Drum Majorette And Majorettes Selected For Band

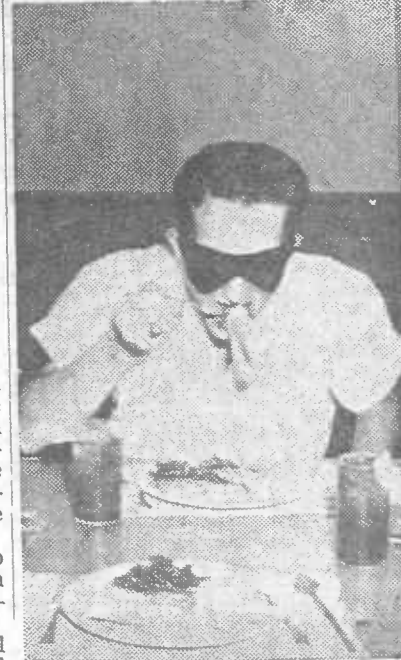

In Majorette try-outs for the Iuka School Band held at Howard Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday afternoon of this week, James E. Vinson, director, reports the selections as follows: drum majorette, Pat Foote; new majorettes, Judy Holtsford, Libby Murrah and Gleda Foote. Two majorettes returning from last year are Faye Carmichael and Rosaland Moser. Mrs. Johnny Mincy, the former Katherine Sanders, will return as feature majorette.

"It is hoped that the band will be able to appear at the first home game by getting an early start this year," stated the director. All persons who were in the band last year or took beginning band are urged to attend these rehearsals. Time for continued rehearsals will be decided on at the first meeting of the band.

Mr. Vinson is anxious for all new students interested in band to contact him immediately after the opening of school.

Sightless Survival

This photo graphically illustrates how handicapped a blind person is. Oftentimes taking nourishment to keep body and soul together becomes a task that is difficult for the blind to perform. The picture was made and is being printed to emphasize the sight conservation program of the Iuka Lions club. Luther B. Kinard, club president, states that the organization has joined in participation with Lions International in sight conservation which is a universally accepted project of Lions clubs all over the world. "It is not our intention," Mr. Kinard said, "to interfere with any program that any of the other clubs may be undertaking. It is our aim to assist locally handicapped citizens who are unable to obtain treatment from any other source." Eating blindfolded in the picture is William R. Nance, new Lion member and pharmacist at Curtis Bros. Drugs.

Colbert County Sheriff Closes State Line Place

An injunction was brought against one of three establishments located near the Alabama-Mississippi line Friday afternoon after the owner and operator entered into confessed judgement before Circuit Judge Clifford Delony at the Colbert County Courthouse in Tusculum.

The establishment owned by Mrs. Allene Tapp and operated in Alabama by Alfred Farris is located on highway 72 within a quarter of a mile of the Alabama-Mississippi state line. In a decree filed after the meeting, an injunction was entered against the two parties by the Circuit Judge.

The establishment which the State had alleged was operating as a liquor nuisance and a place where whisky and liquor was maintained and consumed" was closed by Colbert County Sheriff first of the week and will remain closed, pending further orders from the Court. Under the Court's orders Mrs. Tapp will not be permitted to operate a business there or to give any other person permission to carry on any business there.

Petitions for temporary injunction hearings were also filed against the Bear Creek Fishing Camp and another known as the State Line. Bear Creek Fishing Camp is where the recent shooting took place that claimed the life of Billy Lewis and involved Onus Ledbetter.

SENSING THE NEWS

SOUTHERN STATES INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL

NO LESSONS LEARNED

One thing that has not been proved this year is the teachability of Americans. When the Russian sputniks were launched last year, the blast from their take-off scorched that form of educational bottle-feeding known as "progressive education." Americans began to ask themselves: How is it that the Russians have the scientists to carry out a vast space satellite program? How is it that the United States lags behind?

Americans spoke up in the months following the sputnik launches. Distinguished citizens such as Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, developer of the atomic submarine, called for higher academic standards in public schools and the abolition of "frills."

The idea of the public schools as a playground, as a "workshop" of liberal-style democracy, as a social adjustment center where "the whole personality" is trained, was exposed in all follies. The nation's newspapers carried a tremendous outpouring of letters-to-the-editor in which indignant parents and taxpayers protested the squandering of billions in public funds on a brand of education that was lacking in solid content, namely physics, chemistry, history, English and other basic ingredients of education.

Business men, long appalled at the educational deficiencies of young people entering their employ, called for reform in the schools. Congressmen stressed that free enterprise could not be successful without the young people of the nation mastering hard subjects in school. State legislatures appointed commissions to explore the situation and suggest ways and means of strengthening the curriculum. Discussion of this vital subject was carried on loudly throughout the nation. College officials warned that the youngsters applying for admission were unprepared for serious advanced study. They, too, urged change and reform.

