IMITATION ORANGE DRINK

Campers and others lacking refrigeration may find it convenient to use an imitation orange drink available in dry powder. The orange drink mix is usually found in reclosable jars and may be mixed for one serving or in larger quantity.

The dry mix costs slightly less than a frozen concentrate. If you have a refrigerator and freezer, however, it's smart to know the difference between the real orange juice frozen concentrates and the imitations.

An imitation orange drink may offer no more economy and convenience than a real orange juice concentrate, and there may be big differences in taste and nutrients. When rated by a taste panel, real orange juice was found more acceptable than imitation drinks. The reconstituted frozen drink, however, outranked orange beverages made with dry powders in taste preferences.

All imitation dry mixes do not mix easily. Some take additional pouring to become fully dissolved.

Sodium and potassium contents also differ between real orange juice and imitation drinks. These differences may be important if a physician has recommended a special diet. Fresh oranges and processed orange juice contain more potassium than many imitation drinks. Therefore, if a physician recommends oranges and orange juice because of their potassium content, then it is advisable to avoid the imitations.

Sodium content in the imitation orange drinks may be higher than in the real juice. Some tests have revealed a range between 4.5 to 35 milligrams of sodium in four ounces of the reconstituted powder, whereas fresh orange juice or juice from frozen concentrate provides about 21/4 milligrams of sodium. The sodium content may be important if a physician recommends a low sodium diet.

Fresh oranges and frozen juice concentrate are high in vitamin C. The vitamin content of imitation drinks may be achieved with fortified vitamins or may be lacking totally. A careful study of the label is the only way to know the contents.

STRAWBERRY PIE

Make pie shell and let cool. Pick and clean 1 qt. berries. Put in refrigerator and cool. In a sauce pan combine 1 c. sugar, 1 c. water, 3 Tbsp. strawberry jello, 2 Tbsp. cornstarch. Cook until thick. Let cool. Mix with berries. Pour into cooled pie shell. Chill before serving. May be served with whipped cream.

DRUG RESTRICTIONS

Pork producers should know the withdrawal time set by the Food and Drug Administration for all medications used for treating animals. An adequate withdrawal period is required to protect consumers from drug residues in animal products. The use of medicated feed, injections and other drug treatments should be stopped in time for all residues to clear from the tissues of market animals before the animals are sold.

Commercial hog feed labels bear the name of any medication they contain and withdrawal time. Also, veterinarians are required to tell pork producers the withdrawal time on any drugs purchased.

SOIL TEST NOW

Farmers, home gardeners and homeowners are reminded that services of the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory at Mississippi State University are available all year. Now is a good time to test soil in fields used for temporary summer grazing and field peas. For fall seeded crops, growers should take soil samples in July and August. This will allow time to apply the recommended fertilizer before September and October planting dates.

All County Extension Service offices have information and materials for collecting and mailing soil samples.

