EIGHTY-NINTH YEAR

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE PAID AT IUKA, MISSISSIPPI 38858

IUKA, TISHOMINGO COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI

THURSDAY, JUNE 14th, 1973

No. 50

$3.5 Million Bill For Waterway Start

According to an administrative assistant in Congressman Jamie L. Whitten's office, work on the Tombigbee Waterway through Tishomingo County could possibly begin during the fiscal year beginning next month.

Congressman Whitten obtained approval last week of appropriations amounting to $3.5 million from the House subcommittee on public works for the work in Tishomingo County.

Whitten, Congressman from Mississippi, a ranking member of both the Public Works Subcommittee and the Appropriations Committee, said that he would continue to push for approval of the funds as the bill moves through the full committee and also on the house floor.

The Corps of Engineers has said that it could construct the entire waterway in 10 years or less if sufficient funds were made available to keep the project moving ahead at maximum feasible speed.

The first contract for construction on the southern end of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway was let earlier this year and work is now underway in Alabama.

The approval of the $3.5 million is very encouraging for the people of Northeast Mississippi and Congressman Whitten feels that the appropriation will gain approval in the Committee and in the House.

RASH OF ACCIDENTS KEEP OFFICIALS BUSY

Local officials have reported a series of accidents occurring over the last ten days.

Two persons were injured Wednesday afternoon, June 13, in an accident on Highway 25 South, 1 1/2 miles south of Iuka.

A 1960 Ford, driven by N. W. McCoy of Iuka, was struck by a pick-up, driven by Dr. James R. Meade of Midway. Dr. Meade and Mr. McCoy were taken to Tishomingo County Hospital for treatment. Three small children, who were passengers in the Ford, were not injured. The accident was investigated by Jessie Coke.

Thursday morning, June 7, a 1970 Ford truck, loaded with frozen chicken, turned over on Highway 72, one mile east of Iuka. The tractor-trailer rig belonged to Jenkins Produce of Horton, Ala.

The driver, Vernon Stone, 46, of Phoenix, Arizona, was treated for cuts and bruises at Tishomingo County Hospital and released. His son, Larry Stone, of Birmingham, Ala., was the extra driver of the rig. He was in the sleeper and was not injured.

Mississippi Highway Patrolman, Ira Pace, investigated the accident. According to Mr. Pace, the truck ran into heavy fog, got off on the shoulder and overturned in an effort to straighten back up on the road. The accident occurred at 5:20 a.m. No other vehicle was involved.

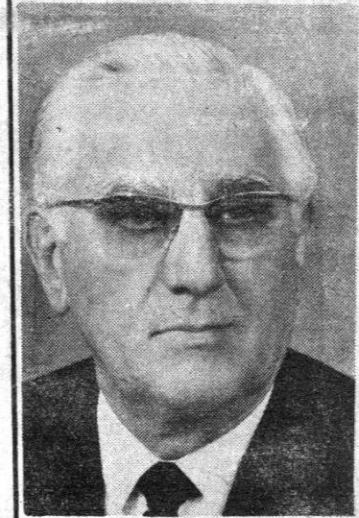

The refrigerator rig blocked 2/3 of the highway until 5:30 p.m. when the frozen choice pieces of chicken were transferred to a second refrigerator truck.

Patrolman Pace investigated a series of accidents that occurred Saturday morning one mile west of Burnsville. According to Mr. Pace a 1966 Lincoln, driven by Shirley Walker of Corinth, was having engine trouble; she had stopped on the highway with the car in neutral. A second car, a 1972 Chevrolet, driven by Wayland A. Tinning of Memphis, pulled up behind the Lincoln and stopped. A third vehicle, a 1973 Dodge camper, driven by Janice Kneuer of Opa Locka, Fla., approached and struck the Chevrolet, knocking it into the Lincoln.

Traffic backed up for some distance. Bart C. Marlar, 78, of Burnsville, was in the line of traffic. According to Patrolman Pace, Mr. Marlar attempted to back up, backing into a 1971 Chevrolet pick-up that had stopped behind him. The pick-up was driven by Clifton Williams of Memphis. According to Patrolman Pace, considerable property damage was involved.

Other accidents occurred during the week, but the reports were not available at press-time.

Witchcraft and Murder

Some who have been tolerant toward witchcraft, demon worship, and other occult manifestations are having second thoughts since the "human sacrifice" slaying of 17-year-old Ross "Mike" Cochran, a Fresno, Calif., boy who was living and working in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Cochran, described as "a very nice young man" by his employer, Gus Gramatikos, was lured into a rooming house and attacked by the "Devil's Children," who tied him up, kicked him, and hit him with chains, fists, clubs, and broken bottles, according to investigating officers. He was then taken to a basement "altar room," where he was tortured for hours on a black altar devoted to the worship of Satan, before being hauled in the trunk of a car to a remote spot where his body was thrown into a thicket of scrub pine and palmetto.

