Bids Asked On Canal Dam

The U. S. Corps of Engineers sent out advance notices last week to prospective bidders for the Columbus lock and dam, the first of three dams in Mississippi on the $623 million Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

Officials of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Development Authority said bids will be opened Feb. 4, and ground will be broken for the $50 million lock and dam in late March.

The waterway, a 258-mile series of locks and canals through east Mississippi and west Alabama, will link the Tennessee River with the Gulf of Mexico at Mobile, Ala., via the Tombigbee River.

The project got underway two years ago with groundbreaking for a lock at Gainesville, Ala. Work on that lock is more than 40 percent complete and construction of a dam and spillway there is 25 percent finished.

The Waterway will have five dams, three in Mississippi and two in Alabama. The Corps last month let bids of $47.2 million for a lock and dam at Aliceville, Ala.

Besides the one at Columbus, the dams in Mississippi will be near Aberdeen and Bay Springs, where an 84-foot lift will be the second highest east of the Mississippi River.

Glover Wilkins, administrator of the Waterway Development Authority, said work on all phases of the project is running on or near schedule. In addition to the $623 million in federal money, the waterway is expected to cost state and local governments about $10 million for relocation of roads and bridges.

"This project has the unique distinction of helping to solve two of the nation's thorniest problems - spiraling unemployment and rampant inflation," Wilkins said.

"The Waterway will provide thousands of public service jobs, which the President has called for, and will help curb inflation by drastically reducing shipping costs when it is completed," he said.

"The Waterway will reduce the distance from many ports in the nation's heartland to Mobile in the southeastern Gulf by as much as 800 miles.

It will have 10 locks, lifting the water level to a total 341 feet between the Tombigbee at Demopolis, Ala., and the terminus point on Pickwick Lake on the Tennessee River in Mississippi. It will have a 300-foot wide channel and a minimum depth of nine feet.

Thorne Named Administrative Asst. At Holmes

M. R. THORNE

M. R. Thorne, Vocational-Technical Director at Holmes Junior College, has been appointed administrative assistant to the president by the Holmes Board of Trustees.

Mr. Thorne, a native of Iuka, received his BS degree in industrial education from Mississippi State University in 1959, and came to Holmes that same year as industrial education instructor.

Thorne received an M.Ed. degree from State in 1964 and in 1966 was appointed director of the vocational-technical program at Holmes. At this time the program underwent a massive face-lifting, moving into new facilities and opening new programs.

Prior to this time, Holmes offered only three programs in vocational-technical fields -- drafting and design, cosmetology and radio and television. Under the direction of Mr. Thorne, the program has grown to offer training in ten different areas, expanding each year to incorporate the needs of the area. Before 1966, the vocational program was taught by only three full-time instructors. The department now has 22 full-time teachers and administrators on campus.

In addition to on-campus progress, Mr. Thorne has guided the growth of the Holmes program to include a nursing program, offered both on and off campus in conjunction with district hospitals, retraining of district industry employees, and initial training of employees for industries new to the area. Thorne's administrative abilities have influenced not only the growth of the vocational-technical program, but also the development of all Holmes programs.

Thorne is married to the former Aileen Dexter, also of Iuka. They have two children, Sandra, 15, and Michael, 11.

Belmont-Tish. Take Trophies

The Belmont Cardinales and Tishomingo Bulldogs won the Belmont Invitational Tournament this past weekend. The Cardinales out dueled the Kossuth girls 43-40, for the tournament championship. The Bulldogs edged by tournament host, Belmont, 52-49, for the boy's championship.

The Belmont girls, who always have an outstanding basketball team, found things a little tough this past Saturday night. Belmont won the tournament by beating Kossuth 43-40. The Cardinales were behind the entire first half except for the first period when Belmont gained the lead by two points. Kossuth came back and went to the halftime break leading 23-22.

The second half was much like the first. Belmont took the lead in the third period by one point. In the fourth period the girls in Red pulled to a three point lead - then played keep-a-way from Kossuth. Kossuth got the ball back and made it a one point Belmont lead. Belmont hung on to cart off the win and stop Kossuth, who went into the game undefeated.

