Dixie Youth Baseball Tonight

The first games of the 1973 Dixie Youth Baseball season will be played tonight with the first game beginning at 6:45. The game will match VFW-AL against defending champion Genesco. In the nightcap Guaranty Bank will face First National. The program, sponsored by the Iuka Jaycees, will have a new chairman this year. Jim Kirk, replacing Dale Moore as chairman, DeWitt Bean, and Herbert Thomas were named to the committee in April and are hoping to have a great program this year.

Sixty-eight boys ages 9-12 were placed on teams last Thursday by the coaches of the four teams. The boys have been busy practicing since that time to get in shape for the opening games tonight. The only major changes in the program this year is the addition of Saturday night games. These games will be necessary because of the late start of the program this year.

for TodayBy Charles H. Robinson, Asst. P.R. Director

June 14 is Flag Day, and Old Glory should be displayed as we recall thankfully all that our flag means to us. Hearts used to thrill as George M. Cohan would sing: "You're a grand old flag, a high-flying flag; and forever in peace may you wave." May God grant that this brand of patriotism may ever thrive in our land.

Speaking of flags, the psalmist wrote, "Thou hast given a banner to them that fear Thee, that it may be displayed because of the truth." (Psalm 60:4) Solomon's song identifies that banner as love, and the New Testament confirms it: "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of love." (2 Timothy 1:7)

Today you are serving either under the banner of the Lord or under the banner of Satan, whose final defeat is already assured. Jesus said, "He that is not for Me is against Me." Are you serving King Jesus, or Satan?

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." (Acts 16:31)

Who Keeps
All Ten?

The moral basis of American society is often alleged to derive from the ancient Hebrew law code called the Ten Commandments. Unquestionably no better standard could be adopted, but how closely, in fact, do American society and government adhere to these ageless commands?

The first three commands have never been, and because of separation of church and state — could never be, part of our governmental system. They require, first, that the people are to honor no gods except Jahweh (Jehovah), and in consequence they ban the making of idols and the casual misuse of God's name.

Once upon a time Americans in general respected these standards, but no longer. Although the majority of Americans may still be nominally Christian, the percentage would be small indeed of those who give to God alone unrivaled allegiance.

The fourth commandment requires a day of rest at the end of each week. Sunday closing laws are steadily disappearing, yet paradoxically the "day of rest" idea has become for most people two days and for some three. Our overzealousness in fact has led to the "problem" of too much leisure time.

Honoring parents is required by the fifth commandment. The decline of concern for this is reflected in the increased orientation of our culture around the individual rather than the family. Psychologists and sociologists have rediscovered the value of the family, and the government still gives slight tax advantages to married couples but the public continues to experiment with other ways of life.

Commandments six through nine are stated simply as "You shall not" murder, commit adultery, steal, or bear false witness. These the government has incorporated into law. Adultery remains technically illegal but is losing ground judicially. The government's own behavior in the past year has demonstrated weak regard for the prohibitions against lying and stealing, and the Supreme Court's decisions concerning capital punishment have left smoldering serious questions about how the government regards the crime of murder.

The last command says, "You shall not covet... anything that belongs to your neighbor." Unlike the other nine which are partially observed or ignored, commandment ten is consciously and enthusiastically transgressed. So thoroughly has advertising inculcated in us the "keeping up with the Joneses" philosophy that coveting has become a form of compliment.

Socially, of course, there is a difference between wanting your neighbor's boat and wanting one just like it or better. But spiritually they're the same. When you evaluate yourself or your friend in terms of possessions, you have lost touch with the meaning of life.

So out of the ten commands the government scores a very shaky 4 and Americans in general fluctuate from 2 or 3 to 6. American life is not really founded on the Ten Commandments.

HOT WEATHER AND ALL OF THAT

We have seen hot weather in Delhi before. It is something that you don't look forward to, so we are dreading it this time as never before. Then it came. The last weeks of April and the first weeks of May have been exceptionally hot. The temperatures have varied between 105 and 113 degrees day after day.

