FOOD ADVERTISING

If you were to put foods in their order of decreasing usefulness, you might have something like this: Fruits and vegetables, fish, meat, milk, eggs, bread, breakfast cereals, snack foods, candy and soft drinks.

But look at the amount of TV advertising each of these foods gets. The money that is spent advertising the least nutritious of the list is far greater than that spent on the most beneficial foods.

One of the reasons is money. Fruits and vegetables, for example, are produced by thousands of small producers while the soft drink industry is dominated by two giant corporations with huge advertising budgets.

As a result, soft drink and sugar-coated breakfast food sales are soaring while fruit and vegetable sales decrease. There is very little money behind the advertising of fruits and vegetables. The low mark-up and the lack of dominant companies make widespread advertising impossible. On the other hand foods with artificially inflated prices can afford TV advertising.

One of the bad side effects of TV advertising are the "cute" ads for low-nutrition foods which teach children incorrect nutrition habits.

TV advertising is not the lone culprit. An advertising study of five top women's magazines found the principal items in order of space were: (1) desserts, (2) condiments,

(3) fats and oils, (4) starches, and (5) snacks.

Playing up the desirability of food, whether nutritious or not, is the aim of advertising. Resisting the temptation to be deceived is the consumer's duty.

LOOK FOR LABELS

Choosing things that will be attractive in a room can be the most enjoyable adventure of your shopping trip. Learning what is practical and durable can be interesting.

Labels or tags on yard goods and ready-mades can answer the following questions:

*How should you clean it? Can you wash it by hand or by machine?

*How much will it shrink? If you find no shrinkage facts on a washable fabric, you'll need to preshrink it or allow for extra deep hems.

*How colorfast is it? Many materials will wash or dry-clean without fading, but no material is completely color-fast to sunlight.

*Does the fabric have a special finish? Many ready-made fabrics have finishes that give you something special such as, resistance to spots or wrinkles and longtime crispness.

From The State Capitol

By Martha Carole White,
State Representative

Moving into the final days of the session, both houses approved a reorganization of mental health administration, effective July 1. Incorporated into the new agency are the Interagency Commission on Mental Illness and Mental Retardation and the Mental Institutions Board.

The new director will oversee, administer planning and coordination of mental retardation, alcohol and drug misuse, and mental health.

Approval has been given to a measure to provide a tax break for persons age 65 and older, fully exempting them from property taxes on the first $5000 value of their homes.

The bill is expected to cost $5 million. Counties would retain one mill of the state property tax to cover the revenue loss.

To be eligible a person must be 65 years or older, or a veteran with a 100% service connected disability and head of the household. The bill specifies that "head of household" shall not apply to any person if there resides in the home of such person any other person over the age of twenty-one (except the spouse of the head of the family) unless such person is a full-time student in a college or university in the state; or, is permanently and totally disabled; or is regularly employed to care for the head of a family or for the spouse of the head of a family; or is a relative within the third degree computed according to the rule of civil law of the head of the family or of the spouse of the head of a family resides there-in primarily for the purpose of caring for a permanently or totally disabled head of a family or spouse of the head of a family. The bill will take effect in March of 1975.

Our session is now over, final adjournment having come April 6. This will be the last column until the new session begins, unless a special session is called during the summer, which seems now to be a possibility.

Your communications and support during this 90 day session has been appreciated. I am now, as always, proud to represent you, and I am looking forward to the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Vanos and children, Sally and Jim, of Columbus, Ohio, are spending the week at their cabin.

TORNADOES

People living in areas subject to frequent tornadoes should prepare some type of tornado shelter. A root-celler makes an excellent tornado shelter and requires very little modification. Locate the tornado shelter near the residence but not so close that falling walls or debris could block the entrance. If there is a bank or rise in the ground nearby, a cellar might be dug into it to take advantage of the extra protection the bank or rise might provide.

The tornado shelter should not be connected to the house drain, cess pool, sewer, or gas pipes. Upon entering the shelter, leave the surface door open. The inside shelter door should be hinged to open inward so it will open even when debris blocks the entrance. The shelter need not be large but it should be large enough to provide storage for a lantern, pick, crow-bar and other tools that might be needed for rescue work or to clear debris from the shelter entrance.

If a TORNADO WATCH is announced:

1. Listen to the radio for weather advisories. A battery-powered radio should be available in case electric power is lost.

2. Move loose objects indoors or tie them down.

If a TORNADO WARNING is announced: Move to your tornado shelter immediately. Stay away from windows.