Nella Harris lead the Cardinales to victory with 19 big points. Wanda Turner hit 12 for Kossuth in a losing effort. The Bulldogs of Tishomingo took the Belmont Tournament over the Belmont Cardinals 52-49. The Bulldogs lead the entire game including a 29-23 halftime lead.

The Cardinals made a final effort at the Bulldogs but came up three points short. Kirby McRae lead the way for Tishomingo with 21 points - Larry Rushing hit 15. Joey Payne had 15 and Greg Collier hit 14 for Belmont.

Get out and see your favorite high school basketball team play.

COST CUTTERS
Inflation has reduced the value of your dollar about 10-12 cents this year. Cutting costs is one way to balance your family budget. Housing is a large expense. Periodic maintenance and sensible home improvements can reduce your monthly bills and save you money. If you can cut your interest one-half to one percent, you may lower your house payment $7 to $10 a month. For example, on a 25 year $18,000 mortgage, monthly payments are $7 more at a 10 percent interest rate than at a 9 1/2 percent interest rate.

Simple dollar saving tips such as these can cut hundreds of dollars from your yearly utility bill:
*Weather strip and caulk all leaks.
*A fully insulated home can reduce fuel used 15 percent. You can save 6 to 10 percent of a season's fuel by turning back the thermostat 10 to 12 degrees.

*Turn off lights and appliances when not in use.

*Reduce your water bill by eliminating excess use and drips.

*Use the cold water faucet except when hot water is really necessary -- avoid unnecessary heating of water.

*Cut your telephone bill in half. Reduce the number and length of long distance calls and call during special rate periods.

*You can save 30 cents of every dollar by sharp shopping.

Follow guidelines provided by your Extension Home Economist.

Your food bill may have increased 12 percent this year. The average family wastes 20 percent of its food each day. Cut out waste. Plan your meals around in-season foods, check for store brands and consider unit cost. Save 10 percent by shopping specials. Cut your weekly food bill 10 percent by having special budget meals once a week. Plan to grow a garden and cut the cost of food service.

Clothing care and maintenance can cut your clothing cost 10 to 25 percent. Remove spots, stains and light soils immediately and reduce cost by laundering and cleaning yourself. Care and repair lengths life of the garment one-third longer. Recycling of garments reduce cost of garments greatly. Custom made or home sewn items will increase your purchasing power 33 1/2 to 50 percent. You, the consumer can cut the cost. You can take the lead against inflation. Be a creative manager.

Here is a start for positive action:

*Do all the services at home that you can involving all family members.

*Be yourself - quit trying to be someone else or keep up with your neighbors.

*If you save $2.22 a day by controlled spending, that's $810.30 saved a year tax free. Consider bargain shopping.

*Take advantage of surplus and seasonal sales and buy clothes and furnishings at 10-50 percent savings.

*Use your own talent and creativity.

*Build economical habits into the usual pace of your lives.

*Consider renting equipment that you need only for a short time.

*Consider waste and self indulgence. Watch your habits. A dollar a day wasted is $365 a year.

*Carry less cash and use less credit.

*Use public services such as free recreational and educational facilities. Enjoy concerts, parks, libraries, lectures and health benefits.

More Like Jesus
By Lindsey Earl Jones

While traveling in this world below that's filled with sin and hate, I want to be more like Jesus each and every day, and let my light shine so bright that those in sin may see there is joy in serving Jesus. And when temptations come my way and almost get me down, I want to be more like Jesus and be able to over-come. Then I'll be one step closer to the pearly gates.

And when my friends forsake me and seem to let me down, I want to be more like Jesus and treat them in such a way until they can see and know I've been with Him.

When trouble comes my way and the clouds of sin get dark and low and the road gets rocky and rough to travel, I want to be more like Jesus and hold a little closer to His hand.

I want to be more like Him in the church that I may lift Him up in song and prayer.

I want to be more like Him in the home, so all my relatives may be able to say, "He's more like Jesus each day."

And, on the job, I want to be just as near like Him as anyone can be, so I might cause someone to turn from their sinful way and take Him as their Savior.

