WVOM Radio will Observe its Birthday

Sunday, Sept. 17;
Year Of Operation
Proves Gratifying

With a great deal of pride, the management and staff of Radio WVOM announce that the first birthday of the station will be observed on Sunday, September 17. A program commemorating the station's first anniversary is being prepared and will be broadcast at various intervals.

WVOM went on the air at 5 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 17, 1960, for its scheduled broadcast. It has been on the air each and every day since and has been off for short intervals due to technical difficulties. These difficulties, which have been corrected, have not interrupted the station's first anniversary celebration.

WVOM, since its very first day, has proven to be every bit as good as its name. It has been a station with listeners over a wide area extending from the Tri-Cities to Alabama west to Walnut and Miss., and from Decatur, Tennessee, south to Fulton, Georgia, Mississippi, Telephone Area 1 and letters from listeners in areas have been often and graciously "It is gratifying to so many people over such a wide area enjoy our programs."

Hotsford, owner of the station, said, "It has been our aim from the beginning to present the kind of programs people of the area want to hear. Our music has been selected by personality announcers who have demonstrated pride in doing a good job," the owner said. "Presenting personality radio on WVOM is Buddy Bain, Charles and Charlie Whitley. Charlie has been in charge of the program from 5 to 10 a.m., daily, and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., daily, and Charles Kay from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., daily. The broadcast facilities of WVOM have been offered and in fund-raising campaigns, Cross blood donor campaigns, have been used in all worthy causes affecting citizens in the area's wide listening area. The are very grateful and thankful for the many fine people who have bought time on Radio Station WVOM," the station further stated. "We, through the aid of trained personnel, have been able to give the best service to all advertisers, and it is our aim and intention to give this service as time goes on."

WVOM has come a long, long way since its first broadcast. The cooperation of the fine citizens in the areas it serves, the management and staff of the station, the desire, the aim and ambition to produce an even better broadcast outlet for entertainment and information," the station concluded.

COUNTY FAIR IN PROGRESS THIS WEEK

Singing And Revival At Asphalt Church

An all day service has been planned by the Asphalt Rock Baptist Church, Cherokee, R-1, for Sunday, September 17. The program for the day calls for the regular morning worship service, dinner spread on the ground at the noon hour, and singing in the afternoon.

Singers of Iuka and Tishomingo County are especially invited to come out and help make this one of the biggest and best singings that the Asphalt Rock Baptist Church has ever had. Singings are also held each Saturday night at the church.

In the evening at 7:30, will be the first service of the revival. Rev. Grubbs of the Highland Baptist Church, Tishomingo, will be the visiting evangelist. Services will be held each evening throughout the week. Everyone is invited to attend.

ATTENDS COMMUNITY MERIT PROGRAM

Mrs. J. C. Byrd, representing the Iuka Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. W. D. Ramsey, representing the Tishomingo County Electric Power Association, were among more than 100 Northeast Mississippians who gathered in Tupelo last week for the first of 6 workshops to be held throughout the state concerning the Mississippi merit community program. The program is designed to build a better community and actually develops a long range blue print for progress.

DENNIS CURTIN ORDAINED

An ordination service was held at the Asphalt Rock Baptist Church Sunday, September 10 to ordain Bro. Dennis (Pat) Curtin to the gospel ministry.

The presbytery consisted of the following ministers: Bro. Clyde Vinson, Bro. Bob Moritz, Bro. Robert Woodfin, Bro. Millard Tally, Bro. Jerry Howie and pastor, Bro. R. C. Scott; Deacons: Woodrow Wright, Allen Elliott and Paul Hendricks.

It's Good For The Community

Most of us have noticed, with approval, the nice appearance of the Tishomingo County Courthouse and grounds.

During the past few months the building has been painted a becoming pastel green, planter boxes have been constructed and flowers have been made to grow and bloom. . . . The grounds (or yard) at the courthouse has been given a treatment of finely ground limestone gravel; the walk around the courthouse has been repaired, being bordered with Tishomingo sandstone; the monument in the courthouse yard has also been decorated with the same type of sandstone. . . .

All this at the courthouse is one of the grandest things that could be done. It demonstrates a great deal of pride and shows good housekeeping on the part of county officials. . . . Everyone at the courthouse had a part in this beautification program, but the Sheriff, with the help of all the office holders, secured the approval of the Board of Supervisors to use inmates of the jail in doing most of the work.

We are happy and pleased to note these fine efforts at beautification.

And further—

We are happy to note that certain steps are being taken by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of Iuka toward cleaning of what has been unsightly and ugly spots in the center of the Fair City of Iuka. . . . Tate Street that runs alongside the city hall south in front of the farm Co-op building across the railroad, is getting a hair cut (so to speak). The sides of the street are being trimmed off and for the first time in ten years drainage ditches on the street are becoming visible. These ditches are really in better condition than most people think for. They are well-made, being lined with concrete and stone.

Cleaning of the street rights of way is quite important to good grooming of the community and it is hoped that this will not be the only street to receive this treatment.

Those who are responsible for this good grooming are to be commended. . . . It's all good for the community!

Farmers Urged To Sign For Assistance In ACP Practice

Representatives Of ASC Office Will Visit Belmont And Tishomingo Tues.

