An investigation is being conducted by the Tishomingo County Sheriff's Office and the District Attorney's Office into the death of a 50-year-old Golden resident whose body was found on Friday evening, June 3, at a mobile home just off Highway 366 between Golden and Red Bay.

Sheriff Chester Dawson, of Tishomingo County, said that law officials received a call around 7:30 p.m. Friday evening from Red Bay ambulance attendants saying they had been called to the home of Mel Pounders just inside the Mississippi state line, and upon arrival found the dead body of Ms. Laura Roland. They said that Mr.

Pounders came to the Red Bay Hospital earlier seeking help for Ms. Roland. They followed him to the home where he and Ms. Roland resided.

A coroner's inquest was held at the scene and requested an autopsy be performed. According to Sheriff Dawson, the autopsy report stated that Ms. Roland died from stab wounds in the neck and upper chest. He further stated that a knife (believed to be the murder weapon) was found at the site. Mel Pounders is being held at the Tishomingo County Jail charged with murder at this time. Unemployment Drops In County

According to statistics prepared by the Mississippi State Employment Service, the unemployment rate in Tishomingo County has dropped for the fourth straight month. Charles Smith, Manager of the Corinth Office of the Mississippi State Employment Service, stated that unemployment at mid-April in Tishomingo County stood at 450, or 5.3 percent of the civilian labor force.

As the number unemployed dropped, employment was estimated to be 8,150, a rise of 180 from last month. Non-agricultural wage and salaried workers accounted for the major portion of this increase. Smith added that both manufacturing and non-manufacturing employment increased from the previous estimates.

The civilian labor force for the Corinth Area, consisting of Alcorn, Prentiss, Tippah and Tishomingo counties, was estimated to be 40,130 persons at mid-April continued Smith. This was 250 higher than March and 900 more than a year ago. Unemployment in the area, estimated to be 3,080 individuals represented a 7.7 percent of the civilian labor force. This number indicated a 1.4 percent drop from last month while the current estimate is relatively the same as the same period one year ago. The number of persons employed stood at 36,050, an increase of 800 from March and 850 from April 1976. Overall establishment-based employment registered gains from last month but dropped from the same period one year ago. Both manufacturing employment, estimated to be 13,000, and non-manufacturing employment, estimated to be 13,710, increased from the last estimate by 220 and 190 respectively. ECONOMIST'S

NOTESFRAUD
WATCH OUT WHEN SPENDING
YOUR MONEY:

The majority of businessmen are honest. Unfortunately some advertisements, store signs, and business people are dishonest and therefore commit fraud.

Fraud always involves an intent to deceive. It is a means by which someone gets you to pay cash or sign a contract promising to pay for goods or services that do not measure up to what was promised you.

People are in business to make money. Therefore, anything of value is rarely given away for nothing in return. For this reason it is important to determine who is sincerely trying to give you a good deal and who is trying to trick you intentionally.

TARGETS OF FRAUD AND HOW TO AVOID IT:

Sometimes fraudulent individuals or advertising can be so clever that even the best shopper is fooled.

Some people taken by fraud:

THE AGED:

Appeals are made to the insecurity, dwindling mental alertness and loneliness of the aged, to separate them from life savings, retirement and insurance incomes. A popular gimmick used is "retire to the Sunny South for pennies a day."

These opportunities need to be investigated thoroughly. Do not sign anything without reading and understanding the entire agreement. Consult your legal advisor about anything you do not understand.

HOMEMAKERS:

Phony inspectors, home improvement swindlers, as well as door-to-door salesmen and mail fraud are potential problems with city and rural dwellers. Common deception include hidden trust deeds executed without knowledge or consent of homeowners, tricky financing, as well as materials misrepresented and performances exaggerated. Door-to-door salesman may try leaving things on approval, getting cash in advance for merchandise ordered, or faking a "sympathy" approach. You may receive items in the mail that you did not order.

If you are approached by home inspectors or door-to-door salesmen, ask to see their permits and credentials. In some cases you may want to check with your Chamber of Commerce. Don't allow salesmen to leave things on approval, because they might not come back but you would receive a bill. If you receive goods in the mail that you did not order or agree to take on trial, do not accept them.

