Mr. Sartain was a building contractor, a member and a deacon of the Liberty Church of Christ, a member of the board of the Liberty Children's Home, a trustee of Liberty College, and a World War II veteran.

Iuka Assembly Program Friday

There will be a Southern School Assemblies Program at the Iuka High School in the new gym Friday morning, December 1, 1972, at 8:30 a.m. The general public is invited to attend this interesting program on Spaceball with a small admission charge of 25¢ being charged for each person.

This fascinating physical fitness program, blending humor, showmanship and breath-taking skill, literally guarantees fast-moving, wholesome entertainment.

Spaceball, America's newest competitive sport, combines many of the elements of basketball and volleyball with the added thrill of Trampolining. The program illustrates how American astronauts and air cadets use this exciting game in their training programs. A running commentary keeps the audience abreast in every intricate maneuver.

As a physical fitness program, it demonstrates most forcibly why it may be accomplished in developing perfect coordination of mind and body. The comedy routines are presented in an original and humorous style, with fast-moving action that keeps the audience in a continual state of suspense.

Get in There and Talk

If the Declaration of Independence is right that all men are created equal, then what made the prophet Jeremiah so special that God would tell him, "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you - And before you were born I consecrated you?"

For the first part, nothing. God knows all of us before birth, so that's not unusual. Startling to realize, perhaps, but not unusual. Just think what that means, though. Before you were an embryo, who were you? "A gleam in your parents' eye," an old joke goes, but what were you, really?

Whatever form you had, if any, you were an intention in God. No accident. No chance.

The Right Man

To be consecrated by God, however, is more significant. "Consecrated" means to be prepared for a particular purpose. God knows everyone, from before birth to after death, but how many people has He created at birth with a pre-planned objective for their lives? Two or three? A dozen? Twenty?

Millions. Every believer. "In Him, also we have obtained an inheritance, having been predestined according to His purpose who works all things after the counsel of His will."

The uniqueness of Jeremiah was not that God knew him before birth and prepared him for a specific place in life. Whether or not we realize it, that's true of all of us. The kind of life God chose for Jeremiah, however, does set him somewhat apart.

His was a once-in-history role, to call out the remnant of the people of God before the captivity of Israel in 586 B.C. and so to preserve the testimony of God within the world.

"I have appointed you a prophet to the nations." A prophet's life is not all Kiss-ingeresque glamor. Men with authority are understandably reluctant to receive emissaries of condemnation.

God's assignment specified, "See, I have appointed you this day over the nations and over the kingdoms. To pluck up and to break down - To destroy and to overthrow - To build and to plant."

How? Not by organizing dissidents. Without an army. Nonviolently. The way of every true prophet.

He spoke the words of God at the times and in the places and to the people who needed to hear.

The Right Job

Occasionally a true prophet, like Daniel, can get into the power structure. In a democracy the chances should be even better. But, inside or out, his responsibilities remain - to give God's words to the people who need them, when and where they need them, whether or not they want to hear.

All believers are as special to God as Jeremiah was. And our responsibilities differ only in scope from Jeremiah's role as prophet. He spoke for God, internationally. We must speak locally.

Pass the Word.

Nearly 40 million Americans are senior citizens. These people, 55 years of age and older, often have lives more troubled than the "twixt 12 and 20" group.

No one denies that adolescence is a difficult period, but the golden years are also trying. For example, older people have a difficult time getting automobile insurance. This is only right, one might think, because their reflexes are supposedly slower, inspiring their ability to drive safely.

A condensing view of older drivers, however, is unjustified. A Philadelphia insurance company proved it. Colonial Penn Insurance Company analyzed the driving records of a half-million drivers over age 50 and found that they average fewer accidents than all other drivers. Their faith in the older driver has led the company to remove all age limits from its auto insurance policy. Independent studies by The National Safety Council support these findings. Older drivers constitute about 30 percent of the driving public, yet they are involved in only about 20 percent of the accidents, according to the Safety Council.

Older drivers have greater driving experience; they rest more frequently, and rarely test their endurance with distance drives. Because they are rested and alert, older drivers are safer than fatigued younger drivers. Nor do older people drive swiftly or impatiently. The insurance company was impressed with the excellent safety records of elderly drivers. It was the first company to offer guaranteed insurance to age 80. Today, the insurance is guaranteed renewable as long as the driver remains healthy enough to drive safely, does not have his license revoked, and pays his premiums.

