County Shows 7.6 Percent Increase In Population

Final official census figures reveal that 33 of Mississippi's 82 counties had population gains during the past decade.

Tishomingo County now has a population of 14,940. Compared with the 13,889 figure a decade ago, the population has increased 7.6 percent.

The Bureau of the Census said the official statewide population count for 1970 was 2,216,912, an increase of 38,771 or 1.8 percent over the 2,178,141 count reported in 1960.

Early preliminary reports had indicated the state suffered a slight population loss in the latest census.

Officers For Iuka Chamber Of Commerce

Yellow Creek Port Could Become A Model

The annual meeting of the Iuka Chamber of Commerce was held at J. P. Coleman Park Restaurant Wednesday night, January 6th at 7:00.

Tennessee Valley Authority Director, Frank E. Smith, Principal Speaker at the meeting, told members that the Yellow Creek Port development on the Tennessee River in Tishomingo County, Mississippi, can become a model for similar economic development along the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

"A new dimension in transportation" with water traffic connected at the port with improved rail service, will bring new, high-wage heavy industry into the northeast Mississippi area, and affect employment opportunities in nearby Alabama and Tennessee, Smith said.

"The fullest potential of the new development will come only if there is carefully coordinated planning by the local and state agencies working in cooperation with TVA," Smith said. He pointed to the necessity of priorities for the industrial sites being created by the port and railroad being given to those industries best adapted to satellite spinoffs in the way of other jobs for the region.

Although TVA has served northeast Mississippi with electric power since the regional agency was created in 1933, the Yellow Creek Port is the first project to be built by TVA within the State of Mississippi.

During the business session, the following officers were elected to serve in 1971: Norvel Counce, President; W. C. Hamilton, Vice-President; William Pyle, Secretary; and Gene Jourdan, Treasurer.

New directors elected to serve for two years were: Dr. Bobby King, P. O. Beard, Jim Rose, R. L. Brown, Jr., Clyde Middleton, and Reuben Grisham.

Other directors with one more year to serve are DeWitt Bean, Frank Burns, Austin Curtis, J.R. Long, James L. Broughton and Ben McRae.

Serving as the Nominating Committee were: Ben McRae, Gene Jourdan and Frank Burns.

Iuka Shirt Factory First Industry To Get Mobile Health Unit

Mr. Max Glaser, owner and operator of Iuka Shirt Company, states his appreciation to the fine doctors of this area for the accomplishment of acquiring the Mobile Health Unit for this area. He states the attitude of the people to take the physical for health care is very good. Troy

D. Holtsford, Plant Manager, states that 80% of the employees applied for this program. The management is well pleased that the fine people of this plant are concerned about their health and well being and appreciate their effort to participate in this health program.

Mrs. Martha Robinson, Coordinator, expresses her appreciation to Mr. Glaser and to Mr. Holtsford and the entire plant for their cooperation and participation. She is looking forward to working with the other Industrial Plants, and she encourages everyone to make plans for the free health check-up which will be open to the public very soon.

The Iuka Shirt Company is the first industry in the county to accept this health program.

The Iuka Shirt Company has been in operation in Iuka for the past 15 years. In the past 15 years there has been a continuous and steady growth of employment with a payroll of the sum of 1 1/2 million dollars per year. Employment ranges from 300 to 350 people since the latest expansion last year. The economy of this area has been greatly enhanced by the plant being located in Iuka.

Due to the heavy imports, the firm has used their ingenuity to create and design novelty garments that sell on the market throughout the United States, Canada and the Caribbean.

Eight Candidates Qualified In Tishomingo County Election

The October election is already creating widespread interest in Tishomingo County. Seven candidates qualified last week and announced their intention to seek re-election.

This week another added his name to the list. He is Rufus Johnson for Supervisor of the First District.

Candidates who had earlier filed include Chancery Court Clerk, Robert Sims; Circuit Court Clerk, Lamar Rutherford; First District Supervisor, Carl Hendrix; Second District Supervisor, Russell Bonds; Third District Supervisor, A. C. Ryan; Fourth District Supervisor, M.R. Whitehead; and Fifth District Supervisor, Leon Cook. All of these seek re-election.

It seems that the election will be the number one topic of conversation around the county this year.

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

ECONOMIC REALISM FOR '71

President Nixon's appointment of John Connolly, a Texas Democrat, as Secretary of the Treasury is evidence that the nation's chief executive hopes to fashion a bi-partisan economic policy that will strengthen the country. However, several obstacles will render difficult the achieving of this objective.

The choice of Gov. Connolly had hardly been announced before liberal critics launched a campaign of criticism. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) indicated he will subject the Texan to sharp questioning when the nomination comes before the Senate. The New Republic, a virtual house organ of the Kennedy New Frontiersmen, dubbed Mr. Connolly a "Nixocrat." The Governor's business connections anger the anti-business bloc on Capital Hill. Joseph R. Slevin of Newsweek, in a bitter comment on the appointment, said the Governor is "just one more conservative politician in the Nixon lineup."

Aside from such political sniping, Mr. Connolly—assuming he is confirmed by the Senate—will have to deal with widespread confusion over economic issues. The "pump priming" advocates are busy recommending another dose of inflation as a cure for the economic doldrums. This suggestion is a prescription for disaster.

If President Nixon wants sound economic advice, he would do well to heed the counsel of Norman A. Bailey, professor of political science at Queens College in New York and president of a firm of investment bankers. Writing in the Columbia University Forum this fall, Mr. Bailey gave a lucid explanation of what lies behind the combination of public inflation and private recession. He gave this summary of the nation's economic difficulties:

"While government units at all levels continue to spend beyond their sources of revenue, increase expenditures yearly, and raise taxes to cover at least part of this increased expenditure (thereby adding to private costs), the private sector is starved for liquidity. The result is a vicious circle. As the private sector declines, less wealth is produced from which taxes can be paid; the public sector continues to inflate the monetary supply to support its various spending programs; prices as a result continue to rise, labor unions press for greater benefits, and the private sector is further squeezed."

If this process continues, Mr. Bailey warns, the United States is likely to suffer a real depression on the order of the 1929 crash.

The worst mistake the Nixon administration could make would be to try to increase liquidity by artificial means. Instead of creating a new economic boom, this action undoubtedly would accelerate inflation, step-up unwise borrowing and promote too-rapid expansion.

The truth is that restoration of national economic health will require a continued pinching of the economy—and this pinching hurts in terms of employment. This process also hurts politically, as the Nixon administration discovered in the November elections. Some of the administration's political advisers no doubt are arguing that easy money policies are a political necessity. But the long-range interests of the American people dictate otherwise.

For the sake of the future well-being of our country, President Nixon must spell out the peril in "priming the pump." To stick to the hard road of fiscal and monetary soundness will take political courage—what is known as statesmanship. If Mr. Nixon adheres to a statesman-like economic policy he can be sure of bipartisan support from informed and responsible Americans in both major parties.

Sheriff Fee Revival Asked

A measure to repeal a 1968 law that would take sheriffs off the fee system was introduced Tuesday in the Senate.

The measure, offered by Sen. John Moore of Starkville, was one of nearly 400 prefiled bills to be formally introduced as the new legislative session got underway.

Moore said the measure would allow sheriffs to succeed themselves in office but leave them on a fee basis rather than changing to a salary system.

It also would repeal a portion of a 1968 law providing for separation of the offices of sheriff and tax collector.

The 1968 law, which is not due to go into effect until next year, would permit sheriff's succession but sets up a salary scale for sheriffs based on the population of their counties.

USDA To Ask Farmers About 1971 Planting

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will conduct a special survey about January first to help determine farmers' planting intentions for the 1971 growing season for 7 major crops.