APPLIANCE, FURNISHINGS &
CLOTHING SHOPPERS:

Unfair advertising and false contracts, guarantees and receipts are very important to watch for when spending your money.

You should always compare prices before buying anything. "Bait and Switch" advertising happens when an item is advertised at a very low price, then your attention is switched to another object by the salesman when you reach the store. Common excuses are they are sold out of the advertised item, or the product really isn't very good compared to another, usually higher priced item. Don't buy anything when this happens, just leave the store.

When you buy any major item make sure all conditions of sales, guarantee or warranty are in writing. Do not accept the phrase "we stand behind what we sell". Be sure you understand any cost of credit when you buy "on time". Do not sign anything until you have read it carefully checking all conditions and filling in any blank spaces, such as those found in contracts. Do not sign a receipt until you have received the desired merchandise, in the correct condition at the intended place, for example, in your home.

SOILS AND FERTILIZER
EROSION CONTROL, Con-

serving soil through wise use and maintaining clean water is important to every farmer. Let's practice conservation by contouring, using sodded waterways, turnrows and adjustments strips, cutting out unnecessary tillage and leaving highly erodible soils in pasture or trees. It makes good sense to protect our soil and water for ourselves and future generations.

SIDEDRESS NITROGEN. Cotton and corn respond well to sidedress applications of nitrogen. Most of the nitrogen is used during fruiting so it is best to sidedress cotton before first square and corn by the time it is 12 to 15 inches tall. Sorghum should be sidedressed before it is 8 inches tall. Many farmers will apply additional nitrogen in June. This is in plenty of time to provide all that most crops need during fruiting.

EARLY CULTIVATION. Some of the cotton is just coming to a stand. Early cultivation will aerate the soil and break crust, control weeds and generally encourage early growth of the cotton. Where cotton is large enough, post-directed chemical sprays can be used along with cultivation. The first cultivation should be deep enough to destroy grass and weeds but still leave the row in shape for effective application of post-emergence chemicals. The rotary hoe can be used to break crust and help get stands of cotton or soybeans that may have to be replanted without it.

LIMING. Summer, the slack season for lime vendors, is a good time to get lime spread on pastures. Pastures for temporary grazing should be limed before fallowing begins. If the area is to be flat broken and then disked during the summer, the recommended amount of lime should be applied between flat breaking and disking.

If you sell lime and have trouble getting loaded fast at state lime plants, see how many farmers you can get to lime pastures this summer. This will help reduce the pressure at lime plants during fall and winter. Improvements are planned at all state-owned lime plants. In addition, several new private plants are now operating in Mississippi, so the lime supply is improving.

SOYBEANS

Varieties and Planting Dates: Plantings the first two weeks in June can be as good as earlier plantings, provided mid-to-late-maturing varieties are selected. It is generally best to plant varieties such as Lee 68, Lee 74, Davis, Tracy, or Bragg up to mid-June. After about June 15-20 the yield potential begins to decline rather sharply for most varieties. If it is necessary to plant after this date, however, chances for a satisfactory yield are better with late varieties like Bragg, Coker 338, Ransom, Hutton or Cobb.

Stand Establishment. Soil moisture frequently is inadequate for germination in June. It is best to place seed into moisture if at all possible. This may require going to 2 to 3 inches depths. Planting too deep is not a good idea. Because of high soil temperatures, marginal moisture and the possibility of weaker seed by summer, it may be desirable to use a fungicide seed treatment and to increase seeding rates slightly.

Postemergence Weed Control: A postemergence herbicide application will be needed in a high percentage of soybean fields by the time beans are 5 to 6 inches tall. Directed sprays of dinoseb, Basagran, Tenoran and Norex are possibilities. Where directed sprays cannot or will not be used, it is possible to go over the top with Basagran or low rates of dinoseb or Dyanap for broadleaf control. Removing weeds while they are small and before soybeans are a month old is the key to successful control.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

I recently had the opportunity to represent the people of Mississippi on an energy forum of the World Energy Conference in Washington.