Satanic "Priest" Arrested
Police have arrested David Otis Hester, of Greenville, S. C., and nine others, all charged with first degree murder. Hester, according to Daytona Beach Police Chief Robert H. Palmer, was "the priest, practicing and leading others in witchcraft and Satanism." The young men and women arrested range in age from 17 to 22.

Law enforcement officers connected the slaying with the rash of grave desecrations in the area which began in November, 1970. In one instance the coffin was dug up, the corpse beheaded and the remains buried again with a cowhorn in place of the skull. Other graves have also been disturbed.

Until a relatively few years ago, it was fashionable to reject witchcraft and demon worship as fantasy, lacking in reality. But this attitude is fast being replaced by a realization that there is a supernatural power available to those who are willing to meet the conditions imposed on those who would possess it.

Confusion about the nature of witchcraft is fostered by some who claim to be "white witches," able to cast only good spells, as opposed to "black witches" who can and do cast evil spells.

What is the truth? Are there good witches and bad witches?

All Witchcraft Evil
Some, no doubt, are worse than others. But the Bible has always stated that there is reality in witchcraft and that it is to be shunned by all. "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live," was the ancient command.

In these days, when not even a convicted murderer may be executed, it is obvious that we are going to let the witches live. Not only that — apparently we are also going to let them continue to thrive and prosper and practice their weird and wicked arts among us.

But just how tolerant should we be?

God Tells It Like It Is

"What's in a name?" Shakespeare asked. "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

School children respond to teasing with the jingle, "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but names will never hurt me."

Names, it seems, are not very important. It's not the label, but the contents that count.

One name claims to be different. "You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain, for the Lord will not leave him unpunished who takes His name in vain."

You Name It
Wouldn't God by any other name still be God? God is God, of course, whatever you call Him. That does not mean, however, that everything anyone calls God is necessarily an expression of the true God.

Some people recognize that there is, indeed, a God, although they do not know Him. Their ignorant reverence God honors by supplying them with guidance which will lead them to Him.

Others wilfully follow a supposed god whose teachings contradict the God Who has shown Himself through the Bible. Any such so-called god is misnamed, and the name "God" is being misused. The most definitive statement Jesus ever made is probably, "No one comes to the Father except through Me." The God of the Bible, both the Old and New Testaments, excludes all competitors.

You shall not treat the name of Jehovah God or the name of Jesus, His Son, as of no importance. A god by Sunday School Lesson any other name is not the one God Who really exists.

You've Got It

God must be taken seriously. Do not mistake this. I am not speaking to defend God, but to protect you. Disregard for God will result in destructive consequences. To take the name of God in vain means to speak of God falsely, insincerely, or meanly.

What right does the God of the Bible have to demand such exclusive reverence? The fact that He is the only God. The history of Israel and the life of Jesus prove it.

God is one God. And how you speak of Him does make a difference. However God deals with individuals who belittle His name, there is a universal penalty which a scoffer levies on himself. His over-familiarity with God's name in casual usage breeds contempt for the God he ignorantly abuses. Thoughtlessly, he slanders and downgrades to himself the one source of hope for him in this world.

God is not vindictive to react with hostility as men do when their names are misused. He defends His name for our benefit. Because He knows that the way a man uses a name reflects his attitude toward the person or object itself. A rose by any other name might smell as sweet, but who would give it a sniff if it were called a skunk?

God does not want you to avoid Him simply because careless people have given Him a bad name.

Crazy, man! Crazy!

Immediately after Jesus had stilled the storm on Galilee, He came into a place called Gadara. Luke tells us: "There met Him... a certain man which had devils a long time, and wore no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs."

Jesus drove the evil spirits from this poor, demented man and they entered into a nearby herd of swine. "The herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake and were drowned." When the townspeople learned what had happened to their hogs, they demanded that Jesus depart from their country. The man out of whom the devils had been cast, now fully clothed and in his right mind, requested only that he might be with Jesus.

Who really was crazy? The so-called sane people who drove Jesus out of their town? Or, the so-called crazy man who desired nothing more than to be with Him? Who is the real nut today? The man who will have nothing to do with Jesus? Or, the man who repents of his sin and receives Christ as his Savior?