Among the suggested reforms were strengthening of courses in the basic subjects, the elimination of classes and school programs that were essentially playtime or "frill" activities, the organization of classes on the basis of achievement and ability to learn (so that able students wouldn't be held back by slow learners).

In a month's time public schools will open throughout the nation. The awful lesson of Russian successes in science is still before us. Indeed the lesson is much more evident than it was last fall. The need for better students and more thoroughly trained young people is far more apparent than it was in 1957. And yet, except in isolated instances and then more or less spasmodically, nothing has been done.

After all the talking, after the press campaigns exposing "progressive education," after the demonstration of the need for a return to old-fashioned principles of hard study and no social promotion, the public schools of the nation are unchanged. The nation's press doesn't tell of a strengthening of curricula, an intelligent organization of classes or the abolition of dancing classes and "frill" activities. Things will be as they were.

The National Education Association met in recent weeks. Stricter academic training was not the principal topic under discussion. It didn't have anything like top consideration. Racial integration and pay raises for teachers were the favorite topics of discussion at the national meeting. And so it is around the country. There isn't talk of better education, only better pay scales. In Southern states this year, the word has gone out that this is the time for a big push on salaries. Well, it's time for better training. Americans should demand a dollar's worth of education for every dollar spent. They haven't been getting their money's worth.

Nor does the answer lie in aid to education from the federal government. The answer lies in the hands of the state and local governments.

Mrs. Nellie Pruitt, Mrs. Joy Carr, Sandy and Lynn, and Mrs. Ralph Steele and children, Tim and Sherry, of Muscle Shoals, Ala., spent Sunday in Memphis visiting relatives.

TAXES... we pay them, too!

Your publicly-owned electric distribution system is not exempt from taxes as some people claim. Each year we make tax equivalent payments to local governments. Of course, we don't pay federal income taxes because those taxes are on profits. Your power system is a non-profit business, operating only to provide good electric service at low rates.

Orville W. Johler, vice president in charge of advertising for IGA food stores, has described a discovery of his company which might be used to advantage by any retail advertiser.

In a careful test, the IGA stores found that a friendly salutation in a headline greatly increased the sales power of an ad. An advertisement which brought exceptional results began with the headline "Hi, Neighbor..."

The IGA test confirms the growing conviction of other large grocery companies that creating goodwill through advertising is a highly important part of the selling process. This should give encouragement to the small retailer who is not ready to do large scale price advertising. Because, even the smallest advertising budget can be applied to effective goodwill advertising.

Mr. Johler believes that advertising is necessary to building goodwill. "Goodwill cannot be bought; it must be earned," he says, pointing out that sincerity is the key to goodwill. He might have added that bigness is not a measure of sincerity.

Sincere goodwill advertising may be done in relatively little space. The effectiveness of such advertising depends largely upon repetition.

The IGA official believes that the newspaper is the best place to test the reaction of the public to a business. "We not only use newspapers to sell merchandise in our 6,000 stores, but we also use them to test the reaction of buyers," he says. "Anytime you want to really get true reaction from the masses of people use the newspapers—in our 30 year history of selling and merchandising foods, we have never found their equal."

Where To Find A Husband

When we started writing this column three years ago we had no idea that it might become a sort of matrimonial bureau, but now we feel compelled to pass on a tip from the Alaska Chamber of Commerce.

Girls, the A. C. of C. reports, there are eight unmarried men in Alaska for every unmarried woman. This startling news, it is expected, may cause a stampede that would make the gold rush look like an afternoon stroll in the park.

Throw away those uncouth pictures you have of Alaska men with a six-months growth of beard and rough clothing. They are out of date. In Alaska one out of 12 men is a college graduate, a third higher percentage than in the continental U. S.

And, if you are thinking of what a terrible place the 49th state is to live in, forget it. Alaska has a lower death rate and a higher birth rate than any of the 48 states now in the Union.

Three Out Of Four Have One In the United States proper only two out of every three women have found a man to vow to love, honor, cherish and pay the grocery bill. Alaska women have been much more successful. Three out of four have, like the Northwest Mounties, got their man.

The fourth one, so the statistics would indicate, either is a confirmed old maid or mighty choosy. These statistics, of course do not include the native Eskimos who are busy raising families in their snug little igloos.

Husbands are not hard to find in Alaska, we are told, despite spaces so wide open that they make Texas look like a New York suburb. There are four square miles per person, compared with 57 persons per square mile in the United States.

Texans, of course, will have to eat some of their bragging words if and when Alaska becomes the 49th state. You could put the whole state of Texas in a corner of Alaska's 586,000 square miles, and all it would do would be cool off.