I accepted this invitation to be on the panel discussion with four other governors and leaders of the energy industry in order to make sure that the concerns of the people were given proper consideration in any national energy policy decisions.

I believe that it is absolutely necessary that any national policy have the support of the people if it is to work, particularly on a vital matter such as energy. Unless the people fully support the policy, it will be ineffective, much as prohibition was a failure.

I am confident that the energy crisis is real, despite the fact that we hear so much conflicting evidence. I also believe that we have wasted our energy and must stop doing so immediately. We must be good stewards of our natural resources.

While I applaud President Carter's stand for an energy policy, there are a few points in his program that bother me because I think they are unfair to Mississippians.

One point that particularly troubles me is the forced conversion of utility and industrial plants from fuel oil and/or gas to coal on an immediate basis. I believe we must look to coal in the future because it is abundant and economical, but the phasing out of oil-gas operations should be on a sensible, orderly basis rather than an immediate sweeping action without regard to the consequences.

If we in Mississippi are forced to convert to coal immediately, it will require millions of dollars to replace oil and gas operations that have many years of service left in them. To throw away our original investments in favor of coal would, in my opinion, be a wasteful action as sinful as our present waste of natural resources. In other words, the cure would be worse than the illness.

Another point that bothers me is the proposed tax on gasoline. Rural states like Mississippi depend on automobiles for transportation to and from work because we don't have mass transportation systems like the urban areas. To add to the tax burden of our people would be bad enough in itself, but to take that tax to subsidize mass transit systems in urban areas would add insult to injury.

I'm also concerned about the proposed rebate to people who heat their homes with fuel oil. In effect, this would take money from Mississippians who use electric heat and give it to people who live in other areas of the country.

While I support the need for a national energy policy, I want to make sure that it is absolutely fair to Mississippians. We Mississippians are willing to carry our share of the burden to help our country in this hour of need, but we want it to be a fair share, no more or less than any other state has to bear.

I will continue to work toward that end.

The 11th step of the Alcoholics Anonymous program calls for seeking "through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God." To better understand your own strengths in dealing with similar problems you can read a booklet entitled, "I Am An Alcoholic." SEEDS FROM
THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

"Understanding," said one, "is something the other person hasn't got." But it is something the Lord has.

One who was acquainted with Him said of Him in Psalm 147:5, "His understanding is infinite." Because it is unlimited, He understands you.

He understands your traits. He knows your built-in possibilities. The Lord knows what you can do and cannot do. Only He can direct you so that every ability with which He has endowed you at birth is given full expression in life.

He understands your troubles. Every heart has its own hurt, and to you the Lord says, "Let not your heart be troubled." If you are not to be troubled you must have something outside of yourself to overcome your troubles.

That is what the Lord offers you. He is greater than your troubles. In Him there is triumph.

He knows your temptations. Never forget for a moment that He can deliver you, if you trust Him. In your temptation, if you call on Him, He will drive forth the passion that has dominated you. And He will fill your heart with His purity and power.

The Lord is great. His power is absolute. Because He understands He undertakes.

Williams will be the storyteller tomorrow, so don't forget to be there. A special story hour for children 5 through 8 years old is held at the library every Friday morning from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m.

A book inventory will be made this week at the Iuka Library. We have many overdue books out at this time. Please be considerate and return these overdue books as soon as possible.

We are grateful to those friends of the library who have made a donation to help buy accessory parts and film for our new microfilm reader. We are still in need of money for this project and will appreciate any donation you make.

June is National Rose Month, a good time to find out more about the flower that is grown in all 50 states. Roses have been pickled, boiled and potted, and have been used in making cakes, candies, marmalades and even cosmetics. Roses are used for making jams and jellies as well as appreciated for their fragrance and beauty. Cultivate an interest in the library and you could week through a whole series of books and magazines on flowers and gardening.

Midway R.C.D.C.

