State Delegates To Attend 22nd Annual Meeting Of American Dairy Association

Mississippi's 13,000 dairy farmers have elected three prominent dairymen to act as their voting delegates at the 22nd annual meeting of the American Dairy Association, voice of the dairy farmers in the market places of America, being held in Chicago on March 21-22.

Robert Meacham, Senatobia; H. L. Dodd, Sallis, and Carlton Carpenter, State College are participating in the decision-making business-building affairs of the association's year round market development program for milk products. The organization has grown from six member states in 1940 to 49 member states in 1962. Its nationwide product promotion program is financed by a voluntary set-aside by the first handler at the rate of 2 cents per 100 lbs. of milk.

This state's national director is Robert Meacham and he also serves on the special committee which studies advertising needs and recommends a program to the national board.

In addition to important business decisions, the session is featuring a launching luncheon for the 26th annual June Dairy Month on Wednesday and the personal appearance of Dinah Shore, No. 1 saleslady for milk. Today's headline speaker will be Arthur H. "Red" Motley, president Parade magazine.

Veterans' Corner

Q—Must a $10,000 GI term insurance policy be converted to permanent plan type insurance all at once?

A—A veteran may convert as little as $1,000 (or more, of course) to a permanent plan while retaining the remainder as term insurance. In this way, he can stretch the conversion over several years in keeping with his own financial condition.

Q—How many veterans have thus far taken advantage of the VA home, farm or business loan program?

A—More than 6 million veterans had made such loans up to December 1, 1962.

Q—Are any survivors of the Mexican War still alive?

A—No, since this war ended in 1848, more than 110 years ago. However, there are still two widows of Mexican War veterans alive in the United States.

Q—Does the VA set standards for prosthetic devices in this country?

A—The VA has a leading role in supporting and conducting research and development of prosthetic and sensory aids, in cooperation with other Government agencies, universities, industrial organizations, and private agencies. Also, the VA is the largest single purchaser of prosthetic devices in the United States. Thus the VA exercises considerable influence on the quality of appliances and services furnished by the prosthetic industry not only to veterans but to all disabled persons. Primarily as a result of this influence, prosthetic devices have been greatly improved in the past 16 years.

Cotton Release

Did you know that Mississippi farmers failed to plant 133,788 acres of their cotton allotment last year and that these unplanted acres cost Mississippi $25 million dollars in 1961?

Tishomingo County had an allotment of 10,549 acres last year and 814 acres of this allotment in the county were unplanted. 250 farms in the county lost their allotment completely last year because they had not planted any cotton during the past three years. This amounted to around 800 acres lost.

The total cotton allotment for the county this year is 9,712 acres. At the present time 230 acres has been released. A total of 2,500 extra acres of cotton has been requested by the farmers in the county.

March 31 is the deadline for releasing cotton or requesting additional acres. Many farmers have released their acres the past two years and would like to release again this year. You may release 75% of your allotment and plant some cotton on your farm this year and still hold your allotment for next year. It will benefit you, your community, your county, and state if each farmer will either plant or release the allotted cotton acres in the county this year. Remember, March 31 is the deadline.

Feed Grain Program
The last date for renting corn acreage to the Feed-Grain Program is March 30. 26% of the corn acreage in the county was rented last year. If you have corn land on your farm that you do not need for your use, you should look into the possibility of renting it to the Feed-Grain Program.

If you have cotton acreage to release, or if you want information about the Feed-Grain Program, visit your local ASC Office in Iuka. Don't let the March 31 deadline catch you before you make up your mind as to what you want to do this year.

Cotton Planning
Seed Treatment. Check with your county agent for details on the hopperbox treatment of cottonseed at planting time. This helps protect cotton seedlings against soil borne diseases.

Have you checked the germination of your planting seed? If not now is the time to send a quart of seed to the State Seed Testing Laboratory for germination test. Take care to get a uniform sample.

The best investment you can make is to use the right kind and amount of fertilizer. Soils tests will take the guesswork out of your fertilizer program.

Fertilizer placement is even more important when you go to higher rates. If you place the fertilizer in close contact with the seed, you may kill the stand. Place the fertilizer at least two inches to the side and three or more inches below seed.

Band placement gives best use of fertilizer. It takes about twice as much fertilizer broadcast as it does in band placement to produce a good crop.

Lessons For Conservatives
That Mr. Kennedy got his comeuppance (a good old Southern word) with the House of Representatives' massive rejection of an Urban Affairs Department was deeply pleasing to conservative Americans who saw in this plan a New Frontier scheme to fasten new controls or urban dwellers.