Hurry, Mr. Farmer, to the ASCS Office and sign for assistance in carrying out an ACP practice on your farm under the 1961 or 1962 program.

A representative of the ASCS office will be at Belmont on Tuesday morning from 8:00 a.m. to 12 noon and at Tishomingo from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Tuesday afternoon to the next three or four weeks to help farmers sign for these practices in those communities.

The amount of money set aside by the Tishomingo ASCS County Committee for fall practice will soon be used and you will not get anything.

Check your needs for the following list of practices: (1) Establish a few acres of new pasture; (2) plant a supplemental grazing crop of oats or ryegrass; (3) sow winter cover crop (Hairy Vetch, A W Peas, Crimson Clover) on your cotton or corn land. Don't wait until you harvest the crop off of this land. Get the cover crop now and sow in the middles without plowing. A good stand and growth will be there when you have finished gathering; (4) Lime some pasture or cropland; (5) dig a stock pond; (6) cut a drainage ditch; (7) build some V and W ditches; (8) do 10.0 acres of timber stand improvement; (9) construct a system of terraces.

Approximately 412 farmers in Tishomingo County rented land under the 1961 Feed Grain Program. This land is idle right now. Plow under this heavy weed crop and plant oats, rye grass, vetch or crimson clover on this land while the ACP program will pay at least 50% of the cost.

If you are a farmer that has not used any of your farm allowance for 1961 or 1962, the small increase in payment, will apply to your 1st practice. Check these examples: (1) A 6 ton load of lime delivered and spread will cost you $4.30. (2) Build a 1000 cu. yard stock pond—total cost to you $66.00. (3) Sow 4 acres of hairy vetch, 25 lbs. of seed per ac. total to you $4.40. (No fertilizer required if following a crop that was fertilized. (4) Sow 4 acres of oats (for grazing) using 3 bu. of oats and 1 1/2 CWT. of mixed fertilizer (30-10-0) per ac.—total cost to you approximately $16.00, total cost per ac. $4.00.

There are many other mixtures you can sow. Check on these.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT BURNSVILLE SCHOOL

A musical program featuring Harold Quillen and the Dixie Melody Boys and The Bains—Buddy and Kay—will be presented at the Burnsville high school auditorium on Friday night, September 22. The program will commence at 7:30 and will continue for about an hour and a half with a variety of music.

These groups of entertainers are stars of WVOM's Saturday afternoon Town and Country Jamboree. The Dixie Melody Boys are recording artists for cloud records and the Bains record for Tune Recording Company.

The public is cordially invited to attend this event for an enjoyable and entertaining program.

HANG ON TO IT!

That is the title to an advertisement of the Southern Railway System in this issue of The Vidette. The advertisement points out the fact that the South leads in 29 of 34 fields of business activity. The advertisement gives the percentage of increase in the South compared to the U. S. as a whole. We believe Southern Railway has a fine point when they say "Hang on to it." If you, too, will read the ad, you'll see what we mean.—Ed.

Plans Progress For Recreational Lake At Tish. State Park

State Park Director James A. Sides reported to the State Park Commission that a great deal of interest has been demonstrated by citizens of the Tishomingo and Belmont areas in the construction of a lake at Tishomingo State Park. The commission held its regular monthly meeting at the Leroy Percy State Park Monday at Greenwood.

Mr. Sides stated that a number of public spirited citizens of Tishomingo and Belmont wrote letters, sent telegrams and made telephone calls to him expressing interest in the lake.

He further reported to the Commission that the State Forestry Commission has been asked to proceed with marking and marketing the trees on the area that will become the lake. And also steps are being taken to clear the area of all underbrush.

It was pointed out during the park commission that Tishomingo State Park will be the only Mississippi State Park that will be on the Natchez Trace parkway. This is a scenic route that will extend from Nashville, Tenn., to Natchez, Miss., and will go directly through the Tishomingo park area.

Among other action of the Park Commission during its regular monthly meeting was the decision to require all state park superintendents to wear uniforms. This is for identification purposes so that visitors to all the state parks will know who is in authority.

Election On October 3 Will Be Another First For Miss.

Governor Barnett Makes Statement Concerning Important Issue

"The special election to be held on Tuesday, October 3, will be the first time in the history of this nation, that the people of an entire state, have had an opportunity to express at the polls their approval of industrial development," said Governor Ross, Barnett, this week, while discussing the $125-million Standard Oil Company (Kentucky) refinery to be built at Pascagoula.

The special election was authorized at an extraordinary session of the Mississippi legislature last month. Two amendments to the State Constitution will appear on the October 3 ballot. One would allow the counties of the state to extend from five to ten years ad valorem tax exemptions on new industries and expansions or additions to present industries. The other would permit the sale of 16th Section lands involved in industrial development, or the lease of such lands for 99 years, when approved by the legislature.

Governor Barnett is pointing out that this election is another big "first" for Mississippi, also said:

"I have, with Joe Bullock, Director of the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board, just completed another industrial trip to the east and without exception each of the industrialists we visited were greatly impressed by the fact that Mississippi has been selected as the location for this major installation, which proves again that this is the one big break through we have needed so badly. This is the greatest single industrial development ever presented to the people of Mississippi, and it has impressed industrialists all over the nation. I predict that a big favorable vote, by the people of Mississippi, on October 3rd, will help our Agricultural and Industrial Board, and all of our other industrial development people, and will result in the location of many sizeable plants in many areas of the state, at a more rapid rate than ever before.