Growing Like Topsy Alaska has been experiencing some phenomenal growth, populationwise. Between the 1940 and 1950 censuses the population increased by 77 per cent, five times the rate of the continental U. S.

About two-thirds of this increase was accounted for by natural causes—excess of births over deaths—and about one-third by net immigration. The birth rate is one-third larger than in the U. S., and the death rate is only a little more than half.

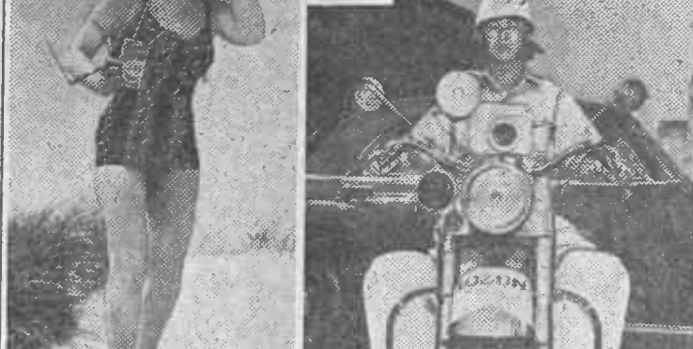

This, the A. C. of C. modestly concedes, is due to the climate but to the fact that most people in Alaska are younger than in the U. S. The median age is 26 years, five years below that of the U. S.

Insurance Benefits Show Increase Over Last Year

Old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits are being paid in Tishomingo County at the rate of $350,736 per year according to Hugh Tigrett, Manager of the Tupelo Social Security District Office. This is an increase of $128,616 over the total being paid a year ago, Mr. Tigrett said.

Each month 793 individuals receive payments totalling $29,228. In addition to 376 retired workers and 184 wives of retired workers, benefits are also being paid to 158 dependent children, and 66 widows.

Commenting on the increase in social security benefits over last year, Mr. Tigrett mentioned several reasons for the increase. One was the payment of benefits to people who were brought under the Law for the first time in recent years—for example, self-employed farmers. Other reasons for the increase were the reduction in the retirement age to 62 for women and the business recession. Mr. Tigrett agreed that some older people who would have preferred to keep on working have been forced to retire because of general business conditions.

County Fires Greatly Reduced Since 1955

In recent years Tishomingo county has been known as a hot county. And to a certain extent it is still one of the hottest counties in the Northeast district. Fires are man made, majority of them, and man can stop them. The Mississippi Forestry Commission seeks your help in doing this. We can never better our fire situation unless the public will help in every way. And they have been doing just that. Our fires have decreased in the past few years and we are proud of that. This year we hope that we can even better our record, and we will with the public help and interest as in the past. We of the Commission want to thank you for this help, and seek it in the future. Here are just a few figures that will prove with out a doubt that people in Tishomingo county are willing and are doing something about the fire situation. In June of 1955 Tishomingo county had 123 fires and lost 738 acres, the average size fire was 6.0. In June of 1956 Tishomingo had 121 fires, lost 849 acres with the average size fire being 7.0. In 1957, Tish. had 121 fires and lost 849 acres with the average size fire being 7.0. In 1958, June Tish. had 50 fires and lost 258 acres, indicating that forestry in Tish. is a major part of the counties

Senator Stennis Makes Comment On National Cotton Allotment Drop

Senator John Stennis, commenting on the alarming announcement made by Agriculture Secretary Benson to the effect that the national cotton acreage allotment would drop to 13.7 million acres in 1959 if no farm legislation is passed, said:

"This is a most serious situation, and I will make an all-out fight to prevent adjournment until a farm bill is passed. If adjournment comes over my protest, I will ask for a special session."

"The Administration's drive to prevent the farm bill from coming to a vote in the House is most distressing. The pressure brought to bear by the Secretary of Agriculture, threats of a Presidential veto, and unwillingness to work out minor differences seriously threaten the chances of getting a farm bill so critically needed to prevent a 22 per cent reduction in cotton acreage and a 45 per cent reduction in rice acreage for 1959. The House bill with minor exceptions is similar to the Senate-passed bill and is virtually the same program which the Secretary of Agriculture has requested for the past several months. There is no real justification for this about-face by the Secretary as the House bill is certainly in the range of an agreement by a Senate-House Conference."

Senator Stennis has urged that key Senators and Representatives meet with Secretary Benson to discuss frankly their major differences of opinion and then try their utmost to agree on legislation that will meet the situation for the ten in time to reach me not later than Monday, August 25th. Through July 31 There Were 40 Cases of Polio Reported In Mississippi

Polio in Mississippi is following usual seasonal pattern of occurrence but at a lower level than previous years, according to the State Board of Health.