The House vote of 264 to 150 was all the more gratifying because the last six weeks or so have given conservatives some hard knocks. Mr. Kennedy's determination to use what amounts to a presidential Fifth Amendment to block the Senate Armed Services probe of muzzling of patriots in uniform was a dismaying setback. Indeed the whole movement of patriotic protest has suffered reverses in recent weeks. The liberal-leftist smearbund worked this winter as perhaps never before in existence. Every media of communication has been utilized to make concerned citizens out to be "extremists" of some sort. In the magazines, the New York press, and on television, article after article and program after program has zeroed in on patriots who are rightfully alarmed by the spread of leftism and the dangers of the administration's "no win" philosophy.

There's no mistaking the fact that patriotic forces have been hurt. Many citizens have been frightened into believing that an alert against communism is either unnecessary or dangerous.

In studying this liberal-leftist campaign, conservatives should discover the means and tactics used against good Americans. In their analysis, conservatives surely will not fail to note that the New York and Washington press corps has made a veritable crusade of their attacks on citizens who are right of center. Actually, this should not surprise anyone. But responsible, fair-minded citizens do tend to forget that the New York and Washington pressmen are unionists almost to a man. The American Newspaper Guild is part of the AFL-CIO and shares the political bias of the union monopoly. Left-leaning political views are largely responsible for the attacks on so-called "rightists," as they were for the viciously unfair treatment accorded Richard Nixon in 1960 by lefties serving the metropolitan press in the Northeast.

The task now is to rebuild the image of the patriots who are valiantly striving to save the country from socialism. Perhaps a temporary setback may prove to be a good thing in the end. For the big assault by leftist writers and TV commentators shows patriots the need for greater savvy in their statements and greater self-discipline.

Conservatives are new to political action in this country. The liberal-leftists have been at work since beginning of the New Deal. As a result, conservatives have much to learn in the field of sophisticated political activity.

There's a matter of timing involved that should be considered. The tragic events in Cuba and Katanga caused a sudden upthrust of public indignation against the possibly fatal policies of the Kennedy administration and its leftist supporters and theorists. But a case can be made out that the blossoming of conservative protest earlier this fall came too soon for significant political action.

Political protest should be harnessed to political opportunity, namely to elections where the people can demonstrate their convictions by their handling of the ballot. Now the immediate task ahead for concerned Americans is to rebuild and strengthen anew conservative forces in spring and summer months so that their deeply-felt convictions may tell in the primary and regular elections for the Senate and House of Representatives.

These elections should be the immediate concern of all patriots, for they represent an opportunity to serve notice on the New Frontier that the people intend to halt the movement toward socialism and national defeat. Then, after those elections are out of the way, the whole conservative movement can begin to look toward the presidential election in the summer of 1964, when the big decision will be made. But both now and in the next presidential campaign, conservatives will need to learn new methods of countering the leftist commentators and getting the patriot case across to the people at large.

Soviet Civil Defense Plans Call For Largescale Post Attack Operations

Soviet civil defense plans call for largescale rescue operations in the zone immediately after an atomic attack in order to give prompt aid to victims and limit damage. Disaster area is to be recon- sidered by teams equipped with chemical and biological de- tection equipment, of which the So- viet Union has a considerable variety. This, first aid, fire fighting and decontamination rescue move in Manpower will be followed by surviving civil defense units, special rural and mili- tary formations and civil defense formations and civil defense equip- ment and chemical detection kits. Persons will be evacuated from contaminated areas where mo- bility is not possible. Stationary decontamination units will take care of food and other essential items. Food and other essential items are to be provided by civil defense service teams. It is evident that this system is effective only in a zone of limited destruction. In the zone of ground zero, intensity of radiation, high rate of radiation dose, a probable firestorm would not allow rescue of persons adequately sheltered. Those in shelters are apparently

Farm Supplies May Be Protected In Atomic War Event

Farm crops, livestock and feed supplies can be protected from fall- out in case of atomic war, says Johnnie Sartor, association econo- mist of the Agricultural Extension Service. Agriculture's big job in case of atomic attack is to protect people, crops and livestock from fallout, he said.

In the "battle against fallout" here are some typical measures farmers should take:

Put tarpaulins over hay, roofs over trench silos. Put animals' es- pecially milking cows, in barns. Store feed where it is protected. Put a plastic mulch on crop fields. To decontaminate after fallout, remove the top three to five inches of silage from the silo, shuck corn, pull off outside leaves of cabbage, wash fresh vegetables, cut up and remove sods, scrape seed beds and plow deep.

"You can't destroy radioactive material," he said. "You have to let it decay."

The hazard of fallout is far more widespread than that of a direct hit by an atomic bomb. Local civil defense officials can supply com- plete information on protecting people, crops and livestock from this danger.

