On Wednesday, June 29, at the corner of Oak and Eastport Streets in Luka, the first shovel full of dirt was removed for a new building to house a telephone Electronic Switching System. City and County officials, South Central Bell representatives and Public Service Commissioner D. W. Snyder participated in the groundbreaking ceremony for the $1,075,300 project.

At a luncheon held prior to the groundbreaking ceremony South Central Bell Manager Bill Hardin announced the beginning of the construction work. Hardin told the officials that the new office will replace the present Central Office which serves the Luka exchange. Hardin added that the new installation is the most modern, up-to-date switching system in the world today.

According to Hardin, the system switches telephone calls electronically according to programmed instructions. He added, "Not only is electronic switching of calls faster, it is more reliable than the electro-mechanical process employed by the present office because there are few moving parts in the new system." Hardin compared the proposed system to the operation of an electronic calculator in contrast to the operation of the present office which he compared to the functioning of an electric adding machine.

Hardin also described to the guests the new telephone services to be offered Luka exchange customers by the Electronic Switching System. He indicated that Luka customers will be able to get Touch-tone R. telephones and other services that will allow them to call two friends at once from the same phone or forward their incoming calls to another number when they plan to be away from

The body of Aaron Z. Deaton, 30, of the Midway Community, was recovered from his Pinto Wagon early Thursday morning after the auto had apparently fallen from an old wooden bridge on a county road into Cripple Deer Creek. Mr. Deaton, who was alone at the time of the accident, apparently drowned after plunging into the water. The time of the accident is not known, but it was reported that he left home around 10:00 on Wednesday night and was not seen after that time. The bridge, which is located near the McNitt Farm, just west of Hwy. 25, is only a short distance from the Deaton home.

Frank Cox, of the community, discovered the casualty around 8:00 Thursday morning. The News Office talked with Mrs. Cox and she gave this report. Mr. Cox left home around 8:00 to carry a neighbor some fresh vegetables. When he approached the bridge in Cripple Deer Bottom he noticed some tares in the structure and got out to repair them before crossing. He immediately spotted the overturned auto almost completely submerged in the water. Mr. Cox called the county law officials to investigate.

Funeral services for Mr. Deaton were held at 2 p.m. on Friday at the Friendship Primitive Baptist Church with Elder Cecil Woodruff and the Rev. Bob Wiler officiating. Burial was in Friendship Cemetery with Cutshall Funeral Home in charge.

He was an employee of the Soil Conservation Service at 112 Front Street in Iuka.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Barbara Deaton, Tishomingo; three daughters, Rondie, Zenia, and Jessica Deaton, all of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Deaton, Tishomingo; three sisters, Mrs. Yvonne Starkey, Tishomingo, Mrs. Peggy Hoover, Birmingham, and Mrs. Jean Luttrell, Memphis.

John B. Hendrix has been appointed TVA program coordinator for the Yellow Creek area in Northeast Mississippi to work with officials, organizations and citizens living in the vicinity of TVA's proposed Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant, TVA General Manager Lynn Seeber announced.

Hendrix replaces H. Edgar (Ed) Hall, who has been named assistant to the Director of TVA's Division of Power Utilization in Chattanooga. Hall had held the post since 1975 when plans for the Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant were announced.

Seeber said Hendrix' responsibilities will include keeping the public informed concerning TVA activities related to the plant on a timely basis, and working with other TVA personnel assigned to the area to assure proper coordination with local citizens.

"Mr. Hendrix will work closely with local officials around the proposed Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant and will be available to members of the public to answer questions concerning the Yellow Creek project," Seeber said. "We are committed to continuing the co-operative efforts between TVA and the citizens of the area."

Hendrix joined TVA in September 1971 as a chemical engineer in the Division of Power Production in Chattanooga. He worked three years in both fossil and nuclear plants on the TVA power system, including the Widows Creek Steam Plant in north Alabama, Sequoyah Nuclear Plant near Chattanooga, and the Browns Ferry Nuclear Plant near Athens, Alabama.

In 1974, Hendrix transferred to the Division of Power Resource Planning where he served as an environmental licensing engineer for the Hartsville Nuclear Plant. He was also involved in the early project planning and preparation of TVA's environmental report for the Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant. Since April 1976, he has worked with TVA's Project Siting Section to identify suitable sites in the Tennessee Valley for future TVA power plants.