Through July 31, 1958, there were 40 reported cases. For the corresponding period in 1957 there were 52 cases, and the five year average is 65.6 cases.

The protective benefit of immunization becomes more and more apparent," said Dr. Durward Key, new director of the Preventable Disease Control. "For those who have received at least 1 cc of vaccine, the initial paralytic manifestation occurred in only one per cent and none who had received three doses were paralytic. Those not vaccinated, 43 per cent showed some degree of paralysis."

Dr. Blakey pointed out that the rate of immunization is becoming apparent also in the shift of occurrence of cases to a lower age group. Of the total cases this year, 10 are under age 10. About 25 of all new cases have occurred in teenagers. Four cases have occurred in the group 20-30 years of age.

The age groups from 0-5 and 6-9 are less completely protected against polio than those in the 10-14 years of age, Dr. Blakey pointed out.

During the first quarter of the year, teenagers responded very well to immunization, he said, but they have slowed down in the past two months. In contrast, the age group 0-4 started very slowly but has picked up and been given in the preceding months.

Every thing indicates that protection against polio depends on immunization," the director emphasized. "For those not already immunized any delay should be avoided," he warned.

Parents should begin the series at the age of six months, according to Dr. Blakey.

Every susceptible person should receive protection against polio through immunization without delay. The susceptible ages are 0-40. Persons in the group 20-40 should see the physician to arrange for immunization. Those 19 years of age and under should go to the physician or the local health department. Unless the immunization approaches 100 per cent, paralytic polio will continue to occur, and the preventable disease disaster.

County Agent news

By W. C. HAMILTON
Insect Report
Inspection this week showed general build-up in boll weevil, Red Spider and Plant Lice and a decrease in bollworm activity. Average boll weevil infestation for the county is 18 per cent.

Cotton is fruiting heavily with a large number of small bolls present. If a good cotton crop is to be had, continuation of a sound pest control program is a must in order to protect the small bolls now present and those in the maturing stage.

Market Hog Sale
A graded market hog sale will be held at Booneville, Miss., Friday, August 15, beginning at 9:00 a.m.

W. L. Richmond, Extension Animal Husbandman, will do the grading. Hogs will be graded according to the U. S. Standard of No. 1, No. 2 and 0.3. There will be a premium of 1 cent per pound paid for the U. S. No. 1 hogs.

Peach Tree Borer Control
It is time now to begin the DDT method of peach tree borer control. Borer moths are now appearing in orchards. These will continue until sometime in October and they will lay from 200 to 800 eggs each.

The eggs are laid on the trunks of the trees or in cracks in the soil within a few inches of the tree trunk.

Apply the DDT spray to the trunk and lower parts of large limbs and the base of the ground around the tree.

To prepare the spray material, mix one pound of DDT 50 percent wettable powder to 12 gallons of water.

Repeat applications in early September and early October. In late October or early November examine trees carefully. If you find any of borers, treat the tree with ethylene dichloride emulsion.

Alfalfa Planting
It is late, but not too late to start preparing land for fall planting of alfalfa.

There will be much better stands and earlier growth if the land is prepared now than if you wait and prepare the land at planting time.

Lime should be applied to alfalfa land before it is prepared so that it can be mixed with the top part of the soil. Do not apply phosphate, potash and boron when land is being fallowed; wait until planting time.

HOME AGENT NOTES

Tishomingo County Home Demonstration Agent Mississippi Agricultural Extension Service

Keep your zipper closed!
That's a big part of proper care of a slide fastener. Always close zippers before you wash your garments or send them to the dry cleaners.

Before you put a garment through the wringer of a washing machine, close the zipper and cover it with folds of fabric to prevent damage.

Before ironing, lay a press cloth over the zipper and placket fabric and iron gently.

To prevent stretching or sagging, close zippers when you hang garments in the closet.

If there is a hook and eye at the top of a placket or dress opening, fasten the hook before closing the zipper. Then hold the base of the placket firmly so the zipper moves evenly and doesn't catch on the material.

August Flower Notes
Now's the time to prune winteria. Cut back long growth to six or seven eyes.

Dig and divide overcrowded clumps of daylilies or Oriental poppies. Water clumps before digging, or wait until after a rain moistens soil. Cut daylily tops back halfway to roots after dividing clumps.

August is the time to plant new iris or to lift and divide those plants that have been growing in the same place for several years.

Thaw Chicken Before Cooking
It's taking that chicken so long to thaw, wonder if I can't cook it just as well before it completely thaws? You've asked yourself that question, I expect. And maybe tried it.

If you have tried it, you probably found, as cooking specialists have, that it's hard to get a brown crust on the pieces. They say it is always best to thaw a chicken that you are going to fry or broil.