Nitrogen Causing Injury To Cotton Seed, Seedling

Nitrogen injury to cotton seed and seedlings is a serious problem in Mississippi. Soil analyses have shown as much as 3600 parts per million in the top inch of highly fertilized cotton fields. One part per million is equal to 2 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

A greenhouse study at the Delta Branch Experiment Station at Stoneville, Miss., has shown how injurious these high concentrations can be. Agronomists W. I. Spurgeon and P. H. Grissom used five rates of nitrogen on two types of soil. They found that nitrate nitro- gen contents above 300 ppm pro- duced injury and retarded growth of cotton seedlings on typical Del- ta soils.

Injury increased as the nitrogen concentration increased and was more severe on sandy soil. Cotton- seed germination was retarded at 300 ppm of nitrate nitrogen in the loamy sand soil and at 500 ppm in the silt loam soil. Seeds ger- minated slower in both soils at concentrations above 500 ppm.

"Nitrogen applied to the soil, as anhydrous ammonia or other ammonium sources, is rapidly con- verted to nitrate nitrogen," Mr. Spurgeon said. "The nitrate nitro- gen is very soluble in water and moves up and down with the soil water. With favorable weather con- ditions, it may move upward and accumulate in the surface layer of soil."

"Under field conditions, nitrogen injury to cotton in the germination and seedling stages is caused by improper placement of nitrogen. To avoid the possibility of in- jury, nitrogen should be drilled in-

Spring Comes At Last!

Spring arrived today, March 22nd. We can all breathe a sigh of relief, because the past winter was a real one with cold weather, snow, rain, slush and mud.

Soon now, our land will be covered with flowers, green grass and trees. The sun will shine and days will grow warmer and longer.

Farmers will soon be preparing their land to plant row crops. Most of the farmers who live in the Tennessee River Soil Conserva- tion District, will select the best and most level land they have to plant in row crops. Many of them have set pines on their steeper and gullied land. The lesser slopes they have put in permanent hay and pasture.

This is not as good as it sounds because the most level land on hundreds of Tishomingo County farms is sloping and needs terraces and row arrangement for row crops.

Take pains to maintain your ter- races and arrange your rows to prevent excess erosion.

Even on bottom land, row ar- rangement is needed to drain off surface water without soil erosion. You are urged to come by your local Soil Conservation Service Of- fice in Iuka and talk to Mr. Tice if you have a problem of row ar- rangement. Proper row arrange- ment can help save your soil and bring greater profit to you.

If anything is truly characteris- tic of the American consumer, it is change. To the retailer, this means advertising which appeals to ever- changing needs.

Retailers who have best anti- cipated changing demands and met them with informative advertising are those which have been the most successful in all communities.

During the past few years num- erous changes have taken place in the nature of the American con- sumer which have not been rec- ognized by many retailers—expen- ditures for leisure time activities and expenditures by special age groups are examples.

Although many retailers have re- cognized the rise of the "teen-age" market, very few have given special consideration to even more and clothing needs. They are a- mong the most frequent of gift buyers.

With the right kind of advertis- ing a great many "mousetraps" may be sold to elderly people and other new publics. However, their money stays in banks or stocks un- til advertising brings them to the retail marketplace.

Cancer Progress Depends On Money In Program

"Progress made in cancer control depends on the amount of money in the program to fight it," says Ralph Godwin, Crusade Chairman for 1962.

Mississippians have contributed $1,911,035.99 in this fight during the last decade according to the state chairman of the April fund- raising campaign.

Godwin also notes that $1,146,621.61 of that total "was kept in the State of Mississippi." These funds were expended on profes- sional and public education; ser- vice to both new and old cancer victims and administration.

National level research was al- located $477,758.99 of the $1,911,035.99 contributed toward the na- tion's fight against cancer in Mis- sissippi, Godwin explained. Simi- larly, a total of $286,655.39 was ex- pended at the national level in profes- sional and public education.

"In public education alone," Godwin said, "at least 500,000 pieces of educational materials were distributed in Mississippi last year."

Twenty-five years ago, Godwin explained, "about 160,000 persons in the United States were alive, cured of cancer. If present rates continue, there should be 1,100,000 in 1962."

The Crusade chairman said this improvement is due to two major features: 1. Developments in the research laboratories which have resulted in improved treatment by surgery, radiation, chemicals. 2. Public and professional education combined with more general use of the best methods of diagnosis, treatment and prevention, has con- tributed much to saving lives to- day.

"Educational leaflets must be distributed to save lives now and funds must be raised if the American Cancer Society is to carry on its research, education and ser- vice programs," he said.

"The long-range objective," he added, "is to save the other 260,000 cancer victims who will get cancer this year. Hope for them rests with scientists who are searching for breakthroughs that will cure all types of cancer or perhaps prevent them."

"More can be done against can- cer through education than any other disease," he concluded.

First Of Series Of Articles To Appear; Historical Sketch Given

This is the first of a number of articles that will appear in this paper from time to time to spotlight the public with some 60 students who perform in the Iuka School Band. The band members are pictured in groups as they appear in the band with the instruments they play.

