TWO COUNTY BOYS TRAINING AT PRAIRIE

PRAIRIE, Miss., April 3, 1947—Golden Edwin Epps, Golden, is now training in body and fender repair at the Trades Training Institute of Mississippi State College, Prairie. Carl Edward Sanders, of Iuka, is training in industrial electricity.

ford preached at both services Sunday, and will return to assume his duties on Sunday, April 20th.

Friday night closed the revival, in which Rev. B. H. Benton, state evangelist, preached twice daily for two weeks. Attendance was a record high for these meetings, and at the closing service the ordinance of Baptism was administered to 13. The church also welcomed several members by letter. Rev. Benton is an able, earnest preacher of the gospel, and endeared himself to Iukans, not only Baptists but every denomination. With a life filled with interesting and unusual experiences, he colored richly each sermon with illustrations from his own life and ministry, and his work in this community made a deep impression.

Working with the County Missionary, Rev. Charles Everitt, the Revival was county-wide, but held in the Iuka church because of size and convenience. During his work, Rev. Benton recommended Rev. Cranford to the local church. Called immediately, he South Mississippi pastor filled the pulpit last Thursday morning during the special services. Already, the local church is preparing to enlarge their teaching quarters and facilities, and a new home, either purchased or built is the immediate goal of the members. At a business meeting Sunday afternoon a working schedule was presented by Rev. Cranford, which was enthusiastically received. With his wife and little six year old daughter, Rev. Cranford's moving to Iuka is anticipated as a real asset both in the life of the church, and the whole community.

YOUTH PROGRAM TO BEGIN ON W M C A

Starting April 17th at 3:45 p. m. a fifteen minute program in the interest of the youth of this section will be inaugurated on Corinth's radio station WOMA, with Rev. Vester Hardy of Iuka in charge. Semi-religious, the program is being arranged to meet the needs of present day youth, and with the assistance of a selected choir from the Corinth High School, it promises to be one of the most interesting programs originating in Corinth. This public service program is sponsored by the station through their managers, Mr. Robinson and Mr. Win-

Rev. Vester Hardy

sett. Besides the music, Rev. Hardy will deliver a brief message on each program. Rev. Hardy has been interested in youth for many years, having been branch director of YMCA youth activities at Jackson, Tenn. He is also Junior Red Cross chairman for Tishomingo county, and has taken a keen interest in all affairs of the young people in this county and elsewhere. He attended Union University at Jackson, and for the past year has been affiliated with Dexter Lumber Co., in Iuka. Young people in this county are invited to tune in at 3:45 each Thursday, beginning next week, and enjoy this program.

JOHN W. BONDS FOR RE-ELECTION JUSTICE OF PEACE

I take this method of announcing to the voters of the Second District, my candidacy for re-election to the office of Justice of the Peace. First I want to thank you for the splendid vote you gave me four years ago which permitted me to serve as your Justice of the Peace. I now come asking you to give me another term and I feel that I am qualified for the office. I did the best I could to serve you honestly and efficiently. I am asking you to vote again for me in the coming primary if you feel that I have served you that way.

If I am unable to meet each of you personally, I am asking you to accept this announcement as a solicitation of your support. If re-elected, I promise to give you the best service I can possibly render.

I sincerely remain your servant,
JOHN W. BONDS.

NATIVE IUKAN DIES AT HIS HOME IN BLUE MOUNTAIN; SERVICES LOWERY MEMORIAL

Iuka lost one of its most illustrious native sons, the state of Mississippi one of its most prominent and loved sons and the educational world one of its highest lights in the death of Prof. J. E. Brown, which occurred at his home in Blue Mountain, Saturday afternoon, with services at the Lowery Memorial Baptist church, where he had worshipped many years, the Rev. Clifford Smyley and Jeff Cunningham of Greenville, a kinsman, officiating. Masonic services were held at the grave, he having been a high ranking member of that fraternity as well as a Shriner and Roarian.

"Ed Brown" as he was known to all the citizens of his home town and county was born near Iuka at what has always been known as Brown's Mill, in the years just following the Civil War. He came of illustrious stock on both sides of the family, his father, Capt. Jno. Brown was a brave officer in the Confederacy and his three brothers, one of whom lost a leg in the war. On his mother's side, the Castle-errys and Akers, were equally illustrious and had been instrumental in building a county out of a wilderness after the Indians left. He was a worthy son of worthy ancestry.

He was educated in the old Iuka Normal Institute where he was graduated and later taught several years. After that he and the late Judge Stone Deavers taught in South Mississippi and it was while teaching there that he met and married Miss Addie Garrow Liberty, Miss., who has been an efficient helper and beloved and sympathetic companion for fifty years.

In 1904 he moved to Blue Mountain and established Mississippi Heights Academy for Boys, which meant as much to the youth of Mississippi as did Branham C. Hughes at Bell Buckle to the youth of Tennessee. This school, which prospered from the start was the dream of Prof. Brown's life and nobly did it carry on for forty years and today men in all walks of life, successful professional men, high ranking business men, gladly acknowledge that everything achieved was due to the ideas and principles he installed. When ill health forced his retirement, and the closing of the school it was a death blow from which he never recovered.

It was while educating the youth of the state that he was also a student, studying at Blue Mountain College where he received his degree in 1904, the only man to ever receive a degree from the girls' school.

Besides the wife of fifty years of loving companionship, he leaves one son, Dr. J. E. Brown of Fernwood, Miss., and two daughters, Mrs. Natalie Watson of Blue Mountain and Mrs. Harry Mallott of Meridian and three sisters, Mrs. Jno. L. S. Rogers of New Albany, and Mrs. John Robinson and Mrs. Edgar Payne of Iuka.

Mrs. N. N. Maxey of Senatobia was a guest of her mother, Mrs. W. F. Bonds Tuesday and Wednesday.

MRS. OMIE COUNCE LONG

Death came suddenly in the morning hours, to Mrs. Cleve Long, on March 31st, just as she was arising. News of her death spread rapidly throughout the county where she was well known, and the many friends of the deceased and her children were deeply shocked and grieved at the news. A member of the Baptist church, Mrs. Long was known for her devotion to that institution and for her serene and happy nature. Funeral services were held April 1st at Bethel Baptist church with Rev. Woods of Pickwick and Rev. Garland of Paducah, Ky., officiating, with burial in White Sulphur cemetery.

