$80,000 School Bond Issue, Beer Question Elections To Be Held On October 15

Supervisors Change Beer Election
Date To Coincide With School Issue

Act Done As An Economy Measure

For the sake of economy, the Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors, last week, rescinded the order creating an election on the possession of beer, and issued a new date to coincide with an election for an $80,000.00 bond issue for the county schools.

The County Board of Education presented a petition to the supervisors requesting that an election be held to raise the $80,000.00 that will be used in repairing and constructing new school buildings in Districts 2, 3, 4, and 5 of this county.

The date set for the two elections is Tuesday, October 15. Voters in the first district will cast ballots only on the beer question. Voters in the other four districts will cast ballots on both the beer question and the bond issue.

County Drys To Meet Sept. 19

The first mass meeting of Tishomingo County citizens interested in voting beer out was held in the county court house Friday evening. Good interest was manifested, a number of speeches were made by those present, and a good deal of literature on the harmful effects of beer was distributed to those present.

The body voted to name the organization the Tishomingo county Drys. The next meeting has been called for Thursday, September 19, 7:30 p.m., in the court house. All citizens interested in making Tishomingo County a cleaner, more decent place to live are urged to be present for this very important meeting.

TOMBIGBEE CONFERENCE TOP SEEDED KOSSUTH WILL BE ENEMY FRIDAY NIGHT

Coach Bill Flurry's Iuka Warriors upset the highly touted Shannon Red Raiders last Friday night at Lions Stadium. Iuka went into the game as a 21-point underdog and came out with a scoreless tie.

The Warriors, although being rated last in pre-season conference ratings, ran the fourth ranked Shannon Red Raiders into oblivion.

Iuka had four major scoring chances, but could not completely capitalize on the breaks, while Shannon could get inside the 35 yard line only once. Iuka led in all offensive departments, getting more yardage on the ground and in the air. In the second half the Warriors defenses threw Shannon loss after loss and held them to only two first downs.

Standouts for Iuka, in the line were Tackle Bobby Flynt and End Freddy White. White will be out of action for 3 or more weeks because of a knee injury. In the backfield, quarterback Roger Clark, with his superb ball handling and halfbacks Buddy James

FREEDOM FOR UNION MEMBERS

Slaves quite often have many privileges, but when it comes to rights they have none at all. The same observation can be applied quite generally to members of labor unions. It is a reflection on the people of a free nation that this situation is allowed to exist.

There is only one way in which the slavery of unionism, as now practiced in this country, can be abolished—and that is by abolishing compulsory unionism in all its forms. As long as the union gets members by compulsion and not on its own merits, the labor bosses can fix the rules to suit themselves.

It is galling to a sincere and patriotic citizen who is a member of a labor union to live under such domination, and the Labor Law of the land should be amended to free him from it. Making compulsory unionism in any form illegal on a national scale would not only free the union member from labor boss control, it would also protect all workers and would be one of the best things that could happen to the welfare of the nation as a whole.

The situation outlined above is perhaps understood better by labor union members than by the public at large. In fact, better even than by some members of the Congress. One of the senators on the committee investigating labor practices said recently that union members themselves could do a lot to clean up the practices which his committee had uncovered if they would only "stand up for their rights."

But if he were asked to define these rights, that is, the rights of members within the labor unions, he would have a great deal of trouble doing so.

It is true that in some labor unions the members do have the privilege—not the right—of voting for their union officers, and that if things don't go to suit them, they can "throw the rascals out" and get some more; officers, that is, not rascals—we hope.

But in other labor unions they have no such privilege. The membership of the Teamsters Union, for example, did not put Mr. Beck in office. And it is not the membership who could have put him out. A sort of governing board of Teamster Union bosses will discuss the election of Mr. Beck's successor very soon—and the dues-paying members won't have anything to say about it.

In some labor unions the members have the privilege—not the right—of learning what becomes of the money collected in dues. In other that is not so at all; the financial affairs of the union are all a great mystery to the members. A union member with the brassiness to walk into union headquarters and ask for information about the finances of the union would not only not learn anything, he would probably not ask again!