USDA's Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will conduct survey operations in 35 States, including Mississippi. Mail questionnaires will be sent to some 14,000 farmers here, and about 275,000 nationally. The survey will ask about 1971 acreage plans for corn, spring wheat, oats, barley, sorghum, soybeans, and cotton. Estimates for these crops by States will be issued January 25, 1971 at 3:00 p.m. EST.

Mr. Ray Converse, statistician in Charge of the Mississippi office stated this special survey would not replace the annual planting intentions report issued in March. He said the January appraisal was scheduled to help farmers get an early season view of prospective acreages in light of new farm legislation.

The survey findings will also aid USDA program planners to adjust to the effects of the new provisions.

Mr. Converse urges all farmers receiving the special planting intentions survey questionnaire to read it thoroughly and answer all questions carefully. The questionnaire should be returned quickly in the postage-free envelope. He points out the greater the response, the more reliable the estimates.

DAVE LLEWELLYN

Am I What I Act Like?

By DAVE LLEWELLYN

Any dynamic relationship which you hold now was initiated and is maintained by an act of your will — or, more exactly, by a continuous action of your will. All human relationships are founded and structured by people making choices.

I suppose you all can remember some time, perhaps many times, when a neighbor brought you some food she had prepared — maybe a pie or cake. That episode in your relationship with that person resulted from a series of choices. She had to decide whether the time, expense, and effort required was "worth it."

Worth what? Worth, first of all, the value it had to you, to feed you, or to help you celebrate, or to make you feel wanted. Worth, secondly — but perhaps more importantly — what value it had to her, to make her feel useful, or to demonstrate her empathy, or to finish up the extra ingredients.

How We Act

The making of choices is the function of your will, and it is the most basic expression of your personality. By your choices you demonstrate your values.

Hypocrites may be exceptions to this principle in that they project an untrue personality by pretending to value what they actually despise. But their falsity eventually becomes apparent. Most of us have problems with hypocrisy, such as when we "make excuses" for doing or not doing something, rather than admit the honest but unpleasant reasons for our decisions.

Accepting these truths, a remarkable opportunity is presented to us to find out what we are really like. Because we know that actions result from choices that reflect values, we are now able to observe our own actions, evaluate our choices (both those of deliberation and those of habit or default), and discover what sort of people we really are.

I do this periodically and sometimes discover, as now, that I have reverted to being more a lover of pleasure than a lover of God. For the moment, I'll leave you to ponder about yourself while I sketch three brief stories.

What We Like

A man found a treasure in a field and sold all he had to buy that field. Another man found a priceless pearl and sold all he owned to purchase it. A third man gave a lavish dinner party and, when all his invited guests RSVP'd "No," giving trivial excuses, he gathered instead the poor, the sick, and even absolute strangers and foreigners.

If you would like to know more about these stories, Jesus tells them in Matthew 13 and Luke 14. Part of the point of them is that two men searched for some things of value and then yielded all else to possess them, while other people were offered freely something of value — a participation in friendship — and refused it, and less likely people accepted it.

Jesus says that the spiritual world is like that. A worthwhile friendship with God can be had only on the premise that this contact is worth giving up everything else, if necessary. The communication fuzzes into static when other values create interference.

Now that you've had a chance to ponder your recent choices, what do you act like you value? Copyright Dave Llewellyn 1971

He Is Coming Back Again

By Lindsey Earl Jones

Today we live in a world that has forgotten God.

We live and act as if we were going to stay here always.

And some even say God is dead.

But no matter how you act or what you believe,

Jesus is coming back to this earth again.

Not to die upon the old rugged cross,

But to rule as King over all the world.

He will separate the righteous from the wicked as a shepherd separates the goats from the sheep.

And the righteous will go into the Kingdom of Heaven with Jesus and all His angels to live forever.

But the wicked will be cast into hell with the devil and all his angels to be tormented forever.

So if He should come today would you be ready to hear him say, "Well done,"

Or would you be cast into hell to be tormented forever?

TO MONTGOMERY ON JANUARY 18

JOHN J. SYNON

...now, I am wrong. That sort of thinking leads but to perdition, to the sort of mess we are in, now. That's why I say a fig for the trimmers; I support George Wallace and I am going to Montgomery, me and my faith, to evidence that support.

Indubitably, George Wallace has the best political mind now functioning in the interests of this country. Moreover, you may take it as gospel, if we are going to come out of this sink, we need a politician — one we can trust — to show us how. And that is George Wallace. He is knowledgeable and honest.

Since Wallace became a threat to The Establishment, his life has been curried-combed. To no avail. George Wallace is clean, period. And you know he is smart.

That is why I won't deviate. George Wallace is my man and I mean to be on hand to see him stand where Jefferson Davis once stood and take his oath of office. I want to hear the constitutional rights of the States enunciated once again.

None of which is to say I think Wallace will be elected President in 1972, no more than I thought he would be elected in 1968. It is to say, in 1968, he had a chance of throwing the election into the House, where the South's voice might have been heard, and it is to say that chance will come again, next year, and you dumbkops should get off your duff.

Quixotically, it is also my conviction that George Wallace is his own worst political enemy. For whatever reason, Wallace does not have now, and he has never had, political lieutenants of stature — and you can't win the presidency without them.

By lieutenants, I mean those who comprise the bones, brains, and gristle of his American Independent Party. Those who man that outfit are nice enough people — but blah! Wallace has no national organization that can be taken seriously, nothing but supernumeraries, spear carriers. Because of this, he resembles Billy Graham: Where he is there is great hoop-la; where he ain't, there is nothing.

Whether this shortcoming is born of the fact that sympathizers of talent and means are too timid to openly espouse his cause (the sort who make me sick) or whether he, himself consciously or unconsciously, avoids enrolling their assistance that is a conundrum I have been unable to fathom.

Whatever the reason, Wallace won't get very far, not in a national political sense, without such lieutenants. Even so, there he will stand, on January 18, the finest political figure on the American scene. And there I shall stand, lost somewhere in the multitude, me and my faith and my pressed pants, feeling better for having been there.

Sen. Eastland Draws An Attack From Red Star

Senator James O. Eastland said the vicious attack on him by the Russian Army newspaper, Red Star, will "not be regarded as an attempt to intimidate me-- but as a challenge."

Eastland said the blast will simply serve to spur his anti-communist activities to new heights. "I shall pursue the course in the future which I have followed throughout my life-- to oppose communism with every resource available to me."

The Mississippian heads the Senate's tough anti-communist Internal Security Subcommittee which spearheads the nation's attack on Red influence within the country. The watchdog panel keeps communist influence over the United States under constant surveillance through searching investigations and intensive hearings.

"I am proud and pleased if the powers in Moscow consider me a leading enemy of communism," said Eastland. "Such a title is indeed an honor and a challenge."

The newspaper blasted Eastland in what Kremlin-watchers called an uncommonly virulent attack in an unusually long article. The 1,200 word report appeared under a three column headline in the Army publication.

It labeled Eastland as "the most vicious anti-communist and anti-Soviet" and pointed out "he never accepts a compromise... even with the liberals."

American intelligence sources considered it a carefully planned attack. They pointed out it may be the opening round of a move to rid Congress of southern influence and leadership.

Eastland, as Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, holds a vast array of power at his fingertips. Nearly two-thirds of all legislation considered by Congress must funnel through his committee, which has been dubbed "the Little Senate."

The Senator promised he "will never back off" his campaign to keep communist influence out of America. "The Masters of the Kremlin are dedicated to the death of this nation," Eastland said, "and I am just as dedicated to its life and its future."

In the article, the Russians accused Eastland of attempting to "Mississippi the whole world" and "turn the other 49 states into a big Mississippi."

When told of the statement, Eastland replied: "That might not be such a bad idea."

