THOUSAND and forty-five acres of Tishomingo County land has been rented to the soil bank program. . . . That is:
acres of cotton land in Tish-omingo county will not be in cultivation this year, therefore, no harrowing can be taken from those acres. In normal years of production, average land in this county would produce approximately 1,000 bales of cotton. On the current market, cotton would bring in the neighborhood of $150,000.00. . . . Further, that $150,000.00 will be taken out of the county trade area this year. Much money taken from the county is going to, in all probability, be a big slice in the spending for the necessities of life.
Not only will it be noticeable
this fall but also with the spring dealers, the hands for planting and picking the cotton in the summer months, and the need for poison to fight the weevil will likewise lose share. . . . $90,780.00 has been paid to farmers in the past year as far as business being a result of farmers collecting rent, none of the merchandise can tell a great deal of difference in January and February of this year when compared to the same months last year. . . .
It goes to show that during the years of use of the soil bank program by local farmers an important period will be harmful to many cotton dollars will be taken out of circulation during the year when they are most needed and when people have been accustomed to having them.
Something needs to be done to relieve the economy against the loss of these cotton produced dollars.

YOUNG SAYS additional investments in the area is the answer to an ailing economy. . . .
Iuka and Tishomingo counties that have very little effort put forth to that end. . . .
Neighbors all around us landing mighty fine industries last year but this county didn't even show on the surface in 1956.

HERE are a few of the industries that came last year
to neighboring towns and counties:

At the recent vote on and passed a $20,000 bond issue for a General Manufacturing plant.
The Switchboard & Supply
division of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., has a 20,000 sq. ft. building in Iuka, to be used as a pilot operations in telephone assembly operations. They will employ approximately 100 persons in this facility.
Construction bids for the 140,- 000 sq. ft. plant for Mission Appliance, Utility Appliance Corp., Albany, were opened February 10. Bonds were sold the day in an amount sufficient to cover costs.

Construction has begun on Blue
new 125,000 sq. ft. building pelo. Completion is scheduled for autumn, according to Bill Blue Bell Manager at Tupelo. Blue Bell has negotiated a contract for the construction of a new plant at Ripley, which would employ about 300 people. The plans for the issuance of $130,000 of bonds.

The new Stratford Futurian
at Tupelo expects to have 125 people employed within the future, according to David Tonds.
The Human Couch Co. of Mississippi has announced expansion plans which will nearly triple the present working force of 100 employees. As previously announced, the furniture frame plant is increase in these expansion plans.

company now employs 93 persons.

turing concern, has begun the manufacture of a new type of truck

Re-Organization Of Schools In County Passed On By State Finance Commission

Re-organization of the school systems in Tishomingo county were completed Saturday when the State Educational Finance Commission in Jackson passed favorably on the orders recently issued by the county board of education and the trustees of the Iuka Separate school district.

The orders, as passed on by the state agency and as issued by the 2 school boards, establishes 2 administrative units in the county—
the County Unit System, which will include districts 2, 3, 4, and 5, and the Iuka Special Municipal Separate School District, which will include all of District 1. This means that all white children residing in the First District will go to school in Iuka and that all white children living in the other four districts will attend school at places that will be designated by the County School Board. The commission's action completes reorganization of the Tishomingo County schools.

The orders, as passed on Saturday, also do away with all the school districts in the county with the exception of Iuka. Residents of communities serving in the smaller school districts as trustees are no longer entitled to act as an official of the district. All future business concerning schools in the last four Supervisor's districts will be transacted by the County Board of Education.

Present trustees of the Iuka
Special Municipal Separate School District will continue, temporarily, until a new organization can be formed.
Attendance centers in the county will probably be at Burnsville, Tishomingo, Belmont and possibly Holcut. Superintendent of Education Cleston M. Scruggs says that schools will have to continue in the buildings now being used until a construction program can be completed. "The balance of this school term and possibly all of the next will have to be held in buildings now in use," he said.
Disposition of a colored school for the county was definitely decided at Saturday's hearing in Jackson. As was proposed in the survey made last year by Dr. J.
D. Falls of State College, land will be purchased and a building erected on highway 25 just north of Tishomingo for a colored school.
The building will be modern in every respect and will include a cafeteria and a gymnasium. It will house all grades and all colored children of the county, including those living in Iuka, will be transported to this location.

H. L. Shook and Cleston M.
Scruggs, superintendents of the two new administrative units, are now in the process of compiling

Boys Injured In Serious Wreck At Oldham

Highway 72 east, near Oldham,
was the scene of a serious wreck occurring Tuesday night about seven o'clock. Involved were Thomas Leroy Reynolds, and Eugene Mc-Auley of Iuka and John W. Vest,
West Point, Miss.

Reynolds, 17, was traveling east in a 1955 DeSoto owned by his mother, Mrs. Jewel Reynolds. He was accompanied by Eugene Mc-Auley, age 18. Vest, age 36, was traveling west in a 1952 Ford truck owned by Bryan Bros. Packing Company of West Point.

The terrific impact completely demolished the Reynolds car, the motor being thrown 28 steps southeast of the vehicle. Approximately $500.00 in damages was done to the '52 Truck.

All three men were carried to Cosby Clinic where diagnosis revealed Vest as having a broken ankle and bruises; Reynolds received a slight concussion with bruises
and lacerations; and McAuley received a severe compound fracture of the right arm, broken jaw, bruises and lacerations about the face and head. He was later transferred to Campbell's Clinic in Memphis.

Investigating the wreck are Patrolmen Audie Marlair, Jack Anderson and Ira Pace, Jr. Cause of the wreck has not, as yet, been determined.

ium. All patrons, parents or anyone

Mixed Tag Team Wrestling To Be Seen In Iuka Saturday Night At Gymnasium

The second big-time professional wrestling match in the history of Iuka will be held this Saturday night, Feb. 16, in the Iuka High School Gym, starting at 8:15 O'clock. The matches are being sponsored jointly by the Iuka Lions Club and the local American Legion Post No. 15, and through the cooperation of the high school.