Attention is focused this week on the drum ensemble which includes Turner Gene Williams, Deanna Foote, Ray Thomas, Susan Edmondson and Ann Holtzford. Turner Gene is the son of Mrs. Charles Daugherty. This is Turner's first year in the band. He is a senior and is doing an excellent job on the bass drum. Deanna is one of the feminine drummers. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Foote. Deanna has been active in the band for the past two years and has just about mastered the art. Deanna is a ninth grade student. Ray Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas, is an old pro on the drums, having accompanied the band at this position for the past 4 years. Ray is a senior and will be leaving the band after graduation this spring. Susan Edmondson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edmondson, is also a member of the drum section. Susan is a ninth grade student and has been in the band for the past 6 years. Also included in the drum ensemble is Ann Holtzford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Holtzford. Ann plays the Bell-Lyre. She is a tenth grade student and has been with the band 2 years.

This group, along with approximately 15 other band members, attended a solo contest held in Tupelo on Saturday, March 17. Pat Summers and Judy Gann registered for the state twirling contest. Pat Summers won first place in division 1 for her twirling ability. On Friday night, March 23, the entire band will present a concert to be held in the school auditorium. A big event for the band is coming up the first week in April. That's the State Band Contest to be held in Jackson, Miss.

The Iuka School Band made its first appearance Fri., March 9, in the recently purchased new uniforms when it led the annual 4-H Club Rally Day parade through the downtown Iuka area. The uniforms were purchased by the Band Auxiliary for the sum of $4,072.00. This included 60 regular uniforms, 5 majorette uniforms, 1 drum majorette uniform and 1 band master uniform. The auxiliary was assisted in this project by the Lucy Rowe Study Club, the Twentieth Century Club and Cosby Clinic who purchased a uniform in honor of the Thursday Club. Besides new uniforms two large white, fiber-glass bass horns have been added to the band this year. These cost approximately $600.00 a piece.

Historical Sketch
The Iuka School Band was organized in November of 1953 by Zelfred Smith of Corinth with 36 members. This was the first band for Mr. Smith to organize. Supt. H. L. Shook relates the following human interest story as to how the band got started. It was one afternoon after school, the same year the Iuka school started its football team, when a young lad, a timid sort of boy, walked in the office and presented his desire of organizing a band for the Iuka School to play at football games and etc. After tossing the idea around in his mind a day or so, Mr. Shook asked the student body for a show of hands of those that would be interested in organizing a band. He said that much to his surprise the response was amazing. That was the beginning of the Iuka School Band, which at present has 60 pieces.

Also at this time, to assist with the band, a band auxiliary was organized with the late Edwin Harwell as president. Following his death, Mrs. Ed Thomas was elected to this position which she currently holds.

Mr. Smith resigned his position as director of the band in 1957 to enter the ministry. During the 1957-58 session, James E. Vinson was hired as director and worked with the band through the 1960-61 session. At the beginning of the 1961-62 school term, Chester Cox was named director of the band. Mr. Cox came from Drew, Miss. He is a graduate of Ole Miss and had had 5 years experience as band director before coming to Iuka.

The Iuka School Band is an asset to the school and the community. It has added glamour and entertainment on the football field; it has proudly represented the school and community in many parades staged throughout the area, and been featured in concerts in the school auditorium. The band has won many honors and praises of high esteem.

BAND DIRECTOR—Chester Cox came to Iuka from Drew, Miss., at the beginning of the 1961-62 school session to work with the band. He is a graduate of Ole Miss. He and his family reside on Highway 72 West.

Banyan Tree III

Army Specialist Five William J. Edmondston, son of Mrs. Maxine L. Milholland of 602 Main St. in Iuka, participated with other personnel from the 82d Airborne Division of Exercise Banyan Tree III, a two-week Army-Air Force mobility exercise in Panama which ended March 4.

During the exercise members of the 82d, which is regularly located at Fort Bragg, N. C., were flown to Panama where they made a combat-type parachute jump and participated in combined arms maneuvers. The 82d, a major Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) unit, constantly maintains readiness for immediate deployment to any area of the world.

Edmondston is assigned to Battery C of the division's 320th Artillery.

April 1956. The 23-year-old soldier, son of William J. Edmondston Jr. of Holy Springs, is a 1956 graduate of South Side High School in Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Dexter and daughter of Memphis spent the week end here.

Lesson for March 25, 1962

IN the sight of God, what is my most important duty? What can I do that will yield the best returns in life? It is a happy discovery to learn that the answer to both questions is the same. We know this is true because Jesus himself was asked both questions, and gave the same answer each time. The strangeness of his answer is that he

Dr. Foreman did not directly say to either questioner: DO—anything whatever. The highest duty and the most rewarding effort is not action but attitude. For Jesus' reply to these questions was: Love God; Love your fellowman. Jesus was not the first to sum up the Law and the Prophets—in short, the entire Old Testament—in these two commands, love to God and to neighbor; but he gave his approval to this way of summing it all up.

