Mr. Cooke was treated at TCH for severe lacerations of the face and body and was later transferred to the hospital in Tupelo.

RAINS HAMPER FARMERS ACROSS TISHOMINGO COUNTY

Tishomingo County farmers are sitting idly by wondering if and when the weather will permit farm operations to begin for the 1973 crop season.

Farmers suffered a great loss throughout the county last fall due to excessive rainfall that hindered and in some cases stopped all harvesting operations. Some farmers still have cotton and soybean fields from last years crop that have not been harvested. Most of these fields will be a total loss.

The big problem now is getting this years crops planted to try to off set last years loss. Normally cotton fields in the county are planted from April 15 to May 10. Corn is planted from March 20 to May 20. Pepper and cucumbers are planted April 25 to May 10. If the rains should stop today it would be May 10 or later before any fields could be planted in the county.

Agriculture brings in more than $6,000,000 to the economy of Tishomingo County each year. Economists tell us that a farmer's dollar turns over six or seven times in the economy of our county.

Swine and beef production will most likely decrease due to the increased cost of feed to farmers. Some feeds have doubled in cost to the farmers the past year.

Fuel shortage for tractors may be another problem for farmers when the weather does break. Transportation to supply fertilizers to dealers may be a problem in the peak period.

The local ASCS committee has petitioned the state office to allow Tishomingo County cotton farmers to plant their cotton allotments to another crop if their cotton has not been planted by May 15 and the farmers to receive the 15 cents per pound on projected yields for their cotton allotments. Farmers will have a choice if their request is approved whether to plant late cotton or other crops.

We hear so much on the news media about people complaining about the high prices of food. If the weather does not change soon, over the entire nation, people will be complaining about not having food or fiber to supply the demand instead of high prices.

Series Of Accidents Due To Slick Roads

Mississippi Highway Patrolman, Ira Pace, reports that several accidents have occurred in the past few days due to slick road conditions.

The first of these accidents occurred Monday, April 23, at 5:00 a.m. on Highway 25 in Cripple Deer Bottom. According to Mr. Pace, a 1971 Ford pick-up traveling north on Hwy.

25, driven by Gillie G. Gober from Kenosha, Wisc., slid off the highway and overturned.

Mr. Gober was taken to Tishomingo County Hospital and treated for a compound fracture of the left leg. He was later transferred to a hospital in Tupelo.

No other vehicle was involved in this accident.

Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. an accident was investigated two miles east of Iuka. This accident involved a 1963 Pontiac driven by Arthur K. Gray of Killen, Ala. and a 1969 Tractor-Trailer rig driven by Edward Nelson of Atlanta, Ga.

According to Mr. Pace, the car was attempting to pass the truck when the car left the road and hit a tree. There were no injuries.

Wednesday morning at 6:15 a.m. Patrolman Pace investigated an accident on Highway 25 South at Midway. According to Mr. Pace this accident involved a 1960 Chevrolet driven by Robert D. Robinson of Route 1, Tishomingo, and a 1973 GMC Tractor-Trailer driven by R. Harris of West Memphis, Ark.

Mr. Pace stated that the automobile was traveling south on Hwy. 25 and was making a turn on 364 toward Midway. The truck was traveling in the same direction and struck the auto from the rear. The tractor-trailer rig then jack-knifed.

There were no injuries.

According to Mr. Pace, there were no charges filed in any of these accidents.

Tishomingo County Fair Dates Set

Carl Sartain, President of Tishomingo County Fair Association, announces the 1973 Fair dates for August 13-18.

Plans have been announced to hard surface the road leading to the Fairgrounds from Highway 25.

Plans have also been made to concrete the remaining dirt floors of the entire building including the swine shed wing, cow shed wing and the inside arena.

Exhaust fans will be installed in the inside arena with an air conditioner being installed in the kitchen.

Plans have also been made to hard surface the drives into and around the fairbuilding prior to August 13th.

Plans have also been made to widen out the horseshow arena for grandstand events.

Other improvements are planned inside the building for exhibit space.

The same carnival as last year will be playing the midway with added attractions.

Take It on Faith

The most important principle of spiritual life, according to the Bible, is "the righteous man shall live by faith." God proclaimed this principle, hundreds of years before Christ, through the Old Testament prophet Habakkuk, when Israel was facing an invasion. (Hab. 2:3-4)

Paul applied the principle as essential for everyone, in order to become a Christian (Rom. 1:16-17) and later expanded on it, showing that faith alone is the means of staying alive and maturing spiritually. (Gal. 3) Finally, the writer of Hebrews also adds that in the time of Jesus' return — soon — the principle will be more important than ever.