For stewing, you may put the cut-up pieces into the water while still hard-frozen. For roasting, it's best to thaw completely before cooking. Otherwise the outside may be overdone and dry by the time the inside meat is done.

Keep the skin of the chicken covered while it thaws. An uncovered bird becomes tough and dry when it is exposed to the air as it thaws.

Canning Problem
Why does the fruit rise to the top of the jars and leave a lot of liquid at the bottom?

The reason may be one of several: Was the fruit overripe or crushed? Was it not cooked sufficiently? Were the jars preheated enough to drive out the air? Did you use too heavy a syrup? Or was the pack too loose, so the jar has more liquid in proportion to the fruit? Out of these possibilities, you will probably find an answer to this problem.

"Official Warning Tickets" To Be Issued By Miss. Highway Patrolmen

Public Safety Commissioner Tom Scarbrough states that Mississippi Highway Patrolmen will soon be issuing "official warning tickets" where violations are not considered too serious.

Warning ticket books, with an original copy for the violator and carbon for the Patrolman to forward to the violator's permanent driver record file at Highway Patrol headquarters, are being distributed to field patrolmen at this time.

Commissioner Scarbrough said the choice whether to issue a warning ticket or the more severe arrest summons will be left to the individual arresting officer.

"His decision will be final," Commissioner Scarbrough said. "I trust the experience and good judgment of my Patrolmen."

Traffic violators will be expected to sign the warning tickets, a copy of which goes to the driver's permanent file at Patrol headquarters. Refusal to sign the ticket would force the Patrolman to issue the more severe arrest summons carrying a possible fine and court cost.

Commissioner Scarbrough warned against motorists looking on the warning tickets as a means of "beating a traffic fine."

"Accumulation of three warning tickets or summons in a driver's permanent driving file over a suspension of that driver's driving privileges."

Commissioner Scarbrough said, "We are expecting good results from these warning tickets. A need for such has existed for some time."

"In the past, verbal warnings by Patrolmen were of questionable value because no permanent record of the warning ever reached the driver's record at headquarters. Now this has been remedied," he explained.

"Driving is a privilege granted competent individuals so long as it is not abused. The State reserves the right under section 8107 of the Motor Vehicle Code to suspend this privilege when abused."

Two Billion Gain Is Forecast for Philanthropic Assets

Physical assets of the privately supported hospitals, educational and religious institutions in the United States will be increased by more than $2.5 billion in 1958, according to estimates of The American Association of Fund-Raising Council.

Present indications are that there will be close to $2 billion worth of new construction alone this year by churches, private hospitals and educational institutions, says Carlton G. Ketchum, of Pittsburgh, President of the Association.

On the basis of current figures it appears hospital construction will show a considerable increase over last year, while there may be a slight decrease in the church and educational construction over the figures of the boom year 1957.

Of the $2 billion which will be spent for new philanthropic and religious construction in 1958, it is probable that more than half this sum will come in gifts from individuals, foundations and corporations.

The twenty-seven member firms of The American Association of Fund-Raising Council assisted in raising nearly $1 billion last year for hospitals, colleges and universities, churches and other gift supported institutions.

Mr. Dougherty stated that farmers last year used over 280,000 loans from their 497 local production credit associations for over $1.7 billion.

"Among the 20 largest associations in the nation, Tupelo PCA held 2nd place in the number of members as of December 31, 1957, with 4,234 and 7th place in number of loans made in 1957. During the 25 years of its existence, the Tupelo PCA has been recognized as a stabilizing influence in the agricultural credit field of the area that it serves," Mr. Dougherty said.

Highlights of the program will be discussions of the Changes in Rural Living during the past 25 years by Mrs. Mary Hutchinson of Columbus and Looking Ahead in the Field of Agriculture by Henry Leveck, Associate Director of Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Stations, Mississippi State University. Stockholders awards will be given. Following the adjournment of the meeting, stockholders and guests will enjoy a period of fellowship.

The Association makes agricultural loans to stockholders in Alcorn, Chickasaw, Clay, Itawamba, Lee, Lowndes, Monroe, Oktibbeha, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tippah, Tishomingo and Union counties.

"A BAD BEGINNING MAKES A BAD ENDING"

The beginning of any illness is the best time it may be more quickly cured. Serious sickness has not yet taken full hold.

Some people begin badly by either neglecting to take care of themselves or attempting self treatment. Unless they are lucky, sickness time is prolonged and sometimes life, itself, is endangered.

A quicker, happier ending to any sickness is almost assured if you consult your physician quickly and take the specific medicines he may prescribe for your particular trouble.

county. Hey, kids, ... Some cute Hol- cut gals were out selling ads for their annual Monday afternoon ... Francis Frederick, Barbara Hendrix, Wanda Stephens, and Jane Puckett are strictly going to town ... Genie Waddey water- skied in Nashville over the week end and is recuperating in bed this week ... Poor dear! ...