FAIRGROUNDS

Some 8 or 10 months ago, I wrote a small article, which was published in "The Tishomingo County News," concerning the deplorable state of the Fairgrounds parking facilities, and the roadway passing the County Home. This morning I had occasion to drive over this road, and to my deep satisfaction, found it to be paved to the City Limits. Also, the material is on hand, waiting for distribution, to greatly improve the Fairgrounds parking lots.

I understand that the remaining 300 to 400 yards of paving on this road, within the City Limits, is scheduled to be done in the near future.

Brown Patch Common To Southeast States

MISSISSIPPI STATE, MISS. — Brown patch is one of the most common lawn diseases in the warm, humid section of the Southeast, especially during May and June.

There are several factors that make grass in our climate more susceptible to brown patch. According to Dr. Donald Blasingame, plant pathologist for the Cooperative Extension Service, one reason is that excessive application of nitrogen fertilizer causes a lush growth of grass that is readily attacked.

"Watering late in the afternoon and allowing the grass to remain wet for long periods, the disease to develop." "The build up of thatch creates favorable conditions for the development of many disease-causing fungi and at the same time a poor environment for the plant pathologist.

The plant pathologist explained that the responsible for brown attacks almost all grasses, but is most severe on bentgrass, bluegrass, Augustine and centipede.

"Brown patch is characterized by irregular, circular areas several feet in diameter which have a brownish discoloration," Dr. Blasingame said. "In certain grasses, narrow, dark, smoke-colored borders the disease. These water-soaked spots in the lawn spread rapidly, becoming large areas."

Generally, the disease only the leaves and stems. However, according to the pathologist, if not controlled, it can attack the roots and kill areas of the lawn. He noted that brown patch is quite common on St. Augustine in the Southeast, especially at temperatures to 75 degrees.

"At temperatures of 75 degrees and above and under moisture conditions, the activity decreases," he added.

Dr. Blasingame said brown patch occurs a fungus should be applied. He suggested using PCNB. Dvrene. Da 2787 or Ortho Lawn and Fungicide.

big, white cat of being their father.

"Another part of my story takes place in Iuka. A little four-year-old girl named Kathy carried her cat out to play and it didn't come back. This made her very unhappy. Then a mutual friend, Pat Brown, came into the picture to bring together a little girl who wanted a pet and a little kitten that wanted a home.

"Pat asked her if she wanted a boy or a girl kitten. She said, 'I want a little girl, I don't like boys.' No doubt this opinion will change in a few years.

"Pat brought her out one afternoon to get the kitten. While my son went to the barn loft to get it, Kathy had a chance to see the baby calves. Barry brought the kitten to her

A KITTEN FOR KATHY

We first saw her as she sat about the sheds and barn trying to stay out of sight and of the dog's reach. She was a young, yellow cat, very fat and very hungry.

No doubt she had been adopted by someone who didn't want her.

We started leaving some food where she could find it and soon she was showing up at milking time and begging to be fed in that silent way cats have of letting you know what they want.

We were proud to have a cat. Our last one left when we could no longer whip the cat. Kitty, as we called her, was paying her way by catching mice. A big, white cat we called on her and by and by we discovered that she was eating. She didn't show up to be fed for a few days and we were sure that her family had died.

When she did come out, we were sure where she had the kittens by watching when she went to them. Before long the little kittens came out, one yellow, one rassel, and one yellow fur mingled with white was enough to convict the preciation for the value of animals.

It is too bad that all contests can't have several "first and second" prizes.

and I could tell by her happy smile that it would have a good home.

"As she walked to the car, the afternoon sun shone from her long, blond pony tail. How she reminded me of my own little girls. They are grown now and one is married, but it seems only yesterday that they were Kathy's size. One day they were playing in the barn loft and found some kittens in an old hen's nest. They came running to the house very excited and said, 'Daddy, Mother, we found five little kittens in the barn loft and we know that there is going to be a lot more for there is a lot more eggs.'

"A little girl gets a kitten, happens every day. Yet there is something about it as rare and wonderful as childhood."

The foregoing story was written by Orville McNutt, Rt. 1, Tishomingo, Miss. Glover-Gentry Vows Spoken in Baldwin

The marriage of Miss Sylvia Glover, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glover of Iuka, Mississippi, to Mickey Gentry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gentry of Baldwin, Mississippi, was solemnized on Sunday afternoon, May 26, in the First Baptist Church of Baldwin. Rev. Charles Gentry, pastor of Morrison Heights Baptist Church in Clinton, and the bride's father, performed the wedding ceremony.