Survivors besides Mr. Long are Mrs. Lawrence Grisham and Mrs. Cliff Ramsey of Iuka; Mrs. W. P. Parrish of Pickwick, Mrs. Donald Landrum of Florence, J. C. Long of Birmingham and Hubert Long of Counce. Five brothers, Howard Counce of Memphis, Marvin Counce of Pickwick, Clint Counce of Florence, and John Counce of Iuka. Four sisters, Mrs. Minnie Barlow of Crumps, Tenn., Mrs. T. C. Nolen, and Mrs. Bob Pennell of Pickwick and Mrs. Merle McMinns of Florence and her mother, Mrs. John Counce, of Counce, also 113 grandchildren.

TISHOMINGO COUNTY CO-ORDINATING COUNCIL MET LAST WEDNESDAY

Upon completion, he estimated total lines will be about 360 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas of Tusculum, and Corbett Thomas of East St. Louis, were Easter guests of their mother, Mrs. Besie Thomas.

TISHOMINGO COUNTY OVER-OP; RED CROSS DRIVE ENDS

In what Southeastern Area headquarters terms as "outstanding accomplishment" Tishomingo County went over the top in the 1947 Fund campaign, with F. C. Gallagher acting as drive chairman. With the county quota 155 percent over 1946 the success is specially significant, and a tribute to the successful management of Mr. Gallagher and his corps of workers, as well as to the citizens who responded so generously to this vital cause.

Mr. Gus A. Burleson, area supervisor stated that Tishomingo county was the only one in his territory that raised more money in 1947 than in 1946. The local quota was increased due to lack of funds on hand. In 1946 this county had a surplus in local funds that decreased the quota. This year with that fund depleted the quota was raised. Mr. Gallagher, in an interview with representatives of the Vidette stated that the outstanding success for drive was due to the hearty cooperation of his co-workers and to the response of the people. Mr. Gallagher said "want to extend my sincerest appreciation to very worker who contributed to his campaign, not only for their work, but for their enthusiasm, which enabled us to conduct a campaign that will receive national attention. Wiring our success to national headquarters, Mr. Gallagher said: "Tishomingo county over the top, how about New York?" a statement which as gained national significance, since it was uttered in a conference by Rev. Mohler when he was county chairman.

L. R. (Dock) HARRIS FOR RE-ELECTION, SECOND DISTRICT

I am glad to announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of Constable of the second district of Tishomingo County, Mississippi.

First, I want to thank the people of the District for the splendid vote given me four years ago. That vote indicated that he people had confidence in me and my ability to enforce the law. I have done my best to carry out that trust. I have never had a call in my district for the purpose of enforcing the law that I did not go and do whatever was necessary to adjust the matter. The Constable's office covers only one district of the County, but the duties of the office are much more important than it might be given credit for. The Constable is chief law enforcement officer of the District and his responsibilities and duties are he same as the Sheriff of the County insofar as law enforcement is concerned. I have had six and one-half years of experience in this kind of work and now how to exercise these duties and know how to shoulder these responsibilities.

If I am re-elected, I promise to give the same fair and impartial service that I have in the past and further promise to treat all offenders of the law in the same manner without favors to any one and to serve all processes given to me by the court. I will greatly appreciate your votes.

Respectfully,
L. R. (Dock) HARRIS.

Special Committees Circumvent Intent of Reorganization Act

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles dealing with new congressional committees and their chairmen.)

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Although the merits of the reorganization act, designed to improve congressional efficiency, are being tested for the first time in the 80th congress, various loopholes already have been discovered to circumvent the intent of the measure.

One of the most obvious of these is in regard to special committees. Intent of the act was to prohibit all special committees except by a two-thirds vote in an emergency. The act specifically gives the standing committees appropriations and personnel with which to conduct special investigations.

Despite this fact, resolutions have been introduced in this congress to create a dozen odd special committees and to retain others which were operative during the preceding congress.

In addition, there have arisen several heated rows regarding jurisdiction over some controversial legislation. With all, however, standing committees have assumed greater importance under the terms of the reorganization act.

The list of standing committees in the house together with their chairmen follows:

Public Lands

RICHARD J. WELCH (CALIF.)

heads the public lands committee, which replaces the former committees on public lands, territories, irrigation and reclamation, mines and mining, insular affairs and Indian affairs. Through his continuous service in the house since 1926, Welch has become ranking Republican on the committees on labor, merchant marine and fisheries, and insular affairs. His choice of the public lands chairmanship probably was dictated by western interest in this field, since he is the only Republican with much seniority west of Kansas.

Nominally a Republican, Welch is a political independent, who voted with the majority of his party on only 11 per cent of the controversial roll calls in 1946. He has had both Republican and Democratic nominations for some years. Many of Welch's few floor speeches have been on subjects in the fields of labor and merchant marine, but he also has spoken on public land policies.

Welch, who is about 70, has long been a political figure in California. He was a state senator from 1901 to 1913 and a member of legislative bodies of the city and county of San Francisco from 1921 until he was elected to fill an unexpired term in congress in 1926. He has been returned each succeeding election by large majorities.

The 5th California district which Welch represents is entirely within the city of San Francisco. It is chiefly residential, with a sprinkling of light industry. Both CIO and AFL are well represented in the population and both back Welch, who was one of the few Republicans to have PAC support in the last two elections.

Un-American Activities

J. PARNELL THOMAS (N. J.), who heads the un-American activities committee, has been active in its work since the days of its predecessor group headed by Martin Dies.

He has assailed a number of organizations, including government agencies, for alleged Communist domination. He has declared that, although the committee under his leadership will concentrate on Communist activities (particularly in Washington and Hollywood), it will spare no individual or organization that seeks to destroy the American form of government, specifically mentioning the Columbians, Inc., of Georgia.

Thomas voted with the majority of his party on 96 per cent of controversial roll calls in 1946. He was vigorously opposed to the McMahon atomic energy bill. His opposition was based in part, he said, on the "totalitarian" nature of the proposed atomic energy commission and partly to the alleged Communist tendencies among scientists on the Manhattan district project which produced the atomic bomb.

Thomas, who is 51, was born in Jersey City and is now a resident of nearby Allendale. After attending University of Pennsylvania, he served with the AEF in France. Later he became a bond salesman and now is a partner in a firm of insurance brokers. He was mayor of Allendale from 1926 to 1930 and member of the New Jersey house of assembly from 1935 until his election to congress in 1937.