He received his B.S. degree in chemical engineering from The University of Tennessee in Knoxville in 1970, and is currently pursuing graduate studies in engineering administration. Hendrix is married to the former Joy Hawkins, of Memphis. They have one daughter. The Hendrix family plans to make their home in Iuka.

TVA has proposed to construct the Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant on the east shore of the Yellow Creek embayment of Pickwick Lake, about 15 miles east of Corinth. The two-unit plant would be capable of generating more than 2,000 million kilowatts of electricity. Unit 1 is scheduled for operation in 1985 with Unit 2 following a year later.

Offers Assistance

The Iuka Lions Club, with the assistance of the Utilities Maintenance Department and 1st and 3rd District Supervisors, have adopted the Iuka Library grounds as a joint venture and are in process of rip-rapping and graveling on the south side of the building. This has long been an eye-sore, and has also taken up space that can well be utilized as a parking facility. Plans are to pave, or black-top, this area after sufficient packing and settling is completed.

Also, in the near future, the Lions Club will place receptacles in various business establishments for the collection of old eye-glasses, which have become out-dated to the present owners. These glasses will be re-cycled, repaired and checked as per prescription and given to indigent parties, who are unable to provide for their own prescription glasses. Please deposit your old, out-dated glasses in one of these receptacles and have the satisfaction of knowing that you have helped some poor person to see better.

TRAGEDY VEHICLE — This is the late model Ford Pinto Wagon which was recovered from Cripple Deer Creek Thursday morning, June 30th. The body of Aaron Deaton was found in the trunk of the vehicle.

ECONOMIST'S

FREEZING FRUITS

Most fruits can be frozen satisfactorily, but the quality of the frozen product will vary with the kind of fruit, stage of maturity, and type of pack.

1. Select firm, evenly ripe fruit of the right variety for freezing. Freeze fruit that has a good flavor and color and is at peak ripeness for eating. Freezing won't improve quality of fruit. Immature fruit becomes pale and tasteless in the freezer; overripe fruit turns dark.

2. Most fruits are best when frozen soon after they are harvested. Peaches and pears may be held a short time to ripen.

3. Wash fruit in cold water before hulling or paring. Wash a small amount at one time to prevent bruising. Don't let fruit soak in water. Prepare as for serving. Use a stainless steel knife for paring or cutting. Work quickly. Slice fruit directly into the carton containing syrup or add sugar at once to the fruit.

4. Fruits packed with dry sugar or sugar syrup usually retain their color, flavor, and texture better than those packed without sugar. The amount of sugar or syrup used depends on sweetness desired. Juicy fruits will make their own syrup when combined with dry sugar. A syrup may be preferable for less juicy fruits.

5. Some fruits darken during freezing unless treated to retard browning. Speed is important in preparing fruit for freezing. Ascorbic acid (vitamin C) is effective in preserving color and flavor of fruit and adds nutritive value. It also adds to the expense of freezing fruits. Crystalline or powdered form of ascorbic acid is easier and better to use than tablets. Dissolve ascorbic acid in a little cold water and add to the fruit or syrup. Solutions should be made up as needed. If you use one of the ascorbic acid mixtures on the market, follow the manufacturer's directions. Steaming a few minutes before packing is enough to control the darkening of some fruits, such as apples. You can use citric acid or lemon juice on some fruits, but it is less effective than ascorbic acid and changes the flavor of the fruit.

6. Use a package that protects the quality of the fruit while in storage. Select the size container according to your planned use of the fruit.

7. Leave head space in container as directed for each fruit.

8. Seal. Label with name of fruit; date, purpose for which fruit is intended, such as pie, jam, or dessert; and amount of sugar used in pack.

9. Freeze at once. Place packages against freezing plates or coils. Leave space between packages so air can circulate freely.

