WHAT KIND OF SNACK IS BEST FOR YOUR CHILD?

A child who does not eat much at one sitting needs planned snacks. Some children receive a large part of their day's total calories in the form of snacks. It is necessary, therefore, that their between-meal eating contribute important nutrients.

Encourage snacks containing protein, vitamins, and minerals. Some examples:
 • dry cereal with milk
 • bread with cheese or meat

- raw vegetables such as carrots
- fruit juices
- fresh, dried or canned fruit
- cheese and bits of meat
- milk, custards, ice cream, sherbet

Use high sugar foods sparingly. They take away the appetite for more basic foods, provide only calories and quick energy and encourage tooth decay when small amounts are left between the teeth.

Plan snacks to "fill in" the nutritional requirements that might have been missed at

GARDENS

1974 is on hand, and what you've been thinking as a next year's garden is suddenly this year's garden. Vegetable seed and fertilizer may be in short supply this year so order early.

Make a garden plan listing crops to be grown and feet of row of each. Consider the number of people in your family, their likes and dislikes, and whether you plan to grow for fresh only or also canning and freezing.

Get your soil tested to determine lime and fertilizer needs, clean out, fertilize, and row-up part of the garden for early planting.

FRUITS AND NUTS

If fruit or nut trees are to be planted later this winter or early spring, a soil sample should be taken and analyzed for pH and fertilizer requirements. Most fruit and nut meatline.

TRIM YOUR MEAT BUDGET

Are you worried about the high cost of meat and meeting your protein needs? Is the cost making it difficult to plan meals saving a protein food in them? Here are a few ideas to help trim your meat budget.

* Eat less meat. Two or three ounces of cooked lean meat gives all the protein we need for one serving.

* Make use of lower cost meats. Variety meats such as liver, heart and tongue as well as fish and poultry are usually less expensive than regular cuts of beef, pork or lamb.

* Use meat substitutes. Dried beans, peas and lentils, peanut butter, cheese and eggs all have lots of protein.

* Try meat extenders. Combine a little meat with rice, noodles, spaghetti, macaroni, potatoes, green vegetables, etc. The old trick of adding bread crumbs or grated carrots to meat loaf and hamburger patties is still a good way to stretch meats.

GROUND BEEF CASSEROLE

2 chopped medium onions
 1 chopped bell pepper
 2 pounds ground beef
 1 cup tomato sauce
 1 cup grated cheese
 2 (14 1/2 oz.) cans asparagus spears pastry
 Garlic salt & pepper to taste
 Sauté onion and pepper in small amount of oil. Add ground beef and cook until browned. Add tomato sauce and seasonings. In a greased 13 x 9 x 2 inch casserole put a layer of meat mixture then a layer of asparagus spears and a layer of grated cheese. Repeat layers. Top with latticed pastry strips from your favorite pastry recipe. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. This can be made early in the day and refrigerated until time to bake. If kept longer than this prior to baking, don't put the pastry on top until just before baking time. Serves 8.

trees grow best in a pH range of 5.8 to 6.5.

Peaches can be planted at any time during the dormant season, which is usually about November through February. Planting early in the dormant season is often desirable. It allows the soil to settle and the roots to become established and begin developing before top growth begins in the spring.

PLANT PROPERLY

Dig a hole large enough and deep enough to set the plant without bending, breaking, or crowding the roots. Prune roots of the new plants only where it is necessary to remove damaged or dead roots or roots that are exceptionally long and out of proportion with other roots.

Place loose top soil in the bottom of the hole. Set plant in the hole upright at the depth that it was growing in the nursery. Then fill the hole about two-thirds full with pulverized topsoil so that it will settle around the roots. At this point finish filling the hole with water to aid in packing the soil. After the water has soaked in, finish filling the hole with topsoil, leaving a slight depression around the base of the plant to hold water during rain and irrigations. Do not apply fertilizer at this time.

PRUNING

After planting and before growth starts in the spring, plants should be pruned. This initial pruning helps to bring into balance the top of the plant and the root system. It also stimulates lateral bud development from which good scaffold branches can be selected later.

Pruning is normally done from around December through February. When pruning, cut off only enough branches to accomplish a definite purpose. A primary purpose of pruning young, non-bearing trees is to shape the tree so that scaffold branches will be well distributed.

If scaffold branches are selected properly, weak, narrow crotches can be eliminated and future breakage under heavy fruit loads can be avoided. Proper selection of young scaffold branches will also reduce the large pruning cuts in future years, thus reducing the entrance of insects and decay organisms into pruning wounds.

DISEASE CONTROL

If mature trees have not been treated with dormant oils to control scale insects, this should be done immediately. Applications during the dormant period of a 3 percent lubricating oil emulsion or an emulsifiable oil at the strength recommended by the manufacturer will give satisfactory control of scale insects.

DRUGS

WHAT ARE THE IMMEDIATE PHYSICAL EFFECTS OF SMOKING A MARIHUANA CIGARETTE?

