed the prosecution of the eight Nazi saboteurs before the military commission, is shown as he left the U. S. Supreme court in company with Oscar S. Cox, assistant solicitor general, after he fought the defendants' effort to have the Supreme court transfer their trial from the military to civil courts.

RUSSIA:

Nazi Steamroller

Inexorably the Nazi's monster war machine had forced the Russians back mile by mile from Kharkov to beyond Rostov in the lower reaches of the Don basin.

Throughout the cruel retreat of 250 miles Red Marshal Simeon Timoshenko had shrewdly played his string out. His formula: Fall back before the superior Nazi onslaught; contest every inch stubbornly; inflict the maximum damage on the invading Germans.

By thus staying his hand he had kept his own army intact and had forced the Germans to extend themselves. But the Nazi resources in men and machines had seemed to be without limit, for it was reported that 12 fresh divisions and 10,000 tanks had been poured into the conflict after the fall of Rostov.

Hitler was said to be willing to gamble the lives of a million young Germans to gain control of the Russian oil fields of the Caucasus. To turn aside the onrushing Axis flood, General Timoshenko had thrown his Red army reserves into a titanic struggle for the preservation of Russia.

The grimness of the situation was underscored by Premier Stalin's sharp order to his armies: "Not one step back! Every officer and man must stand his ground and fight to the bitter end."

Inspired by Stalin's appeal, Red forces defending the approaches to Stalingrad hurled the German thrust back. The Russians made a determined stand on the Don river south of Tsimlyansk, while on the north flank at Voronezh they dislodged the enemy from strong positions.

4,000,000 MEN:

In U. S. Service

President Roosevelt told the nation that with 4,000,000 men under arms, the slack in America's food supplies is being rapidly taken up and shortages may be expected in specific things to eat. He emphasized, however, that there will be no shortage of food and that America will have enough to eat.

To illustrate his point, the President cited temporary shortages of meat in several sections of the country. A number of similar shortages are likely to occur, he said, and listed these reasons for the beef scarcity: 1.—The usual off-season for beef; 2.—People with more money than ever before trying to buy more expensive cuts; 3.—Greater consumption of meat by the armed forces than they ever ate in civilian life; 4.—The necessity of buying in advance for the services, which further tightens the shortages.

The problem of shortages, the President declared, ties in directly with the scrap salvage campaigns now under way—iron and steel scrap, waste fats, tin cans and rubber.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was appealing to every householder, every shopkeeper, every citizen "to dig deep into his attic, cellar, barn and backyard and turn in every ounce of scrap useful to war production."

ALEUTIANS:

Unified Air Command

Vaporous as the fogs that haunt the Aleutian islands was the announcement by the navy of the creation of a unified command of all aircraft operations in that area.

The announcement was purposely vague, however, for as it explained, exact details as to command relationships and the exact location of headquarters could not be disclosed because they would be of value to the enemy.

EGYPT:

Nature Aids Allies

Superior air power, reinforced mechanized troops and a desolate waste of quick-sand marshes combined to give the British defenders of Egypt the upper hand over Marshal Rommel's Nazi invaders.

The strengthened air power manifested itself in sustained attacks on the German fighting positions, devastating bombing attacks on Tobruk, Matruh and other key Axis supply bases by American as well as RAF planes. The augmented tank forces demonstrated their power in Allied advances from El Alamein on the Mediterranean to the Tel el Eiza sector and in the capture of a substantial number of prisoners and supplies.

Of the favorable factors—the third—the impenetrable marshes of Quattara remained as Rommel's biggest obstacle to reaching his goal of Alexandria and the Suez canal. This vast sink which reaches from the interior of the Sahara to within 35 miles of the Mediterranean coast at El Alamein, prevented the wily Axis general from attempting a flanking movement around the British lines. Although Arab caravans have crossed the tip of the Quattara marshes, the shifting dunes, the quick-sands and the marshy quagmires made the use of tanks and mechanized equipment impossible.

PACIFIC AREA:

Japs in the Jungle

After giving Gen. Douglas MacArthur more than three months time in which to ship men, guns, fighter planes and bombers to the eastern edge of New Guinea, the Japs had resumed offensive movements against Port Moresby and extended aerial feelers toward the Allies' rear bases on the Australian mainland.

The Jap strategy was to advance toward Port Moresby by means of land patrols along a narrow trail leading toward a strategic mountain pass in the Owen Stanley range from their recently won base at Buna.

American and Australian troops demonstrated that they were prepared for the Nipponese infiltration tactics, for Allied patrols drove the Japs back from Kokoda area in the foothills. Specially trained in jungle fighting the Allied troops were able to meet the Japs on their own terms and to deal them their first defeat in a type of fighting that earlier had won Malaya and Singapore for them.

MISCELLANY:

WASHINGTON. — Jurisdiction of President Roosevelt's military commission was upheld by the Supreme court when that body denied the seven Nazi saboteurs the right to have their case heard in civil court. Chief Justice Stone made the announcement, holding that court was not granting the prisoners' plea to file writs of habeas corpus after an army tribunal had completed extensive hearings and testimony as to their guilt.

LONDON: Love is enemy agent No. 1 for British youths training with the royal navy to make commando raids. "It's not drunkenness and careless talk in pubs that causes us the most grief," said an officer. "It's love. We find that in most cases the offender who gives away vital information is a fellow who is not particularly impressive and is trying to be a big shot with some girl."

