South Central Bell Announces Expansion Of County Services

$166,000 To Be Invested In New Facilities For Iuka Area

Work on a major expansion of telephone service for the northern part of Tishomingo County served from South Central Bell's Iuka exchange is scheduled to start during September according to manager Bill Hardin. Hardin said the company will invest over $166,000 in facilities to provide more phones and fewer party lines. "We're going to work this job as quickly as the weather and our resources permit," Hardin added, "and plan to complete the project during the fourth quarter of this year."

"This project will provide new and improved service to an area located along and adjacent to Mississippi Highway 25 North," Chairman of the Mississippi Public Service Commission D. W. Snyder said, "and includes the Crossroads community and State Line resort area on the Tennessee River. This part of the Iuka exchange has grown rapidly during the past year due to construction of rail and port facilities for the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway development. The TVA also plans to start work on a nuclear power plant within the next three years. As this growth and development continue, more people will want telephone service and additional customers will want lines with fewer parties on them."

"Earlier this year, we started work on a $51,000 central office job in Iuka," Hardin said, "to provide the switching capacity needed to handle an increasing number of calls and to provide sufficient facilities to serve this cable job. We will place about 70,000 feet of cable to complete this latest expansion project and, when we're finished, we can serve 18 requests for either new service or regrades of present service. This additional cable will increase our capacity to serve this part of the exchange through the seventies based on our forecasts of continuing growth in this area of Tishomingo County."

Hardin also said this expenditure is part of the record-breaking 91 million dollars scheduled to be invested in Mississippi during 1973 by South Central Bell for new and improved services.

New Switching Equipment For Burnsville

More telephone switching equipment, requiring an investment of over $24,000, will be installed in the Burnsville exchange to take care of increased local calling, request for service and to provide future refinements in telephone service.

According to local manager W. G. Hardin, installers Western Electric will be putting in the complex equipment during September and the job is scheduled to be completed during the fourth quarter of 1973.

D. W. Snyder, Chairman of the Mississippi Public Service Commission, said: "The need for this additional equipment in the Burnsville exchange is indicative of the growth taking place throughout the area. Tishomingo County served by this office. The project includes facilities which will enable the telephone company to provide its Burnsville customers with the convenience of one-plus direct dialing later this year."

"This job will increase capacity of our Burnsville exchange sufficiently to meet growth forecast beyond 1975 and includes the trunking arrangements necessary to direct their station-to-station long distance calls. The introduction of this new service is tentatively set for December and we will provide our customers with more information nearer the conversion date," Hardin said.

Hardin also added that the expenditure is part of the record-breaking 91 million dollars scheduled to be invested in Mississippi by South Central Bell during 1973 for new and improved services.

JUNIOR KING AND QUEEN OF THE FAIR — Phil Byram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Byram, was chosen Junior King of the fair, and Cathy Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Carr, was chosen Junior Queen of the Fair on August 14th. Robin McAnally (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McAnally, was second alternate, and Pam McBee (right), daughter of Mrs. Sue McBee and Mr. Allen McBee, was first alternate.

The award honored Congressman Whitten for his outstanding voting record in 1972 on half of independent business. NFIB is the world's largest business organization, over 350,000 member across the United States.

Who Heals the Healthy?

If the incandescent Spirit of Jesus lights your life, if Jesus' example compels you to appreciate the purposefulness of each day's business, if Jesus motivates you — live like Jesus.

Jesus shared Himself with people and then taught them simply, "Freely you have received, so freely give." We who have freely received the life of Jesus are free to share Jesus with others, but only as He did. That is, by sharing ourselves.

If we cannot give freely, we cannot give at all. If others cannot receive freely, they cannot receive at all. Only within the limits of freedom can we give and receive. Those whose values pivot on "I," "earn," and "deserve," cannot receive, while those whose motivations are qualified by "if," "when," and "because" cannot give. Freedom restricts.

Jesus came to give His life. Yes, but only those could receive it who first admitted they had lost their own. Jesus tried to help people realize their loss so they could accept His life. He unabashedly pointed out faults in people, not to condemn but to cure. No physician ever treated a patient who refused to be examined.