MAXIMUM STORAGE TIMES FOR BEST QUALITY FRUIT

Fruits 8 to 12 months
(Unsweetened fruits lost quality faster than those packed in sugar or syrup)

NOTE: Exception to 8 to 12 months storage.
Citrus fruits & citrus juices 4 to 6 months

Pecans 3 years

WATERMELON PICKLES
Pickling time (slaked lime)
4 lb. (5 1/2 pts) watermelon rind

6 cups sugar
1 pt. water
1 cup white vinegar
1 cup cider vinegar
Spice bag: 1 T. whole cloves
1 T. whole allspice
3 large sticks cinnamon, crushed

After watermelon is eaten, cut rind into two-inch strips. Remove any remaining pink meat and green part of rind. Cut strips into one-inch squares or smaller if desired. Soak melon overnight in lime water. Use one tablespoon lime for each quart of water. Completely cover rind. Second day, drain, rinse and cover with fresh water. Cook until almost tender, 20-25 minutes. Let stand in the water overnight. Third day, drain and rinse. Combine remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Cook at rolling boil for 15 minutes. Add rind and return to boil. Simmer gently about 20 minutes. Pack in sterilized jars and process in a water bath for 20 minutes.

DOVE FEED

Browntop millet can be planted for dove feed until July 15 in South Mississippi and still be mature in time for the first dove season. A second planting can produce seed for the end of the first season and for the second season in North and South Mississippi.

If you broadcast the seed, be sure to leave alternating fallow strips and keep them disked. Doves prefer clean feeding areas. You may want to mow and windrow a portion of the millet two weeks before the season. Windrowing helps scatter the seed and prevents the remaining seed for deteriorating as fast because it is off the ground. Windrows can then be turned again as seed becomes scarce in the feeding area. Fallow strips can be planted in wheat just before the season. It is advisable to have doves coming to your field before the season, which usually begins the first or second Saturday of September in the north zone and the third Saturday of September in the south zone. For a prolonged shooting season, restrict shooting to twice a week and try to leave the field early enough to let the doves come in to the feed before going to roost.

KEEP GARDEN PRODUCTIVE
The best way to keep a garden weed-free is to have a crop growing in every row. You can keep your garden producing by plowing up rows where a crop has already matured and planting to another crop. Idle rows become havens for weeds when they could be producing another vegetable crop. Long season crops, such as tomatoes, can be kept free of weeds by using a heavy mulch of pine straw, seed-free hay or similar material. Mulch will also reduce the need for frequent watering and help keep fruit off the ground.

PESTICIDE POISONING

If you work with any type of pesticide, learn to recognize pesticide poisoning symptoms and to administer first aid. Pesticide poisoning symptoms include stomach cramps, dizziness, vomiting and excessive sweating.

In case of pesticide poisoning, remove the victim from the source of exposure immediately. In case of pesticide spills or poisons on the skin, remove the victim's contaminated clothing. Wash the poison from the skin as soon as possible. Next, get the victim to a doctor. Tell the doctor what kind of pesticide is involved and, if possible, give him the label from the product. Prompt treatment can mean the difference between life and death.

Though most birds are smaller than man, our feathered friends are 75 percent stronger, proportionate to their size.

4H CLUB

JOHNNY BENCH SPEAKS OUT ON 4-H

There are more than 36 million 4-H alumni. Doctors, lawyers, farmers, business executives . . . people from all walks of life have had the benefit of 4-H experience. One of 4-H's most prominent alumni is Johnny Bench, star catcher for the Cincinnati Reds. We asked him to share some thoughts about his 4-H days in Binger, Oklahoma. Here's what he said:

Q. Mickey Mantle was your boyhood idol. How does it feel now to have people idolize you?

A. It's very nice. There are so many good things that go with it: attention, being respected by peers on a very high level, and by the press, who really put you there, and are the ones who keep you there - make you or break you. I don't dwell on it though. I know I have a responsibility to a lot of kids, influencing their lifestyle and the way they grow up.

Q. Tell me about your 4-H days in Binger, Oklahoma.

A. Well, in a small town there wasn't much to do, but 4-H made up for that. There were always lots of projects, like public speaking, for example. I found that through 4-H I could learn to discipline myself. I knew that there was a blue ribbon or red ribbon waiting for me if I did the job. And of course the harder I worked, the greater the rewards were. I think winning a blue ribbon is everybody's idea of success, whether you're a cook or a speaker.

