Year-End Report On Tenn-Tom Construction

The new decade dawns, and the long-awaited Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway nears the end-point of construction. Over 100 miles of the 232-mile water course opened to trained navigation from Memphis to Demopolis, Ala. to Mobile, Midway through the Exciting Eighties, the entire waterway is completed, affording millions of dollars in annual savings to shippers and opening an entirely new frontier to foreign trade.

While talked about for nearly two centuries, actual construction of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers did not begin until 1972. Work is now progressing at a rapid rate in every segment of this major transportation artery which parallels the borders of Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. When completed, the "Tenn-Tom" (as it is called) will link the Gulf of Mexico with the inland waterways, opening the distance from America to foreign ports through the Port of Mobile as much as 800 miles.

The waterway will join the Tennessee River near Pickwick and Yellow Creek with the Black Warrior River, Demopolis, Ala. The waterway includes four locks, a high lift lock at Bay Springs, Miss., and an excavated canal involving removal of 150,000 cubic yards of earth, through the ridge separating the Tombigbee and Tennessee basins.

Early $1 billion of the estimated $1.67 billion total cost of the entire project is now under contract. Of the only two major structures to be placed under contract in early 1981, construction is progressing at a rate of about 20 percent each month.

With over 5000 workers employed on Tenn-Tom construction and related work, the employment rate along the waterway route has dropped well below the national average, according to Glover, Administrator of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Development Authority.

Efforts have been successful in maximizing employment and increasing business opportunities for local residents, including minorities. As a result, over 25 percent of the workforce from the local area and 25 percent are minorities.

Over $15 million of money has gone to minority contractors and businesses. The waterway has drawn attention of the White House as a result of the successful efforts of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Development Authority.

already proving to be of great value as models in other projects affecting the environment, according to Gerald McLindon, Dean of the School of Environmental Design, Louisiana State University. McLindon chairs the board which includes a consulting hydrologist, geologist and zoologist. Since 1971, this prestigious environmental board has monitored all facets of waterway construction, making recommendations for needed changes in design and construction methods and supervising execution of those modifications.

As Wilkins points out, enhancement of the environment takes on new meaning and purpose when you put human beings into it as this project has.

While the history of efforts to construct this project goes back a mere couple of hundred years, the use of the river as a hub of life goes back thousands of years. Proof of its early use, almost to the dawn of mankind, is being unearthed daily by teams of archeologists from nearly every major university in the country.

As a result, the entire Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway has been surveyed by professionals in the field of cultural resources preservation with over 700 historic and prehistoric sites identified. The knowledge gained about these early inhabitants of the Tombigbee River Valley is immeasurable. It is the single most intensive cultural resources investigation presently on-going in the United States. These important discoveries would not have been made and would not have been documented were it not for the Tennessee-Tombigbee construction project, according to officials.

Actual construction of recreation facilities on the waterway has begun with work on recreation areas on both the Gainesville and Aliceville Lakes. The total 49 recreation areas are being constructed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on 13,000 acres at a cost of approximately $33 million. It will create about 42,000 water-surface acres extending from Demopolis, Ala. to near Pickwick Lake at Iuka, Miss.

While the past year has been "smooth sailing" for construction, the waters have been a little more turbulent for the Tenn-Tom in the courts. "The friends of the Tennessee-Tombigbee won another skirmish in the lower courts and are confidently awaiting word on the final action of the New Orleans Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals," according to Wilkins. "We are even more confident that we will finally win the environmental extremists and the railroads over to our side and join forces to give people of our region all the tools they need to insure a secure economic future," Wilkins said.

On November 30, 1976 the L & N Railroad and the Environmental Defense Fund brought suit to halt construction of the waterway charging it was not properly authorized by Congress and that it discriminates against alternate modes of transportation, primarily railroads. However, no other railroad has joined L & N in their action. Two years later, the Northern District Court of Mississippi heard three of the 15 counts, after setting aside the remaining points for a later hearing. After an eight day trial and presentation of hundreds of documents by the plaintiffs, Judge William C. Keady ruled in favor of the waterway.