No Prospects for the Disagreeing Young Lady

This story was told of Winston S. Churchill by Gertrude Atherton: "Shortly after he left the Conservative side of the house (of commons) for the Liberal, he was taking a certain young woman down to dinner, when she looked up at him coquettishly, and remarked with the audacity of her kind:

"There are two things I don't like about you, Mr. Churchill."

"And what are they?"

"Your new politics and mustache."

"My dear madam," he replied suavely, "pray do not disturb yourself. You are not likely to come in contact with either."

A City in Itself, Great Lakes Naval Training Center Is Largest of Its Kind in the World

Thousands of Youths Are Trained There Each Day.

From farms, factories, offices and classrooms of the great Midwest plains area, thousands of men today are on the march. Since that fateful Sunday of December 7 when Japanese bombs rained on Pearl Harbor, they have been heading toward the naval training station, Great Lakes, Ill., bent on becoming seagoing fighters with Uncle Sam's fleet.

At this great naval training base, 40 miles north of Chicago on Lake Michigan, far from salt water, the navy is undertaking the huge task of transforming "land-lubbers" into hard-hitting men of the greatest fleet in the world.

Greatest of all naval training centers in the world during World War I, the station again bears that reputation. In the near future, 11 camps, each bearing the name of a navy hero, will provide training and living quarters for men on the station.

These camps will be Barry, Brown, Luce, Paul Jones, Perry, Dewey, Lawrence, Porter, Moffet, Morrow and McIntire, the latter being the hospital area of the station.

Supplying approximately 35 per cent of the enlisted personnel of the fleet, Great Lakes is the headquarters of the Ninth naval district. The district includes 13 midwestern states: North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. Commandant of the district and commanding officer of the station is Rear Adm. John Downes.

Construction of the original training station at Great Lakes was authorized by an act of congress in April, 1904. Seven years later, President William Howard Taft officially opened the station on October 23, 1911. It consisted of 33 buildings located on a 167-acre tract of land and it housed 1,400 men. With the outbreak of war in 1917, 900 buildings were constructed. More than 125,000 men were trained for the fleet during the first world conflict.

The buildings erected during World War I were temporary structures and were dismantled after the signing of the Armistice. Today other temporary structures are being provided to handle the daily influx of recruits in this new war.

A Self-Sufficient Unit.

Extensive facilities of the station make it a self-sufficient unit. There are offices, barracks, mess halls, classrooms, drill halls, gymnasiums, store houses and large hospitals. The station has its own barber shops, hostess house, post office, tailor shop, laundry and shoe shop. There are three swimming pools and ten regulation ABC bowling alleys.

But more important than the buildings and facilities are the men—thousands of Americans ranging from beardless youths to men in their forties who were Bluejackets in 1917 and 1918. Besides being a perfect physical specimen, the Blue-jacket of 1942 is A-1 in intelligence, courage and patriotism. Anxiously he learns the seafaring lessons being taught by veterans of the fleet. Expectantly he awaits the day when he will graduate from the ranks of a recruit to that of a full-fledged sailor.

Requirements of Recruits.

Fundamentally, a recruit must be between the ages of 17 and 50 and must be no shorter than five feet three inches and no taller than six feet four inches. But would-be sailors who answer this general description are subjected to a rigid and thorough physical and dental examination upon arrival at the station, before they are finally accepted.

Primary examinations are given at various recruiting stations and sometimes physical defects are overlooked, because many of the tests required are not available at outlying recruiting centers. Statistics show that between 50 and 60 per cent of applicants applying at recruiting stations are rejected for physical or mental defects, or other conditions.

The physical examination at Great Lakes is of a routine but thorough nature, conducted by medical officers who are specialists in the various fields of medicine. The examination includes surgical, orthopedic, psychiatric, psychological, X-ray, and eye, ear, nose and throat examinations, the results of which determine a man's physical fitness for the service.

Each man is subjected to a photo-fluoroscopic examination of his chest and to the various blood and laboratory tests. He is also immunized for smallpox, typhoid, yellow fever and tetanus.

In some cases where there is doubt as to the physical or mental fitness of an individual, he is sent to the U. S. Naval hospital here for a period of observation and study. After this period, if the individual is found to be physically and mentally qualified, he is outfitted and takes his place in recruit training.

In cases where minor surgical conditions are discovered, the individuals are sent to the naval hospital, where the conditions are corrected before the recruit is accepted for naval service.

Men From All Walks of Life.

The navy is a great leveler.

When contingents of recruits pour into the naval training station to begin "boot" training, they present a colorful picture in contrast—but not for long.

There are professional men and highly paid factory workers, men in smartly tailored suits, farm boys in overalls, cow hands from the West in high-heeled boots and sombreros, prosperous men and poor men, men with long hair, men with short hair—a cross-section of America.

After recruits have undergone physical and dental examinations to determine their fitness for naval service, the "stripping" process begins. First the "civvies" go into boxes for shipment home. Then the men go through the line.

Each enlisted man in the navy or naval reserve is given an allotment of $118 for uniforms and equipment.

More than 700 experienced stewards, bakers, butchers and storekeepers man huge mess halls on the station, while a veritable army of mess attendants—recruits who must spend some time in mess halls as part of their training—serve the Bluejackets. Twelve general mess halls now are operated on the station.