Growing up in a town of 660 people, 4-H gave me an opportunity to be creative, a little more polished. I got in some projects that I normally would not have studied. I don't know if I spent as much time as I should have . . . I did get all blue ribbons.

I made a few tie racks, but my main project was public speaking - and the style shows that went along with speaking. We had dress codes and we were almost young models. Of course I never had a body that could wear clothes and look good. My hips and legs have always been out of proportion to my waist. I never did get in the top ten on the style shows.

I went to state with my speech and won a blue ribbon, though I didn't place at the top. I think my speech wasn't that exciting. The subject probably hurt me more than anything. The judges probably weren't too interested in sparrows. "Birds of the World" was my speech. I don't remember all of it now, so please don't ask me to quote it.

Q. Do you feel 4-H helped you in any way for your successful career?

A. Definitely. I was thrown into a maze of sports writers and interviews when I was very young. So I know how to stand on my feet. I felt I had a pretty good grasp of the English language, that I wouldn't embarrass myself and could carry on a conversation with anyone.

Q. What advice would you give 4-H'ers and other young people?

A. 4-H serves such a great purpose. I think discipline is the main benefit. You have to discipline yourself to do certain things. 4-H gives you your own special growing up period when you can learn to accept responsibility.

I think it's so important for kids to have their own responsibility and learn to discipline themselves. I know it's helped me in my adult life.

4-H projects and I think that's important because you achieve. No matter if you win a blue ribbon or you don't even place, the reward is that you've succeeded in something you set out to do.

The thing about 4-H public speaking is that you're not debating people, but you learn to get up, handle a certain subject and make it interesting to the people listening.

Too often parents come over to me and say, "Can you sign an autograph for my kid? I just too shy to come over." I just say "No, if he was it he can come and ask, because I like to see kids stand on their feet. Sooner or later they've got to learn to stand on their own feet." This is where 4-H can really help kids.

Hazards Caused By Mishandling Of Round Bales

MISSISSIPPI STATE - Large round bales, while proving to be useful to farmers and ranches, are also creating safety hazards.

"As with all farm machinery, round bales, improperly operated, are farm accidents," said Danie Reed, agricultural safety specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Cases of crushing, limbs mutilated by miring gears and overturns resting in fire have been reported by the National Safety Council. These accidents can be prevented by basic safety precautions," said the specialist. When possible, use a rear-mounted bale transport device. A front-end loader is used to transport round bales, which weigh between 800 and 1,500 pounds. Keep the load low and the speed slow. Also balance the rear of the tractor to improve traction and stability when using a front-mounted loader. Do not raise the bale high enough on a front-end loader to see underneath. Watch for bystanders operating baler gates. Shut off power before servicing or unclogging machinery. Keep all shields and safety guards in place. Discharge all bales on level ground, whenever possible. Print rolling. If necessary, operate a front-end loader on slope, head uphill when carrying a bale.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY TRY "CHIROPRACTIC" THE LONG ROAD BACK

There is a wide gap between "death's door" and health. Only those who have made the long journey realize how much it takes to move from the illness to the joy of robust health.

Good health is not restored overnight. The time for recovery varies with the seriousness of the condition suffered by the patients. Regardless, the road from illness can be discouraging and disheartening.

Chiropractic, however, holds new hope for suffering patients. Pleasant journeys on the road to recovery, chiropractic adjustments to keep the nerve system help in her healing process. By removing the interference with the proper flow of vital nerve energy, chiropractic helps nature combat recurring disease, allowing the full healing power of the body to be utilized in the recuperative process.

Chiropractic adjustment make "the more pleasant and hasten the day of return to health."

Once that healthy, happy feeling is restored, the joy is invaluable in maintaining the rosy glow of health.

Watchtower Convention

Robert J. Schlegel, circuit supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses in Iuka and 23 other congregations in north Mississippi, will be the featured speaker at the Watchtower Convention in Memphis slated for July 21-24 at the Mid-South Coliseum.

Members of the Iuka Congregation will attend the gathering, according to local minister Earl Lester.

Schlegel will give the primary talk of the convention, "How God's Kingdom Can Benefit You," on Sunday at 2 p.m. Over 7,500 are expected to attend.

Other parts of the program will be two costumed dramas demonstrating Bible events and applying the principles to modern-day life, a mass baptism of new members, missionary reports and releases of new

Bible study aids.