But most of all, I want to be so much like Him when at the Judgment Bar I stand, He will take me by the hand and say, "You have fought a good fight, you have kept the faith, enter now into the joys of the Lord."

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES
By Percie B. Stricklen MSU Extension Service

CUTTING DAIRY COSTS
Although the farmers' selling price for 100 pounds of milk is holding steady, the costs of feed and other expenses continue to rise. During this economic situation, reducing feed cost per 100 pounds of milk produced is one of the most important moves a dairyman can make.

If you cut the amount of feed you feed cows, milk production drops. The best approach is to feed more of the cheaper feeds that still provide the correct amount of nutrients.

A little pencil pushing shows that a pound of nutrient from grain sorghum silage costs about two to three cents, from temporary grazing four to six cents, about five cents from quality hay and 10 cents from the grain to concentrate mixture.

From this you can see that the cost of milk-making nutrients is much cheaper from forage than from concentrates.

Forage alone will produce only about 60 to 70 percent of the milk cow is capable of producing. So use some grain to balance the ration and produce milk economically. But the higher the equality of forage the more the cow will eat of it, reducing the amount of high priced grain needed to produce the same amount of milk.

To know the quality of forages that you are feeding, utilize the forage testing service offered by Mississippi State University.

STRAWBERRY PLANTING
From now until February is strawberry planting time.

After getting your plants, do not let the roots dry out. If you cannot plant them immediately, cover the roots with moist sawdust or sand until you can plant them.

When planting, cover the roots completely but be careful not to cover the crowns of the plants. Before spring growth, mulch the plants with about 4 inches of pine straw or similar material. Check the county agent office for a list of recommended varieties.

HANDLING SOYBEAN SEED
For safe storage of soybean planting seed, reduce the moisture content and keep it down. Do not store seed beans with a moisture content above 13 percent.

Aerate the beans periodically to prevent moisture migration and build up in certain areas of the storage bin. Only aerate on cool, dry days.

LAND HANDLING
After subsoiling, keep machinery off fields. A tractor wheel traveling within one foot of the subsoiled area can compact light textured soil again. For this reason, heavy equipment should not travel these fields when they are wet. The best rule is to always make subsoiling the last trip over the field in the fall.

If You Didn't Take Energy Conservation Serious Before, You'd Better Now

Before, conserving electricity was mainly a matter of your saving money. Now it's a matter of your helping TVA save coal... and saving all of us from possible brownouts and blackouts.

Coal, used to produce three-fourths of our electricity, is running lower and lower at the generating plants. Despite an internal curtailment program by us and TVA, and despite TVA's frantic search for additional coal, the fuel is being burned faster than it's being delivered.

The situation has worsened to the point where we're not just asking you to conserve. We're asking you to cut back. Do even more than you've done before. Everytime you turn on an electric appliance (especially heating) ask yourself, "Is this really necessary?"

We must all join together to save electricity, which in turn will save coal. And we have to save every ounce... every pound... every ton we can. For when TVA runs out of coal, there won't be enough electricity to go around.

Library News

Can you name and describe your great-grandparents? Well, it's nothing to be ashamed of. Few Americans can.

Most of us just haven't taken the time from our busy lives to care about who and where our ancestors were; or where they came from.

What I'm trying to say is there is a scientific study of ancestry and it's known as genealogy. Some people have special reasons for tracing their forbears. Legacies title deeds and pensions often hang on the verdict of the genealogist, but the kind of genealogy I have in mind is for pleasure. It's a hobby more and more retired folks are beginning to find, not only fascinating but a real challenge.

How do you go about it? First ask the other members of your family, your parents, your grandparents and get them to relate what they have known or heard about your great-grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins. Old friends might provide odd bits of information. Be sure to write it down. Then, there is the matter of family papers. Letters, old bank books and wills can be invaluable, both for answering questions and opening leads. Old letters one might find in the attic from great-aunts to your mother dated years ago. All this might give one new connections with other members of the family.