As it is, if the labor bosses decide to back one political party and help finance this political party, they have the power to do so even though many of their union members may favor and vote for the other party and even though many of their members would desire that the union take no stand for either party. And if the union bosses decide to donate large sums of money to such organizations as the N.A.A.C.P. or the A.D.A. or any other organization, they can do so without asking their members their desires in the matter—even though it is the members who are furnishing the money.

In some labor unions the members have the privilege—not the right—of deciding whether to go out on strike. In others the order to strike simply comes down from above, and whether members like it or not they are on strike.

It is very clear to anyone who seriously studies the matter that most union members live under dictatorial control, that for Congress to simply pass laws to regulate their pension and welfare funds—as now seems might be the only result of the committee investigation, if even that—is not going to help them much, that their only recourse is to exert the right which they do have, in common with all other citizens, of insisting that their unions and their union bosses be subject to the same laws that govern other organizations and other men. Monopoly and compulsory unionism must be abolished.

Wintering Cattle

Culling non-profit cattle now will make for a better wintering program for the remainder of the herd. Cows to be culled are the small, off-type, irregular breeders and those that fail to produce a heavy, good quality calf each year.

Don't make the mistake of letting your cows lose too much weight during the winter. Cattle should be carried through the winter at approximately normal pasture weights. This will prevent the cows from becoming weak. The calves will be strong and when the cows are turned on pasture in the spring, they can be expected to nurse their calves properly.

Start feeding before cows lose that weight. Roughage should form the bulk of the winter ration—hay or silage. Cottonseed meal is an excellent protein supplement for roughage.

Wintering rations used should be built around available feeds on the farm, plus the needed proteins. Check with this office for more information on rations to use.

A more efficient job of wintering can be done if cattle are divided into their respective groups—cows and two-year old heifers, yearlings and calves.

Sod Seeding

It is still too early to use the sod seeder on heavy sods. But it can be used now in some fields, including: Harvested hay fields where no grass is growing; in early harvested corn fields and in fields where cotton has been picked.

Before using the sod seeder in sods, wait until around mid-October. Grass should be just about dormant when the sod seeder is used in sod.

Cotton Harvesting

Do you want more money for your cotton? If you do, work toward a higher grade.

Maintain the quality that grew into your cotton.

Here is how: Pick seed cotton dry, and keep it dry until ginned. Do not gin wet or dew damp cotton. Pick it clean and keep it clean. Avoid leaf trash, rocks, twigs and other foreign material in seed cotton. These not only lower grade, but also serve as gin fire hazards.

Do not try to put a bale of seed cotton into a truck or trailer that is not large enough. Never tramp seed cotton. By tramping, leaf trash and particles of vines are so packed into the fiber that they cannot be gotten out.

Know the value of your cotton before you sell it. Wait for your classing card before selling. Do not sell for less than the loan price.

28 Motorists Killed In Miss. During August

Traffic fatalities decreased sharply on Mississippi highways during August.

According to Commissioner of Public Safety Tom Scarbrough, 16 less fatalities were reported during the past month than during the corresponding period one year ago.

He said 28 motorists were killed during August 1957. The August 1956 toll reached 44 dead.

Actually, the state's highway death toll has been down all year. As of August 31, the '57 count was 299 dead as compared to 336 reported killed through the same period last year.

This margin of decrease has been growing slowly but steadily as the Highway Patrol increases its traffic law enforcement.

Safety authorities have climbed an area's accident records.

Approximately 43% Of Miss. People Over 65 Receiving Old Age Assistance

Approximately 43 percent of all Mississippians over 65 are now receiving old age assistance payments from 30,787 to 78,976.

The above facts, along with other pertinent information, are pointed out in a survey of the state's old age assistance program being released today by the Mississippi Economic Council.

J. D. Wise of Hazlehurst, MEC president, said the report is the result of over a year's study, and is being released without recommendation to show the impact of the program on the state's economy.

He said the report is of particular importance at this time, since increasing old age assistance benefits has been mentioned as one of the subjects to be considered at the legislature this fall.

Here are some of the other highlights and conclusions made in the report:

The old age assistance program in Mississippi costs about $25 million annually, with the state paying one-fifth and the federal government four-fifths.