Lester said the convention is one of 108 being held this summer in the United States. Combined attendance is expected to exceed one million.

Lester also said that Schlegel is the assistant convention manager for the gathering and as such will be supervising half of the 20 departments which provide feeding, rooming and other services for the delegates.

As circuit supervisor, Schlegel visits area congregations in succession, spending a week with each one. He has given lectures several times at the local Kingdom Hall.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale
and Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. My daughter is about to lose all her faith in God. She was recently divorced after 18 years of marriage. Her husband grew tired of her and deserted her with no explanation at all, and I am unable to help her with an explanation. What do you tell a child who looks to you for help when you can't help at all?

A. There is, of course, no sense in your daughter's losing faith in God because her husband left her. How can the fault be God's? Couldn't it be the fault of the husband or the daughter or both?

Suggest to your daughter that she engage in an honest self-analysis to try to discover why her husband got tired of her. Maybe she just got tiresome. At any rate she must face herself and honestly and objectively seek to know in what ways she herself might have contributed to the situation. This is the most sensible and creative procedure. And though it could be painful, it can lead to a richer, fuller life.

We have a booklet, HOPE-FILLED PROMISE FOR THE DIVORCED, which has helped others with questions such as yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Wants him to ask her
Q. I am 15 years old and the guy I like is 17 years old. I have liked him for about five years. He seems to show very little interest in me, but he tells his mother that he likes me. I do and have done almost anything I can for him. I am a very jealous person. I don't really have any reason to be jealous, because he doesn't take very much interest in girls. I have been hoping that he will ask me to go with him. I am also very shy. I need all the advice you can give. I need help very badly.

A. If we were you, we would not waste any more time waiting for this boy to ask you to go with him. Get busy and start going with other boys. That will accomplish one of two things: 1) it may shock him into action, and that will show whether he really likes you, or 2) it will turn up some other nice boy who does like you and shows it.

Husband got mad and left

Q. My husband just got mad and left me. He didn't have anything when we married 20 years ago. I have always had to take care of myself. I don't have any transportation so it is hard on me. I stay in an apartment all alone. He says he is coming back nearly every time I see him. I might meet someone else if I could get out and go, someone that would be good to me. Is there something you can say or do to help me?

A. Sounds like your husband's leaving is really no great loss. He had nothing when you married 20 years ago and never took care of you. So it would appear you should get out and take care of yourself, building up a good life on your own. But don't go around looking for someone to be good for you. Skip that kind of dependence. Get organized in your own mind and be good to yourself.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The third and final phase of a permit program to protect the quality of United States waters goes into effect July 1, according to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Phase III of the Section 404 permit program requires for discharges of dredged or fill material into all waters of the United States to the headwaters, including all tributaries. Headwaters is defined as that point in the stream above which the annual flow is less than five cubic feet per second.

Phase I, which went into effect in July, 1975, requires a permit for discharge of dredged or fill material into coastal waters, inland navigable waters of the U. S. and nearby wetlands. Phase II requires a permit to discharge such material into primary tributaries of inland navigable waters, nearby wetlands and lakes of more than five acres in surface.

Col. Henry J. Hatch, Nashville District engineer, said the Corps will exercise restraint and reasonableness in processing Phase III permit requests.

Mr. & Mrs. John Phibin
Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Phibin, of 500 W. Fifth, Iuka, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, June 11th, in the fellowship hall of the Fifth Street Baptist Church. Several friends and relatives gathered for an anniversary dinner. Miss Pam Phibin, granddaughter, presided over the guest book, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Phibin and Tim. The registration table was covered with a white linen cloth and a biva containing a yellow rose, a gift of Ricky and Jenniferinton, adorned the table.

Cake and punch were served after dinner by Misanet Phibin, another granddaughter. The beautifully decorated cake was a gift of Mrs. Sron Harrell, close friend of a couple. The punch and decorons were provided by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Phibin. The table was centered with an arrangement of roses and daisies, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Phibin. The gift table was filled with many gifts from friends and family, including an arrangement from the couple's granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hopkins, of Idaho. Among the special gifts was a poem written by Rev. C. N. Edges, of Wynne, Ark., honoring the special occasion.