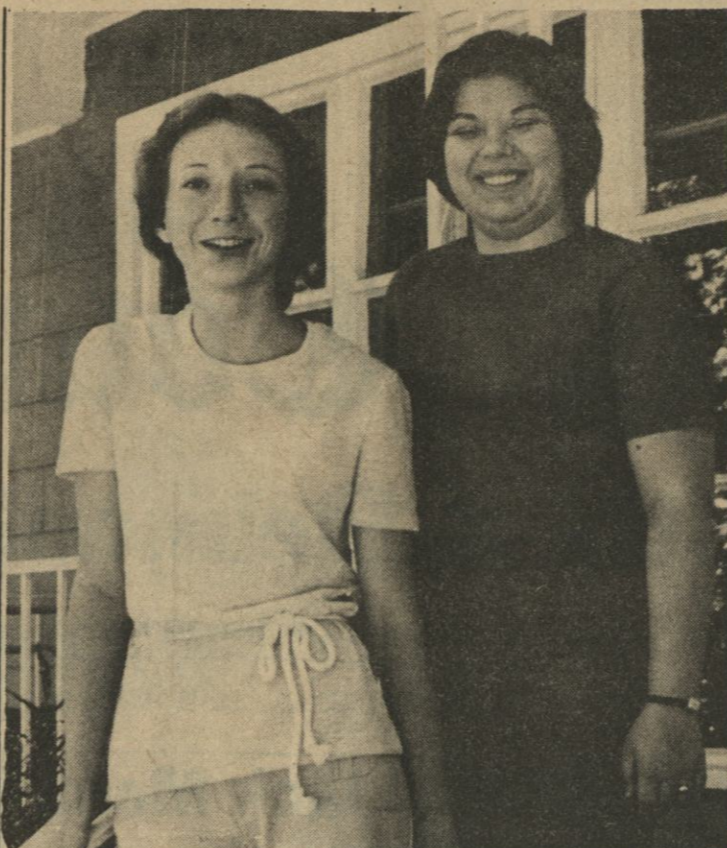

COTTON JOBS

Most cotton producers are busiest in May when there are more critical jobs to be done. Cotton planting should be completed by May 15-20 if possible. Early control of thrips and cutworms should be carried out as needed. And, grass which escaped from earlier weed control efforts should be removed so that a height differential between the size of cotton and weeds can be established.

Today's cotton farmer, more than ever, must plan on what to do when, and what he can substitute for production materials.

LET ANNUAL LEGUMES GO TO SEED

Annual legumes such as crimson clover, arrowleaf, wild winter peas and vetch should be allowed to produce seed if farmers want a stand next year. Remove cattle long enough to allow good seed production. Sub-clover can be continuously grazed since it has the ability to produce seed even while being grazed. Ball clover may produce a seed crop without the cattle being removed. However, if the seed heads are grazed, remove cattle for about two weeks to allow good seed production.

GIRL STATE DELEGATES

Girls State is an all American plan of practical application of Americanism and good citizenship. It is a non-partisan and a non-political attempt to teach and inculcate in the youth of America a love of God and Country and 100% Americanism. Here one can learn how and why our government operates as effectively as it does. Too, they may begin to realize not only the importance but also the great weight on the individual to be an informed and involved citizen in a democracy. These outstanding young Americans are this country's greatest natural resource. They are America's hope and dream for tomorrow. At Girls State they have an opportunity to learn the mechanics, objectives and ideals of democracy, "Learning By Doing" is the keynote to the success of the program. Girls on returning as seniors should report to classmates as well as local civic, church and fraternal clubs on what they have experienced and learned at Girls State.

Girls State is held each year in June at Belhaven College in Jackson, Miss. Here they will have counselors with them at all times - the eligibility is positively limited to girls in the junior year of high school.

The patrons financing the cost of the stay at the college are: Iuka Guaranty Bank, Tri-State Savings and Loan, First American National Bank. These are called the patrons.

The American Legion Auxiliary is the sponsor at all times.

Shown above is Tammy Mann, daughter of Mrs. Joyce Aldridge and the late J. N. Mann; and Susan Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emmet Marshall. Both girls are juniors at Iuka High School.

be taken so the County Committee may determine eligibility for payment. The farm operator must inform the County ASCS Office any time a natural disaster affects his cotton, feed grain, or wheat crop or prevents him from planting these crops. This disaster condition must be reported promptly. If a natural disaster prevents planting, a report of all acreage planted on the farm and a claim for disaster credit must be filed with the County ASCS Office by June 6, 1977. This is five working days after the final planting date. Farm operators must continue to try to get program crops planted until final planting dates. If the first planting fails and time is available, farmers are obligated to replant the damaged crops. For cotton and corn the final planting date is May 31, 1977, and for soybeans the final planting date is June 30, 1977. If a crop is affected to the point where the operator wishes to destroy or abandon the crop, a disaster claim and request for appraisal must be filed with the County ASCS Office. The remains of the crop must not be destroyed before the appraisal is made. The weather conditions have been favorable in Tishomingo County this spring. Therefore, most cotton farmers have a good stand of cotton.

