duplex facilities (four single units), when completed, will feature two double beds in each unit, a wood burning fireplace, built-in kitchens, and central air and heating systems. Dr. John King stated, "a new small craft marina, costing an additional $8,000.00 to build, has been completed and is now being used by boat owners who visit the park." The new facility has a capacity to shelter 24 boats and also has a fueling dock. "A far-reaching building campaign - one to upgrade our State Park - is presently being conducted. Future construction of exciting new facilities is slated for all state parks, thanks to the recent passage of the 25 million dollar bond bill for capital improvements by the last session of the Legislature," Dr. King said.

A Matter of Timing

The street light outside my house has just come on. Just like the ones in your town, it turned on by a photo-electric switch. It could have come on any time, but was set to be turned on when its light would be needed.

A man's relationship to God also sometimes operates on predetermined planning.

Cornelius, a Roman commander who became the first non-Jewish Christian, prayed continually to God, but apparently received no response. He had no evidence that God heard him or even noticed he was alive.

His Time Came
But he kept praying. Because he knew God always hears the prayers of those who pray in faith.

Then God's time came, and Cornelius' spiritual insight became physical sight. God wasn't testing Cornelius' endurance. He had plans, and Cornelius' place in the plans came late in the sequence.

Jesus had taught His disciples, "You shall be My witnesses, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and even to the remotest part of the earth."

The disciples first received the Holy Spirit and witnessed for Jesus in Jerusalem (Acts 2). Then the deacon Philip went to Samaria (Acts 8) and fulfilled the second stage of Jesus' command. Finally God sent Peter to open "the remotest part of the earth" — the Gentiles (Acts 10). Cornelius' prayers were answered, in God's proper time.

A different but related thing happened, hundreds of years earlier, to the prophet Daniel. He saw a vision and asked God for understanding. He fasted and meditated for three weeks while no answer came. Yet God was not slack. He responded immediately, but the devil delayed the answer for 21 days. Daniel waited. He knew God was faithful.

Constancy in prayer does not coerce God's attention. God listens to all prayers. Continual prayers do, however, evidence confidence in God's concern. And God honors that confidence, that perspective based on faith. As an angel told Cornelius, "Your prayers and alms have ascended as a memorial before God."

At the proper moment the light shined.

For Cornelius that light was a vision, a literal messenger from God. And visions are still possible today. Don't misunderstand, though. A vision is not like a light turning on in a dark place. Cornelius could already see spiritually. That's what faith is. The vision was merely how God chose to speak to him. He could have done it differently. By Scripture. By coincidence. By another believer (which was, in fact, how God completed Cornelius' understanding).

However He does it, God responds to your prayers. Don't wait to pray, but wait confidently for God's promised answer.

Port Authority Seeking

Applications For Director

Billy H. Tidwell, chairman of the Yellow Creek State Inland Port Authority, this week authorized the announcement that the Authority is seeking applications for the position of Port Director.

"We anticipate hiring a director to start work within two or three months," Mr. Tidwell said. He said that the Authority directors had voted a G. S. 12 pay scale for the job.

Mr. Tidwell added that the authority was seeking a man or woman who would take over the big job and develop it from the very beginning. "We are already having inquiries about shipping through the port, and some industries are asking questions about locating industry near the port site," he said.

Applications will be received by the directors until June 7th. They may be mailed to Mr. Tidwell at his home on Belmont, Miss., or to the Post Secretary Delmus C. Harden, P. O. Box 400, Fulton, Mississippi 38843.

All applicants will be asked to meet with the directors at their meeting on June 15th in the Holiday Inn in Corinth, Miss., after which the Authority will make its recommendation to the Mississippi A & I Board before the actual hiring takes place.

"This is a very important step for all North Mississippi and we are seeking the very best person for the job," he said.

Trust Reds?

Negotiating with Communists seems to be necessary in today's world. But there is one major point to be kept in mind in all such dealings: they expect us to keep our promises, but they have no intention of keeping theirs unless it is to their advantage.