The Phibins have three sons, Dexter, of Iuka; Clifford, of East St. Louis, Ill.; and Delbert, of Charleston, S. C. They also have twelve grandchildren, Delbert and family were unable to attend due to a fire in their home.

Home Canning Requires Buying Correct Equipment

MISSISSIPPI STATE - Home canning has become popular again. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, one of three households now cans fruits and vegetables at home. In rural areas, one of two cans each year.

If you are an experienced canner who needs to buy a new canner, or if you are planning to can foods for the first time, think about buying the correct canner, says Ina Kimbrough, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service food and nutrition specialist.

Canning is serious business. At the least, improperly canned food will spoil and cause a financial loss; at the worst, it presents a health hazard, Mrs. Kimbrough explains.

Organisms that cause food spoilage - molds, yeasts, and bacteria - are always present. The hardest to kill and the one which is a serious health hazard is Clostridium botulinum. It causes botulism poisoning. Enzymes that may cause undesirable changes in flavor, color and texture are present in raw fruits and vegetables, she adds.

"When canning fruits and vegetables correctly, heat them hot enough and long enough to destroy spoilage organisms," instructs the specialist. "This heating or processing also stops the action of enzymes. Processing is done either in a boiling-water-bath canner or a steam-pressure canner. The canner used depends on the food being canned."

You use a boiling-water-bath canner for canning fruit, tomatoes, pickles, relishes, jams and preserves. The important feature of a water-bath canner is adequate depth. There must be room for a rack at the bottom, one to two inches of water over the jar tops, and another one to two inches to allow for brisk boiling. For quart jars, a minimum of nine and three-quarter inches interior depth is needed, although ten and one-half to eleven inches is preferable. Some aluminum and blue enamel canners are not deep enough, so measure when shopping.

It is essential to have a well fitting lid on a water-bath canner and a rack to prevent the jars from knocking against each other or falling over during processing. Any sturdy large pot can be used as a water-bath canner, providing it has sufficient depth, a tight-fitting lid, a flat bottom for good heat conductivity and a bottom rack.

Meat, poultry, fish and vegetables require a canning temperature higher than that of boiling water. This heat treatment is accomplished using a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure. The temperature inside the canner reaches 240 degrees Fahrenheit for safe processing. When buying a pressure canner, consider the number of jars it will hold to get one large enough to be practical.

Check pressure canner gaskets at the beginning of the season and replace if soft and sticky or brittle.

Weighted pressure regulators never need adjusting and are accurate when correctly used. However, the user must

Congregation Tours

It was off to the Ozark Mountains for the congregation at Grissom Chapel Church, Burns, Miss. The pastor, Robert Bishop, promised a trip if the Sunday School attendance record of 213 was broken. With determination the congregation reached their goal. March 27 was the day with 234 present for Sunday School.

On Saturday, June 4, at 6 a.m., 97 members of the congregation boarded two chartered Greyhounds and were off to the Ozarks. The chatter became louder the closer they got. Children were laughing, adults were smiling, people were singing, and excitement seemed to shine on all the faces. Stops were made along the way for picnic lunches, ice cream treats, cokes, and other snacks. Then it was 6 p.m. and the buses pulled into Eureka Springs, Arkansas.

Waiting for the play to begin, everyone viewed the Christ Only Art Gallery, which included a variety of portrayals of Jesus. The objects numbered nearly 500 including wood carvings, ivory carvings, oil on canvas, oil on copper, oil on porcelain, leens, French enamels, inlaid marquetry, sculptured marble, crocheted portrayals of the Lord's Supper, needlepoint, and many others. Near the Great Passion Play Amphitheatre was The Bible Museum with 7,000 volumes and 3,000 primitive manuscripts in 625 different languages. Nearby on Magnetic Mountain with altitude 1500 feet situated Christ of the Ozarks.

The statue's height was seven stories, weight something over 1 million pounds, and armspread from fingertip to fingertip was 65 feet.

The Passion Play was the Divine Tragedy of Christ's last week on earth from Palm Sunday through the Crucifixion, burial, resurrection, and ascension. The cast consisted of over 200 people. Lighting, stereophonic sound effects and wardrobe made it an outstanding performance. As the congregation watched the actors with amazement Bro. and Sis. Bishop brushed a tear from their cheeks. The Bishops had seen the performance two years ago and wished the congregation could view it. It was a dream come true to them.