From this you move into the field of research by visiting libraries, county courthouses, churches and cemeteries. For your information have you checked the Genealogy books that the American Legion Auxiliary members have placed in the Iuka Library? If not, here is what you can find there:

1. Tishomingo County Marriage Bonds 1842-1861.
2. Tennessee Cousins.

TVA Asks Power Users To Continue Conservation

The outlook today for a quick end to the United Mine Workers strike can help TVA past the first hurdle in its coal supply problems, but prospects for the coming winter are still serious, Chairman A. J. Wagner said. "It is still essential for all of us to continue holding down all uses of electricity in any way we can, since stockpiles were already declining before the strike began," Wagner said.

In recent days the coal stockpile total has been dropping by about 35,000 tons a day with coal receipts less than one-third of normal because of the strike and with cold weather and heavy electric heating demands requiring increased generation at coal-burning plants. Since the strike began, the total has dropped by nearly a million tons, and is now at 3,900,000 tons of recoverable coal.

If the miners are back at work by Monday, it appears likely that coal deliveries will improve enough in the next couple of weeks to slow our stockpile decline before it reaches the 3 million ton level," Wagner said. However, stockpiles will continue to shrink through the winter unless we can gain enough through voluntary curtailment of power use and improved coal deliveries to hold the line."

Beef Meeting Announced

A meeting to discuss the marketing of light-weight grass-belt beef has been called for the Atlanta Airport Hilton Inn on December 18 beginning at 10:00 a.m.

Doyle Conner, Commissioner of Agriculture in Florida, and Jim Buck Ross, Commissioner of Agriculture in Mississippi, have called the meeting because of the declining price of feeder calves and the general cattle situation. "This is a great concern not only to every commissioner of agriculture in the South, but to the entire southern cattle industry," Conner said.

The session will give cattlemen, livestock auction managers, packers, and chain store executives an opportunity to review the marketing of light-weight beef. "We are hopeful that by sharing together, we can develop a positive program that will bring relief to both the cattle industry and consumers," Conner commented. "One of the problems is that our southern states are cow-calf operations and most of our calves are marketed between 300 and 500 pounds. Since marketing of these calves is at a low ebb, we need to explore new programs.

"Our southern states provide a 10-month grazing period with ample rainfall that produces a quality calf for any market," Ross said.

"We are aware that many retail meat marketing programs have been developed over the years as a major part of their merchandising efforts," Ross added. These present changes will dictate a new look in marketing meat in all phases of the marketing channel.

SIX POINTER — Tommy Nunley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Nunley, of Route 2, Dennis, killed this 6 point deer on November 29, while hunting on the A. B. Campbell Farm, east of Dennis on Bear Creek. The deer weighed approximately 185 pounds.

VA Facts

VA mailed dividend option selection forms in October which allow acceptance of dividends in cash, or leaving them with the agency as a dividend credit or dividend deposit, both at interest.

Dividends also may be used to pay insurance premiums in advance, but additional paid-up insurance, or to reduce debt on policy loans. Dividends left on credit are used to automatically pay premiums should the policyholder fail to do so.

Cook explained that amount of dividend a receiver depends on the value of the policy, his time policy was issued and number of months in force during 1975 dividend year.

Q: When I was released from service about two months ago, I applied for a GI home loan, but a lender turned it down. What can I do? I need a home for my wife and family.

A: You should check with other lenders. Some lenders are not interested in making GI loans but this does not preclude the possibility that another lender in the same area will extend you a loan.

to whip inflation by improving the quality of cattle production in the State.

Participating banks canvass their patrons and determine the specific bull needs for their area. The bank then appoints a committee, usually composed of a cattleman, an agricultural official, a financial advisor and bank representatives, who select the bulls, insuring that only performance tested quality animals are purchased.

Once the bulls are purchased, a farmer in the area may lease the bull he chooses for a period of six months at a rate of 10% of the bull's purchase price. The banks, providing the bulls as a service rather than to produce revenue, may return their investments over the period of the bulls' productive years. The farmer, in addition to the lease fee, must follow good animal husbandry practices and pay veterinarian bills. In most cases the farmer has the option to renew the lease or purchase the bull outright for the balance remaining on the original purchase price.