POSTAL RATE HIKE SOON

Reports say President Nixon's recess appointment of the New U. S. Postal Service's board of governors is expecting to bring a 33 1/3 percent increase in mail rates by May.

This increase will boost the 6-cent first class stamp to eight cents and raise all other classes of mail by 33 1/3 percent.

The increase will produce a total of $1.6 billion in revenues to offset the Postal Service's anticipated $2.3 billion deficit in 1971. Another $800 million in so-called public service subsidies will come from the taxpayers through a congressional appropriation.

Under the Postal Reform Legislation of 1970, the board of governors can ask the five-member postal rate commission for sufficient increases to make the post office pay for itself.

If the rate commission fails to act within 90 days, the board's proposed increases will go into effect 10 days later on a temporary basis.

A one-third increase is the most the governors can request on a temporary basis. Rates eventually could go much higher, since the law requires that the Postal Service must break even by 1982.

Midway RCDC

The Midway Rural Community Development Club will meet on January 18th at the Center at 7:00 p.m.

All members are asked to observe the change of date and to attend.

STENNIS VOICES DISAPPROVAL VOLUNTEER ARMY

Stennis said the volunteer Army is a reality and will be achieved. He said that without the volunteer Army, the nation's conditions are as the Vietnam war, there is no adequate solution although a solution is now in sight," he said.

Stennis reiterated his support for President Nixon's present Vietnam policies and also said he supported the Nixon doctrine of greater self-help on the part of the free nations of Asia. He said the war in Vietnam and other factors necessitate a re-assessment of U. S. commitments throughout the world.

"The limitations of our manpower and losses will not permit us to aid every Asian nation any time it is confronted with a communist threat whether from within or without," Stennis said. The Senator said the people of a country must be willing to adhere to the principles of freedom and be "united in their willingness to defend their freedoms to the death, if necessary."

Stennis pointed out the U. S. has entered into treaty arrangements with some 43 countries since the end of World War II. He affirmed his support of NATO and said he did not intend to advocate any abrupt or substantial withdrawal of American troops. However, Stennis pleaded with the European NATO countries to "furnish a greater proportion of the manpower and other support in order to permit some reduction in U. S. troops in Europe."

"Europe is no longer an impoverished continent as it was when the treaty was signed," Stennis said. "Their strong economies justify their bearing a greater proportion of the load. We must force them to realize we are dead serious on this point."

Stennis said another lesson for the future with respect to Vietnam was the need for calling Reserve components to active duty. He said Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's recent statement concerning this should make it clear that the Reserves and National Guard will be called upon in the future.

"The Reserves are now costing about $2 1/2 billion per year and their whole purpose is to augment the active force when the need arises," Stennis said. "The failure to call the Reserves undermines their entire purpose and negates their statutory mission."

"To me (the Reserves) offer the only hope of reducing the size of the active establishment and thereby reducing substantially our defense costs," Stennis said.

"While my support is total, I must also make clear the mission (of the Reserves) must be clearcut, they must be fully trained and adequately equipped in order to be truly 'ready' and they must be used when the need arises, he said.

Stennis emphasized that the U. S. must maintain its superiority in weapons and said this principle must be maintained whatever the cost. "Second best equipped usually means we will be second best in every way," Stennis said.

The Senator said efforts must be made to get along with fewer types of weapons and said hard choices will be in order when these matters reach the point of decision.

Mt. Gilead Homemakers Meet

The Mt. Gilead Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Leslie Newcomb January 11th at 7:00 p.m. for the first meeting of the year.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Lilla Davis, President. The thought for the month was "A smile is a curve that can set a lot of things straight." After the song, "God Will Take Care of You," Mrs. Amy Walker gave an inspiring devotional, using Matthew 6:33. The roll was called with each member stating her New Year's resolutions. The minutes were read by Mrs. Tressie Bonds, Secretary.

During the business session, the club voted to continue the Mt. Gilead Cemetery and the Mt. Gilead 4-H Club projects. A new project, "Ways to prevent litter in the community," was discussed.

Mrs. Earline Whitfield gave the focus topic on birth defects after which the club voted to give $5.00 to the March of Dimes. The year books were reviewed and plans for the year were discussed.

After an enjoyable recreation period, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Present other than those already mentioned were Mesdames Jeneve Higginbottom, Lena Jowers, Melvia Robinson, Ocene Kenaum, and Joan Strickland.

Final Step Taken For Yellow Creek Port

A final step toward development of the Yellow Creek Port in Tishomingo County has been taken with approval by the Mississippi State Commission on Budget and Accounting of amendments to the contract for construction of the inland port.

Brad Dye, Jr., director of the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board, which will oversee operation of the port, announced approval of the contract amendments following appearances in Jackson before the Budget Commission of representatives from the A & I Board, Northeast Mississippi counties, and the Yellow Creek Port Authority.

Dye pointed out that approval

10. The A team game at halftime was Mustangs 32 and Wildcats 31.

The Mustangs came back ready to go and the second half was better with the final score being Burnsville 76 and Walnut 65.

High scorers for Burnsville Mustangs were Marty Puckett 22, Danny Lovelace 17 and Tommy Wright 16.

Walnut high scorers were Hugh 22, Ragan 14.

of the contract changes by the Tennessee Valley Authority, one of the participants in the development along with the A & I Board and the Tombigbee River Valley Water Management District, "is the last step to be taken before commencement of construction of the port." He said that the contract changes were made to satisfy requests made by the U. S. Congress when it approved TVA's contribution toward financing of the project.

In addition to Dye, persons appearing before the Budget Commission last week in support of the project included Representatives Clyde Burns of Alcorn and Tishomingo Counties; Jerry Wilburn of Itawamba and Lee Counties; W. A. Stevens of Alcorn and Tishomingo Counties; Thompson Pound, manager, and Fred Bush, Tupelo, legal counsel, for the Tombigbee River Valley Water Management District; W. P. McMullan, Sr., and Les Lampton, both of Jackson, A & I Board members; and Hubert Stephens and Paul Burt of the A & I Board staff.

The new port will be located along the route of the Tennessee - Tombigbee Waterway on Yellow Creek, a tributary of the Tennessee River, and will provide terminal facilities for handling barge traffic from Mississippi on the Tennessee River system.

Creation of the inland port was authorized by the Mississippi Legislature in 1968 and a contract for development of the facility subsequently signed by the A & I Board, the Water Management District, and TVA, which owns the land on which the port will be built. The Federal government, through TVA, will contribute $5.4 million to the project and Mississippi will issue $1.5 million in bonds as its share. Dye said these bonds will be retired by funds received from industrial and shipping developments at the new port.

ANIMALS

By Mary B. Davis

THANKS TO YOU Congress did pass the "Animal Welfare Act of 1970."

Here are some of the facts connected with the passage of this humane animal-protection law:

G. W. Whitehurst of Virginia had started Congressional action to improve the laws for humane treatment of animals by introducing HR 13957.

In reply to the letter of thanks which I sent him, he answered: "It does take Congress to pass the laws, but Congress is a body of men and women who are responsive to the people they represent. If enough individuals will write to express their views, their Representatives will be willing to consider voting for the legislation."

Immediately, I began requesting people to contact their Congressmen and ask them to support the bill. Several newspapers in Mississippi, Alabama, and Tennessee published my personal appeal; and Mayor Henry Loeb of Memphis read the request over his television program.

Throughout the country, thousands of other humanitarians were also working for the passage of stronger animal-protection laws.

Thomas Foley of Washington had also introduced a bill for the animals.

So, in response to the tremendous amount of interest shown on behalf of the helpless, speechless animals, Congress did respond.

Each of you who sent cards, letters, telegrams, signed petitions, or made telephone calls played an important part in this legislation.

G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery of Mississippi, a member of the Subcommittee to which the bills were referred, was a co-sponsor of the bill which was finally approved.