Reddening of the whites of the eyes, an increased heart rate, and a cough due to the irritating effect of the smoke on the lungs are the most frequent and consistent physical effects. Hunger or sleepiness are reported by some individuals.

HOW LONG DO THE EFFECTS OF MARIHUANA LAST?

This depends upon the dose and the person. A few inhalations of strong marihuana act quickly and can intoxicate a person for several hours. Weak marihuana will produce minimal effects for perhaps an hour. When a large amount is swallowed, the effects start later but persist longer than when the same quantity is smoked.

HOW DOES MARIHUANA WORK IN THE BRAIN?

This is not known. Studies attempting to clarify the question are underway.

DOES THE INDIVIDUAL'S TOLERANCE TO MARIHUANA VARY WITH REPEATED USE?

The development of tolerance to marihuana does not occur. Some people speak of "reverse tolerance." By that they mean that a person may require less marihuana in order to reach a specific "high." This is basically a matter of learning how to smoke the drug, and of learning what effects to look for.

DO HEAVY USERS SUFFER PHYSICAL WITHDRAWAL SYMPTOMS LIKE THE NARCOTIC ADDICT?

No. Sudden withdrawal may provoke restlessness and anxiety in a few persons who daily smoke large amounts of hashish, but true withdrawal symptoms as seen in the heroin addict do not develop.

WHAT ARE THE LONG-TERM PHYSICAL EFFECTS OF EXTENDED MARIHUANA USE?

Insulation doesn't cost It pays

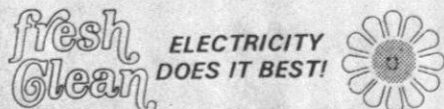

Cut your heating bill in half this winter

It can be done by installing full insulation where there is none. In this region the requirements for full insulation are 6 inches over the ceiling, 3 1/2 inches and vapor barrier in outside walls, and 2 inches and a vapor barrier under the floor. (The vapor barrier should go on the room side of insulation.)

Insulation saves money on cooling costs, too. You can reduce cooling costs about one-third by installing adequate insulation in a home without any.

See us for more information. Start saving money on heating and cooling bills today.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My 20 year old son attended college full-time for two months last winter, dropping out to go to work, and returned to school full-time in September. He earned about $3,000 during the year. Can I still claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes, if he meets all the dependency tests, including your having provided over one-half of his total support. If your son is a full-time student during some part of each of five months of the year, there is no limit on how much he can earn and still remain your dependent. These five months do not have to occur consecutively.

Q. I know that a political contribution to a candidate or his campaign committee may be eligible for a deduction or credit. What about contributions to a political party?

A. Contributions to a national, state or local committee of a national political party may also qualify for the deduction or credit.

You may deduct up to $50 ($100 on a joint return) or take half of your contribution as a direct credit against your tax up to $12.50 ($25 on a joint return).

Q. I've transferred $2,000 of investment securities registered in my name to my child. I am custodian for the account. Do I have to pay gift tax on this transfer?

A. A transfer for the benefit of a person under 21 generally qualifies for the $3,000 annual exclusion from gift tax, provided the minor has use of the property and income from it before he turns 21 and any property or income not disposed of by that time passes to him.

The $3,000 annual gift tax exclusion will still be allowed even though state law requires the property to be distributed to the minor at age 18.

Q. I'm a school teacher. I paid a person to substitute for me for a day. Can I deduct the amount I paid for the substitute?

A. Yes. Amounts you pay for a substitute teacher to take your place are deductible. However, you are not entitled to this deduction to the extent that it is allocable to amounts excluded as sick pay.

ALCOHOL SAFETY

The Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program (MASEP) is operated by Mississippi State University in cooperation with the Governor's Highway Safety Program and the Mississippi Program for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

The program is designed to self-supporting ultimate was begun under the auspices of a small grant from the Mississippi Program for Abuse and Alcoholism. In the next year, it will be a substantial amount from the Governor's Safety Program. The will permit the program to cover the entire State.

The program is one means to identify drivers and modify their behavior. Under the program, drivers who have a blood alcohol level of .15 or higher on the intoximeter test are assumed to be driving while intoxicated. In lieu of suspension of their license they are permitted to attend a school course, four sessions, covering other things, the effects of alcohol, its driving, and problem and alcoholism. The pays the regular fine to attend the school. It is hoped that it will identify problem drivers and motivate them to in changing their behavior as well as foster a respect for law and order and law enforcement personnel.

Presently, ten schools are operating in the State. In addition, we are acquiring law enforcement officials, judges, and citizens will be held more communities. A will not work on the law without the cooperation law enforcement personnel. The various helping officials.

This is a tremendous Mississippi. Nearly 10,000 die each year of drinking drivers in the State. Also, an alarming number of drivers operate without a license. Enforcement personnel are a major part of their lives with drunks. This can be solved in time working together.

Quest for truth!

