False Alarm Brings Out Firemen

A false fire alarm Sunday morning about 3 o'clock brought several of the Iuka volunteer firemen out and caused a great deal of excitement.

Officers state that turning in a false alarm is a violation of the law and any person caught committing the crime will be fined accordingly.

Iuka Fire Protection Improved

By action of the Iuka Board of Aldermen, an effort is being made to improve fire protection for property owners in Iuka.

R. C. Houston, a former fire chief, has been employed as a fulltime firechief. Houston, with Curly Aldridge, will alternate staying at the city hall at the telephone. Each will serve 12-hour shifts.

Motion to employ Mr. Houston and move the phone to the city hall was made by Alderman Diddler Thorne and seconded by Alderman Herbert (Doodler) Thomas. The vote was unanimous.

J. B. Smith, Jr. Announces For Aldermen

J. B. Smith, Jr., of Iuka announces his candidacy for member of the Board of Aldermen, City of Iuka.

"To the voters of the City of Iuka, this is my formal announcement of my candidacy for city alderman.

"I am 48-years-of-age, and a life-long resident of Iuka. I feel that I am qualified to serve in this office.

"If elected, I promise to serve the people to the very best of my ability. I am greatly interested in the progress and prosperity of our community. This will be the goal toward which I shall work.

"I ask you to give me full consideration when casting your ballot in the upcoming municipal election. Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

"J. B. Smith, Jr."

R. K. (Diddler) Thorne Announces For Iuka Mayor

First, let me express my appreciation and thanks to the fine people of Iuka who have twice elected me as one of your Aldermen. I served from 1957 to 1961. During that term the late Mayor John Henry Allen appointed me Street Commissioner. I am presently serving as one of your Aldermen, and was, at the outset of this term, again named Street Commissioner by Mayor Cutshall.

In a special election in early 1968, I offered myself as a candidate for Mayor, losing that race by only eight votes. To those of you who did not get to the polls or who did not see fit to support me at that time, I now ask that you vote for me in the coming general election.

In serving as one of your Aldermen, I feel that we have made some mighty great progress in our fine community. We have more streets under pavement than ever before. Our

DEEPENING CAMPUS DISORDERS

The trouble at America's colleges and universities, far from lessening, has worsened markedly in the last few months. Virtual guerrilla warfare is in progress at San Francisco State University, where teachers have been assaulted and bombs have been planted. At the Berkeley campus of the University of California, it has been necessary to keep a large contingent of riot police at the ready for a lengthy period.

But the highly publicized difficulties at these institutions are only a small part of the story. Trouble is taking place or brewing at a wide range of institutions, ranging from new urban colleges to famous old universities.

One of the most fantastic developments is taking place at Federal City College in the nation's capital. Black separatists are in a majority on the faculty, and normal academic life has been twisted into weird patterns. The college even teaches a course in "black mathematics," whatever that may be. Though the college has more than 30,000 books in its library, book circulation is running at only about 60 a week, indicating that little studying is taking place. Professors who want to teach are looking for other jobs. New professors are being recruited, not on the basis of academic credentials but on their records of involvement with black power groups.

The nation's institutions of higher education are paying the price for years of permissiveness. Instead of cracking down on campus lawbreakers, college and university authorities have talked about establishing a "dialogue" with militant students. Naïve administrators don't seem to realize that it is impossible to reason with anarchists and hoodlums. The word "hoodlum" is used advisedly, for some of the militants are raiding student activities fee accounts in order to finance their revolutionary action on campus. Investigation is underway at San Francisco State University that may lead to prosecutions for grand larceny.

In a few places, college authorities are beginning to take the stern attitude that is needed. The president of Notre Dame University has warned that law-breaking student demonstrators will be given 15 minutes to "meditate" and change their ways. Otherwise they will be expelled. If colleges had expelled riotous students, instead of suspending them for a short time, the situation would not be out of hand. No college or university should be a privileged sanctuary for anarchists and practitioners of civil disobedience.

In the case of the new Notre Dame policy, President Nixon hailed this policy as right and proper. Unfortunately, some college presidents and liberal commentators immediately criticized the President and Notre Dame. The Nixon Administration also has reported — and it is a highly encouraging development — that the Justice Department soon will take action against militant student agitators who cross state lines to foment riots. A sweeping investigation of campus militants is in order and overdue.