This is an outstanding example of private enterprise meeting social needs through innovation. Colonial Penn has had good results with health and life insurance for older Americans, and expects continued success with automobile coverage for them.

The Church

A quick summary of what we have seen thus far - The very life thread of the Bible is interwoven in the foundational ground works, namely the covenants of which spring the two seed of Abraham. For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, Gal. 4:22. These two sons are carried from Genesis to Revelations. The natural seed, and the spiritual seed, Rom. 11:21, Gal. 6:16. We see in almost all of the parables taught in the word of God that they are dealing with the two sons, and the rest of them are dealing with the whole family of Abraham, all of his sons, which were eight. Their names in order: Ishmael, son of Hagar, Gen. 16:16, which typified the children of the law covenant; Isaac was the second son of Abraham, which typified the Grace covenant, Gen. 21:1-3, Gal. 4:22-26; the names of the other six are Zim'ran, and Jok'shan, and Me'Dan, and Mid'x-an, and Ish-bak, and Shu'ah, by his wife Ke-tu'rah, Gen. 25:1,2. In all of these sons the whole of the entire race is represented. All of them received a blessing from Abraham, and out of the three covenants, the Grace, and the Law, and the New, when rightly seen in their order will bring a blessing to all the human race, as stated, in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed, Acts 3:25, Gen. 12:3. This is indeed the Gospel. Glad tidings of great joy which shall be to all people, Luke 2:10. The scriptures foreseeing what God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the Gospel unto Abraham, saying, in thee shall all nations be blessed, Gal. 3:8. It is through the spiritual seed, the Sion class, the general assembly, the church, the first born, of which constitutes the spiritual seed of Abraham, Heb. 12:22,23, Gal. 3:29, that will turn and bless the natural seed of Abraham, Viz. Israel, out of Sion, the spiritual church, the deliverer and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob, and all Israel shall be saved, Rom. 11:26. God did not cast away his people, vs. 1, but blinded as it were their eyes in part, until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in, vs. 25 - i.e.

the church. Natural Israel did obtain that which he was seeking, namely the kingdom, but the elect, the spiritual seed hath obtained it, vs. 7. Let us not forget that there are two seeds - one as the stars in heaven, the other as the sand of the sea, Gen. 22:17. A celestial, heavenly, terrestrial, earthly. It will be the ancient worthies, Viz. Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out. From all points of the earth they shall come, Luke 13:29,30. These ancient worthies were the fathers, But God said, instead of thy fathers shall be thy children, whom thou mayest make princes of all the earth, Psalms 45:16. For of Zion the spiritual kingdom God shall go forth the law, as the word of the Lord from Jerusalem, i.e., the earthly place of the kingdom of God, Isa. 2:3, Mi. 4:2.

We will continue the subject next week if the Lord will.

NAGGING BACKACHE

One of the commonest complaints for which a patient consults her doctor is backache.

She is usually quite convinced that it must be due to some pelvic disorder or at least kidney disease. It is usually neither but milady is difficult to convince, and frequently yields to reason only after several expensive but complete x-ray examinations fail to locate a pelvic or kidney lesion.

Constipation, for instance is seldom the culprit, though frequently suspected.

Kidney disease seldom causes much back discomfort and when it does the pain is usually high under the lower ribs and not under the belt area or in one hip or leg.

Neuralgic pains sharply move here and there and do not remain long in one place.

Hip joint disease concentrates in one or both hip joints at about the area of a side trouser pocket opening. This causes stiffness of legs and a limp.

The several backaches mentioned here have been encountered in chiropractic clinics many times, and successfully handled when their cause was carefully located by x-ray and then corrective adjustments received for a sufficient length of time. Many times a backache will drive a patient to the doctor permitting him to correct other more threatening and dangerous ailments, thus becoming a blessing in disguise.

A back pain beneath the right shoulder blade, and a numb tingling there, usually is a referred pain due to Gall Bladder trouble but can come from bad posture habits.

VA Questions

And Answers

Q: How many Vietnam Era veterans are turned down for G. I. Bill benefits or disability compensation because of an other - than - honorable discharge?

A: A VA study done during a three months period of this year shows that only 6 out of every 1,000 applicants were turned down, and most of these were discharged for "willful and persistent misconduct."