"The righteous man shall live by faith." All right, that's good. But what about love? Isn't love really more important?

Yes and no. "Now abide faith, hope, and love — these three; but the greatest of these is love." However, it is impossible to have love without first having faith. Failure to realize that, in fact, is the weakness of most modern psychology and sociology.

Faith works through love, according to Galatians 5:6. And the sequence of spiritual development outlined in II Peter 1:5-7, begins with faith and culminates, eight stages later, in love.

So the "righteous man shall live by faith" is, indeed, the most important spiritual principle. And it is not optional. "Without faith it is impossible to please God," Hebrews 11:6 says. Failure or refusal to live by faith will cut you off from the source of spiritual life.

In fact, neglecting to live by faith is not only an omission but a positive evil. "Whatever is not from faith is sin." (Rom. 14:23)

If you care about spiritual life you cannot escape it: you must "live by faith."

Live by What? But what is faith? H. L. Mencken cynically wrote, "Faith may be defined briefly as an illogical belief in the occurrence of the improbable." Or, as it is popularly said, "Faith is believing something to be true, even when you know it isn't."

Faith, however, is defined in the Bible itself. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Faith is acknowledging the reality of things which are yet hoped for in the future. But how is that reality ascertained? By "seeing" the unseen, by recognizing the evidence that the spiritual world really exists.

Paul told the Corinthians to "look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal but the things which are not seen are eternal."

Faith, then, is spiritual sight — or insight. To live "by faith" does not necessarily mean to live without an income or to live without regard for your circumstances or to experience continual miracles.

To "live by faith" is to see spiritual truths and to trust them; that is, to know God.

"Be Kind To Animals Week"

"Be Kind to Animals Week" will be observed during the week of May 6 through 12.

Started in 1915 as a means of encouraging kindness to ALL creatures, BKA Week places special emphasis on kindness to animals and children.

Sponsored nationally by The American Humane Association, and about 1,000 local humane agencies, BKA Week is proclaimed as a special week by mayors and governors throughout the nation.

In March, Congressman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi introduced House Joint Resolution 447 authorizing the President of the United States to designate the first full week in May of each year as a legal commemorative "Be Kind to Animals Week."

This year's National Chairman is the all-time favorite cowboy, John (Duke) Wayne. A well-known lover of horses, he points out that kindness can be promoted by (1) working with schools and teachers to stress the importance of humane education; (2) publicizing the work of local humane societies; and (3) trying to get clergymen to preach of kindness on Humane Sunday, which is always the first Sunday in May.

In Tishomingo County, the local Humane Society is planning the following BKA Week activities:

(1) A week-long display of animal pictures and humane literature at the Iuka Public Library; where pet care publications will be available to those who want them; and

(2) A Children's Hour on Saturday, May 12, at 10 a.m. at the Library. Mrs. Lela Clark will tell animal stories; and refreshments will be provided by the Humane Society.

Winners in the TC Humane Society's animal-story contest will be notified during BKA Week.

Mrs. Mary B. Davis of Iuka is coordinating BKA Week activities locally.

They are chosen for excellence in academic achievement and community service.

The Word
for Today

By Charles H. Robinson

They didn't know.

Jesus said about the people of Noah's day: "They knew not until the flood came, and took them all away." His words could be taken to mean, "They never realized their danger."

This is true of many today — perhaps even of you as you read this message. You do not realize the fearful danger, in view of eternity, of your continuing in the world another moment without Christ, without hope.

The people of Noah's generation never realized their danger, nor did they know what they forfeited, or all that they lost because they failed to repent in response to the preaching of Noah. They clung to that old, condemned world of sin and misery, and lost their part in the new world on the other side of the flood.

Be sure that you don't make a worse mistake! Don't miss heaven because you would not give up this condemned world with its "lust of the flesh, lust of the eye, and pride of life."

"Repent ye therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out."

EDITORIAL

IN YOUR LIFETIME
The theme of the American Cancer Society's April Crusade is worth repeating: "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime."

Those nine words speak volumes. They tell of a trend in the medical attack on cancer which gives reason for hope. In the late Thirties, fewer than one in five cancer patients were being saved. The following decade it was one in four. And today one in three hit by cancer is saved.

With knowledge now available medical and scientific opinion holds that one of two cancer patients could be saved providing diagnosis and treatment come in time.

The last 20 years have seen important advances in the treatment of cancer resulting from research. There have been improved surgical techniques and radiation therapy. In some instances, drugs have been effective against certain types of cancer. Indeed, many scientists say that we have entered the era of significant development of drugs against cancer.