If OFFICE BUILDINGS, move to an interior hallway on a lower floor or go to the designated shelter area.

AT HOME, go to the most protected and strongest part of the basement. If you have no basement, seek shelter at the lowest level in the center of the house, in a small room or closet, or under sturdy furniture.

WHILE SHOPPING, seek shelter inside a solidly built building, not one with a wide free-span roof.

AT SCHOOL, follow the school disaster plan. Stay away from auditoriums, gymnasiums, and other areas with wide, free-span roofs. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS.

IN OPEN COUNTRY, move away from the tornado's path at right angles. If there is not enough time to move into a shelter or avoid the storm, lie flat in a ditch, ravine, culvert, or under a bridge. DO NOT STAY IN YOUR CAR.

IN A TRAILER OR MOBILE HOME, move to a shelter area far enough away from the trailer to avoid being injured if it is overturned. All mobile homes should be tied down.

If you are in a thinly settled rural area and observe a tornado, report it promptly to the nearest law-enforcement officer or National Weather Service Office - giving the type of storm and its location, intensity and direction of movement. When you report, give your name and address. Write the telephone number of the office to which you will report with your other emergency telephone numbers.

Be very careful entering buildings that have been subject to tornado winds. The walls and overhead structures may be weakened by the tornado. Watch for fire hazards such as damaged wires and short circuits, and broken gas pipes. Watch for falling debris such as ceiling materials.

Use your sense of smell only to check the house for gas leaks. Do not strike open matches, smoke, or carry open flames until you are sure there are no gas leaks. If you smell gas, open doors and windows, cut off the main gas valve, notify the gas company, and leave until you are told it is safe to re-enter.

Stay clear of disaster areas. Sight seeing can be very dangerous and may hamper rescue operations.

New Regulations
Mobile Home
For Purchasers

State Insurance Commissioner Evelyn Gandy announced new regulations for the protection of purchasers of mobile homes.

The regulations will apply to factory construction of new mobile homes, and will be enforced by the State Fire Marshal's Office. The move is part of a continuing effort to upgrade safety and quality in mobile homes.

The new rules will increase the insulation which manufacturers are required to install in walls, ceiling and flooring of mobile homes.

Also, a Smoke Detector must be installed outside and within ten feet of each bedroom. The Smoke Detector has proven to be of great value, as a large number of fatalities in mobile home fires have been the result of smoke inhalation and asphyxiation.

For those people with older mobile homes, the smoke detectors may be obtained from most mobile home supply houses. The cost is approximately $25 for the detector itself and in most cases it can be plugged into a receptacle. However, if wiring is necessary, the entire cost for detector and wiring should be not more than $50.

The new regulations, which are already in force, apply to all new mobile homes sold in Mississippi. Both state and out of state manufacturers are in compliance.

Anyone with questions regarding the new regulations should contact Mr. Walter Hester, State Fire Marshal's office, Jackson, Miss.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of sheer over peau de soie with ruffled neckline and apron skirt. A Juliet cap held her veil, and she carried roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Don Champion was best man, Miss Page Hooks attended the bride.

The couple left for a Virginia wedding trip after a reception. They will live in Bessemer.

ent, Iuka City Board of Education; Stanley Magill, principal, Iuka High School; Charles E. Moore, superintendent, Alcorn County Board of Education; and David Brown and Col. Ralph W. Girdner of Florence State.

Jack Odom Member Polled Hereford Assn.

Jack Odom, of Route 3, Iuka, has become a new member of the American Polled Hereford Association, according to an announcement from the beef breed Association's National Headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

Some 2,600 cattlemen have joined the American Polled Hereford Association in the past year, more than reported by any other association.

There are more than 100,000 owners and breeders of Polled Herefords in the U. S. The naturally hornless Polled Herefords are the only major breed of livestock to originate in the United States, starting with 11 head in 1901.

Today Polled Herefords are the fastest growing major beef breed in the world. Some 3-million Polled Herefords have been registered in the U. S. since 1901; one-third of the total in the past five years, illustrating the remarkable growth and universal acceptance of the breed.

American Polled Herefords have been exported to all the beef producing countries of the world.

Reading Clinic At NEMJC

A reading clinic will be held at Northeast Mississippi Junior College during the 1974 summer term. Students from the eighth grade through Junior College and other interested adults may enroll in the program.

The clinic is designed to aid the student in developing reading skills necessary for success in college. Diagnostic testing will be followed by practice in skills according to the needs of the student. Emphasis will be placed on vocabulary use involving language usage, commonly misspelled words, and pronunciation, reading, comprehension, and study skills. The student will be guided in the development of wide reading interests. A well-equipped laboratory is available for those who are interested in speed reading.