The underlying reason for this is that Communists are atheists, denying the existence of God. Consequently, they do not believe in any day of judgment when men and women will receive rewards or punishment on the basis of the deeds done during their lives.

If one can persuade himself that there is no authority higher than the authority of the nation, it is then clear that whatever advances the cause of the nation to which he owes allegiance is desirable and, for that reason, morally right and acceptable.

Deception

Keep in mind, too, that Red nations consider that they are engaged in a constant struggle — actually, a form of warfare — against us. Deception of the enemy is understood to be acceptable conduct in war.

So we must understand that we will be expected to live up to the terms of our agreement on the limitation of strategic weapons, while the Communists who are parties to the agreement will comply with its terms only so long as it is to their advantage.

Those of us with good memories and good sense know that Russia and other Red nations have a record of breaking their solemn agreements.

The Yalta agreement specified that there should be elections in the Eastern European countries at the close of World War II, so that the people of each nation could choose their own forms of government and their own leaders. President Franklin Roosevelt apparently believed the Russians would do as they promised.

The actual result was that the peoples of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and other countries in that area became totally subject to Communist control.

Another example: on June 28, 1967, the government of North Viet Nam signed the Geneva Convention regarding the treatment of prisoners of war. This agreement provides that the names of all prisoners of war will be released promptly, together with notification as to all known dead, and that sick and wounded prisoners be promptly repatriated.

These agreements have all been violated by the Reds in North Viet Nam. Their inhumane treatment of prisoners is well known.

There is a word in the book of Proverbs which we would do well to heed at this time: "The counsels of the wicked are deceit."

Fools

We know that the Reds are wrong. The Bible tells us the man who says in his heart that there is no God is a fool.

But history and our own experience tell us that the man who trusts a Communist to keep his word is also a fool.

A TOOL FOR CLEANING UP THE ENVIRONMENT

Electricity is one of the most versatile tools we have for cleaning up the environment. When homes, businesses, and industries switch to electricity as their source of energy, millions of chimneys and smokestacks stop pouring pollution into the air. Waste treatment and a great many other pollution control devices use great amounts of electricity. And will use more in the future.

And electricity is being used to recycle waste products, helping to conserve natural resources. It runs the equipment that changes old cars, cans, glass, and other discarded items from clutter to reusable materials.

Electricity is the cleanest of all sources of energy at its point of use. Any pollution from its production is being dealt with as rapidly as methods of control can be found. To make it an even more important factor in cleaning up our environment.

RIFLE SHOOTING CONTEST— This .22 Caliber rifle is just one of (2) rifles that will be given to some lucky boy or girl (between the ages of 7-19) at the Piney Flat Sportsman Gun Safety Clinic and Shooting Contest. Jimmy Daniels (right), secretary of the club is shown presenting the rifle to Dale plan the activity. The first meeting of the workshop is scheduled for Tuesday night, June 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Piney Flat Club House. All youth in the area are invited to attend.

Moore, President of the Iuka Jaycees, as both organizations

Safety Clinic To Be Held In June

In an effort to combat 2,300 hunting accidents, which occurred in the U. S. last year, the Piney Flat Sportsman Club, along with the Iuka Jaycees, will begin a home and field gun safety clinic in June, according to Mr. Perry White, president of the sportsman club.

The training classes will be conducted by agents of the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, local resource people and Jaycees, who have qualified as National Rifle Association instructors.

Mr. White also said that the activity will consist of three, one-hour, training sessions. At the end of the training a rifle shooting contest will be held at the National Guard Armory. Two (2) .22 caliber rifles will be presented to the highest shooting junior and senior boy and/or girl.

Each person, who enrolls, will receive instructions in such areas as: Good Gunmanship Rules, Proper Gun Handling, Mechanics of a Gun, Correct Breathing and Trigger Squeeze and many other areas of gun safety. NRA emblems and hunter safety cards will also be given to those who attend.

The workshop will begin on Tuesday night, June 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Piney Flat Club House. It will continue over a three months period at the regular monthly meetings of the sportsman club. They meet the first Tuesday night of each month.