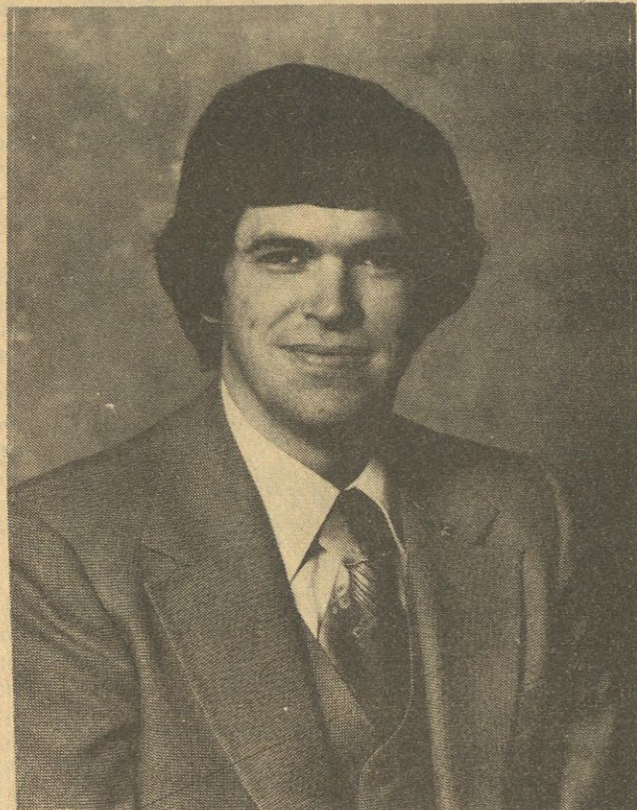

In his ruling, the Judge said the plaintiffs had a stale claim, based on the doctrine of laches. The case was appealed to the Fifth Circuit Court, where oral arguments were heard in December. A ruling is expected soon.

Relocation of bridges, roads and utilities, which are the responsibility of the states of Alabama and Mississippi, are progressing as scheduled. To date, eight of the 10 bridges in Mississippi and three bridges in Alabama are under construction or completed.

According to Wilkins, the waterway is expected to annually generate more than $105 million savings in transportation costs.

In this era of acute awareness of the need to balance national energy supplies against a growing trade deficit, the transportation savings afforded by the shorter Tenn-Tom route will make a difference, Wilkins said. Coal, a principal commodity to move on the waterway, will be shipped at a savings of $2.57 per ton, or about $42 million in savings the first year. A study shows that the Tenn-Tom will be one of the busiest in the nation with tonnage equivalent to that now moving on the Tennessee River.

A number of grain elevators and terminals are being established along the waterway. The Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, Wilkins said, is serving as an impressive "drawing card" for industrial growth because of the inherent need for water transportation. A result will be the formation of a strong base for the region's economy and a dramatic rise in the per capita income.

BODY FOUND IN INDIAN CREEK

The tightly-clad body of a man was found in the shallow waters of Indian Creek, just east of Campground Church, early Saturday morning, January 5, by two deer hunters, according to the Tishomingo County Sheriff's Department.

Officials responded to the call shortly after 7:30 a.m. and found the body wearing only light clothing with no coat or hat, partially covered with water. The man, later identified as James C. Butler, from Huntington, Tenn., was believed to have been in the water only a few hours in the cold temperatures of Friday night and early Saturday morning. Butler is believed to have been in his 50's and no marks to indicate physical abuse were found on the body, according to authorities. Butler was seen alive at about 8:00 p.m. on Friday evening, and at that time was believed to have been inebriated. Sources told The Tishomingo County News that the car, a 1971 Oldsmobile station wagon, belonging to the deceased man, was involved in a hit and run accident in Wintergarden, Fla. on Saturday evening, several hours after the body had been found. Two white male subjects, from Tishomingo County, were believed to be driving the car. The two suspects were seen with Butler on Friday evening, January 4.