Mr. Montgomery notified me that on November 19, 1970, HR 19846 had been unanimously approved by the Subcommittee. He further stated that this bill incorporated the best features of both Mr. Whitehurst and Mr. Foley's bills; and that he thought it would go alongside the 1966 Animal Welfare Act as a landmark in the field of legislation to assure humane treatment of animals.

On December 7, 1970, the House of Representatives also unanimously passed the bill; and on the very next day, by unanimous consent, the Senate passed it.

Jamie L. Whitten of Mississippi sent a copy of Report No. 91-1651. This report was made by W. R. Poage of Texas, Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture; and it gives complete details concerning the purpose of the bill. In general terms, it strengthens and broadens the protection of animals by including more animals under the act; regulates more people handling animals; establishes by law the humane ethic that animals should be accorded the basic creature comforts of adequate housing, ample food and water, reasonable handling, decent sanitation, sufficient and adequate veterinary care; and strengthens the Agriculture Secretary's enforcement powers under the Act, including increasing penalties.

Mr. Poage, himself a great friend to animals and a leader in obtaining better conditions for them, makes the following general statement concerning this law:

"This bill represents a continuing commitment by Congress to the ethic of kindness to dumb animals...It reflects the philosophy of caring for animals enunciated by W. D. Hoard in 1885 who said: 'The stupid brutishness of men who are too ignorant of their own interests to be gentle and humane finds, at last, sharp punishment...'"

THANKS TO YOU!

TVA Says Water Level Below Normal

Rainfall across the Tennessee Valley averaged 47.6 inches for 1970, about 4 inches below the normal amount, TVA reports.

In the eastern half of the Valley (east of Chattanooga), rainfall was about 6 inches below normal for the year. Resulting annual streamflow for the upper portion of the Valley, where TVA's tributary storage reservoirs are located, was only about 80 percent of normal and was the ninth lowest in 96 years.

Water levels in most tributary lakes were below normal during the summer and early fall. Streamflows into these lakes generally were not enough to offset the water used in hydroelectric power generation needed to help meet hot weather power demands and conserve low coal stockpiles at fuel-burning power plants. An exception was Norris Lake, where streamflows were adequate and the water levels normal.

By the end of December most of the tributary lakes were at or near their average levels for this time of year, however. These lakes are lowered each fall to provide capacity for regulating winter floods.

No major flood control operations were necessary in 1970 on the Tennessee River itself, but releases from Kentucky Dam near the river's mouth were cut back in early May to help reduce flood crests downstream on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. This operation by TVA reduced flood damage by an estimated $1,844,000. As part of the river's flow was stored in Kentucky Lake, the water level behind the dam rose to 366.8 feet above sea level, second highest on record.

Bear Creek Reservoir in Franklin County, Alabama, completed in 1969, regulated 16 flood-producing storms during the first full year of operation. This reservoir is the first element in a multipurpose water control system being built by TVA in the flood-prone Bear Creek watershed along the Alabama-Mississippi border.

December continued the year's dry trend with Tennessee Valley rainfall averaging 3.9 inches, about a half-inch below normal. The highest December total reported to TVA was 7.20 inches at Haw Knob, in southeast Tennessee on the Carolina border. The lowest was 1.66 inches at Banner Elk, N.C.

Veterans Administration

Q--How long am I entitled to receive payment from VA while pursuing my education?

A--You are entitled to 1 1/2 months of schooling for every month of active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, with a maximum allowance of 36 months. However, no educational assistance may be paid after eight years from the date of your last discharge.

Q--I wish to apply for a certificate of eligibility for a GI loan, but I lost my DD-214, Armed Forces Report of Transfer or Discharge. What should I do?

A--The VA will accept a legible copy of an original discharge or release from active duty. If a copy is not available, apply at any VA office for an application form for a replacement.

Q--When will I receive my dividend check on my GI insurance?

A--If all premiums due have been received, checks are mailed by the policy anniversary date, and should be received shortly thereafter.

Q--Can a veteran go to any school, or pursue any educational program he desires?

A--Yes, if the course or program leads to a recognized educational, vocational or professional objective, and is approved by a state-approving agency.

IMMUNIZE CHILDREN AGAINST RUBELLA

A new baby! A cause for rejoicing. But if the baby is born with a birth defect, joy may turn to sorrow. One of the major causes of birth defects is Rubella (German measles). Defects may be heart disease, blindness, deafness or mental retardation.

How does this happen? By an expectant mother being exposed to and contracting Rubella. The best way to protect expectant mothers against Rubella is to vaccinate children against the disease. And such a vaccination is now available.

The vaccine has now been available a year. And yet, in this time only about one-third of the largest group have been vaccinated. These are children aged 1 to 12, who are most likely to expose women of child-bearing age.

Don't risk the possibility of a defective baby in your family--or in any family. If you don't have children or your children are older, tell your friends who do have younger children. If you have children from 1 to 12 years old, make sure they are immunized. Ask your doctor or health department about Rubella vaccine today!

CREDIT SENSE WITH CREDIT CARDS

A federal credit card law, passed in May 1970, makes it a crime to use stolen credit cards. And, you aren't liable for more than $50 in charges if your card is used without your authorization.

The federal government will not pay the bills run up on your credit, but now the government can apprehend and prosecute a credit card thief.

The new law has also banned the distribution of unrequested credit cards. So you shouldn't be getting any more cards unless you apply for them.

CONNECT ELECTRICAL APPLIANCE SAFELY

New electric appliance? Use wall plugs, not extension cords or light sockets for these appliances.

If the appliance comes equipped with a three-prong ground plug--use it! A three-prong wall outlet gives you added protection against electric shock.

Running cords over hot pipes, radiators, under a rug or door can lead to fire trouble. After using, disconnect all appliances before cleaning.

Blue Mountain Registration Dates

Blue Mountain College, Mississippi Baptist's senior liberal arts, fully accredited Christian College, will hold examinations for the first semester of 1970-71, from Monday, January 18, until Saturday, January 23.

Registration for the second semester will be held on Tuesday, January 26, according to the following schedule: Seniors, 8:30-9:45 a.m.; Juniors, 9:45-11:00 a.m.; Sophomores, 11:00 a.m.-12:15 p.m.; and Freshmen, 1:30 p.m.-3:00 p.m. Registration material may be obtained from the Registrar's Office any time during exam week, but no early registration will be permitted. The date mentioned above will be observed for all second semester registration.

Members of the faculty will be seated in the Paschal Student Center during registration hours of Tuesday, January 26, so that they may assist in signing registration blanks for students. Forms must, then, bear the signature of the Academic Dean, William N. Washburn, or the Registrar, Miss Annie Hendricks.

COLORFUL FLOWERS

Have you ever wondered why you've never seen a green blossom? Botanists have reached the conclusion that a green blossom would hardly be seen by the insects or birds that are so vital in the life process of plants by aiding pollination.

Hence, God in His creation of flowers and their process of life, thought of everything to assist their beauty and existence.

We try to make flowers more beautiful...our arrangements are given special attention and care, our corsages are carefully prepared...in other words we do everything possible to make the flowers you order, just what you want.

Mississippi Facts

PLANT
The second largest petrified forest in the United States is located near Flora, Mississippi. Specimens in the forest are said to date back 30 million years.

"LITTLE ARLINGTON"
Hillcrest Cemetery in Holly Springs, Mississippi, is known as "Little Arlington." The cemetery has graves of more famous Civil War soldiers than any other in the State of Mississippi.

LAST FAIR
The only campground fair remaining in the United States is located near Philadelphia, Miss. The Neshoba County Fair has been an annual event continuously since 1889. A giant size open air pavilion sits in the center of the square with cabins and houses surrounding the square, providing residents with campground facilities. There are more than 200 such houses with more than 2,000 patrons occupying them for the fair week.