Is Israel mentioned in prophecy today as a modern nation? We saw last week that ancient Israel went into captivity into Assyria in the ninth year of Hoshea, II Kings 17:1-6, 721 B.C. You might be wondering, "What has all of this got to do with us today?" It has everything to do with us. Most people do not know who we are and what is prophesied for us today. When people think of Israel today, they think of the Jews, but the Jews are not Israel. The Jews are the descendants of Judah, even though all Jews are Israelites. But all Israelites are not Jews; just like all Mississippians are Americans, but all Americans are not Mississippians.

The Kingdom of Israel was divided in the days of Rehoboam. Solomon, son of Ahijah the Prophet, rent his new garment in twelve pieces and said to Jeroboam, "Take thee ten pieces to Jeroboam." He gave ten tribes, and to Rehoboam he gave one tribe, the tribe of Judah; which is eleven tribes. The tribe that is not mentioned is the tribe of Levi, which were priests for the whole house of Israel. They were divided among the several tribes, I Kings 11:30-37. Judah's capital was Jerusalem, which the capital of Israel was Samaria. From that day on the northern tribes became known as Samaritans, or Ephraim, or Israel. From that point on they had separate kings and came known as two nations; and will continue to be two nations until the Restoration.

That is explained in the parable of the two sticks, that were in Ezekiel's hand. God said that he would take the stick of Joseph (i.e., house of Israel), which is in the hand of Ephraim and the tribe of Israel his fellows and will put them with him. Even with the stick of Judah and make them one stick, and they shall be one in mine hand, Ezk. 37:19. Notice a peculiar thing about Ezekiel. God told him to go speak to the house of Israel, Ch. 3 Vs. 1; but we read that he was among the captives. He was a prisoner in Babylon, and the house of Israel had been taken captive into Assyria some one hundred and twenty years before Ezekiel's time. Ezekiel was a Levite, and almost, if not all the tribe of Levi had gone back to the tribe of Judah prior to the Babylonian captivity in 606 B.C. In fact, this happened in the days of Jeroboam. Jeroboam did away with God's priests, and set up priests that he could control of the lowest of the people, I Kings 12:31. As for Ezekiel, he did not get his message to the house of Israel, because he died while still in captivity. The northern tribes did not get the scroll. They too, were in captivity, to whom then did it go.

Next week we will continue. Your servant in Christ, Marshal Adams

THE UPPER ROOM

Have you ever seen a room hold 80 to 110 teenagers at the same time? That's crowded! The Upper Room Christian Coffee House is the place to see this "happening" on different occasions. The Coffee House is located at 123 Front Street (upstairs) in the heart of downtown Iuka. The Coffee House is dedicated to reaching the young people of Tishomingo County and surrounding area and giving them a good, clean Christian recreation program and also reaching the lost teenager for Christ. We are trying to prove to some kids that it's fun being saved. There are different activities available for the young people to participate in, but most of all it's a place of fellowship where the kids can sit around and talk. We have a library, ping pong, bumper billiard table, TV area, snack bar, prayer room, table games and other interesting activities.

Tonight at 7:30 p.m. we will be showing a great Christian film titled "Fast Way Nowhere." This film shows how young motorcycle gangs can have a good time by omitting sin from their lives and letting Christ direct them. The film is 63 minutes long and is in color. In the future there will be live bands, more films, a FEW speakers and other things of interest to the youth. We invite the parents to come up and see what the Upper Room is all about.

The Coffee House is always chaperoned by Christian adults and is available for private parties by calling 423-5073 or 423-5717.

The hours of the Coffee House are:

7-9 p.m. Tuesday & Thursday
9-12 p.m. Friday
8-11 p.m. Saturday

Will you pray with me that God will use this work to help our young people?

"It's 10 p.m. -- Do you know where your child is?" Yes -- "praise God" -- at the Upper Room!!

A SICKNESS IN SOCIETY

We believe you want a better life and a better community. For this reason we share with you a series of articles to help you understand the philosophy behind much of the reading material offered for sale today.

This is a detailed study of about 120 different titles representing about 75 percent of the magazines offered on a wide distribution basis. We are not attempting to deal with "under-the-counter" pornography, but periodicals that are on open display for children, youth and adults. The purpose is not to try to "hit" at anybody, but to help you as an individual analyze reading material. We feel if you can understand the philosophy behind this, it can help alter your reading habits and enable you to be a help to members of your own family.

The Entertainment Magazine Twenty years ago there were only two "entertainment" magazines for men. Since this time many other such magazines for men and women have entered the field. There are strong indications that there is gold in the hills and that more and more such publications want to get in on the riches.

These magazines do not merely recognize and endorse the "liberated" life; they crusade actively for it. An editor writes: "...we aim to publish a magazine dedicated to entertainment and the joys of life, regardless of tabus and hypocrisies." Cities and states which ban the sales of such magazines are said to be enemies of democracy and freedom. Letters to the editor criticizing a magazine as indecent are almost certain to be answered with vehement protests against the critic's prudery, snobbery, and neurotic puritanism. The magazines seek to portray themselves as the guardians of freedom of the press and the champions of the individual's right to do as he pleases.