Of every 1,000 persons in the state over 65, are on old age assistance rolls; the national figure is 173 out of every 1,000. Mississippi ranks 4th among the states and territories in the proportion of aged receiving such grants.

Comparison of the state's program with programs of other states shows that Mississippi's problem is not one of trying to help the aged, but the recurring problem of insufficient income base.

The state has a smaller proportion of its population in the productive age group (18-64) than the nation as a whole, 49.2 percent as compared to 57.1 percent.

The outlook to 1970 is that the aged population will not grow as fast in Mississippi as the nation as a whole, but the economic burden of the aged will increase if young people continue to migrate from the state.

Two recent administrative changes as added approximately 2,500 to the rolls during the past year. The changes allow recipients to retain more property, and take into consideration only the actual assistance provided by relatives instead of the ability of relatives to provide aid.

Mr. Wise said in addition to the normal distribution, copies of the report are being mailed to legislators, state officials, libraries, and chambers of commerce. Single copies are available to interested individuals and organizations. Requests should be directed to the Council at P.O. Box 1849 in Jackson.

Members of the state and local government committee from this area are: Russell Bonds of Iuka.

DO YOU HAVE MONEY TO BURN

By HIRAM A. JONES
Work Unit Conservationist
USDA-SCS

Very few, if any, people have money to burn. But this is exactly what happens when a fire destroys a part or all of a person's timber.

Trees are valuable, but fire can destroy both large and small trees. Often a landowner may think a fire has not greatly damaged his timber, only to learn later that all the pine seedlings and much young and valuable timber has been destroyed.

Small trees are necessary if a stand of desirable timber is to be maintained on the land.

The most important thing in timber production is to protect the trees from fire. This is the time of year fire hazards are increasing. Hot dry weather dries out the forest and one lighted cigarette or match, dropped by a careless person, can destroy hundreds of acres of valuable timber.

The landowner is the person who is most interested in keeping fire from destroying his woods. But we all lose when the woods burn. Not only is valuable timber destroyed by fire, but the land is left bare and rains come and wash the good topsoil away.

The Tennessee River Soil Conservation District commissioners urge all landowners to disk up the old roads running through their woods. These old roads can be used as places to backfire from, should this be necessary. Too, let those who smoke be careful to see no lighted matches or cigarettes are thrown out along the road or in places that might cause fires.

The forest of Tishomingo county help feed and cloth us. We should protect the woods from fire. We should do this because none of us have money to burn.

Appliance Trouble

Hope you aren't having trouble with your washing machine, range, refrigerator or other household equipment. But, if you are, here are some things you should do and know before you call the serviceman:

1. Know the model and serial number and rating. You will find this on a small metal nameplate somewhere on the appliance. This information may be the difference in one and two-calls by the serviceman.

2. Check to see if the appliance is plugged in. Do you have it turned on? Check to see if the electricity is off or a fuse blown.

3. Check the instruction book that came with the appliance to see if you are handling it properly. You can prolong the service of your equipment many months by following closely the advice in this booklet.

Care of Leather

Use pure mild soap or saddle soap to clean leather upholstery or leather surfaces on tables.

The best way to clean leather is simply to dampen a cloth or sponge in warm water, wring it out, then rub it over the bar of soap or the saddle soap. Rub the leather briskly.

Then rub with another moist cloth without soap. Rub dry with a clean soft cloth. Any gloss which disappears will be restored by friction of the last rubbing.

Be careful not to use furniture polishes, oils or varnishes on leather. They often contain solvents that cause leather to become sticky.

Money for Milk

Yes, spending money for milk is a small investment. There is no other way to get the same nutrients at such reasonable cost.

To get the most from your milk dollar:

Carry your own supply. You save a few cents a quart by carrying milk from the store instead of having it delivered.

Check the price on large containers. Two quart or gallon containers usually sell for less than quarts or pints.

Price different forms of milk—fresh, evaporated and dry milk.

To keep fresh milk at its best—keep it clean, cold, covered and dark.

Forestry Profession Growing As Industry Adopts Tree Farming

Jackson (Special)—Management of Tree Farms and most other commercial forest land now owned by the nation's wood industries lies in the competent hands of a growing force of professional foresters, an industry spokesman said today.