The program is a low risk proposition for the banks as the mortality rate among bulls in the lease program is virtually nonexistent. A bank having 185 bulls in service has reported only 3 bulls lost with yet another bank with 23 bulls in service reporting one lost. Cattleman and bankers have also become closer friends through the lease program as the banks reassure the cattlemen by helping produce better, more profitable calves during these times of erratic beef prices. Livestock buyers have become so selective that cattlemen without good heavy calves will absolutely lose out at the auction barn.

The use of these superior bulls, as opposed to bulls of lesser quality, can transmit as much as 50 pounds of extra gain on each calf born.

According to Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Jim Buck Ross, a heavier, high quality calf from the beginning can have an even greater impact on a cattle operation with the price of feed increasing everyday. "As a result of the increasing feed costs, many cattlemen are turning to the pasture fed slaughter steer," said Commissioner Ross. "This is a steer which is fed entirely on pasture grasses and given very little feed. The higher quality calves produced through the bull lease program gain weight faster, thus producing a higher quality animal which will be of greater benefit to the cattlemen in these type programs."

The pasture feeding method of cattle production can only be a success in an area where the climate is suitable for year-round grazing. Mississippi has this climate and will have the high quality cattle production. It will mean greater profit for the Mississippi cattle producer and more economy for the Mississippi beef consumer.

Since the first Mississippi Bull Leasing Program was begun over one year ago, 27 banks with 71 branches are now offering bull lease programs. There are 14 breeds represented in the 461 bulls which are now under lease by Mississippi banks. The banks report that they have waiting lists of cattlemen desiring to lease their bulls and, of the cattlemen who had leased bulls, many had chosen to purchase them outright.

"The Bull Leasing Program," continued Commissioner Ross, "is expected to expand to an even greater extent this year as more cattlemen and bankers are seeing the top quality calves produced through the program and the smoothness of the program's operation. This program should put Mississippi producers at least 20 years ahead of the way cattlemen traditionally improved their herds."

A LETTER TO SANTA

Dear Santa:

As many letters as you get each year, we don't expect you to remember the one we wrote you two years ago, signed by Pudy-Cat for the cats, and by Charlie for the dogs.

Pudy-Cat and Charlie got to sign that letter because, then they both had age seniority (Pudy was going on eight and Charlie was going on nine).

But Pudy-Cat died on Easter Sunday, and as mad as she made us with her bossy ways, we all are sorry that she isn't still here to write this letter for us again this year. You see, she wasn't a bit timid and knew just what to say.

Since Pudy's death, though, Tom-Tom has tried to keep the cats straight. And although he's not as smart as Pudy THOUGHT she was, he's still smart enough to keep us out of trouble most of the time.

Going on six, Tom-Tom is also now the oldest cat in the house, and that makes him entitled to speak for the cats. (Right this week, though, he's in the Iuka Animal Clinic, sick as a dog -- but we're hoping he'll be home in time to put his paw prints on this message!)

And "good-ole" Charlie is still living, now going on eleven. When someone dumped him on Highway 72, he was just a tiny pup; but the late Mr. Arlie Rhodes kept the poor little tyke alive by feeding and watering him at Mr. Rhodes' restaurant until the woman who adopted us all came along one day and offered him a home. (Now, we don't know why these people we live with keep calling him "Charlie-Good-Dog." The truth is, he acts as if he's "pretty mean. But it's all 'act' (we think) -- because, really, his bark is much, much worse than his "bite." Come to think of it, the only person he ever really bit was the man we live with and that bite was accidental.

Like our other letter to you, we don't want anything for ourselves. We are extra lucky every day. We get nourishing food, water, good shelter, and affection, too, all year long.

But we're writing you this year, as we did before, to ask you to please remember our less fortunate brothers and sisters in the animal world. Also, please take something nice to all those people in the human world who need both extra help and kindness, too.

Although countless people will always pay special attention to others on Christmas, some of them don't seem to realize that these same needy creatures (human and animal) get just as sick, cold, hungry, thirsty, lonesome -- and in need of love and affection -- on the other 364 days which make up a year.