Three contests have been lined up by the promoters, with a mixed girl and man tag team match
as main event. Miss Sylvia Torres will team with Garza Lazano to go versus Miss Mae Goodner and Jack Dunnivant in the big tag affair,
while Miss Goodner will face Miss Torres in one preliminary, and Dunnivant will go versus Lazano in the other. The tag bout will be one hour time limit, best two of three falls, while the preliminary matches will be one fall, 30 minute limit.

The first wrestling match was held in Iuka last December and a large crowd of fans from all over Northeast Mississippi and west
Alabama gathered and saw a night of fast-moving, exciting action. The bouts lined up this time are expected to be even more interesting, since the mixed tag contest is being matched here. In a bout such as this, one man teams with one lady wrestler to go against another man and another girl. Any participant can tag in or out of the ring at any time, which makes for much action.

Miss Goodner is an attractive blonde who makes her home in Nashville, Tenn. She weighs 148 pounds and is fast becoming one of matdom's top lady grapplers.
Her partner, Dunnivant, is from Phenix City, Ala., and weighs 215.
Both these wrestlers are very popular with ringsiders. Lazano is a 250 pound Mexican who calls Mexico City his home. The rugged ringster has long been noted for his feats in his native country.
and is now making a name for himself here in the States. Miss Torres comes from Havana, Cuba, is a redhead, and weighs 142 pounds. She is a fast and capable grappler, but gets planty rough at times.

All the wrestlers on this card
will be making their first showing in Iuka, but all of them are probably familiar to area enthusiasts of the sport, since they have all been seen on TV matches from larger cities.

Ringside chair seats, which were not available at the matches last time, will be placed at ringside to afford the crowd to better see the action in the ring at closeup.

Profits from the wrestling bouts will be used by the Lion and the Legion for civic projects for the betterment of Iuka, such as school improvement, athletic programs,
and park facilities.

four hundred and eleven farmers in this county sign contracts for the soil bank program. Money paid to farmers on these contracts totaled $90,780.00, and 2,042 acres

spent.

"We have a balance," Mr. Allen continued, "of $24,734.00 left for farmers of the county to use who care to go into the soil bank pro-

putting your cotton land in the Soil Bank, come to the County established will be $8.25 for the first 10 acres of cotton allotment plus 55c per acre between 11 and 25 acres. Each farmer that requests this assistance will pay for this himself.

Cecil H. Brown Gives Advantages Of Housepower For Family Living

By Cecil H. Brown

Beauty, convenience, and comfort are what you're striving for in making a home for your family. In hundreds of ways, electric appliances can help you in this by making housework easier and home life more pleasant.

But, to do this, your electric appliances must have enough housepower (wiring) to perform their work fully and efficiently. As a matter of fact, housepower is as important as electric appliances themselves in making your home modern and attractive.

Most homes (80 percent is the estimate) don't even have enough wiring for their present use of electric appliances. Many homes that once had enough wiring have now lost their convenience and flexibility as they have added electric appliances without adding housepower for them. And the wiring is out-of-date in some brand new homes before the owners can move in.

These facts make it a good idea for you to take a good hard look at your own home wiring. Perhaps you have appliances that work slowly—and have roundly blamed them for it when the answer is lack of housepower. Or maybe your fuses blow too often—and unnecessary aggravation when enough housepower would correct the situation.

Lights may dim when you turn on an appliance. Or even more important, you may have to use your electric helpers in "relays," using them one at a time when you'd like to be using them at the same time. Again, enough housepower is the answer.

If you can spot any of these indications of poor wiring in your home, it's time to start a plan to bring your wiring up-to-date.

The best way to do this planning is to sit down and put down on paper everything electrical that you're using now or will use in the future. For example, if you know that you're going to add an electric dryer next year—or the year after, or the year after that—put it on the list.

When you've completed this list, it's time to get in touch with a good electrical contractor. Using your list, he can give you an estimate of the housepower you need for electrical helpers you have—and the things you want for the future.

You may then want to add wiring step-by-step until it is completely up-to-date. Or a far more sensible plan is to take the plunge and bring it up-to-date all at once.

By doing so, you'll be adding beauty, comfort, and convenience to your home—and more enjoyment to family living.

DAUGHERTY CHILDREN CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS WITH JOINT PARTY

Edna Earl and Dennie Dee Daugherty celebrated their birthdays recently with a joint party held at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Daugherty on Eastport road. Edna Earl was celebrating her ninth birthday while Dennie Dee was celebrating her sixth.

The girls greeted their guests wearing identical party dresses of smoke grey and white checked taffeta.

A number of games and contests were enjoyed during the afternoon with Bennie Holtsford and Rodney Grisham winning prizes.

The dining table held two large birthday cakes frosted in white, one decorated in blue and the other in yellow. While the group sang "Happy Birthday," the girls blew out the candles on their individual cakes. The cakes were cut and served with ice cream, cakes, and bubble gum. A tiny flag was placed on the boys plates while umbrellas identified the girls.

The girls received a large assortment of lovely and useful gifts. Joining in the fun were Bobby Enlow, Johnny Hudson, Lanny Lambert, Harold and Gary Lomenick, Mike Norton, David Sanders, Eb and Greg Thomas, Charlotte and Allen Bullard, Sandra Curtis, Nita Goodson, Sue Holly, Allison Knott, Joanne Moffitt, Ann and Dickie Rhodes, Patsy and Naomi Crawford, Pam Tice, Randy and Gary Tucker, Nicky Phillips, Ingrid Singleton, Donna, Marcia and Nellie Ruth Murrah, Teresa Clark, Johnny Sue and Faye Hill, Ann and Benny Holtsford, Sandra and Linda Carr, Kathy Daugherty, Charlotte Biggs, Rodney and Bruce Grisham, Debbie and Ronnie Hamm, James Dennis Daugherty, Judy and Janet Gann, and Julia Ann McCulloch of Tuscumbia, Sarah Lee Pruitt, Cliff Daniel, Dennis McCoy, Pat Ludlam and Donna Young brought gifts but couldn't remain for the party.