"The healthy do not need a doctor," Jesus once explained. "The sick do. I have not come to speak to righteous people but to sinners."

In fact, that meant He came for everyone, for no one is righteous. The self-righteous, however, excluded themselves, being unwilling to admit they were sinners. Like many foolish people today who refuse to have themselves examined for serious diseases for fear they might discover they are sick, Jesus' self-righteous contemporaries told each other they were healthy and let it go at that.

Actually, they knew worse, but they would rather die than submit to treatment. Once when many of the self-righteous religious leaders gathered together to condemn Jesus for His merciful attitude toward an adulterous woman, He compelled them to examine themselves by requiring, "Whoever is without sin among you, cast the first stone." No one dared, thus tacitly confessing their own spiritual need.

Everyone needs the shared life of Jesus, yet most people are still unprepared to receive it. Christians have the unpopular duty to be the conscience of the world and of the individuals in their lives. Like Jesus, we are charged with the responsibility to shock, frighten, scold, weep, and cajole our associates into awareness of their need for spiritual life, because before they can receive everyone must be freed from the illusion of self-sufficiency.

Unfortunately, many Christians know only the role of exposing error and little of the giving of life.

Let's live like Jesus, freely giving what we have received — sharing freely in His life. Copyright Dave Llewellyn 1973

Northeast Launches Second Quarter Century

By Mary T. Robinson
The Northeast Mississippi Junior College will begin its twenty-sixth annual session on August 20.

Those who were on hand in September, 1948 for the initial opening of the college recall that there were 16 faculty members as compared to approximately 100 at the current time. The enrollment was 417 as compared to an anticipated 1400 or better for the fall semester.

Northeast was established to provide higher education for young men and women who qualify for admission and who can maintain the high scholastic standards which characterize an institution of higher learning. Students are also given many opportunities for developing leadership through the various activities on the campus. A multi-purpose building, the first building constructed on the campus and used for a classes building for many years, was renovated last year and provides for campus club meetings, Student Government Association, activities, conference room, and a student lounge.

Northeast will offer 35 programs of study with approximately 244 courses. For the first time a course in German will be taught.

Northeast is making an effort to help alleviate the major unmet needs for health man-power by providing training in the areas of inhalation therapy technology, medical assistant, medical laboratory technology, and x-ray technology which will be included for the fall semester, along with other health programs as the need arises. These courses are housed in a newly completed Health Occupations Building, which is one of only two buildings of its kind in the Nation. These health programs initiated last year are in addition to the associate degree and practical nursing programs.

In its second year, the Hotel-Motel Management course, designed to prepare men and women for work in supervisory positions in the Hospitality industry has shown great promise at Northeast.

Another innovation in the program of study at Northeast last year was the addition of upper-division level courses, junior and senior as well as graduate, offered in cooperation with the University of Mississippi.

Students at Northeast may avail themselves of financial assistance through Work-Study Programs, loans, grants and scholarships.

In 1969, the Northeast Mississippi Junior College Development Foundation, Inc., a non-profit corporation, was established to promote and support the educational performance at the college. The Development Foundation has qualified under United States Internal Revenue Department regulations for tax exempt status, thus making gifts deductible for income tax purposes.

Those who knew Northeast in the early days marvel at the progress and improvement in all phases of the college. Physically, the institution has grown from one building to many with another new facility, a Business Occupations Building, now under construction.

New Fire Control Forester Named

Sam N. Saxon, Gulfport, Mississippi, has been promoted to the position of Fire Control Forester for the Northeast District effective August 15, 1973. He will fill the vacancy created by the promotion of Ross Sherman to District Forester at Wiggins, Mississippi.

Saxon served as County Forester in Forrest and currently Harrison County since February 1970. In 1970 he earned the achievement award as "Outstanding County Forester" for the Southeast District.

