Tenn-Tom Waterway Start Begins With Huge Blast

Predicting an economic boom of unprecedented proportions, political leaders from three states hailed the beginning of construction on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Monday at Yellow Creek Port.

"A very big day for Mississippi, the Southeast and the Nation," said Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller.

"It will compare with the Louisiana Purchase, the St. Lawrence Seaway and TVA," declared Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, of Mississippi, ranking member of the House Appropriations Committee.

"A milestone in the economic history of the Nation," commented Rep. Joe L. Evins of Tennessee, another veteran member of the House Appropriations Committee.

"It will make this section of the Rhine Valley of the United States," said R. C. "Red" Bamberg, representing Gov. George Wallace, of Alabama.

"A great day in the history of our Republic," was the way Rep. Bob Jones, of Alabama, viewed the project.

"A red letter day for Mississippi . . . it will make a good living and cause a boom that we'll never see end," said Sen. James O. Eastland, president pro tempore of the Senate.

"A significance to future generations beyond any imagination," opined Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn.

An enthusiastic audience of almost 5,000 thundered its approval as the four key Congressmen were given awards in recognition of "aggressive leadership and faithful service during the past quarter of a century" supporting the Tenn-Tom Waterway.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held at Yellow Creek Port near the place where the states of Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee connect and the northern end of the 253-mile waterway project.

A ceremonial blast marked the actual beginning of construction on the project that was conceived before Alabama and Mississippi became states and dreamed of since the days of the early explorers.

Legislative interest in the Waterway began in 1810 when a group of Tennesseans petitioned Congress to build the project. Beginning in 1870, the project has been studied almost every ten years since. The first study establishing its economic justification was made in 1938. Congress authorized the project in 1946, but was declared inactive six years later. A new feasibility study was started in 1957 and declared active in 1967.

At that time, the project was given a benefit-cost ratio of 1.27 to 1 and pre-construction planning and engineering has continued at an accelerated pace. The latest benefit-cost ratio is 1.5 to 1 -- $1.50 in economic benefits for every $1 spent.

Congress approved $1 million to begin construction in fiscal year '71 and has consistently increased the appropriation each year since, to the '74 appropriation of $18 million. The House of Representatives has already approved $37.9 million for fiscal year '75, and the Senate is expected to concur.

Construction on the first portion began at the Gainesville, Ala., Lock and Dam in 1972 and $40 million in contracts has already been let. Another lock and dam at Aliceville, Ala., has also been started.

Construction started Monday consists of a 40-mile long Divide Cut section that will include a lock and dam at Bay Springs, Miss., with a 7,000 acre reservoir behind it; a deep, 25-mile-long cut from the Bay Springs Reservoir through the dividing ridge to Pickwick Lake and seven miles of excavation in Pickwick Reservoir down Yellow Creek to the Tennessee River.

An estimated 145 million cubic yards of material will be moved, almost 70 percent of the excavation required for the Panama Canal. The Nashville District of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is in charge of construction on the northern end of the Waterway. The project is planned for completion in 600 days.

The overall project will consist of five locks and dams, plus five separate locks to overcome a 341-foot difference in elevation. Each lock and dam will raise the water an average of 30 feet, except at the Bay Springs Lock and Dam where an 84-foot lift will be required to carry the Waterway over the divide and into the Tennessee.

The Waterway project will join the Tennessee River with the Black Warrior-Tombigbee Rivers from Demopolis to Mobile. That will line 23 states in Mid-America to a 16,000-mile waterway system that will be connected to the Gulf of Mexico through the Port of Mobile.

The entire project is scheduled for completion in 1981. Congressman Jones said Monday that date seems more realistic all the time -- and will cost an estimated $703 million, including $80 million in funds from the five compact states. Florida and Kentucky are also involved in funding the Waterway.

DIANE GOES TO VICKSBURG Miss Patricia Diane Cutshall, Miss Tishomingo County 1974, will be arriving in Vicksburg on July 15th to participate in the 1974 Miss Mississippi Pageant. FISH BUYING TIPS

Cooking fish over an open fire can be one of the tastiest experiences of the summer. Follow these simple tips to make the fish fry more enjoyable and delicious.