Cafeteria Style.

Because of the great number of men consuming three "squares" a day, the navy serves its food cafeteria style, in compartment trays. The men "polish off" their meals at long, clean scrubbed tables. To facilitate operations at the conclusion of each meal, the sailors stack their trays, dishes and silverware, which are then sent to automatic dish washers for a speedy cleansing.

Each mess hall is equipped with a modern galley, butcher shop, vegetable locker, bake shop, refrigerators, bread room, store rooms and issuing rooms.

Fruits and vegetables are delivered daily to insure freshness; carrots, onions and rutabagas are locally grown and locally purchased; cheese, butter, eggs and poultry are trucked in from Illinois and Wisconsin. Dry provisions, such as canned tomatoes, are requisitioned in carload lots from the Navy Supply Depot at Norfolk, Va. Coffee is received in 5,000-pound lots from the Provision and Clothing Depot at Brooklyn, N. Y., where the navy operates its own roasting plant.

Sixteen different varieties of fruits and vegetables are served in general mess: Potatoes, cabbage, turnips, tomatoes, broccoli, apples, tangerines, oranges, lettuce, celery, peppers, cucumbers, onions, bananas and cranberries.

Uncle Sam's Bombers

The history of the U. S. army bombing planes begins with the USD-9A De Haviland, finished just too late in 1918 to see action in the First World war. It was powered by a single 400-horsepower Liberty "12" engine, America's outstanding contribution to World war aviation, and had a speed of about 125 miles an hour. It carried a crew of two and a bomb load of 480 pounds. Its range was about 800 miles. While it had a ceiling of more than 18,000 feet, the crude bombights of the day made bombing at even a few thousand feet pretty much of a hit and miss affair.

The first all-American twin-engine bomber was the Glenn Martin bomber, designed by the U. S. army air corps engineers for night bombardment over the Western Front during World War I. It had bomb bays which were opened to release its "pay" load of 1,040 pounds. The Glenn Martin weighed more than five tons. This weight is less than that of a modern single-engine fighter plane, and less than one-fourth the weight of the B-17 and B-24 of today.

A startling development in army bomber design was the high wing monoplane known as Atlantic LB-2. Ahead of its time, and an adaptation for military use of the famous Fokker VII transport, the LB-2 saw service with the army air corps between 1926 and 1931. It was capable of carrying a bomb load of 2,000 pounds.

With the advent of the B-3A the army air corps went back to the biplane design. The B-3A had a speed of 110 miles per hour and a range of about 750 miles.

The modern army bomber came of age with the Martin B-10, which attained a speed of more than 200 miles per hour and had a range of in excess of 1,000 miles. In July, 1934, a flight of ten Martin B-10 bombers flew from Washington, D. C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, and return, a total distance of 8,290 miles, which was covered in 51 hours and 30 minutes flying time.

Summertime Means Picnic Time!

(See Recipes Below.)

Sandwiches Plus

Your fling with summer isn't quite complete without one or a dozen picnics with those sandwiches that taste so good, bubbling hot coffee and fresh, juicy fruit to top off that outdoor meal. You'll have fun with these simple things, even if you don't make a long trip in the family car to some far-away, favorite picnic grounds. Try the back yard, the parks, the beach or even that shady spot down the road a mile or so for this year's picnic.

Scrub your favorite picnic hamper clean and sun-dry it to assure your food freshness and cleanliness. Fill it to the brim with exciting sandwich combinations that your family will get such a surprise when they begin digging into the pleasant recesses of the big basket. Remember the salt for the tomatoes, paper napkins, paper plates, plenty of glasses or paper cups and, yes, a gay checked cloth to add atmosphere to the affair.

Are you in a quandary as to what sandwiches to make? Well, glance over the following combinations for some really tasty ideas in fillings:

Chopped bacon (broiled until crisp) and hard-cooked egg, moistened with mayonnaise or softened butter.

Sliced ham and American cheese, lettuce, sandwich spread.

Cream cheese, finely minced onion, chopped stuffed olives.

Chopped beef, ground fine, mixed with crumbled Roquefort cheese, seasoned with Worcestershire sauce.

Liver sausage, mashed, seasoned with chili sauce.

Summer sausage, ground with sweet or bread and butter pickles, moistened with mayonnaise.

Cucumber, chopped fine, excess moisture drained off, mixed with cream cheese, salt and pepper.

Peanut butter mixed with honey.

Tuna or salmon, flaked, mixed with lemon juice, finely chopped celery and mayonnaise to moisten.

Fillings combined generously with butter are often known as spreads. This facilitates the handling of sandwiches. Just spread the "butter" thickly between slices of bread and your sandwich is made, ready to be wrapped in waxed paper for picnicking.

Cheese Spread.

Blend cream cheese with lemon juice and add 2 tablespoons butter to each package (1-ounce) of cream cheese. To this add one or more of the following: chopped watercress, green pepper or celery; pimiento, green olives, or nuts.

Sardine Spread.

Cream 2 tablespoons lemon juice with ½ pound sweet butter. Spread this on toast or plain whole wheat bread. On top of this place tiny sardines, sprinkle with lemon juice and top with slice of toast or plain whole wheat bread.