According to Mr. White, the objectives of the program are to teach boys and girls between the ages of 7-19 the basic principles of firearm safety in the field and at home. In a further statement Mr. White proclaimed that they, along with the Jaycees, are conducting this workshop in an attempt that all youth might enjoy the sport of hunting and reduce accidents at the same time.

The members of the Piney Flat Sportsman Club wish to invite all of its members and other families in the area to bring their boys and girls and participate in this vital area of concern.

Carters Branch Homemakers Club Met

On Thursday evening, May 25, at 7 p.m. seven members of the Carters Branch Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. Gertrude Mann for the monthly meeting.

Mrs. Vera Bogan presided. She gave the thought for the month - "A mother is a person, who seeing there are only four pieces of pie for five people, promptly announces she never did care for pie." The hymn used was, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." After the hymn, Mrs. McGaha gave the devotional taken from Matt. 23, followed by prayer.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read. One of the club goals - "Clean Up Your Community," was discussed and litter bags were purchased. The focus topic, "Community Development - Projects to Improve Your Community," was read by Mrs. Mattie Bennett. The club will also be co-sponsor for a 4-H picnic.

CARD CATALOG NEEDED FOR IUKA PUBLIC LIBRARY

This is a reminder to the public that if you have not given to the fund raising campaign for a card catalog for the Iuka Public Library it is still not too late. We have not reached our goal of $500 yet, but have set a tentative date of June 17th to close out the ticket sales on the beautiful five piece dinette suite to be given away at a drawing in the near future. Watch the paper for the announcement of the drawing date, however, you do not have to be present at the drawing to win. The lucky number will be posted at the library and announced in the paper and on the radio. If at the end of two weeks the person holding the lucky number does not appear at the library to claim the dinette suite another drawing will be held and again the number posted at the library and announced in the paper and on the radio.

For the benefit of those who do not understand fully what a card catalog is and why it is so important to a library it can be briefly explained by saying a card catalog is an index to all the books in the library. It consists of a cabinet containing many drawers that hold 3 X 5 cards arranged in alphabetical order. Every book in the library is represented in the card catalog by three cards, author, title, and subject and each card will tell where the book can be located in the library. Think of it as you would the records of a business. It is as difficult to operate a library without a card catalog as it is to operate a business without any records.

You can help on this worthwhile project by purchasing a ticket for the dinette suite for $1.00 each from any member of the Lucy Rowe Study Club or at the library. If you wish you can make a gift donation direct to the library and it will be tax deductible. Or you can pay tribute to the memory of a friend in giving a memorial gift to the library for this purpose.

Sunshine Club To Hold Sale

The Sunshine Club of the First Baptist Church of Iuka will hold a hamburger and hot dog sale on the lawn of Mrs. Emma Mitchell's home each evening beginning at 5 o'clock beginning June 3. All proceeds will go to the church. Miss Mitchell is the president of the Sunshine Club.

MRS. BLISS (CHRISTINE) HAMM WITH MIDNIGHT SMOKY

ANIMALS

By Mary B. Davis
MIDNIGHT SMOKY

In the all-time animal classic, "Black Beauty," Anna Sewell let the horse tell his own story. But I am as afraid of horses as I am of Gladstone, Attorney Steve Jackson's English bulldog; so, instead of talking directly with Midnight Smoky, I asked some of his human foes and friends to tell me about his life.

It began in Nashville, Tenn., on July 6, 1946, the day that he was born -- or, "foaled," as a true horseman would say. Because his ancestors were Tennessee Walking Horses, his owner had expected Midnight Smoky to follow in their hoofsteps. For a time, he was actually shown as a "walking" horse in competitions; but he soon became unruly and hard to manage during performances and got himself retired while he was still very young.

Afterwards, he got himself the name of a horse with many moods: mean, balky, high-strung, stubborn, even dangerous. Running away with his rider was not unusual for this highspirited horse -- another "Black Beauty" in his own right!