Baptist Church Annex Scene Of Misc. Shower Honoring Recent Bride

The Intermediate Sunday School Department of the Iuka Baptist Church honored Mrs. Harold Taylor, recent bride, with a miscellaneous shower given Thursday afternoon in the Church Annex.

Attractive potted plants were used to decorate the recreation room where guests were received by the honoree. For the occasion Mrs. Taylor chose a smart two piece, black and gold, wool dress.

Tasty refreshments were served from a table overlaid with a beige linen cloth featuring a center panel of hand made lace and applied lace inserts. A large crystal punch bowl centered the table and was surrounded with pink carnations and fern. Flanking this arrangement were white tapers in silver candelabras. Assisting in serving were Sue King, Judy Marlin, Martha Tucker, Janette Clark and Margaret Stormont, members of Mrs. Taylor's Sunday School class. They wore formals in pastel shades.

Mrs. Taylor was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts. Those present from out of town included Mrs. Kenneth Mayhall of Belmont and Mrs. James Timbes of Tishomingo, aunts of Mr. Taylor, and also his grandmother, Mrs. A. D. Taylor of Golden.

State's Brightest Opportunity May Lie In Rainfall

Mississippi's rainfall—seasonable, wild and complex as it is—may have the farthest reaching potential of all the state's natural resources. With a supply of surface and ground water exceeded only by the state of Wisconsin, Mississippi is in a very advantageous position for future agricultural and industrial development.

This is the belief of the irrigation and drainage subcommittee of the Mississippi Farm Income Planning committee which recently published its findings.

Water consumption for all purposes is rising rapidly. The United States as a whole has increased in the consumption of water from only 4 billion gallons per day in 1900 to 261 billion gallons a day in 1955. By 1957 it has been estimated that we will be using 453 billion gallons a day.

With this fact in mind the subcommittee feels that Mississippi's annual rainfall of nearly 60 inches should be conserved and harnessed to greatly increase farm income. The report points out that 45 inches of this rainfall never penetrates the soil, but builds up into floods.

A primary concern of the committee is agriculture's share of the water which is beginning to be more in demand by industrial growth. The 1956 legislature, realizing this need, passed a bill creating the Mississippi Water Commission to study and regulate the use of water within the state.

Today Mississippi farmers irrigate 210,000 acres of rice, pasture, truck and general crops. By 1962 the committee sees possibly 400,000 acres being irrigated.

Improved drainage could reclaim 350,000 acres by 1962, the committee estimates. With proper drainage 25 per cent of our land could produce even more than all the uncultured land possibly could produce. The study group points out that decisions are needed on which lands to leave in timber and which to clear and drain.

TRESSIE PATE CELEBRATES EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

Tressie Pate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Pate, celebrated her eighth birthday with a party held at the home of her parents, located on Mill St.

During the afternoon various games and contests were enjoyed with prizes being awarded Marcia Murrah, pinning the donkey's tail on; Jimmy Johnson, having the balloon with the lucky number; and Tressie Pate for dropping pins in the bottle.

The birthday cake was frosted in white and decorated with pink roses, also the inscription, "Happy Birthday Tressie." The cake was cut and served with ice cream and cokes.

Among those attending the party were Dianne Brynda Phillips, McCoy, Donna, and Ronnie

Canned Meats As Party Appetizers

Appetizers and dips for holiday parties can be achieved with canned meats. Deviled and potted meat spreads (packed in 6-ounce cans) include: bacon, corned beef hash, deviled ham, pork, tongue. These are ready to use right from the can or may be moistened for easier spreading with sour cream or mayonnaise.

Open-end sausages, open-end sausages favorites all year long, are served at the buffet table when served with a mustard dip. Thinly sliced meat, spread with cream cheese, can be cut in bite-sized sandwiches.

Small meat balls or cocktail wieners are other appetizer suggestions. Canned ham and corned beef are popular choices. For sandwiches there is a popular canned ham, boned and ready-cooked.

PARTY MEAT DIPS

Ham and tongue dips by combining ingredients listed below, paste directly from cans. Arrange dips in divided trays. Sausage and garnish with thin slices of stuffed olive, olives, Santa or other Christmas cut-outs. Serve with chips and crisp crackers.

Ham Dip:
1 small can ham spread
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons pickle relish

Tongue Dip:
2 small cans tongue spread
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons horseradish

VIENNA SAUSAGE WITH MUSTARD SAUCE
4 teaspoons unsulphured molasses
4 cans Vienna sausage, heated mustard, Tabasco and molasses and heat. Serve on sandwiches or frankfurters.

LUNCHEON MEAT RIBBON SANDWICHES
(12 ounces) luncheon meat
1 tablespoon drained horseradish
Sweet pickles

Luncheon meat in 12 thin crosswise slices. Combine cream and horseradish; spread between meat slices using three slices each stack. Chill. To serve, cut each stack crosswise into slices; cut each slice into thirds. Insert toothpicks and top with pickles.

W. Babson Discusses Retail Stores; Independent Retailers, Distribution & Selling Goods Abroad

Roger W. Babson, of Iuka, Miss., Feb. 14. I discussed about the fate of independent retailers in today's competitive markets. He is a successful businessman who spend large sums of money on new equipment, new advertising and new methods of selling.

