Corinth Businessman Killed Freak Tractor Accident

Frank Hinton

Frank Hinton, 67, owner of WVCU AM-FM, was apparently killed instantly when his tractor hit a mound of dirt throwing him underneath the machinery.

Mr. Hinton told an employee at 9:30 a.m. Monday that he was going to bush-hog the field at the rear of the radio station. His wife, Mrs. Sara Hinton, said he did not come home for lunch but she did not become alarmed until later in the evening.

Neighbors began to search for him near a hanger that housed his private airplane near the Hinton home on Sara Lane on Monday night. His body was found by Mr. and Mrs. Noel Strickland, who live next door to the Hintons, about 9:45 p.m.

Services were held on Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. at Mc-Peters Chapel with Rev. R. Christy Morgan officiating. Burial was in Henry Cemetery.

Mr. Hinton was a member of First Presbyterian Church where he had served on the Board of Deacons and Church School Superintendent. He had been associated with the Shell Oil Company since 1945.

STAND-BY WELL BID ACCEPTED

During the regular Board meeting at Iuka City Hall on Tuesday night, August 7th, bids were read for a new well for the City of Iuka.

Lane Central of Memphis was the only firm submitting a bid and it was accepted. The bid was for $37,420.

This project was advertised several weeks ago and the bids received were rejected. The project was re-advertised for further bids.

The 8" well with a water capacity of 500-750 gallons per minute is a stand-by well for the city, and will be used alternately with the present well. The board feels that the additional well is "insurance" for the 4,000 persons supplied water by the city. Mayor John H. Biggs stated the well is a "must."

The well should be completed by the middle of December.

Love Comes In Four Forms

"Love can be expressed by four different words, in Greek. That in itself means little, since in English we are not lacking for approximate synonyms for love: fondness, affection, sex appeal, warmth, liking. The ancient Greek language, however, was organized much more philosophically, logically, and categorically than our English: consequently, its four terms reflect not so much nuances or linguistic whims as rational distinctions.

"Storge" (STOR-GHEE) represents the most pervasive form of love, the kinship affection felt most commonly among families and relatives. The basis of this affection is familiarity and one may feel it toward objects, animals, and people alike. A man may keep an old pair of shoes so outworn he would blush to offer them to a tramp, or a child may run wailing from a strange but friendly visitor to the protection of a cantankerous but familiar member of the family.

Much more consciously familiar to us is "eros," the love closely associated with sex. I say "closely" because it is possible — tragically common, in fact — to have sex without even erotic love. Sex can be used to assert power or scorn or other feelings, as well as to affirm love. When we "fall in love," however, that is the appeal of eros, and the desire of eros is a sexual relationship. In its early stages eros can easily be distinguished from sex appeal, though, by its total absorption in the whole person who is the recipient of this love, and not merely in his or her body. Eros begins with infatuation and matures into sexual expression. Cold lust is thoroughly biological. Sex without love is woeful and debasing, but it should not be concluded that the mere presence of erotic love therefore justifies sex. Eros alone is insufficient.

Highly prized among the ancients but little spoken of today is a love called "philia," that is, friendship. Unlike sex or affection, no biological or psychological need compels friendship. With eros, "two's company and three's a crowd," but not so with friendship. Two who have found interests in common will gladly share them with a third. Friendship is a luxury all can afford but few can find any longer, since our society has structured itself increasingly away from the companionships which develop into philia. Friends must share time together and that requirement, after our school-days are over, is too demanding for most of us.

The fourth love is "agape." Agape-love is totally unnatural, for it gives without expectation of any return on its investment. God is agape-love. "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that He loved us." Need is not the source of agape; it is wholly gift. And God alone must give it to us before we can give it to others.

Here, then, is love! May we each find it in all its forms.

State Dove Hunting Zoned This Season

As a result of statewide surveys conducted by the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission during last year's dove season and also at recent public hearings, the Commission has zoned the state for dove hunting this fall.

Dividing the two zones this year will be State Highway 12 west of Kosciusko and State Highway 14 from Kosciusko eastward to the Alabama line.

The season will be split into three periods. Shooting in the northern zone will run from Sept. 8 to Sept. 30. Southern zone hunters get into action on Sept. 22 with their season running through Oct. 14.