"Make-your-own" sandwiches are loads of fun for picnics. Just pack your lunch box with meat loaf or ham loaf already baked at home. Provide the crowd with bread and butter, and let them slice the meat for their own sandwiches:

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Your best bargains during the present can be found in eggs and cheese, so plan to fortify your meals generously with both of these foods.

The campaign to save fats is really getting under way, and it's good policy on your part to turn all excess fats to your butcher.

Economy's yours if you use a variety of meat cuts in planning your menus. Best bargains can be found in the less used cuts such as liver, sweetbreads, heart, kidneys, rump roasts, etc.

Primary or unlimited production in canned fruits is decreed for the following items: peaches and pears (not whole), pectin, fruit cocktail, fruit for salad, and concentrates of grapefruit, lemon, lime and orange.

*Ham Picnic Loaf.

- (Serves 10)
- ½ cup quick-cooking tapioca
 - ¼ teaspoon pepper
 - ¼ teaspoon paprika
 - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 tablespoon minced onion
 - 1 pound lean ham, ground
 - 1 pound lean pork, ground
 - 2 cups milk

Combine tapioca with remaining ingredients in order given. Bake in a loaf pan in a hot (450-degree) oven 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 45 minutes longer or until done. Serve hot or cold.

Munching on golden, crisply fried, cold chicken is many a picnicker's dream of the perfect outing. This is easily managed if you fry the chicken the night before, let it stand in the refrigerator, then wrap in waxed paper to take to the picnic the next day:

*Country-Fried Chicken.

- (Serves 6 to 8)
- 2 3-pound chickens
 - ¾ cup flour
 - 1½ tablespoons salt
 - 1 teaspoon pepper
 - Lard or shortening for frying
 - ¼ cup butter

Clean chickens and cut in pieces suitable for serving. Mix flour with salt and pepper and place in paper bag. Place several pieces of chicken in the bag, and shake to coat evenly with flour. Take out and fry chicken until brown, slowly, in the lard which has been placed in a heavy skillet. When all the chicken has been browned, dot with butter, cover closely and let cook for about an hour over low heat. Or, if you prefer, after chicken is fried, let cook in a moderate (350-degree) oven until done. Uncover during last 15 minutes of cooking time to brown and crisp chicken.

Potato salad made the old-fashioned way with home-cooked dressing is guaranteed to go over big with the family:

Potato Salad

(Serves 8)

- 6 potatoes, cooked in jackets
- ¼ cup french dressing
- 1 onion, chopped fine
- 1 cup celery, chopped fine
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 recipe cooked dressing

Peel potatoes, and cube. Marinate in french dressing for ½ hour. Combine with other ingredients, and chill thoroughly before serving. Garnish with paprika.

Cooked Dressing.

- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ tablespoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1½ tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 egg yolks
- ¾ cup milk
- ¾ cup vinegar

Combine dry ingredients. Add egg yolks, blending carefully, then mix in butter, milk and vinegar slowly. Cook until thick in double boiler. Let cool before adding to salad.

Russian Summer Port Now Very Busy

Both the coming of summer and the recent bombing attacks by German planes on Russia's far-northern port of Murmansk have turned attention to Archangel, farther east on the White sea. Archangel is more than 300 miles farther from the North pole than is the ice-free port of Murmansk, and is about 500 miles closer by rail to Moscow, says the National Geographic society in a recent bulletin.

Unlike Murmansk, the harbor at Archangel is frozen over from late October until June, and can be kept open for a part of that period only by the use of powerful icebreakers. The January mean temperature is seven degrees, Fahrenheit, rises to 60 degrees in August.

The port also can connect with the Baltic sea during normal summers through the Baltic-White sea canal, which was completed in 1933.

A "Flying Fortress" of the latest series, a B-17E, wings its way at more than 300 miles an hour to drop its tons of bombs with deadly accuracy on an enemy objective. B-17s hold seven national speed records and have a range of more than 3,000 miles.

MAXEY—BURNS

A wedding of much interest is that of Miss Mary Frances Burns of Tishomingo, Miss., to Staff Sgt. Pilot John L. Maxey of this city and Harlingen Field Texas. The wedding was performed at the home of the Rev.
and Mrs. J. S. Maxey on July 11, at 4 o'clock with the father of the groom officiating.

Mrs. Maxey who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Burns of Tishomingo, is a graduate of the Tishomingo High School,
Wood Junior College and Alabama State Teachers College.
She is a member of the Tishomingo High School faculty.
Mr. Maxey graduated from Lake Cormorant high school, attended Wood Junior College and later served as an apprenticed embalmer. He was graduated from the flying school at Elling-ton Field, Texas, in April as an instructor.

The single ring ceremony was performed before a beautiful improvised altar of summer flowers. Miss Olivia Watkins played for the ceremony.
Only immediate members of the family and a few friends were present. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home in their honor.—

MRS. MOSER ENTERTAINS

Friends enjoyed a delightful informal Coca Cola party on Friday, when Mrs. Leslie Moser entertained at her home. Her guest list included Mrs. Arthur Harris, Mrs. Maurice Overby, Mrs. W. C. Briggs, Mrs. R. T. Hobson, Mrs. James Chandler, Mrs. Webster Price, Mrs. C. L. Pace, Jr., Mrs. Cecil Wilkins, Mrs. H. Hubbard and Mrs. R. R. Hamilton.