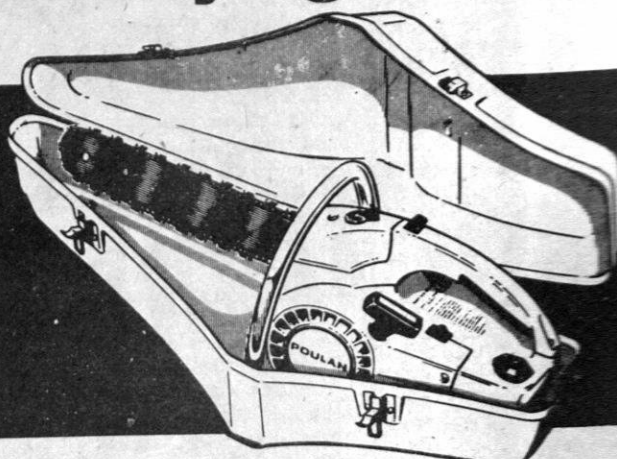

Q: I received a general discharge from the Army after 13 months of active duty. Am I entitled to schooling under the G. I. Bill despite this type of discharge?

A: Yes, and to all other benefits for which you would qualify - the same conditions that prevail for those with an honorable discharge.

Q: I read somewhere that I am entitled to an annual clothing allowance of $150 because I have an artificial leg replacing one that was shot off in Korea. If so, where do I apply?

A: You should have received by now a formal notice of potential eligibility from the VA with a simplified application form. If you did not then write the VA Regional Office where your records are, stating that you wear a prosthetic device (or use a wheelchair) that tends to wear out or tear clothing, and that you receive service connected compensation for the disability. Your letter will be accepted and processed as a claim for clothing allowance.

ANIMALS

BY MARY B. DAVIS

It was in April when the couple first noticed that a small, black and white cat was checking out the area around their barn. As all grown cats do, it was carefully searching out danger spots, deciding whether to stay or move on to a safer place.

Over the years, the Mount Evergreen couple had fed, watered, and befriended many cold, tired, and hungry animals -- homeless animals which their callous owners had taken off and "dumped" for various unfair reasons.

So, seeing a new arrival around their place was nothing new to the Browns. Nevertheless, they watched the newcomer with interest and with sympathy. A born cat lover, Mrs. Brown started right off calling the frail-looking cat "Kitty" and she kept her eyes on it as it moved slowly and cautiously on toward the house.

Unlike Mrs. Brown, Mr. Brown had to be converted to liking cats and it took Gato to do the converting. A half-Siamese cat, Gato had been left with the Browns while the cat's owners moved to Warner Robins, Georgia. Immediately upon arrival, Gato set to work on Mr. Brown and in no time, the cat had won him over. From Gato on, Mr. Brown had a very sympathetic attitude toward cats in general, fortunately for the oncoming "Kitty."

Watching from the window, Mrs. Brown noticed that the cat had stopped dead in its tracks. For the first time, it had caught sight of their dog, a part German Shepherd. Called Bounce when it was a "bouncing" puppy, the dog's name had later been changed to Flash.

When the tired little cat saw her suspected enemy, she must have thought:

"Oh, me, oh, me! Wonder if he's as mean as he looks right now. I sure hope not because I'm just too tired and weak to outrun him today. Maybe if I keep as still as possible, he'll not see me -- maybe he doesn't even live here and will go on home. That'd be too good to be true, though. I'll just have to wait and see."

"Sure wish those people who thought they wanted me SO bad when I was little had kept thinking that after I grew up. But no, they PROVED how insincere they really were by bringing me 'way out here in the country and throwing me out just as soon as they found out I was going to have my first little babies. They'll get paid back sometime, though. Just wait and see!"

Knowing that they had changed the dog's name to Flash because "he was quick as lightning and the fastest thing on foot," Mrs. Brown went out and had a talk with him. Telling him in no uncertain terms that he was not to harm the oncoming cat, Flash quieted down. Furthermore, she told him that he had to be friends with the new cat -- or else.

Flash understood. When Mrs. Brown brought out food for the little "Kitty," the dog stood quietly by and watched the hungry little thing eat. After that, they really did become friends -- GOOD friends. One of the most tender sights of all is to see a deep friendship between a cat and a dog. I have seen them eat, sleep and play together -- even more peacefully than cats with cats and dogs with dogs.

Kitty was an "outside" cat and sure enough, in about a month, she gave birth in the underbrush near the barn. Wanting to put them in a dry, warm place, Mr. Brown hunted until he found them, but he could not get them out because of the heavy tangles in the grapevines.

There was only one kitten with the mama cat. If there had been more, something had happened to them.