Warren Hood, Jackson, chairman of the Mississippi Forest Industries Committee, said the present count of industrial foresters in the United States is approximately 7,400. The major development in this professional force came during the latter years of World War II and in the postwar years, he added.

The Jackson lumberman said Mississippi stands close to the top of the list of Southern states in the employment of technical foresters to handle wood industry timberland.

"Mississippi timberland has become widely recognized for its timber potential, as it has been known in the past for its wood production and the need for forest conservation practices has been stressed," said Hood.

The handful of technical foresters in the United States at the turn of the century were European-trained. Today, he said, this country has more than any other country in the world.

Through the years and into the thirties most forestry graduates found employment with public agencies. Today, wood industries employ more than does government and are interviewing graduating seniors from some 35 schools to add to their forestry staffs.

FAULTY FEED NO HELP FOR FATTENING PIGS

Pigs won't thrive on faulty feed. It seems traditional with farmers that when feed of any kind is left over, gets moldy or spoiled it is tossed into the hog with the hope that some good can be salvaged from it. This practice has grown over the years because pigs usually will eat most cull feed and stay alive. But even as you and I, a hog has his food preferences. He does better, makes faster gains on feed he likes and which satisfies his natural eating habits. Recent experiments on a commercial swine farm showed conclusively that hogs are not necessarily effective scavengers. They must have rations built specifically for them if they are to perform efficiently and profitably.

Gov. Coleman Continues Appeal For Constitutional Convention; Is Backed By Lieutenant Governor Gartin

On Monday and Tuesday nights of this week Governor J. P. Coleman carried his appeal for a constitutional convention to residents of the state by making several television appearances. He will make another appearance next week over channel 9, WTUV, Tupelo from 8:30 to 9 p.m., and over station WMCT, Memphis, channel 5, at the same time.

The Governor has called a special session of the legislature for Nov. 4, which he will ask to authorize the convention to meet next year. The Governor has said the 57 year old constitution must be modernized to make the state attractive to heavy industry in a move to stop Mississippians from going to other states to seek employment.

Pointing out the population exodus from the farms, the governor said agriculture is not the answer to the state's problems. "The only answer is industry which will give full employment to our people and encourage young folks to stay at home instead of being sent abroad after we rear them and educate them at the people's expense."

Gartin Supports Convention
With the issuing of a statement on Monday of this week, Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin threw his support behind Governor Coleman's plans for a constitutional convention.

"I am in favor of a constitutional convention with the result of it submitted to the people for their approval or disapproval," the Lt. Governor said.

"To be the state with the lowest per capita income, to pay the lowest salaries to our teachers, extremely low benefits to our aged, to secure the least new industries, and to see so many of our young people leaving Mississippi to find job opportunities is today an alarming situation which calls for positive and basic action," he said. "A constitutional convention can do much," Mr. Gartin continued, to aid in our defense of segregation and to promote the industrial and economic development of our state as well as to accomplish other improvements.

"We are united in our determination to maintain segregation in Mississippi, and we must be certain our Constitution and statutes permit us to effectively wage our battle. The occurrences now going on in Little Rock, Ark., are notice to us that we must have our house in order and be prepared for attacks and emergencies against us."

"I know there is sufficient ability and patriotism in Mississippi to deal unselfishly with her problems, and I have total confidence that Mississippians are capable of passing judgment on the merits of a new constitution when it is submitted to them," Mr. Gartin concluded.

In setting the date of Nov. 4 for the special legislative session, the Governor said this would give senators and representatives ample time to get their personal affairs in order for the session.

LETTERS To The Editor

(Editor's Note: We will accept letters for publication and will withhold writer's name when so requested. However, any letter intended for publication must be signed by the writer. Writer's name will be given on request.)

Dear Editor:

This is in response to a letter last week in The Vidette addressed to the editor, and signed "A Reader". I note that this reader did not sign his name. He says his custom has been to "drink a glass of wine in observance of the Sabbath". If this were my practice I would be ashamed to sign my name too. Let me say now that you are at liberty to put my name at the close of this letter.