He must pay more proportionately for goods they stock because they cannot buy in such large quantities as the chains. Also, independent retailers are faced with increasing demands for higher employee wages and greater fringe benefits after these concessions are obtained initially by employees of big stores. Too many independent retailers have already succumbed to these pressures.

These chains have helped mightily, however, in bringing down the total cost of distribution. Their savings in buying, in window dressing and display, they share with their customers. They have made and are making a great contribution to the betterment of the American way of life.

What Independent Retailers Can Now Do

The independent merchant who prefers waiting on customers to waiting for his turn at golf has little to worry about. There always will be a demand for this personal attention on the part of certain customers. They are willing to pay for this personal attention as well as for credit and delivery. Of course, the independent merchant must be willing to advertise and secure a good location with plenty of show windows, always kept attractive. To believe, however, that he is destined to be pushed out of business by department stores or chain stores or mail order houses is a mistaken idea.

Retailers can further be helped by the plans of the United Information Service, with headquarters at 6 Maiden Lane, New York City. This service enables consumers to learn quickly (any time between 6:00 A.M. and midnight) where they can get any desired merchandise. This shortens the time between the consumer's reading of an advertisement and his getting into a retail store. Cutting this time in half has the effect of doubling retail sales. Furthermore, it enables a group of merchants to save the expense of keeping open evenings by co-operating to concentrate evening inquiries through one channel.

Importance Of Distribution

The rapid rise of our country to a position of world power and the simultaneous expansion of our industrial economy give ample evidence that we can produce above and beyond our needs. The war needs of ourselves and our allies provided a challenge in production. Wealth in abundance, in the form of goods and services, we have learned to produce.

However, we have been practically standing still in distribution, except for the development of the chain "5 and 10" variety stores, the chain supermarkets, and the chain drug stores. There, however, is much more to be done.

Selling Our Goods Abroad

In addition to making plans for easier and cheaper movement of our production into our own domestic consumer channels, I forecast that we will also take steps to sell more American-made products abroad. These products are urgently needed in many parts of the world where disease is rampant because of food and other deficiencies. However, no plan has yet succeeded which would make surpluses in some nations available to needy people in other nations, without upsetting the economic balance between individual countries or groups of countries.

We must help solve the problem of the growing imbalance between the "have" and the "have-not" nations. Communism has made great strides in Europe, Asia, and Africa largely because Soviet leaders have been so successful in pointing to the "selfish and wasteful" living standards in the U. S. American movies shown abroad are largely responsible for this. Positive steps toward solving the problem of international distribution would thereby remove the greatest grievance upon which Communism feeds.

TEN DAYS GIVEN QUAIL AND RABBITS HUNTERS

Quail and rabbit hunters will have ten additional days of hunting this season according to Rex McRaney, Executive Director for the State Game and Fish Commission. The Commission, meeting in special session Tuesday, extended the open seasons on quail and rabbits through February 20, 1957.

As quail and rabbit seasons neared the closing date originally set for February 10th, State hunters, wardens and game biologists reported birds still in plentiful supply. Bad weather during the last two weeks kept most hunters out of the field, saving many birds and rabbits—more than the normal carryover necessary for breeding stock.

It is time now to begin thinking about your cotton crop for this year.

Fertilizer should be placed four to six inches below the seed drill. This deep placement is to keep from burning off the tap roots of young cotton seedlings. Then in summer when dry weather shows up the plant roots are in deep moist soil and the plant continues to make cotton.

Research data shows that 72 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of P2O5, and 48 pounds of K2O are needed to produce one bale of cotton per acre. This is equal to 600 pounds of a good mixed fertilizer, with a side dressing of nitrogen to fill out the needs.

Check the germination of your planting seed now. Do not order new varieties of cotton seed from out of the state. Recommended varieties for Tishomingo County are: DPL-15, Stoneville 2-B, Coker 100-W, Empire, Delfos 9169, and DPL-Fox.

Home Gardening

Make home gardens pay off big this year. Have it a year-round producer.

Now is the time to begin. Some planting to be done this month includes most of the hardy and half-hardy vegetables. Some of these are carrots, beets, turnips, onions, English peas, Irish potatoes, cabbage, lettuce, radish, mustard, spinach, broccoli, parsley, tendergreens and asparagus.

Some special jobs that need doing this month are planting a hotbed for later plants (it takes 7 to 9 weeks to grow these plants); making row and getting them ready for March and April planting; building compost pens; replanting any January planted vegetables that you may have lost.

Make a double row planting of low growing vegetables, arrange for some type of irrigation—it may save your garden next summer. Use a starter solution around cabbage and related plants when setting. Get your copy of "Control Garden Bugs," from your county agent.

Soybeans

It takes good land to grow good soybeans. Much of the land taken out of cotton due to acreage restrictions will grow good beans.

For best results in addition to good land, soybeans should be planted at the right time; the proper variety should be used; beans should be cultivated to keep grass and weeds out and they should be harvested at the right time.

Some recommended varieties include Lee, Ogden, Clark, Perry and Dorman.

Farm Machinery Care

Is your tractor going to be ready for use when you need it this spring? Maybe you had better take a little time now and make sure that it is.

Check it over to see if the tank has been drained. See if you got the old dirty oil out of the crankcase and refilled with fresh oil when you stored it in the fall. Check all wiring and make sure that you replace all frayed wires.

The operators manual, which you got when you bought the tractor gives you information on all maintenance jobs.

If you are going to need any new parts, better get them now so you'll have the tractor ready to go when it is needed.

763 Mississippians Died From Diseases Of The Heart In 1955

Deaths from heart disease have reached a new and tragic high in Mississippi. As revealed in the newly published report, in 1955 diseases of heart and blood vessels reaped a toll of 7,663 Mississippians from all causes, according to official vital statistics. The sobering fact, pointed up by the MHA report to its members, is that the public, necessarily diminished pride Mississippians take in their contributions to nationwide fight against the heart disease.