Both zones will have 23 days during the first split.

The final two seasons will run concurrently statewide. The second period runs from Nov. 3 to Nov. 25 followed by the final season from Dec. 22 to Jan. 14.

Bag limit on doves is 12 per day with possession of 24. Shooting hours are from noon to sunset.

Mississippi is allowed 70 half-days of dove hunting under a framework set up by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The statewide surveys conducted by the Game and Fish Commission showed that most state hunters prefer a later opening of dove season than the Sept. 2 opening in 1972.

Because of the geography of Mississippi, the best dove hunting in the northern part of the state occurs well before the best shooting starts in the southern portion. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, taking this fact into consideration, allowed the Commission to zone the state without a penalty.

L. D. Phifer, local game warden, states that he wants to thank all the sportsmen for purchasing licenses and handling their guns in a safe manner. Let's keep Mississippi safe...

Special Milk Program To End

Dr. T. E. Stanford, Superintendent of the Iuka Separate Municipal School District has been advised by the Department of Education in Jackson, Mississippi that the Special Milk Program is being discontinued as of June 30, 1973.

For many years school children have been able to purchase milk at recess and to purchase extra milk with their lunch, all at a reduced price. The school was reimbursed the difference between what the milk cost and the amount paid by the student. This reimbursement was paid by the State with federal funds provided through the Special Milk Program.

A letter from the State Department of Education was recently mailed to all schools giving notice that the Special Milk Reimbursement Program is being discontinued. This means that a student will receive one half-pint carton of milk with their lunch and all other milk will cost more than has been charged in the past.

Transmitters Used In Tracking Fish

TVA biologists studying the reactions of fish to warm weather discharges from power plants are tracking the movements of seven fish in Pickwick Lake near Colbert Steam Plant in northwestern Alabama.

A small ultrasonic transmitter, surgically implanted in each fish, allows biologists to locate each individual fish, follow it, and measure the temperature of the surrounding water.

Continuous signals from the battery-powered transmitters are picked up by the biologists on an underwater hydrophone. The ultrasonic signals can be received at distances up to 1,000 yards, depending on the depth of the water and how clear it is.

The temperature measurements are relayed from thermistors, devices that cause changes in electrical resistance with changes in temperature.

The study began last summer and will end this fall. Preliminary data indicate that the species of fish used in this study are apparently indifferent to the changes in water temperature near Colbert Steam Plant.

These and other fish involved in the Pickwick Lake study have been tagged with spaghetti-like markers of colored plastic extending from the abdomen. Biologists ask that anyone catching one of these fish return the tags (not the fish) to TVA. A telephone number is listed on the tag, and tags may be mailed to TVA Division of Forestry, Fisheries, and Wildlife Development, FSU Keller Hall, Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

WHY?

Why do we wait till a person's gone

Before we tell his worth?

Why do we wait, why not tell him now

He's the finest man on earth?

Why do we wait till a person's gone

To send him flowers galore,

When a single rose would have meant so much

If we'd taken it to him
Why do we wait till he's gone
The good things that we say?
Why put it off, why wait
him now
And share in his joy
Of course we're busy, that's our excuse,
But why, oh why, do we
To tell a person our love him
Until it becomes too late?

Home-making may be lost art but there's much to be said for the ancient tom.

The fear of competition
explains much that happens in business, politics and life in general.

Laws and commandments
in some people's opinions were made to guide
other fellow.

Miss Nellie Horton's HOME ECONOMISTS' NOTES

CARPET SOIL RESISTANCE

After a while, your carpet or rug will become soiled. This may be tracked in, or atmospheric dirt. We should note the degree of noticeable soiling in a carpet can relate to the light condition and carpet color. It is often asked, for example, whether a light color will more readily show soiling than will a darker shade. In a room dependent upon artificial light, and generally more dimly lit, a darker shade carpet will show less soiling than will a light shade. We normally think of soil in terms of foreign matter that is spilled or tracked into a carpet, or deposited from the atmosphere. This is in contrast to staining, which is caused by foreign matter penetrating the fiber or reacting chemically with it. Fortunately, today there are many fibers with excellent spot or stain resistance as well as soilage resistance.