The 7th New Jersey district has three counties which are primarily agricultural. There is a large foreign-born population, principally Irish and Polish. In Hackensack and other industrialized parts of the district are located large textile mills, apparel manufacturing, and some iron and steel plants.

Ways and Means

HAROLD KNUTSON (MINN.), chairman of the powerful ways and means committee, which handles tax bills, has been in the house longer than any other Republican. Elected from the 6th Minnesota district in 1916, he has been returned at every subsequent election.

Knutson long has been convinced that the government costs too much and began early in the 79th congress to predict lower taxes if the Republicans gained control. Knutson voted with the majority of his party on 19 out of every 20 controversial roll calls in 1946. He was strongly anti-OPA. Himself a union member, he voted for the Case bill and for overriding the veto of this measure.

Knutson, 66 years old, lives in Manhattan Beach, Minn. He learned the printer's trade as a boy and became editor of the Wadena (Minn.) Pioneer Journal, which he now owns. Head of the Republican party organization in Minnesota, he is beginning his 16th term in the house.

The 6th Minnesota district consists of 16 rural counties northwest of Minneapolis and extending up to the edge of the iron range. The area is completely rural-agricultural, with only one city, Brainerd, over 10,000 population in 1940. There is a thriving and well-organized dairy industry. Organized labor has no strength.

Because of the tax angle, the ways and means committee has jurisdiction over tariffs and social security. It also handles matters relating to the public debt, the deposit of public money and revenue measures relating to insular possessions.

Rules

LEO E. ALLEN (ILL.), new chairman of the rules committee, becomes by virtue of that job one of the most important men in congress. With rare exceptions, no legislation can be considered on the floor of the house without prior approval of the rules committee, which also dictates the conditions under which it is to be debated and the type of amendments to be allowed.

Allen is a regular Republican who constantly votes with his party. He is 48 years old. He was graduated from University of Michigan in 1923, taught school for a few years and then served as a court clerk. He began the practice of law in 1930 and is now a member of the law firm of Allen and Heer in Galeana, Ill. Allen was elected to congress in 1932 despite the Democratic landslide of that year, and has been consistently re-elected ever since.

The 13th district of Illinois, which Allen represents, is made up of six counties in the northwestern corner of the state and had a population of only 188,433 in 1940. It is predominantly rural and agricultural, a typical midwestern Republican stronghold. There is a small iron and steel industry, but organized labor has little strength. In the last election, Allen carried every county in the district and had a plurality of 34,471 out of 62,000 votes cast. Appointed a member of the house campaign expenditures investigating committee last year, Allen resigned before the election in protest against what he called the committee's "do nothing" attitude.

Veteran Protests but Pay Continues

NEW YORK.—For a year, John G. Scott, war veteran, has been trying to get the government to stop sending him disability checks, but he has succeeded only in getting the amount raised from $35 to $42.

When Scott was discharged from the army, he signed a statement ostensibly to the effect that he had been a patient in an army hospital. A short time later the unwanted checks started coming in as monthly payment for a disability of the right eye, a condition Scott said he had before entering service.

Scott, who says he doesn't need the checks and that his eye does not interfere with his work, wrote Veterans' administration that he didn't want the payment. His only acknowledgment was to get the amount raised from $35 to $42. The checks are still uncashed but VA has refused to take them back.

SERMON IN PICTURE... Dramatically portraying the theme of National Sunday School Week, this illustration will be the focal point of window displays and exhibits throughout the country during the week of April 14-20.

CALL TO CHURCH

Sunday School Week Stresses Value to Youth

Marking the annual observance of National Sunday School Week, parents of the country's 30 million children of all races and creeds between the ages of 6 and 10, will give their offspring a last-minute grooming and send them off to neighborhood churches during the week of April 14 to 20.

Sponsored by the Laymen's National committee of New York, a non-sectarian, non-profit patriotic and religious organization, National Sunday School Week was established three years ago to stimulate church school attendance and to utilize religious training as a basic method of combating juvenile delinquency.

As in past years, National Sunday School Week has been proclaimed by mayors throughout the nation as well as by the governors of the 48 states. Civic, educational and fraternal organizations with national memberships have signified their support of the week-long religious training period.

To permit hospitalized children and those invalided at home to join in the observance, the Laymen's National committee has arranged with radio networks to conduct special religious programs during the week.

Further amplifying the endeavors of National Sunday School Week, Rear Adm. Reginald R. Belknap (USN, Ret.), World War I naval hero and chairman of the Laymen's National committee, declared, "Constant religious training that is begun early in the life of every child will be instrumental in thwarting juvenile delinquency. A broad concept of God and the teachings of the Bible will aid our youths in readily distinguishing between right and wrong. Early religious training is the responsibility of every parent."

"It is time," Admiral Belknap said, "to popularize the fact that a boy or girl who regularly attends Sunday School and who is obedient to his parents and teachers is not a 'sissy,' but a real American."

Army Check Places Sergeant in Dither

PITTSBURGH, PA. — For two cents, Edward Wilson, former army sergeant, won't cash a check.

Wilson received $475 in bonds and a check for two cents from the government as his terminal leave pay. Army officials explained the two-cent check was the only means of satisfying the law, which requires that as much as possible must be sent in bonds, the balance by check.

If Wilson cashes the check in a bank, he must pay 10 cents. Wilson balked at returning the check because it would involve a three-cent stamp.

Modern Jesse James Pays Taxes in Nickels

ROCKHOLD, KY. — A Whiteley county citizen has two claims to distinction—his name, Jesse James, and the fact that he pays his taxes with nickels. For more than 13 years, James has paid his taxes with nickels taken in for candy and soft drinks at his service station. Again this year he counted out 457 five-cent pieces, took a receipt and went home to start saving more nickels.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

AIRPORT CONSTRUCTION

Airport construction in the fiscal year beginning July 1 will require an outlay of 85 million dollars, according to an estimate of Civil Aeronautics administration.

The funds, to be provided by congress, would be made available to local sponsors on a matching basis under terms of the federal airport act. No recommendation for federal airport aid was included in the budget for the 1948 fiscal year submitted to congress by President Truman since the CAA had not completed its survey of airport needs in time.

The CAA survey recommends construction of 4,431 airports in the next three years, although, because of cost, administration officials stated that program probably will require considerably more time for completion. The federal airport act approved last year limits federal funds to be provided in any one year to 100 million dollars. It authorizes a total expenditure of 500 million dollars over a seven-year period.