According to the entertainment magazines, monogamy, chastity, and fidelity are outmoded ideals, mere vestiges of a puritanical past. Monogamy, one of the writers declares, "is ... a kind of crazy idea dreamed up by some fanatical barbarians when they were getting ready to run over the rich, civilized, polygamous Roman Empire." Puritanism (by which the writer means narrow-minded insistence on monogamy) is nothing more than the result of a cold climate; as America's climate becomes more and more moderate, the writer maintains, this puritanism will disappear -- witness the situation in warm, sunny southern California. "...It won't be long until the polygamous utopia of which all men dream will be a reality. When that day comes, wars will cease and the earth will blossom like a rose."

While the entertainment magazines also contain articles on sports, music, food, and other topics, the preponderance of material exploits sex. Almost all the stories are tales of seduction. Fornication is represented as one of the common, everyday pleasures of life like eating and drinking. Skill in the art of seduction is proclaimed to be the supreme qualification of the man who is really a man. The language of the stories are sensual and coarse.

In addition to stories of passion and conquest, and articles on the techniques of seduction, there are the "girlie" pictures which are a major ingredient in all such magazines.

The immorality of such magazines does not lie simply in the fact that there is too much unadorned flesh and too much indecent language. More important, it is the over-all attitude toward sex represented in the magazines that brand them as immoral, from the viewpoint of Christian ethics. According to these periodicals, women are machines for men to utilize for physical pleasure. The remedy for all the world's anxieties, it is implied, is the uninhibited release of sexual expression. There is a mutual commitment of total personalities; there is only conquest to prove one's virility and prowess.

Christian ethics insists that sex finds its rightful expression in the context of mature love, responsibility, and fidelity. The Christian understanding of sex does not deprive men of freedom and self-expression; it releases them for that maturity of love which knows that the prerequisite for freedom is responsibility.

The entertainment magazines make sex appear obscene by removing it from the context of deep, abiding, personal love. But magazines do not exist in a vacuum; they are printed for a public which appears to be eager to buy them. Thus the news-stands reflect a sickness of society. It is a sickness for which the Church has the only real cure. It is our responsibility before God to fulfill our ministry of healing.

Next week we wish to lift up a different type magazine which promotes evil and disguise.

ANIMALS

BY MARY B. DAVIS

to help where I am needed; friendly and considerate; protect and improve the world and me; to show respect for life and others through my words and actions". . .

These are some of the promises a youngster makes when joins the Girl Scouts of the United States of America, are beautiful promises of friendship, consideration, protection, improvement, respect for OTHERS as well as for one's self.

Heidi Hughes, Environmental Education Specialist for Scouts of America, says the promises apply not only to people -- but also to animals -- "humans, plants, domesticated" ANI-ing that she feels herself able to be involved in the Scouts Wildlife Values Education Project, Ms. Hughes said that in replies to people, she includes information describing the Kind-Club and other animal protection groups.

September, she had taken in a Wildlife Weekend shop at one of the National Scout Centers where dis- cussions were held on the need for saving bats, birds, tur- vultures, butterflies, and creatures.

even before receiving Hughes' very interesting informative letter, I had learned of the Scouts' interest in animals through my Club Newsletters and other humane litera- ture which I receive regularly.

act, on the cover page of my issue of "Animal Shop-talk," was a pic- ture of four girl scouts and a cat. The Scouts had saved the cat's life by having it spayed or neutered to prevent births. So, the kind- ness of the Girl Scouts did, indeed, save the cat's life by having it spayed.

I had named the cat Daisy, daughter of Girl Scout Founder L. J. Low, whose nickname is Daisy. After being spayed, she did find a good home, and more humane shelters are being let people adopt animals until positive assur- ance is given that the animal is spayed or neutered to prevent births. So, the kind- ness of the Girl Scouts did, indeed, save the cat's life by having it spayed.

I knew that we couldn't help because so many ani- mals are born every day, but I thought we could help at least one pet. If each person just ONE animal, think of the suffering could be so learned about Scouts' interest in animals by writing let- ters to their state and federal representatives, and them to make good laws to protect all the creatures in need of human help.

Right now, here at my desk, I have two pictures of Scouts befriending animals:

One shows a group of Girl Scouts watching Virginia Gov- ernor Holton sign into law a bill to improve the state's anti- cruelty provisions. The girls had followed the progress of the bill from its introduction through to its signing by the Governor.

The other picture shows a group of Boy Scouts holding a mother dog and her puppies. Boy Scout Troop 52 of New Jersey had found them in the woods and had taken them to an animal shelter in the near- est town. (Where there is no animal shelter, as in Tishom- ingo County, homeless ani- mals should be taken to a veter- inarian for painless deaths when a good home is not avail- able IMMEDIATELY.)

For this article, I received information from Virginia, New York, and California. But it was right here in Tishomingo County, Mississippi, where I got the inspiration it takes to put facts down on paper.