But there can be little difference of opinion about what is needed for the final conquest of this ancient enemy of mankind. The scientific efforts have to be broadened all along the line. This means more major cancer centers, more money for brainpower and manpower, more money for equipment, training and facilities.

When an American Cancer Society volunteer comes to your home in April, remember the goal: "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime." So, give generously!

ANIMALS

By Mary B. Davis
OBITUARY
PUDY - CAT DAVIS
1965 - 1973

Pudy-Cat Davis died suddenly at her home on easter Sunday, April 22, at 11:55 a.m. She was eight years old on April 1, 1973.

Death was caused by hairballs which for the first time in her life she was unable to cough up. In ill health since birth, Pudy-Cat had been given much special attention. As a result, she was very badly spoiled. She often let the other cats and dogs in the household know that she was in charge of the place; and, as a consequence, she had made many enemies during her lifetime.

During the eight years and 22 days that she lived with the Davises, she made only one animal friend: September Davis, a small dog only six and a-half months older than Pudy. Pudy-Cat showered all her love and affection on only her owners and on Seppie.

So, to mourn her passing and to wonder what they will do without her, she leaves behind Arthur and Mary B. Davis and one sad and lonely little dog, Seppie.

Laid to rest near Scout and Blackie, the first two kittens ever adopted by the Davises, Pudy-Cat is finally free of misery at last.

Easter Services At Coleman State Park

People from many churches in North Tishomingo County, together with a few from Tennessee, gathered for the lake Easter Sunrise Service at J. P. Coleman State Park.

Delivering the invocation was Rev. Kenneth McClain, reading the Holy Scriptures and leading prayer was Bro. Jack Williams, minister of the Iuka United Methodist Church, and presenting the Easter message was Rev. N. W. Coker, pastor of the Iuka First Pentecostal Church.

Also a part of the Sunrise Service was the congregational singing of hymns, which included "Joy to the World," "Christ Arose" and "He Lives."

Many of the early-risers who gathered at the park to sing and to proclaim the praises of their God were back in their respective houses of worship later in the day. Some were dressed in their finest spring clothes, which others dressed casually, choosing to wait until later in the day to wear their finest.

Bro. Coker proclaimed the message "Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept." People were reminded that Christian hope is found in the resurrected who has made eternal life possible for all of us.

The congregation responded by singing "I Serve a Risen Savior, He's in the World Today ... He Lives Within My Heart!"

The Now Washbasket

By Joyce Champion

New clothing appearing in stores this summer will include permanent care labels instructing consumers how to clean them.

The government-required permanent apparel care labeling grew out of consumer confusion amid the many changes in man-made fabrics. Hang tags containing the information generally are misplaced, thrown away or too numerous to consult conveniently. Labels built into the garment seem to be the best answer.

Since the labels are small the terminology necessarily is brief but accurate. Most of the care instructions are self-explanatory. Among the latter, contained in the American Apparel Manufacturers' Association care guide, are the following: Washable/Machine Washable/Machine Wash: Wash, bleach, dry and press by any customary method including commercial laundering.

• Warm wash/Warm setting: Use water 90 to 110 degrees Fahrenheit. (Hot wash instructions call for 130 degrees or hotter.)

• Durable press cycle, Permanent press cycle: Use appropriate machine setting, otherwise use medium wash, cold rinse and short spin cycle.

• Hand washable/Hand wash: Launder only by hand in lukewarm, hand comfortable water. May be bleached. May be dry cleaned.

(If the fabric should not be bleached, starched or dry cleaned—or, conversely, dry cleaned only—the label will so indicate. No reference is made to borax additives, such as Borateen, because they are compatible with all fabrics and colors.)

• Hand Wash separately: Hand wash alone or with like colors.

• Tumble dry/Machine dry: Dry in tumble dryer at specified setting—high, medium, low or no heat.

• Tumble dry/Remove promptly: Same as above, but in the absence of a cool-down cycle remove the laundry at once when tumbling stops.

Lawn Mowing Safety

Once again it's time to get out the lawn and gardening equipment, and the State Board of Health reminds everyone to "play it safe" in doing so.

Dr. William E. Riecken, Director of the MSBH Accident Prevention Program, issues a special warning against "misuse and carelessness when operating the power lawn mower."

The lawn mower is a common piece of equipment found around most homes. "However," said Dr. Riecken, "like all other mechanical equipment, power lawn mowers can be dangerous if the operator is careless."

Among several safety tips offered by the Accident Prevention Program at the State Board of Health are the following:

1. Don't start the mowing process before inspecting the lawn for stones, wire or other debris.

2. Don't fill gasoline tank while the engine is running or if still hot to avoid a possible explosion.

3. Keep in control of your mower; don't let it pull you.

4. Don't operate your mower or fill tank inside a building. Exhaust gases from mowers (like those from cars) contain carbon monoxide, a deadly poison. This gas is odorless and colorless.