The bride's gown was of polyester knit dress with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. Gentry chose for her son's wedding a dress of yellow polyester knit, featuring a raised waistline. Both wore an orchid corsage.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The registry table was at the entrance of the hall and was presided over by Mrs. Joyce Brown. Mrs. Buck Moore, aunt of the bride, welcomed the guests and presented them to the receiving line. Tall baskets of gladioli and urns filled with jade and palm formed an attractive background for the bride's table, which was covered with a candlelight lace cloth.

The floral centerpiece was daisies, gypsophila and fern arranged in a silver bowl. On one end of the table was the three tiered wedding cake, decorated with sugar spun yellow roses and topped by a bride and groom. The punch bowl was on the other end of the table and was based with daisies and greenery. Mrs. John Flora and Mrs. Beryl Williams, aunts of the bride, served the cake. Serving punch was Miss Beverly Stubblefield.

The groom's table, overlaid with a linen cutwork cloth, held a tiered chocolate cake, decorated in yellow, and the coffee service. Presiding here were Miss Donna Reid and Mrs. Kenneth Gentry. Others assisting were Mrs. J. P. Gentry, Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Catherine Wells.

For traveling, the bride wore a polyester seersucker suit in yellow and white plaid. A corsage of yellow sweetheart roses graced her shoulder.

Lamar Gentry served as best man for his son. Groomsmen were Stanley Gentry, brother of the groom; Larry Gentry, a cousin; and Bruce Tolbert of Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Noel Gray, paternal aunt of the bride, wore a navy polyester knit dress with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. Gentry chose for her son's wedding a dress of yellow polyester knit, featuring a raised waistline. Both wore an orchid corsage.

4-H Workshop Held In North Carolina

"You can be either a part of the problem or the solution," a veteran youth leader told a group of some 250 4-H youths attending an environmental workshop and conference held at Fontana Village, N.C.

Jack M. Tyree, state 4-H youth director from Virginia Tech at Blacksburg, challenged the youths to make "a balanced ecology" an individual project during comments opening the 18th Annual Regional Resource Development Conference at Fontana Village.

The seven-state delegation, which also includes more than 50 adult leaders, are studying the resources of the Tennessee River Valley region, which includes Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Workshops are being conducted at Fontana, setting for the conference since 1955, by specialists from the seven states' land-grant universities. The youths attending were selected on the basis of leadership and outstanding 4-H activities. Most are age 14-19. "Resources -- Everyday Miracles" is the theme of this year's conference, setting the stage for studying the region's natural resources -- soil, minerals, human, atmosphere, forests and wildlife. The role of the human resource in the conservation of other resources is the main focus of the conference.

There is also being leisure time for the youthful delegation to enjoy the recreational facilities of the Smokey Mountain resort.

The resource conference is being sponsored by the Association of Test-Demonstration Farm Families, the Extension Services of the land-grant universities in the seven Valley states, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Miss Nellie Horton's HOME ECONOMIST'S NOTES

SPRAY PAINTING

Spray painting once was limited to those who did so much painting that investment in the equipment became worthwhile. But in recent years spray paints have become available in aerosol packed containers.

You can buy all kinds and colors of paints, even clear varnishes, shellac and lacquer.

The cost per ounce is far higher than paint you buy in ordinary containers. For a small job and one that you want to do quickly and smoothly, however, the difference in cost may be worth it to you.

While easy to apply, aerosol paints are not foolproof. Satisfactory results depend on following approved techniques:

Shake the spray can thoroughly every time you use it. The rattling you hear is a metal ball inside the can to aid the agitation. If you do not hear it, tap the bottom of the can against a hard surface to dislodge it.

Surface preparation is the same old story, no matter how you paint. The surface must be clean and dry. It must be free of dirt, grease, wax, oil or any foreign substance. Improper drying, peeling and chipping are some of the hazards you will run into if you fail to prepare the surface.

Read the manufacturer's instructions for spraying. Generally, the recommended distance is 10 to 12 inches from the surface. Move the can in a straight line so that it remains the same distance from the surface at all times. Avoid spraying over the previous stroke.

It is best to spray the edge and continue past the other edge and then release the button. Spraying over wet paint will cause it to build up and drip. Two thin coats are better than a heavy coat. Be sure and allow the first one to dry before applying the second. Avoid stopping and reversing a stroke on the work, for you will likely get a heavy build-up of paint where you stop.

If a thin paint film sags or runs, the can is either too cold, or you are holding it too close to the item. If the paint film is rough textured, the can is too warm or you are holding it too far away from the work. You should always press the head down completely to insure a uniform spray.

If the spray head doesn't spray, or sprays and then sputters and clogs, first try turning it to the right and left a few times. That often clears it. If not, remove the spray head by simply pulling it up off the can and clean it out with fine wire or soak it in lacquer thinner. Push the cleaned head back onto the can and give it a half turn to seal it.