As the Congress of the United States felt that it was necessary to pass a law prohibiting the "soring" of hoofs to make a horse "walk" in competitions, it is possible that Midnight Smoky had just reasons to becoming fed up with the life of a so-called Walking Horse. Making the horse's hoofs so sore that it feels great pain when it lets them touch the ground in a natural way is not a very "sportsmanlike" way of doing things; and any smart horse would, it seems, eventually get tired of this punishment. Anyway, in 1970, The Horse Protection Act was passed which now makes it illegal to sore the hoofs by: blistering, burning, cutting, bruising, lacerating, using of tacks or nails, and the application of front heel pads that cause the length of the toe to be less than one inch greater than the height of the heel. The Federal law also prohibits the use of foreign material, such as grease, between the hoof and fetlock at horse shows.

A national television program showed a shocking, sickening documentary on "soring" of walking horses. Filmed in color, the cruelty of the soring practices brought protests from humanitarians all over the world. Notice that I said "from HUMANITARIANS," not just "horse lovers." As I have often emphasized in my attempts to get people to be KIND to animals -- a person doesn't have to LOVE cats, dogs, OR HORSES to hate to see them hurt.

But in spite of the fact that Midnight Smoky could no longer be used in show competitions, his owner wanted him to have a long and happy life and offered to give him to someone who would take care of him properly. There was another string attached to the "gift." Midnight Smoky was never to be SOLD under any circumstances. He could be GIVEN away to anyone who would provide a good home for him -- but he was NEVER TO BE SOLD. Such a condition would probably drive a horse trader crazy; but to those who really "love" horses, such a condition was perfectly understandable.

How many places he may have lived before he arrived in Iuka, Miss., I don't really know; but Midnight Smoky's first home in Iuka was with James Lyle (Shim) Dean. Thinking the horse might be suitable as a riding horse, Jim Stribling of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., gave him to Shim Dean. Because of the wildness of the horse, though, neither Shim Dean nor his young daughter, Glenda, ever rode him.

Glenda Dean continued to ride her own little pony with her young friends: Linda Lee Edmondson (now Mrs. Charles Kay); Margaret Stormont (now Mrs. Ernest Bullard); and Annette Reid (now Mrs. Tom Joseph of Hamilton, Texas). Linda and Margaret still live in Iuka.

Next, the high-spirited horse went to live with the W. T. Dexter family. There, the baby sitter looked out one day to see tiny, horse-loving Susan Edmondson straddling the fence with a little rope! Probably about five, Susan was so determined to ride Midnight Smoky that W. T. Dexter had to be called home from work. It took a little gentle (?) padding to take the riding notion out of the youngster's head!

From the Dexter's, the horse went to the home of the late Chunky Chambers, where he was ridden a few times by Chunky and his late son, Jim. But Chunky Chambers was afraid that Jim would get seriously hurt on the unpredictable horse, and he passed him on to Bliss Hamm. That was in 1954.

At the Hamm's, Midnight Smoky found people who truly understood him. There he became calm enough to be ridden. Now, I don't mean that he became a meek, one-hundred percent docile animal. He did not. But he did become less likely to throw somebody -- or get too far out of line. Those with the courage to ride him included: Bliss and his wife, Christine; Mrs. Paul (Montez) Edmondson; Duane Hamm, Lloyd Lee Davis, Cubby Smith; Loretta Whitworth; Terry Rhodes; Billy Frank Whitworth; and -- of course -- Susan Edmondson finally got her wish! By then, she must have been all of seven! Now married to Jack Wallace of Cherokee, Ala., she still loves horses and is not afraid of any of them yet!

But the one who really loves Midnight Smoky -- and probably understands him best, too -- is Christine Hamm. Six years ago, Bliss Hamm officially told his wife that she could have the horse for her very own. She says that the horse is in excellent health, eats well, gets plenty of exercise; and although his front legs are a little stiff, he still goes on the trail rides with the riding group which gathers at the Hamm home each Sunday afternoon. Eventhough he is nearly 26 (more than a hundred compared with human years) -- he still has enough energy to run away with his riders -- and gets furious if another horse tries to pass him!