Saxon is a 1961 graduate of Louisiana State University School of Forestry and a veteran of the U. S. Marine Corps. He is a native of Forrest County and is married to the former Gloria Bambling of Langdodale, Pennsylvania. They have four children.

In his assignment as Fire Control Forester, Saxon will be responsible for supervising forest fire control activities in the Northeast District. He will serve under the direct supervision of District Forester George Ayers at Tupelo, Miss.

Counties that make up the Northeast District are: Tishomingo, Itawamba, Monroe, Clay, Lee, Pontotoc, Alcorn, Prentiss, Tippah and Chickasaw. In making this assignment, State Forester Gaddis praised Saxon for the exemplary service which earned him the promotion.

Area Forester Urges Landowners To Look At Acreage

County Forester John Vaughan of the Mississippi Forestry Commission, recently urged all Tishomingo County landowners to take a close look at what their acreage is producing, stating: "It could mean the difference between a pay-check and just another tax bill to many of our landowners."

According to Forester Vaughan, unproductive lands are costing many landowners thousands of dollars annually in taxes while producing practically nothing in annual income. "Such areas," he said, "are found right here in Tishomingo County on practically every farm."

The forester defines unproductive lands as old fields and pastures left idle, cut-over land ravaged by bushes and weeds, and woodlands which are understocked and growing little or no merchantable timber.

Ascertaining that these lands could be brought into profitable production with a maximum investment, Vaughan called on landowners to "take a hard look at your unproductive land and consider the potential income that could be yours through timber production with a little effort and planning began today." "After all with the cost of timber what it is today and the demand for building materials on the rise, the demand for timber must become greater and the price paid for timber must also increase."

With the annual tree seedling sale currently underway by the Mississippi Forestry Commission, the Forester advised that now is the time to begin making preparation to stock unproductive acres and plan to obtain that extra income by ordering tree seedlings.

Forester Vaughan urged landowners to contact his office to order seedlings, obtain assistance in determining which species and how many will be needed to fill their reforestation needs, and to obtain assistance to plant these seedlings and begin a new income creating enterprise.

FAT REMOVAL

Try placing a sheet of paper on top of stew or before putting them in refrigerator. Home economists at Mississippi State University say this will cause the fat to rise to the surface of the paper. Once the fat is cooled, simply peel the paper and the fat will with it.

$60 million is a lot of money and it's just a beginning

During the 1973 fiscal year that ended June 30, TVA spent an estimated $60 million on pollution control programs. And about double this staggering amount will be needed in the current fiscal year.

TVA estimates it will spend approximately $270 million in the next five years just to upgrade air quality at steam plants in three states alone.

The cost of these pollution control programs ultimately must be covered by revenues from the sale of electricity. This means that sooner or later your cost of electricity will be directly affected by environmental protection expenses.

We all want a cleaner environment. And we all must be willing to pay a little more to make this goal a reality.

Norton-Bennett Vows Spoken In Candlelight Ceremony

Miss Martha Ray Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Norton of Tishomingo, became the bride of Glenn Harris Bennett is a lovely candlelight ceremony July 28, in the Tishomingo Methodist Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett M. Bennett of Sidon, Arkansas.

Vows were exchanged before an altar enhanced with large vases of mixed gladiolus, yellow roses, pom-pom mums, daisies and baby's breath. The candle arch stood behind an altar table which held a lighted cross and two altar candles. A large candle tree stood at each side of the altar. A candle and bouquet of mixed flowers were placed in each window.

Wanda Holder Hartman, of Memphis, Tenn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza and peau d'ange lace. The sheer yoke, the high neckline, and the fitted bodice were outlined and scalloped with lace medallions encrusted with seed pearls and tiny crystals. Lace formed the long full sleeves and trimmed the petal-pointed cuffs. Her chapel train was enhanced with beaded medallions of lace and a wide band of lace scalloped the hemline. Her mantilla, something borrowed from Mrs. Wanda Hartman, was handmade and encircled with lace complementing the gown.