Despite the untold economic and immeasurable human suffering stemming from heart deaths in this state, the heart disease report is one of progress and accomplishment summed up by its title, "Dollars to Deeds." Taking the form of a five year statement, the report shows heart association eightfold from its first $8,775 Heart Fund in 1952 to 1956 when $68,059 in heart dollars were collected by thousands of heart volunteers all over the state.

Heart deeds paid for by these dollars include research totaling $8,000 made to the University Medical Center for cardiology studies plus $5,271 in a national heart association grant, also awarded at the Medical Center for the current year, the report states, $14,600 in research grants has been awarded within the state, supplemented by nearly $11,000 in American Heart Association grants, returning to Mississippi more than it contributed to the national research program.

Ninety-five state physicians studied latest heart diagnosis and treatment techniques under five nationally eminent cardiologists at a heart association three-day seminar held in Jackson last June. Mississippians in seven cities heard physician-volunteers present free Heart Forums during the year, the report reveals.

Additionally, literature, exhibits and films were supplied both to physicians and nurses and to the general public as part of the heart association education program.

First steps were taken in developing a cardiac clinic, according to heart association officers, and county heart committees continued to help the cardiac victim in the local community.

Explaining exactly what happened to each dollar Mississippians invested in the Heart Fund, the MHA report states that twenty-nine cents were spent for research into the causes and cures of the state's No. 1 killer, while forty-one and one-half cents went for professional education to bring newest medical knowledge to physicians and public education to fight fears with facts.

Dr. D. J. VanLandingham of Jackson is currently president of the five-year-old Mississippi Heart Association. President-elect is Charles Sayre of Scott, first non-physician to be named to that office.

The 1957 February Heart Fund

will be headed by two members of the heart association board of directors, Former Governor Hugh White and J. O. Emmerich, editor of the McComb Enterprise Journal.

Membership Contest Launched By Miss. Forestry

The Mississippi Forestry Association, a non-profit organization, is launching a state-wide membership contest from February 1 to March 2, according to an announcement by Newton F. Hanson of Bruce, district contest chairman.

He stated that the association was organized in 1938 and functions as a statewide membership organization. It is dedicated to the advancement of the intelligent management and use of the forests and related resources of soil, water, and wildlife.

Educational in character, it carries on a number of forestry programs including Keep Mississippi Green, Boys Conservation Schools and Forestry Camp for farm youths, contests and exhibits.

The Mississippi tree farm system, a major association activity, has gained national recognition in recent years with Mississippi now leading the nation with 1076 of these privately owned areas dedicated to growing continuous crops of trees.

Membership includes individuals and industries interested in the future of Mississippi's forest which now add about $350 million to the economy annually and employ some 150,000 persons.

Lamar Cantelou of Iuka, county contest chairman, may be contacted for full details on the association's activities.

87,000 Members Are Being Organized Into Area-Wide Cotton Price Committee

Memphis—Mid South Cotton Growers Association's 87,000 members are being organized into an area-wide Cotton Price Committee, according to Hobson Vandiver, Manager of the organization, "to fight the unrealistic policies which threaten to throw the economy of the entire Cotton Belt into reverse gear."

Announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson that cotton prices would be supported at 77 per cent of parity, a reduction of five and one-half percentage points, brought immediate reaction from the cotton growers group, as it did from Southern congressmen and senators.

"This is a shocking development," said Mr. Vandiver, "since it places commodity considerations above the welfare of thousands of farmers who, through no fault of their own, have been tied to one crop and who for 20 years have been making difficult adjustments."

Mr. Vandiver said the directors' Executive Committee of the Mid-South Cotton Growers Association with general offices at 44 South Street, Memphis, had authorized him to bring "all possible pressure" to bear to help get the loan level for cotton up to 90 per cent of parity for 1957 and to help devise a long range cotton program designed to "protect growers, sellers, processors and marketers as well as consumers, while at the same time preserving our export market."

The Executive Committee also went on record as favoring:

(1) Retention of the present loan base of Middling 7/8 inch staple.

(2) Allowances for full values of split grades, commonly called "brights," also giving full value to light spotted or light gray cottons.

(3) A realistic study of the Soil Bank and its effects on agriculture, Southern farm and small town economy and the general welfare of the Nation's farmers and consumers.

(4) An examination of bale packing and sampling practices.

"We are deeply concerned," said Mr. Vandiver, "over the economy of the small Southern towns and cities resulting from present agricultural policies. You simply can't dry up the Main Streets of the rural South without hurting the entire country."

"It must be recognized," he continued, "that farmers aren't like automobile makers and steel manufacturers—they can't cut their production overnight to take up price slacks. Anyone who has done any thinking knows that farm price supports are here to stay—that's a part of the world's increasingly complex economy—but the fact that they must bear some relation to the facts of life apparently hasn't sunk in too well."

Mr. Vandiver said the Cotton Price Committee would have a nucleus in $2 annual memberships from the organization's producers "and we are giving consideration to expanding committee membership to the entire cotton growing area of the Nation."

MEC Says 1958 Federal Budget For County $1,378,560

Tishomingo County's share of the proposed $71.8 billion federal budget for 1958 is $1,378,560, according to an estimate by the Mississippi Economic Council.

The Council said it arrived at the above figure in the following manner:

Mississippi, according to an economic index developed by the National Council of State Chambers of Commerce, pays .48 percent of the federal tax bill. This means state taxpayers would be called upon to pay $344,640,000 of the 1958 federal budget if it is adopted by congress.

This county, according to an economic index used in the distribution of state aid funds, pays .4 percent of total state taxes. That percentage applied to the $344,640,000 figure gives the county's share of the proposed federal budget.