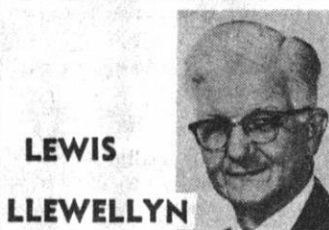

During this time of the year everyone talks about the weather, like people do the world over. At the same time, every means available is used to try to cool things down. All kinds of fans are put into operation. Even a percentage of the better to do people use air-conditioners. Ice is in heavy demand. Soft drinks are very popular. And the majority of the people sleep out in the open air at night to try to catch the early morning breezes in particular so they can manage to get a little rest. Those who can afford it usually go to a hill station or to a cooler climate.

The heat in this area of India is dry. The ordinary fan therefore doesn't help much since it just blows hot air. Even in the late hours of night it is as hot as it is as 3:00 p.m. in the afternoon. As a matter of fact, since you expect it to be cooler after dark, and since it isn't, it even seems much hotter. It is so dry and hot it just seems like you are sitting in a hot oven all the time. Because of this it is very difficult to work and there seems hardly any way to get any relief.

With this hot season, and with the danger of dehydration, it keeps one busy trying to manage for enough cool water for all of us. When out, you just want to go from one soft drink place to the next. Here Coca Cola and Fanta are sold and they are in great demand the year around, but especially at this time of the year.

The weather is blamed for everything, and especially for all of the sickness. For sure, the heat does cause many problems and it takes its toll in lives. The biggest area of danger lies in the dehydration of babies and children. We certainly had our share of it. We finally had to put our baby in the hospital for three days. Then our oldest boy was sick for several days. We are all well again but there is more hot weather ahead.

After two and a half weeks of reminding the shop keeper, we finally managed to get an air cooler installed and we are hoping that this is going to help our situation considerably. In the mean time, it has finally rained again, which is a little unusual during this time of the year. Anyway, we are thankful for the rain and for some cooler weather. Now maybe with a little time of respite, and with the help of the cooler, we can make it through to the monsoon season which will be coming up in July.

Open Season
on Politicians

LEWIS

LLEWELLYN

This seems to be open season for the hunting and trapping of politicians. And it isn't limited to one party. While Republicans are getting most of the publicity, because of the nature of the Watergate shenanigans, Democrats have not been overlooked.

Lieutenant Governor Tom Adams, of Florida, has barely escaped impeachment, the vote in the Florida House being 17 votes short of the required two-thirds majority. He was censured, instead, for having had a state employee working for him, performing duties connected with the Adams ranch, while being paid by the state. Adams has repaid to the state $1,736 in salary and travel expenses since the matter was exposed.

Former Governor Otto Kerner, of Illinois, has been convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, and perjury. Sentenced to serve three years in prison and pay a $50,000 fine, he is appealing the conviction, meanwhile withholding a decision as to whether he will or will not resign his present post as a federal appeals court judge.

In New Jersey, Congressman Cornelius E. Gallagher pleaded guilty last December to a charge of evading $74,000 in income taxes. Charges of perjury and conspiracy were dropped.

Posthumously, Franklin Delano Roosevelt has been publicly branded as a man who, over a period of years, maintained an adulterous relationship with his secretary, "Missy" Lehand. Many knew of this already, but now it has been blazoned abroad by his son Elliott and others.

Truth Not Yet Out
And the Chappaquiddick incident, in which Mary Jo Kopechne drowned one night in Senator Ted Kennedy's car, hangs like a dark cloud over the head of the senator from Massachusetts. The full truth of this sad affair has not yet been brought to light.

This should not lead us to adopt the oft-stated view that "all politicians are crooked." But it might cause us to ponder the Scriptural statement that "There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed, neither hid that shall not be known."

Anyone who builds his career on a foundation of deceit and dishonesty should be aware that, some time, perhaps when it will be most embarrassing, the truth will come out.

There is in the Bible a statement which is worthy of attention: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." Many who consider themselves to be wise in the ways of this world may scoff at this. They prefer to limit themselves to observing carefully the eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not get caught."