She carried a white cascade of tiny rosebuds, miniature carnations, orchids and stephanotis centered with an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Sandra Strickland Howie was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Martin and Miss Pat Edwards, of New Albany, and Mrs. Mary Bennett Ardemagni, of Longview, Texas, sister of the groom.

They wore floor length gowns of pastel green crepe and green chiffon. Their picture hats were banded with apple green velvet. They carried white baskets with mixed arrangements of carnations, yellow roses, pom-poms, yellow and white daisies, and baby's breath.

The groom's father was best man. Groomsmen were Luther Luna, of Walnut, Jim Myers, of Corinth, and Joe Stormont, of Belmont. Ushers were Michael Foreman, of Oxford, and Loyse Artemagni, of Longview, Texas. Hal Southward, Jr. and Stanley Page were candlelighters.

Mrs. Norton wore a floor length dress of pink linentextured polyester. The groom's mother wore a blue polyester lace gown. Both wore white orchid corsages.

The groom's table held a two tiered vanilla wafer cake frosted with cream cheese icing, decorated with the medical insignia and encircled with frosted grapes. Coffee from a silver service was served from the groom's table by Mrs. Brenda Strickland Webb, of Tishomingo, and Mrs. Margaret Ray Terry, of Athens, Ala., cousin of the bride.

Free Meal Policy Announced For Iuka Schools

The Iuka Special Municipal Separate School District today announced a free meal policy for school children unable to pay the price of meals served in schools under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size-income criteria for use in determining eligibility.

FAMILY SIZE	INCOME
1	2,740
2	3,600
3	4,460
4	5,310
5	6,100
6	6,890
7	7,600
8	8,310
9	8,960
10	9,600
11	10,240
12	10,880
Each additional family member	640

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown are eligible for meals free. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principals' offices in elementary and high school. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has such children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, they should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy the high school principal and elementary school principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he may make a request either orally or in writing to Dr. T. E. Stanford, Superintendent, whose address is 507 W. Quitman, Iuka, Mississippi for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the superintendent where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

GENUINE?

Home economists at Mississippi State University advise checking FTC labeling regulations before buying new furniture. Did you know, for example, that the term "genuine" means that only the exposed structural parts and flat surfaces must be made of the wood named on the label?

One of the troubles with modern civilization is the men and women who think they know it all.

MEN IN SERVICE

Cadet Garry G. Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Long, Route 2, Iuka, Miss., received practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps Advanced Summer Camp, Ft. Bragg, N.C., from June 23 - August 3.

Cadet Long, a student at Jackson State College, Jackson, Miss., was one of some 7,200 students who attended Army ROTC Training at five installations in the U.S.

The ROTC advanced camp provides an opportunity for Cadets to develop and demonstrate leadership capabilities in a field training environment. The instruction supplements theories and concepts which cadets learned in the classroom on campus.

Cadets normally attend the training between their junior and senior years. This enables them to better

One month ago today,
Sister, you went away.
Jesus called you home.
But you left me, oh so lone.
Oh, dear sister, how I loved you.
And I know you loved me too.
I shall look for you up yonder,
In that city, where all things

Where we will live in peace,
through endless ages,
Where we'll never say good-bye.