The Midway Rural Development Club met at the Community Center May 23, at 7:30 p.m. for the regular meeting. There were 14 members and two visitors present. The president, Mr. B. L. Mercer, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Ava Hill gave the inspiring devotional taken from Romans. During the business session a motion was made and carried to make a $25.00 donation to each of the following organizations: The Jane Perry Hudson Scholarship Fund and The St. Jude Hospital Fund. After the brief business session, Mrs. Grace Phillips, program chairperson, introduced the guest speaker, Rep. Richard Clark. Mr. Clark made a very interesting and informative report on the recently adjourned 1977 Legislative session. Mr. Clark stated that there were 2,600 bills introduced, approximately 600 of these bills became law, 200 of these were major and important bills. He also discussed some of the bills that did not pass. "There had to be much time and hard work spent during this session with the many bills to review and discuss."

We want to thank our Representatives for the fine work they are doing in local and state government. A question and answer session followed Mr. Clark's speech.

Refreshments were served after the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held June 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center. Program chairman will be Mr. David B. Phillips. Dr. J. V. Bruce will be guest speaker.

B. T. Curtis Receives Award

B. T. "Bill" Curtis, Tishomingo Heart Fund Chairman, was presented a Heart Fund Award at the Mississippi Heart Association's annual assembly held May 18-19 in Biloxi. The honor was in recognition of Tishomingo County's Heart Fund growth rate based on percentage increase over the previous campaign.

Other activities of the Association's annual meeting included election of officers, the setting of goals and objectives for the coming year, and a keynote address by longtime American Heart volunteer, Richard H. C. Taylor, an attorney in Richmond, Va.

The Mississippi Affiliate of the American Heart Association is a voluntary health agency, supported by public contributions, which has as its mission the reduction of premature death and disability from heart and circulator diseases through programs of scientific research, medical and public education, and community service projects.

Jaycees Elect President

Robert Ingram, Madison, was elected 48th President of the Mississippi Jaycees in Biloxi at the Annual Jaycee State Convention on May 22.

Ingram has served as President of the Grenada Jaycees, a District Director, Regional Director and last year served as Individual Development Vice President of the Mississippi Jaycees.

The election, one of the closest races in years, was won on the second ballot over James Melvin, Tishomingo, and Earl Franklin, Pearl.

Nearly 1,000 Jaycees, Jayettes and wives attended the three day event which included year end awards and elections. Communities winning heavily in Annual Awards included: Square County (Carthage), Gulfport, Jackson, Calhoun City, North Biloxi, Clinton, Iuka, Booneville, Jumbertown and Aberdeen.

Other elections included the three Vice Presidential races: elected were Ron Crowe Crossgates, Don Hartfield, Gulfport, and Robert "Candy" Bone, Carthage (Square County Jaycees).

Law Requires Vaccination

Mississippi dog owners are encouraged to make sure their pets are vaccinated for rabies, according to Dr. Durward Blakey, chief of the Bureau of Disease Control for the Mississippi State Board of Health.

According to Dr. Blakey, a state law requires that every dog be vaccinated after the age of six months and every year thereafter.

According to the law, the offender shall on conviction be fined for the first offense in a sum not to exceed $5; and a second offense not to exceed $25 and a third offense, $50 together with all costs, including court costs.

Dr. Blakey indicated that even though there hasn't been a case of rabies in 10 years except in bats, it is the duty of the pet owners to see that his pets are vaccinated as a preventive measure.

"There is no better protection from rabies than by vaccinating animals that have the potential for carrying it," he said.

Dr. Blakey also cautions against keeping wild or exotic animals as pets, noting that they cannot be properly vaccinated.

He also notes that parents should be careful in allowing their children to play with animals that are unfamiliar to them, whether domestic or wild as another preventive measure against rabies.

Guide To Park Plants Being Published

A work of art is being created in the Department of Biology at The University of Mississippi.

"Artists" are biologists Fred Searcy of Pulaski, a botany graduate student; Carole Ritchie, of Frederick, Md., herbarium technician; and Bill Martin, of Oxford, biological consultant-photographer. Their art is a guide to some of the ferns and wild flowers which can be found in Tishomingo State Park at various times of the year.

After two years of collecting specimens of plants in the park for his master's thesis, the Ole Miss student got the idea for the guide and asked the Mississippi Park Commission if they were interested. They were.

"The Graduate School dean also liked the idea, and we were able to get some funding from the Graduate School to pay expenses," said Searcy.