Yes, twelve little girls in Luka Girl Scout Troop 104 taught me more about "Scout Kind- ness" in ten minutes than I learned all year just through reading.

So, to these thoughtful young- sters, this story is dedicated. They really showed me the right way to promote kindness -- and that is by personal, face-to-face contact with peo- ple.

I hate to admit this -- but it has always scared me nearly to death to get up in front of an audience. But within ten seconds after meeting those thoughtful girls, they had me feeling completely at ease. Before I left them that day, they had all won my heart completely.

For their kindness to me and for their interest in helping the animals and people, I want to say a personal thanks to: DeeAnna Bean; Kim Carpenter; Kristi Carson; Allison Crane; Nancy Hamm; Darla Jones; Diane Lambert; Pam McBee; Starla Phillips; Donna Puckett; Caro- lyn Ray; and Suzanne Thornton.

And for teaching their children to be "humane-mind- ed," I also want to thank the parents of these young girls. They are: DeWitt and Ida Ann Bean; Jim and Barbara Car- penter; Donnie and Corrie Car- son; Gene and Jeanette Crane; Norman and Libby Hamm; Gay- lon and Betty Jones; Charles and Dot Lambert; Sue McBee; Boyd and Dot Phillips; Earnest and Wanda Puckett; William (Troy) and Peggy Ray; and James and Billie Thornton.

More Marriages -- Fewer Babies

Americans are marrying more, divorcing more, having fewer babies, but still sacrific- ing many women's lives to childbirth.

According to the Vital Sta- tistics Report, there were 2.2 million marriages in 1972, a three percent rise over the year before.

Divorces continued to grow more common, too, with Florida and Arkansas regis- tering the biggest increases while Delaware and Michigan had the deepest drops in divorce.

The 1972 birth rate was the lowest in U.S. history, and only 3.2 million babies were born compared with 3.5 million the previous year.

In part, this is due to the fact that so many reliable birth-control methods are available these days. Some, like Delfen and Conceptrol, can even be obtained in drug stores without prescription.

How hazardous to a wom- an's health childbirth and its complications can still be is also illustrated by the Govern- ment Report. It says that as the result of becoming preg- nant, at least 780 women lost their lives in 1972.

Mississippi Drug Program Marks First Anniversary

Mississippi is developing a strong interagency approach to drug abuse problems through the Division of Drug Affairs of the Governor's Office of Education and Training.

The division recently marked the first anniversary of an executive order by Governor Waller dated December 14, 1972 creating that unit as the state's single state agency for drug affairs.

"During this past year," said Dr. Milton Baxter, Executive Director of the Governor's Office of Education and Training, "we have had valuable input from many state agencies."

Dr. Baxter, who also serves as chairman of the Mississippi Drug Affairs Advisory Council, said other states have expressed interest in Mississippi's multi-agency approach.

The work of the council was the theme of a symposium in Memphis recently as part of the second annual meeting of the Mid-South Educational Research Association.

The association serves persons interested in quality educational research in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Dr. Baxter and David N.

Speights, Director of Drug Affairs, Governor's Office of Education and Training, addressed the association's annual meeting in Memphis.

Dr. Walter M. Matthews, of the University of Mississippi, immediate past president of the M.S.E.R.A., spoke on "The Failure of Traditional Drug Education Programs" at the meeting.

State Representative Mark J. Chaney, of Vicksburg, spoke on "The Political Problems Concerning Drug Programs." Representative Chaney is a member of the Drug Affairs Advisory Council.

Mississippi's new Drug Education Specialist Program was described by Jan Schaffer, graduate student at the University of Mississippi, and James E. Pollard, drug education specialist for Oxford public schools.

A special participant in the symposium was Douglas P. Champion, National Association of State Drug Abuse Program Coordinators, Washington, D.C.

"This symposium," said Dr. Baxter, "gave us a chance to tell other states what Mississippi is doing to fight drug abuse problems through concerted efforts of our various state agencies."

He said the Division of Drug Affairs, Governor's Office of Education and Training, is preparing a state plan through which Mississippi may receive grants from the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

The plan is designed as a framework for the management and targeting of all federal, state and local resources for drug abuse prevention functions within the state.

The Division of Drug Affairs, as Mississippi's single state agency, is active in program development, technical assistance, program monitoring, statewide project review, and the development of the official state plan for drug abuse prevention.

The state plan, now being prepared, is, according to Speights, "a blueprint of the existing situation, the state needs, and responses to meet these needs, indicated in priority order, together with estimated cost of implementation."

The Division of Drug Affairs, said Speights, has retained Research Planning Corporation, Washington, D.C., to conduct a general population survey of the incidence and prevalence of use and abuse of drugs and alcohol in Mississippi.

"Mississippi intends to produce a plan," said Speights, "which will outline the most effective and efficient use of all available resources to accomplish our ultimate goal -- the reduction of drug abuse in Mississippi to the lowest possible level."