A Day At Tishomingo State Park

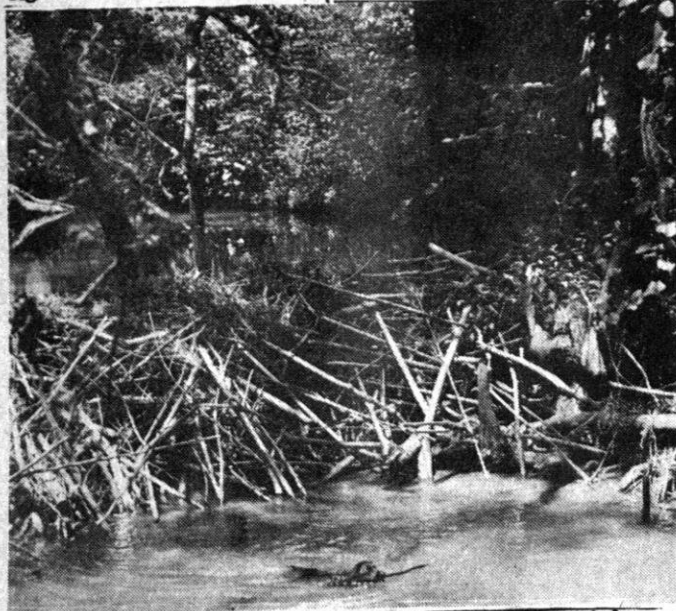

A recent visit to Tishomingo State Park revealed many activities. Lynn Segrest of Hattiesburg, Miss., has just completed summer field work at the park where his major project was Saddleback Ridge. Saddleback Ridge is a hiking trail located near the camping area and boat docks.

Beautiful rock formations, native trees, ivy and woods fern grow undisturbed in this secluded part of the park. Lynn, who is majoring in Park and Resource Management, erected signs and markers along the trail calling the hiker's attention to poison ivy, oak hydranges, trees and rock formations.

The swimming pool was the main attraction for the day. Children, under the watchful eye of life guards, swam and splashed away. A group of youngsters were having a birthday picnic near the hanging bridge and other visitors to the park sat around enjoying the quiet.

If you haven't been to the park lately, you should go... you'll like it!

BEAVER DAM — This beaver dam is located off the north end of Saddleback Ridge. "Boone," Lynn's Cocker Spaniel, retrieves a stick from the waters. The dam is about four feet high and twenty feet wide.

HANGING BRIDGE — This hanging bridge is a favorite with visitors. The bridge is located in the park near the swimming pool. Pam Gann of Iuka and two of her friends enjoy the scenery.

ANGLES AND CURVES — Mrs. Nancy Brinkley adds the curves to the angles of the hanging bridge. Camping and picnic areas near this site await visitors who are looking for a quiet and beautiful place to spend summer days.

MANAGEMENT STUDENT — Lynn Segrest, MSU student and his dog "Boone," are standing on a huge boulder, which is part of a natural rock formation near the front entrance to the park.

Henry Hearn, Memphis, Tenn. and Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Troy Linton, Calvin, Okla.

This is the first time the Troy Lintons have been privileged to attend a family reunion in Mississippi. Troy is a nephew of the late Julius C. Linton and had never met but two of the relatives from this clan.

Rev. Hearn was the oldest member present, followed by three of the Linton children, John, Jeff and Ina Jones, all in their 80's. Nellie Pruitt, another of the J. C. Linton children, was unable to attend due to ill health.

Willie Mae Honeycutt and Mildred Linton Clark both celebrated their birthdays on this day, and neither could be present for the occasion.

Rodney Cornelison was the youngest member present.

Leon Linton served as Master of Ceremonies, and in the afternoon group singing was enjoyed by all.

Miss Nellie Horton's HOME ECONOMIST'S NOTES

TO DETERMINE QUALITY IN TOWELS

A towel's durability is determined in part by its ground weave. This is the section of a terry or valour towel which holds the loops in place. Examine the ground weave carefully because a firm, close weave is what gives the towel strength and durability.

The best place to examine the ground is near the hem or fringed border because there are no terry loops there.

Hold the towel up to the light. A well - constructed ground weave shows a regular pattern of tiny points of light throughout the towel. If you see irregular light patterns, this means the weave is loose and uneven and could be an indicator of poor quality and shorter life.

A towel or washcloth's selvages are its finished edges. Look for uniform, tightly woven selvages to provide good wear. Properly made, each of these three types of selvages will give satisfactory wear.

The three types of selvages include:

--Fast selvage -- conventional woven edge of a towel.

--Hemmed selvage -- woven edges are turned in and machine stitched with small, close stitches.

--Over edge selvage -- woven edges are machine finished with a close, even overlocked stitch. This prevents raw edges or threads from showing. Over edging is generally used for washcloths.