But it doesn't always work out as they plan it.

Isn't it obvious now that both the men involved in these shameful incidents and the nation would have benefited if the precepts of the Scriptures had been adhered to?

BE A REAL CHRISTIAN

By

Lindsey Earl Jones

Today we live in a world that is filled with sin and hate. People will join someone's church and go right on doing as they please. They will curse like a soldier, and lie like a dog so to speak, and then on Sunday they will go to church and say I am a Christian and sing, "Oh How I Love Jesus." Do you think you would be ready if Jesus should come? So, why not be a real Christian and live for God from day to day. Quit your cursing, lying, cheating, and be kind to all you meet each and every day.

To be a real Christian as the Bible teacher, you will be humble, honest and quit your cursing, drinking and cheating.

Remember, if you have the Spirit, this will be a blessing to you. Love, joy, happiness, goodness, kindness, and peace will then when Jesus comes claim his own, you will say, "Well done, good and faithful servant. Life you have won."

IHS To Be Represented At Girls' State

sonality. The program will be directed and counseled by members of the Legion Auxiliary, assisted by the Belhaven faculty. Mrs. Lela Clark, president of Iuka's auxiliary, will serve as one of the senior counselors this year.

Girls who attend learn about American Government by setting up a government like that of the state, county, and city governments in the United States. They run for the office of their choice and conduct their own political campaigns. Elected or appointed officials range from a governor to a justice of the peace and police constables. Each girl is given an outline of the duties of her office. The election activities include meetings of party leaders, conventions, and final voting.

This is the first time Post 15 has sponsored a girl, and we hope they will continue to do so because Girls' State is certainly an inspirational opportunity. Flag-raising ceremonies teach the girls proper procedures for handling the flag, and sports and recreation are designed to teach the principles of good sportsmanship. We are indeed proud to have Pam representing IHS, and we wish her the best of luck!

Miss Nellie Horton's HOME ECONOMIST'S NOTES

DO YOUR SUN TANNING SLOWLY

Whether you deliberately work at getting some sun or do it as a result of your regular routine, you need to follow certain precautions. First keep in mind that "haste makes waste" and also may result in a bad burn.

Summertime will be here for awhile so there is no need for instant tan. Besides if you end up with a burn, your skin as well as the tan will peel. So -- limit your exposure to 15 or 20 minutes to start. Increase the time to a little less than half an hour and then to 30 to 40 minutes.

Keep in mind also the time of day for exposure. Burning ultraviolet rays are less intense before 12 noon and after 3 o'clock (daylight saving time).

A word to the "ole folks" approaching 40. Repeated exposure not only makes your skin look older, but causes structural changes which can be associated with aging.

If you take care, you can come out with a beautiful tan instead of a painful and ugly burn.

PLAN HOME DECORATING

Before planning your home decorating, arm yourself with facts. Guess-work, random opinions and incomplete facts and figures are not enough.

Fit furniture to the room. Rooms should be lived in and used. A too perfect room is like an exhibit in a museum. Furniture should be placed with regard to the everyday needs of the whole family. Chairs should be placed in friendly conversational groupings with large pieces of furniture paralleled to the walls. Furniture should be in proportion and scale to the room.

Build your furnishing arrangement around a specific center of interest. In most homes today, this has to be planned. A fireplace, large windows or a piece of furniture could be the core of the emphasis center.

If you want a room to appear larger, consider wall-to-wall carpeting. Select light wall colors. If the ceiling is low, use furniture with low horizontal lines. Murals and mirrors can help create a feeling of more space.

If a room needs to appear smaller, use area rugs and select larger figured patterns for walls, upholstery materials and draperies. Use larger chairs and tall pieces. Warm colors also help.

If dark rooms need to be brightened, try painting walls and ceilings in light colors. Use bright upholstery on the furniture. Fabrics and carpets should be warm colors.

In making a room seem darker, use cool colors such as blues, greens, browns, taupe or lavender. Upholstery and draperies can be in darker shades. Darker or neutral colors are best for floor coverings.