"Again, the state's and counties' share of the proposed budget is estimated in an attempt to show the taxpayer what federal spending means to his pocketbook," the Council release said.

"This proposed budget, and budgets adopted in the past, explains why our federal taxes are so high today. The government has no money except what it receives from the taxpayers or through borrowing.

"To give you another idea of the impact of the proposed federal budget, if passed, on our economy, the Mississippi legislature appropriated at its last session approximately $200,000,000 for two years. Compare this to the proposed $344,640,000 from Mississippi for federal operations for one year, and you see who gets the major share of our tax dollars.

"Citizens need to take more interest in government spending, and realize that we never get 'something for nothing' from the government at any level."

Why I Am Interested In My Profession

By Mrs. Guy Dicus, Home Economics teacher at Burnsville high school

I am interested in the field of Home Economics from the standpoint of teaching Homemaking to high school students for three basic reasons:

FIRST, I accept teaching as a challenge. There is no limit as to the accomplishments that may be attained through effective teaching, not only from the individual, but in all phases of life of which the individual is related; such as, the school, home, church and community.

SECOND, I am convinced that the training that girls receive in Homemaking today, is of vital importance to them in their future lives, regardless of their chosen profession. Since that present day scope of homemaking lies not only with cooking and sewing, as previous years, but today are concerned with each individual personality and its relationship to society. Therefore, I strive to provide opportunities whereby this personality may grow in such a manner that her attitudes and outlook toward life are developed not only mentally, but physically, socially and spiritually.

THIRD, there comes with teaching a compensation which no other profession has to offer. To be sure, this is not the "end of the month" (pay day) but probably at the end of the year, when a mother says, "You have been an inspiration to my daughter, and I want to thank you." That's why I'm interested in my field of teaching Homemaking.

Thyroid — Universal Need

In a recent study of six hundred executives, two Chicago medical researchers made a significant discovery. They were looking for diseases that had not been detected previously among these persons. Instead of high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, or peptic ulcer — as might be expected with busy executives — the most frequently discovered new disease was one called "low thyroid state."

The condition was found in one out of eight men and in one out of every four women examined. These figures on executives confirm what other researchers have recently found — that low thyroid activity is far more common among people in all walks of life than had been believed.

Low thyroid activity can go undetected for years. It is difficult to recognize because it may cause as many as twenty-five different symptoms, ranging from chronic headache and fatigue to goiter and eye ulcers. This should not be surprising since the secretion of the thyroid gland, a butterfly-shaped organ in the neck, influences every function and cell of the body. When the gland does not secrete enough hormone, any number of things can go wrong.

Although the thyroid hormone was the first ever recognized as necessary to a healthy life, and thyroid extract has been used as medicine since 1895, it has been only recently that its many possible applications have been widely recognized.

Scientists have discovered many things about the hormone in the last few years; for example, that once it has been secreted by the gland, it changes form. At least nine different chemical compounds found in the body have been identified as fractions of the hormone.

When the gland is underactive, the body is not getting these needed chemicals and one or more of a variety of conditions may result — even tooth decay apparently is hastened by a lack of thyroid secretion.

Although the hormone may change after it leaves the gland, medical researchers have established that purified thyroglobulin, the natural form in which the hormone is stored in the gland, will relieve almost all conditions caused by low thyroid activity. Through some mysterious chemical process, the body takes this substance and uses it to produce chemicals that our cells need to function properly.

At one time, the only thyroid medication available was a crude extract of animal gland that contained unnecessary and sometimes harmful material. The potency of such extracts also varied greatly and a doctor could not be sure whether the patient was getting too much or too little.

Today, scientists have developed a way to eliminate the unnecessary material while preserving the essential substance. They have also found means of making sure that the strength of each tablet of the purified extract is exactly the same, thus providing for correct dosages in all cases.

Bell Telephone Company $315,000 for physical damage inflicted on the Company's facilities during the 1955 strike.

Payment by the Union was the outgrowth of a damage suit filed in 1955 by the Company. An agreement to this effect was reached by Company and CWA attorneys, Southern Bell Manager, W. C. Hardin, announced here.

In the suit filed May 31, 1955, in the Davidson County, Tenn., (Nashville) Circuit Court, Southern Bell charged the Union with "a pattern of violence" designed to destroy telephone facilities and interfere with communications service to the public in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee.

The suit, seeking $5,000,000 for punitive as well as actual damages, alleged that the Union, its members and others joined an "unlawful combination and conspiracy" to damage property. The suit said the Union "embarked on a program of wanton, willful and malicious misconduct and property damage", including the use of dynamite, fire arms and cable cuttings.

In a separate action growing out of strike violence, the CWA recently agreed to accept without further hearings an order by the National Labor Relations Board against the International Union and 27 of its locals for unfair labor practices during the 1955 strike. Subsequently the NLRB issued such an order on January 28, 1957.

The matter was consummated this morning when an order dismissing the case was entered in Davidson County Circuit Court following agreement between the parties.

Rules To Help Prevent Flood Epidemic Outlined

To combat the danger of epidemic from flood-bred disease germs, the following rules have been outlined for persons in flood disaster areas by Dr. Robert Prindle, noted bacteriologist of the Lehn & Fink Products Corporation research laboratory in Bloomfield, N. J.:

1. Avoid crowded places, unnecessary handshaking and kissing.
2. Keep as far as possible from persons who are sneezing or coughing.
3. Boil any contaminated drinking water.
4. Wash foods with several rinsings of boiled water.
5. Wash all dishes, drinking, and cooking utensils in a solution of a germicidal disinfectant such as Lysol; rinse with boiled water.
6. Wash hands often with soap and water; always before touching food. Avoid using common towels.