After 18 years with the Hamm family, Midnight Smoky is loved by them all. Christine Hamm says that she will keep him as long as she lives. So, again, like the fictional horse "Black Beauty," Midnight Smoky can also say: "My troubles are all over, and I am at home . . . I have nothing to fear; and here my story ends."

John Gardner

TEXT: "Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are honest, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, if there be any thing that is praiseworthy, think on these things." (Phil. 4:8).

We become what we read. "As (a man) thinketh in his heart, so is he." (Prov. 23:7). We ought, therefore, to control as much as possible that which we think, allow ourselves to meditate on the base, the sinful, the evil, the negative, and the we will become that type of person. If, however, we meditate on the type of things mentioned by Paul in our text, we will take on those characteristics in our lives.

The word "think" in our text means to "ponder over in mind, to dwell on mentally." We might occasionally find ourselves thinking something is unworthy and even hate in its nature, but we should dismiss such as soon as possible and dwell no longer on it. We should be careful what we "feed" our minds, especially what we read, what programs we watch on television, and the kind of conversation we use hear. These influences, with others not mentioned, determine our "frame of mind" to a large extent. In this connection we need to love the Word of God and meditate on it as much as possible. Truly happy man does not ponder the ways of sin, "but his light is in the law of the Lord and in his law doth he meditate day and night" (Ps. 1:1,2). The more we can fill our hearts with good things, the more we can have "the love of Christ" in us (Phil. 2:1) and the more we will be like him.

We would do well to meditate as much Scripture as possible that it may be a part of our thinking, ready summoned to help us at any time. We might profit from good hymns committed to memory. Another helpful way of thought is to periodically "count your blessings" instead of your troubles. For the good all around you every day. Remember you be what you think.

The gathering, selecting, and editing of the recipes was a massive effort. The result is a comprehensive presentation of the special culinary heritage enjoyed by the people of the State of Mississippi. Anyone with an appreciation for "Mississippi-Style" cooking should find the recipes in this book a great source of pleasure.

The recipes cover a complete array of dishes from appetizers to dessert. The name of the contributor follows each recipe. In some cases historical data is given about the recipes or the occasion on which it is served.

In a special section called Mansion Favorites, the favorite recipes of seven former First Ladies of Mississippi are listed.

An appendix section of the book provides the latest technical data related to cooking. Such valuable information as substitutes and equivalents, time and temperature guide, and definitions are included in this section.

This book is published by the University and College Press of Mississippi in cooperation with the Home Economics Division of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

A Special Discount is being offered to the women of Mississippi. Until June 1, 1972, The Mississippi Cookbook will

In my body the marks of the Lord Jesus," Gal. 6:17. Do you bear these marks? If not, you may have just a form of Godliness. Paul said to examine yourselves whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. Know yet not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobrates, II Cor. 13:5. Paul said if we suffer, we shall also reign with Him, if we deny Him

He also will deny us, II Tim. 2:12. From what I can see, it would take a lot of the kind of suffering that the ministers in the Western World does to kill a man - furnished homes, good automobiles, silk suits, a good salary. I am not a critic of good things, but wondering who is suffering. It surely is not the ministers. They say God loves a cheerful giver, and they are not a whit behind. Jesus said to take heed that no man deceive you, for many shall come saying that I am Christ and shall deceive many, Matt. 24:4,5. Paul said that evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived, II Tim. 3:13. They go to the seminaries and get deceived and come back and deceive their followers. They are ever learning and never able to come to the knowledge, II Tim. 3:7. Going to a seminary to learn the truth is like going to a dry ditch to get a drink of water. James said if any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, James 1:5. Ask, and it shall be given, seek and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened, Matt. 7:7. Jesus said to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees, Matt. 16:6. But it was the doctrine that he was talking about, vs. 12. Woe unto them that go down to Egypt for help; and put their trust in the arm of flesh. Isa. 31:1, Ch. 31:1-3, Jer. 17:5. The blind is leading the blind - they both fall into the ditch together, Matt. 15:14. The Bible says that a whore is a deep ditch, Prov. 23:27. She is described in Revelations as a harlot system. John said the angel was to shew him the judgment of the great whore, Rev. 17:1. Whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, vs. 2. She is labeled Babylon in verse 5 - the mother of harlots, and by her sorceries were all nations deceived, Ch. 18:23. That, my friend, is the ditch - the modern day golden calf.