"Indeed, Tuesday, October 3rd, will most certainly be another 'first' and Mississippi's Day of Greatest Industrial Opportunity," the Governor said.

A complete transcript of the two proposed amendments to the Constitution are printed in this issue of your newspaper. They are printed as a legal notice so that citizens of this area may have the opportunity to know what the amendments contain.

Iuka Shirt Co. Expansion Planned

New Machines Arriving This Week; To Enlarge Building 10,000 Feet

Max Glaser, owner of Iuka Shirt Co., Inc., announces this week that plans are underway for the expansion of the garment manufacturing plant in Iuka. Mr. Glaser states that negotiations are going on and that if the desired decision is reached, the building will be enlarged an additional 10,000 square feet.

Sixteen new sewing machines will be installed in the sewing operation this week, according to Dalton Cooper, manager of the shirt company.

"These sixteen machines will bring our building to its full capacity," Mr. Cooper stated. Earlier this year we added 20 additional machines, so we are beginning to be crowded," he said.

A few years ago, the shirt manufacturing plant was enlarged by 10,000 square feet. With that enlargement, the cutting and shipping departments were expanded. "Our need now," Mr. Cooper said, "is for more sewing room."

The Shirt Co. plant is now air conditioned and Mr. Glaser states that the new addition will also be completely air conditioned. With completion of the new addition, the Iuka Shirt Co. will employ upwards of 250 men and women.

Employment at Iuka Shirt Co. has steadily risen during the past two years. When the 16 additional machines are put into operation the plant will bring its employment up to 150. This compared to the 85 employed two years ago shows a 77% increase for the two year period.

"We now have openings for a limited number of experienced operators," Mr. Cooper said.

"The plant has been working an average of fifty hours a week most of this year," the manager continued. We, Mr. Glaser and I, appreciate the staunch loyalty of our fine employees. We realize that these fine people have made our progress possible and it is only through continued cooperation that we all can continue to go forward," the manager said.

According to Mr. Cooper, business has been good and the future continues to look bright in the shirt manufacturing business.

Larger Crowds, More Interest Than Ever Before Is Of Important Note

Tishomingo County's Ninth Annual Fair and Livestock show is in full swing this week with larger crowds than ever before being recorded. Tuesday night was a record attendance when citizens of the area gathered to hear the Town and Country Jamboree in front of the grand stand.

Exhibits this year are outstanding in the livestock and poultry classes with a greater number of all types being on display. In the women's divisions, displays will be entered today for judging.

Most judging will be done today with Friday being devoted to judging of beef cattle only and the sale of Sears 4-H Club pullets.

Tonight, one of the biggest events of the fair will take place when the Youth Talent Contest will be staged.

This important affair will be held in front of the grandstand and is expected to draw some real competition from over the entire county. Out of county judges have been secured to judge this program which will feature vocal solos, instrumental numbers, dances, duets, novelty groups and other forms of entertainment talent. This show should prove to be well worth any one's time to go and see.

On Friday night another important event will be the selection of the Junior and Senior Kings and Queens of the Tishomingo County Fair. Already reports are that a vast number of contestants have entered and competition promises to be real keen.

The fair will come to a close Saturday night.

They were Annette Wade, Mike Elledge, Larry Russell Bonds, and Doyle Morton of Burnsville and Bobby Glover of Iuka. Recognition was made in the form of gold certificates and gold medals artistically designed and furnished by the Sears Roebuck Foundation.

Civil Defense Info Available From Extension Workers

Practical information for Civil Defense in rural areas of Mississippi is available from county agents, home demonstration agents and others of the Agricultural Extension Service.

This new responsibility of the agents is announced by W. M. Bost, associate director of the Extension Service. It follows an agreement with the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The agents have the latest bulletins and other information on radioactive fallout on the farm, biological warfare against livestock and crops, food stockpiles and other problems. They will make this practical preparedness a part of their regular educational work. The rural defense information program will be in close cooperation with State Civil Defense officials and the USDA State and County Emergency Planning committees.

"If our nation is ever attacked, our food supply and continued production ability would be vital for survival," Mr. Bost stated. "Farmers have a responsibility both to themselves and the nation to be informed about how an attack would endanger their livestock, crops and continued production, as well as their families. They need to know so they can take all practical preparedness steps now and be ready for fast emergency action if needed," he said.

Pastors Needed

Lesson for September 17, 1961

NO OTHER religion but Christianity has anything like a pastor. They have monks, priests, "holy men," religious beggars, preachers; but no pastors. When the Christian religion began, there was no precedent for pastors. No body drew up a diagram of church organization and put the pastor into it. This particular "office" (a very dry word for it) of the pastorate grew into existence as the church grew. Certain men

Dr. Foreman proved to be indispensable doing the kind of thing that pastors do, and so the pastor began to be a long-lived institution.