7. Use a germicidal disinfectant such as Lysol in all housecleaning.

8. Empty the garbage pail often, rinse thoroughly with a disinfectant solution. If someone is sick at home, Dr. Prindle advises the following steps to fight the spread of disease-bearing germs:

1. If you have been handling any objects used by a sick person, be sure to rinse your hands with a disinfectant solution every time after leaving sickroom.
2. Use a germicidal disinfectant in all cleaning of the sickroom.
3. Disinfect objects handled by a sick person. Soak his bedding, underwear, handkerchiefs in a germicidal disinfectant solution before laundering.

Posters listing these rules have been distributed to the disaster area, and are being posted in prominent public places.

Truth Is Alive

Lesson for February 17, 1957

HOW do you explain advanced mathematics to children who don't know what 2x2 means? Jesus had an equally hard time trying to explain what he meant by the Kingdom of God. (By the way, comparison of passages will show that Kingdom of "God" and of "heaven" mean just the same thing.)

Harder than explained a totally new idea is transforming an old one, and Jesus had this more difficult task; for many of his contemporaries, both friends and enemies, thought they knew what "Kingdom of God" meant, already, and they did not want to be told.

A Definition

We can venture a definition of the Kingdom of God to which most persons will agree: The state of things in which God's will is wholly done by all men in all things. Many persons will agree to that definition; but it leaves several questions unanswered. One of these questions is dealt with in the parables chosen for this week's study. It is this: How does the Kingdom grow, or spread, or come? This is an especially important question if we understand that it is a part of God's plan to use his servants—meaning and including ourselves too—to help bring the Kingdom to pass, to bring it out of the world of hope into the world of fact and experience. Most churches sing the hymn: "Rise up, O men of God!" They do not sing the parody on it which begins, "Sit down, O men of God, you cannot do a thing!"

Not by Force

But suppose we do rise up to work for the Kingdom, what shall we do?

Good men have long asked themselves that question . . . and sometimes given wrong answers. Some have thought that the reign of God could be forced on men. So we have had the Crusades, the Inquisition, the New England "theocracies", Calvin in Geneva and Cromwell in England—all working on the same theory: You can force people to do God's will. This earth can become like heaven if your police force is good enough.

Not by Machines

But that never has worked. It can't work, because the Kingdom of God is not that sort of thing. So, other good but mistaken men have supposed that the way the Kingdom spreads abroad is by a copying system of some kind, let us say by a vast mimeographing machine. Some particular person, or period, or institution, is taken as the absolute pattern, and people are encouraged to imitate it to the last detail. For example: the early Christian church, as described in the book of Acts, is taken by some people as the picture of the ideal church, and all churches (it is said) should be as nearly exact copies of it as is possible. Or the social and political organization set forth in the laws of Moses are taken to describe the ideal state, and we want to get the perfect society. Or some ancient saint is taken as the exact model of every one who wants to be a good person. But these notions are all off center. No world and no institution and no age or system in the past was perfect even for that day; and when you take something that was imperfect yesterday and try to make it fit today, the result is more imperfect than ever.

The Kingdom Is a Living Thing

Jesus' parables show how the Kingdom of God really spreads and grows. He called it once a kingdom of truth; and truth is a living thing. Truth cannot be forced upon people. Mere copying of truth is meaningless. Truth grows the way a plant does, the way yeast does in dough; silently, steadily, by the sheer power of the life that is in it. But since the Kingdom of God is made up of people, since the truth of Christ is not one to be read about but one to be lived out, the Kingdom of God, the world of his heart's desire, comes into being by the personal touch of life on life. Truth spreads from pole to pole only as it spreads from soul to soul.

Polio Vaccine Available At Health Department

Most school children have already had or are now taking their series of three polio vaccine injections. The vaccine is also available for all children 6 months through 19 years of age. "If your child has had no polio vaccine injection, they are available at the County Health Department," stated Mrs. Helen Pruitt, County Health Nurse.

It takes at least seven or eight months to complete a series. Start now with two shots spaced a month apart. Then get the third one six to seven months after the second one. If you want it done by the Health Department bring your child to the Health Department on Wednesday afternoons from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. or Saturday mornings 8:00 a.m. until 12, or in Belmont at the Health Department located in the City Hall on Friday days at 10:00 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Protect your children before Polio strikes again!

A few warm days, green grass beginning to grow and yellow jonquils blooming—all make us begin to think spring near. And for lots of housewives, spring means spring cleaning.

But spring needn't be the chore lots of women make it. Planning is the answer.

Before you begin any cleaning at all, make a survey of the house and a schedule of cleaning tasks room by room and day by day.

Stretch the job out so you won't completely wear out yourself and your family.

When you actually begin work, dress for the job. Wear comfortable clothes and comfortable shoes. You will find low-heeled shoes cut down your chances for accidents.

Let your first step be to find out the cleaning supplies you'll need to do a good job. Take advantage of all the new cleaners and time-saving equipment on the market.

Clean Windows

You may have your own method, but whatever one you use, you'll agree that sparkling clean windows always make the outlook brighter.

Many times you can clean your windows and mirrors with clear warm water. But never use soap, as it leaves a film. Four tablespoons of household ammonia to a gallon of water help remove grease and dirt from windows.

The ideal commercial cleaner does a thorough job, then evaporates completely, leaving nothing on the glass. Results are fine so long as you use enough to wet the glass thoroughly and scrub vigorously.

When the glass is really clean, it fogs evenly when breathed on.

You can use moistened newspaper to remove dust and lint from your windows. A soft sponge will save time and labor in drying a window.

To keep the windows clean longer, remove and clean the screen. You can do this easily by rinsing with the hose. You may use a stiff brush if the screens are especially dirty.

Speedier Work

Your work will be done faster if you make both hands work at the same time.

For instance, you can shorten the time of housework and cleaning, if you dust with both hands or use both hands to set a table or put away dishes. It will take practice to get both hands accustomed to working at the same time—but it will save you time.