The Mississippi Drug Affairs Advisory Council has established three major task forces -- primary prevention and education, treatment and rehabilitation, and drug traffic prevention. All three units have made recommendations for inclusion in the state plan.

The council has recommended that the Division of Drug Affairs serve as a statewide clearinghouse for drug abuse information, including the approval of printed matter, films, speakers, as well as making printed matter, films, and other materials available to the public and serving as a speakers' bureau for approved speakers.

Career Education News & Views

Recently planning sessions were held at each of the county schools with students in high school and junior high. Future career aims were discussed generally followed by a period where each student present stated his interests both in the academic field and extra curricular activities. Grades and effort in subject matter related to the field of future endeavor were discussed. Emphasis was placed on selecting subjects relevant to career choice and excelling in those subjects.

The interest that students have regarding future career choice is keen, and it is encouraging for the coordinator to work with the students. Group meetings of this type will continue this semester.

In the elementary grades students are continuing units of study on self development directed by classroom teachers and elementary coordinator, Mrs. Barbara Parker. Educators have become aware that by the time many students reach high school they have acquired fairly well-entrenched behavior patterns, attitudes and values, some of which do not prepare them for the demands of their environment. This is one of the reasons that counselors and teachers wait to guide students in the lower grades, particularly in the development of behavior patterns, attitudes, and values. Much can be done in the elementary grades to build positive, constructive development patterns in later years.

The teaching tools used in this unit are records, filmstrips, and individual student books.

Wimberly - House Exchange Vows

In a lovely candlelight ceremony, Miss Jacquelyn Diane Wimberly became the bride of Mr. Jerry Lynn House on Nov. 22, 1973, at 7 p.m. at the Iuka Baptist Church with the Rev. Harris Counce, Jr., Pastor of Colonial Heights Baptist Church, Memphis, Tennessee, officiating.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Wimberly, Mr. J. L. House, of Iuka, and Mrs. Dorothy House, of Tishomingo.

The church was decorated with seven branch candelabras forming an arch, accented by two floor baskets of white and yellow mums, white and yellow pom-poms with woodier ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bouffant silhouette fashioned of miramist organza and French imported chantilly lace. The bodice, high scalloped neckline and full bishop sleeves were styled of lace with pearls accenting the front. The five tiered bell skirt was designed with an overskirt of organza bordered with lace. She wore a full-length Spanish mantilla of matching lace. She carried a bouquet of Talisman and yellow roses, lilies of the valley with white satin streamers and love knots. Her only jewelry was an antique lavalliere of sterling silver crested with a sapphire, surrounded by diamonds and pearls, which belonged to her aunt, Jeanet Wimberly, of Bastrop, Louisiana.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Debbie White and Mrs. Debbie Hardwick. Mr. Larry Wimberly, brother of the bride, sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Lynn McBride, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a floor-length dress of yellow polyester crepe, with an empire waistline and puffed sleeves. Miss Nebra Counce, Memphis, Tennessee, Miss Mitzi Ramsey, Jackson, Mississippi, and Miss Phyllis Wimberly, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaids. They wore identical floor length dresses of orange polyester crepe with empire waistline and puffed sleeves. The attendants carried bouquets of Talisman roses with bittersweet and gold leaves tied with yellow satin streamers and love knots. Miss Lesa House, sister of the groom, served as flower girl. Her dress was a floor length yellow polyester crepe with an orange sash and puffed sleeves. She carried a yellow basket of rose petals.

Mr. J. L. House, father of the groom, served as bestman. Mr. Greg Enlow, Mr. Jackie Pittman, and Mr. Terry House, brother of the groom, served as groomsmen. The groomsmen wore tuxedos and white boutonnieres.

Keith Wimberly, brother of the bride, served as candlelighter.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jo Ann Wimberly chose a polyester long sleeved dress with an empire waistline, brown bodice and skirt of multicolors of brown, orange, and beige with brown accessories. A double white carnation corsage was pinned at the shoulder.

Mrs. Dorothy House, mother of the groom, chose a blue polyester dress with black accessories and a double white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church after the wedding. A receiving line of bride and groom, parents of the bride and groom and wedding attendants greeted each guest. Mrs. Mildred Ramsey, aunt of the bride, presided at the guest register. Guests registered with a white quill from a table with a yellow underskirt overlaid with a lace tablecloth. A silver tray of individual rice bags of yellow and orange, and a bud vase of yellow carnations graced the table. The wedding attendants placed their bouquets on this table.

The bride's table was covered with a white organza and net skirt and an orange satin ribbon which extended around the table. Crystal candelabras held white tapers and an arrangement of orange roses and yellow carnations with bittersweet centered the table. Silver compotes held nuts and mints. A three tiered white wedding cake, topped with yellow roses, wedding bells and bride and groom, was cut with a silver cake knife with white satin streamers. A crystal punch bowl containing orange fruit punch with a floating fruit ring, consisting of sliced lemons, oranges and grapes graced the opposite end of the table.