YOUNG GROUP ENTERTAINED

About sixteen of Iuka's younger set gathered at the home of Raymond and Walter Hamilton, for a picnic supper, and dancing Saturday night. Tables were spread in the yard for the supper, after which watermelons were served. Dancing was enjoyed until a later hour, when the group went to Mineral Springs Park for games, winding up the evening with ice cream.

The group included Betty Ruth Jourdan, Omega Goyer, Barbara and Willie Ann Johnston, Betty Carroll Williams, Emogene Deaton, Sara Frances Carter, Dickie McCulley, Bob Allen, Billy Hobson, Charles Gallagher, Billy Pace, Tom Goyer from Jackson, Tenn., and Olen Jourdan.

NASH—VICKERS

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Nash of Tishomingo, Miss., announces the marriage of their daughter, Lucille to Leo C. Vickers, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Vickers of Mangham, La. The double ring ceremony was performed in the presence of a group of immediate friends at 4:00 p. m. July 17, at the Second Baptist Church, Little Rock Ark., with the Rev. C. B. Waller officiating. The bride wore a light blue ensemble with white accessories and her shoulder corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. Vickers was graduated from Miss. State College for Women. She is a member of Arkansas Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Mr. Vickers received his B. S. degree from Louisiana State University. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vickers are employed with the Farm Security Administration in Little Rock, Ark., where they will make their home.

Mr. Francis Howard, formerly of Memphis, has gone to New York City, where he has a position in the Publicity Dept. of the National Broadcasting Company.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

ABRAHAM'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:23-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.—James 5:16.

Prayer has been the subject of thousands of books of sermons without end; yet how little it is actually practiced. Conferences are held to discuss it, and they attract large audiences, but at prayer meetings we find only a handful.

We are sure that "prayer changes things," and we agree that it is the most powerful force at man's disposal, but we go right ahead trying to change things in our own strength. "O what peace we often forfeit, O what needless pain we bear, All because we do not carry Everything to God in prayer!"

Our lesson from the life of Abraham stresses one important phase of prayer—prayer for others.

I. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It Is a Privilege.

We speak of the burden of prayer, but let us also recall that it is a privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from the Lord. The covenant had been renewed and a son promised (Gen. 18:1-16). Then the Lord, because of His friendship with Abraham, shared with him (v. 17) His purpose of judgment on wicked Sodom and Gomorrah.

How glorious to be on such intimate terms with God—to know Him and to know His plans and purposes. Would you enjoy having such fellowship? You may through Jesus Christ and through the study of God's holy Word.

2. It Is a Duty.

Privilege brings corresponding responsibility. The two men went toward Sodom, but "Abraham stood yet before the Lord" (v. 22), to pray for the wicked cities.

Those who know God's plans are to share them in prayer. Those who have audience with the King of Kings are those to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others as well as for themselves.

Are we praying for our nation, for its President and leaders; for our city, for our church, our families, our children, our friends? The deeper the need, the greater the wickedness, the more we need to pray. If we as Christians do not pray, who will pray?

3. It Is a Reality.

Some modern religious leaders would take all reality out of prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which operates only on the soul of the one who prays, giving him new strength and a sense of well being. Undoubtedly the very fellowship with God which is inherent in true prayer is spiritually beneficial; but prayer is objective, not merely subjective. It deals with nations and cities, men and women, problems and sin and sorrow. It concerns every need of man—physical, mental and spiritual.

II. The Spirit of Intercessory Prayer.

1. Unselfish.

Abraham had the assured blessing and promise of God. The cities were wicked and unrepentant. If he had taken the attitude of many church folk, he would have said, "It serves them right. Wipe out their wickedness." But Abraham prayed for them in complete unselfishness. Can those who know the spirit of Christ be selfish in prayer?

2. Bold and Courageous.

Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the cities. God is not displeased to have us press our cause in prayer; in fact, the Bible reveals that He frequently answers according to the earnestness with which men pray. He has always honored and used men of holy courage.

3. Persistent.

No one—not even God—likes a "quitter." Remember those who were heard for their importunity? (Luke 11:8; 18:1-8). Many pray like the little boys on Halloween. They ring the bell and run.

Abraham persisted; fifty, forty-five, forty, thirty, twenty, ten—perhaps he should not have stopped even there. God who saw his persistent faith went the rest of the way and saved the only four who could be saved, and even of those, three were infected with the wickedness of the place.

"Let us not be weary in well doing" as we pray, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9).

III. The Result of Intercessory Prayer.

God had to destroy the cities. There are some kinds of violent infection which must be destroyed by fire for the sake of others. Out of the destruction, however, God did deliver the righteous Lot, which was doubtless Abraham's real desire.