We should think before we select carpeting for an area where more than average soilage and staining potentials exist. It would be a poor choice to select a deep maroon carpet for a living area adjacent to an outside area of white sand; also, it would be less practical to choose a white carpet for children's rooms and kitchens. Yet it would be just as unrealistic never to look beyond mousy beiges or gray or bright colors. There are many lovely shades from which one may select.

Studies reveal that some colors show dirt more than others, but take note, these are other factors to consider:

Multicolor tweeds and patterns take top position in soil and stain resistance because the light is not reflected evenly, and it takes longer for the carpet to look soiled or the unwiped stain to become noticeable.

Aesthetics can play the dominant role in selection of carpeting. Even where an unusual condition exists, today's wide range of colors and shades is so broad that you can find what you want if you have sifted through your needs.

FREEZER SELECTION

Are you investing in a food freezer for the first time? Many families are deciding that a freezer might be a wise purchase, and for several reasons.

The high cost of food is the leading reason but the increasing popularity of convenient frozen foods definitely contributes to increased usage. The number of home gardens and the amount of game and fish that sportsmen bring home are other factors.

Then you are faced with the decision: which to buy -- a chest or upright? There are features of both that you will need to consider. Each type has some drawbacks, so the answer will depend on what you decide is most important.

The no-frost models are time and temper savers. Many people decide that this is THE most important feature without considering that foods which are not properly wrapped dry out and get freezer burn. These freezers also use more electricity.

Two smaller units might be a better investment if you do not plan to keep a larger one filled most of the time. And if there is an accident or break-down in one unit, the loss would not be as severe financially.

Can your budget stand a big boost in electric rates?

That's why railroads are essential.

Over half of America's electricity comes from coal. And most coal comes by rail. Because rail shipping is especially cheap for heavy items travelling a fixed route.

To take advantage of this, Southern Railway innovated the coal shuttle train. A train is assigned to do nothing but shuttle coal from a coal mine to a power plant. And that saves money.

Which is why you need railroads. And why you need Southern.

MEET MR. GRAY? (Part Two)
Mr. Gray's story continues with events before the cat's entrance into the home of Attorney William L. Sharp of Iuka. His friends as Mr. and Mrs. Gray since both love him and the fact above all that the cat has lived so well.

Gray was born, was living in the home of W. W. Striplin, and kind homes for Mr. and Mrs. Gray, and having learned to appreciate Mrs. Striplin's cat if they'd like of her cat's kittens. At all surprised to look not one, but one gray. The cat died in about 1970. Mr. Gray at 1970, Mr. Gray at 1970, he looks no different four-year-old to human years, Gray's age of 20 is past 100. Importance to the Mr. Gray is fed with wholesome food. He eats a day and likes soft-boiled eggs and Gerber's baby food for lunch, he usually eats one of his favorite dishes. In the good food, he gets vitamins to make sure nothing his body needs has been left out of his diet. And fresh water -- in a nice, clean bowl -- is kept available at all times, and in his easy reach. (Too many people overlook giving their pets water.) Right here I'd like to explain that Mr. Gray doesn't eat soft-boiled eggs and baby food because it is necessary! No, siree. Despite his old age, Mr. Gray still has most of his teeth, thanks to the regular cleaning they get from his long-time veterinarian.

Yes, Mr. Gray gets regular checkups from Dr. Bill Henson, who, in addition to cleaning his teeth, also regularly cleans his ears. Once a year, in fact, whether Mr. Gray needs it or not, he even gets a bath! (If more pets got the regular checkups that Mr. Gray gets, well, there'd be a lot more 20-year-old cats around. But, unfortunately for most cats, they are not properly handled and as a result have very short lives.)

Dr. Henson also boards Mr. Gray when his folks have to be gone overnight. And here Mr. Gray is just like any ordinary cat. He hates to go to the clinic. As soon as the couple gets out their suitcase, Mr. Gray runs and hides. He knows full well what's coming next. It isn't that they don't treat him well at the clinic -- they do. Why, they even take him out for exercise. It's just that animals don't like to go to the hospital any more than normal human beings do. They get lonesome.

So, it was a real treat for Mr. Gray to hear the voices of three young friends of his when he was at Dr. Henson's clinic a few months ago. Yes, he definitely perked up when he recognized the voices of Mac, Ben, and Allen, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Worsham, III, there to see about one of their own pets.