We have called love an "attitude." This is not quite fair, for love which is only an attitude, never resulting in action, is not what Christ and Christians after him mean by the word. Nevertheless, love is an attitude before it is an act. You might say, love should be the atmosphere, the light, in which you see, or think about, God and your neighbor. Now it is clear that love to God can't be precisely the same as love to men, even the best of men. From all that is said of "love" in the New Testament—for instance in I Corinthians 13, or John 13 through 17, it is plain that love, as God approves it among men, involves helping them when in need. But God is never in need. Also, love is at its high point when it is expended on the unloving and the unlovable; but God is never unloving nor unlovable. Perhaps we can put together love to God and love to men in this way: Love means "serving men's needs." Jesus the boy was sharing the concern of his Father in heaven when he said, "I must be about my Father's business." As a man, he was sharing his Father's concern when he said: "I always do what is pleasing to him," (John 8:29.)

Not all that concerns God concerns us. He has a wide universe to control, and he has not invited us to help operate heaven, hell or the stars in the sky. But (strange as it may seem) God does have concerns with men; and it is these which we can share—and will share gladly if the love of God is in us. But the concerns of men are different. They arise out of man's weakness and sin, just as God's concerns arise from his holiness and power. Much of the concern of every man can be summed up in one question: How can I get out of the jam I'm in? Not every one is in the same kind of "jam." The troubles of an intellectual mind wrestling with sore doubts are not the troubles of a mother without enough food for her children, and neither of these kinds of trouble is the same as those of (say) President Kennedy. But all the same, love to our fellow man involves being sympathetic with all those in trouble, of every sort, a concern and sympathy which will pull us into sharing the load, helping where and as we can.

On reading the Bible We must add a little but important postscript. When this question came to Jesus, on one occasion he gave the answer himself; on another, he got the answer out of his questioner. The point is that the answer came from the Bible; but not (so to speak) from right on top of the Bible. How often do you, for example, read the book of Deuteronomy or Leviticus? That chapter 6 in Deuteronomy does not fit us; but verses 4 and 5 do intensely concern us. In that 19th chapter of Leviticus (perhaps no one's favorite chapter of the Bible!) there are some very peculiar laws, which passed away when the nation of Israel ceased to be. Today people plant two kinds of seed in a field, or wear clothes made of more than one material, and never think of it; modern people are not tempted to tattoo themselves as a sign of mourning. There is much here that no longer has force with Christians. But "Love your neighbor as yourself" does have force, it did not pass away when Jeru-

Skinner Guest Speaker Club Meeting

Paul Skinner was guest speaker at a meeting of the Lucy Study Club held on Thursday at the Pan Am Cafe. In the dining area where the members assembled for the program, a variety of refreshments were served. The topic of discussion was "European trip that took her to Germany and France." Skinner, who is married to a Mr. Skinner and has three children, traveled some 10,000 miles abroad with her husband and family. The program was introduced by Mrs. Edmondson, Jr., president of the club. Skinner presented a film strip which depicted the people, their customs and the food of surrounding lands. The film was very interesting and informative. Skinner passed around a number of interesting souvenirs she had brought back with her, including a pair of leather shoes worn by the German boys, a pair of wooden shoes from Holland, and a musical instrument from Holland. A short business session that followed, a nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Leon Phillips, Mrs. W. C. Hamilton and Mrs. J. C. Byrd, was named to submit a list of new officers for the ensuing year.

William L. Adams Presents Program At Glen ACDC Meet

William L. Adams, Alcorn County Agent, presented a most interesting program on "Spraying For Pests—Gardening and Insect Control" at the meeting of the Glen ACDC Club on Tuesday night, March 13, in the school auditorium. Mr. Adams, in his remarks, also reminded all members to release their cotton acreage before the deadline. "We know that there will be quite a bit of cotton acreage that will not be planted and therefore we urge you to turn in this unused acreage so that it may be reapportioned to farmers who will plant it," Mr. Adams said. Vice President Gilbert Vandiver presided over the business session. The devotional was given by Mrs. Jesse McKinney. In business discussed, it was reported that the club had a bank balance this month of $132.43. The Youth Committee, composed of some 26 juniors, are making arrangements for special youth work and other activities and entertainment 2 night out of each month. The Club voted their approval on this matter giving them $10, this amount being doubled by the Corinth Civilians, making the total $20.