He began trying to make drawings of plants, and each day Mrs. Ritchie saw him struggling with his task. Finally, she told him, "I think I could do that." Her qualifications were a Master's degree in botany, and a drafting course she took "because I wanted to learn how to draw."

"Her attention to detail is amazing," said Searcy. "With pen and ink she's made three-dimensional drawings far superior to biological drawings I've seen. It's going to make the guide a work of art."

They began the work in January, with Searcy writing about the history and geology of the park, the common and scientific names of the plants; Mrs. Ritchie making drawings; and Martin photographically reducing everything for publication and giving technical advice. In addition, Dr. Thomas Pullen, Ole Miss professor of Biology and curator of the Herbarium, served as editor.

June is the planned publication date for the guide, which will contain information and pictures of 78 plants. Summer and fall plants will be in the first part of the book; and those found in spring will be in the latter part. A small fee will be charged for the guide to cover printing costs.

"Some plants in the guide are rare, but most are easily found plants which 'weekenders' who just like plants can find," said Searcy. "This guide is mainly for persons who see a flower blooming and want to know what it is."

PATCHES ARE BEAUTIFUL

Coralie Brown, of Union City, Tenn., has a blue denim outfit, but it's not like an ordinary blue denim outfit - her's is covered with patches from top to bottom.

Mrs. Brown, whose Citizen Band Radio "handle" is LITTLE BIT, comes to Iuka three or four times a week as a deliver for Conner's Photo Service of Union City. Her job is picking up photographic film and delivering finished prints to retail stores served by the Conner firm.

Besides her friendly smile and tiny size, the most remarkable thing about Coralie is her uniform - a jean jacket and trousers beautified with patches. "I started collecting patches last September, Mrs. Brown says, "and people on my route, my family and friends have all donated them."

Her route covers parts of five states - Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi - and she drives about 350 miles each working day.

There are 298 patches on her outfit, but that's just the beginning. Coralie confides that a white outfit is in the making. The 200 additional patches are being sewn on the new suit by Mrs. Vivian Goodman, of Union City, at whose home Mrs. Brown lives.

"It didn't take too long to get the collection going," Coralie says. "I started in September and had the blue outfit completed by November. I was getting 10 to 15 patches a day in those first few weeks."

It all began when Coralie visited her sister and brother-in-law in St. Louis last July. They gave her a patch which says "Daniel Boone 76". "That patch was from some kind of rally they put on during the Bicentennial Celebration last year," Mrs. Brown said. "The collection grew from there."

Her favorite patches are mostly going on the new white outfit but if she had to pick one favorite it would be an attractive red, white, and blue and gold circle showing part of the American flag with the citizens' band radio initials "C.B." in the blue field, along with some stars. Why does she like that one? "It has my initials, 'C.B.' and the flag," says Mrs. Brown.

There are many kinds of military rank and unit insignia, police uniform patches, and others representing banks, farm organizations, many kinds of products, and states in the union.

The only thing she refuses to put in the collection are beer and whiskey patches.

Coralie calls on 66 places of business, often wearing her "Patchy" outfit, and only one business owner has expressed a bad reaction to the fancy suit. He's in Sikeston, and "it just tears him up every time I walk in," Coralie says.

"I know, I'm going to be 47 years old, and I shouldn't do things like this, but I think it's beautiful," Coralie protests.

Mrs. Brown was born in Northville, Mich., and her mother lives in Howell, Mich., where her father died about a month ago.

Many years ago she moved to Nashville, because she loved country music, and then moved back to Michigan for five years.

Coralie came to Union City four years ago to visit the mother of her best friend in Michigan, and while in Tennessee she found a job driving for Conner's Photo and decided to stay, adding her bit of color to the lives of the many people she calls on every day.

The next time Coralie passes through Iuka, be sure to keep your eyes open and you'll agree - Patches are Beautiful.