5. Always study the instruction manual that comes with your mower and hold on to it for later reference as well. You might be surprised at what this little booklet tells you about operating your power mower.

6. Keep children out of the yard while mowing with a power mower.

These are only a few of the safety precautions which should be followed to insure a safer, more pleasant spring and summer. A pamphlet containing these and other safety tips is available by writing the Health Education Unit, Mississippi State Board of Health, P. O. Box 1700, Jackson 39205.

Product Replacement Program

Field Enterprises Educational Corporation -- publishers of The World Book Encyclopedia -- has announced that it will replace, free of charge, sets of World Book, Childcraft -- The How and Why Library, The World Book Dictionary, The World Book Atlas, of 1968 or later, copyright, that were destroyed by the recent floods in Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee. This applies, however, only in cases where the products were not covered by the customer's insurance.

According to FEEC's chairman, William T. Branham, "Our policy of replacing uninsured World Book products destroyed by any natural disaster is not new. It is in effect all the time. Last year, following Hurricane Agnes, we received over 700 letters and requests for product replacements."

"When you consider all the hardships being suffered by many of the flood victims, including those who have lost their homes or their businesses, replacing a set of encyclopedias may not appear to be very significant," Branham said. "But the letters of gratitude we received from disaster victims indicated how much they appreciate the replacement sets of World Book."

Mrs. Curtis Thompson of Aberdeen, District Manager, advises that World Book owners who experienced such a loss should write to Customer Service, Field Enterprises Educational Corporation, Merchandise Mart Plaza, Chicago, Ill. 60654. Customers should indicate when the products were purchased, and explain how their books were destroyed. Further questions may be directed to area manager, Mrs. Cleborn Hodgkin of Tishomingo.

FINDING A HOME
IN NEW DELHI

I can't begin to tell you how happy we were to arrive in New Delhi. We had been waging a pile of suitcases for so long that it was no pleasure at all to travel. But just to know that we had finally reached our destination and that we would no longer have to move all of that luggage on and off the planes was a great relief within itself.

We couldn't be sure just when we would arrive in Delhi and so we had not been able to send word on early enough to have someone to meet us at the airport. That being the case, we got our baggage, loaded into two taxis and headed for the home of the Sunny Davids in South New Delhi. We arrived around 6:30 p.m. and how wonderful it was to see these good friends again. After almost filling their little apartment with luggage, we settled down for a visit. With this of course went tea.

Telling them of our plans for the evening, we lost no time in making arrangements to go out to check on hotels. We knew we were welcome to stay with the Davids, but we knew also that there were too many of us. So we decided to check on two or three hotels and take the one that we could get for the best price. Betty (of course with Shannon) and I, along with Sunny David, went out to look over the possibilities. In the end we decided to stay at Central Court Hotel, the same one we had stayed in back in 1968 when we came to New Delhi for the first time. We also ended up getting the same suite of rooms with the same family of mice as fellow-occupants, I suppose. How about that?

After a very enjoyable evening with the Davids, and eating dinner with them, we took taxis to our hotel and checked in. Here we remained for the next few days.

We had arrived in New Delhi on Friday evening, so there was not much that we could do until Monday since Saturday is usually a partial holiday and Sunday was taken up with worship with the church.

On Monday we began to look for a place to live. We knew that it was going to be a big job and it was. Betty and Barbara volunteered to go out to look first if I would take care of the children. I agreed to this and they found a house immediately that they liked, but on following it up we could not get the owner to come to the right terms. He wanted some $180.00 a month with a contract for at least two years, and we couldn't agree to that.

Sunny David and I later went out on his scooter to look for a house. We had hardly left his place when we just happened to spot a house on the main road displaying a sign which said "TO LET". This meant "to let" or "to rent." We checked with the landlady and made arrangements later to talk to her husband. In the meantime we continued to look for some other suitable place. Everything was either in a bad location, was a bad house, or would run $200.00 or more a month.

To make a long story short, we saw the landlord at the appointed time, showed the house to Betty, and decided to take it. We finally agreed to pay $200.00 a month for at least eleven months. This was more than we wanted to pay, but the house was in a good location, suited our needs, and would serve not only as a place for us to live but also as a place for the church to meet. Being a duplex with upstairs, we decided that we would take the upstairs for bedrooms and use the downstairs mainly for a place for the church to meet.

We have been living here now for almost four months and we have been more than happy with it. I'll tell you about moving in, etc., next time.