Libby and Lloyd Murrah gave a get acquainted party for their cousin, Elaine Bryant, Tuesday night, ... Elaine is one of those sun-kist cuties from down Florida way ... The living room was decorated with an arrangement of white Hydrangeas on the mantel. There were about twenty-five guys and dolls there. The group played games and danced. Refresh- ments of cookies, pretzels, potato chips and nuts were served from a 'Lazy Susan' and cool refreshing cokes were passed around ... Lots of jokes were thrown at Paula Riley and myself cause of our sack dresses ... Bill Ramsey was teased about being the only boy there with 'bermudas' on and Alvis Murrah was considered the 'old Man' of the crowd ... Why was Ruth Thomas going barefoot? ... The whole gang agreed that it was a 'swell party'.

Better watch that Jimmy Welch when he gets all slicked up in his red suit ... I think Tony Gaines has been having his share of troubles lately ... Got a letter from Mrs. Pat Cooper this week. Pat and Barbara will be home for a visit soon ... Roy and Troy Utley of Paducah, Ky., spent the day with their cousin, Barbara Ann Wiley ... Barbara showed the twins the big town.

Mary Jo Barnett spent last Thursday night and went to school Friday with Lona Rhodes. Mary Jo, Lona, Mildred Ortner, and Mildred Kenaum returned with Mary Jo and had a Pallet Party Friday night ... Friday was Mary Jo's birthday. (She's 15) ... The gals had a splendid time but not much sleep ... We are glad to have Bro. Zelfred Smith home ... He's holding the revival at Pleasant Hill.

At last try-outs are over!! We had a 'fun time' Tuesday at the School ... Everybody was nervous and chewing nails and et cetera ... A few of last years majorettes came over to give us pointers ... We couldn't manage without them ... Pat Foote, Roz Moser, and David Reynolds were all vying for the position of Drum Major ... It was close but our Drum Majorette this year is Miss Pat Foote. Congrats ... Glenda Foote, Libby Murrah, and myself were the majorettes to try- out ... There were three places vacant so, we're all victorious ... There was a group of eleven girls who met with the majorettes and Drum Majorette. They are an ad- ded attraction to the band this year ... They are going to put on a few military drills at the foot- ball games ... Any of you gals who are in the 8th grade and up and would like to workout with us come on over to the school ... We practice everyday about 3:00 ... Rah, Papooses!

All of you guys and dolls breeze in the new library sometime. It's gorgeous ... To say the least. I'm reading two of their books now ... "More than Glamour" and "Prom Trouble" ... They are really good ... The latter is simply hilarious. The C-Y Center has been moved to the center of the park ... It's a perfect place for it ... I have heard about a 'harmonica trio' that has played on street corners ... Are they the 'Tone Deaf's'? ... Glenda Foote was 'Sweet Six- teen' Wednesday ... At last, huh, kid! Well, Crew, tune me in again next issue ... We have a bunch of birthdays the latter part of this week so maybe we can pick up the news of a few parties ... Be sure and buzz me ... See ya 'round.

Research Helps Poultry Industry Solve Problems

State College, Miss.—Through research on breeding, feeding and housing the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station is developing information for poultrymen of the State. A recent report by James E. Hill, head of the poultry department, shows some improvements which may lie ahead for this important Mississippi industry.

Breeding studies include a project on crossing egg and meat type birds to increase egg production in the heavier strains. This would help the broiler producer by making more eggs available for hatching. The study extends beyond egg production, continuing on through to check the growth, confirmation and feathering of the broilers. Encouraging progress has been made and in some cases weights of meat-egg crosses have exceeded that of meat type birds.

Use of antibiotics in feed rations is being tested and much of the information developed has found its way into feed-mixing channels. In one series of tests egg production was increased decisively by the addition of antibiotics to the ration. Other feeding studies have revealed how to improve the pigmentation in broilers. Fish meal and degosypolized cotton seed meal, both local products, have been evaluated as poultry feed. The difference in feed requirements between Leghorn and New Hampshire hens has been established in a protein study.

Housing and management studies have covered such subjects as the effect of lights, comparison of different types of roofs and houses, cage vs floor layers, and the effect of temperature.

The complete report is published in the August issue of Mississippi Farm Research available on request from the Experiment Station at State College. Poultry research is conducted at several of the branch Experiment Stations as well as at Mississippi State University.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS International Uniform Sunday School Lessons BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Leviticus 19:33-37; Deuteronomy 23:7-8; 24:15-16; Matthew 9:9-13; John 4:7-9, 39-41; Galatians 3:26-28; Devotional Reading: Psalm 10:10-18.