A man first

A good pastor is a man first. You can't take a misfit and make a pastor out of him. There is no other occupation in the world like it, there is no other that calls for so many different kinds of skills. We have a picture in the New Testament—you might say a set of snap-shots rather than a full-length movie—of a young man developing into a pastor: namely Titus, a close friend of Paul. He traveled with Paul around the rim of Asia, as a missionary; but he was much more than an ordinary traveling companion. Paul was a Jew and Titus a Greek, yet Paul was extremely fond of him and depended on him no little. He writes in one place that his mind could have no rest, because Titus was not there. Titus was his second self; if Paul could not reach a church, he would send Titus in his place. This was not merely formal, so that Paul would be "represented;" Titus was sent into some pretty troublesome and ticklish situations, but always made good. He could operate in a team or on his own. We see him as a young man (so young that Paul called him "my child") with a firm character, with high ideals; a reliable, dependable man, a real leader of men. Other things being equal, the better the man, the better pastor he will be.

Worker with people

Not all friendly men make good pastors; but a good pastor must be a good friend, as he must be a good man. He needs to be sympathetic with the people of his church and community; but unlike so many of our friends the pastor will never be quite satisfied with us. For his high and difficult aim is to produce better Christians, to help every one he knows to become a Christian, if not one already, and to be a better Christian if the Christian life has already begun. He is a kind of gardener of souls, and that is a harder kind of garden to care for than orchids. Titus must have had tact, because Paul used him so often as a trouble-shooter; he had sympathy with other Christians, we never hear of his getting into church fights and arguments. The good pastor identifies himself in his mind's eye with those with whom and for whom he works,—he takes us as we are—but does not leave us as we are. This, we remember, was the way of Jesus.

He's wanted!

The church of Christ has always had officers and leaders, from the first. But the church came first, the officers and leaders grew out of the needs of the Christian community. No church-full of people really gets on very well without leaders. In Louisville, Kentucky, there is a congregation which for many years had as its pastor a bank president, who declined to take any salary from his congregation. But however it's done, such a leader is always needed. There aren't nearly enough. The best service a church can render to the world is to produce young men who will volunteer for the Christian ministry, especially as pastors. But how is this done? The experience of Titus gives us a hint. Paul took this young man with him, he drafted him, so to speak, into the service of Christ and the church. It is quite true, as Christians are aware, that only the Holy Spirit can call a man to the ministry. But God's call often reaches men, as it reached Titus, through the suggestion, help and example of older Christians who are God's messengers to the young and undecided. Does your church encourage its young people to listen for the call of God?

Mary Carolyn Marlar

Miss Marlar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Marlar of Burnsville will be among 65 young ladies graduating from the Baptist Memorial Hospital School of Nursing Friday night, Sept. 8, at Bellevue Baptist Church of Memphis. Dr. W. Marshall Craig, renowned evangelist of the Southern Baptist Convention from Dallas, Texas, will speak at the Commencement Exercises at 8 p. m.

32 Acres Coastal Bermuda Produces 2200 Bales of Hay

Mr. John Burns has set a pasture record this summer that will be hard to beat.

On his Midway and Carter's Branch farms, he harvested 2200 bales of Coastal Bermuda hay and grazed 50 head of beef cattle on the same 32 acres of Coastal Bermuda pasture.

Mr. Burns is doing an excellent job in changing his farming operation over from row crops to pasture and beef cattle.

The Commissioners of the Tennessee River Soil Conservation District recommend Coastal Bermuda for pasture and hay.

Coastal Bermuda is a good soil conserving plant, and is most efficient in the use of nitrate fertilizer. Four to five tons of hay per acre is not an unusual amount to expect from a fertilized stand of Coastal Bermuda during a normal season. However, most farmers use it for both hay and pasture. This is the way Mr. Burns uses his and he is quite well pleased with the results.

Your home freezer can be one of your best friends. It can help you serve your family and guests nutritious food more easily and with less time and energy.

When you fill your freezer with variety of high quality fruits, vegetables, meat and poultry and some cooked, baked and partially prepared foods, it is easy to prepare interesting, attractive and nutritious meals. Sometimes you can take an entire meal from the freezer.

Just as you plan how you will use the family's money to get the most for what you spent, so must you plan for the use of the freezer. Frozen foods can play prominent roles for your meal throughout the day and between meals, at snack and refreshment time.

The planning of meals around the use of quick frozen foods becomes a matter of meeting the standards of good meal planning: Do you have variety of flavor, texture, shape and color? Have you provided for adequate nutrition for every family member's needs?