Snowdown HD Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Rita West

The Snowdown Home Demonstration Club held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday, March 15, in the home of Mrs. Rita Mae West. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Gladys Thomas, president, with the reading of the devotional, taken from Proverbs 22:16. After a short business session, a demonstration was given on how to make "Smoked Pillows." The hostess served a delicious plate with coffee and cakes. Seven members and five visitors were present. The next meeting will be on Thursday, April 19, with Mrs. Floyd Curtis as hostess.

Mar. 27 Designated As High School Day At Southern Univ.

The University of Southern Mississippi today announced that Saturday, March 24, has been designated as the date for the annual High School Senior Career Day. This occasion affords prospective students the opportunity to tour the campus and all the university's facilities, and to enjoy hospitality of the Admissions Department and other sponsoring organizations.

J. S. Anzalone, acting director of admissions who is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, and his group have planned an attractive program, which will include scientific and musical presentations. Robert N. Seitz, aerospace technologist from the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., will be speaker at a convocation period at 11 a. m. Mr. Seitz specializes in ion propulsion and space plasmas. His talk will follow tours of the campus, which will begin shortly after registration, which is set for 8:30 a. m. A musical presentation is scheduled for 1:30. Planned activities will conclude with a record hop and refreshment hour following the afternoon musical. President William D. McCain has issued an invitation to the high schools seniors and will be their host for a luncheon at noon.

Through the use of high strength, low alloy steel, a new railroad car to transport automobiles has been made which weighs 30 per cent less than its older counterparts.

Sum. Scholarship Program Expanded At Univ. Of Miss.

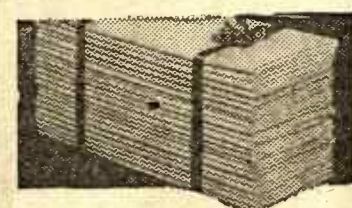

The University of Miss. is greatly expanding its Summer Session Scholarship Program for high ability entering freshmen, announced Dr. John E. Phay, assistant provost for this summer session. This year Ole Miss will award $100 scholarships to 100 outstanding 1962 high school graduates for participation in a unique program which allows an exceptional student to take full first-year course work in English and four other academic areas during the summer session. As last summer, one group of 25 participants will combine studies in English and chemistry. For the first time this year other groups of like size will take English and Journalism, English and mathematics and English and political science. "Emphasis in the English sections will be on composition tailored to the needs of the chemist, the journalist, the mathematician or the political scientist," said Dr. Phay. All courses carry normal University credit and the scholarship program is an integral part of the 1962 Summer Session, which begins June 8 and continues through Aug. 17, it was pointed out. Scholarship application forms may be obtained by writing to: Dr. Franklin E. Moak, Director of Financial Aids, The University of Mississippi, University, Miss. Applications must be postmarked on or before March 19. Participants will be chosen on the basis of academic excellence, evidence of strong motivation in intellectual activity and on the recommendation of principals and teachers, Dr. Phay said. Scholarships are not limited to Mississippi students.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Bishop and children spent Sunday in Memphis, visiting friends and relatives. A farmer in Ohio is growing cattle feed in chemicals placed in steel trays. This method of growing green plants without soil, called hydroponics, has made it possible to fatten more than five cows on one acre of pasture, whereas it normally takes about two acres for each five cows.

Keep them out of sight . . . out of reach!

What, you ask? Medicines. They can become deadly poisons if small children swallow them accidentally. Did you know that nearly one-half of all poisoning deaths to children under five years old are caused by medicines ordinarily found within easy reach in a home. Aspirin is the major item on the list of medicines causing poisoning in children.

Many people will be thinking about and studying ways to prevent all kinds of poisoning accidents this week. It is National Poison Prevention Week.

This week is just like National Fire Prevention Week, National Safety Week and many other special weeks. It isn't the one week in which you can cure a problem, but it is a week to focus attention on it, learn to prevent tragedies and to resolve to learn how to be careful throughout the year.

The kitchen is the biggest offender in homes when it comes to poisonings. Thirty-four percent of poisonings occur in the kitchen, 27 per cent in the bedroom, 15 per cent in the bathroom, with between 1 and 9 per cent each in living room, garage, outside steps or yard.

Mother . . . and Dad . . . remember young children like to try out new things on their own. Little Johnny may not drink his orange juice for breakfast, but he may the minute your back is turned cheerfully down the household cleaners, rat poison, lye, insect sprays or kerosene.

Poison-Proof Your Home
To make your home a place where everyday items that are poisonous are used, handled and stored safely:

- Keep all drugs, poisonous substances and household chemicals out of the reach of children.
- Do not store nonedible products on shelves used for storing food.
- Keep all poisonous substances in their original containers; don't transfer to unlabeled containers.
- When medicines are discarded, destroy them. Don't throw them where they might be reached by children or pets.
- When giving flavored or brightly colored medicines to children, always refer to it as medicine — never as candy.
- Do not take or give medicine in the dark.
- READ LABELS before using chemical products.