The enthusiasm died into silence on the long trip back home. Now the goal had been reached for Sunday School attendance in 1977. Time to start working for next year.

Robinson and Paula Damsel. They returned home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Walker, of Detroit, Mich., visited the Jimmy Daniel family on Tuesday of last week.

Rev. Earl Cooper and family attended a reunion of the Cooper family at the Latimer Park in Baldwin on Sunday.

The Harmonizers sang at the Christian Assembly in Corinth Sunday morning and Sunday night. Mrs. Lowery Dean and Mrs. Marshall Daniel accompanied them Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parks and Lloyd, of Memphis, spent the weekend with Ms. Mable Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hayes and Tracy of Arab, Ala., spent the weekend with Mrs. Dorothy Hayes, Sarah Hayes and Mrs. Nellie Davis.

Eugene Miller, of Chicago, arrived on Friday morning for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Ludie Miller. The family, who had been visiting here for a week, accompanied him back to Chicago on Monday.

Dr. Perry Receives Certificate

Dr. Robert Houston Perry received his certificate in post graduate Orthodontics when he graduated from the University of Alabama Department of Orthodontics in Birmingham Thursday, June 30th.

Dr. Perry is a native of Corinth and graduated from the Corinth High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society. He attended the University of Mississippi where he received his B.A. degree and graduated from the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry in Memphis with a D.D.S. degree and won the Marion Fuller Award.

After getting his specialty license from the Mississippi State Board of Dental Examiners he will be associated with his father, Dr. Ellis R. Perry, in the practice of dentistry at 402 Franklin in Corinth and his practice will be limited to Orthodontics.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. Perry and his wife, Louise, and daughter, Elizabeth, will be moving back to Corinth in the near future.

Of Interest to Women

Brenda Whitfield was the hostess for the June meeting of the Mineral Springs Homemakers Club, which met at noon, Monday, June 27. She served all the members present a delicious and refreshing dessert after the meeting was concluded.

The meeting began when the president, Gail Smith, called the group to order and she presented the thought for the presented a thought provoking devotional. The roll was checked by Eula Rhodes, who afterwards read the minutes of the previous meeting and made a verbal treasurer's report. Business was discussed by Shirley Calton and the other members present and Edna Tapp presented an item of great importance to all of us as the focus topic -- Your Personality! Cathy Presley has earned her reading certificate. That makes five of our members who

Specialist Suggests Ways Of Fighting Early Blight

MISSISSIPPI STATE — As the summer progresses, many gardeners are struggling to protect their tomato plants from early blight.

"Early blight, caused by the fungus Alternaria solani, is the worst foliar disease of tomatoes in Mississippi," reports Dr. J. L. Peoples, plant pathologist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Disease symptoms first appear on lower, older leaves as circular, dark brown to black spots that often form concentric rings, giving a "target-board" effect. As the disease progresses, leaves turn yellow, wither and drop. In severe cases, plants can become completely defoliated late in the growing season.

"Although the disease is more of a problem on leaves, it can also occur as a collar rot, stem canker or fruit spot," says the plant pathologist.

Fruit infection occurs frequently at the stem end or in growth cracks or wounds in green or ripe fruit. Fruit spots are usually dark, sunken and leathery. The fungus often completely covers these affected areas, appearing as a brown moldy growth marked with concentric rings like those on leaves. Infected fruit may drop prematurely from vines.

Tomato varieties Stakeless, Supermarket, Tropic and Vineripe are tolerant of early blight. Floradel, Manalucie, Manapal, Marion and Atkinson are moderately tolerant, according to Dr. Peoples.

The fungus which causes early blight is carried on crop debris and on seed. Wind-blown spores and chewing insects are secondary means of spreading.

To reduce losses, provide good ventilation in hot beds. Also water when leaves will have time to dry. Do not plant where early blight occurred the previous year, and remove and destroy all diseased plant debris after harvesting, instructs the specialist.

Foliar fungicides Chlorothalonil, Maneb and Mancozeb have proven to be effective in controlling early blight. Begin applications when plants are 8 to 10 inches tall, and continue at 7-day intervals throughout the season. If possible, also apply after a rain.