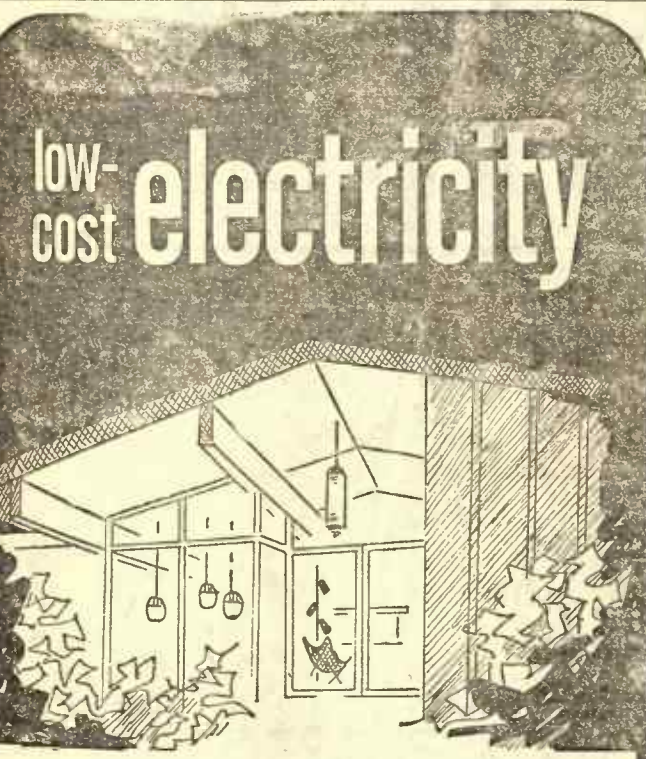

How Much Credit?

Since you can buy so many things on credit and borrow money from several sources, it is easy to use more credit than your situation justifies.

Family situations differ greatly regarding to resources and how credit will be used. Advice, therefore, on how much credit you can rely use, doesn't apply to every situation.

Some authorities suggest that it's best to avoid credit unless you have $2 current assets for each dollar of credit you are thinking of getting.

Other financial advisors recommend that you should not take on consumer debts, other than for home ownership, that exceed over 20 percent of your yearly take home pay. Another recommendation is that you not buy on the installment plan more than you can pay for with 10 percent of your income in one to two years.

Keep these guidelines in mind when you are thinking of borrowing money to buy consumer goods. They will help you make good use of credit. Credit can be a friend in need if you use it wisely. Abuse it or overuse it and it will surely hurt you.

Check Bulbs in Lamps

Are the sockets all filled? Do you have at least 150 watts in each reading lamp? Use "white" bulbs for eye work; try tinted bulbs for decorative effect only.

Just a little dust can steal a lot of light from your lamps. Include lamp shades, diffusers and bulbs in your regular dusting to get the full light output from them.

North Alabama Stat Fair Begins Monday

Beginning Monday, September 18, and ending Saturday night, September 23, the 27th edition of the North Alabama State Fair in Florence promises to be one of the finest and most colorful ever seen in the Tennessee Valley.

Unique among the extensive livestock exhibits will be the showing of a herd of Santa Gertrudis cattle from Winthrop Rockefeller's Winrock Farm, Magnolia, Arkansas. The Santa Gertrudis breed of cattle were developed by the King Ranch in Texas and this will be their first appearance at the Florence Fair. Many other breeds of cattle and livestock from the finest farms in the Tennessee Valley and surrounding states will be shown as products of home, farm and factory from over a wide area.

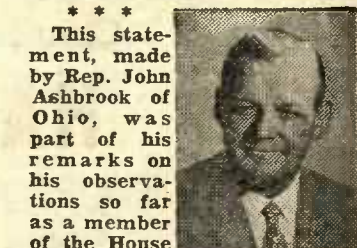

A five room house has been erected at the fairgrounds and will be given as a door prize Thursday at 7:30 P.M. Three Automobiles will be given, one each on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings at 7:30. The ever-popular Youth Talent Contest is scheduled for Tuesday, the 19th, at six o'clock P.M. Twelve breath-taking acts by some of the world's greatest artists will be featured in the big two-hour grandstand show twice daily. Included are the internationally famous Hanniford of Ringling Bros., and recently seen on the Ed Sullivan show, Slivers Johnson and his caper-cutting Ford, the Olympic Sky Divers and others.

The office at the fairgrounds is now open for the transaction of business.

Admission prices remain the same as in previous years.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

"It is about time we recognize that we have a genuine crisis in our country and to follow policies which go beyond the realm of being a generous free world leader which will ultimately weaken the strength of the free world."

This statement, made by Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio, was part of his remarks on the House Special Committee investigating the impact of imports and exports on employment in the United States.

He reports that the State Dept. gets too many people to listen to them when it is brought out that restricting imports of residual oil will help employment in the coal mines of America. State Dept. says this will create a crisis in Venezuela. But crisis that exists in American coal communities is not, presumably, supposed to be recognized.

Rep. Ashbrook points out that we allow Canada to ship gas and oil into the U. S. duty free, but if we ship coal to Canada, the Canadians charge 50 cents per ton duty.

He also takes a broad swipe at the bureaucratic news releases that say the balance of world trade is in favor of the U. S. If that were true, he points out, we would not be continually losing gold reserve.

As a matter of fact, Rep. Ashbrook says, in 1960 our give away items, counted as part of world trade, not only knocked out $5 billion dollar

HUBBARD SALEM

There will be a baptizing at the J. P. Coleman State Park Sunday evening, Sept. 17, at 2:30. This will be following the revival at Hubbard Salem. Everyone is invited.

Miss Shirley Bonds spent the day with Joann Grisham Sunday. Rev. William Talley of Florence, Ala., will preach at Hubbard Salem Sunday.

Visiting in the Alma Bugg home over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Bart Bugg of near Corinth, balance favoring U. S., but left deficit of $3.8 billion.

In addition, the U. S. under the farm programs is selling cotton abroad for 30 to 40% of the world price, last year shipped 600 million bushels of wheat with a subsidy of 65 cents per bushel. Without the half billion dollar subsidy on these two products alone, there would not have been $2 billion worth exported. Thus, figures on American import-export trade are fallacious.