One serving of fish usually includes from one third to one half pound of edible fish. Therefore, for a whole fish, allow about one pound per person. For dressed fish, allow 1/2 pound per person.

In selecting whole, fresh fish, look for bright, clear, bulging eyes; reddish pink gills; bright colored scales adhering tightly to the skin; and elastic flesh, springing back when pressed.

Follow the rules for correctly starting the fire.

And remember, never overcook your fish. They contain no tough connective tissues and cook very quickly. Fish should be cooked until they flake easily when tested with a fork.

WATERMELON

Watermelon is sold both as a whole or cut melon. It is usually easier to buy a good cut watermelon. When buying a cut watermelon, look for juicy flesh with good red color. Select one that has firm flesh and a fairly thin rind. Look for dark brown or black seeds. These are all indications of a top quality watermelon. Avoid melons with pale colored flesh, white streaks or whitish seeds. Also avoid buying a watermelon with dry mealy flesh or watery, stringy flesh. These are signs of overmaturity or aging after harvest.

Although there is no completely reliable method for selecting a good uncut watermelon, there are some guides which usually lead you to a good selection. Look for a watermelon that is firm and symmetrical. It should have a fresh appearance. There should be a "bloom" on the surface of the rind giving it a velvety or slightly dull look. The ends of the melon should be filled out and rounded. A slight roughness on the surface is also an indication that it is nature. Look for a creamy color on the underside of the melon.

Watermelon is not only delicious and refreshing on a hot summer day, it also provides some important nutrients. One 4 X 8 inch wedge supplies half of an adult's daily vitamin A requirement. It is also a good source of vitamin C.

Unless a watermelon is immature, store it in the refrigerator. An immature melon will ripen further at room temperature. Wrap halves or pieces with plastic wrap or another type wrap to prevent the cut surface from drying out. A good wrapping also prevents the aromas of the melon from spreading to other foods in the refrigerator.

Allow at least 12 hours to chill a whole melon in the refrigerator. The amount of time required to chill halves or pieces depends on the size of the piece.

LIME AND FERTILIZER

July is lime time. Good places to spread lime while crops are growing are pastures and cropland not in crops. Pastures can be limed now without worrying about trucks bogging down. Areas to be fallowed for winter grazing should have lime spread before or between diskings. Cropland to be land leveled this summer or fall should be checked by a soil test for lime needs. The time to apply lime is after leveling. Lime is the farmer's blue chip investment when applied as needed. Farmers shouldn't put it off -- but put it on!

Soil test now. Pasture or row cropland to be planted this fall should have soil samples taken now to determine lime and fertilizer needs. A representative sample from each field will mean a sound recommendation from the soil testing laboratory. The good recommendation can't be good if based on a poor sample. Soil testing can take the guesswork out of the farmer's lime and fertilizer program.

FORAGES

When the high cost of pasture and the low selling price of products, forage needs to be stretched -- get all the grazing that's possible from each acre. Several forage stretching suggestions are:

1. Grazing management. Control grazing by concentrating 3 to 5 cows per acre; then rotate when forage is grazed. Rotational grazing controls quality by making animals graze uniformly, eliminating spot grazing.

2. Hay harvest at proper stage. Cut hay before grass heading. Grass is more nutritious when harvested before the seed head forms. Bermuda and bahia should be cut every 4 to 6 weeks, depending on moisture and fertilization.

3. Weed control. Use 2,4-D, Banvel D, or combinations of these herbicides for broadleaf weed control. Weeds take moisture, nutrients and space that pasture grasses need. Weeds also cause spot grazing. A 25 percent increase in grazing can be obtained with adequate weed control.

4. Soil test. Test a soil sample for lime needs. The main reason for liming grass pastures is to release nutrients that are already in the soil. Some nutrients may be adequate if the soil is limed. Lime just might be the best investment on pastures this year.