Students from the eighth grade through Junior College and other individuals may take the course for self-improvement in reading. High School seniors upon recommendation of their principal may take the course for college credit to be held on reserve until their college admissions is complete.

For further information, please contact the Office of Continuing Education at Northeast.

ANIMALS

By Mary B. Davis

FROM THE MAIL BOX

A few months ago, a native Tishomingo County and her husband took a trip to Europe. They were very interested in animals, and the couple took special note of the animals they saw while there. On a recent trip to Europe, they were amazed and pleased to see the number of pets in public places.

At the museum of the Tower of London, just a few feet from the English Crown Jewels, we saw a cat sleeping at the foot of one of the ancient displays. Almost every restaurant, we noticed a dog or cat that belonged to the owner and served as a mascot.

Other patrons brought their pets inside as they ate. Unfortunately, we Americans are not quite so relaxed or so humane to our pets.

On almost every bus ride, we noticed pets. One must buy a ticket for a pet, but certainly it is more desirable than confining an animal to a kennel or an unsafe baggage compartment of an airplane, bus, or train.

"In Paris, a lady boarded public transportation with a birdcage filled with lovely canaries.

"What a joy it was to observe sensible, humane treatment of domestic pets. We Americans can learn a lesson from this European precedent.

"We were made acutely aware of this aspect of European tradition because of the pressing problems we are facing with animals (especially with dogs and cats) in the New York City and New Jersey area where we live and work.

"Thousands of dogs and cats are homeless. This indeed is depressing despite the efforts of many who are concerned about the problem. Certainly this situation is not unique to the East; it occurs in every community.

"Interested citizens are demanding shelters to cope with the problem.

"Thinking and concerned citizens of Tishomingo County should support the efforts to obtain an animal shelter for Tishomingo County."

Written by Dr. Patricia Currie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Summers, of Iuka, the interesting letter clearly shows that even though Pat no longer lives in Tishomingo

Central 4-H Club Presents Program

The Central 4-H Club, whose leader is Mrs. Annie Gray, and whose Junior Leader is Janice Walker, presented a program for the Central RCDC at the Central Community Center on March 4.

Songs were led by Terri Luttrell and Vickie Dean. Vickie gave the devotional and the Indian Prayer.

The program was centered around American Indians. Lori Dean read several paragraphs from the Encyclopedia about the first Americans. Kevin Robertson and Cindy Patrick, dressed in Indian costumes, gave a demonstration about the food the Indians grew and the tools they used. They set up a Teepee made from poles and a colorful Indian blanket. Kevin showed how to use the bow and arrow and how to smoke a peace pipe. Authentic Indian arrow heads, spear heads, beads, baskets, bags made from leather, and a rock used to grind grain were displayed.

Warren Robertson gave a demonstration on rocks. He showed a collection of beautiful polished rocks from different states. His collection was polished and labeled. He explained how to polish rocks and how interesting it can be to become "a rock hound."

County, she is still very much interested in the humane movement which has been going on all over the state for the past four or five years.

Pat and her husband, Jim Currie, are both concerned about the indifference so many people show toward the unwanted animals -- and so are some other humane-minded men and women from this area who now live elsewhere.

With the support of such humanitarians, things are bound to get better.

Annual Art Exhibit At NEMJC

Students at The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Art Department are preparing for their annual spring exhibit. The exhibit will include several works by each art major. The show will officially open to the public Sunday, April 21, 2-4 p.m. in Hines Hall. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to high school juniors and seniors who are interested in art.

Art majors whose work will be on exhibit from Tishomingo County are: Wayne Ashcraft, Debbie Gann, James Coffey, and Robert Montgomery.

Wayne Ashcraft, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ashcraft, is an art major from Tishomingo. He has been a member of the Visual Arts League for the past two years. Wayne plans to become a professional artist and possibly specialize in the area of pottery. Wayne was the first place winner in the category of drawing in the 1972-73 annual student art exhibit.

Debbie Gann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gann, is a sophomore art major from Iuka. Debbie is a member of the Visual Arts League. She chose art as her major because she began painting when she was 15 and liked it. She decided she wanted to learn more about art and its techniques. She told us, "I can express myself through art and it gives me a better understanding of things." Debbie plans to teach art therapy at a mental institution in the future.