There are many interesting things about Mr. Gray. Too many to try to tell in a column. But one of the cutest things he does is howl to let them know where he is going to be sleeping! People who are familiar with cats know that they like to find different places to rest. So, when Mr. Gray decides where he is going to take his nap, he sits there and howls until one of them comes to see where he's at.

Another time he howls is at noon, when Mr. Sharp goes home to lunch. Mr. Gray is fed first. When he finishes he goes and gets on Mr. Sharp's bed and waits for him to come to take his daily nap. There he sits and howls his head off until Bill Sharp finishes his own lunch and does go to bed. Then and then only does Mr. Gray shut up and go to sleep himself.

He also has good habits. He will not come back in the house when he gets muddy until his feet have been wiped off. He does not scratch the furniture. He is an ideal pet.

Although the couple had told me in advance that they didn't think Mr. Gray was very smart, very sociable, or very affectionate, I couldn't help noticing that he was smart enough to get everything in the world he wanted -- and I call that being pretty smart!

And last, but most important of all, I found out for myself that Mr. Gray does feel affection -- and he divides that affection equally between them. In the mornings, he sits with Mrs. Sharp; in the evenings, with Mr. Sharp.

It is a rare and wonderful pleasure for me to meet an animal as fortunate as Mr. Gray. And along with Bill and Irene Sharp, I hope he lives at least another 20 years.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORY OF
GLADYS JOHNSON
Who Passed Away July 17, 1973

Now dear sister, God needed you up there on high. Where the soul shall never die. You have climbed the stairs, you'll climb no more. Since you have knocked upon that midnight door.

Which never outward swings. A shadowed hand drew you into eternal day, where voiceless music rings.

Now your precious form is resting neath a lonely mound of clay.

A thousand marks are left to show that you have been this way.

A wealth of thought, that grew within your searching mind, shall live the longest day. The struggle here on earth is done.

As the door closed softly when you trod, Beyond heartache and pain. When you entered through the midnight door, where loss is counted gain.

You understood the promise of a deathless dawn. Which reflected in your smile. With faith lit eyes, you steared your course, toward realms of gold.

And walked the last long mile. Now dear sister when I knock upon that midnight door that never outward swings.

There'll be no more good byes, and sad farewells.

Where parting comes no more, as we enter through that midnight door, that opens to eternal day.

Though precious memories linger, As I climb each step of the way.

No more we'll roam together on this earthy shore.

For dear sister you have entered through that midnight door.

WOULD YOU BE READY?
By Lindsey Earl Jones

Today we are living in evil times when the devil is loose like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour, and death is abroad in the land.

If it should come your way today would you be ready? Or have you spent your life for the devil and failed to prepare to meet God?

Well, the time is drawing near when Jesus will return, and then it will be too late to pray. For he is coming as a thief in the night and at a time you won't be looking for him. So why not repent and turn from all your sins and get ready to meet him in peace when he comes.

How sad it will be to hear him say, "Depart, I never knew you."

But what a joyous time it will be to hear him say, "Well done my good and faithful servant enter into the joys of the Lord. So why not get ready today?"

wedding cake accented with pink roses and topped with a bride and groom. The pink punch was served in a silver punch bowl flanked by silver candelabras.

At the groom's table, a light brown lace cloth was used. The groom's cake, a spice cake with caramel icing was decorated with a train to represent the groom's work. His table also held the silver coffee service. Floral arrangements of daisies were used on both tables.

Assisting were Mrs. Davy Rice, Miss Josephine Cooper, Mrs. Marilyn Holt and Mrs. Pat McGreger. Rice girl was the bride's sister, Jackie Cooper.

For traveling the bride chose a pink pant suit with white accessories. After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple are at home in the Whitney Manor, Apartment 7, Memphis, Tenn. The groom is employed by the Southern Railroad Company, and the bride will teach in the Frayser Baptist Schools.