God hears and answers prayers. That is not only the testimony of His Word, but of countless Christian men and women down through the ages even to our day. The one who would deny the efficacy of prayer must face an overwhelming flood of authenticated answers.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

W-N-U-RELEASE

INSTALLMENT FIVE
THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Watson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate and fortune of her grandfather, Garrett Watson, arrives in Honolulu to attempt to gain control of the property. Here she meets Richard Wayne, or Tonga Dick, as he is known throughout the South Pacific. He is a member of the Wayne family that has been in control of her grandfather's island, Alakoa, since the old man's disappearance. Although Tonga Dick knows who she is, Karen attempts to conceal her identity from him. Dick offers to take her sailing and she accepts. Dick, himself has not taken much of an interest in the island estate, but his half-brothers, Ernest and Willard, are very worried lest Karen's claims be valid. Next day as Dick takes Karen sailing she learns that he knows who she is and that he is taking her to Alakoa. She wants to go back to Honolulu but he refuses to take her. Although she is thrilled by the sight of the deep water island, Alakoa, Karen is afraid of what awaits her here. Dick finds that his uncle, James Wayne, is very ill. When Dick sees him, James Wayne is upset over the pending suit for the island and tells Dick he will under no circumstances come to a settlement. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER V

A slim Hawaiian girl called Lilua had shown Karen her room; and now this girl was back again tapping at the door panel.

"Yes?"

"Mister Dick wants to know if you would like to have coffee with him." Uncertain, Karen Watson opened the door. Tonga Dick was surely the last person in the world she wanted to see.

As she hesitated Lilua moved across the room and closed a case-ment that Karen had opened, and Karen experienced a sharp annoyance. There was no air of service in the Hawaiian girl's movement or in her face; rather there was a faint irony in Lilua's eyes, as if she condescended to assist a helpless person who didn't know how to take care of herself.

Karen put a cigarette into an ebony holder, lighted it, and studied Lilua impersonally. Lilua had the creamy brown skin of the pure Hawaiian; her softly waved hair, black as any night, was drawn back over her ears, brushed severely.

"How old are you?" Karen asked suddenly.

Lilua's unwavering eyes seemed amused. "Eighteen. How old are you?"

If Karen had conceived Lilua to be in any way less than her equal, that idea was evidently not shared by Lilua. Karen turned away.

"Somewhat older," she said shortly. "Tell Mr. Wayne I will come."

"I'll show you where he is," Lilua said.

Karen turned to look at her, impelled by that steady gaze. "You're glad to see him back, aren't you?" Karen said.

Lilua hesitated perceptibly, but her quiet voice did not change as she answered. "I haven't seen him for two years."

Karen, her annoyance unaccountably increased, followed Lilua through the house.

Dick Wayne was stretched out before the fire in the big room whose immense doors opened upon the valley and the fog; Lilua immediately crossed the room to close those doors. Dick rose, looking apologetic.

"I hope you'll make yourself comfortable here. I'm sorry if you feel I've made things awkward for you. I think I'll be able to take you back tomorrow."

"Good."

In the stiff silence between them, Lilua came and stood in front of Dick's chair, looking at him steadily.

"Dick, you must be careful of this night. I don't like this night at all. E makani auanei, ke kau mai la ke kakai o Kakaipali."

"That's rude, Lilu," Dick stopped her. "You know she can't understand that."

Lilua cast a contemptuous glance at Karen, and she did not translate; but she went on in English.

"Pretty soon the clouds are going to rise higher, and the wind is going to blow through. And then it is going to rain, and even the rain is going to be a bad rain."

Dick pulled at his cold pipe, his eyes morose upon the fire. "Don't think much of it myself," he admitted.

"The wrong gods are walking," Lilua said now. "The right gods never walk here any more. Remember how we used to hear them walking? But they haven't walked here for a long time. Something else is here instead. Sometimes I can feel it coming near. And tonight it is very close, terribly close; and even the dog is afraid."

Dick Wayne stirred restively. Perhaps he thought he knew what it was that was near; but he didn't want to look at it, yet. "You'd better go get some sleep, Lilu."

"Dick, this is a wrong time."

"Wrong time for what?" Dick snapped at her.

Lilua glanced at Karen, but what she said next was unintelligible.

"Dick," Lilua said, "Kai-Ale-Ale has been seen again. He hasn't been seen—Dick, he hasn't been seen—since my grandmother died."

Dick Wayne took time to explain this to Karen. "There's a big shark," he put in, aside, "that the natives think is a god. I've never seen it, but they swear it's as big as a ship."

"I suppose it amuses you," Karen said, "to make out that my grandfather was a great fool."

"Kai-Ale-Ale is here again," Lilua said; "and there's another thing. The red mullet are running, Dick. Ever since the Islands first came out of the sea, when the red mullet have run a king has died."

"You'd better go on to bed now, Lilu," Dick said.

"You won't want me any more tonight?"

"No; we have everything we'll need, I think."

Lilua stood motionless a moment more. "Are you sure?"

"Yes, yes, of course!"

When Lilua was gone Tonga Dick Wayne sat looking into the fire, saying nothing; and Karen found herself unwilling either to look at him or to speak.

"Do all your servants call you by your first name?" Karen asked at last.

Dick frowned a little. "She isn't exactly a servant. Her people were a very proud people—masters of this island before any haole ever saw it. And she—she's lived here all her life, and I've known her all her life."

"I don't believe," Karen offered, "that that girl has had her eyes off of you one moment since you've been in this house."

Dick Wayne looked startled.

"Huh?"

"You don't mean to tell me that you didn't notice that?"

For a moment Dick looked worried. "Bunch of nonsense," he said. "Can it be possible," Karen asked, "that she believes all that—that stuff?"

"Of course. Different races have different ways of talking about the factors that make things happen."