HEADACHES & NEW NERVOUSNESS

To Whom It May Concern:

I am offering my testimonial for the Chiropractors who help relieve pain and suffering, but don't get their deserved praise and appreciation.

There may be many differences of opinion but there can be no argument with my case. I have been taking medication for over 30 years and I finally realized that it was only doping me up so I couldn't feel the pain.

I have suffered with headaches, constipation, gas, sinus, dizziness, leg pain, shoulder pain, and didn't have much appetite. In fact, I was even wearing a back brace.

Thank God, Chiropractic and Dr. Semlow, I no longer wear a back brace and all of my conditions are clearing up and I am just about off my medication.

Getting sick people well has put Chiropractic in every state and foreign country. The medical profession is wonderful for accidents and first aid surgery, but I believe that the Chiropractors could replace the world of DRUGS that so many people have faith in. Try Chiropractic today and feel how your body can heal itself.

Local Students Honored In National Awards Program

The Society of Outstanding American High School Students, the country's leading high school honorary. The students honored are: Lynn Thorne, Joy Coker, Janie Ham and Charlotte Hussey.

With the assistance of high school principals and counselors from across the nation, The Society of Outstanding American High School Students strives to further the pursuit of academic achievement and civic responsibility on the part of American youth.

The Society accepts for membership only young men and women who have distinguished themselves as their school's highest achievers.

Members are now competing for over $580,000.00 in renewable college scholarships offered by The Society.

These scholarships consist of unrestricted cash awards to colleges of the students' choice and renewable annual scholarships to selected colleges and universities across the nation. The Society of Outstanding American High School Students Awards Program is one of the largest of its kind in the country.

Society members are recognized annually in a published volume entitled "The Society of Outstanding American High School Students," which is distributed nationally to colleges, universities, corporations and libraries.

Because of their accomplishments, these students are most deserving of recognition by the school, the community, and the nation. As leaders of American youth they represent one of the most important segments of our society.

MISSISSIPPI LADIES' WIDOWS FEDERATE SOLDIERS

Years have passed since the Civil War, but a special place in the hearts of 12 Mississippi ladies is reserved for the Confederate soldiers. Stories of the Civil War were probably every day conversation for these ladies not too long ago. And the stories were not handed down from grandparents and great grandparents. The recollections came straight from their husbands.

Doctors Hora & Hora Receive New Equipment

Doctors John J. Hora and S. W. Hora, local optometrists, have recently received delivery of a new electronic tonometer. This instrument, developed by research workers at The University of California, offers the most effective means of making measurements needed for early detection of glaucoma.

Glaucoma is responsible for about 14% of all new cases of blindness. Prevention depends upon early detection, and the best single test is called tonometry -- measurement of fluid pressure in the eye. Until the invention of this new tonometer, all such measurements had to be made under anesthesia. With their tonometer, Dr. John J. Hora and Dr. S. W. Hora will now be able to make pressure measurements almost instantaneously by a rapid, gentle touch with an extremely sensitive probe.

While Dr. John J. Hora and Dr. S. W. Hora will use the new instrument as a regular adjunct to their care of vision-defect patients, it is important to remember that this pressure measurement should be made on everyone, particularly those over forty years of age, when most cases of glaucoma occur.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Hammock and children, Marty and Vanessa, of Counce, recently visited their son, Sp4 Thomas Hammock, and wife in Ft. Meade, Md. While there they visited the Capitol, Washington Monument, The Smithsonian Institute, The Arts Building and other points of interest. On their return trip home they visited in the Smokey Mountains.