More than law is needed, however. What's essential is a reassertion of the rights and privileges of university authorities and a rebuke to self-important student radicals who presume to made demands covering matters in which they have no competence or authority. The demonstration was followed up by emotional tirades in which it was said "The University of Virginia must prove itself to the black community." A member of the university board was termed "a piggish symbol of racism." The idea of a minority of radicals dictating to the great university founded by Thomas Jefferson no doubt disgusts thinking people far beyond the borders of the Old Dominion. Such action is not confined to the University of Virginia; it is taking place nationwide.

A university is supposed to be a place of learning, where national and state traditions are respected, and where civilized discussion is the rule. There is no place in a true university for those who shout or write abuse and who attempt to usurp lawful authority of trustees and administrators. Students who can't behave like gentlemen should be denied the privilege of continued university attendance.

Church Changing Too Much?

Is the church changing too much, too fast?

A recent survey conducted by the Ladies' Home Journal, in which 1,000 women were asked about their attitudes toward the church, contains some interesting information and raises some disturbing questions.

Some women objected to the social-action programs of their churches.

"Churches are interfering more than is necessary in civil rights and other social problems, endorsing strikes, parades, and disorders," said one.

Others are dissatisfied with the kind of sermons they are hearing. "Sunday sermons don't penetrate my life," was the response of a young mother. "They always slide around issues of right and wrong."

Wrong Program?

In the Journal article, written by Kenneth L. Woodward, the replies of women across the country paint a picture of dissatisfaction with the message and the methods of some of the churches today.

Are these women justified in feeling as they do?

Have some churches left the program established by the Founder of the church, to follow a different course?

Certain church leaders have gone so far as to redefine the evangelistic mission of the church, stating that the goal of the church in evangelism now is not just to reach individuals and bring them to acknowledge Christ as Lord of their lives, but rather to work to bring about changes in the entire society.

This may sound like a better plan, for certainly there are changes that need to be made in our society.

But is it God's way?

Is it the task which the Lord set for the church?

There were great social problems when Jesus walked among men. What was His approach to them?

Did He favor political action to right these wrongs? Did He organize marches, protests, demonstrations, and sit-ins?

Never did the Lord participate in political action to accomplish His objectives. His objectives could not be achieved by these means.

The Lord's Message

His message was always to the individual, "Follow Me."

His final command to His disciples was, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."

This is the message that the church has to proclaim. This is the work that Christ expects His church to do.

Actually, this is the best way to bring about changes in the society. When men are changed, the society in which they live is changed automatically. This happened in the time of the early church.

But the primary objective of Christ and those who truly follow Him is to lead people individually to become Christians — "sons of God and joint-heirs with Christ."

Anything other than this is no satisfactory substitute.

4-H CLUB GROWTH — During 1967 Mississippi's 4-H Club program was the fastest growing in the United States. According to data released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Extension Service, the total membership in Mississippi increased some 13,000 during the year. The increase brought the State's total 4-H membership to over 45,000 boys and girls in nearly 1,900 communities of Mississippi. — Released by the Mississippi Economic Council.

Sunday was Spring ... Sarah Haines had a hiking crew together — a crew of three, Jim and Leslie Haines and Ben Burns. They knew it was Spring in spite of the fact that they were bundled from head to toe in everything from ski pants to mufflers and boots. When they were last seen they were headed out the Eastport-Snowdown road.

Saturday night at "Summer and Smoke" the play presented by the Corinth Theatre-Arts, I spied Nick Phillips and his date, Angela Cox, and Gary Evans and his date, Nell Spiecer of Nashville. A student at David Lipscomb in Nashville. Nell is the niece of Mrs. Sanders James of Iuka.

Jim Kerr from across the bridge in Savannah, sent me a present this week. It's a game called "Mental-Blok" that's a brain child of an employee over at Parris Mfg. Co., also in Savannah. The game is designed along the Chinese checker line, made of a wooden block with fifteen holes in a triangular formation. In each of fourteen holes is placed a golf tee, leaving one hole empty. The object is to jump a tee and remove it until all spaces have been emptied but one. The Editor worked with the bloomin' thing all day Saturday. W. C. Hamilton came in and tried a couple of times then decided he could work out the system mathematically and come back later. Once you get started on it, it's hard to put it down. When you work it once, you start all over again to see if you can do it twice and you come out more confused than ever.