Grants approved for the current fiscal year, ending July 1, 1947, total 45 million dollars, with construction scheduled to begin this spring. These grants include only the three smallest classes of airports.

NO MALNUTRITION

If the Brooklyn Dodgers weaken in this year's National league pennant race, it won't be from malnutrition. The Durochermen, while limbering up in sunny Havana, had juicy American steaks flown to them by Pan American Airways Clippers. The top sirloins, obtained from a Miami meat dealer at $1.50 a throw, were imported because of Cuba's dearth of prime beef.

STRAW HANGAR

Not even a shortage of building material could prevent H. H. Forney and Son, ranchers near Lakeside, Neb., from building a hangar for their light airplane. Unable to procure materials, they resorted to baled straw for the side walls of the hangar, coating them with cement and covering the structure with metal roofing.

ANNIVERSARY MODEL... Test flights have been completed on Waco Aircraft company's Aristocrat, which marks the 25th anniversary of the building of the company's first plane. The four-place plane is designed to meet demand for a fast and roomy plane for business and pleasure.

'FRIENDLIEST GREMLIN'

A revolutionary new aircraft instrument which precludes the possibility of a pilot stalling his airplane inadvertently has been developed by CAA. The device, which shines a red light and blows a horn when a stall is imminent, has been termed the "pilot's friendliest gremlin" by experienced flyers who have operated planes equipped with it. The warning device, which is mounted on the instrument panel, is actuated by a small tab of metal or "vane" protruding through the leading edge.

THE KINGDOM ESTABLISHED

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 9:1, 2; 11:12, 13; 15:1, 22-26, 34.
MEMORY SELECTION—Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord.—Psalm 33:12.

A major crisis had come in the history of Israel when we left them in our study of January-March, 1946. They were ready to change their form of government. They no longer wanted God to rule them directly through his representatives, but wanted a king like other nations round about them.

God acceded to their request and instructed his servant Samuel to anoint Saul as king, and they began that period in their history which led to their ultimate captivity and disgrace. We shall study together during the next three months the facts and factors involved in the rise and fall of the nation of Israel.

Our lesson concerns their first king, Saul, the son of Kish, who promised to be a great and good king, but who failed through disobedience.

I. Saul—a Choice Man and God-Chosen King (9:1, 2; 15:1).

To begin well is to be far on the road to success. Here was a man of excellent quality, "a choice young man and a goody"—in fact, there was not among his people one who surpassed him. What a splendid recommendation for the prospective ruler!

His physical appearance was also attractive. That is not as great a factor in success as some think, but it does have a bearing on a man's influence over others.

Most important of all, this man Saul was the one whom not only the people but also the Lord had chosen. The Lord sent Samuel (15:1) to anoint Saul as king, and to give him the key to success as ruler—obedience to the voice of God.

II. Saul—an Obedient and God-Blessed King (11:12, 13).

The attitude of a man toward his enemies is often the test of his character. Bitterness, hatred, revenge, or velle hostility with a purpose of ultimate destruction—these are the common reactions of men toward them who oppose them.

Saul, who was not essentially different in his own spirit (as we shall see later), was a man after God's own heart in his early reign, for he was obedient to the Lord.

Some "worthless fellows" despised Saul and refused to recognize him as king. The urge of the flesh to destroy them was aggravated by their own unworthiness. Some wanted to put them to death for their disloyalty to the king, but Saul in true kingly spirit, and recognizing that he reigned by the good grace of the Lord, decreed that there was to be no revenge, but rejoicing.

The story which we touch on so briefly here is one that teaches the eternal truth that the way of blessing and power is the way of obedience to the laws and the will of God.

Saul began well, but before long his pride and self-will began to assert itself and he thus brought to ruin and personal disaster that which had begun with such promise and blessing. There were many such incidents, but we consider only one.

III. Saul—a Disobedient and God-Rejected King (15:22-26, 34, 35).

God had commanded that there must be utter destruction of the Amalekites and their possessions—something like the burning of a disease-infested house—a wiping out of a king and people who were condemned of God. We may not fully understand this act of God, but if we know him we will not doubt that it was in accordance with his infinite wisdom and love.

Saul chose to disobey, later contending that it was done because of the people, that sheep and oxen had been spared for a sacrifice to the Lord. Samuel cut through his hypocrisy and declared that God wants obedience rather than sacrifice. This is a lesson that many who profess to follow the Lord have not learned.

The church or the individual who denies or disregards the teaching of God's Word and attempts to make up for it by sacrifices and ceremonies declares to the world that there has been a departure from true faith in God. Obedience is a virtue all too rare.

Too late! What sad words—and never sadder than when they speak of spiritual failure. Saul talked of repentance and prayer, but the Lord had already rejected him as king.

There comes a time when God's patience with man's disobedience is exhausted, and the door to further service is closed. It is a long, long way to the boundary line of God's patience; but mark it well, there is a boundary line!

If your aluminum pans are discolored, try this easy method to bring the luster back to them. Boil a cream of tartar solution in the discolored pan. Use one teaspoon of cream of tartar to each quart of water for best results. This simple method keeps your pans gleaming.

Plastic covered coat hooks in color fixed on that empty wall space make a fine support for showing off your pretty trays.

You know what a soiled clothesline will do to hours of careful laundry work. The best way to prevent this is to see the line is strictly clean. Before hanging up the wash to dry, take the line down, wrap it firmly around the wash board, and scrub it thoroughly with hot water and soap.

Knives and other kitchen gadgets with painted handles should not be allowed to stand in water. The wood under the enamel will absorb water and cause the paint to chip off.

To get ready for spring housecleaning and to obtain more storage space, it is a good idea to start now to weed out kitchen utensils and other odds and ends which are no longer useful.

To prevent rust marks on bathroom or kitchen fixtures where scouring powder can rests, dip the bottom of the can in hot paraffin.

Monks Make Up Fifth Of Population of Tibet

There are so many monks in Tibet principally because it is so hard to make a living and raise a family there. Monks make up one-fifth of the population of Tibet. Every year thousands of young men enter monasteries instead of marrying, for it often takes as many as six husbands to make enough money to support one wife, and most women have at least three husbands at one time.

A wife may dismiss a husband whenever she feels like it, and this brands him as a social outcast.