Authorities reported a Coroner's Inquest was held at the scene, where the Coroner pronounced Butler dead. No ruling on the cause of death has been given, although officials reported that death from drowning had been ruled out, and the case is still being investigated.

The Tishomingo County Sheriff's Department, State Investigator and County

Coroner were among authorities responding to the call.

Bulletin

According to Jerry Howie, State Investigator, warrants have been issued for George Allred, Joe White and Gary Walker, all of Iuka, for auto theft and robbery. Murder or manslaughter warrants will be issued in connection with the death of James C. Butler for the same three suspects.

According to Mr. Howie, Walker is in custody at Tishomingo County Jail after turning himself in to authorities. Allred and White are believed to be at large in Florida.

Officials Take Office

"I, _____, do solemnly swear that I will faithfully support and . . .". About 20 interested citizens ventured out on the cold rainy morning of January 7, 1980, to witness the Sweating-In Ceremony of the newly elected officers filling the County Offices in Tishomingo County. This historical event takes place every four years, in the month of January following the county election. The oath of office was administered in the court room of the Tishomingo County Courthouse.

The new term for the officers officially began at 9:00 a.m. on January 7, 1980. Many of the officials were re-elected to their offices, leaving only a few changes in the county.

Amos Bates, newly elected Sheriff of Tishomingo County, told The Tishomingo County News that he feels the next four years will be good years for the residents of Tishomingo County, and he reminds all residents that he is their Sheriff and is eager to help them in any way he can.

MEMBERS OF THE SHERIFF DEPARTMENT were among the County Officials being

Trends In Men's Wear

The trend in men's wear is neat and clean with designs that mix and match, blend and meld. Sportswear is casual, marked by separates in shirts, vests, sweaters, jackets and pants.

Emphasis is on the shoulders. Narrow pants present a V-shaped silhouette. Straight legs and loosely constructed tops offer a boxy, Fifties look. Detailing lends western appeal.

Synthetic or natural fabrics often team up on blends including tri-blends, such as polyester/cotton/wool. Surface interest in both tops and bottoms is accomplished with tweeds, donegals, herringbones, tick weaves, nubs and slubs, brushing and fleecing. Quilted touches highlight shoulders. Back yokes, button belt loops and arrowhead pockets tell it.

Shirt collars are smaller. Cotton, polyester, wool and blends are favorites. The fabrics are textured, patterns scaled down. Ties are narrow in subtle colors or in novelty sport versions. Casual shirts boast plackets, yokes, embroidery, cinched waists and a range of collars.

Sweaters and vests with V-necks, shawls, convertibles and army collars accommodate shirt/tie/sweater or vest coordination. Blends of wool/acrylic; wool/nylon AND ACRYLIC ARE POPULAR. Tweeds and speckled yarns, bright jacquards, complicated intarsias (both sides of a patterned fabric are alike), chenilles and rib knits are featured. Cotton or cotton/polyester velour cagidans round out the picture.

Sport jackets and blazers are softly constructed with shoulder padding, narrow lapels and shawl collars. Following squared-off shoulder lines of the Fifties, some jackets feature back vents, drawstrings of cinched waists.

Jeans in denim, corduroy, chino and canvas are popular. Casual slacks lean toward wool and wool-blend flannels in tweeds and donegals. Narrow waistbands with side tabs; tapered or straight legs, some cuffed; numerous pockets; and pleats make pants a focal part of the wardrobe for the fashionable male.

What Improvements Can I Make

When funds are scarce and the need for money-stretching is great, one seeks "new" and "original" solutions to decorating problems.

Improvements start with ideas. Keep a clipping file of "good decorating ideas" that appeal to you. Sort it occasionally and keep only the best. It can be a valuable resource, but only if you use it.