QUAIL MANAGEMENT

The quail is a game bird whose quick noisy rise from the brush and swift departure offers the ultimate in wing shooting. It is a small bird weighing between 5 to 7 ounces with a normal body temperature of 108.7 degrees Fahrenheit. Quail have been known to live over 10 years.

Although it might give the impression of being a wide ranging bird because of its many short fast flights when flushed, its normal range is one-fourth mile. Its normal stocking is considered to be one covey every 40 acres. However, with intensive management, it is possible to have a covey every 20 acres, but it is not advisable to go beyond normal stocking due to several factors. Two of the more important are: incompatibility, and diseases more prevalent.

The following is a list of favored natural quail foods: common ragweed, giant ragweed, wooley croton, partridge pease, common lespedeza, smart weed, beggar lice, fox-tail, johnson and panic grasses. In addition, berries and mast such as mulberry, dogwood, acorn, pine seed and many other are eaten by quail.

Areas with a low quail population can be raised to normal stocking generally by providing adequate food and cover. Adequate food and cover can normally be provided by protecting the natural quail food plants from overgrazing or destruction by other means and by planting food patches of kobe lespedeza, partridge peas, lespedeza bi-color, field peas, brown top millet, sorghum, etc. Bear in mind that many small food patches must be scattered over the entire range rather than one large one, because quail are intolerant to crowded conditions. Plantings should be one-fourth acre or smaller in size. As stated before, food and cover together is a must. Ideal plantings are narrow strips around fields which have grown up fence rows paralleling open wooded areas. This arrangement would satisfy all the following quail habitat requirements: food, protection cover, nesting cover, dusting area, and deep shade for hot weather. It would also be important to include some type of predator control, particularly the control of cats and dogs during nesting season. Of course it is important to see that people hunting on the area live up to current game laws.

When Jim Eastland speaks, presidents listen.

James O. Eastland, the farm boy from Sunflower County, is today one of the most powerful voices on Capitol Hill. Through his representation, the people of Mississippi can be heard above the screams of ultra-liberals. Because of his influence in Washington, the needs of Mississippi are known by both executive and legislative branches of our federal government. Because he loves his state and this nation so well, Jim Eastland has gained a reputation among Washington legislators matched by few in the history of this country. As guardian of fundamental democratic principles, as the Senate's chief antagonist of communism, and as Mississippi's most powerful voice in the nation's capital, Jim Eastland has earned the confidence and the trust of Mississippians. Let's keep Jim Eastland on the job.

When Mississippi needs a voice in Washington, Jim Eastland is there.

J. C. Choate
A VISIT TO SHIRAZ
AND PERSEPOLIS

Rising early in the morning, we quickly got dressed, packed out bags, and left the hotel to go out and find a taxi. We weren't long in waiting, and on getting one, we headed straight to the Isfahan Airport.

An Iran Air Boeing Jet took us to Shiraz in approximately thirty minutes. Before doing anything else, we checked with the airlines about a reservation back to Teheran either later in the evening or the next day. We couldn't get our reservation at Teheran because of a lack of communication between these cities. Anyway, we were told that there were two flights in the afternoon and they were booked up but that we could get a flight on one the next morning. Not being able to do anything better, then we took these reservations. At least we would now be able to fly out in time to get back to Teheran for the Sunday meetings of the church.

Next, we checked on a tour that would take us into Shiraz and then on out to Persepolis. Unlike Isfahan, there didn't seem to be any set tour available. We were told however that we could take a bus or a taxi out to Persepolis. We then got a taxi to go into the city to get a bus, but on talking to the taxi man he began to tell us that the bus would only take us out there and then it would be up to us to find our way around. Furthermore, there would be other places to visit that would require transportation but if we went by bus then there would be no way to go. Of course the taxi man was trying to work up a deal for himself but we began to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of the bus and the taxi and to compare prices, and we finally decided that we would go by taxi.