Mississippi Gets Bitter About Litter

The week of April 23 - April 28 has been designated as "Clean-up - Paint-up" Mississippi Week, in cooperation with the Keep Mississippi Beautiful Committee.

At a meeting held in the offices of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce on March 13, with Commissioner Jim Buck Ross as chairman, plans were finalized for the massive program.

This giant Clean-up - Paint-up effort will be solidly backed by Governor Bill Waller, the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, Mississippi Municipal Association, Mississippi Manufacturer's Association, Electrical, Gas and Telephone Utility Companies, Public and Private Schools, the Cooperative Extension Service, Mississippi Supervisor's Association, Mississippi Press and Broadcaster's Association, Garden Clubs and the Highway Patrol.

"We have numerous other plans in mind for the beautification of Mississippi, but our first responsibility is to remove the litter and other debris from the state's lovely landscape," Chairman Ross explained. "We want every man, woman and child in Mississippi to actively participate in this cooperative effort and truly support the adopted campaign slogan, 'Get Bitter About Litter'."

Ross said that with full cooperation and a little help from every person in Mississippi our state can set an example for all others to follow in beautification and cleanliness.

FASHION SHOW

The County Homemaker Council's Fashion Show will be Tuesday, May 1, 1:00 p.m. at the Ladies Building, Tishomingo County Fair Grounds. Come and see the latest fashions made by members of the Homemaker Clubs in Tishomingo County. Divisions include Family Dressy Wear, Family Sporty Wear, Dressy Pant Suit, Street Dresses, Afternoon Dresses, Play Dresses, Pant Suits, Jumpsuits and Long Dresses.

The public is invited to attend.

NEW TRENDS IN GLASS DRAPERIES

Glass fiber draperies have always had one big plus with consumers: fire safety.

But glass draperies often left something to be desired fashionwise and there were problems with abrasion and stiffness.

Thanks to some new developments, glass draperies are more fashion-conscious than they used to be.

For example, there is a new combination glass and mod-acrylic fabric that reduces the abrasion factor and improves drapability, according to its manufacturer. Introduced at a price "a little higher than all-glass and lower than all-mod-acrylic," it may make glass draperies easier to handle.

Improved glass yarn dye techniques mean brighter, more stylish colors are now available. Fashionable plaids and checks were introduced recently.

Knit fabrics mean glass draperies can be made in a variety of open-work patterns. For example, fish-net and checkerboard-look styles are already being developed.

THREE CHOICES IN
DECORATOR SERVICES

"Getting it all together" in house furnishings might call for the services of an interior decorator.

If this is your decision, you may have three choices: (1) independent or free-lance designers; (2) independent decorators affiliated with stores; and (3) the decorator service offered by large furniture and department stores.

Each will offer helpful professional advice and often can save you time, money and mistakes.

Cost for these services varies from free to substantial. An independent decorator uses wholesale outlets and may charge the customer the regular retail price or just a percentage more. Sometimes there is a consultation fee and an hourly rate if the customer does not buy enough to compensate the decorator for time spent.

Decorators affiliated with stores usually make no charge if the customer buys at least one item of furniture, no matter how small the purchase price. Otherwise, there may be a service charge ranging up to $50. Items are sold at the store's regular retail price, and the decorator receives a commission from the store.

The decorator service at large stores varies considerably, depending on the type store and its location.

Some department stores offer free help with no minimum purchase required. Others make no service charge, but it is expected that the customer will make a purchase.

Others charge a consultation fee that is refunded or credited if a purchase is made.

LEARN WHAT'S GOOD ADVERTISING

Some people claim that high pressure advertising and promotion force products on consumers whether they want them or not. True, advertising exerts a tremendous influence on consumers. Regardless of how much a product is advertised or promoted, it still must fulfill a definite consumer need if it is to be successful.

In 1970 over 1.9 billion dollars were spent on advertising farm food products. What does it accomplish? Primarily, advertising informs people that a product or group of products is available. Actually, it does quite a bit more than this. The advertiser also attempts to create a desire on the part of consumers to buy the product. In general, food advertising is good. Many food industries do very well in presenting information that is factual, informative and truthful. They should take pride in this.

Most people find it hard to distinguish the difference between food and bad advertising. We need to be aware that it's unwise to depend on advertising for certain information. For instance, nutrition information in advertising can very often be misleading. It's best to depend on a more reliable source for this. Rely on information which originates from sources as USDA, Food and Drug Administration, American Dietetic Association, American Medical Association. No one food will give person pep and vitality. No food alone is essential to health. False ideas can result from trick grammatical structure. Often advertisements will not give the food values of the food advertised but rather give the value when the product is combined with another food. Make sure it is supported by acceptable evidence before you try a new product.