TIMBER AND PULP
In the timbered southeast, Mississippi ranks third in pulpwood production and is showing bigger gains than most other states. Nine mills, some among the largest in the south, manufacture products from pulp produced in the state. From the timber standpoint, Mississippi has over 375 lumber and wood products mills and 137 furniture and fixture plants.

MODERN GIN
One of the most modern cotton gins in the world is located at Stoneville, Mississippi. The gin is part of the United States Ginning Laboratory, which is charged with the responsibility of improving methods of ginning and cleaning cotton and at the same time maintaining the quality inherent in cotton fiber.

LEADING RESEARCH CENTER
The Delta Branch Experiment Station located at Stoneville, Mississippi, is recognized by many as the leading cotton research center in the world. It is also the leading soybean research center of the South; varieties developed here account for an estimated 15 percent of the world production.

LARGEST PLANT
The world's largest axminster carpet plant under one roof is located at Greenville, Mississippi. Operated by the Mohasco Industries, Incorporated, the facility covers an area of 600 feet by 1,153 feet.

WALKER FARMS LARGEST
Walker Farms Dairy at Leland, Mississippi, is the largest privately owned dairy in Mississippi and the largest 100 percent golden guernsey dairy in the United States. Some 80,000 gallons of milk are produced at the dairy each week.

Major Legislative Issue
Ten years ago the federal census created a clamor for reappointment of the Mississippi Legislature.

At the time of the 1960 census, Mississippians were aware that the Legislature had declined to face the issue of equal representation since enactment of the Constitution 70 years before. Now, after a decade of struggling with reapportionment through the halls of the Legislature and through the chambers of both state and federal courts, reapportionment is still a major issue.

The 1970 census makes it so. Flagrant inequities, brought about by the failure of the Legislature to face the issue for 70 years, came out into the open after the 1960 census. These inequities were removed during the decade of the sixties -- with a strong assist from the federal courts.

In its decision, the court emphasized that it had no intention of handcuffing the Mississippi Legislature.

Thus, according to the court, the way is clear for the Legislature to reapportion itself on the basis of the 1970 census.

From 1960 to 1970 Mississippi's population changed very little. Actually, the state gained two percent -- increasing from a population of 2,178,141 in 1960 to 2,233,848 in 1970.

Even though we had only a two percent total change, there was a significant shifting of population.

Preliminary census reports indicate that 56 of 82 counties lost population and 26 gained. The movement toward South Mississippi continued.

As presently constituted, more than 50 percent of the districts of both the House and Senate are inequitably apportioned. Facts on the subject of apportionment were presented to members of the Legislature by the Mississippi Economic Council in December.

The 1971 Session of the Mississippi Legislature began this week. During this session, legislators, as trustees of good government, have the moral and legal responsibility to attempt, in good faith, to provide equal representation for all citizens.

Polled Hereford Ass'n Holds Annual Meeting

It was a very special occasion when approximately 50 interested beef producers of all breeds were the guests of the NEMPFA for their first annual meeting to hear a most informative talk by Dr.