Be thoughtful in planning, careful in buying and adventuresome (that seems to be the hardest part) in decorating! Decorate with

Start Pigs Off Right

To help pigs reach market weight faster, start them early on a high energy creep ration. When a sow's milk starts tapering off, it pays to have her pigs already eating dry feed. Not only does the extra energy help pigs grow, but medication in high quality starter feed will protect them from disease. Minerals in the feed will also help pigs develop strong bones.

Crop Rotation

As you plan your 1980 crop production program, you may want to consider crop rotation. Rotating crops with other crops such as legumes will interrupt disease cycles and reduce insect and weed problems. Despite these benefits, crop rotation has been eliminated from many Mississippi farms because of the availability of nitrogen fertilizer and conversion to a single crop system. However, with low levels of organic matter in many fields, herbicide buildup and other management problems, producers need to evaluate the advantage of crop rotation.

Farmweek

A discussion of changes in the income tax law will highlight the January 14 edition of Farmweek on Mississippi Educational Television. Farmweek Reporter John Winkfeld will interview Extension Economist, Dr. Johnnie Sartor about the changes, which will be effective for this year's tax return. The program will be aired Monday, January 14, at 7:30 p.m. and the following Tuesday morning at 7:30.

Fertilizer Spreader Clinic

A Fertilizer Spreader Clinic will be held at the Verona Experiment Station on January 11, at 10:00 a.m.

Topics covering all phases of spreading lime, fertilizers and seed will be discussed. Calibration of equipment and care of equipment will be discussed.

This will be a very informative meeting.

1980 Beef Referendum

Beef and dairy producers in Tishomingo County are reminded of the upcoming beef referendum. The registration period will be held January 28 through February 6, 1980. 1980 Cotton Production

A preliminary 1980 crop upland cotton national program acreage of 11,602,285 acres has been announced by the Secretary of Agriculture, according to Elmer (Booster) South, Chairperson of the Tishomingo County ASCS Office. In order for cotton producers to be assured of target price protection on their entire planted acreage, they must also reduce their acreage in

TISHOMINGO COUNTY NEWS - THE VIDETTE - BELMONT

1980 by 10 percent from their 1979 plantings. No acreage set-aside will be required for 1980. South went on to explain that producers who reduce their 1980 upland cotton acreage from that planted and considered planted in 1979 by at least 10 percent will be assured of deficiency payments on their total planted acreage if the market price falls below the target price.

The target price provides income protection to cotton farmers, South said. If the national average price received by farmers for upland cotton during calendar year 1980 falls below the target price, cotton producers will receive a deficiency payment at a rate equal to the difference between the higher of either the average market price or the loan price of 48 cents per pound for 1980.

Complete details of the 1980 Cotton Program will be available at the Tishomingo County ASCS Office, South said.

Cooperative Extension Service

Mississippi should experience below normal temperatures in January, according to the National Weather Service Outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The outlook also predicts drier than usual conditions for north Mississippi while wet weather is expected to prevail in the south, say agrometeorologists at the Environmental Studies Service Center in Stoneville who prepare the report.

Winter calving begins in many areas of Mississippi in January. Cattlemen should pay special attention to heavy springer and newborn calves to minimize losses. This is especially true for heifers with first calves.

Pastures will grow slowly in the cold period, but good hay supplies are adequate. Extension specialists recommend the use of high energy feed for cattle. Cattlemen the feed intake with salt. However, salt toxicity may develop unless cattle have access to water. Extra effort must be made to keep ponds and tanks free of ice.

Poultry producers will pay higher heating bills for broiler houses. Producers will need to keep close watch on weather conditions and make curtain and heating adjustments to lessen chill stress on flocks and to save fuel. Cold snaps may be frequent, and afternoon highs normally range from near 50 degrees in the north to upper 50s in the south. Morning temperatures are normally around in the north and upper in the south.

Little field work done since good dry will be scarce. About ches of precipitation fall in January.