NOTHING SERIOUS

The news reel in a neighborhood theater showed the havoc wrought by a tornado in the southern states. A young woman said sympathetically, "Oh, isn't that dreadful!" "Don't be silly," replied her companion, "this is only a movie."

Unconvicted

A man from the city in trouble with the local authorities in a small country town asked one of the residents if the town had a criminal lawyer.

"We think we have," was the reply, "but we haven't been able to prove it on him yet."

Man's Best Friend

Question—What is a hot dog?
 Answer—A hot dog is the noblest of all dogs, because it feeds the man and that bites it.

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

"I was told to stop in here and buy either a camisole or a cassiole, but for the life of me I can't remember which."

"Well, sir, if you'll tell me what kind of a chicken you propose to put in it, perhaps I can help you."

Just Words

"Yassuh, Jedge, I wanna divorc—Lucy she never stop talkin', she keep it up stiddy. mo'nin', noon an' night—day in, day out, till it git so I jess can't stan' it no mo', Jedge."

His earnestness impressed the court. "She does? What does she talk about?"

"Jedge, suh, she don't say."

New Foreign Policy Foreshadowed

Marked Historical Import Attached to Aid Program

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—One of the hardest things to recognize is history in the making. We often live through moments of catastrophic and cataclysmic significance, yet while the vital seconds are ticking off, our only immediate impression is the limited effect on ourselves or on our close surroundings.

We have all lived through a period which has been filled with some highly significant events, beginning — say — with the outbreak of World War I. We celebrated the Armistice on November 11, 1918; we watched the progress of the peace conference, and then came the train of international events which culminated in V-E and V-J Days and the founding of the United Nations.

All this was background for another event which took place as the day of March, 1947, approached. I refer to the enunciation of a new American foreign policy — which may prove to have far greater historical significance than any of the other happenings I mentioned.

As one observer put it: "If the President's message (urging aid for Greece and Turkey) is implemented to the full of its implications, it may be another Monroe Doctrine foreshadowing a pax Americana with a hundred years peace—such as the pax Britannica provided—or, it may be a declaration of World War III."

Either eventuality would make it the most important event in modern history. If it should establish a hundred years of peace, it could easily foreshadow permanent peace. If, on the other hand, it signalled another World War, it would mean the twilight, if not the sunset, of civilization.

President Truman and his advisors felt the policy must be enunciated. And far-seeing people realized that America must shoulder the major responsibilities that Britain had carried so long as the most powerful of the English-speaking family of nations, and which she no longer is able to carry.

True, we have started to create an organization—the United Nations—which is supposed to make it impossible for any single nation or group of nations to disturb the peace. But to carry out its job, the United Nations must have an international police force. Until the United Nations has the force to back up the will of the majority, that single nation which can muster such power will decide the course of the world.

We have that power. Potentially, so has Russia.

The proposed American foreign policy has behind it only one idea. That is to keep the power for peace in the hands of what we call democracy.

There has been doubt expressed by some as to whether the program outlined by the administration would serve this objective. The majority of leaders in both parties however seem to be convinced that there is no better method presently at hand; that if we are to maintain our democratic way of life until the United Nations has become an effective organization, we have no other course to pursue. If we take no action, we simply turn the world over to Russia. That would mean war eventually. Implementing the Truman policy may avoid it.

I heartily believe in the United Nations, and I feel positive that if a major conflict can be put off long enough, the United Nations eventually can be made strong enough to outlaw aggressive warfare effectively.

Pledging our wealth and sinew to protect Communist-threatened countries seems our only hope.

Saving of Primitive Area Urged

Now facing Uncle Sam's Chief Forester Lyle F. Watts is a question almost as hotly disputed as German reparations at the Moscow conference. As guardian of the nation's great national forest wilderness areas, he has to give a yes or no answer fairly soon.

Watts' headache concerns the San Geronio primitive area in Southern California's San Bernardino National forest—one of America's few remaining remnants of honest-to-goodness wilderness which conservationists hope to preserve for future generations.

For several years, the skiers who like to ride up-hill so they can get the most out of their down-hill sport have fixed their sun goggles on the fine snow slopes deep within this primitive area. Not all skiers, mind you—some like San Geronio as is—the deep, cool woods, a large green meadow, Dollar and Dry lakes, icy streams, a challenging vista of Mt. San Geronio and the lofty summit of the peak itself—and they like to ski there. But others prefer a touch of civilization—ski-tows, a highway into the place, a hotel-resort near by. So the California Ski association, with help from the National Ski association and the California State Chamber of Commerce, sponsored a proposal to build the highway and accommodations for a big ski resort. It looked as if San Geronio would be about as primitive as television and cooking with electronics.

But the Forest Service was keeping an open mind. After all, it might be better to devote San Geronio to more primitive skiing. So last December the service announced a 90-day intention of changing the area's classification as "primitive." This cleared the way for going ahead with the skiing developments. The Forest Service principle is "the greatest good for the greatest number in the long run," and most of those who knew about the issue concluded that, based on such a thesis, this bit of the primitive was gone with the mustache cup and the Model T.

The service called a public hearing in San Bernardino which turned, somewhat to their surprise, into what Variety calls a "boff" performance. So many people showed up that the civic auditorium had to be engaged for two days instead of one — and as in congress, the sessions lapped over until evening. Supporting the skiers' proposal were the California State Chamber of Commerce, the California Ski association and 18 ski clubs. That was about as expected.

It was the determined opposition that raised eyebrows. The opposition included the skiers who like their sport in the raw, along with church group representatives with summer camps at the edge of the primitive area; spokesmen for water companies who wanted the area kept in wilderness so as to conserve its watershed values for orange growers down the valley. In between were the hikers, the sportsmen, women's clubs, nature lovers, natural science groups (the area has six forms of plant life that grow nowhere else) and civic clubs.

Then there were the letters pouring in from all parts of the country — so many that the Forest Service both in its California office and in Washington had to resort to the mimeograph machines to answer them. The letters voted overwhelmingly against civilizing the area via ski-tows and hotels. Now it's up to Watts.

"We think now that the primitive area will surely be preserved," says Howard Zahniser, editor of the magazine, "The Living Wilderness," "and with a victory in this issue we shall certainly be all the better able to muster support for the Forest Service in guarding other threatened areas in our national wilderness system. But we have no quarrel with skiing. We want to see it develop further. We hope that San Geronio will become even more attractive for wilderness skiing than it is."