The writer says "I am not thinking of my selfish desire. . . I am thinking of the youth of Tishomingo County." On this much we agree. I too am thinking of the youth of our county. Let's see what is best for our youth. Listen to several authorities on the subject: First, Dr. E. M. Jellinek, Narcotics Divisions, United Nations: "The death rate, crime rate and accident rate in a given community varies according to the average alcohol consumption; and when alcoholism decreases, so do death, crime and accident rates; and relaxation of restrictions on alcohol is followed by a rise in commitments to asylums, hospitalizations and delinquency." Second, John L. C. Goffin, M. D., Los Angeles Board of Education: "Since alcohol is a narcotic drug, psychologically habit-forming and resulting in addition in at least ten per cent of moderate drinkers, it is incumbent on the public schools to teach abstinence rather than moderation. When dealing with narcotics, moderation is dangerous doctrine." Third, Dr. Eugene L. Fisk, Medical Director, Life Extension Examiners: "Alcohol is alcohol, either in whiskey or (in) beer . . . It is nonsense to claim that beer is a hygienic drink. It is drunk chiefly for its alcoholic effect; and if the alcoholic effect is produced the danger of alcohol exists." Last week's letter writer says, "Complete legalization of beer and wine is the best solution to this tough problem." Does the above quotations from eminent doctors agree with this statement?

Would legalized beer and wine be best for our youth? Remember that according to authorities 1 beer makes a driver unsafe for 30 minutes; 2 beers, unsafe for 2 hours, and 3 beers renders a driver unsafe for 4 hours.

In the above, Mr. Editor, I have quoted facts. If we are able to vote sanely on this question on October 15, we must face the facts squarely. In conclusion I would like to ask last week's letter writer one question. He says, "I feel that to leave the situation as it is would be far better than making criminals of 90 per cent of all adult citizens of the county by changing the law as proposed in the forthcoming election. In view of the fact that Tishomingo County voted beer out about six to one the last time it was voted on, HOW does he justify the statement that to vote beer out now would result in 90 per cent of the adult citizens becoming drinkers of bootleg beer?"

Yours very truly,
William G. Beam

Prescriptions cannot be mass produced on assembly lines. Each one must be compounded individually because it is specifically written for one person. For that reason it usually shortens sickness time.

Invariably the medicines in a prescription give relief much more quickly than patent medicines or home treatments. Your physician's skilled diagnosis usually prevents serious sickness—if you consult him at the first sign of trouble. LOCAL BUSINESS

Ladies Buy Or Influence Purchase Of 85% Of All Consumer Goods

Although he doesn't bear much resemblance to Clark Gable or Elvis Presley, one of our local grocers claims that he owes his success to the ability to appeal to women.

"As a matter of fact, all of us retailers have to be women experts to stay in business," he says. "The merchant who forgets that he is selling to women just stops selling."

This opinion of our neighbor is solidly supported by extensive market research, which shows that women buy or influence the purchase of 85 percent of all consumer goods. Even those merchants who deal in men's merchandise have to show more respect for the hand-bag than the wallet. Macy's of New York reports that women buy 80 percent of the men's shirts sold by that store. A national survey shows that women buy 90 percent of all household supplies and 62 percent of all hardware.

Even the lumber companies in Chicago are slanting their newspaper advertising to women. The reason: women initiate 90 percent of all home remodeling jobs and boss the buying and building.

The research designed to help business men become women experts tells why women buy as well as what they buy. For one thing, it shows that women believe in advertising. The research shows that women like advertising in their publications, and that they depend upon advertising to guide them in their shopping.

For most women, advertising is an integral part of magazines and newspapers. Newspaper readership research conducted by universities and independent agencies show that over 70 percent of women readers may be expected to peruse the retail advertising in the typical small newspaper. It shows that women read local advertising than read the society section, and that advertising is the first feature a woman often turns to when she opens the paper.

Free Medical Evaluation Available To Polio Patients Of Three County Area

A polio patient evaluation clinic will be held at the Health Department in Corinth, Monday, September 23, Miss Bernice Bostick, Chairman of the Tishomingo County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced today.