Santa, we love you. We hope you'll have a safe trip around the world on Christmas Eve and will be back at the North Pole bright and early on Christmas Day for a well-earned rest with Mrs. Santa.

Sincerely,

Tom-Tom for Cats:

*Miss. Bankers And Cattlemen

The relatively new Bull Lease Program is enjoying quite a reception in Mississippi with over 460 bulls, valued at $750,000.00, in service. What this means is that Mississippi cattlemen are enjoying the use of top quality bulls on a lease basis which would not normally be available to them otherwise. The program is administered by Mississippi banking institutions in areas where there is a need for raising the quality of cattle production and has the full cooperation and support of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. In other words the Mississippi bankers and cattlemen are help-

Requirements Eased For Livestock Loans

The emergency livestock loan program has been changed to make loans available to more livestock and poultry farmers, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz announced today.

"The purpose of the change is to open the program to more family farmers without throwing it wide open to other than bona fide farmers and ranchers," he said. "For example, a farmer may get more of his income and spend more of his time during the summer raising cotton, but for the year overall, he spends most of his time on his livestock," the Secretary said. "Now, that farmer might qualify, whereas before, he would not."

"The intent of the law was to make credit assistance available to the nation's livestock and poultry producers, especially family farmers, during a period when falling livestock and poultry prices and rising costs caught them in a pinch," the Secretary said.

Under changed eligibility criteria, an individual farmer may qualify for an emergency livestock loan if he derives a majority of his gross income from, or devotes most of his time to his livestock or poultry operation. Previously, the farmer was eligible only if he received a majority of his gross income from his livestock or poultry enterprise and devoted most of his time to it. Now, either income or time can qualify a farmer for these loans. A partnership or corporation must still get most of its gross income and devote a majority of its time to the livestock or poultry operation to qualify.

Emergency livestock loans are made at regular commercial rates, but are guaranteed by the government, and therefore easier to obtain. The law was passed three months ago, and emphasizes that this assistance is intended for family farmers, and others who are recognized in their communities chiefly as livestock producers.

Electric Bills Will Rise

Higher costs of operating TVA's electric power system will require higher rates beginning with January power bills, the agency's Board of Directors determined. Rates to home consumers will rise an average of 12 percent as a result of the adjustment approved December 3.

The TVA Board's quarterly review of power system finances showed that increased revenues will be necessary to cover a continuing rise in power system costs and to meet financial requirements under the TVA Act for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30. This action was taken under the rate adjustment clause in TVA power contracts.

Despite the rise in electric rates this year in the Tennessee Valley, increases here have been well below the national trend. Currently the average residential rate in the TVA area is about 43 percent below the rapidly rising national average.

The monthly home electric bill for 1,000 kilowatt-hours now ranges from $14.71 to $19.08 under the various rate schedules used by TVA power distributors. This will increase by about $2.40 under the adjustment approved last Tuesday. Increases in winter power bills for electrically heated homes will be proportionately larger because of their much higher levels of power use -- about $9.60 on a bill covering use of 4,000 kilowatt-hours, for example. Actual bills depend on the amount used in each home.

The increase per kilowatt-hour will be similar for other customers, so the effective percentage increase will range from about 6 percent for home consumers using small amounts of electricity to as much as 25 percent for the larger industrial users. TVA wholesale revenues will increase by an estimated 17 percent.

A fuel cost adjustment effective on TVA power bills beginning in August now reflects increases or decreases each month in the actual cost of fuel used at TVA power plants. However, that adjustment has not reflected the additional cost of power TVA is buying from other electric systems to help reduce coal consumption in its own plants, and this cost has been substantial. These purchases have saved enough coal for TVA that without them, coal stockpiles at its power plants already would have dropped so low that mandatory power curtailments would have been necessary.

Part of the action by the TVA Board is approval of a provision for the monthly power charges to reflect increases or decreases in the cost of purchased power as well as changes in fuel cost. This will account for part of the estimated 12 percent average increase on home electric bills. However, this approach will avoid locking this unusual and temporary cost into overall power rates, so that when TVA is able to reduce these power purchases, that reduction will automatically be reflected in monthly power bills.