Tennis Tourney

Interest is high in the Northeast Open Tennis Tournament to be held June 17-19, 1977 at Northeast Mississippi Junior College, according to Dr. Ray Cozort, tournament director. "We've had a good response from our immediate area, as well as a number of requests for entry forms from the Memphis area, other parts of Tennessee and West Alabama as well," Cozort said. "We urge anyone planning to enter the tournament to return their entry forms as soon as possible since it may be necessary to limit the size of the field. Entries will be posted on a first come, first served basis."

Entry forms are available from any former Northeast tennis player, from the Northeast Athletic Department, or entry may be made by sending name, address, telephone number, age, events entered, partner's name, and pertinent seeding information to "Tennis Tournament," Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, Miss. 38829. Entries must be received by 5:00 p.m. Wednesday, June 15.

Anyone wishing further information may call the Northeast Athletic Department, 728-7751, Ext. 240, or Dr. Ray Cozort, Ext. 217, home telephone 728-3375.

HONOR ROLL

The Honor Roll for the 1977 spring semester at Mississippi University for Women commends some 425 students for academic excellence, including Pamela Kay Sartin, of Belmont, and Donna Gayle Strickland, of Golden.

The M.U.W. Honor Roll is composed of the President's List, which represents students at the University who earned a straight "A" average for the semester, and the Dean's List, which features students showing an overall average of "A" for the spring semester.

The President's list for the second session at M.U.W. includes 54 seniors, 25 juniors, 26 sophomores and 19 freshmen, for a total of 124 straight "A" students.

Featured on the Dean's List for the spring semester at The W are 77 seniors, 78 juniors, 62 sophomores and 84 freshmen, for a total of 301.

Miss Sartin is listed on the President's List, and Miss Strickland was named to the Dean's List.

Correction

Carolyn Strickland was named to the Chancellor's Honor Roll at Ole Miss. This information was omitted from the Honor Roll list published in last week's paper.

Local Man Elected To Top Rotary Post

Mr. William S. Brown, Jr. was elected top Rotary official for his home area by delegates to the Rotary International convention meeting in San Francisco, California, U.S.A.

Mr. Brown is the president of W. S. Brown & Company.

Mr. Brown is one of 369 men from 150 countries of the Rotary world elected as a district governor for the 1977-78 year. As governor of District 680, he will coordinate some 40 clubs in his district.

A Rotarian since 1972, he is a member of the Rotary Club of Iuka, one of more than 17,200 such clubs around the world.

Rotary International is the association of these Rotary clubs and is administered by a 17-man board of directors, eight of whom were elected to two-year terms (1977-1979). Seven other directors have one more year to serve. The other 1977-78 board members will be the president and president-elect.

The other international officers of the organization are the district governors. Rotary was only seven years old in 1912 when the forerunner of the current district system was set up. At that time there were eight districts and 50 Rotary clubs, compared to 369 districts and over 17,200 Rotary clubs today. There were about 5,00 Rotarians then, and now there are over three quarters of a million.

The Rotary clubs which district governors administer are made up of business and professional men, each representing a different occupation. Their common bond is service -- within the club, on the community level, and on the international level. Rotarians of the world give tens of millions of hours annually toward the betterment of their fellow man.

The district governor provides cohesion for Rotary clubs and Rotarians in each district around the globe. During his year he visits every club in his district at least once and visits with club officers, offering suggestions to the club for bettering itself.

Attend Conference

Three Tishomingo County 4-H'ers are attending the 22nd annual 4-H Regional Resource Development Conference at Fontana Village, Fontana Dam, N.C., June 6 - 10.

They are among the 17 members representing Mississippi at the conference. More than 250 4-H'ers from the Tennessee Valley Watershed Counties in Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee are also attending.

In announcing the delegates, 4-H Youth Agent Billy Rainey explained that these 4-H'ers were selected because of their 4-H achievements and potential leadership.

Delegates attending are: Beth Pearson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Pearson, of Mt. Gilead; Charlene Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Patterson of Golden; and Anthony Loveless, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Loveless of Burnsville.

Accompanying the delegation will be Robert Parker, leader, forestry department, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service; Leon Perry, Extension Special Watershed Agent, Iuka; Jim Archer, 4-H Youth Agent, Booneville; Melissa Clanton, 4-H Youth Agent, Corinth; Barney Hudson, Iuka; and Mrs. Nancy Wilson, Fulton.