Remember these pointers to help you get on with your decorating. They will also save time if you are planning to call on professionals for help in designing your home.

You may have a wonderful excuse for your failure but the world pays cash for success.

Dedication Of Iuka Community Center

The dedication of the newly renovated Iuka Community Center was held Sunday, May 27th. Mayor Johnny Biggs presented the center to the community saying that this center was just a continuing part of a whole plan of the development of the entire community. Mr. Earl Mitchell, a native of Iuka now working of Memphis, accepted the center in behalf of the community. In his acceptance, Mr. Mitchell expressed a hope that this center could bring a new challenge to the black population of Iuka to provide leadership opportunities to the black children and adults of the community.

The children's choir, conducted by Ms. Joyce Allen of Corinth, was an added feature to the program, over which Mr. Astor Johnson presided. Mrs. Annie Dilworth of the Mrs. Booker T. Washington Club, in her remarks stated that the community should look forward to continuing to build, not only on the center, but also in other facets of life in the city.

The center is not yet complete, but Mayor Biggs announced that there was still another $500.00 of work to be completed, which should take only a few weeks.

Civitan Club To Promote Flag

The Iuka Civitan Club is promoting a project that we feel is very badly needed in our country today. The Civitan creed teaches love and respect for our flag of our country. We feel that too many of us fail to impress upon our children and our visitors our true feeling for this great country of ours.

Within a few days a member of the Iuka Civitan Club will be calling upon merchants and any other interested citizens, explaining our plan to promote the display of our flag in a manner that will impress all citizens.

Any interested merchant or citizen should contact any member of the Iuka Civitan Club.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

During these trying times for our civilization, when most all the news we hear and read is so discouraging and depressing, it might be well to take this opportunity to praise and thank our City of Iuka Police Department, and especially Police Chief Jack Rye and Mayor Johnny Biggs, for an excellent job of detecting, apprehending and convicting a group of teenage boys who recently broke into several houses, and my shop, here in town and made way with quite an array of valuable articles such as chain saws, guns, tools, etc.

All the stolen articles were either returned to the owners or paid for and appropriate sentences were given to all concerned.

This case was handled efficiently and thoroughly by Chief Rye and his men and the trial was conducted in a very fair and dignified manner by Mayor Biggs and his court.

I am very proud of the fact that we can say these kind of things about our people in law enforcement and would like to see other citizens encourage and cooperate with our police and all other law enforcement people, so that the would-be criminals will know they will be caught and sentenced. There is no better way to stop crime and violence than to convince people that they can't get away with it.

Thank you,
W. J. "Bill" Brinkley

JOHNSONGRASS CONTROL
Those farmers who plant soybeans on land that stayed flooded for several weeks may not have any trouble with rhizome johnsongrass this year. Research shows that four weeks of flooding in cool months like March and April are needed to kill rhizomes. In warmer weather, it will require two to four weeks of flooding to kill them. When water receded slowly and days are sunny, rapid decay of rhizomes will occur.

Although flooding may reduce rhizomes johnsongrass, there will be plenty of other seedling weed problems. Even if land was free from johnsongrass infestation before the flood, you can expect problems with seedling johnsongrass this year.

Actually you can expect seedling johnsongrass problems anywhere flooding took place, since water has scattered the seed. Make plans now to prevent this from becoming a serious problem this year.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL
If boll weevils are an annual problem in cotton, make a single application of insecticide for overwintering boll weevils. The application should be made just before the squares get large enough for larval development.

This recommendation is contrary to some philosophies of cotton pest management, but a single application at this critical time could save four to six applications later in the season. This one application should only be used where boll weevils are an annual problem. The recommendation is .25 pound of methyl parathion or .25 pound of guthion per acre.

Do not make any unnecessary applications of phosphate insecticides as these materials can delay cotton maturity and increase resistance in bollworms. The most common causes of unnecessary applications are spraying for plant bugs after the damage is done and the pests are gone; spraying to keep a bollworm-free crop; and spraying to clean up white flies.