Meanwhile there have been steady increases in TVA costs for interest payments, labor, depreciation, and other power system expenses aside from fuel. The rate action includes a general adjustment on TVA power rates, effective on meter readings taken in January, to cover these costs.

On Thursday, December 19, TVA will hold its quarterly series of rate information meetings for the public. They will be held in Jackson, Nashville, and Knoxville, Tenn.; Tupelo, Miss.; Paducah, Ky.; and Muscle Shoals, Ala. These meetings will provide detailed information on TVA power system costs and rates and will give the public an opportunity for comment and discussion.

Jaycees Seek Outstanding Farmer

Once again the Mississippi Jaycees will spotlight agriculture by recognizing the Outstanding Young Farmer in Mississippi. This program, as in the past, will be held in Starkville, December 14, 1974.

school under the GI Bill. Will the VA pay me educational as-

Congo Missionary Visits Tish. Co.

Belmont, Burnsville, and Tishomingo Junior High and High School students were privileged to enjoy an outstanding Norwegian speaker on Dec. 6, 1974. Mr. Berg was born in Norway and spent twenty years in the Congo as a missionary. He left in 1960 when trouble began in that area. He then worked two years in Brussels as a college professor. Later he emigrated to America in 1962 and became a citizen in 1968. He is a Presbyterian minister whose home state is now Kentucky.

Mr. Berg's topic, "What's Right With America," made the students aware that we do have many things left in America for which to be thankful. He says there's more right than wrong in this great country and that two thirds of the American people agree. The country has not reached its peak according to his thinking. People, he stated, have to believe and have faith.

Mr. Berg bases his belief about the U.S. on the fact that he has visited 46 of 50 states. He has seen the beauty of the country, met the people, and recognizes that this is a land of opportunity. Our way of life is tremendous, he says, comparing outstandby those of foreign countries where he has visited.

Mr. Berg's visit to the county schools was arranged through the joint efforts of Dr. Melvin Phifer, Career Education Project Director, and Career Education Coordinators.

Radio Relics For Museum

The Mississippi Broadcasters Association has launched a statewide search for items relating to early day radio in the State to be included in a Radio-Television Museum exhibit at the State Department of History and Archives in the old Capitol in Jackson, Mississippi, according to Bob McRaney, Sr., Executive Secretary of the Association, with offices in West Point, Miss.

The Association has been engaged in research for several years to accumulate items associated with the radio and TV industry in the State, all of which will be presented to the Museum located in the old State Capitol Building January 24.

Anyone associated with the radio and TV industry in Mississippi from the beginning are urged to submit items of equipment, both transmitting and receiving, photographs, news clippings, documents, logs etc. which may be donated to the museum and to be kept for posterity.

Among the items already collected include the first radio transmitter, which was a ten watt station, donated by the family of the late Hoyt Wooten, who built and operated Mississippi's first commercially operated station, KFNG at Coldwater, Miss., and which was licensed January 17, 1924. The original receiving set, ear-phones, microphone and related equipment for Mississippi's first station, will be given to the Museum by the Association.

Also to be presented will be authenticated and photo-stated copies of all the original licenses for Mississippi's first stations. The Federal Communications Commission has supplied the photostats to the Association.

granting institution. Only participating institutions will grant credit for the courses.

Having recognized several years ago the need for televised college courses for Mississippians, Mississippi ETV formed the Mississippi Television Council for Higher Education.

"The presidents of more than 30 colleges and universities in the state each appointed a representative to the Council, Bennie Lucroy, ETV director of education, explains.

The Council approves and develops policies and procedures for offering college credit instruction to the general public via ETV. After many months of planning and study, the group recommended courses in communication, consumerism and anthropology for this first year's curriculum.

The Mississippi Center for ETV has produced one of the three new telecourses -- "Communication I" -- and has secured the other two series from other states. "The Consumer Experience" was produced by the University of Wisconsin, Green Bay, and "Dimensions in Cultures" was produced by the Coast Community College, Costa Mesa, Calif.