"Well," Dick hesitated, and visibly shifted ground. "Well, it seems to me extremely remarkable that you and I are sitting here tonight, together by this fire."

"It is through no wish of mine," Karen said.

"I'm sorry. I still can't understand why you're not interested. For one thing, this might very well have been the house in which you were born. The room you are to sleep in tonight might have been the very room."

"I thought of that."

"There's a lot of history in this old house," Dick went on. "Of course the most interesting part of it, or at least the most highly colored, goes back to your grandfather's day, before you were born at all—before the Waynes came in. In his day the house was never silent and empty, as it is now."

"You Waynes have certainly turned it into a tomb."

"I'm sorry, sometimes," he said, "that those old days are gone. There are things that are rigid, and dull too, about the Wayne regime."

She looked at him and the shared moment broke up. "How do you know all this?"

"The Waynes were very close friends of Garrett Watson."

"To the profit of the Waynes," Karen said with repressed bitterness.

Tonga Dick shook his head, not in denial, but in objection. "Your grandfather ended up utterly broke. You see, he was the last of the great old catch-as-catch-can traders. Island trading was a tough game after the sandalwood gave out, but Garrett Watson had a tremendous robust energy, and he made himself two or three fortunes. But all that was over a good many years before he sold Alakoa. I doubt if he had made a cent for at least a decade. He had no business judgment; even his ownership of this island was an accident. He won Alakoa in a poker game with the native king—and even that was partly by mistake, because he thought he was gambling for just the fishing rights. He was actually astounded when he found out he had won it all."

"I suppose it amuses you," Karen said, "to make out that my grandfather was a great fool."

"You shouldn't mind," Dick smiled. "You and John Colt are trying to establish that he was an imbecile."

Karen bit her lip; she was silent for a full minute, and when she spoke she took an entirely new tone.

"I have no idea what you expected to gain by bringing me here, but—"

"You are here," Dick said wearily, "because John Colt sent you cruising with me, to find out some things he doesn't know. You can't imagine it, but certain affairs are a good deal more important to me than John Colt's spying processes."

"If you think," Karen snapped at him, "that either John Colt or I have the least interest in you what-ever—"

"I think you have," said Dick. "For one thing, I can tell you this—your case is never going to come to trial."

"It's already on the calendar! Nobody can stop it, now."

"I can," Tonga Dick told her. "Ask yourself, Karen, just what John Colt is so anxious to learn."

Karen Watson flushed. She could have ignored the cool conviction of Dick Wayne's words; but now she was wondering just what John Colt had suspected—and feared—that had made him so unnecessarily curious about Tonga Dick. And she was wondering why she herself had ever been such a fool as to match wits with this cool, hard-bitten man, whose purposes she could not understand. It seemed very long ago that she had made herself believe that she could conceal her identity from Tonga Dick.

"If you don't mind," Karen said, "I think I shall go to bed now."

Tonga Dick let her go.

CHAPTER VI

In his own room, Dick Wayne found a little fire burning brightly, and he wished belatedly that he had asked Karen if a fire had been laid for her. He did not know that Lilua had put Karen in almost the only room in the house that had no fireplace at all.

A heavy lei of golden ginger blossoms hung on the foot of the bed; the blossoms filled the whole room with a spicy fragrance, heavy and pungent. Instantly Dick knew who had made that lei, and put them there; and for a moment he was troubled.

Then, on an impulse, he picked up the lei and went walking through the house. He recognized Karen's room when he came to it by the crack of light under the door.

He knocked and the door was opened.

"Here," he said, pressing the lei into her hands. He was unable to keep a shade of irony out of his voice. "Aloha." He turned and went back to his room. He half expected to hear her door slam behind him, but it did not.

Dick stripped to his shorts and put out the lights. As he flung himself between the cool sheets the many-voiced wind was drowned by the swift rush of rain—first a whisper, then a drumming roar as water beat against walls and casements by sheets and buckets.

The rain was still coming down in torrent upon torrent as he went to sleep.

He was awakened by the touch of a hand upon his shoulder; and, though it was a gentle hand, it was so dripping wet with cold rain that the shock brought him bolt upright. The fire still burned, its slim flames twisting and hissing from the spatter of rain in the chimney, and by its light he saw that Lilua was there.

"What the devil is this?"

"Dick," Lilua said, "you have to get up."

"What's happened? Is there anything wrong?"

"Something is terribly wrong," Lilua said. "Something has happened. It's happened just now—within the last ten minutes."

"Oh, Lord!" He got up then, and turned on the lights.

"I'm sorry to wake you up, Dick—but I tell you, I know."

Dick, pulling on his flannels, looked at her curiously. She had dropped to the floor the huge t leaf with which she had sheltered her head as she came running through the rain, and her hair bushed wildly about her shoulders. Her eyes were no longer quiet, but alive with a terror she was helpless to control.

In another moment there was a quick fluttering tapping at the door and a thin little voice outside was calling, "Mister Dick! Mister Dick!"

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IF IT ever seemed to you that the walls and ceiling of an attic room were coming down on your head you know how the owner of this room felt before she began to experiment a bit with wallpaper and furnishings.