OPTIMISM PREVAILS

Large Crop Acreage Predicted

WASHINGTON.—Optimistic over soil conditions and improvements in the farm labor and machinery situation, farmers are planning the largest acreage of crops this year since the wartime peak in 1944, the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture reports.

If favorable weather prevails during the growing season, recent record production of many important crops is expected to be broken this year.

Although slight decreases are expected in acreages of wheat, corn and potatoes, higher acreages are indicated for soybeans, sugar beets, beans, peas and other crops, the crop reporting board says.

The aggregate acreage of crops now planned would exceed the acreage of last year by 2,300,000 acres and that of 1945 by nearly 1,000,000 acres. It would, however, be 7,400,-

New Atom Board Urged; Red Menace Spotlighted

REDS:

Threat to America

More so perhaps than before, eternal vigilance is the price of freedom, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover warned the nation in describing the Communist threat to the American form of government.

Addressing the house un-American activities committee, Hoover declared that the Reds in this country constitute a small but closely knit group seeking to overthrow our democracy and substitute an iron-clad dictatorship denying the principles of religious worship, political freedom and economic opportunity. He pointed out that only 25,000 Reds worked the Russian revolution in 1917 and there is a larger proportion of Communists at present in the U. S.

Hoover called for relentless prosecution of the Reds found violating the laws of this country. Putting Americans on their guard, he said the Reds were unceasing in their efforts to subvert labor unions; spread Communist doctrines in the schools, and prey upon foreign language groups.

Besides infiltrating established radio channels, they also are trying to set up outlets of their own. Under direction of party leaders, they are prolific letter writers and expert at organizing pressure campaigns for some cause favorable to leftism.

Since 1935, they have been especially active in the movie industry, Hoover said. In addition to trying to take over Hollywood unions, they have sought to get a foothold in the writing and productive ends of the business.

ATOM CONTROL: New Plan

As congressional conservatives continued their fight against appointment of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the national atomic energy commission bills were introduced for the creation of a new board to be headed by Secretary of State Marshall.

Under the plan introduced in the senate by Senator Malone (Rep., Nev.) and five colleagues and in the house by Representative Jenkins (Rep., O.), other members of the new board would include the secretaries of war and navy and two persons named by President Truman.

Conservatives seized upon the critical international situation to attempt to sidetrack Lilienthal, former TVA chairman who has been accused of countenancing the presence of Communists in the power agency. In proposing establishment of the new board to govern all phases of domestic atomic production, Republicans, joined by southern Democrats, declared that the Greek-Turkish crisis indicated the need for close political and military control over nuclear energy for national security.

MOSCOW:

Future Reich

At odds on most phases of post-war politics, the U. S. and Russia came to grips again in Moscow on the future pattern of the German government.

Boiled down, the differences amounted to U. S. proposals for a system of strong state governments working through an adequate central authority and Russian recommendations for a strong central government with the states subordinate.

The U. S. proposals advanced by Secretary of State Marshall are designed to give the German people a closer check on their government through the state level and diminish the possibility of a strong central authority like the Nazi regime assuming full, controlling power. In this respect, the U. S. plans embodied American principles of states rights and state representation in congress through the senate.

Slowness of GOP Congress Draws Sharp Criticism

Three months have passed since the 80th congress convened, and the Republicans still are mired down on both the domestic and foreign fronts.

They admit it and are chafing at criticism directed at them from throughout the country. Most of the critics go on the theory that the voters gave the Republican congressmen a mandate to change things quickly for the better . . . on labor, taxes, governmental expenditures, high cost of living and many other items which were made in hasty campaign promises.

Your Hometown Reporter, watching the legislative wheels spin into deeper and deeper ruts of congressional inaction, is inclined to sympathize with the overwrought congressmen who are, as a matter of fact, working hard, working long hours in an attempt to bring some order out of the chaos, occasioned when any change in leadership is made in congress.

When you start to change the basic law of the land after 14 years, it just doesn't happen. There are many viewpoints. There is a routine legislative route which must be followed and it's a long drawn-out process. It takes time, and time is what the Republicans are asking for.

Your Hometown Reporter also is inclined to think that the criticism which is being poured onto the Republicans is coming, not so much from the rank and file voters as from the GOP friends, those who expected them to serve their special interests, industrialists who wanted to slap labor down in a hurry, big taxpayers who confidently and enthusiastically expected them to force through an across-the-board 20 per cent tax reduction, landlords who thought they had lifted all rent controls, railroad leaders who thought the GOP would free them from anti-trust laws, those who believed the story that you could fire a million government employees and not miss them. And then there are the New Deal haters who wanted to see all vestige of New Dealism thrown out the window, when the GOP leadership here realizes that the New Deal all along was nine-tenths common sense and practical government and only one-tenth idealism or plain nonsense, according to the point of view. So the New Deal laws will not all be thrown out.

No Real Leadership

The trouble with the new GOP majority here, in both the upper and lower houses of congress, is that while they have the leaders, they have had no real leadership. Each of their leaders is busy running for president, and running against the other leaders. Senator Taft of Ohio has set himself up as the leader of the party in congress but it is a leadership always with an eye cocked on 1948. And Senator Taft, usually so logical, so straightforward in his thinking, has permitted his leadership to veer with the political winds, and has lost face with his colleagues.

He has not won a major battle in congress. He started out advocating a $6,000,000,000 budget cut, but finally temporized on the $4,500,000,000 figures; he demanded only a billion dollar payment on the national debt and finally compromised with a majority of the GOP for $2,600,000,000; he opposed confirmation of the Lilienthal nomination, and he lost that fight; he lost on the reciprocal trade agreements when Senator Vandenberg of Michigan cut the ground from under him by his agreement with President Truman, he forecast repeal of the excise taxes, only to be forced to vote for their extension, the first major bill passed by the GOP congress.

Look to Vandenberg

He had himself named chairman of the GOP policy committee (some here in Washington are spelling it police committee) and soon found a small-sized revolt on his hands when the 16 GOP freshmen senators, led by Senator Baldwin of Connecticut, forced him to take them into consideration in formulation of party policies.

As a matter of fact, GOP senators today are looking more toward Senator Vandenberg as the man to tie to rather than Senator Taft. Many GOP congressmen and senators, so-called isolationists, including Senator Taft, are forced, before they are ready, to declare themselves on international questions, particularly whether this country will take over many British commitments, all aimed at halting Russian expansion. But withal, the new GOP congressional control may, after all, come through—if but given sufficient time.