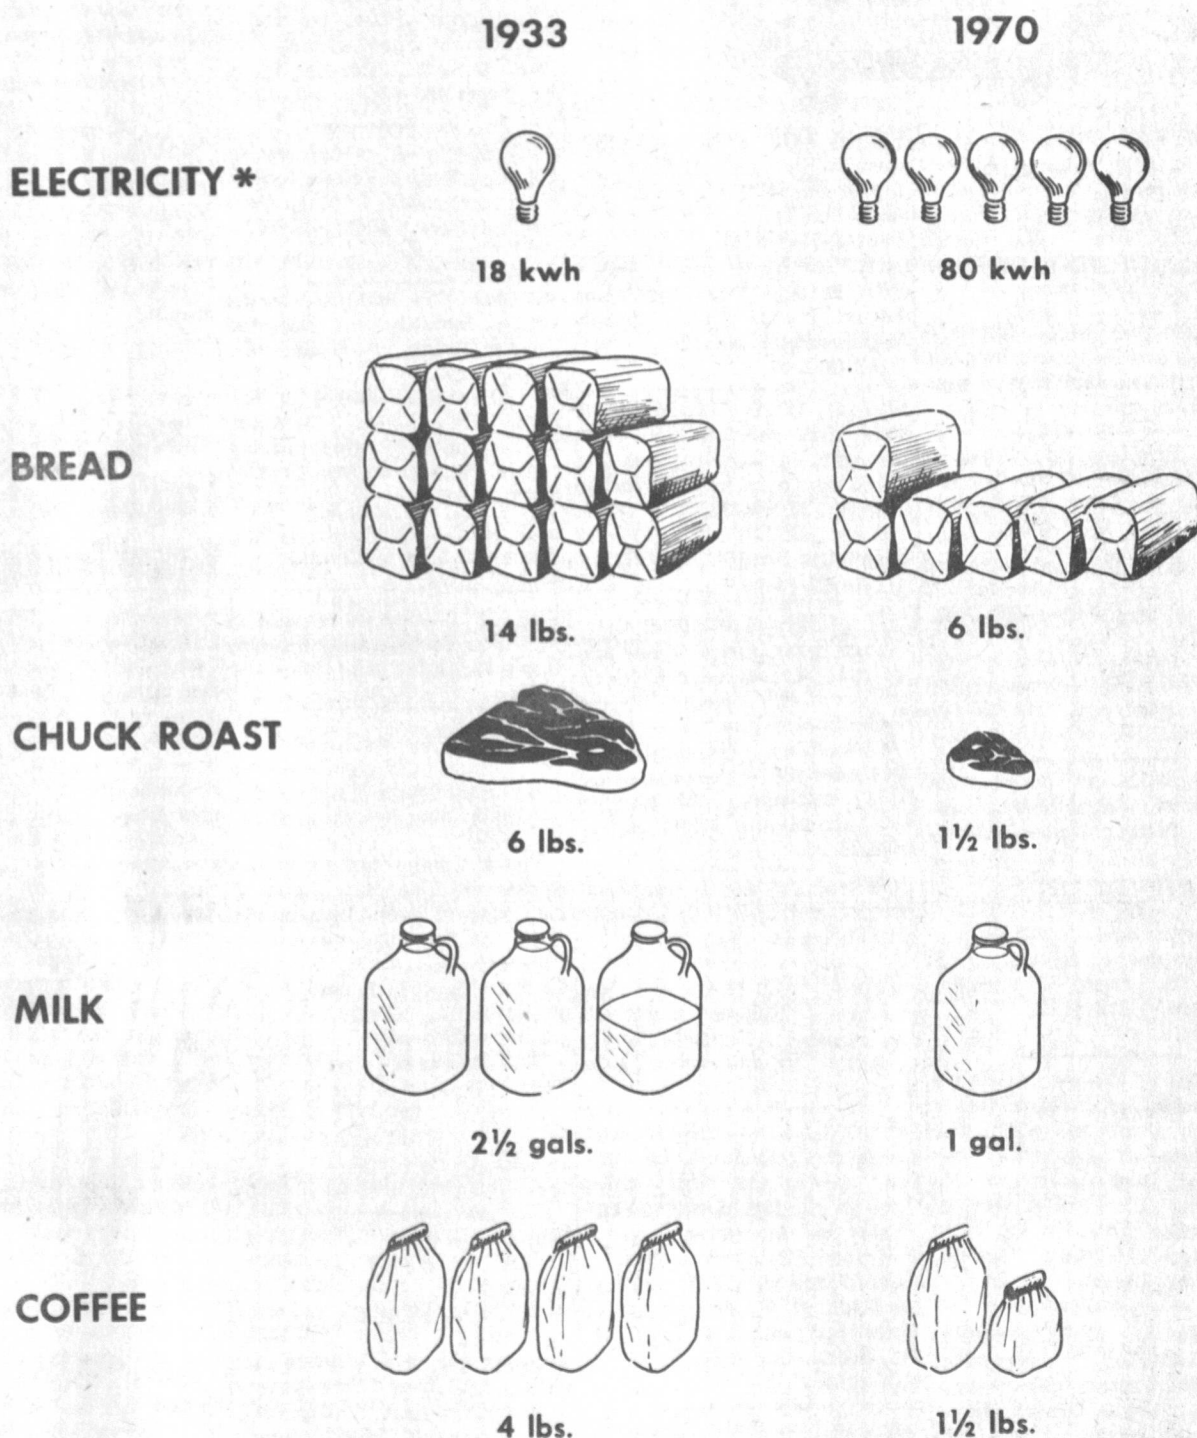

Stewart H. Fowler, head of the Department of Animal Husbandry, Mississippi State University. Dr. Fowler discussed the advantages and disadvantages concerning cross breeding using Sires of one breed and Dams of another breed. "The danger lies in the use of bulls that are not superior Sires," stated Dr. Fowler, "regardless of the breed that is used, be sure that you use a Sire with the genetic ability to transmit his outstanding qualities to his off-spring." When you consider this - how can you buy a bull without looking at his performance record? You should know how much he weighed at weaning and also what his yearling weight was. Another thing that you might be interested in is the manner in which this weight was put on. To use a bull that is not a good bull is too expensive even is he's free. Following the general program, officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Joe A. Pharr, President; W. H. Wilbanks, Vice President; D. H. Pritchard, Secretary and Treasurer; Board of Directors: W. O. Potts, Jr., Alcorn County; R. E. Tapp, Tippah County; Curt Parham, DeSoto County; Billy Ashe, McNairy County, Tennessee; S. M. (Buddy) Wells, Prentiss County; C. E. Cantrell, Monroe County; W. N. Honeycutt, Tishomingo County; Doug Osborn, Itawamba County; and David S. Holmes, Union County.

Bridal & Saddle Club Met

Cherokee Bridal and Saddle Club, Inc. met January 7th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Wallace. Officers for the 1971 season were chosen as follows: Jack Wallace, President; Fred Wallace, Vice-President; Mrs. Suzan Wallace, Secretary; and Peggy Williams, Treasurer. Outgoing president, Billy Hamilton, was elected to the Board of Directors, and appointed Chairman. The club will meet the first Monday night of each month during the coming year, and is again affiliated with the Dixie Amateur Horseman's Association.

Camp Shelby Largest National Guard Training Site

Some 40,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists trained at Camp Shelby near Hattiesburg last summer totaling the largest number of troops to use the post facilities since World War II and highlighting Mississippi National Guard activities for the year 1970.

Major General Walter G. Johnson, Adjutant General of Mississippi, pointed out that Camp Shelby now is recognized as the largest National Guard training site in the United States. He said Senator John C. Stennis (D-Miss) recently announced Congress had allotted $600,000 for additional improvements and expansion at Camp Shelby.

In addition to Camp Shelby's growth, 1970 saw the expanded use of the Air National Guard's Training Site at Gulfport. A $1 million runway improvement project at the base increased the runway length from 9,000 to 10,000 feet. It is estimated that the Coast facility generated about $1.5 million in "new money" into the economy of that area.

Several "firsts" were recorded by the National Guard last year including the firing of "Honest John" rockets at the Camp Shelby artillery range. This was done by elements of the 30th Armored Division.

The year also was marked by the arrival of the new jet aircraft for the 186th Tactical Reconnaissance Group of Meridian. The Air Guardsmen replaced their old RF-84 jets with the newer RF-101 Voodoo planes. These can photograph an area 217 miles long and eight miles wide from an altitude of 45,000 feet. Jackson's 172nd Military Airlift Group continued its flying of world wide missions in support of the regular Air Force making several cargo flights to Vietnam.

For the first time, Jackson based Air Guardsmen went to Alaska for two weeks of training to aid the U. S. Air Force with engineering projects.

Guardsmen were called to emergency service several times last year, notably during trouble at Jackson State College, a tornado at Corinth; and when an oil well blew out south of Jackson causing the evacuation of the area. The Guard joined civilian agencies to search for missing persons on at least two occasions. They found a two-year old girl after she had been lost in a swamp area for over 24 hours.

The Eisenhower Trophy, which signifies the most outstanding Army Guard unit in the state, was awarded to Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 631st Artillery Group, Grenada.

The National Guard Association of Mississippi finally held

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

John Gardner
Iuka Church of Christ

Q: "I attend church on a fairly regular basis, but I just do not seem to find the peace of mind promised to Christians in the Bible. Can the modern Christian have the peace promised by Christ?" A: You are right in expecting inner peace as a part of your Christianity. Jesus said, "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." (John 14:27). Notice that Jesus promised a peace different from the kind that the world sometimes offers. The peace of the world is the peace of outward circumstances. It depends on calm surroundings and abundance of material comforts. But the peace of Christ is far superior in that it is a peace involving the soul of man. It is not altered by the changing world to any great degree, but rather it stands spiritually around the heart of man as a refuge during the storms of life.

Obviously, there can be no real spiritual peace within man until he is justified before God. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." (Romans 5:1). When a person believes in Christ and surrenders his life in obedience to Him, he then enters into a right relationship with God. He is then in Christ and the recipient of every spiritual blessing promised by God. (Eph. 1:3). As the Christian allows the Holy Spirit to work in him through the Word of God, his supply of peace is assured. (Gal. 5:22). When cares and anxieties begin to trouble the Christian, he has only to go to his heavenly Father to find a release from these. As he unburdens his heart to God in an open and honest fashion, with thanksgiving, the peace of God again returns to guard his heart and mind. (Phil. 4:6,7).

The two great destroyers of peace are guilt and anxiety. The Christian has the God-given privilege of ridding himself of these on a daily basis. As the Christian sins, he can confess his sins to his merciful Father and they will be forgiven and he need carry the guilt for those acts no further. (1 John 1:9). Also, as we have already seen, he has a release from the gnawing dread of anxiety through genuine prayer. Truly the peace of Christ can be yours today.