5. Legumes this fall. Some legumes can supply up to 200 pounds nitrogen per acre each year. It is a good idea for farmers to plan now on seeding a clover in part of their pasture acreage this fall. Seed supplies may be limited, so they need to order legume seed early, and they must be sure to buy the seed inoculant. Some legumes require specific strains of bacteria for nitrogen production.

TIMBERLAND BARGAIN

"Mississippi's Forest Resource Development Act offers a real financial breakthrough for timberland owners," according to Mississippi Forestry Commission officials.

For the first time, Mississippi's timber growers are able to reinvest severance taxes (taxes from timber harvesting) in the production of timber for future needs.

The Forest Resource Development Act allows any Mississippi landowner to apply for 75% Cost-Share Assistance for forestry improvement work regardless of how many acres owned. Landowners wanting forest improvement work can obtain up to $3,000.00 annually in Cost-Share Assistance by contacting a local Mississippi Forestry Commission County Forester and submitting an application to State Forester Billy T. Gaddis. If you qualify, funds will be set aside for the accomplishment of your forestry needs.

Landowners must apply immediately. Funds for 1974-75 will total one (1) million dollars and will be distributed on a "First Come, First Serve Basis." According to State Forester Gaddis, preliminary surveys of the early sign-up period, which began June 19th, indicate fantastic landowner response to the new Forest Development Program. Tentative figures indicate that approximately 1/3 of the program's funds have been earmarked for approval with literally hundreds of additional applications pouring into the Jackson Office.

George Ayers, District Forester, Northeast District, announced that he actively urged every landowner interested in Cost-Share Assistance to "Act Today." Ayers stated, "Such landowner acceptance, state wide, indicates that landowners must act with haste if they are to obtain assistance."

State Forester Gaddis previously termed the Forest Resource Development Program "one of the most important pieces of forestry legislation enacted in Mississippi in several decades." Landowner response further substantiates this opinion.

Additional information and applications can be obtained at County Forester's Offices throughout Mississippi.

Pulpwood Sold By Ton or Cord

A law passed by the 1974 legislature affects the buying and selling of pulpwood in Mississippi, according to B. G. Toler, president of Mississippi Forestry Association.

The new law went into effect on June 25. All pulpwood buying and selling in the state must be by the ton or cord only. This does not apply to timber sold in bulk on the stump, says Toler.

Until this law went into effect, the "unit" was a popular measure by which pulpwood was bought and sold in some sections of the state. This new law makes illegal the use of the unit as a measure of pulpwood.

Under Mississippi law, a cord is defined as 128 cubic feet, and a ton as 2000 pounds.

The now-outlawed unit was the equivalent of approximately 1.3 cords, and contained 168 cubic feet.

The new law gives enforcement responsibility to the Commissioner of Agriculture, says Toler.

New Safety Standard For Cribs In Effect

MISSISSIPPI STATE — When shopping for a crib, make sure the one selected bears a conspicuous label stating that it has been manufactured in accordance with the new federal safety standards that became effective February 1. "Full-size cribs must now incorporate changes in design that should prevent the crib-related strangulations, suffocations and falls that have been killing 200 babies and bringing 50,000 others into hospital emergency rooms each year," said Jewell McGinty, family life specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service. "Remember that the new safety standards apply only to full-size cribs. Portable and under-size cribs are still not covered by federal regulations."

It's also a good idea to take along a tape measure when crib buying because the biggest structural change in the new cribs is the closer placement of the bars or slats. If the bars are more than 2 and 3/8 inches apart, you're buying a model that does not meet safety requirements.

Older cribs can be made safe, Miss McGinty said if the crib bars are more than 2 3/8 inches apart, line all with bumper pads that are at least four inches high. Fasten the pads firmly with at least six straps. This will prevent a baby from slipping through the bars feet first, being caught by the head.

"If you can insert more than two fingers between mattress and crib sides, a gap could become wedged in. Fill the space with tightly packed towels," advised McGinty. "You should make sure the latch on drop-side of the crib cannot be opened by exploring fingers. The top of rail should be 26 inches from the mattress to fall-outs."

A free supper at the J. P. Coleman Park Restaurant will be awarded to the man and woman with the lowest score over the eighteen hole course.