Rep. Ashbrook also points out that Russia reneged on paying into the United Nations its share of the costs that have so far been incurred in keeping things quiet in the Congo. The United States picked up the Russian share of this tab totaling $15 million. Where did the money come from?

Here is Rep. Ashbrook's answer: "Congress would never appropriate this sum for such folly so that takes $5 million from the President's contingent fund and $10 million from the foreign aid fund and literally gives it away to aid our enemy. Congress has already appropriated these amounts so we have no check on them. A logical question, however, is just who is obligating us to help pay the communist's share. Again we see a sign of our national weakness. We should insist that the Reds pay up or get out but instead the communists make mockery of the U. N. and we blithely make our own beleaguered taxpayers the fall guys once more. In effect, this means we are financing both sides of the Congo operation."

This all seems to add up to one thing.

America's future appears to depend on an aroused Congress.

Forestry Notes

By Larry Brewer
Area Forester

During these days when we are hearing so much about what we are accomplishing in the field of forestry, do you ever stop and wonder just how much work and effort is still needed in order for us to reach our goal of having every acre in full production?

There are over 6 million acres of unproductive land throughout the state of Mississippi. Just think how large an area 6 million acres really is. This is an area almost 30 times as large as the entire area of Tishomingo County. I want to remind you that one of the most practical methods of putting these unproductive acres into production

Comment from the Capital —

SOW SEEDS FIRST

by Vant Neff

The other day Labor Secretary Goldberg gave us some bad news about unemployment. His department records show that over 1,000,000 Americans have been out of work for six months or longer. We seem to be headed for greater national prosperity, but the number of hard-core unemployed is growing too. 100,000 workers were added to this list in July.

The administration has certainly done a great deal to help workers who have lost their jobs. They have extended unemployment benefits; aided children of the unemployed; appropriated millions of dollars to stimulate local industry where factories have had to shut down or move away.

The money to support these programs comes from you and me and all individuals who are working and from companies and business firms on whose success depends the creation and maintenance of jobs and who must pay taxes to create the new jobs to care for the unemployed.

Something must be wrong. The economy is starting to boom. Sales are up. Wages are up. Why hasn't business hired more people and cut this unemployment rate sharply? Most business people say that the answer is costs. The administration has more than provided for the unemployed. But it has not provided the tools that the American businessman needs — tax relief and tax incentives to retain profits, expand business and hire more people.

Many businessmen have invested vast sums of money in new plants and equipment in the last ten years. Yet their profit after taxes remains about the same as it was in 1951. When you think about it — the government can't create jobs. Jobs come from employers who have the money and equipment to offer employment. Can you harvest a crop without seeds? Did you ever hear of a farmer making any money that way?

This is the mistake the government has been making: Instead of sowing the seeds for more jobs by giving business the means to grow, they move to raise taxes, reduce profits, and so curtail the creation of new jobs in industry.

Short-sighted union leaders are also adding to the woes of the unemployed by demanding not only more fringe benefits but higher wages for less work. All of these demands must be paid for by the employer. There isn't enough money left after wages and taxes are paid to invest in expansion. Rather than take on new people, the employer must cut his staff.

One electronics firm agreed to a four cent an hour wage increase if the employees would trim a few minutes from two fifteen-minute coffee breaks a day. In this way the firm could have gained minutes of work to offset the increase or part of it. At this writing, they are still on strike; the union wants full coffee breaks and the raise too. How can such a firm hire any additional people when it can't get the union representing the present employees to give just a little in helping to create new positions?

There has been a great hue and cry about automation being responsible for the large number of people unemployed. Now if automation didn't make this country great, what did? Your car, your refrigerator, your television and telephone, in fact almost anything you can name has resulted from efficient factory production. Despite temporary dislocation, automation and mass production have always in the long run, created more employment and higher living standards.

Growth occurs when businessmen can hang on to enough of their profits to expand and create more jobs. Now the government wants to tax these profits even higher, take away this money and pay out more in "relief." It just won't work. It hasn't in the past eight months and it won't in the next eight years.

That's putting the cart before the horse. If new jobs are to come they will come from businesses that have the money left to create them. Without the seeds of profit there's no reason to believe that the harvest will be anything but more unemployed.

3 Year Study Shows Fescue Least Expensive In Wintering Beef Cows

Fescue was the cheapest method of wintering beef cows in a three-year study at the Black Belt Branch Experiment Station. Four rations were compared in wintering periods of 100 days.

Fescue grazing cost $12.20 per cow. One ton silage, 1 ton hay and 100 pounds cottonseed meal cost $19.00 per cow. For frosted pasture grass, 200 pounds cottonseed meal, 600 pounds crushed ear corn, the cost was $19.00 per cow. When frosted pasture grass, 2 tons silage and 100 pounds cottonseed meal were fed, the cost was $15.00 per cow.

"Fescue forage requires more acres per cow but practically no labor and cows came through the 100 days with slight gains," according to Station Superintendent Louie Walton. "For most farms this may prove the most economical method of wintering because week end in New Hope, Ala., with Mrs. Dorothy Hayes and children. Bro. Holloman delivered a fine message at Harmony last Sunday night after which quarterly conference was held.

fescue will produce more feed on some acres, especially wet areas, than any other crop. When enough water is available and at least 100 pounds of nitrogen and 50 to 60 pounds of phosphorus are applied annually, fescue is a dependable crop."