James Coffey, the son of Mrs. Bonnie Coffey, is a freshman member of the Visual Arts League and the B.S.U. Choir. He selected art as his major because he enjoys it and because he can express his personal feelings through it. He plans to attend Florence State after he finishes his studies at Northeast.

Robert Montgomery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Montgomery, of Belmont. Robert is a sophomore art major who is presently serving as vice-president of the Visual Arts League. Robert is also a member of the Northeast Tennis Team. The reason he chose art as his major is the need to create. He also said, "Only a few people know anything about art and he would like to broaden their scope of art." He plans to attend Florence State after this semester.

Visit Beautiful Hawaii

A happy surprise awaits those who will be making the Tishomingo County News Hawaiian Tour department Memphis June 21. That surprise is the beauty of the islands and the relaxed atmosphere enjoyed by visitors. To most first-time visitors, Hawaii is more than a land of dreams-come-true; it is a land of innumerable happy surprises.

One such surprise, for some, is to learn that Hawaii is not just one island, but a lovely chain of islands, each differing from the other in size, geographical features, attractions and things to do.

Even more surprising to many is to find that bustling, exciting Honolulu and Waikiki, on the island of Oahu, are not the be-all and end-all of Hawaii. Rather, they are the gateway to another, more leisured, more charming Hawaii which lies close at hand on the friendly Neighbor Islands.

An understanding to these facts is the key to full enjoyment of your visit to Hawaii. Turn this magic key yourself -- with a pleasant tour with friends from our own area on the Tishomingo County News Hawaiian Tour.

Hawaii is the Orchid Island. Largest and southernmost island in the group, Hawaii offers greater scenic variety and more striking contrasts than any of the others. Here you may see, at close range and in perfect safety, intermittently active Kilauea Volcano, the chain of craters, lava tubes and tree fern forests which are part of Hawaii Volcanoes National Park. From the palm-fringed shores of Hilo Bay, your gaze will take in cane fields -- and the lofty peaks of Mauna Kea and Mauna Loa, snow-capped in winter. Nearby is the remarkable Black Sand Beach of Kalahele. Across the island from Hilo, the historic Kona Coast beckons game fishermen, history buffs and those who value a relaxing, easy-going vacation atmosphere.

Maui, the Valley Island, is actually two islands joined together by a fertile peninsula, where modern suburbs adjoin broad fields of waving sugar cane. Maui's eastern "half" is a massive volcanic peak -- majestic, 10,000-foot Haleakala, legendary home of Hawaii's Sun God. Along Kanahele Beach, Maui's dazzling resort area, delightful hotels have a Hawaiian way of gently matching the mood to suit each traveler.

You will visit these three islands on the Tishomingo County News Hawaiian Tour -- Oahu, Hawaii, and Maui. Your tour will be escorted from the time it leaves Memphis. It will be a great way to spend your vacation!

DRUGS

Heavy users of LSD sometimes develop impaired memory and attention span, mental confusion, and difficulty with abstract thinking. These signs of organic brain changes may be subtle or pronounced. It is not known whether these alterations persist or whether they are reversible if the use of LSD is discontinued.

IS THE LSD STATE LIKE THE MYSTICAL STATE?

The transcendental or mystical state includes feelings of wonder or ecstasy, a sense of perceiving beauty, the absence of rational thought, a sense of discovering great meaning. Many of these phenomena can be mimicked by the LSD state, which is why it has been called a "religious" drug.

DO YOU REALLY GET TO KNOW YOURSELF AFTER LSD?

The illusion that one obtains insights about one's personality and behavior while under LSD may occur. From an analysis of these "insights" and of subsequent behavior, it is doubtful that true insights happen with any regularity.

THE ACCOUNTING DEPT. of the TIBB Branch of the Lester Hill Corporation at the Tishomingo County Vo-Tech Center employs five persons. There are 17 office employees in this branch office.

Lester Hill Corp. Back In Operation

On March 26 and 27, Mr. Billy Glover and Mr. Roy Partlow, Personnel Managers for Blue Bell, Inc., donated their time to test, screen, and interview applicants for office positions with Lester Hill Corporation which has recently opened two branch offices in Tishomingo County at the Tishomingo County Vo-Tech Center. The Red Clay Branch Office employs 9, and the TIBB Branch Office employs 17.