UREA FOR NITROGEN

Under most conditions urea is just as satisfactory as a source of nitrogen as any other source. It has given good results when applied after June 1 on summer pastures. Summer applications of granular urea on permanent pastures have been just as good as ammonium nitrate.

SONNI KAYE IS TWO — Sonni Kaye celebrated her second birthday April 26th. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Gross. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McNally and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gross, Jr.

Slight nitrogen losses in urea occur when it is applied in early spring to summer permanent pastures. Any urea gives good results when applied just before a good rain, when irrigated after application or any time it is put into the soil.

CLEAN MILK

Your produce milk to sell and for milk to sell, it must be clean and of high quality. To produce this kind of milk you need:

Clean cows. Clean flanks, udders and teats are essential. Remove any dirt particles from udder and teats by proper washing and drying of the udder. Use approved Iodophor solution for washing. After washing and drying the udder, use the strip cup before attaching the milking machine. This aids in detecting abnormal milk and removes the first stream of milk, which is high in bacteria.

You must have clean, sterilized utensils. Immediately after use rinse thoroughly in tap water. Wash in warm detergent solution, rinse thoroughly, store in a clean, protected area. Sanitize before re-using with a 50 ppm chlorine solution.

In straining milk, use only an approved, single service strainer.

Cool milk promptly. Fresh milk stored for 24 hours at 60 degrees F has more than 100 times as high a bacteria count than milk stored 24 hours at 50 degrees F. The only way to keep the bacteria count low is immediate and proper cooling.

LAND PREPARATION

Due to lateness of the season, some form of minimum tillage will likely be advantageous.

What system you use will depend on the condition of the land as to foulness, whether it is rutted and moisture conditions. Other factors to consider are machinery available and soil type.

Any method of land preparation should accomplish two things -- get rid of weeds and form a bed suitable for planting. Three good tools to use are the pulverizing disc, disc hippers and spring tooth chisel plows.

A simple method of minimum tillage where there are weeds to destroy would be to hip up, follow with the disc, rehip to form planting bed, apply pre-plant herbicide with rolling cultivator, do-all, triple K and plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy R. Hughes of Iuka wish to announce the arrival of a baby daughter, who was born April 2, 1973. The little lass weighed 6 lbs. 2 1/2 ozs., and has been named Emily Paige.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Aldridge and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hughes, all of Iuka.

MINISTER OF MUSIC ENJOYS HIS ROOM IN TRAVIS HALL — Ray Kirk of Iuka, a music student at Blue Mountain College and serving as Minister of Music at West Heights Baptist Church, Pontotoc, enjoys the comforts and pleasures of rooming in Travis Hall located in Blue Mountain near the campus of the College. He gladly showed a guest photographer his room at the recent "Open House" held at the local house rented by Dr. James L. Travis,