A unique situation developed this past meeting of the news people in Tupelo last Thursday night. Dwight Gentry, news photographer, got ready to make a picture of the new officers of the association. Now, he had a job! There he was in the midst of some 30-40 news people and all of them were ready to give advice as to how to make it. (You know we can't just sit and watch — we're hams enough to want to get into the act.) I was yelling, "There needs to be some action going on." Somebody else was saying "Don't look at the camera, be natural," and still another, I think it might have been the photographer back there in the background, was saying "Would you look at the camera, please?" — faintly heard through the din.

That fellow who insulted our "Brigadoon" will be presented May 1, 2 and 3 at NEMJC and will feature the assistance of a good many from our county who are students at NE. Fred Ruthenford of Iuka will star in the Lerner and Loewe musical as Harry Beaton. Among those serving as dancers, chorus and townspeople may be spotted Reed McNatt, Pat Holley and Becky Thornton, all of Iuka. Janet Turnipseed of Paden has charge of the make-up while Dianne Cuthshall of Iuka and Ken McRae of Tishomingo will serve as pianists.

All those folks who held their noses last summer to drink the water at J. P. Coleman State Park are hereby given notice that holding the nose is not in vogue this season. The new FHA water system has been installed. The spring and summer campers and vacationers and especially lodge visitors, will have the benefit of sweet water — sans nose holding.

Here's an item that was in a 1918 issue of The Vidette submitted by Lee Broughton of Iuka way back when he was a private at Camp Shelby. Read it and see what was happening there, then, 51 years ago.

Camp Shelby, Miss.
August 25, 1918.

Hello! dear old Vidette and its many readers: As this is Sunday morning and I can't go to church, thought I would drop a few lines to all of my friends.

Well, I am in the quarantine again. This is three times I have been quarantined since I have been here.

I am liking the army life better now, for I have met with a lot of my home boys. I have met with Eugene Walker, George Pool, Edgar Lewis and some more good old friends from Iuka.

Nearly all of the boys are washing here today. Sunday is a big wash day here, but I haven't washed on Sunday but one time since I have been here and that was the first Sunday after I got here.

Well, Bub, I would like to come home, as I heard you were going to get married. I will not tell you whom I heard you were going to marry. Also, I heard Carmack Robertson was going to get married.

Well, I have been very lonely since my dear father went home but I sure was glad to see him, even if I was on duty that Sunday that he was here, but how sad when it came time for him to go home, but I will miss all of you all some sweet day. Well, I will close with best wishes to The Vidette and its many readers.

Tishomingo County Men More Freer Than Wives

How much leisure time does the average housewife in Tishomingo County have per day — for resting, reading, socializing and the like — compared with what her ever-loving husband enjoys in the way of free time?

How do the typical working man and the typical married woman in the local area use their 24 hours each day?

On the basis of a national sampling survey conducted by the Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan, and a study by the International Social Council, United Nations agency, a picture of the average Tishomingo County adult emerges.

It appears that an employed man spends nearly 8 hours of each weekday actually working and has about 3/4 of an hour on work breaks.

He requires about 20 minutes to get to work if he drives, but 40 minutes if he uses public transportation. The latest figures for the local area show that less than one percent of the employed people use public transportation.

Work - related activities, therefore, add up to 9.2 hours a day for the average man.

His wife, on the other hand, if she has no outside job, spends 5 1/2 hours on housework, 40 percent of it cleaning, 30 percent on cooking and dishes, 25 percent on laundry and 5 percent on other tasks.

Added to this is the time she spends shopping, tending to the children, mending and the like.

On Sunday she spends far less time cleaning house and practically none on laundry, but she still puts in 1 1/2 hours preparing meals.

As for the employed wife, and there are approximately 1,360 of them in Tishomingo County, or about 41 percent of all married women in the local area, her schedule is a little different.

Because of her double duties, she devotes two hours less on household chores than does the wife with no outside occupation, the survey shows.

The average married person gets about 7.6 hours of sleep a night, in addition to 20 minutes of rest during the day. Sleeping time goes up an hour on Sunday for men and employed women but stays about the same for housewives.

The net finding is that the average housewife has only an hour more free time per day than her husband.