Forestry Notes

By Larry Brewer
Area Forester

Littleleaf of pine is a disease that causes considerable economic losses throughout this area. Shortleaf pine is the species most seriously affected.

Littleleaf is usually difficult to recognize in the early stages because the symptoms closely resemble those arising from mineral deficiencies of the soil, particularly a low nitrogen supply. The advanced or typical stage is, however, readily recognized. The crown of the affected tree is sparse and ragged in appearance, and the branches, lacking the normal foliage, often assumes an ascending habit. The foliage appears in tufts at the twig tips as a result of reduction in needle and shoot length. Needle length decreases from a normal 3 to 5 inches to only 1/2 to 3 ins.

Recent studies have shown that littleleaf is caused by a combination of factors. Primary among these is the destruction of the growing tips of the roots by the soil fungus. Adverse soil conditions prevent recovery of the root system. The reduction of absorbing surface of the roots retards the intake of mineral nutrients, particularly nitrogen, causing deficiencies that result in decline of the trees. There is no practical control, as of yet, for littleleaf in forest stands. All trees that are diseased should be cut, as soon as detected. Loblolly pine should be favored in diseased stands as it is resistant to littleleaf.

Sweetpotato Plant Growers List Available First Week In April

A list of all Mississippi Certified sweetpotato plant growers is being prepared and will be ready for distribution the first week in April. The list will contain the names and addresses of the Certified growers and will also give the varieties and bushels bedded for the production of plants. Certified sweetpotato plants are tied in bundles of 100 with Certificate tape which gives the grower's number and the year of production. The sweetpotato tape this year has blue edges and is printed in blue ink. Requests for the list of Certified Sweetpotato Plant Growers should be addressed to the State Plant Board at State College, Mississippi.

1961 Cash Receipts From Farm Marketings

Cash receipts from farm marketings by Mississippi farmers in 1961 were up about 10 per cent from 1960. This percentage increase was the second highest in the Nation, exceeded only by the 12 per cent increase in Florida. The preliminary estimates show Mississippi farmers received $657,832,000 from sales of farm commodities in 1961. Receipts from crops in 1961 accounted for $388,662,000 or 59 per cent of the total receipts, and livestock and livestock products at $259,170,000 accounted for 41 per cent of the total. Receipts from crops were up about 13 1/2 per cent from 1960, while livestock and products receipts increased 4 1/2 per cent.

Miss Blackard Weds Smith Hall In Ceremony Performed In Houston, Texas

Miss Lois Marie Blackard became the bride of Kendrick Smith Hall in an impressive double ring ceremony performed on February 10th at the Hibbard Memorial Baptist Church in Houston, Texas. Rev. J. B. Perkins, pastor, officiated.

Miss Blackard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Blackard, formerly of Tishomingo County. She is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin High School in Houston, where she was active in scholastic activities, among them being a member of the Journalism Club and editor of the school paper.

Mr. Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hall of Houston. He is also a graduate of Stephen F. Austin High School, where he was active in the Future Farmers of America organization, winning much recognition for his outstanding projects.

The wedding party assembled at the altar before a background of Cathedral baskets filled with white gladiolus. Glowing tapers in branched candelabra furnished the only illumination for the church and cast a soft glow over the entire scene.

Miss Sylvia Brown, friend of the family, sang "Oh, Promise Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in a white gown of chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was finished with a sweetheart neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her veil of misty illusion fell gracefully from a tiara of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was of white carnations surrounding an ivy and white orchid center.

Mrs. Emma Bruton, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Her dress was of blue nylon organza with which she wore matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink gladiolus. Z. W. Rogers, friend of the groom, served Mr. Hall as best man.

Mrs. Blackard, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a beige suit with which she wore matching accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the groom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to the Bell Williams Guest Ranch in Richmond, Texas, the couple are at home in Houston.

For traveling, the bride chose a peacock blue taffeta suit with matching accessories.

Speed Traps Are Hurting State's Tourist Trade

Legitimate enforcement of Mississippi's speed laws is favored by the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board, but an increase in complaints alleging obvious "trapping" of motorists for the sake of collecting fines has been reported to the board. At its March meeting in Natchez, the board stated that any harassment of tourists hurts the state's important tourist trade.

Large Tonnage Reported At Port Of Pascagoula

Port Director A. S. Johnson has announced that the Port of Pascagoula handled cargoes totaling 249,616 tons during February. He said eleven ships called at the port during the month to load export cargo. Corn accounted for the largest category of shipping, and other grain also contributed to the total tonnage. Salt Company Takes Option On Mississippi Site

International Salt Company has signed a three-year option agreement with Hammett Farms, Inc., for a mining lease on the Bruinsburg salt domes about ten miles west of Port Gibson, according to an announcement made by company president Edward L. Fuller and Kollo Hammett, of Hammett Farms. The company, one of the world's largest salt producers, will explore the dome of rock salt which is located over 2,000 feet below ground surface.