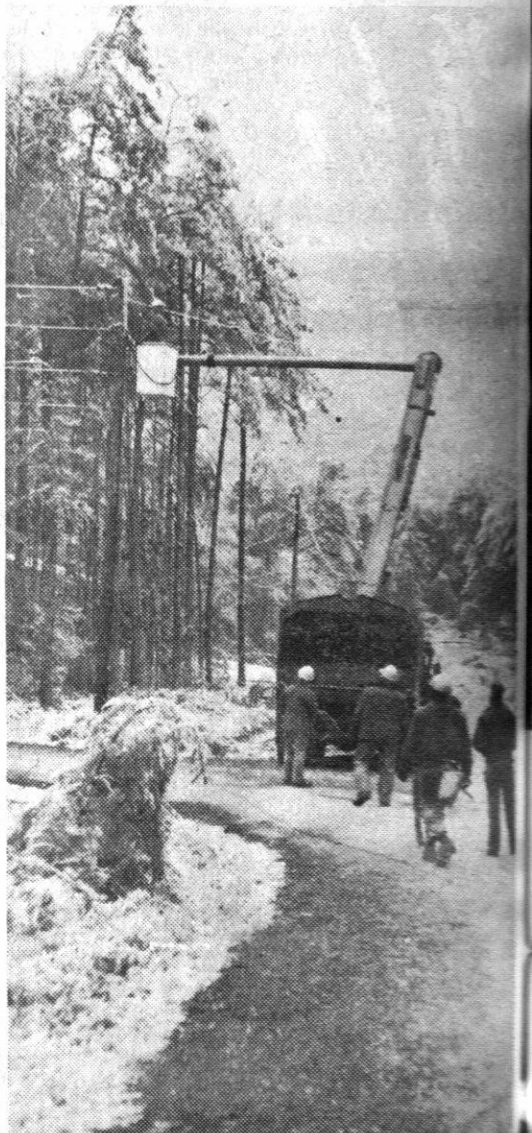

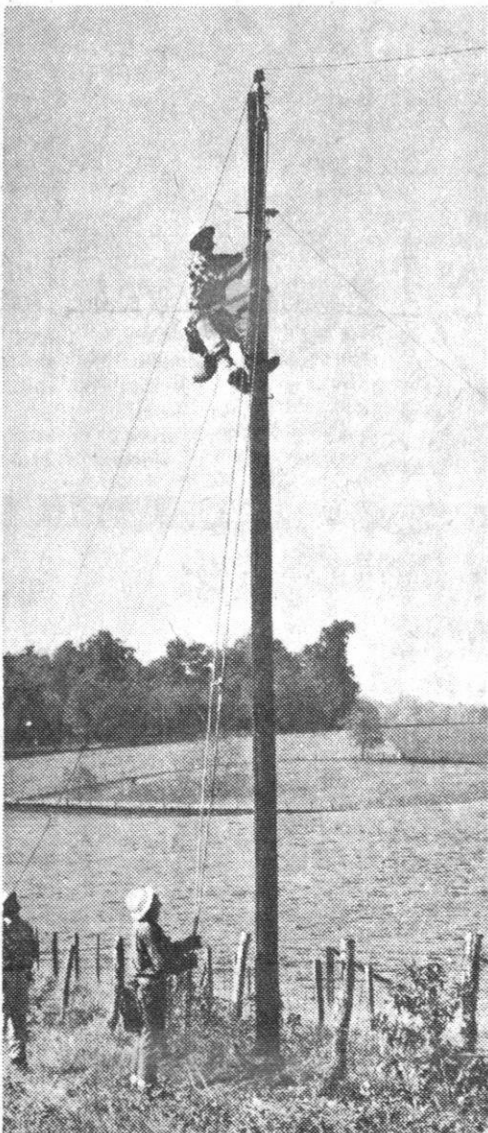

Professor of Bible and Advisor for the Ministerial Alliance, for the benefit of his young ministers who live in Travis Hall and attend day classes at Blue Mountain College while they serve Baptist Churches in North Mississippi as preachers, ministers of music and religious education. Guests were welcome to visit Mr. Kirk's room as many interested friends attended the Open House occasion recently.

Wildlife Essential To Mankind

By W. A. Stuart,
Soil Conservation Service
Wildlife, like mankind, must have food, shelter, clean water, and pure air to survive. A world without wildlife would be a sad place in which to live.

No pictures of nature or wild- life can be substituted for the experience of walking in the woods or along a stream lis- tening to the songs of birds and see the scampering of rab- bits or squirrels before us. It is difficult to even think what our country would be like with- out wildlife. We could not take our sons hunting. Neither could we sit on a hilltop and enjoy listening to the hounds as they chase a fox along the hill side. Wildlife furnish food, enjoyment and recreation for mankind.

The Tishomingo County Soil and Water Conservation Dis- trict Commissioners share this concern of the importance of wildlife to our well being. Good wildlife management is one of their goals in good resource management for the county.

The District, with the assis- tance of the Soil Conservation Service, encourages land owners to plan and manage areas for wildlife food and cover on lands. Planning assistance is given by the Soil Conserva- tion Service for such practices as - leaving a few acorn or nut bearing trees per acre to provide food for squirrels and deer; planting turn rows, ditch banks and small corners in bi- color or some other lespedeza, or reseeding soybeans for quail and song birds; browntop millet or proso millet for quail and dove food; or planting field borders and field roads in fes- cue, ryegrass or oats for rabbits and deer food. Fire- breaks in timber lands or elec- tric power lines are also good areas that can be established in wildlife food plants.

Renovation Of Coleman Park Lodge Nearing Completion

Dr. Bobby F. King, State Park Commissioner, announced today that the Mississippi Park Commission is making plans to re-open the beautiful three-story lodge and restaurant at J. P. Coleman State Park as soon as a few remaining items are completed on the lakeside resort facility. It is hoped that the park structure will be ready for use by May 1.

Dr. King stated, "Most of the refurbishment work on the lodge is now complete. The top floor of the facility which originally offered ten small motel-like units for family use has been drastically re-designed, and now provides five large air-conditioned and heated units with wall-to-wall carpeting."

"The restaurant, located on the second floor of the lodge facility, and which provides a breath-taking, picturesque view of Pickwick Lake, has been completely renovated, with one exception -- the installation of carpeting in the dining area," Dr. King said. "This is to be done some time next week," he reported.