For recommended application rates of these fungicides, contact your county Extension office.

CAMP HELD

Two youths from Iuka attended the Boys' Basketball Camp I held recently at The University of Mississippi.

The six-day camp, conducted by Coach Bob Weltlich and his staff, taught such basic basketball skills as shooting, jumping and rebounding. Emphasis was placed on individual conditioning and development of reflexes, as well as offensive and defensive tactics.

Players at the camp were divided by age, size and ability. Participants included: Rusty Garvin and Terry White.

Big bulb

If the sun were a light bulb, it would be rated somewhere in the neighborhood of 38 million billion billion watts.

Big users

Heating, air conditioning, and water heating account for about 78 percent of the total energy use per year in an all-electric home. Efficient use in these areas also offers the biggest conservation pay-off.

Too many people work themselves to death in an effort to retire.

Unplug and turn off before leaving

Before you go away on vacation, whether it's just a few days back home or a two-week cruise in the Caribbean, think about how your house will be using electricity while you're gone.

For maximum savings, turn off everything you possibly can. Most important, of course, are your air conditioner and your water heater because these are the big summertime electricity users. Turn your air conditioner off completely and turn off power to your water heater before you leave.

Then there are lights. You may want to leave some on for security, and you may want to use a timer for turning some lights on at certain times. But make sure you turn the rest off. You'll want to unplug your instant-on TV and perhaps even your electric clocks, although the clocks are not big electricity users.

But even if you do all this unplugging and turning off we've recommended, your house will still be using some electricity. There's your refrigerator and freezer. Since you won't be opening their doors, you may want to set the thermostats up a few degrees in these appliances.

All these measures together should result in a substantial savings, but it may not be apparent when you first look at your electric bill. You have to consider when the meter was read. Half your vacation time may appear on one bill and half on another. But whether it appears on one bill or two you can rest assured the savings is there.

Fact Finding Hearing

The Subcommittee on Energy of the Senate members appointed to the Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation and Transportation recently conducted a fact finding hearing in Jackson to gather information on the supply of energy resources in Mississippi and to hear testimony on the effects of federal legislation and programs on energy in this state.

Natural gas suppliers in Mississippi expressed concern to the subcommittee that President Carter's national energy proposals regarding the regulation of intrastate gas would have a detrimental effect in Mississippi. They stated that Mississippi homes and industries rely heavily upon intrastate gas sources and that regulation would hinder development of these sources.

Charles Williams, Jr., representing the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, stated that Mississippi was an energy deficient state, importing approximately 70% of the oil and gas used in the state. He further stated that Mississippi's decline in oil and gas production over the past decade was the result of increased regulation of the industry coupled with the repeal of certain tax incentives designed to encourage the development of oil and gas.

The subcommittee also heard testimony on the matter of energy waste in Mississippi. Representatives from the American Institute of Architects, the Illinois Central Railroad, the Mississippi Roadbuilder's Association and the State Building Commission presented information indicating how energy consumption may be reduced by programs and practices designed to use energy more effectively and wisely.

The subcommittee was told that the design of the Walter Sillers State Office Building was an example of how a different architectural structure and alternate construction materials could result in an energy savings which, in the long run, would offset the increased cost of the materials designed to be more energy efficient.

Senator Perrin Purvis, of Tupelo, and Senator Jack Tucker, of Tunica, co-chairmen of the subcommittee, stated that the subcommittee will meet again on Wednesday, June 30, to discuss the information presented in this hearing. They indicated that the subcommittee will work toward specific recommendations of how the state Legislature can adopt programs and policies designed to encourage production of fuel resources and encourage wiser use of our energy resources.

Other members of the subcommittee are Senator Joe Mulholland, of Philadelphia, Senator Jim Noblin, of Jackson, and Senator Cecil Summers, of Iuka.

The cool evening hours are the perfect time to bake that cake or wash that load of clothes or dishes. In fact, doing all your hot, moisture producing jobs in the evening cool will not only help you stay comfortable, but help you save money and energy too.

You'll be taking the extra burden off your air conditioner so it doesn't have to work as hard to keep you comfortable. Do that hot job after dark and save.