Until the 19th century, fashionable women of America protected their complexions from cold wind and hot sun by wearing masks, winter ones being made of velvet and summer ones of silk or linen, says Collier's.

Unlike other masks, they were held in place either by the hand or, when both hands were needed as in riding, by a silver mouthpiece inserted between the teeth.

Although knowledge of atomic energy was chiefly theoretical until 1933, a stage play on the subject was produced in London in 1929. Says Collier's. In this drama "Wings Over Europe," a man who discovered how to control this energy offers the secret to the British cabinet. As they consider him a crack, he threatens to blow up the earth and is murdered.

Murder in Plain Sight
by GERALD BROWN
W.N.U. FEATURES

Duke McCale, private detective, is investigating the murder of Curt Vallancourt, who was about to marry Veronica Bigelow, heiress to thirty million dollars. She is the principal suspect. McCale uncovers a deep plot to keep control of the great fortune in the family through a deal with Vallancourt. Shari Lynn, Vallancourt's former wife, is shot to death. McCale is shot in the shoulder. Sybil, Veronica's mother, is slugged. Suddenly, the truth strikes McCale. Rushing out of the mansion, he approaches a man in sailor's uniform. He is Stephen Bigelow, Veronica's brother. McCale and his aids overpower him before he can shoot. Just then Donlevy drives up, and brusquely takes over.

CHAPTER XVII

Donlevy took over with a brusqueness that was unfamiliar. He herded them all into the library, where an astonished and shaking butler was fussing around Miss Adelaide. She stood, a figure of stone, drained of all animation. Her face was gray against the mantel, anguished.

"Stephen," she said in a murmur that became a cry.

The young-old face of Stephen looked half ugly, half despairing in the dim light. There was a haunted look behind his eyes. He wet his lips with the tip of his tongue.

Suddenly he slumped into a chair.

"Yes," McCale said. His sophisticated mouth curled in triumph and his tone was brittle. "It was Stephen Bigelow, dressed as a sailor, whom we saw loitering about the entrance to the Common just before the murder. He looked up at the house once, remember? He must have seen us at the bay window of the drawing room, for the next time I noticed him, he was reading a paper, probably to hide his face. When Vallancourt approached the house, he must have come across the street into the shelter of the arway that goes under the front steps—the service entrance. When Curt was passing, he simply stepped up to him and fired pointblank."

McCale looked at Donlevy and his men, who were grouped over the crestfallen culprit. Donlevy looked up at him. It was so simple, really, now that it was explained. He did say, the ghost of derision on his lips, "Peculiar no one mentioned a sailor hanging around."

"I know," McCale answered bitterly. "My fault entirely. I pride myself on having a photographic mind, and I missed that, too. Men in the service are so common about the streets these days that they go almost unnoticed anywhere. That is where he was so clever. Who would connect a sailor with the Bigelows? One thing I should have seen, though, most certainly, I'll aever forgive myself for that."

"What's that?" asked Donlevy.

McCale reached out and took the hat Stephen Bigelow had in his hand. He cocked a finger and spun the thing around like a plate.

"Well, I'll be damned," Donlevy exploded.

"I don't blame you." There was chagrin in McCale's tone. "This hat is perfectly round, which identifies it as the type worn a number of years ago. The style was changed about five years ago. The newer ones tilt up in front like a regimental officer's cap without a visor. If I'd only noticed that one thing, I'd have realized the sailor we saw was a phoney." He sighed. "It might have saved a life." He thought of Shari Lynn.

Donlevy cleared his throat. Then there was a rustle of feathers and satin at the door and Victoria whirled in. Her eyes were bright and her make-up stood out in ghostly relief against the paleness of her face. Her fingers jerked to her hair and a shriek died on her lips. Two officers moved forward automatically. She blurted some wild gibberish that foretold rising hysteria; then suddenly was quiet.

"So you did it," she said slowly.

"My God, I didn't think you had the guts. You fool, you utter fool. She isn't worth it, you know—not worth it."

Stephen Goes Quietly To Prison

By this time Donlevy was rattled. He moved in on Stephen with a circle of his men. He gave the charge so low it was hardly audible. His voice dropped for an interminable minute before he stepped back. As he did, McCale saw Bigelow's jaw move, his head came up slowly. Tired, furtive eyes lit up as he looked away from the group that surrounded him. A single tear ran out of the corner of an eye.

He got to his feet, lowering his head as he slowly turned to take them all in. No one moved toward him. He gave them a contemptuous glare. Finally he turned to Victoria and spoke his last words in their presence.

"You'll tell—Mother?" His voice broke.

She nodded.

"Let's go," said Donlevy.

They took him away.

They had left the Bigelow house in a storm of questions from the first reporters on the scene, in the din of explosions from photographers' flash bulbs, in the confusion of the comings and goings of officials from police headquarters and the district attorney's office. McCale was looking forward to the peace and quiet of his own apartment.

When they reached it, they found Ann Marriot dozing by the dying fire. She jumped up, smoothing rumpled hair into place.

"Well," she said tartly, "are you all right? Running around like that in your dressing gown. My goodness. That's no way to call on the Beacon Street Bigelows. It's all over, isn't it? It came over the radio about an hour ago. You would have to wrestle with murderers, wouldn't you? You sure you feel all right?" She was trying hard to cover up her concern. She had been worrying about him all evening, afraid that he might seriously harm his injured shoulder.

"I'm all right," McCale said, "but I'm still wet and very, very tired."

"Then you get into dry clothes right away. Rocky, you mix him a highball while I make coffee. While you're getting the liquid inside of you, I want to hear about everything. If you think I'm going to tuck you in and go home before I get the whole story, you are sadly mistaken. If you will go out chasing a murderer all night with a hole in your side, you'll just have to take the consequences. I'm going to ask questions if I stay here the rest of the night."

"If you keep this up, spending your nights with me the way you have been doing, you'll have to marry me to save my good name."

"Your good name. Tsk, tsk." She laughed and flounced out the door.

The three of them sat a long time over brandy and hot coffee discussing the case. After a lengthy resumé, they grew silent. McCale finally spoke.

Why Sybil's Life
Was Spared

"The maddening thing about it all was the motive, you see. Everyone who came under suspicion after Veronica was more or less cleared had a motive. But not different motives—they all had the same one."

"What do you mean?" Ann asked.