All who have ever had polio, paralytic or non-paralytic, from a three-county area, will have the opportunity of a free medical evaluation.

Financed by the March of Dimes in cooperation with County Health Departments and the Crippled Children's Service, the clinic will provide all polio victims with complete evaluation and analysis by orthopedists and physical therapists. Public health nurses will assist with the clinic, and a vocational rehabilitation counselor will be present in order that the full needs of all patients may be determined.

Dr. W. E. Noblin, Jr., Director of the Crippled Children's Service, will be clinic director.

Counties to be served by the Corinth clinic will be Alcorn, Prentiss and Tishomingo.

This clinic, part of a national program, is to serve as a basis for an intensive study and analysis of the current medical needs of all post-polio patients, both paralytic and non-paralytic. It has been noted that some patients originally diagnosed as non-paralytic, develop weaknesses and even deformities after a lapse of years, explained the Chapter Chairman.

"In the light of new knowledge in the treatment of polio and modern rehabilitation techniques, a great many polio victims now may benefit from additional treatment and training, much of it recently developed at respiratory and rehabilitation centers. We want to find out who these people are and what can be done for them over a period of time," said Miss Bostick.

Parents of all polio patients in Tishomingo County are asked to contact Miss Bostick in order that a clinic appointment may be made.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

The Pastor

Lesson for September 15, 1957

A POPULAR name for the minister of a Protestant church in America is "Preacher." It is an unfortunate title, because it suggests that the minister's job is all talk. People by the thousands think of their minister as only a preacher, and it must be admitted that some "preachers" are that and nothing else. But talking for half an hour a week isn't the main job he has, there is something else that (if he works at it) takes up far more time. It is being a pastor.

In churches with a paid ministry, the minister's salary is not payment for services rendered, for if he does render a pastor's service, what he does cannot possibly be measured in money. His salary is a subsidy enabling him to resign all other work and spend all his working days at being a pastor.

What Is a Pastor?

Most people don't realize that the word "pastor" was originally a figure of speech; it comes from the Latin word for shepherd. Like all figures of speech, this one does not tell the whole truth, but it is very useful. The prophet Ezekiel was called a pastor or shepherd, so is Timothy in the New Testament. In one of Jesus' last interviews with Peter, that apostle was commanded: "Feed my sheep." Jesus, in fact, spoke of himself as the Good Shepherd, and in the 23rd Psalm the words are familiar, "The Lord is my Shepherd." Both Roman Catholic and Protestant churches think highly of the pastor and constantly seek better ones. Much time and expense is devoted to their training. Saint Paul (Eph. 4:11) mentions being a pastor as a special divine gift, distinct from that of the evangelist or the teacher, though indeed some men have more gifts than one.

Leading

There is nothing strange about a minister not having a congregation. For there are various forms of the Christian ministry: including teaching, editorial writing, executive work. But the pastor carries the main responsibility of the church, and a pastor without a congregation is a contradiction in terms; he would be like a store keeper without a store, a pilot who never flies a plane, a father without a child. In the days when the word shepherd was first used of God's servants, as for example of the prophet Ezekiel, it brought definite ideas to people's minds, for shepherds were a common sight at that time and place. These ideas are as true as ever they were. One of them is that the shepherd leads the sheep. There were no neatly fenced pastures in that country; each shepherd led his flock by the creeksides, to places where he knew there would be some water left (for the creeks were often dry) and some green grass. Without the shepherd to lead them, sheep would simply starve. So today a pastor leads his people; a man without leadership capacity is just not made for a pastor. He leads their minds, he leads their hearts. A good pastor is not a dictator, he leads by inspiring his people, not intimidating.

Feeding

The other main service a shepherd would do for his flock was to feed them. So the pastor of a congregation is expected to feed his flock. Not their bodies, not primarily their minds; but their hearts and lives as a whole. That is why we expect a pastor to study the Bible more deeply than we in the pews have time to do; that is why we expect him to read more widely in Christian books and magazines than the rest of us can. That is why we have a right to expect that a pastor shall have a deeper experience, and a greater wisdom on the whole, than the average church members. We want him to interpret God for us. That is why being a good pastor takes all a man's time. The pastor must mingle with his people so as to know what they need; but he must be out in front of his people in order to be able to give them what they need. If Ezekiel the prophet had been no closer to God than the people to whom he was a shepherd, he would have had nothing to give. Without a pastor, many souls will starve.