Objectives of the conference are to stimulate the delegates' awareness and appreciation of the natural resources of the area and to teach conservation needs and methods. The conference also highlights career opportunities in the natural resource management field.

This annual event, which was among the earlier youth environmental movements in the nation, is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Services of the land-grant universities of the seven Tennessee Valley states, the Tennessee Valley Association of Test Demonstration Farm Families and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

DREAM ME TRUE

son is traveling United States from the West coast on just like the setting ago, a dream he doing for a long last his dream is horses and gear there, starting his trip on May 25, hoping to be in California by November. His horses developed saddle sores, so he stopped in Mineral Springs Park in Iuka to seek assistance and a place to stay while the horses rested up. Herbert M. Biggs, who has lived near the park for over 40 years, roped in a make shift corral for the horses in his yard and has Pierre as his house guest. Pierre celebrated his 28th birthday on Tuesday, June 7th, speaks English very well, smokes one cigarette after another, and is a very interesting conversationalist. He is taking pictures of his trip and hopes to give slide projector lectures when he returns to France. He also plans on writing a book about his travels, experiences and the people he meets in our country. We all wish him a safe journey and hope he can go back to France with good reports of the people he has met in the U.S. Pierre said, "If the people across the States are as friendly and helpful as they are in Iuka, I will have a very good trip."

Something Old

How about it? In your family today do you think a revised system of apprenticeship should be revived?

Here are the 6 agreements the apprentice had to agree to:

1. He shall do no damage to his master, nor see it done by others, but shall forthwith give warning.
2. He shall not waste the goods of his master nor lend them to anyone unlawfully.
3. He shall not commit fornication.
4. He shall not play cards nor any unlawful games whereby his master may have any loss. Without the license of his master he shall neither buy nor sell.
5. He shall not haunt taverns nor playhouses nor absent himself from his master's service day or night but shall behave himself as a faithful servant.
6. And the said master shall teach, instruct, give meat, apparel, lodging and all necessities. He shall also give instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic.

At the expiration of said term shall give the apprentice all those other things mentioned in last weeks article.

The trade my great-grandfather learned was to be a tailor. He was so good at his trade even though he had a crippled hand he made the officer's uniforms during the Civil War. We have the sleeve board that he used in pressing the sleeves.

Would you like to know more? Where he lived, where he died and where he is buried?

An Indian Legend

There is a legend, that will oft be told,
Of the Chief Iuka, an Indian bold,
And Tishomingo, a maiden fair,
With glowing eyes and coal black hair.
Now, the maid loved the brave with a love so true,
And the brave loved the maid as a brave will do,
Yet better he loved the wilds to roam,
And no spot on earth would he call home.
But it grieved the maid and tore her heart,
As oft and again from her love she must part.
Then she begged of the witch a charm to give,
That Iuka, content at her side might live.
The witch led the girl to a shady dell,
Where she cast a wonderful magic spell -
Through the leafy trees the bird notes thrilled,
From the dewy earth springs of nectar rilled.
Then the witch of the waters a secret told,
And these are the words of the story old:
"He who drinks of this spring so clear,
Finds health and oft returneth here -
Though he may search and wild world o'er,
He shall ever long for one draught more."
Of another spring that ran close by,
The witch then whispered, modding sly,
"And this spring flows with beauty power,
And makes the maid fair as a flower."
And a leafy cup in its brink she dips,
Then holds it to the girl's red lips.
Now it chanced ere long Iuka fell ill,
His blood ran hot - or shivered chill.
Then his braves bore him back to Tishomingo,
Amongst the red hills where the oak and pine grow.
She bade them set his wigwam there,
By the crystal spring in the dell so fair,
And he drank the waters pure and clear,
Grew well and strong, yet lingered near.
He wed the maid as fair as a flower,
And happily lived till his last sweet hour.
The years have flown - and the Indians sleep,
But the springs still flow and the charm still keep.
And chant as they bubble, "Drink, all men - Gain health, 'tis wealth - return again!"