Dr. King stated further, "Plans are also being made to develop the lower floor into a dining area which might possibly be reserved by large groups for dining purposes in the future."

"The Mississippi Park Commission was fortunate recently to obtain the services of Mr. Sonny Brunson and his wife, Dot, to manage the park lodge. They are anxiously awaiting the opening date of the facility so that they can begin serving park guests," the Park Commissioner stated.

Dr. King stressed, "The much needed renovation of the three-story lodge and restaurant is just one part of a multi-phased renovation program at J. P. Coleman Park. This work is being paid for out of funds from House Bill 660, a $25 million act for redevelopment of state parks passed by the 1972 session of the Mississippi Legislature. We are most grateful to the elected officials for this support."

J. P. Coleman State Park is located 12 miles northeast of Iuka and overlooks Pickwick Lake.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Hypocrites and Liars

Fonda, who visited last year and was allowed to meet with certain prisoners of war, has detailed the torments that they suffered at the hands of the Communists "hypocrites and liars."

"A Way to Endure" Major Kenneth Fisher has stated that he was hung by rafters, suspended by arms which were bound to his back, the result of both shoulders were twisted. "There were two during the torture," says "that I wanted to kill myself. Thank God I didn't have the implements to do tion of our reliance on God.

The last stanza of our favorite national song, "America," says:

"Our fathers' God, to Thee, Author of liberty, To Thee we sing.

Long may our land be bright With freedom's holy light! Protect us by Thy might, Great God, our King." Until the Supreme Court's unwise edict banning required prayer and Bible reading in our public schools is done away with, by constitutional amendment or by some other means, wouldn't it be a good thing to have each school day start with the singing of "America" as well as the pledge of allegiance to the flag of our country?

New Delhi 49, India
TO AGRA AND THE TAJ MAHAL

From Banaras, or Varanasi as it is now called, we loaded aboard an Indian Airlines Boeing Twin Jet plane and flew off for Agra. Enroute we stopped briefly at Khajarah, which is strictly a tourist post. It is known for its ancient temples and carvings, and that is about all that is there. After a few minutes we flew on to Agra.

At the Agra airport we loaded all of our things (which was a real load, along with all of us, believe me) into a Chevrolet Station Wagon and headed into the city. We stopped at one of the major hotels but decided not to stay there because of the scarcity of rooms and the price they charged. We then went to a smaller hotel which was more to our liking. Because of our number, it was necessary for us to take two rooms. We got our baggage in, paid the tips, and made arrangements for the car to pick us up the next morning and take us to see the Taj Mahal and Agra Fort. The man in charge said that with picking us up at the airport, showing us Agra, and taking us back to the airport, he would charge Rs 50.00 (about $6.50), so we thought that was reasonable enough and we took the deal.

After tea it was getting on up to about 4:00 p.m. but we decided that we wanted to go to see the Taj Mahal in the late afternoon as well as to see it the next day. We arranged for three peddal-type Rickshaws

(two to each one with Shannon, our baby, being thrown in for good measure) for a fixed price of less than one dollar, and took off. It was a little cool but not bad at all. The kids especially had been looking forward to this. They got a kick out of pitting the drivers against one another and trying to get them to race. We saw to it, though, that it didn't get out of hand.

It took around twenty minutes or so to reach our destination. There again was the magnificent Taj Mahal in all of its splendor. We got tickets (for all of us that came to about 25 cents) and went inside. By this time the sun was beginning to set but there were still many people around. We enjoyed a slow walk down to the Taj itself and walked around it. Betty, Barbara and the other kids went inside. I kept Shannon outside. We then walked back to our Rickshaws and enjoyed the ride back to the hotel. Now Barbara also had seen the Taj Mahal.

We had our dinner -- Indian food all the way -- at 8:00 p.m. Then after a good night of rest we had breakfast and the car came for us. We went first of all to Agra Fort and looked over it. Then we returned to the Taj Mahal for the second time. This visit was enjoyable also because the Taj is a tomb and garden set in many moods that one can always enjoy seeing it. On the way back to the hotel we stopped by some shops to watch marble inlaid work being done and to take a look at other pieces of handicraft. It is all very interesting, but it can get to be quite expensive if you begin to price it. Of course, to consider the labor that goes into it, the quality of the work, its beauty, etc., the price is not so bad after all if you have plenty of money. "Expensive" is relative! We then returned to our hotel and had lunch.

It was around 3:00 p.m. when we were picked up to be taken to the airport. At 4:30 we boarded another Indian Airlines Boeing Jet and flew to New Delhi. How wonderful it was finally to be back in Delhi! To us the whole trip had been very difficult, mainly because of the huge amount of luggage it had been necessary for us to bring along.