BROADWAY JO being visited on her first birthday by the two men who took time out to save her life. Left, Charles Lambert. Charlie Broadway holds the cat he rescued exactly one year and one day before the picture was made.

ANIMALS

By Mary B. Davis

BROADWAY JO (Conclusion)

When Charles Lambert arrived with the still ice-cold, near-dead kitten found on the grounds of the Cutshall Funeral Home by another employee of the Home, Charlie Broadway, I thought I was ready to take over as "foster mother" for the tiny orphan.

I had rounded up a can of condensed milk, the pet-nurse (a "baby" bottom made especially for small, unweaned animals and sold at most animal clinics), and a shoe box out of which I had made a bed.

Hoping to make the motherless kitten think it was surrounded by its own little mama, brothers and sisters, I had lined the shoe box with some of Art's fuzziest, warmest socks -- stuffed with soft cloth to make them feel like other fuzzy felines. (A ticking clock wrapped in soft cloth will also give comfort to young kittens and puppies after they're taken from their mother.)

So, from a purely material standpoint, I was ready for the newcomer -- but I was far from emotionally prepared.

You see, as pointed out in the first part of this story, the new-born kitten found by Charlie Broadway was the smallest one I'd ever seen. And the more closely I looked at it, the smaller it seemed to get.

When I say that it was no bigger than my "little" finger, that is exactly what I mean. Its ears and nostrils were not yet discernible. It made no sound. No movement.

Frankly, I thought it was "dead on arrival" -- and because I did think it was dead, I got very unhappy -- and very, very FRUSTRATED. There is no feeling any sadder than thinking a person has been unable to help -- whether the thing needing help is human or animal.

Unwilling to admit the little thing was dead, though, I got as close to the heater with it as I could and put the pet-nurse where I thought its mouth ought to be.

Maybe because it had never been fed by its natural mother and therefore didn't know the difference -- or maybe because it was simply starving to death -- whatever the happy reason, that dead-looking kitten opened its tiny mouth wide and took that pet-nurse as if it had been nursing for a week!

Now, that first-feeding episode took place exactly one year, two months, and twenty nine days ago today (the day I'm writing the conclusion to Broadway Jo's story).

So far, I must've used a ton of typing paper, trying to reduce her story to a size suitable for the "Animals" column. But to tell all the interesting things I could tell about this very special kitten, would take the entire Tishomingo County News.

But, I certainly want to tell how she got her name; how she got me out of bed when she got hungry; and how her life was affected by Art's soft, fuzzy socks!

Maybe for the same silly reason that very tall people are often called Shorty -- every time I looked at that unusually puny, fragile kitten, I kept saying to it: "You sure ain't no Joe Namath."

Now, I don't know one thing about football. Two seconds after the game starts, I can't even tell which team is which, much less which player is which -- all, that is, except Broadway Joe Namath! Because of his many commercials, I'd know him anywhere -- and I like him.

So, in comparing that tiny, frail kitten with a husky, robust football player, Joe Namath was naturally the only name I could remember.

Also, another "Broadway" that I liked very much had saved her life.

Besides all these reasons, I thought it was a boy. So before the first day ended, I knew I was going to call "him" Broadway Joe.

The first time the veterinarian got a close look at it, though, Dr. James Perkins said: "Mrs. Davis, I hate to tell you this, but you're going to have to change this kitten's name. It's no boy."

So, I simply dropped the "e" off "Joe" -- Art and I call her Jo-Jo most of the time.

As soon as Jo-Jo got big enough to walk, when she got hungry in the night, she'd climb onto the bed, pull my hair first, then, pat my cheeks, next, poke me in both eyes with her little paws, and when all that failed to get me up -- she'd actually stick that little paw right up my nose!

In the daytime, when she got hungry, she'd climb onto my lap and gently nip at the fingers of my right hand -- the hand that held the bottle! Until this day, she will sometimes do that when she wants to eat.