Miss Catherine Biggs Feted With Bridal Shower

Miss Catherine Biggs, bride-elect of Joe Norman, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower held Saturday night, June 4, in the fellowship hall of the Iuka Baptist Church. Hostesses for the occasion were Earline Grisham, Maida Grisham, Julie Long, Yvonne Long, and Teresa Dexter.

Guests were greeted at the door by the honoree, who chose for the occasion a candlelight, two piece dress accented by a beautiful corsage of yellow and white daisies pinned at the shoulder, presented by the hostesses. Both mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Howard Biggs, of Iuka, and Mrs. T. B. Norman, of Corinth, were present to assist the bride. Also present was Mrs. Mary Curtis, grandmother of the bride. These honored guests were also presented corsages of yellow and white daisies.

The registration table was covered in ivory lace, featuring a bouquet of daisies and a decoupage wedding invitation and matching easel, a gift to the couple. Guests registered in the bride's book as they entered the room. The lovely arranged refreshment table featured a yellow cloth under beige lace as covering, centered with yellow burning tapers in crystal holders and a beautiful arrangement of yellow and white daisies. Trays of individual cake squares topped with white wedding bells, along with a tray of chicken salad hors d'oeuvres, nuts and mints adorned one end of the table, while sparkling cool fruit punch was offered from a crystal bowl on the opposite end. Green ivy encircled the bowl.

The honoree received a lovely assortment of gifts.

MIKE RUSHING, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rushing, of Burnsville, has returned home for the summer. He is a second year Cadet at Columbia Military Academy in Columbia, Tenn., where he is a Staff Sergeant and on the honor roll. He will be attending Harding Academy in Searcy, Ark. this fall. Mike is the grandson of Mrs. Georgia Rushing and the late Jim Rushing, north of Burnsville.

Computers Made Easy

After teaching a course on computers for five years at the University of Mississippi, Dr. Ronn J. Hy decided he would write a book.

"Using the Computer in the Social Sciences: A Nontechnical Approach" was just published by the Elsevier Press in New York. "The book started out as a course I have taught at Ole Miss for the past five years," said the associate professor of Governmental Research and Political Science. "The aim of this volume is to acquaint individuals with general guidelines needed to understand an electronic computing system, to operate statistical packages, and to write a respectable research report," Dr. Hy wrote. "The need for such a text is obvious when one stops to appraise the rapidly increasing emphasis being placed on the utilization of quantitative research in the social sciences."

The 150-page nontechnical book is devised both as a supplemental text for novice researchers and as a guide for nonresearchers who want to evaluate quantitative investigations, even though their knowledge is limited, Dr. Hy said.

The book concentrates on three integral elements of quantitative research. First, readers are introduced to the basic components of a computer. Prospective researchers are then acquainted with various programmed statistical packages, presenting information necessary to use and analyze results from the machines. Finally, beginners are exposed to elementary rules that must be followed when communicating a project's findings via a written report.

Included are instructions for card punching, coding data and doctnote form. There is also a basic glossary of data processing terms.

Dr. Hy is married to the former Star Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, of Iuka.

Penny Wright Says...

What Is Fiber?

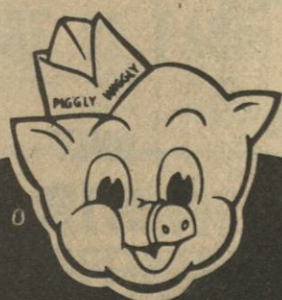

Fiber is the part of whole grains such as wheat bran, fruits such as bananas, vegetables such as raw carrot and cooked spinach, as well as nuts, that resist digestion in the gastro-intestinal tract. Instead, it provides bulk for the waste material that is passed out of the system.

The fact that food fiber is largely undigested by the body may account for our lack of awareness until very recently that this food element is so essential. We were unaware because absence of food fiber in the diet does not show up as a deficiency whereas inadequate amounts of vitamins, minerals and other nutrients do.

Other Benefits

Exponents of more food fiber in the diet point out a bonus factor for those interested in weight control. Fiber foods offer more satiety, or a "full feeling" after eating, and thus lower our craving for high calorie, low nutrition snacks. This may help us to keep weight down.