Tishomingo Library News

By: Lonette Southward
Do you want to save some money this year? If so, try coming to the library and check out books to read instead of going to the store and buying them. As you know, books have gotten more expensive just like everything else. If you can't find exactly what you want to read, maybe you can find a substitute and we'll try to get what you want with no expense to you. The Tishomingo Library was made larger last summer, now we have more shelves and furniture and getting more books all the time. If you are one of those people who prefer paperback books, you are in luck....
Maybe you don't go along with paying library fines - but this is just a small thing compared to buying a book and it is not necessary to pay library fines if you will make a habit of getting your books renewed if you are not finished with them when your time is up. Charging fines on overdue books is the most unpleasant feature of library work. We, as librarians, do not charge fines to make it hard on patrons but to keep the books in circulation. The larger our circulation is and the more patrons use the library the more books and newer books we'll get.
By putting savings in your pocket you are helping the library to grow. Won't you please use it - we look forward to serving you.

Pentecostal Church News

Pentecost is centered around the divine person of Jesus Christ. Pentecost does not look back to any founder other than Jesus Christ. It goes through no other as a medium in prayer. There is one mediator between God and man - the man Christ Jesus. There is a lot of cheap veneer that goes under the name of Pentecost. Many are claiming an experience which is not recognizable to the book of Acts. It neither changes their lives nor breaks their habits. They have latched onto something less than Pentecost. Pentecost is an experience.

Pentecostals sing with all their hearts because in the Bible we read, "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord . . . and sing praise." (Psalm 98:4).

Pentecostals clap their hands because in the Bible we read, "O clap your hands all ye people (Psalm 47:1).

Pentecostals testify publicly because in the Bible we read, "Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the son of man confess before the angels of God." (Luke 12:8).

Pentecostals anoint with oil for divine healing because in the Bible we read, "Is any sick among you . . . Let them pray over him anointing him with oil (James 5:14).

Pentecostals baptize in the name of Jesus Christ because in the Bible we read, "Repent and be baptized everyone of you in the name of Jesus Christ." (Acts 2:38).

Pentecostals believe in receiving the Holy Ghost because in the Bible we read, "For the promise is unto you." (Acts 2:39).

Pentecost is scriptural, it's real, it's alive, and it's for you. First United Pentecostal Church, 608 Main St., Iuka. Sunday School, 10 a.m.; Sunday Worship, 11:15 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.; Wednesday Bible Study, 7 p.m.

Message For Meditation

BY: TERRY. BOOKER,
Pastor
New Lebanon Church

"Our Greatest Priority"

In looking back over the past year, we may have had to repent for some things that we have neglected to do as well as for some things that we did that were wrong. However, we can say as Paul in Philippians 3:13 - "Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." So looking ahead to the coming year we should determine in our hearts as in Romans 12:2 - "That ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." We can see that saving the lost was the purpose of Christ as he came to seek and to save that which was lost. Also, II Peter 3:9 tells us that it is not God's will that any should perish but that all should come to repentance. So we may conclude that saving souls or being soul-winners is the will of God.

Why should soul-winning be our Number One priority? Heaven is encouraging us. Luke 15:7 - "I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance." Jesus has chosen us to go win the lost. Our own salvation experience should compel us to win the lost. As the rich man in Hell, those in Hell are requesting us. Finally, and maybe the most urgent one of all, time is challenging us. We don't have the promise of even tomorrow to make our peace calling and election sure.

What will be the effect of winning souls? It will fill what is lacking. Not only in our lives but in the church. Does your church have cold services? Get people walking the aisle to get saved and see if it does not liven up the singing, praying, and preaching. Does your church have attendance problems? Get people saved and it will fill the pews. Does your church have financial problems? Get people saved and there will be more people to give.

Who should win the lost souls? Most churches depend upon the pastor to witness and visit and win the lost. However, the obligation of every church member is to be a soul-winner not just a church-recruiter. Our chief purpose in existing as a church should be to win the lost. The preaching, teaching, praying, singing done in our churches should be to plant the seed, cultivate, and reap.