Miss Donna Taylor, of Iuka, Mrs. Linda Taylor, Allsboro, Ala., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Dottie Haygood, of Florence, Alabama, served at the bride's table.

For traveling, the bride wore a three piece pant suit of lime green polyester with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman and yellow roses from her bouquet pinned at the shoulder.

After a short wedding trip to Memphis, Tennessee, the couple are at home on Highway 72 West in Iuka, where the groom is employed at Tennessee River Pulp and Paper Company, Counce, Tennessee.

JUANITA SCOTT NAMED TO DEAN'S LIST AT FSU

Mrs. Juanita Phifer Scott has been named to the Dean's List at Florence State University for the fall term. She is now doing her practice teaching at Sheffield High School in Sheffield, Alabama. Mrs. Scott is majoring in English and will graduate this summer.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Phifer, of Iuka.

WORLD'S TELEPHONES

The nation's capital is the world's telephone capital. In fact, it has even more telephones than people.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company released statistics today showing that Washington, D.C., has 128.1 telephones for every 100 people, while the U. S. average is 62.75 telephones per 100 people and the worldwide average is 8.2 per 100. That compares with 124.1 in Southfield, Mich. -- second to Washington, 11.6 in Stockholm, 74.8 in New York City, 65.3 in Toronto, 34.4 in Athens, 11.2 in Mexico City and 4.7 in San Salvador.

The figures are from "The World's Telephones," a booklet published annually by AT&T's Long Lines department. This year Long Lines also produced a historical book, "Calling the World," which includes a history of 73 countries and territories and their telephone development.

Almost a century ago the first two-way long distance telephone call linked Alexander Graham Bell and Dr. Thomas Watson in Cambridge-Port and Boston, Mass. Today long distance calling links more than 312 million telephones around the world. The 312,902,000 telephones represent a 7.4 per cent increase over 1972 and 94.2 per cent increase over 10 years. The figures reflect the status as of Jan. 1, 1973, because it takes a year to collect and compile the data from telecommunications administrations around the world. Bell System telephones connect with more than 98 per cent of the world's telephones, which means Americans can easily call to such exotic places as Sao Tome, an island of a Portuguese overseas province in the Gulf of Guinea about 125 miles off the West Coast of Africa. Telephone service with the U. S. was established in 1969.

The United States has 131,606,000 telephones -- more than any other country. It's followed by Japan, with 34,021,155, and next by the United Kingdom, with 17,570,904.

The Republic of China has been added to the list of countries with more than a half million telephones, bringing the total to 39. Of the world's 21 metropolitan areas with more than a million telephones, eight are in the United States -- Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis-St. Paul, New York, and Philadelphia.

In 1972, people in the United States made more than 180 billion telephone calls, the greatest volume among the world's telephone users.

The politicians have convinced us that some of them have to be liars.

FSU TO OFFER GRADUATE PROGRAM

The School of Business at Florence State University is studying the possibility of offering a Master of Business Administration degree beginning in the fall of 1975, according to Lawrence H. Conwill, acting dean. This graduate program would be designed to provide specialized knowledge in various areas of commerce to men and women who already hold a baccalaureate degree in business or non-business areas.

The program would emphasize the integration of knowledge and the development of basic decision-making skills necessary for the professional manager of today.

The M.B.A. program, as presently conceived, would consist primarily of late evening or night courses which would allow a student with a business undergraduate degree to graduate with approximately 30 semester hours of acceptable graduate work leading to the M.B.A. degree.

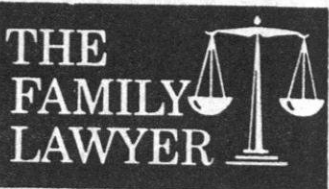

The 30 hours of graduate work would consist of seven required core graduate courses which would be 21 hours.

The remaining three courses or nine hours would be taken in either marketing, management, economics, finance or accounting. The purpose of this would be to allow the student to specialize if he chooses.

A person with a non-business undergraduate degree could expect to complete the degree requirements with approximately 60 semester hours, depending upon the background of the student. The first year would be used to fulfill prerequisite business course requirements which would consist of approximately 27 to 30 semester hours.

According to Conwill, anyone interested in pursuing an M.B.A. degree or in taking graduate level courses in business or economics should contact the School of Business at 766-4100, ext. 261. Conwill stated that if there is sufficient response to justify offering the program, the School of Business will immediately begin plans for the implementation of an M.B.A. degree program for the Fall term of 1975.

Conwill stressed that response to the questionnaire during the next week will largely determine the feasibility of offering an M.B.A. program at Florence State University.

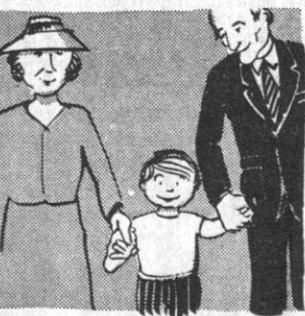

Rights Of Grandparents

Do grandparents have a legal right to the companionship of their grandchildren? Consider the tale of woe brought into court by an elderly couple.