"FALLOUT" ITS EFFECTS UPON THE U. S. FULLY DISCUSSED

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 12. It will not be long before "Fallout" will be the most discussed subject facing business, real estate, and investments. Newspapers now give daily forecasts for weather, tides, and winds. Before long they also will give a local daily air analysis, together with a forecast of the analysis for the next few days.

What Will Be Important?
All businesses and investments must be adjusted either to "Fallout" or to "Peace." Furthermore, it will be the fear of Fallout or the fear of peace which will bring about unemployment and a business collapse. The propaganda about "clean bombs" by those persons now profiting from the defense industries is the bunk. "Clean bombs" can be built; but Russia will never agree to this exclusive use. The Fallout is Russia's best bet.

Every reader of this column should ask himself how either the fear of Fallout or the fear of peace and disarmament will affect his community, his family, and his business or investments. The London Conference on Disarmament is discussing the possibility of both intensified Fallout and Disarmament. Every Congressman is trying to determine how his constituents would be affected by either. Meanwhile the Atomic Energy Commission is working hard studying Fallout.

Important Illustrations
There could be a total change in the rising population trend. Most schools and colleges will have plenty of room for students. Families may fear to have more children for fear of having seriously deformed offspring. The birth rate could radically decline.

Real estate, commodity, and stock markets could be totally upset because of the fear of Fallout or unemployment. Certain cities would be much more subject to Fallout than others. As people now seek Florida or California for climate, they may avoid these states for fear of Fallout. Remember, this Fallout is polluting the air you breathe right now as you read this column.

What About Agriculture?

Studies are now being made by the Atomic Energy Commission as to the effect of Fallout on Agriculture and Fisheries. Unofficial reports are that ordinary fission or fission tests would not be harmful. If, however, Russia should float too much Strontium 90 over the United States, it could become very serious. This would especially apply to all leafy vegetables and perhaps to corn and wheat.

Certainly, we would no longer be allowed to drink cows' milk in its present form. Strontium 90 would have to be eliminated from canned-milk products. And this would need to be done for all canned fruit and most other canned products. The ocean seems to be especially "allergic" to this dangerous poison. Thus, the fish might be impregnated. Livestock which feeds on grass could surely be seriously affected.

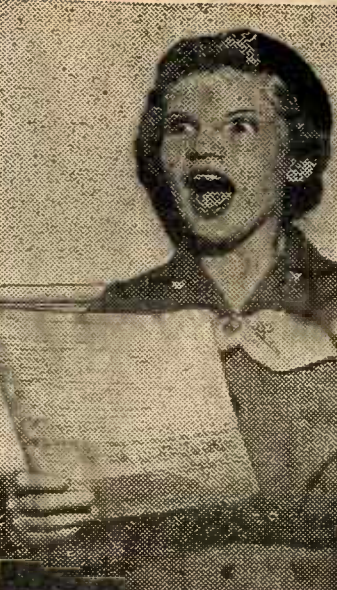

Automobiles And Other Industries
Industries other than food would also suffer. Manufacturing and retailing need not be directly affected. Of course, all stores and factories would need to be screened, as well as all homes. Automobiles would have to be screened, while all pedestrians might have to wear masks. Certainly, Russia could drastically upset our way of life.

All of this could either hasten war with Russia or else result in some form of disarmament. This is probably why President Eisenhower insists that no reduction be made in defense appropriations or foreign aid. This means that our present prosperity is on a "teeter board" or "saw horse", so to speak. Certainly we will hear much more about Fallout, which could become more important than missiles.