Art's stuffed socks certainly must have made her fully believe they were her "people" -- her mother, sisters and brothers. All her life she has found his socks, wherever they are, and dragging them from room to room, she plays with them -- even washes them exactly the way cats and kittens wash each other. If she can't find a sock handy, she goes into the dirty clothes basket and finds one. She seems literally to LOVE those socks.

On May 25, 1974, Dr. Perkins spayed Jo-Jo for us. Since that day, her health has actually improved. She'll never really be a "Joe Namath" -- but she is a very happy cat -- she is also a loving cat. She loves our little dog, Seppie; and with the dogs, seems to have taken the place of Pudy Cat, Seppie's only animal friend who died only 15 days after Broadway Jo was born!

clude the noon meal and refreshments. Scheduled activities will begin at 8 a.m. each day and will continue through 4 p.m. Campers will have to furnish their own transportation to the camp. Interested parents are urged to contact the Office of Continuing Education at Northeast, said White.

FIRST COTTON BLOOM IN COUNTY -- Mr. R. C. Sparks, of Belmont, reported the first cotton bloom this season. Mr. Sparks stated he had approximately 300 acres of cotton in bloom. This bloom was picked July 6th.

HOLY LAND TOUR

Jericho is located about fifteen miles east of Jerusalem. It is about five miles north of the Dead Sea. Since the city is more than 800 feet below sea level, it is extremely hot in the summer and ideal in the winter.

The oldest known evidence of civilization in the world is at Jericho. Archaeologists have found remains from a civilization dating back to before 7000 B.C. Here, perhaps, man first learned to live together as an organized group.

Not far from Jericho is Hijah Ford, the place in the Jordan River where tradition says Jesus was baptized by John. Immediately to the north of Jericho one can see the Mount of Temptation. Supposedly, it was on that Mount where Jesus was shown all the kingdoms of the world when He was tempted.

To the southwest of Jericho one can see the area of the wilderness where Christ was tested. It was in Jericho that little Zachaeus climbed the sycamore tree and made it immortal. He wanted to see this Man among men. A sycamore tree still stands in the heart of modern Jericho, symbolic of that transforming event in the life of Zachaeus.

Here, also, is where blind Bartimaeus came to meet Christ. And Jericho was the winter home of King Herod the Great. It was here that Herod died, probably in 4 B.C. From Jericho one can see Mt. Nebo, the place where Moses stood and looked over the Promised Land shortly before his death.

On our tour of the Holy Land Jericho will be only one of many famous Biblical sites which we will visit. Just south of Jericho we will visit the Qumran Caves, the place where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found. Conditions permitting, we will drive to Hijah Ford and see the traditional spot where Jesus was baptized and where Joshua and the Israelites crossed into the Promised Land.

Between Jerusalem and Jericho we will stop at the Good Samaritan Inn, an 18th Century fortress symbolic of the parable Jesus told about the Good Samaritan. The drive will also take us through part of the wilderness of Judea.

Our tour will take us along the edge of the Dead Sea, the lowest spot in the world. We will see the ruins of the monastery of the Essenes, the people who wrote the Dead Sea Scrolls.

In Jericho, we will stop at a little fruit stand where the many kinds of fruits grown in the area can be purchased. The small, sweet bananas grown here are acclaimed by the natives to be the best tasting banana in the world.

Jericho, the Dead Sea, the wilderness, and these other areas I have mentioned will only be a few of the sites we will see on our tour.

Tishomingo State Park is a unique natural area for the state with its rugged, interesting rock formations, plant life, creeks, lakes -- all steeped in history dating back to 5,000 years when prehistoric Paleo-Indians used the area for shelter and burial sites.

Many Mississippians visit from neighboring states. The Mississippi often winds about is found at Tishomingo State Park, just off Highway 25, twelve miles south of Iuka. Ideal setting for family camping, the park has luxurious stone cottages and rustic cabins. All contain open fireplaces for the cool nights in Northeast Mississippi. A spacious lodge surrounded by wild honeysuckle and dogwood trees overlooks the entire mountainlike setting.