For winter grazing steers, a combination of oats and ryegrass has produced economical gains of 350 to 400 pounds of beef per acre over a period of 180 days. Mr. Walton figures the cost per pound at slightly over 10 cents. Calves weighing 350 pounds have been more profitable than heavier calves. Heifers, when purchased for two cents per pound less than steers, have been more profitable than steers. The heifers have gained more pounds than steers and over the same period of time go to market carrying more bloom. Mr. Walton says heifers and steers should be penned separately while grazing.

A summarized report on research for the Black Belt or prairie section of Mississippi is published in the September issue of Mississippi Farm Research available on request from the Experiment Station at State College.

Veterans Corner

Q—My son, a World War II veteran, was killed recently in an accident. VA refused me death compensation allowance. I cannot understand this because I know other mothers who are drawing death dependency allowances. Why am I not entitled to the same benefits?

A—A dependent parent may collect death compensation from the VA only if the veteran's death resulted from a service-connected injury or illness.

Q—I understand that the VA's direct loan limit has been increased. What is the new maximum and the interest rate?

A—Limit for a direct loan from the VA is $15,000. Interest rate remains 5 1/4 per cent.

Q—May a peacetime veteran enter a VA domiciliary, and if so, what are the conditions of eligibility?

A—Yes. He must be permanently disabled, have been discharged for a disability incurred in line of duty or be receiving compensation for a service-connected disability, have no visible means of support, and be incapacitated from earning a living.

Q—How many women veterans in the United States?

A—There are an estimated 400,000 women veterans in the United States; about 315,000 of them World War II veterans. 70,000 Korea veterans and the rest either World War I veterans or Army nurses during the Spanish-American War.

CAPITAL NEWS

Dove Season
Powder-burning days are here. The Magnolia State's first dove season is September 9th at 12 noon through October 3rd. The shooting hours on doves are 12 noon until sunset. Bag limit: 12 per day, 24 in possession. Hunters are making preparations by buying shells, hunting licenses, guns, etc. The Mississippi Delta undoubtedly will offer some of the best hunting the first season. The doves have a decided love for the wide open spaces of the cotton country, where more grain is now being planted.

Northeast Mississippi
Many of the towns and counties of the northeast area of the state carry the names of the Chickasaw Indians who first inhabited the land. Among them are Itawamba, Noxubee, Pontotoc, Tippah, Tishomingo—the meanings long forgotten. Today's Northeast Mississippi is a land rich in schools, churches, industry, beautiful homes, prosperous dairy farms, and is a charming blend of the Old and New South which welcomes visitors, and has many interests regarding the state's history.

Stop For School Buses
The beginning of the 1961-62 school session finds school buses transporting thousands of youngsters to and from school. It is a serious responsibility to see that all pupils reach our schools safely.

Mississippi motorists should be extra careful in the vicinity of schools, buses and children. The state has a good record in safe transporting of youngsters, but no effort should be spared trying to improve it.

Mid-Year Reports Shows 40 New Industries
A mid-year listing as of July 1 shows 40 new industries and expansion of 34 others. Total number of new jobs when all these projects hit full production is 5,320, including 3,395 in the new plants and 1,925 made available by the expansions. At mid-year 1960, there had been 50 industries and 29 expansions for a total of 7,297 job opportunities. At mid-year 1959, the listings included 45 new industries and 19 expansions, accounting for an estimated 4,909 new job opportunities.

Forest Fire Prevention Efforts Benefit Economy
Mississippi experienced its best fire season during the past fiscal year ended June 30. Fire occurrence was at an all-time low. For the first time since 1930-31, the number of acres burned by wild forest fires dropped below 60,000 acres, with the total reaching 59,829 acres. The considerable amount of rainfall throughout the state was a factor in Mississippi's excellent record last year, but the fire prevention efforts of people have also played a major role in helping to establish this all-time favorable mark in forest fire prevention. Everyone benefits by organized efforts to safeguard Mississippi's forestry resources.

An Impressive List
The eleven southeastern states possess an impressive list of assets. The topography, soil and climate are assets. Forests, water and mineral resources are abundant. The area is served by a well-developed transportation system. On the South's seacoast, modern port facilities serve ships from all over the world. These are a few of the South's great many assets and advantages. As a key state of the South, Mississippi shares the opportunities for progress.

Good Hunting And Fishing In Delta
One of the major attractions for the non-resident lies in the many fishing streams and hunting stands found in the Delta. Each hunting season, people from all parts of the country pour in, and the Delta lakes are famous for their fishing. Names like Chotard, Eagle Lake, Steel Bayou, and Blue Hole are known from north of the Mason-

Dixon line to the Gulf Coast as some of the best fishing spots in the nation.

Cotton Opening Slowly, But Picking Has Started

Cotton picking is underway on a limited scale in several parts of the state according to county agents. First bales have been ginned in several counties, including Pike and Yazoo. Cotton is good in many areas and disappointing in others. Corn and soybeans are generally in excellent condition.