We left immediately for Persepolis, which was located about thirty-five miles to the north northeast of Shiraz. The road we traveled on was very nice and the country side was primarily aired hills and mountains. We drove through a pass above the city of Shiraz, and looking back on the city itself we were impressed with the beautiful view of it. Driving through this type of terrain, we eventually came to a broad valley which was mostly devoted to agriculture. On the other side of it, and lying next to the mountains, we finally came to Persepolis.

For the next three hours we walked through the ruins of this ancient palace of the kings of

Iuka Jaycees Wins Eleven Awards At State Convention In Jackson

The Iuka Jaycees spotlighted their 1971-72 Jaycee year by winning eleven awards at the Annual State Convention in Jackson May 19-21. The local chapter was called to the podium time after time to accept the awards presented to outstanding chapters in the state.

On Saturday the Iuka Jaycees received two first place awards, four second place awards and two third place awards for projects conducted this year in the eight project categories set up by the National Organization. The first place awards were for projects conducted in Chapter Management and Individual Development, and Ways and Means. Second place awards were for projects conducted in Community Involvement, Inter-Club Relations, Public Relations, and Youth Assistance. Third place awards were in International Involvement and Governmental Affairs. Also, on Saturday the local chapter received a sweepstakes award for the best conducted Ways and Means project in the state.

On Sunday the Iuka Jaycees were presented a 1,000 point chapter award for having one of only thirty-one chapters in the state to fulfill all state and national organization requirements. Then, to make the convention complete, the Iuka Jaycees were presented the Henry Giessenbier Memorial Award for being the state's most outstanding chapter in Division I Population.

The final report from the State Jaycees showed Iuka the number four chapter in the state for 1971-72 with 1,024 points, only one point out of third place and only ten points out of first. Number one chapter in the state is Starkville with 1,034 points, followed by second place Jackson with 1,032 points and Ocean Springs with 1,025.

Representing Iuka at the State Convention were: Herbert and Gerri Thomas, Jim and Sheri Ramsey, DeWitt and Ida A. Bean, Billy and Faye McKissick, Dale and Bonnie Moore, Charles Lewis and Bud Edge.

Persia. There were several huge columns still standing. Then there were numerous walls with Bas-Reliefs. I found it very interesting to walk along and to view these many images of humans, animals and mythical beings.

On the mountain side, and carved out of the rock itself, was the tomb of Artaxerxes. In the palace area below was an excellent museum of many of the ancient things that have been found on this sight. Down below the palace area there were a large number of elaborate tents that are still intact from the recent celebration of Persia's twenty-five hundred year old anniversary led by the Shah of Iran and at which time leaders from all over the world came together in honor of this great event.

Persepolis was founded by Darius I in 518 B.C. Before him there was Cyrus the Great whose tomb is located at Pasargadae about 50 miles from Persepolis. Also, near Persepolis is Nakhsh-e-Rustam, a group of tombs hewn out of the side of a rock mountain. Some of those buried there include Darius.

After having lunch at a nearby restaurant, we drove back to Shiraz. On arriving we went to visit the Mausoleum of Saadi and the tomb of Hafez, great Persian poets. Since it was Friday, the Muslim "holy day", then most everything was closed, so we didn't visit any further, but rather we went immediately to the airport to see if we couldn't get a flight on into Teheran.

We had to wait for about two hours, and there was every indication that we wouldn't be able to get seats on either of the two flights. We were told that all seats were booked up. However, we continued to wait. Believe it or not, we at the last minute were told we could go. So we rushed through the check-out point, which included a search of our handbags and that of our bodies being frisked for any arms or weapons that might be concealed to be used in hijacking, and after being passed, we loaded on to a crowded plane headed for Teheran. An hour later we were in Teheran itself. Then it took us two hours to go by bus to our place of abode.

A few days have passed now and the paper carries the story of a severe earthquake to the southeast of Shiraz with four thousand or more being killed. It is sad to know that this has happened. We are so thankful that we made our trip and got back safely.