The Lester Hill Corporation is a large distributor of institutional equipment and supplies. Through its branch offices scattered all over the United States, it is capable of serving a large number of motels, hotels, and other residential institutions with most of the items they need for maintenance and basic operations. The regular operating hours of the corporation are from 8:15 - 10:45 a.m. and from 12:15 - 2:45 p.m. Monday thru Friday. This company will operate these two branch offices until the end of the current school year. The Business and Office Occupations students at the Vo-Tech Center obtained most of the office positions in the company. Lester Hill Corporation is a simulated office project in which vocational office training students receive experience as though they are actually working on a job. This experience will prove invaluable to the students as they prepare for office jobs because they learn to get along with others, learn office procedures, and flow of work, learn the importance of good work habits, accuracy, attendance, grooming, personality, etc.; and they learn the rewards and consequences of accepting responsibility and following or failing to follow instructions.

The employees of the Lester Hill Corporation invite everyone to come for a tour of their facilities and to observe the procedures and techniques they are practicing.

IN MEMORIAM

OUR DEAR LOVED ONE,
MILTON BONDS,
Who Passed Away April 13, 1973

God came and took you from us, He thought that it was best, You worked for Him so many years he wanted you to rest.

On a quiet Friday morning, When everything was still, He sent His angels after you, For them to work His will.

Tho it hurts us so much, dear loved one, We knew you had to go, You did everything you could Here on this earth below.

You lived your life for those you loved, And you loved all God's creation, Your life to those around you Was a constant revelation.

Our home has been so sad and lonely, Since you went away, But with God's help we'll meet you on that great judgment day.

In a quiet and peaceful graveyard we have laid you to rest, We know that God is going to say, "Welcome home faithful servant, for you have met the test."

DELINQUENT ADULTS

By E. Odell Thornton

"Today the problem of youth is uppermost in the minds and hearts of the American people. A friend said to me, what has happened to our young people? My reply was, 'Parents.' We need to work on the parents. If the adults are right, the boys and girls will be better. If we adults fail them, they are lost. We spend a lot of time preaching at them. Our hope for the future lies with the youth of today. But it can be realized only if we adults pass on to them a high spiritual value. In reading an article these words stuck in my mind. It said that the test of a developed personality is 'appropriate response to value.' Our responsibility to our youth is to help them learn this appropriate response, how to put first things first. These first things are presented in St. Matt. 6: 19-34. Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all of these things shall be added unto you. They do not learn this from our preaching or our fuss at them, but by adults presenting them with a living example in their own lives, and this is just where many adults fade out. What adults are doing today shouts so loud in the ears of young people that they cannot hear what adults say."

Investigators (a friend is a juvenile parole officer) into delinquency find indifference of parents to religious training of their children a factor. Not so much in view of church affiliation, but something sadly lacking in the quality of their life.

There is no doubt that parents today give their children more things, more money than ever, but give less of themselves. They think that anything can be bought, even happiness. Yes, I am talking about adults that go to church and think that they are good Christians, they deprive their children of love. One judge said, "A delinquent child has long been at odds with its parents; a good child feels close to the parents."

Some young people lack human values, the most of the blame rests on the adults. The trend of modern life, which most tend to accept without question, and do little to counteract, works towards a progressive weakening of the family life. Most of church or religious training, work, recreation and other activities which the family once did together, now takes place mostly outside the home and church. This weakens the tie which should exist between father and mother, parents and child.

How often one hears young people say, "There is nothing to do at home," meaning that the home atmosphere is not what it should be. The adults are thinking of themselves, not the children. Very often they are told not to bring their friends home with them, because they might be noisy or scuff the furniture or interfere with a TV program. Nine times out of ten they (parents) don't know where their children are.

The old saying, "As the twig is bent, so the tree is inclined," contains more than the obvious lesson. Have you ever thought of this? The same natural strength of growth goes into a crooked tree that should go into the straight one, but how different they turn out to be. The tree is not a product of its environment, but the crookedness sure is. The child has great natural potentialities; his environment does not give to him, but what direction they will take as they develop depends on the kind of environment the adults make for him.

What kind of a job are we adults doing to help the younger generation to acquire the habit of "appropriate response to value"? Don't we know that the kind of atmosphere in which our young people are growing up in; that they are being conditioned by it? There is a grave responsibility facing the adults to make the good atmosphere in the home and the church.

Just to guard the child from danger is not enough. It will not do. The adults must do things with them. How ever one looks at it, the adults' participation is a must in today's world. A few years ago one could send its children to Sunday school, youth services and church, but that just doesn't work in this day and time. The adult must go with them or they don't go. Even if they did, they adopt mixed-up ideas; they cannot do otherwise because of the pattern around them. If the church is good for me, why is it not good enough for father and mother? He must learn value from adults. What is a child to do if the adults in his life are uncertain about the basic values of life?