According to Park Manager Hooper Morrow, Loochapola Lodge stands on the highest peak in the 1541 acre park, towering above a bend in Bear Creek. Wild plum thickets, flowers, and ferns lend color to the stone steps which wind down from the back veranda to the distant road, and the cypress-paneled lodge accommodates up to 150 persons for dances and 125 for banquets.

In addition to the lodge, 15 rustic cabins are available with private baths, screened in porches and space for nine to 20 campers.

Tishomingo also invites visitors to its large swimming pool with adjoining bath house and concession stand which is located on a shady bank of Bear Creek. Red Cross certified life guards are on duty until dark, and a nearby swinging bridge affords a scenic passageway for hikers.

For the fishing enthusiast, there's Haynes Lake with its 70 acres of spring-fed clear water. Tall pines and oak trees grow to the water's edge, creating an ideal setting for catching large-mouth bass, bream and catfish. Boats are available at the lake for a nominal $2 a day rental.

At present, Park Manager Morrow says tent and trailer camping areas are being improved, and camping will not be permitted until construction of new sites is completed. "Right now, we're repaving roads, and beautifying the paths and landscape around the campground areas," said Morrow. He said repairs and improvements should be finished before the summer months come to a close, and he hopes camping will be available in the park before long.

Morrow has numerous plans for Tishomingo Park, but his main concern is making the public aware of the beauty and natural resources which Tishomingo offers.

The uniqueness of the park to Mississippi lies in its rock formations and plant life which are extensions of the southwest limits of the Cumberland Plateau. The geologic formations of Tishomingo are special because they are of the Paleozoic rock group and are the only wholly consolidated rocks in the state.

Furthermore, the beautiful, rugged terrain has been formed through eons of time as the flow of Bear Creek and Mauldin Branch cut layers of rock. Broad open valleys were formed as the loose Eutaw and Tuscaloosa sands and gravels were removed. Deep gorges of vertical rock walls were produced as these streams cut through the Highland Church sandstone, resulting in large blocks of sandstone left on the sloping valleys.

The plant life of Tishomingo State Park is equally unique to Mississippi. Superintendent Morrow says plants indigenous to the Appalachian regions of the east and not found elsewhere in the state include mountain laurel, cardinal flowers and Indian pipe. A botanic study has listed more than 500 plants found in the park.

Tishomingo also abounds in history. Archaeological excavation of natural rock shelters, open village sites and burial sites have confirmed the presence of the prehistoric Paleo-Indian around 5000 B.C. Indians such as the Chickasaws later hunted along the streams and lake ridges of Tishomingo County. The Natchez Trace Parkway which runs through the area was once heavily traveled by boatmen and hunters.

For a vacation with everything for everyone -- from rustic, natural beauty to modern facilities, to interesting history -- Tishomingo State Park is the place to be. For more information, persons should write Hooper Morrow, Park Manager, Tishomingo State Park, Tishomingo, Mississippi or interested persons may contact officials of the Mississippi Park Commission, 717 Robert E. Lee Building, Jackson, Mississippi 39201.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Holly and children, of Toledo, Ohio, have returned home after spending their vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Holly.

EASY ST

Home Ownership Is Easy... The Jim Walter Way!

Jim Walter makes it easy for you to own a new, permanent home on your property. And, because Jim Walter handles all of the details, with no red tape, no delay and no "third party" to make the decision, INSTANT mortgage financing can be fast and easy, too. Choose one of the more than 20 two-, three- or four-bedroom, one- or two-bath homes that best suits your family's needs. Then, custom-construction -- not pre-fab or pre-cut -- can begin almost immediately. Shortly thereafter, you'll begin enjoying the pride of home ownership.

• OVER 20 MODELS
• BUILT ON YOUR PROPERTY
Yes, Jim Walter builds easy-to-own, easy-to-love, easy-to-afford homes. Yours will be finished completely on the outside, including foundation, shutters and two coats of long-lasting paint. Superior materials, such as "wood-made-better" hardboard siding that seldom needs painting, heavy-duty bonded roofing that lasts for years, and aluminum windows that never need paint, will be used in construction. The inside will be finished to almost any stage. You tell us where to stop, then complete the rest yourself to save many extra dollars. You may purchase interior materials and installation of ELECTRICAL WIRING & FIXTURES; PLUMBING; KITCHEN & BATH FIXTURES & CABINETS; FLOORING; WALLS; DOORS & TRIM.