been increased and the $1,000 state income tax exemption taken away from the people, it stands to reason that the increases in taxes and taking away of these exemptions are the major contributing causes of the substantial losses in population since January, 1968. "According to the Census Bureau report, from January, 1968, to December of 1970, a period of only three years, according to the Census Bureau, Mississippi lost approximately 143,000 people," he further states. According to Mr. Barnett, in 1960, our state income tax was six percent. In 1960, the Legislature enacted a law reducing the state income tax from six percent to three percent by reducing it one-half of one percent each year. After the law was enacted in 1960, the population increased by an average of 30,000 each year for several years. The population, according to the Census Bureau, increased from 1960 to 1964 by 120,000 people. Our population, according to the Census Bureau, increased from 1964 to 1968 to the extent of approximately 47,000. In 1960, he says, our revenue from state income taxes was approximately twenty million dollars. Five years later, the revenue from state income tax was more than twenty-five million. This means that there was an increase on an average of one million dollars in revenue from state income taxes during the period taxes were being reduced. At the same time the Legislature enacted the law reducing the state income tax, it gave everyone, married and single people, an extra $1,000 state income tax exemption. It is plain and unmistakable that after the Legislature enacted the law reducing the state income tax on a graduated scale, and at the same time gave everyone a state income tax exemption, the revenue from state income taxes increased on an average of at least one million dollars per year. This is concrete evidence of the fact that a tax reduction and extra exemptions contributed to bringing to Mississippi new capital investment, new industry, new businesses, more and better paying jobs and new population into the state. The population increased on an average of more than thirty thousand per year for four years following the reduction of state income tax from six percent to three percent, and at the same time, gave everyone an additional $1,000 state income tax exemption. Mr. Barnett says that the art of taxation seems to be the plucking of the goose to get as many feathers as possible with the least amount of hissing, but in Mississippi, the goose has not only been plucked, but it has been skinned unmercifully. These facts and figures convince me that the Legislature convening January 5th should seriously consider reducing the state income tax twenty-five percent each year until it is absolutely abolished. Then we will have no state income tax. When we know that we have concrete facts that the economy increased by reducing the tax and giving extra tax exemptions, then it stands to reason that we should do like Florida, Texas, and some other states have done in completely abolishing state income tax, thus creating a healthy, thriving business climate. "If you have a store in Jackson selling an article for 95 cents and a store on the opposite side of the street is selling the same article for $1.00, the people will flock into the 95 cent store. When you discuss with an industrialist in the east, north or west about locating a large industry in Mississippi, the first question he will ask you is what is the income tax in Mississippi; what is your sales tax; what are your tax exemptions. Mr. Barnett states, "If your taxes are not in line with your neighboring states, industrialists will go where they can get a better bargain. They also want the industry's employees to have as many advantages as possible. If we are going to realize greater economic growth, increased population and more and better jobs, we must call industrialists daily—visit thousands of them annually and sell them on Mississippi," Mr. Barnett advised. Increases in business, industry, commerce and population are the life blood of our state. Our taxes have been increased to the extent that the average man in Mississippi can hardly pay the taxes and buy the necessities of life. We should be gaining—but unfortunately, we are losing in population. We need to lower our taxes so that it will contribute to bringing in more people, more industry, and more new jobs, thereby increasing our population. Reducing taxes is the key that unlocks the door to economic growth. We need to lower our taxes and keep them on an equal basis with the taxes and exemptions of Louisiana, Florida, Texas and other states. If we will do this and visit thousands of industrialists throughout our Nation, invite them here, entertain them and sell them on the advantages and opportunities Mississippi has to offer, then our economy and population will increase, and our people will have more and better jobs and will be more prosperous.

MSCW To Offer Two New Courses

Two new graduate courses will be offered next semester in the speech department at Mississippi State College for Women. They are in the field of Geriatrics, the science dealing with the diseases and debilities of the aged, and "Kinesics," a new term for "non-verbal" language. In making the announcement, Dr. Elizabeth A. Hawk, professor of speech, explained that non-verbal language involves communication by way of facial expressions and body movement that often say more than words. Dr. Hawk also announced that a new student council for exceptional children will assist with a conference on Gerontology on campus Feb. 19-20.

Tax Tables Cover Income To $10,000

Federal income tax tables now cover incomes up to $10,000 for taxpayers who do not itemize deductions, W. T. Coppinger, IRS District Director for Alabama, said. In prior years, only taxpayers who did not itemize and had incomes under $5,000 were required to use the tables. However, the Tax Reform Act of 1969 requires tax tables to cover incomes up to $10,000 of those not itemizing. The new tables reflect the increased exemption deduction of $625 (up from $600) and the low-income allowance, Mr. Coppinger said. Persons who itemize deductions or who have incomes of $10,000 or more compute their own tax by using the tax rate schedules.

"NO TIME FOR PRAYER" HAD INFLUENCE ON SOLDIER IN GERMANY DURING KOREAN WAR
The poem reproduced below was sent to Clifton Yielding of Fulton, Route 2, while he was stationed in Germany during the Korean War.

"NO TIME FOR PRAYER"
Last night I forgot to say my prayers,
And I missed the mark all day.
It wouldn't have taken very long
For me to kneel and pray.
But I had to help with the dishes
Before I could curl my hair.
I took a bath and brushed my teeth
And I didn't have time for prayer.
When at last my work was finished,
And night's shadows began to creep,
I climbed the stairs to my bedroom,
But I just couldn't get to sleep.
I lay awake in the darkness:
I thought of the coming day:
Before I dropped off to sleep I said,
"I haven't got time to pray."
I slept and I dreamed of a courtroom—
I sat in the prisoner's seat:
It seemed I'd committed a serious crime:
I was too frightened to weep.
Tensely I waited the verdict,
And I heard the judge say,
"We find the prisoner guilty,"
And I longed for time to pray.
In the next scene I stood near a platform,
Waiting were thirteen steps
And I knew that the figure standing
At the end of the rope was death.
The guards stood silent a moment,
Then asked what I wanted to say,
But they pushed me on toward the platform
Before I had time to pray.
I counted the steps I was taking:
I was paying the price for my crime.
Oh? Could I have but a second to pray,
But I wasn't allowed the time.
And then I was dropped quickly
Through endless, murky space:
But a sudden cloud of radiance broke,
And I could see His face.
He was praying alone in the garden—
I longed to beside Him kneel.
I heard the heavenly choir,
I heard the church bells peal,
As I reached out my hands and touched Him.
I just couldn't turn away.
Then I woked and found I was kneeling
I had found time to pray.

Governor Addresses Legislature

Governor John Bell Williams highlighted first week action of the 1971 Legislature with a call for $15 million in tax reductions.

Recommended reductions included increasing personal income tax exemptions by $1,000 for single individuals and $2,500 for heads of households and decrease in sales tax on combines, cotton pickers and similar farm machinery from five percent to one percent.

He also called for action to assure a sound system of public education, quality higher education, equalization of property tax assessments, solving of drug problems, Legislative reapportionment, chemical tests for intoxication, funds to improve for the County ASC Committee to make an adjustment in line with similar farms in your community. No adjustment can be made unless you file in writing during the 15 day period.

Let me explain more about your base acreage allotment. Your base is about .6704 percent of your 1970 Cotton Allotment. This base acreage allotment is significant for payment purposes only: to determine the payment earned. The allotment is no longer a limitation on the number of acres that can be planted. After a farmer meets his conserving base and set-aside requirements, all remaining cropland on the farm can be planted to cotton if he wants to. This really is a change from the previous cotton program.

What about the yield for the farm? We have already stated that your Notice would contain your 1971 payment yield. If your Notice does not show a yield this means that you have not visited the Local ASCS Office and turned in your 1970 production. Under the new program, the yield for the farm will be used to compute the price support payment. The law requires that the producer provide the County ASC Committee with a summary of the actual production on the farm in 1970. What happens if the producer fails to submit his 1970 production? Answer: The 1970 production will have to be considered as Zero.

If you get a Notice without a yield, hurry to the ASCS Office at once and turn in 1970 production.

All cotton farmers who leased his acreage to other farmers by transfer, or signed up to draw small farm payments on 35% of your allotment and did not plant cotton, or was approved by the County Committee for disaster, will be given their 1970 yield for the 1971 payment yield.

SKIP - ROW PLANTING: The skip-row planting are the same as 1970, except that two or more rows skipped may be used to meet your set-aside requirements and one or more skipped may be used to meet conserving base requirement.

Set-aside requirement: Producers who participate in the 1971 cotton program are required to set-aside and devote to conserving uses an acreage not to exceed 20% of his base acreage allotment for the farm. The final percentage for set-aside will be announced prior to the sign up period.

When will you receive the payments? Soon after July 1, 1971.

Please observe the new office hours beginning January 1, 1971 - Office open to public 8:30 a.m. Close 4:45 p.m. Lunch hour 12:00 p.m. - 12:45 p.m., Monday through Friday. Closed Saturday and Sunday.

Jobs For Veterans Target Of Program

Jim Dawson, Manager, Mississippi State Employment Service in Tupelo has announced that his agency is participating in the "Jobs for Veterans" program.

Mr. Dawson said that the "Jobs for Veterans" program is a national cooperative effort on the part of government, business, labor and other special organizations which can help bring about public awareness of the veteran's potential and his problems, thus improving the responsiveness to efforts to tie the veteran in with available opportunities. This effort is being made since it is anticipated that over one million more servicemen will leave military service during each of the next few years.