Helping the viewer recognize the extend to which communication functions in his life is the goal of "Communication I,"
which will air at 10 p.m., Mondays, beginning January 20, and will repeat at 4 p.m. each Sunday. Successful completion of the course will result in one hour's credit from the participating institutions.

Two lessons weekly will air
in "The Consumer Experience" lesson series, the first at 10 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning Jan.
21, and the second at the same hour on Thursdays. At 4:30 and at 5 each Saturday afternoon, Tuesday's and Thursday's respective lessons repeat.

This three-hour credit course is a personal financial management information series emphasizing a constructive approach to consumers rights.
Examining today's significant consumer issues, the individual programs cover a wide range of financial problems.

Described as a general introductory course in cultural anthropology, "Dimensions in Cultures" examines the process of culture and personality development. Interviews with such outstanding anthropologists as Drs. Walter Goldschmidt, Jane Goodall, and Margaret Mead are among the features of this three-hour course which has as its official starting date January 22.

Air times are 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays with alternate viewing at 4:30 p.m. on Sundays for the week's first lesson and 5 p.m. for the week's second lesson.

Registration, tests, grading and fees will be handled directly through the participating institutions, and the student will follow the guidelines and academic requirements set by that college or university.

Textbooks, workbooks and other materials may be purchased from the participating institutions, and persons who audit courses also may buy materials if they wish. The schools will designate places in the state where tests and final exams will be given.

The following is a list of the institutions which will grant credit for courses aired over Mississippi ETV. With each is listed the person or office to

DAWSON DRUG-IUKA

nounced this week the start of the formation of a Tennessee Valley "Buddy Flight."

A "Buddy Flight" is a group of airmen just entering into Air Force Basic Training, numbering up to 60, who complete
"The Fastest Six Weeks" together as one unit. The concept of a "Buddy Flight" dates back to before the "Minutemen" -- when whole towns and communities underwent basic military training as one unit.

The "Buddy Flight" has unique advantages not permitted the "ordinary" flight in basic training. Some of these are higher morale of the members, an easier time in learning to work as a team, and a greater sense of accomplishment by the flight. Some benefits usually accorded the flight include their own personal chartered jet to San Antonio for basic training, their own distinctive flag to be carried during training, and, on many occasions, even a formal
"send off" by high level digni-taries from state and local government.

The Tennessee Valley Buddy
flight is forming now. Training will start in June 1975.
Sgt. Slone encourages all persons interested to contact him as soon as possible at his office in Florence to begin processing and securing their guaranteed job prior to enlistment.

VA News

The Veterans Administration on January 1 begins paying for the first time dividends

to about 600,000 Korean Conflict veterans who carry "RS"
and "W" prefixed National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policies.

Merlyn J. Cook, Assistant
VA Center Director for Regional Office, noted the dividends will be paid on anniversary dates of policies, but pointed out they will be small in comparison to those normally paid on other policies carried by veterans of World Wars I and II. The dividends were authorized last May under PL

(#-@*).

The Kelvinator Portable Dishwasher.

Possibly one of the dearest friends you have.

One of the things that the Kelvinator Model C925 can save you is money, during our Diamond Jubilee Sale.
But it can also save you from having to cart dirty dishes into the kitchen. Just roll it right up to the table to load.
It can save you from scrubbing pots before washing.
A special cycle takes care of that.
Nor will you have to add detergent during the wash cycle. Just set the Kelvinator for Double Wash, fill both detergent cups, and the second cup will be added automatically when the time is right. A special built-in dispenser releases a dry additive into the rinse cycle, too, for spotlessly clean glasses and dishes.
And when you need an under-counter model, you've got one: your Kelvinator adapts beautifully as a built-in.
And let's not get too far from basics. The Kelvinator
Portable Dishwasher saves you from having to wash dishes. Lots of dishes. This is truly a family-size dishwasher. Your dishes, in fact, will be sparkling clean, in exchange for your simply setting four push-buttons and a dial.
See our Portable Dishwasher now, during the Kelvinator Diamond Jubilee Sale. It's a greater value than ever.