Large samples of wallpaper were thumbtacked in place to test them. Stripes only accented the slant of the walls. Plain papers brought out angles with sharp shadows. Large designs made the room seem smaller. Wide borders made the ceiling appear to be even lower. But when a paper with tiny evenly spaced pattern and narrow border was tried all these defects seemed to melt away. The long curtains with ruffles on three sides also helped to make the ceiling seem higher. Pink and white striped material to repeat the wallpaper color was used for the chair cover and dressing table skirt. The chair is a remodeled

Uncle Jed always used to say, "Things'd be a whole lot pleasanter if folks would just live so's they'd never be ashamed to sell the family parrot to the town gossiper."

An' speakin' o' parrots, reckon I must sound like one, the way I'm always talkin' about vitamins an' KELLOGG'S PEP! But it's mighty important to get your vitamins—all of 'em! And KELLOGG'S PEP is extra-strong in the two vitamins, B₁ and D, that are most likely to be short in ordinary meals. An', PEP's plumb delicious, too!

Kellogg's Pep

A delicious cereal that supplies per serving (1 cc.) the full minimum daily need of vitamin D; 1/4 the daily need of vitamin B₁.

Buried Hangars

The type "C" hangars of the RAF in England even defy detection by strangers walking around them, says Collier's. They are vast storage rooms about 50 feet underground, connected by an elevator to a roomless farmhouse on the surface.

As the building has no runways for the planes, the incoming ships are towed from the nearest airport into an attached shed, while the outgoing ones are catapulted from another on the opposite side of the house.

Telling time in the Navy is on the 24-hour system. Morning hours are from one to twelve, but afternoon hours are from 1300 to 2400 (midnight). So if you ask a sailor the time and he says "seventeen," subtract 12 and you get five o'clock in the afternoon. It's simpler if you ask him what cigarette he smokes. Chances are he'll say: "Camel," for Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as well as among men in the Army, Marines, Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) Local dealers are featuring Camel cartons as gifts for men in the service from the folks back home.—Adv.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by great users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

TO Shoot More We Must Talk Less

The daily use of long distance and local telephone service throughout the "war busy" Southeast is mounting in such increasing volume that telephone lines and central offices are becoming seriously congested with the burden of calls.

We cannot relieve the congestion by adding to our facilities because the materials needed are now being used in the manufacture of weapons of war (a machine gun in action uses in four minutes enough copper to make a mile and a half of telephone wire), so in order to keep present telephone facilities available for vital war calls we must all talk less.

With your help, which we are confident you will voluntarily give, we can keep long distance and local telephone lines clear for the urgent messages of war agencies and industries engaged in war work.

How You Can Help

Long Distance Calls

Make only the most necessary long distance calls. Be brief.

Place your calls before 9 a. m.; between noon and 2 p. m.; 5 and 7 p. m.; or after 9 p. m.

Stay near your telephone after you have placed your call.

Plan what you want to say and so avoid the necessity for another call.

Whenever possible, call by number.

Local Calls

Use your telephone sparingly—avoid unnecessary calls. Be sure to replace your receiver on the hook.

Look up numbers you are not sure of and help avoid the calling of wrong numbers.

Make your conversations brief. Teach your children good telephone habits.

man in Congress. Almost single handed I forced through an amendment to raise their base pay to $50 a month, and I am going to try to see that the things they are fighting for are not destroyed by their crackpots while they are in the service.

"I notice it is charged, and carried in some of the papers, that I voted against 'fortifying strategic outposts.' What bunk! As a matter of fact, I have voted for every single appropriation for carrying on this war, and voted for the fortification of Guam; because I realized the dangers in the Pacific and the treachery of the Japs.

"Some people may not realize the seriousness of this war, but I do. For years I pleaded for the greatest air force and the greatest submarine force on earth. I was told then that you could not sink a battleship from the air. Think of that! I was told that by men in important positions 18 years after General Billy Mitchell had sunk the Ostfriedland, the largest German battleship captured by us in the World War. He sank it with three shots and in less than twenty minutes.

"We must win this war! Our the weapons and all the ammunition necessary. "These crackpots who are spreading misinformation, attempting to stir up race trouble or interfere with our election laws, are not helping the cause. "This is our war, and we cannot win it without the support of every American. "This is our Country, and we must protect it against enemies from without and subversive influences from within. "We must save America!"

JUNK needed for War

"What's it good for?"
"Guns, tanks, and maybe part of a plane"

In the attics and cellars of homes, in garages, tool sheds, and on farms, is a lot of Junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example. Old radiators, lengths of pipe, refrigerators, garbage pails, broken garden tools...

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel, with most impurities removed—and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

Even in peacetime our Nation relied on scrap to provide about 50% of the raw material for steel. Now production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined.

But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns, and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead, and tin.

America needs your active assistance in rounding up these materials. The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

First—collect all your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

JUNK MAKES FIGHTING WEAPONS

One old radiator will provide scrap steel needed for seventeen .30 calibre rifles.

One old lawn mower will help make six 3-inch shells.

One useless old tire will provide as much rubber as is used in 12 gas masks.

One old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

MATERIALS NEEDED

Scrap iron and steel.

Other metals of all kinds.

Old rubber.

Rags, Manila rope, burlap bags.

Waste Cooking Fats—Strain into a large tin can and when you get a pound or more, sell to your meat dealer.

NEEDED ONLY IN CERTAIN LOCALITIES: Waste paper and tin cans, as announced locally.

NOT NEEDED at this time: Razor blades—glass.