The true values of life are not a push-button thing. It is not operated by remote control.

Young people need help from adults in facing up to the realities of life. Only if adults are interested in the welfare of others will the youth become so. What happens to the youth if he sees the supposedly mature adults acting like 16-year-olds, adults that are emotionally immature. The Apostle Paul gave adequate advice when writing to the Corinthians, When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childish things, 1 Cor. 13:11.

There are many adults today who are emotionally disturbed and unstable, that are inconsistent and weak, the result is that they are more often involved in tangles. We are in a vicious circle. Immature, mixed-up adults rear those kind of children, the number increases as families multiply.

When adults hold the "no-value" attitude toward their church, young people accept the same code of conduct and it becomes a recognized pattern. One young man said, my Dad says he believes in One God, I know that he does . . . His One God is the All-mighty ($8) dollar. When I was just a child, he gave me a penny to put in the collection plate, and he generously put in a dime. I soon recognized his value of religion was nine times more copper.

It seems that "everybody cares about the young people." But few ask "What must we do for our children and young people?" This is a job for the adults. It is not enough for adults in the churches to build recreation centers and think that the problem is solved. These do not satisfy the needs of youth for personal relationships with those whom they can look up to as the kind of people they want to be. Young people and adults must come into the church together. Youth activities in church tend to weaken both adult. There is a tendency to associate. In preparation for life, provided a reason for we would like to see our friends, neighbors, relatives for all calls, cards, flowers, in our time of sorrow. Especially North Crossroads in May God bless the

Upsilon Chapter Of Delta Kappa Gamma Met

Upsilon Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, educational, honorary, professional society, met Saturday, April 6, at Coleman State Park Restaurant with forty-four members attending from Alcorn, Prentiss, Tippah, Shomingo and Union Counties. After the collect was read by Mrs. Plume Williams, members enjoyed a smorgasbord including a birthday cake in keeping with the society's founders' Day celebration. The Delta Kappa Gamma colors — red and gold — and the society's flower, the red rose, were used in cake decorations; and an arrangement of fresh red roses was placed beside the cake. At dessert time the out-going president, Mrs. William Harmon, of New Albany, presided over the cutting of the cake, and members sang "Happy Birthday."

Tables were attractively decorated with fresh spring flowers — azaleas, iris, and native wood. Permanent arrangements of yellow tulips and Easter eggs carried out the spring theme. Each member and as a favor at her plate tiny umbrella, a rain cap or purse-size tape measure, and ball-point pen. Pins were furnished by First National Bank of luka.

The program, "Changing Times: Challenge or Dilemma," concerned multi-vocations, avocations, and leisure time. The idea presented was that in this age of technological advancement, everyone — those of school age, senior citizens, and those between these age groups — should find challenges one or more of three areas.

Emphasis was placed on volunteer work and the school — community relationship.

Installation of officers concluded the program.

Hostesses for the occasion included Mrs. Plume Williams, Miss Rayma Biggs, and Mrs. Sam Daniel, of luka, and Mrs. Hershel Harris and Mrs. J. B. Moore, of Belmont.

The Shakespearean Garden was begun in 1964 by English Literature students who established a monument and planted a red dog wood tree in commemoration of the playwright, William Shakespeare. At that time the students placed a time capsule which is to be opened in 1984 when the class of '64 assemble for a reunion.

Each year since 1964, the students under the direction of Mrs. O. C. Robinson have made contributions to the garden. The contributions include monuments, walks, an arch bearing the inscription, "To thine own self be true," a bride of native Tishomingo stone, swings, a silhouette of Shakespeare, a wishing well, and a fountain. Each year the students plant flowers, particularly those mentioned by Shakespeare in his plays.

The public is cordially invited to attend the dedication ceremony and the banquet. Tickets for the banquet may be secured from Room 222 in Anderson Hall, from Literature students or by writing Mrs. O. C. Robinson at Northeast.

It Won't Be Long

BY

Lindsey Earl Jones

It won't be long til I'll be leaving this world of sin below. Each sunset brings me closer to my eternal home.

Where I can live with Jesus the one who died for me.

That I might have salvation while living in this life.

And a home with Him in glory when he calls for me to go.

Sometimes I get so homesick with all the sin and trouble in this world below.

But I know it won't be long til this life will all be over. And a new one I'll begin in a land where all trouble will be over and where there will be no devil to tempt me.

So help me God to do your will and live more like You each day.

And be a light to some lost soul that's drifting too far from the shore.