The keel was laid at Ingalls shipbuilding, Pascagoula, this month for the third Navy ship to be named Hollan. The new ship, the USS Holland AS-32, is a 599-foot-long, 83-foot beam submarine tender. It is being constructed under a 24-month, $24,395,800 Navy contract awarded in September. The tender will provide facilities and support for nuclear powered Polaris submarines.

Ground Breaking For Collins Plant Ground has been broken for a 29-acre site at Collins, where Mississippi Federated Cooperatives will construct a poultry processing plant costing approximately $1 million. Some 150 men will be employed by the plant and an annual payroll of $500,000 is expected. MFC general manager E. G. Spivey said that ten million broiler chickens and over a million hens will be slaughtered and dressed in the plant annually.

U. S. Senator John Stennis Issues Statement On Camp Shelby Build-Up

A long-range program to expand National Guard training facilities at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, after being temporarily sidetracked, got a new "go" signal last week. Senator John Stennis, Chairman of the Military Construction Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, envisions Camp Shelby as "one of the finest National Guard training sites in the country when the program is finished."

Stennis said the $800,000 construction program for this year at Camp Shelby "has again received the go ahead signal" after several conferences he held with Secretary of Defense McNamara and other top military and Bureau of the Budget officials here.

"The issue of new construction at Camp Shelby was in grave doubt following the Berlin crisis and the military build-up last fall," Stennis said, "but that doubt has now been removed through conferences with Secretary McNamara and others."

"Stennis, a long-time spokesman for Reserve and National Guard activities through his membership on the Senate Armed Services and Appropriations Committees, expressed "great pleasure" here today that the Camp Shelby building program is again nearing the contract-letting stage.

When completed, Camp Shelby

shown up in the hills area of the state, he said. This has caused drastic losses in yields.

Some symptoms of lack of boron include stunted, rosetted and short jointed plants; knotty, small underdeveloped or poorly developed bolls and shedding of squares; and a distinctly bushy plant that remains vegetative until frost.

In Experiment Station tests, adding one-half pound of boron to the acre of deficient soils resulted in an increase of 406 pounds of seed cotton to the acre, he pointed out.

Recommendations to cotton farmers in boron deficient areas are to apply three-tenths of a pound of boron to the acre in band placement. Boron in band treatment should not exceed one-half pound per acre.

Three suggested methods of applying boron are to use a fertilizer containing boron at planting time; foliage application of Solubor (soluble form of boron) with insecticides at regular intervals during the fruiting season; and applying Solubor directly to the soil.

"When applying boron in phosphate insecticides, effective life of the insecticide may be reduced," he cautioned.

"The most practical method of adding needed boron to the soil is to use at planting time a banded fertilizer manufactured especially for cotton.

"Do not worry about building up boron in the soil to toxic amounts," he advised. "It leaches quite freely from the soil. There is no danger of injury to cotton plants when using the recommended amounts of banded fertilizer."

Cost of banded fertilizer is only around 50 cents an acre more than for non-banded fertilizer, Mr. Anderson said. On boron deficient soils, extra yields will far outweigh the cost of adding the material.

"Boron may be the missing link in your cotton production program," he stated. "For more information on this, check with your local county agent."

Varieties of fruit may be used which will be suitable for release and for propagation. Then the selected plants are used in breeding programs to produce better fruit for the

With the help of county extension agents, 11 counties have been surveyed. The following have been located and labeled: figs, 1 chestnut, 2 crab apples, 19 peaches, 18 pears, 21 plums. Apple trees laden with fruit were located within a mile of the station.

A plum tree, propagated cutting, was 43 feet in length. A vigorous crab apple tree, 31-foot limbs spread, was estimated to be 70 years old. It had a record of regular production of regular quality and productivity and resistance to blight and leaf spot were noted for budwood collection.

Dr. Overcash requests that South Mississippi know the plants that have survived the years, or have other qualities write him at the cultural Experiment Station, College, Mississippi.

Plant Breeders Seek Specimens Of Good Fruit Trees

Do you know of an old tree that has produced fruit regularly year after year despite insects, disease, drought and cold? If so, the Experiment Station may be interested in it. It could become the parent of a better fruit variety for South Mississippi.

The mild weather of South Mississippi poses a problem for fruit growers. Too cold for subtropical fruit like citrus, the winters are too mild for many fruits which require a longer chilling period.

Lack of adapted fruit varieties for this area has long been recognized, according to Dr. J. P. Overcash, Mississippi Experiment Station horticulturist. Since this problem extends across the South, Experiment Station workers from South Carolina to Texas are surveying their states to locate fruit