Peace Corps Project For L. America

Two Year Assignment; Need Volunteers With 4-H Club Experience

A Peace Corps project for Latin America needs volunteers with 4-H Club experience, according to C. I. Smith, state 4-H Club leader of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Those accepted will work as two-person teams to help develop 4-H type rural youth programs. Besides recruiting and training local club leaders, they will help the club members with projects, demonstrations, meetings, exhibits and recreation.

Contact the county Extension Service office for further information and Peace Corps application forms. September 29 is the deadline for applications for this Latin America project to reach the state office.

The exact location of this project has not been announced because it is being negotiated. This Peace Corps assignment is for two years, starting about December 1. It includes a three-months training program at the National 4-H Club Center in Washington, D. C.

An applicant must be a U. S. citizen, 18 years of age or older, and a high school graduate. He or she must emotionally mature and in excellent physical and mental health.

Peace Corps volunteers will receive expense allowances for their food, housing, clothing, transportation and incidental personal needs, plus a readjustment allowance of $75 per month of service at the termination of their service. They will also get an allowance for an annual vacation in the host country, complete medical care, life insurance coverage, and both social security and civil service retirement credit.

The Peace Corps offers a new and expanded opportunity for international service similar to the International Farm Youth Exchange program with which all experienced 4-H Club members are familiar, Mr. Smith pointed out.

"One human working with another—on a farm, in a laboratory, in a school—must be able to demonstrate the meaning of peace than all the oratory in the world," he said.

County Agent's Notes
By P. B. Stricklen
MSU Extension Service

Early September is the time to plant oats or wheat for early fall grazing. Don't try to wait until danger of worms is past. If you do, you'll be too late to have early grazing. If planting oats be sure to plant seed that have been treated for leaf blight.

At planting time, apply 60 lbs. per acre of nitrogen. Don't forget phosphate and potash. Tests on experiment stations prove that these are necessary for good growth of winter grazing. Apply all fertilizer at planting time.

Clover areas should be fertilized this month with 60 pounds per acre each of phosphate and potash. It will be best to top dress this before the young clovers come up to a stand.

Sod seeding can be done now on areas where hay has been cut or where soybeans have been harvested. On heavy sod areas, wait until the sods become dormant in October.

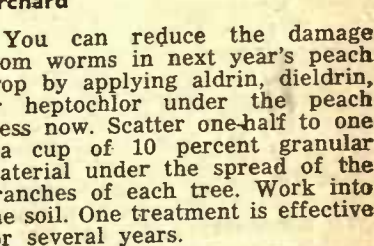

Cotton Reminders
It will pay you to practice some late season control of grass and weeds in your cotton fields and along the turnrows.

Be careful when picking cotton not to let any foreign material get into the seed cotton. One piece of colored material passed through a gin in cotton can ruin many yards of cloth.

Keep on poisoning for boll weevil control until pickable bolls are safe. Research has shown over a period of 10 years that more than 90 percent of farmers pick bolls set on the 4th and 5th limbs from top.

Checking your fields and staying on a good schedule will pay off. If you save two bolls per foot of row, it means $15 to $20 more. Corn Harvesting

Get the corn out of the fields as soon as it is dry and mature enough to harvest.
If you leave it in the fields too long, you are going to get a lot of damage from insects and rot. Rats, birds, and other pests can also take a toll from your corn if it is left too long in the field.
Check with your county agent about moisture content for safe storage of corn. Clean up your storage bins before putting this year's crop in the bin.
Orchard
You can reduce the damage from worms in next year's peach crop by applying aldrin, dieldrin, or heptachlor under the peach trees now. Scatter one-half to one tea cup of 10 percent granular material under the spread of the branches of each tree. Work into the soil. One treatment is effective for several years.

PICNIC SUPPER IN MINERAL SPRING PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hardy of Kent, Washington, invite their many relatives and friends to be with them Friday evening about 6 o'clock in the Mineral Springs Park for a picnic supper. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish. Since it will be impossible for the Hardys to see all the family and friends, they feel that this picnic supper will bring many of them together.

Shannon Nips Iuka 25-6

Iuka dropped its second game of the season to Shannon in a home game played Friday night at Lion's Stadium. This being the first home game, fans filled the bleacher section to its capacity long before kick-off time. At half-time, the Iuka School Band was featured in their first half-time show of the season.

Donnie Carson was hurt in the early stages of the game and was unable to play at his best. Iuka played a good first half but seemed to tire out in the second. Shannon scored in the first quarter of the game when Carnathan ran 25 yards to put the ball across the goal line. Iuka came back and tied the score at 6 all when Larry Brown scored from the two yard line in the second quarter. Shannon again scored when Carnathan ran 30 yards for a touchdown. The end of the first half was Shannon 12, Iuka 6. In the third quarter of the game, Carnathan ran another yard line. The extra point was completed. Ken McNitt made other touchdown when he made the extra point good. When the whistle blew at the end of the game, the score was Shannon, 25; Iuka, 6. Shannon attempted 9 passes and 5. Shannon picked up 20 yards and Iuka 8. Shannon fumbled 3 times and Iuka 3.

Those from out-of-town attending the funeral of Patrick Akers, were Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Charles Tomlinson, Mrs. Gene Gist, Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Page, all of Nashville. Mr. and Mrs. Johnny