"Since our daughter died, relations with our son-in-law have gone from bad to worse. Lately he won't let his little boy come to visit us, or even let us go to visit him. Surely we have a right to see our own grandchild."

But the court refused to come to their aid. The court said that since the father had legal custody, he alone could decide whom the child should see.

This is the usual rule—that grandparents have no independent right, against parental wishes, to spend time with their grandchildren. However, courts have held the other way if the child's own welfare is clearly at stake.

For example: Custody of two little girls in a divorce case was awarded to their mother. At the time, she did not object to giving visitation privileges to the father's parents, since the children had a long and loving relationship with them.

Later, she changed her mind, and tried to end these visits with the grandparents. But this time, a court ruled—for the sake of the children—that the contact should not be broken off.

"To have suddenly severed this close blood tie of love and affection," said the court, "might well have caused emotional disturbance."

Furthermore, there is always the possibility that grandparents can take over full-time custody by proving that the parent is no longer a fit person to be in charge.

Thus, in another case, the grandparents of a three-year-old boy were able to show that his mother was guilty of frequent intoxication and immorality.

The court switched custody to them outright. The boy would be better off not merely to visit, said the court, but to move right in.

FROM THE STATE CAPITOL
By Martha Carole White,
State Representative
The 1974 Legislative session seems to have gotten off to a good start, since its beginning at noon on January 8. Because of illness, our House Speaker was not able to be with us, and Rep. Edgar Stephens, of New Albany, has been presiding in his absence.

In the opening days we approved several rule changes which we hope will help speed up our process of considering the over 700 bills already filed. Everyone belongs to two or three major committees, and it is in these committees that each bill is first considered.

Some readers have asked me what they should do if they have an idea on a particular thing that they think should or should not be a law.

Since all laws are first just ideas that people have on how they think things should be, you should communicate your suggestions to your Representatives or Senators. This can be done any time during the year, as we can draft and pre-file bills between sessions.

During our first week a study committee reported its findings on the necessity of establishing a school of veterinary medicine in Mississippi. They found that Mississippians lost $50 million last year because of diseases in large animals. The shortage of veterinarians will increase in the future, because fewer Mississippi students can find space in schools outside the state.

Mississippi State University has been recommended as the location of the new school, and bills to carry out the committee's suggestions will be considered during this session.

If you have an interest in a particular bill and would like to have a copy, please know and I'll have you.

About Welfare

Mississippi is one of five states whose ineligible in the to Families with Dependent Children cases did not exceed the three percent tolerance limit established by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare," Max M. Cole, Commissioner of the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare stated.

"This further illustrates the soundness and integrity of Mississippi's Public Welfare Program and is an example of the dedication of public welfare employees who take seriously the responsibilities of determining eligibility for our AFCD recipients, thus assuring the taxpayers of Mississippi of the adherence to a quality program," Cole commented.

Even though overpayments in Aid to Families with Dependent Children exceeded the tolerance limit of five percent by 3.6 percent, Mississippi had the lowest percentage of overpayments in the Southeastern states. The state has eighteen months to bring this in line before loss of federal funds, Cole explained.

Commissioner Cole praised the department staff in their endeavor to limit overpayments but recognizes that more work remains to be done. One step taken to correct overpayments has been the insertion of notices in the welfare checks each month to report any change in income or resources to the county offices since the department does not have adequate staff to determine continuing eligibility each six months as required by the department of HEW.

CENSUS REPORT

Sales of the 3,330 wholesale establishments in Mississippi totaled $3,794 million in 1972, an increase of 64 percent over 1967 sales, according to preliminary data collected in the 1972 Census of Wholesale Trade and reported this week by the Bureau of the Census, an agency of the U. S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

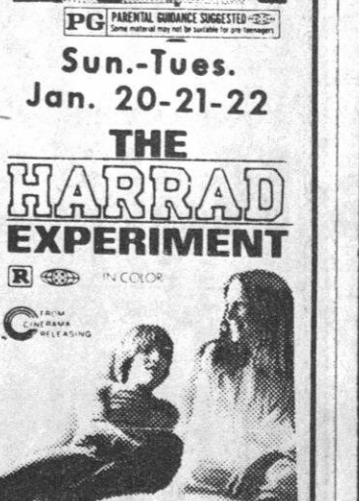

Total payroll of wholesale establishments in the State in 1972 amounted to $209 million, an increase of 79 percent over 1967, the year of the last previous economic census.

The final wholesale trade report for Mississippi, WC72 (A)-25, will contain considerably more kind-of-business data statistics for geographic subdivisions (counties, cities, standard metropolitan statistical areas) within the State. Announcements containing descriptions and publication dates of the various publications to be issued in the 1972 Census of Wholesale Trade series, as well as an order form for securing the reports, can be obtained from the Publications Distribution Section, Social Economic Statistics Administration, Washington, D.C. 20233.