Suggestions for easier home work include: Leave out any part of the task you can. For instance use sheets unironed. Or use dishes and utensils that can double as serving dishes.

Keep everything in easy reach. Group frequently used equipment and supplies together.

Use the best tool. For example, use a mop with handle instead of scrubbing on bended knees. Use a long handled dust pan to take up the dust.

Sit at work whenever you can. Standing requires 8 per cent more energy than sitting and bending 43 per cent more energy than standing.

Junior Council Met On February 6 With 40 Present

The monthly meeting of the Iuka Junior 4-H club was held on February 6 with forty girls present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Earline Hudson. Linda Vaughn, secretary, called the roll and read the minutes.

Plans for Community Attainment day and 4-H Rally were discussed.

A demonstration on the selection of color schemes was given by Miss Mary Ellen Carter, home agent.

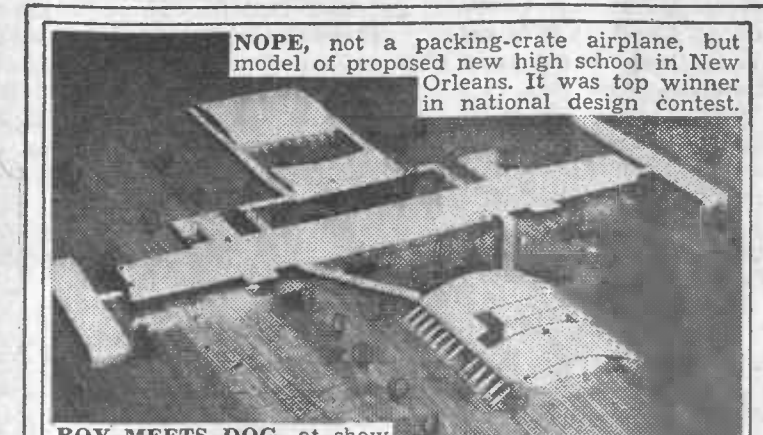

Now Is The Time To Build Your Soil

During 1957 Tishomingo county farmers will have the opportunity of putting their allotted cotton acres in the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve. No doubt, there will be some farmers in Tishomingo county who will do this.

Because the law says that no crop can be harvested or grazed from these acres put in Acreage Reserve, landowners may decide to let this land lie idle for as long as it is in this part of the the

There may be a much better way to use these acres than to let them remain idle. This very situation presents a great opportunity for the building of this land. Plant it to some perennial grass such as Pensacola, Bahia and Common or Koke lespedeza, fertilize and purpose the land well at the time of planting, and leave these plants to grow until such a time when this field is again needed for growing cotton or some other crop.

The good results to be obtained from planting a perennial grass and lespedeza Acreage Reserve acres are: 1. The vegetative cover will protect the land from the pounding effect of the raindrops, and soil erosion will be reduced. 2. More of the rain that falls will be soaked into the land. 3. The lespedeza will increase the soil nitrogen. 4. The grass and lespedeza will increase, to some extent, the organic content of the soil. 5. and you'll choose CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA

More than anything else, when spring growth begins, small grain needs an ample supply of fast-acting nitrate nitrogen. And that means Chilean Nitrate of Soda. The nitrogen in it is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen—fast-acting and ready to help the hungry crop through its most difficult period and push it ahead.

More than 100 years of consistently satisfactory experience with Natural Chilean Soda have demonstrated that there is nothing to compare with it for top-dressing small grain. It is a rare natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. The nitrogen is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen—ready to work, rain or shine, as soon as it's applied. This is especially important because at top-dressing time every moment counts. There is nothing like nitrate nitrogen for a small grain crop—and there is no source of nitrate nitrogen that can compare with Natural Chilean Soda.

Then, there's the sodium and minor elements. Sodium, particularly, adds much to the value and effectiveness of Chilean Soda. It conserves the supplies of magnesium, potash and calcium in the soil and substitutes for calcium and potash, if necessary. It increases the supply of available phosphate. Every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone to destroy soil acidity and correct acid-forming effects of ammonia nitrogen. This explains why regular, systematic use of Chilean Soda helps so much to maintain a favorable pH level for the production of top yields of top-quality crops.

If you have any question about the top-dressing for your small grain crop this year, we urge you to try Natural Chilean Soda, if only in a small way to begin with, and see the difference for yourself. You'll find it is the most economical and satisfactory nitrate nitrogen fertilizer you can buy for top-dressing your small grain crops.

CONSERVATION PROGRAM PRESENTED AT LUCY ROWE CLUB MEETING

The Lucy Rowe Study Club met

Thursday night at the Power Office for their regular meeting, at which time a most interesting program on Conservation was presented.

Mrs. Geri Turrentine, program leader, introduced the guest speaker, Lamar Cantelou, who directed the showing of two interesting films entitled, "The Paper And I" and "When A Fellow Needs A Forester." Assisting Mr. Cantelou was Cecil Brown.

The first film shown gave the steps in making paper from the time the tree was cut in the forest until the finished product. Also it brought to mind the critical condition that would exist if suddenly their were no paper products.

The second film presented a true picture of what can be done when proper steps are taken in preserving timber land or forests. It pictured valuable assistance and information that farmers could obtain through consulting their area foresters. These men are able to assist farmers in the planting, culling, and protection of their forests. Also they assist in securing markets for the timber when cut.

Preceding the program a short business meeting was held with Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, president, presiding. At this time the club voted to assist other clubs in helping with the County Library. Mrs. Hamilton discussed reforestation in the state and announced the district meeting of General Federation of Women's Clubs. Also brought up at this meeting was the restoration fund which is being promoted by GFWC for the purpose of restoring Independence Hall.

At the conclusion of the meeting delicious apple-nut cake and cokes were served by hostess, Mrs. J. C. Byrd and Mrs. Charles Edmondson, Jr.