If it is still clogged, you can buy a replacement spray head at a paint store.

No House Cleaning For Cider

Cider, a beautiful blue gray cat with white markings belongs to Denise Ham and lives with the Grady Hams in Iuka. Mrs. Ham teaches art on Thursday afternoon and Thursday night, much to the dismay of Cider, who feels that the children who come to art class are invading her own privacy. She noses in their paints, sits in their chairs, lies in the middle of the doorway, or just wanders about making growling sounds if the children look at her.

Cider cannot go outside because her front claws have been removed. This was done when she discovered that she could climb the living room walls which had been covered with fabric. She has never given in to the fact that she can no longer climb. Periodically she bounds through the house, makes a flying leap at the wall and plummets to the floor.

Mrs. Ham teaches ceramics on Tuesday night and Cider is just as ill with these adults as she is with the art students. Lila says she doubts if she makes any profit from ceramics, since Cider plunders constantly among the greenware items sitting on shelves. Her last running spree across the shelves broke three large fruit baskets.

Cider has really gotten back at the Hams for having her claws removed. She no longer performs the normal house-cleaning chores of scratching sand when she visits the litter pan. She merely visits the pan and then runs fast.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

By

Extension Service

Despite the floods, we're about through planting 1.25 million acres of cotton and are well into planting almost 3 million acres of soybeans. Grass and weeds are up everywhere crops are. June profit boosters for farmers include timely weed control in all crops and pastures, fertilizer to the optimum rate and close supervision of every details of a complete production program. You can help determine what happens!

FERTILIZERS

Sidedress Crops . . . Many crops were and are being planted without adequate fertilizer in the effort to get planted as fast as possible. Where mixed fertilizer was not applied to row crops, recommend that farmers apply their full rate as a sidedressing as soon after planting as practical. It is best to apply it in the soil or work it into the soil during early season cultivation. Nitrogen should be applied before early square as a sidedress to cotton, to corn by the time it is a foot tall and to sorghum before it is 10 inches tall. Higher rates of nitrogen and potash are needed for corn or sorghum grown for silage.

Urea . . . the nitrogen supply is short. Because of this many farmers are asking, "Is urea a suitable nitrogen source, particularly for sidedressing row crops?" Urea must convert to the nitrate form before plants can use it to any extent. With high temperatures at this time of the year this conversion occurs rapidly. When applied in the soil or to the soil surface, urea is satisfactory as a nitrogen source on all row crops. As a sidedressing it should be applied a few days earlier than nitrate forms of nitrogen. Urea is also satisfactory for top-dressing summer pastures.

PASTURES

Liming . . . summer, the slack season for lime vendors, is a good time to get lime spread on pastures. Pastures for winter grazing should be limed before fallowing begins. If the area is to be flat broken and then disked during the summer, the recommended amount of lime should be applied between flat breaking and diskings.

Farmers are losing the battle to acid soils. One way to turn the tide is to get more lime applied to pastures in the summer so all spreaders can be used to lime cropland in the fall and winter.

SORGHUM

Grain Sorghum . . . farmers in flooded areas should consider grain sorghum as a crop that they can plant as late as July 15. Planting after about June 5 will reduce yields, but they can expect 3,000 pounds or more from later plantings. Most of our grain sorghums will bloom in about 60 to 65 days, if dry weather does not retard growth. This means that sorghum planted on July 1 will be blooming around September 1.

Moisture is generally short at this time of year and could reduce yields below the expected 3,000 pounds. Insects, particularly midge, will also be more of a problem on late planted sorghum. It will take a better than average job of management to get reasonable yields. Fertilizer should be applied according to expected yields.

Sorghum Silage . . . sorghum for silage can still be planted into early July. Like grain sorghum, yields will be somewhat lower than if planted earlier. But feed requirements must be met, and sorghum silage may have a place in a feeding program. Higher yields of a somewhat lower quality silage can be expected from sorghum when planting in late May, June or July.

SOME THOUGHTS ON TREES

Trees provide many benefits for many people.

Trees give us beauty. They feed and shelter our wildlife. They provide fresh air. They supply clean water. They offer places for recreation. They provide wood for paper, lumber, plywood and five-thousand other forest products.

And because trees are a renewable resource, we can use them today and still have enough trees for the future.

Man can be a good steward of his forests. That's why we have so many trees today. And we're growing new trees even faster than we're harvesting mature ones—for now.

By practicing wise-use and conservation of our forests, we can all help provide trees for tomorrow.

Do you have mature trees ready for harvest?

Give us a call.