Minorities

Lesson for August 17, 1958

THE Bible is a man's book. But that's not all. The Bible is a property-owner's book, it is a book for the "dominant classes" of society. This does not mean it is not for everybody. But the fact is, the laws and the letters and indeed most of the Bible, you will discover when you read it carefully, is addressed to people who are in positions of authority. It is all the more remarkable, therefore, and a sign that the Bible is inspired by something besides Dr. Foreman wishes of the dispossessed—all the more remarkable that the Bible writers speak out clearly on behalf of the depressed classes, the little people, the people who could not speak for themselves, the people who probably could neither read nor write and of course had no Bibles themselves.

The Stranger

In ancient times everybody belonged somewhere. People did not move about from city to city, from farm to farm, as they do here. In America, on the average, every family moves once every five years. In ancient Palestine a family would stay in one locality for 500 years, wars and pestilence permitting. Strangers were not (as with us often) interesting people, to be invited out and "cultivated." Strangers were under suspicion—what would a man be doing so far from home? The strangers in any land were a voiceless, voteless, disorganized minority. Yet God commanded the Hebrew majority to remember that they themselves were strangers once in Egypt, and to take special care of strangers in their own land.

The Hired Man

Some hired men are stable members of the community. They contribute to its welfare in various ways besides doing their jobs well. But there are workers who drift about, sometimes in large numbers. Last winter many thousands of migrant workers were stranded in heatless sheds in Florida's sensational cold spell. Their work was gone, they had no place to live, no hope of earning anything until crops farther north began to ripen. Such workers are another minority group. They do not stay in any one place long enough even for the children to get started in school. If one of them dies it will be hardly mentioned in the paper. Whatever happens to them, many respectable people think, "Oh, it's only one of those tramp workers."

Does your community give any kind of recognition or help to migrant workers? Do cotton-pickers, bean-pickers, summer hired help, have any place to go in your community? Do Christians have any responsibilities for them?

The Disrespectables

Everybody is a sinner. But some people are outrageous sinners, and they are another minority. A pessimist might say that you have to be a pretty outrageous sinner to be worse-than-average enough to be noticed. Such were the tax-collectors or "publicans" of the New Testament. They were "bloodsuckers" and everybody knew it. For a present-day Christian, the minority corresponding to these "sinners" would be the classes the church generally gives up, washes its hands of, forgets: boys in reformatories, for example, men in the penitentiary, ex-convicts. Jesus was accused of having too much to do with such people. Is your church more like Jesus, or more like the Pharisees, in its attitude toward them?

No Lines Drawn

We have minorities outside the church. What about minorities inside it? Does the church have second-class members as certain states and countries have second-class citizens? St. Paul mentions what were then the sharpest lines dividing men from men—Jew from Gentile, slave from free man, male from female; and he tells us such lines do not belong in the Christian church. They should never be drawn. Any church setting limits or qualifications to its membership which were not drawn by Christ and his apostles, raises at once a fair question: Is this any longer a Christian church?

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

REPORTER SAVES WOULD-BE SUICIDE ON CHRISTMAS EVE

It was Christmas Eve. A police reporter on the Seattle Post Intelligence of Seattle, Washington, was sitting at his typewriter when suddenly an overwhelming impulse came to him. Not knowing why, he hurried to Pioneer Square, three blocks away, just in time to knock a loaded pistol away from the head of a man about to shoot himself.

A cold rain was falling, and the gun slid across the glistening grass. Everything seemed so unreal that the reporter felt that he was enacting a strange drama. Across the street at a glance he noticed the time shown by a clock in the window of a restaurant. It was five minutes past 7:00.

Just a few minutes before, he had been sitting at his typewriter. Now here he was in Seattle's "Skid Row" with a man he had just saved from death.

Where did the impulse come from that sent him out into the dreary night? What had sent him directly to the spot where a human being was about to hurl himself into eternity?

The man dropped on his knees and began fumbling in the wet grass for the gun. The reporter pushed him with his foot and he sprawled on his face. Then the reporter picked up the gun. "Let's go home," he said. "Where do you live? What's your name? Is it Jack?"

"How did you know my name?" asked the man who was sobbing.

"I don't know," said the reporter, "but let's go somewhere where we can talk."

The poor fellow shook his head. "I don't want to talk," he said.

But then words came pouring out of him. "I can't go on. I can't face them. My children will have no Christmas presents, no food, no money. I am sick and I'm tired. I want to get away from it."

Somehow the reporter was able to persuade Jack B. to let him take him home. When they walked into the house, two little girls about three and five years old rushed to their father. His wife ran to him and put her arms around him. She looked at the reporter and said, "I've been worried sick. Tonight when he didn't come home by 7:00 o'clock, I prayed and asked God to please take care of him and bring him safely home. And here he is."