FORESTS AND THE ENVIRONMENT

Mississippi's forests are a big factor in the state's economy. They supply forest products valued at more than $150 million annually and provide employment for more than 40,000 people.

Forests are important to our welfare in many other ways. They have value as wildlife habitat, for recreation, water and soil conservation and erosion control. Trees filter out dust from air, lower noise levels, produce oxygen and temper the climate.

Protect forest lands. They are a big asset to the entire state.

ASCS NEWS

By Ellett N. ALLEN

Certification: The ASCS Office is accepting certification for the 1973 crops. It is very important for you to report your planted acres. Do not attempt to make a report until all crops are planted such as cotton, corn, soybeans, peanuts, etc. The final date for certifying to cease will be July 1, 1973.

If you signed up in the feed grain (corn) program you may have some set-aside acreage. Be sure you have taken care of this. (1) The set-aside must be cropland of equal productivity of any land on the farm. (2) Do not harvest or graze the set-aside. (3) Most important is the size of the plot or fields you use for set-aside. We discussed this with you at the time you signed up, so if you have forgotten be sure to inquire from personnel at the ASCS Office.

The normal planting period for cotton in Tishomingo County is March 20 through May 31, 1973, however, you may plant later if you want to. Don't give up cotton too soon because I am told that some farmers in the county contracted their 1973 production for 40¢ per pound. Cotton could be 50¢ per pound this fall. If you are equipped to grow and gather cotton I'd keep trying.

If, because of adverse weather conditions due to excessive rain or flooding, you are prevented from getting a stand of cotton by May 31, 1973, farmers may file an ASCS-574 for COC approval. These forms must be filed in person at the ASCS Office beginning June 1 through June 15, 1973. If the COC approves your request credit will be given for acreage and price support payments. BE SURE YOU REMEMBER THESE DATES TO FILE AN ASCS-574 JUNE 1 - JUNE 15, 1973.

Measuring Service: If you are not sure about your acreage in cotton, feed grain, or set-aside, you may request measuring service before you certify. Howard Bridges, County Performance Supervisor, will come to your farm and measure this acreage, also, he will determine if your set-aside is eligible. A small fee will be charged for his service. The fee is $6.50 per farm or for the first 5 acres plus 35¢ for each additional acre or fraction of an acre. By having this service you can rest assured that everything will be all right if your farm should be spot checked. Remember 20% of Tishomingo County farmers will be spot-checked. This random sample will be selected by computer in Kansas City. Be sure you are sure.

Cotton and Corn Farmers who did not sign up to participate in these programs will receive cards to report any crop they may have planted.

Be sure to mail this card back to the ASCS Office. This is very important because this will be the only way you can hold your bases on these crops.

reduce cooling cost of Central Air Conditioning

Central electric air conditioning keeps your home uniformly cool, and its operating cost is not expensive. However, you can reduce the cost of central cooling by following a few tips.

Full insulation can reduce cooling costs by 30 percent or more, compared to the cost of cooling a home without insulation.

Be sure the system is the proper size. Your dealer or our specialists can help you with sizing.

Have preventive maintenance performed once a year. Change or clean filters regularly.

Always set the thermostat at the highest comfortable setting and leave it. If away for more than a day, set the thermostat up several degrees. Set back to normal on returning.

Close drapes on the sunny side of the house and operate your range only when necessary. Use lighting sparingly.

Following these tips should help you get maximum value from your central air conditioning system.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Brown of Leland, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brown of Iuka.

The Rev. James Richardson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Richardson presented a prelude of nuptial music as the guests assembled and accompanied the vocalist, Libby Stone, who sang "One Hand, One Heart." The Rev. Richardson sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

Vows were exchanged before an altar enhanced with an arrangement of white Fuji mums, stock, Killins daisies, poms and baby's breath. Brass candlesticks entwined with greenery holding lighted tapers formed a background. The couple knelt on a white satin covered prayer bench during "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a full length white satin gown with plain Tudor neckline and short sleeves. Re-embroidered Alencon lace was spaced over the entire dress which was cut in the Empire style. The chapel train flowed from the highwaist line in the back.