"Well, they were all in the plot to get Curt married to Veronica and in charge of the Bigelow millions. Then when it was discovered that he didn't intend to give them a share after all, they all had the same incentive—to keep him from getting control of it. When it was clear that they all wanted him out of the way for the same reason, it became more a matter of seeking out the person with the characteristics most suitable to committing murder."

"Bright lad," Rocky grinned. "It's a wonder you fumbled as long as you did."

McCale scowled. "Oh, I know the old one about everyone being a potential murderer. I had to nose a little closer to the ground than just accusing one right after the other. Some of them had to have a stronger motive than just money."

Call it jealousy combined with passion. Karen was the 'femme fatale,' of course. I think she knew from the first that Stephen did it. She didn't give him away, though, not until tonight. She'd even thought of helping him to run away again. That's why she drew the $800. But tonight when I asked her if she knew why Sybil hadn't been killed instead of stunned, she didn't answer. However, as I went out the door, she began to play the Lullaby from Jocelyn. It was her way of telling me about the mother fixation Stephen had. He could not bring himself to kill her, even though he realized she had gone to the attic to see if his sailor suit was still there—and the gun."

"Oh, that's what she was looking for."

"Of course. Funny. All the way along the line, everything pointed to the sailor angle. It wasn't until I found the black silk square in the attic that I realized what I had missed. It was a kerchief, you know, the kind sailors wear knotted about their necks. When I realized what it was, the whole puzzle fell into focus. There was a sailor lounging near the gate across from the house on the afternoon of the murder. Then Miss Bigelow had told me that Stephen had once run away and joined the navy. He even mentioned the fact himself. Then there was the picture missing from Shari Lynn's wall. The only sailor in all those uniforms. Stephen's photograph, of course. The picture was taken years and years ago—not a very good one—but if I had given it more than a cursory glance the night I saw it at Shari Lynn's, I think I would have recognized him."

"Lord. The whole business was out in the open all the time." This from Rocky.

"Uh uh. That's where he was clever. It was almost too out in the open. Stephen told no lies. He admitted being jealous of Karen. Everything he did was logical, you know, except attacking his mother. He shouldn't have done that, because he couldn't follow through on it. He didn't have the heart to kill her. It showed that the killer had a fondness for Sybil that kept him from destroying her. That definitely put the finger on Stephen."

"That's certainly right. He almost got away with bumping me off, too."

"He'd never been caught if he'd killed you," said Ann.

"Oh, I don't know. Donlevy's smart and he would have plugged away until he got the right line, no doubt."

"Maybe." She sounded skeptical. "Good heavens. It's five o'clock. What about you and your good name now?" She grinned at McCale.

Rocky tilted his bulk from his chair, saying, "I'll mosey along, too. Come on, Ann. I'll drop you."

"You get right into bed now, Duke," she ordered. "I hope you're going to be all right. You aren't running a fever are you?"

She put her hand on his forehead and, bending over suddenly, gave him a long kiss.

"I'm fine," answered McCale happily, "but if you want my temperature to go up, you're certainly doing the right thing."

Office Eastport Highway -- Left at Sign

To: Honorable Fielding L. Wright
Governor of Mississippi
Jackson, Mississippi

We, the undersigned, Arthur, Newcomb, and others, resident citizens of Tishomingo and Alcorn counties, Mississippi, do hereby most respectfully petition that you grant an absolute and full pardon to the said Arthur Newcomb from a sentence of (Three Years (3 years) in the State Penitentiary imposed upon by the Circuit Court of Tishomingo County, Mississippi, in its January 1946 Term, upon his plea of guilty to the crime of bigamy and in support thereof
we show:

(1) That the said Arthur New-comb has now served more than one third of said sentence and we believe that he has been sufficiently punished for the wrong committed;

(2) That he has made a good prisoner and has observed, during his confinement in the execution of such sentence, all of the rules of the penitentiary;

(3) That he has a chronic leg injury from which he is now suffering, and we believe that his release from the penitentiary would greatly enhance his chances of recovery without the loss of the leg.

(4) That the granting of a pardon would not be incompatible with the welfare of society, and that the ends of justice will be met by the granting of same;

(5) That the facts and circumstances surrounding the commission of the wrong were such as to justify the granting of executive clemency.

Respectfully submitted, this the 15th day of February, 1947.

What do you think railroads make?

The public thinks
we make 15%

What do you think they should make?

The public thinks 10% would be fair

10%

What are the facts?

Actually the railroads earned only 2 3/4% in 1946.
To provide the service you want,
railroads need to earn at least 6%. But estimates indicate that even with the recent freight rate increase, the return for 1947 will be only about half that requirement.

2 3/4%

Why it takes 6% to make the grade...

Impartial research polls show that, on the average, people think we make 15%. They also think a fair return would be 10%.

What We Make

But for the year 1946, with the biggest peace-time traffic in history, the railroads earned only ... 2 3/4%. This is less than one-half the comparable earnings for other industries.

The reasons for this low return are not hard to find. Since 1939 railroad wages have increased 52 1/10% and the prices of fuel, materials and supplies have gone up 61 1/10%.

But freight rates have just recently been increased an average of only 17 1/10%—a year after the effective date of the last big wage increase.

What About This Year?

It is estimated that the return for 1947, even with the recent freight rate increase, will be only about half the 6% minimum return required to provide the improvements and service needed.
This will be because of increased costs of materials and supplies; because certain wage increases granted in 1946 were in effect for only part of 1946 but will be in effect for all of 1947; because of increased special payroll taxes on railroads; and because of a decline in passenger business.

What Does This Mean To You?

The answer is "Plenty!" Your standard of living is the highest in the world because of MASS PRODUCTION. But mass production would not be possible without MASS TRANSPORTATION, which the railroads provide at low cost.

Why 6% Is Needed

The kind of service your standard of living requires takes a lot of money for new equipment and improvements. To carry out the post-war improvement program for better equipment, tracks, terminals and modern safety devices, a minimum return of 6% is needed.

So when the railroads make only 2 3/4 cents on each $1.00 of their net property investment, it concerns you.*

The funds for future new equipment and improvements must come from railroad earnings and also from investors.
They will furnish money on reasonable terms only if they have confidence in the future earnings of the railroads.

You Have Another Stake In This

Even if you do not own any railroad stocks or bonds, insurance companies and savings banks do. So you still have a special interest in seeing that the railroads are allowed enough to do a good job ... for you.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

*On total property investment, the railroads made only 2.19%.