Kitty kept coming to the house for her food and water, of course -- so, the Browns felt that everything was going fine with her and her baby. But evidently, Kitty had an entirely different feeling.

About two weeks after the kitten was born, Kitty brought it to the house -- the surest sign that a cat or dog loves and TRUSTS the people around it! On the second day of June, when the couple came home from work, they found both the little mama and her only child inside a plastic bucket right near the door. The mama had turned it over on its side to protect her baby from the sun. Why had the devoted mothercat brought her only baby to the Brown's doorstep? Because she knew that if anything happened to her before she got it raised, THEY would not let it suffer! The very next day, Billy Morgan and Randy Hardwick found Kitty on the Eastport Road. She was dead. Did the conscientious mother cat have a premonition of impending death? What became of her infant kitten -- its eyes barely opened?

EDITOR'S NOTE

(The story will be concluded in Part II. See the next issue to find out whether Kitty used good judgment in turning her baby over to somebody else to raise.)

WINTER GRAZING

How much you get out of your winter grazing depends to a large extent on how you treat it.

From now until April management and fertilization will largely determine your profit or loss from the winter grazing crops.

Don't graze ryegrass closer than three inches high. When it is grazed closer than this, the regrowth is slow. The best idea is to move the cows to another grazing area and let the grazed down area come back.

Generally it is recommended that you apply around 65 pounds per acre of actual nitrogen per acre every two months. This would be the equivalent of 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate.

HOG SURVEY

Some of you have received questionnaires from the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service regarding your hog operation. It is important that you fill in the questionnaires and return them promptly. The information is used to make county, state and national estimates. All information individual farms is kept confidential.

UPGRADE DAIRY COWS

The best way to improve your dairy herd and have better cows is to breed all cows and heifers to A, I, plus-proven bulls. Daughters of plus-proven bulls have the inherited ability to produce more milk. They convert feed into milk more quickly and make you more money.

WINTERIZE YOUR POWER MOWER

Right now is the time to make sure that your power lawn mower is ready for action next spring when the grass starts growing.

First, clean it up. Drain the oil and put fresh oil in the crankcase. Clean the air filter. Drain the gasoline from the tank, then crank the engine and burn all the gasoline that may be in the gas lines or carburetor.

Remove the spark plug and put a small amount of oil in the cylinder. With the spark plug out, crank the engine. This allows the oil to coat the cylinder walls and piston rings. Replace the plug and leave the plug wire off for safety. Store your mower in a dry place. It should be ready for action in the spring.

NotesWROUGHT IRON IS IN LIVING ROOM

It's a long step from the garden to a semi-formal living room, but wrought iron furniture covered the distance in a short period of time.

Wrought iron chairs and settees first appeared on the lawn and in the garden as alternatives for stone benches.

Color finishes and the addition of vibrant hand upholstery and attractive dining groups cleared the way for wrought iron to enter the dining room, family room, sun room, and later, the living room.

Appealing new groups for living room and dining room come in Victorian styling. The dining room units combine peccan, scrollwork wrought iron and button-tufted velvet upholstery.

These manufacturers also produce expanded metal dining and seating groups for outdoors in traditional and contemporary styling, and there are modern seating, dining and occasional furniture groups in pierced metal. Seats and backs look suspended in the square frames.

The folding director chair in its highly polished chrome frame is modern in design and has spring-base construction plus removable seat and back covers.

There are wrought metal and wrought wire seating and dining groups for outdoors or inside.

Wrought iron furniture requires some care to look its best. It should be washed occasionally with warm water and a mild detergent and then rinsed with clear water. Cushions for outdoor furniture wear longer and retain their shapes better if taken inside at night or during rainstorms. Chipped or scraped spots can be repaired with touch-up paint that most manufacturers provide.

GREEN THUMB POSSIBLE FOR APARTMENT DWELLERS
No need for apartment dwellers to forfeit their "green thumbs." Instead they can bring a part of the outdoors inside by growing and displaying many different decorative plants in the home.

The idea of indoor gardening isn't new. Many plants have become traditional houseplants and occupy their spot near the window.

If plants require more light than a window area provides, you can supplement natural light by placing a fluorescent lamp over the planters.

Planters can be designed to blend into the interior decor of a room. A corridor or foyer garden showing foliage and flowering plants can also be attractive.

Waterproof hangings are a nice addition, if there is enough natural light for plants.

"Going back to nature" in home decorating can mean double pleasure for the non-home owner. One joy is the growing of plants, and the other is the fun of displaying the indoor garden for others to enjoy.