4-H'ERS LEARN A'S TO Z'S OF AGRICULTURE

Almost everything starts on some type of farm in some way or another. The scope of agriculture, encompassing the production, processing and marketing of food, fiber and related products, is so broad that all Americans have a vital stake in it.

Encouraging boys and girls from 8 to 19 years of age to take pride in agriculture and its importance to the nation and the world is a major objective of the national 4-H agriculture program.

4-H'ers acquire up-to-date practical skills in this Cooperative Extension Service supervised program. They apply them in projects covering a broad range of specialties: automotive, beef, commodity marketing, conservation, dairy, electric, entomology, farm management, field crops, forestry, horse, horticulture, poultry, sheep, small engines, swine, tractor and veterinary science.

Their 4-H experiences may inspire them to choose careers in farming and ranching. Or they may explore the rapidly expanding professional opportunities in such fields as agricultural research, engineering, economics, communications, education, agribusiness and industry.

4-H'ERS SHARPEN CONSUMER SKILLS

Spending dollars wisely is the goal of boys and girls enrolled in the 4-H consumer education program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. 4-H members from 8 to 19 years of age learn to distinguish wants from basic needs, prepare budgets and set short and long range spending goals.

Practical consumer education activities help 4-H'ers become more discriminating shoppers. They begin to look critically at advertisements and commercials, examine hangtags and care leaflets, study warranties and time-payment contracts, and compare features and prices of products from different manufacturers.

As they become aware of consumer rights and responsibilities, young people find they are entitled to truthfully-advertised products that meet certain health and safety standards. But as informed consumers, they should follow instructions on product use and not abuse credit, exchange or refund privileges.

Young people make consumer decisions every day. They not only select items for personal use, but they also strongly influence family decisions on household purchases.

For more information on consumer education and other 4-H programs, contact your 4-H youth agent at 423-3616.

In Memory

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

CHARLIE HENDRIX,

WHO PASSED AWAY 11 YEARS AGO MAY 24, 1966

You heard the call so clear
That summoned you away.
You left us for a better home
Where there is a perfect day.
Though sad memories are still with us,
Of that sad day in May,
And the ache that remains within our hearts,
Will never go away.
You left us for your home on high,
Prepared by God above,
To dwell with him forever
Within his boundless love.
May you always walk in sunshine,
And God's love around you glow.
For the happiness you brought us
No one will ever know.
You left great sadness within our hearts,
And sorrow too great to be told,
To those who loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow old.
May the blessings of heaven rest upon you
Through God's love so rich and true,
Showers of mercy surround you
In your home beyond the blue.

Your loving wife, Virgie
Daughter, Verna Mae
Sons, Leon, Paul and Doyle

Benefit Singing

All proceeds from a Benefit Gospel Singing on May 28th will go to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis. Scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Iuka High School Football Field (in the gym if the weather is bad) the singing will feature five gospel groups including The Harmonizers and The Dillard Family, local singing groups. Admission is $2 each for adults and $1 for children ages 6 - 12, under 6, no charge. Advance tickets may be purchased at Moore's Jewelry in downtown Iuka, or at Curtis Drug Store in the Elm Shopping Center. They may also be purchased at Iuka United Methodist Church office. In Burnsville, tickets may be purchased at Rex's Grocery.

The public is urged to join in this means of enjoying good singing and at the same time helping St. Jude. St. Jude's Hospital is a research and treatment center for catastrophic diseases in children. Their research, of course, benefitting everyone as application of findings are used in cancer treatment around the world. No one pays at St. Jude. If a family is able to pay they can contribute to its support but pay no bill. All support comes from foundations, grants, contributions, and benefits like the singing, that raises funds for its support of a multi-million dollar budget.

The sponsors of the singing, concerned individuals of the Iuka area, hope you will support this effort in every way you can. Contact Bobby Paden or Rev. Grady Bailey if you need more information.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny McVay and Billy Watson spent the weekend in North Little Rock, Ark. visiting Lawrence Curtis and family.