Suddenly the reporter realized why the impulse had come to him at exactly 7:00 o'clock. Prayer had spanned the distance and God had used him as an answer to her prayer. (This story was related by Alexander Lake in "Your Prayers Are Always Answered.")

It is my firm conviction that prayer is the greatest privilege God ever gave a human being. I love to pray. It is through prayer that I can make direct contact with God. By calling upon a Power higher than myself, I am relieved of excess burdens. Sometimes my most effectual prayer is not expressed in words but in the deep longings of my heart. I believe that God is bigger than the need and wiser than the problem. He is too good to do wrong, too wise to make a mistake.

When I pray I believe that God is, that He is good, that He is near. There is no distance in prayer.

Bright Ideas

PERFECT ROSES are the garden-er's masterpiece. Yet it's easy to grow a garden full if you do four things: mulch with peat moss to preserve moisture; fertilize thoroughly, one handful per bush; use one bucketful of water per plant if 10 days go by without rain; and spray or dust once a week or after each rain. Roses are simpler to keep healthy than cure when they're sick. Most diseases begin when foliage is wet, spray or dust within 24 hours after each rain. It's easy with a push-button sprayer, such as the Anrol Rose Bomb, or a handy squeeze duster, like the Anrol Multi-Purpose Dust. Both products are lethal to the baker's dozen of insects that can attack roses. If you spot danger signs on your rose bushes—black spot, powdery mildew, or rust—remove the infected parts and spray every few days until the disease is under control.

PLANNING A LATE SUMMER TRIP? It's best to broach the subject fully armed with a carefully planned itinerary and a realistic budget. Tip: Check with your local bank to see what travel services it offers. You may be pleasantly surprised at how much help it can give you. Banks these days grant travel loans, provide vacation savings plans, sell traveler's checks, issue letters of credit, transfer funds and in some cases make airline, train and hotel reservations. Some even maintain complete travel departments.

MR. BEN

HONORS HIS NAME—Dr. Ben Hilbun, (left) president of Mississippi State University, looks over the score of a new march written and arranged by Charles Edward Bardsley, Jr., (right) and called "Mr. Ben." Knowing that Dr. Hilbun is called "Mr. Ben" by his thousands of friends through the state, Composer Bardsley used that title to "pay tribute to a great man of service." The new march will be played for the first time later this fall by the famous Maroon Band.

First Forest Conservation Stamp In History Goes On Sale October 27

The 4-cent Forest Conservation commemorative stamp, which goes on first-day sale on October 27, 1958, at Tucson, Arizona at the Annual Meeting of the American Forestry Association, will be printed in three colors on the Giori press in yellow, brown, and green. The stamp, 0.84 by 1.44 inches, arranged vertically, features the major aspects of forest conservation, including new growth of young trees and the harvesting of mature timber under scientific forest management; home and shelter for wildlife and birds; and protected watersheds.

This first forest conservation stamp in history commemorates the 100th anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, one of the earliest forest conservationists in the country. It also salutes the many private and public agencies which have played a large part in the progress made in the protection and wise use of the Nation's natural resources.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Tucson, Arizona, together with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed. An enclosure of medium weight should be placed in each envelope and the flap turned in or sealed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster at Tucson should be endorsed "First Day Covers Forest Conservation Stamp." Collectors should bear in mind that this is a vertical stamp and envelopes should be addressed in the lower left corner, particularly when blocks are desired.

The first day cancellation at Tucson will portray the head of "Smokey Bear" and the wording "Keep America Green."

Driver License Renewal Reminder Discontinued

Increased postal rates and "other prohibitive expenses" have prompted the Mississippi Highway Patrol driver license division to discontinue its practice of mailing out renewal reminders.

According to Public Safety Commissioner Tom Scarbrough, the sending of IBM punched renewal warnings was inaugurated by the Patrol five years ago at a total annual expense of approximately $6,000.00.

Today, Scarbrough points out, the same service to license holders costs the department approximately $15,000.00.

In addition to advanced postal rates, he cited the increased volume of driver license registrations and the necessity for hiring additional clerical personnel to process the renewal notices as reasons for abandoning the service.

Mississippi driver licenses expire at quarterly periods: March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31. In the past, the renewal reminders were mailed to license holders two months before their

The Nation's first forest conservation postage stamp goes on sale October 27 at Tucson, Arizona during the annual meeting of the American Forestry Association. The issue was designed by the Post Office Department to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, one of this country's earliest forest conservationists, and to salute the many private and public agencies whose cooperation has helped make possible the progress in forest conservation.

First-day mailings will be cancelled with the above die featuring the Smokey Bear and the Keep America Green forest fire prevention programs.