When Jim Walter installs all interior options, you just paint or paper walls, paint trim, connect to outside utilities and move in. Or you may purchase the "shell" home, complete only on the outside, and install all interior materials in your spare time to make your home even more affordable. Either way, the cost of inside finishing options can be included in your mortgage.

We want you to know exactly what your cost and monthly mortgage payment would be. Call, visit or send the coupon to the nearest Jim Walter Homes display park for complete, no-obligation information on the more than twenty beautiful homes that can be custom-built almost anywhere that you own property.

Annual Tishomingo Alumni Gathering

The campus of the Tishomingo High School was highly decorated Saturday, July 6, with alumni members, friends and relatives. The buzzing session began earlier than scheduled and lasted well into the night. Many were too busy chatting with old-timers and viewing the blown-up picture of the 1923 class to remember and importance of registering.

Refreshments were served by the committee and enjoyed by all.

After a few hours of enjoyment on the campus, the group, at the ringing of the old familiar school bell, congregated in the Nettles Auditorium for an enriching program of music and singing by some members of the 1974 graduation class.

Immediately following the recreation program, the business session was called to order by Orville Bostick, who very capably substituted as chairman because of the absence of the president and vice-president. During this time it was agreed that funds, which were donated for the air conditioning of the school cafeteria, be transferred to the proper authorities for early use. It was also agreed upon that the alumni contribute a $25 bond to a worthy boy and a girl of the 1975 graduating class of Tishomingo High School.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected, after which the trek was underway to the banquet hall where more than 100 people relished a bountiful meal deliciously prepared by Piggly Wiggly, reverently graced by Chester Dawson and luxuriously served by the Tishomingo Beta Club. Morris Glasgow, who informed that he was moving to California, opened the after dinner speaking with some hilarious jokes. This was followed by speakers from the honored classes. Mary Oaks reported that the 1924 class had 12 living members - 10 of whom were present to celebrate their 50th anniversary. Mabel Ramsey Farris called for silent prayer for the deceased class members. Little Ethel Finch Hester gave a commendable class poem that she had hurriedly composed. The 1934 class was reported by Ruth Phillips

Margaret Wade Named Outstanding Secondary Educator

Margaret Stephens Wade is a 1965 graduate of the Tishomingo High School. During the years 1965-69, she worked as a secretary and in the summer of 1969, enrolled as a part-time student at the Northeast Miss. Jr. College. In September of that year, she enrolled as a full time student. Upon completion of her work at Northeast, she transferred to Florence State University where, in the summer of 1972, she graduated with honors, receiving a B.S. degree in Business Education. While at Florence State she was listed on the Dean's List and was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, an honorary education society. Margaret is married to Howard M. Wade (Mackey) and they have one child, Emily. Her parents are Mrs. Marjorie Stephens and the late Alvis Stephens, of the Midway Community. The Wades also reside in the Midway Community and are active members of the Iuka Church of Christ. Mrs. Wade has been teaching Business Education in the Belmont School since 1972. Outstanding Secondary Educators of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional services, achievements and leadership in the field of secondary education. Each year, the biographies of those honored are featured in the awards volume, OUTSTANDING SECONDARY EDUCATORS OF AMERICA. These educators are now eligible to receive the Outstanding Secondary Educator of the Year Award Trophy. Five $500.00 unrestricted grants will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five Outstanding Secondary Educators. Distinguished judges, along with the Board of Advisors, will select the five individual secondary teachers to be honored. In this way, the program thanks the teacher and the school for their contributions to the continuing excellence of American education.

In announcing the award winners to the administrators, Dr. V. Gilbert Beers, Director of the Outstanding Secondary Educators of America program, stated: "The men and women chosen for this high honor have explored new paths, developed new insights and effectively communicated their knowledge to their students and colleagues. They are exceptional teachers." Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service, and professional recognition.