Russia In The Driver's Seat

Although Russia could make these tests from Western Siberia and pick days when the winds would drift the Fallout toward the U. S. A., yet the air of the entire world, including Russia, would be polluted. Therefore, these "tests," like poison gas, might not be used; but we do not know. In fact, there

Three Millionth Girl Scout

Surprised to find out she is the three millionth Girl Scout in the United States, 12-year-old Janice Brewer of St. Louis, Mo., holds the form indicating she has been officially registered as a member of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. Nation-wide Girl Scout membership has tripled since 1944 but many girls, like Janice, must wait to become Girl Scouts because there is a shortage of adult troop leaders.

is a bare possibility that fear of these "tests" could bring about disarmament. Of course, if Russia should go too far, the U. S. and the rest of the world might declare war upon Russia. Then what?

HERE'S SOMETHING for every community to keep in mind when those new multi-billion dollar superhighways are in the planning stage—

Land next to a railroad is often ideally suited for industrial use. Put industries on it and you create new job opportunities and new sources of tax revenue for your community. Everybody benefits!

Under these conditions, this land is a valuable community asset. However, through oversight, this asset can be "killed off" completely and forever by putting a new highway too close to the railroad. For most industry must have easy, economical access to rail service and this is impossible with a highway in between.

The time to protect and preserve this community asset is when the highway is being planned. And it is easy to do. Wherever possible, simply leave an adequate strip of land for industrialization between the existing railroad and the proposed highway. This property immediately becomes doubly attractive to industry—for it then can offer modern rail service on one side and access to a modern highway on the other. You and your community will benefit.

Newly Organized Boy Scout Safety Patrol On Duty At Iuka High School

A newly organized Boy Scout Safety Patrol went on duty at Iuka High School Tuesday. The Scouts will be responsible for safe passage of students across Highway 72 on their way to and from school. Their area of authority will be limited to Highway 72 and intersecting cross-streets.

Through special arrangement by Boy Scout officials with the school Safety Division of the Memphis Police Department the boys will wear and use safety equipment identical with that used by the 1500 boys on patrol duty in the city of Memphis. They have been trained from the latest manuals and information from the Mississippi Safety Patrol and Memphis Police Department. The patrol will begin its duty each school morning at 7:35. It will not function through the noon hour unless the need is proved. It will remain on duty as long as necessary after dismissal in the afternoon.

Superintendent Shook, the Boy Scout leaders and Warren Sheets, Chairman of Community Safety, Iuka Rotary Club, have worked out the following plan:

Every student who crosses Highway 72 on his way to or from school will do so at the direction of the Safety Patrol.

Crosswalks have been plainly marked in yellow at the intersections of Highway 72 (Quitman Street) with Rowena (J. O. Nelson residence), Jackson (I. M. Jackson residence), Tate (D. O. Jourdan residence) and Main Streets (T. M. Jourdan residence). Two Scouts of the patrol will be on duty at each of the four intersections. Students will cross within the marked limits of the crosswalks.

Students going to or from school by way of the overhead bridge on Old Highway 25 will cross at the Rowena crosswalk and make way along Rowena and Bettydale Drive to avoid the intersection of Highway 72 with Old Highway 25. This is a very dangerous intersection because of the short sight-distance eastward and cannot be crossed by pedestrians with any degree of safety. Students on foot will avoid it completely.

Scouts of the patrol have been instructed never to attempt to stop moving traffic. Their instructions are to wait for a break in traffic and to hold back of the curb all students waiting to cross. When a break in traffic occurs both Scouts will step into the street approximately six feet from the curb, stand on the line of the crosswalk on the side of approaching traffic, face approaching traffic and hold their flags in a horizontal position. The Scouts will then direct the waiting students to cross.

Any student crossing Highway 72 before being directed to do so or crossing at a place other than a designated cross walk will be held in violation of a state law and a city ordinance as well as the rules of the High School. Names of violators will be turned in to the school superintendent.

A most important factor contributing to the success of the safety plan is the cooperation of the public. That cooperation is hereby respectfully requested.

The plan as stated has been reviewed and approved by the following:

Mayor John H. Allen; H. L. Shook, Superintendent of Iuka Public Schools; Harmon Byrom, President, Board of Trustees of Iuka Public Schools; State Highway Safety Patrolman Audie Marlar; Scoutmasters Ben F. McRae, Jr. and Cecil H. Brown; and Warren Sheets, Chairman Community Safety, Iuka Rotary Club.