"Every returning veteran deserves the opportunity to find his place in our economic system, either through direct employment that can utilize skills and talents that he has acquired or through further education or training that will lead to a meaningful career," Mr. Dawson said.

Mr. Dawson went on to say that the program is designed to widen the opportunities for veterans to find meaningful employment or to participate in training that will lead to this employment by:

Focusing national attention on the veteran, making the public more aware of the veteran as a job candidate, and enhancing his public image.

Improving the effectiveness and responsiveness of existing programs and systems that can link the veteran with job and training opportunities.

Stimulating the formation of community groups at the state and local level to marshal available resources in support of the effort.

Encouraging public and private employers to actively seek out veterans.

A massive national mail campaign is planned to alert government, business, labor and local and state governments to the "Jobs for Veterans" program and to enlist their active cooperation in responding to the needs of veterans.

Letters to a large number of employers all over the country will point out the veteran's potential as an employee and will seek to widen meaningful job opportunities for veterans or for training that will lead to employment.

Mr. Dawson urged employers to contact his office regarding available veterans, especially recently - separated veterans. Mr. Dawson added that employers in some cases are unaware that they may request veteran referrals. By law, the veteran is rendered priority and preferential treatment by the Mississippi State Employment Service.

Soybean Day At Miss. State

Dr. W. M. Bost, director of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said at the recently held Soybean Day at Mississippi State University that the expansion of soybean production in Mississippi has been one of the major agricultural developments in recent years.

"Today there is an estimated 2.3 million acres of land devoted to soybean production with a farm value for 1970 of $154 million. Our average state yield for the past year was 24 bushels per acre, two bushels above last year, and only six bushels short of our 1.5 X '75 goal of 30 bushels," he said.

Dr. Bost commended the members of the Mississippi Soybean Association on their support of the law which created the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board.

During the morning session Dr. W. N. Miley, Extension soils specialist for the University of Arkansas, discussed soil management and tillage practices with soybeans in his state. He said that he believed that farmers are practicing too much tillage between harvest and cultivation. "We need to do as little tillage as possible to prevent top soil and organic matter loss," Dr. Miley advised.

Another speaker on the program, Dr. W. L. Barrentine, project leader, Weed Control at the Delta Branch Experiment Station in Stoneville, gave the soybean producers some idea of what is new in weed control and what work the Experiment Station is doing in this area.

Highlights of the afternoon session were the crowning of Mississippi's 1971 Princess Soya, Miss Cynthia Jennings, by Jim Buck Ross, Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, and the announcement of the winner of the 1970 Mississippi Soybean Contest.

First Amendment Misunderstood

Two West Point cadets have filed a suit against the secretaries of Defense, Army, Navy, and Air Force — assertedly in behalf of all cadets and midshipmen — charging that required attendance at chapel services in the Army, Navy, and Air Force academies violates their religious liberty and is contrary to the provisions of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Judge Howard F. Corcoran, of the U.S. District Court in the District of Columbia, has ruled that the chapel regulation is not a violation of the constitution.

The cadets have appealed the case to the U.S. Court of Appeals. Whichever way the decision of this court goes, it seems probable that the case will ultimately go to the Supreme Court for final determination.

Based on Misunderstanding

Again — as in many such instances — the foundation of the case seems to be a misunderstanding of the meaning of the First Amendment.

The applicable wording of the First Amendment is: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Understood to mean just what the words say — no more and no less — the amendment specifies that there will be no law passed by the Congress regarding the establishment of a church as the state church for this nation, and that there will be no law passed by Congress forbidding the free exercise of religion.

Such an interpretation of the amendment goes counter to the decision of our early national leaders to adopt the motto, "In God We Trust."

Obviously, our early leaders wanted to go on record as recognizing our dependence on God. Obviously, also, they wanted to make sure that no one denomination would ever be named the state church.

Atheists would like to have the courts rule that the First Amendment commits the nation to a negative attitude toward all religion.

But if the amendment is to be interpreted to mean that the federal government must not recognize God in any way, then our national motto must be discarded, our provision for oaths of office must be done away with, and our requirement of sworn testimony in court must be dispensed with, because all of these require recognition of God.

What Basis?

What rational basis is there for these two cadets to claim that the First Amendment has been violated in this instance?

Let's pray that our courts will decide this case in accordance with the clear meaning of the constitution.

If the Supreme Court — when it gets this case, as it very likely will — should rule that the First Amendment is being violated in this instance, it will be one more step away from God in our nation.

Don't you think it is time for us to turn again toward God — rather than away from Him?

The Bible tells us that God has declared, "Them that honor Me I will honor and they that despise Me shall be lightly esteemed."

Quail populations throughout Nebraska are up by about 25 percent over last year, according to results of a whistle count survey conducted last summer. Most significant increases were in northeast and north-central Nebraska, with gains of 91 and 65 percent respectively.—SPORTS AFIELD.

Florida hunters have a new 12,000-acre public hunting area in Putnam County for the 1971 season. The Hudson Wildlife Management Area is made available by the Hudson Pulp and Paper Company.—SPORTS AFIELD.

Chesapeake Bay is the natural drainage basin for 14 major rivers, and a host of creeks and streams. Each of these is polluted, in degrees ranging from moderate to horrible.—SPORTS AFIELD.

Prior to 1929, javelina were not classed as game animals, but when their numbers dwindled to an alarming low, due to indiscriminate hunting, they were placed on the protected list.—SPORTS AFIELD.

When you buy land, it is important to know that tough laws govern real estate agents. They are required to provide all the facts that a buyer demands in advance of sale. If he misrepresents anything, the agent may be liable for costs, must return your deposit, and in some cases may be required to pay damages for any financial losses incurred by his misrepresentations.—SPORTS AFIELD

We would have fewer people fishing if it weren't for patient guides teaching them the ABC's of catching fish, says SPORTS AFIELD Angling Editor Homer Circle. So what do you look for when you select your guide? A good guide normally has his own rig, or the resort furnishes him one rigged the way he wants it. His boat will be big enough to hold all the necessities, and yet be maneuverable. Especially it must be deep enough to ride out rough water. And it should be updated equipment, with a power plant powerful enough to move out fast, and conserve fishing time.

In the boat there should be all the essentials, such as: ice chest for refreshments, ample gas reserve and a spare engine for big water, fire extinguisher, a fresh flotation cushion, anchors fore and aft.

Although not essential to all good guides, most of today's experts are equipped with an electronic depth reader, and an electric fishing motor for maneuvering and coursing a shoreline. Two batteries assure him of power enough to last out a hard fishing day.

There will be a comfortable fishing seat for you, up front where you belong. Beware the guide who operates the boat from the front seat and gets in his licks ahead of you. He's not there to guide you; he's up there to catch all the fish.

You don't think a guide should fish? You think a guide is paid to do nothing but handle the boat spring because of the Southern Corn Leaf Blight problem and a somewhat uncertain seed corn supply.

Grain sorghum is an excellent corn substitute and on some farms this substitution would be a good practice.

Any farmers interested in this alternative should consider equipment needed in producing, harvesting, drying and storing grain sorghum.

Grain sorghum must be combined harvested. If a farmer does not own a combine, he must depend on custom combining.

To produce and store top quality grain sorghum the grain must be dried. This can best be accomplished on the farm since commercial drying facilities are limited and are often overloaded at harvest time. Usually a metal storage bin is necessary for grain sorghum.

HOME GARDENING

Right now is a good time to get a few rows ready in your home garden for late January or early February planting of a few hardy vegetables. The list of some that you can take an early chance on include English peas, Irish potatoes, spinach, lettuce and onions.