IN MEMORY OF
LOONEY PARSONS
Who Died August 7, 1965

JESUS
Now John the Baptist was a great man,
He preached the gospel throughout the land,
But he said there is one much greater than I,
Who's shoes I'm not worthy to untie.
So come little children and gather around,
And let me tell you about this man of great renown,
He traveled far and wide, and from town to town,
His feats were mighty and his teachings were sound,
He healed the sick and the blind did see.
But Satan didn't like it so he hung him on a dogwood tree.
Then Joseph came and he put him in the ground,
But he wouldn't stay,
Oh praise God, he came forth on the third day.
And I'm here to tell you in spirit my friend,
As surely as Jesus died on the cross, and he rose from the grave,
He defeated Satan and his evil ways.

COTTON

Do all you can to keep grass and weeds under control. Where cotton is small enough, shallow cultivation and directed sprays of herbicides will help. You may want to apply Lorox or Karmex with surfactant to burn down existing vegetation and provide residual control.

Cotton is most cases is past the growth stage for use of MSMA or DSMA. These chemicals should not be used after cotton begins to bloom.

August is the time for spot treatments on ends of fields and turnrows. Using herbicides in this manner will go a long way toward helping produce and harvest a clean crop.

If you plan to plow or disk turnrows, do the job soon so they will have time to settle and firm up before harvest season gets here.

LATE GRAIN SORGHUM

The best advice on whether or not to plant grain sorghum at this late date is, "Don't do it."

There are several disadvantages to planting this late and few, if any, advantages.

Yields are reduced--only 2,000 to 2,500 pounds per acre should be expected, although extra good September weather could result in higher yields.

Getting a stand may be a problem because of dry soil. Stands are likely to be unevenly aged, making insect control more of a problem. Midge control is more difficult on late planting grain sorghum than on early planted. Corn earworms and sorghum webworm are likely to be bigger problems on late planted sorghum.

SOYBEAN INSECT CONTROL

With lots more soybeans planted this year and less cotton, bollworms are likely to move into soybean fields. These worms can be a big problem as they feed on young immature pods.

Keep a close watch on soybeans and if the worms do show up in damaging numbers, apply a recommended insecticide. In soybeans, the cotton bollworm becomes the soybean podworm.

HOME GARDENING

Sometimes it is difficult to get a stand of vegetables planted in dry soil. Here is a trick that can help get the plants up and growing. Open the seed drill about twice as deep as you would for spring planting. Fill the drill with water and let it soak in. Plant the seed. Cover with dry soil and firm with the back of a hoe. Do not water again until the plants are up.

A Letter From Parson Jones

Attendance at church last Sunday was mighty poorly. I don't reckon I oughta grumble 'cause I had a bunch of sick members and when you add to all my shut-ins, we don't have a sight of pew fillers. So I went ahead and preached to what I had. Only thing was the echo in the near-empty church hurt my ears.

My madam said I needed to get out and ride awhile and let the fresh air clear my head. It done the trick. Our little ride not only cleared my head, it made me rejoice. I saw miracle after miracle.

Ole Hezekiah who had been deathly sick that very morning had roused up and was riding down the highway with his fishing poles. No, nothin' but a miracle could've rescued ole Hez from the jaws of death in such a short time.

Now there is Rufe's brother. Rufe told me Sunday morning that his brother's back was in foul shape, that they were afraid an operation was gonna be necessary. Well, we remembered him in our prayers and lo and behold, at two o'clock, there he stood at the driving range hitting golf balls! If that wasn't a quick recovery, I don't know what is!

All told, about 20 of my sick folks had roused up and were taking nourishment in one form or another. But what really made me happy was to see so many of my shut-ins out riding around and enjoying the world. Hezekiah's paw, who don't attend church 'cause he can't stand crowds, was headed for the drag races. Sister Nell's mama, who was too weak to get out of the house, was in town shopping. Ellie Nickelslinger's sister, who can't come on account of her kidneys, stood in line two hours to get into the show. It was a show about "The Miracle Worker." I thought it was right appropriate, seeing as how a miracle had happened to her.

Yes sir, it thrilled my heart to see what I saw. I ought to have a packed house next Sunday with all my sick folks being healed and shut-ins set free. I just hope they don't overdo themselves before next Sunday and have a relapse. I gotta go now and play with my smallest youngun. He's gonna be a farmer and I'm gonna be a goat. Tin cans will be easy to eat after what I've swallered.