A terry towel dries because the thirsty loops which cover its surface absorb moisture. Take a good look at the loops. The more loops, the greater the drying power. Long loops do not necessarily mean better drying. Often extremely long loops only invite snags and pulls.

Loops made of thick yarn are generally more absorbent than those of thinner yarn. Loosely twisted yarns could make a towel soft where tightly twisted yarn loops give a towel a crisp stimulating feel, but could be less absorbent.

EXPECT NEW STANDARDS FOR MATTRESS FLAMMABILITY

The FTC is now in the process of studying research and testing mattress products for their flame resistance.

The proposed legislation is the second step in more rigid regulations for all household textiles regarding flame resistance. New flammability standards have gone into effect for children's sleepwear, and the FTC wants to continue its fight to reduce the number of home fires by approving legislation that will set standards for textiles used in the production of mattresses.

Consumers won't always be able to tell about a mattress, even by the label, because if the legislation determines that all mattresses must pass certain requirements, no special labeling will be used.

If, however, exceptions are made and only certain products are effected, then it is hoped some kind of label will be devised to help the consumer. Quilted surfaces that are sewn with nylon or polyester thread are more flame-resistant than smooth surfaces or those sewn with cotton thread. Also, a layer of urethane foam under the surface makes the mattress a little less likely to catch fire.

Even so, the FTC states that, at present, 99 percent of all mattresses could not pass a flammability test.

HOMECOMING AND REVIVAL AT HUBBARD SALEM

The Homecoming will be at Hubbard Salem the 4th Sunday in August. Dinner will be served at noon with singing in the afternoon. Special singers will be present.

The revival will begin on Sunday night at 7:30. Bro. Jack Jones will be the visiting preacher.

Bro. Talley and the church invite each and everyone to attend this homecoming and revival.

USE SPIDERS

Many kinds of spiders get into homes. When numerous, they cause annoyance by building webs in corners, on furniture, and in other undesired places. Spiders are beneficial. They feed on flies and other insect pests. To avoid contact with spiders, whenever possible, we have nothing to fear from them. If accidentally touched or confined, they will attempt to defend themselves. Even if a spider bites under such circumstances, the venom of a spider is not harmful to humans. Only a few kinds of spiders are capable of biting humans. The black widow and two more are known to be dangerous. The brown recluse spider, which is not widely known in Mississippi also can inflict a severe bite.

Newly hatched spiders are tiny and may enter houses through screens or around loose-fitting windows and doors. Some kinds drift on the wind by means of short strands of silk. Carefully screening, particularly of basements, will do much to keep the older spiders out. Trash, lumber piles, bricks, weeds and outside structures are good breeding places and if located near the house, spiders may enter the home.

Control: The elimination or cleaning up of breeding places is an important step in control. Spiders may be killed and their breeding checked for some time by applying a 2% chlordane, 2% malathion, or 1% Baygon, 0.5% lindane spray, 0.5% diazinon, or 1% ronnel thoroughly wetting the surface. Oil-based sprays injure vegetation. Outdoors it is best to apply water-base sprays prepared from emulsifiable liquids or wettable powders.

Inside the home, brush down the webs and kill the spiders. Give special attention to crushing the white egg cocoons which, if not destroyed, will soon produce large numbers of small spiders. Wall cleaning attachments on vacuum cleaners are useful for removing webs and spiders. Pyrethrum sprays will kill spiders on contact, but have no practical residual or lasting value. Apply a 2% chlordane, or 2% malathion spray in corners, underneath furniture, under steps, or in parts of the basement where spiders are troublesome. Use caution while spraying enclosed spaces. Black widow spiders, agitated by the spray, have been known to drop onto and bite the person doing the spraying.

In the summer it may be necessary to spray every two to three weeks. Treat only when spiders appear again. Do not spray all surface in the home, but only the spots where the spiders are troublesome. In using these sprays or any insecticide, observe the precautions on the label; they are there to protect you, your family and your pets.

BAD EGG

Did you know that even eggs can absorb odors from other foods in the refrigerator? For this reason, home economists at Mississippi State University, advise keeping them covered during storage.