It is going to take some travelling with tears and witnessing with the Word to change our communities, churches, and our country for the Lord.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank all our friends and relatives who have shown us such kindness during Louie's stay in the hospital.

All the prayers, cards, flowers, visits and other kindnesses will always be remembered.

May God bless you all in our prayer.

Thanks again.

Visual Arts Competition At I.H.S.

Students at Iuka High School recently participated in a visual arts competition on expanded career choices, according to Linda Smith, Vocational Counselor at Iuka High. This contest was sponsored by the State Department of Education in cooperation with the Division of Vocational and Technical Education.

Iuka High School's first place poster, drawn by Diana Woodruff, will be entered in the state contest. Miss Woodruff's poster, entitled "Plan Your Success, Choose the Right Career", emphasizes the importance of planning and choosing a successful career. In addition, honorable mention in the local contest was awarded to Sylvia Cagle for her poster, "Get Into the 'Driver's Seat' of a New Career."

Mississippi's first place winner will receive $100, while second and third place winners will receive $50 each. The purpose of the competition was to involve students in an activity focusing on one of the major purposes of vocational education, which is to prepare young men and women for employment. Today, both men and women should consider a wide range of career choices regardless of their sex. Females should not limit their choices to the traditional careers such as secretary, nurse, waitress, or child care aide; but should also consider jobs traditionally held by men. Young men should not be limited to traditionally male occupations but should consider jobs in every field. This activity was designed to provide an increased career awareness for all Mississippi students. Concerning the contest at Iuka High, Miss Smith stated "many students participated in the contest and it was a beneficial experience for expanding our awareness of career choices."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To whom it may concern:

I, or we, have a very serious problem. Our farm and home is seriously infected with the all destructive beaver. We have tried different ways of relief, such as removing their brush dams by hand, dynamiting, etc. Neither has been successful. The pests have destroyed hundreds of dollars worth of timber. As a last resort, we have bought some expensive traps and have placed them at different points in the water. Now some of our friends have picked up our traps. We do not trap on other people's grounds - just trying to do our own thing. Why can we not operate peacefully and without interruption?

Dec. Meeting Of KKI

The December meeting of Kappa Kappa Kappa was held on December 17, in the Tishomingo home of Lois Norton, hostess. Verna Crow read the second chapter of Luke to set the mood of the Christmas party, which has become an annual event for the organization. Gathering around the piano, the group sang carols accompanied by Jean Lambert.

Later, pictures were taken at the beautiful buffet table.

Other members enjoying the occasion were: Marie Edwards, Ruth Fulton, Effie Lois Greene, Jewel Nixon, Hovis Short and Mary Williams.

Inflation Fighter?

Ever get the feeling you've been had when you take an item off the super market shelf, and notice that the original price sticker has been covered by a new one, with a higher price? The folks in Suffolk County, N.Y., felt that way too. And, they did something about it. Over the protests of - guess who? - The N.Y. State Food Merchant's Association, the Suffolk County Legislature recently passed a measure prohibiting grocers from raising prices of any item, once it is placed on the shelf. That includes food, paper good, household and everything else at super markets these days. Violations are punishable by fines of $25.00 to $100.00 per offense. Restamped already stamped carries the same penalty. This report was carried in a nationally known magazine. Rex L.

Card of Thanks

Words cannot express our appreciation for your kindness during the past weeks. We want to thank each one who helped during the burning of our home. Many of you took risks beyond the call of duty and we can never repay you.

To you who have expressed regrets and lent support during this time, thank you. The many gifts we received are appreciated.

We plan to rebuild at our home site but until then we are living in a mobile home at the site.

LEHIGH

A romantic mood is created by this bold ensemble. Rich detailing adds a graceful note to its generous proportions. Double profile shaped top drawers, decorative overlays and extra-heavy hardware highlight the "Valencia" oak tone stained and engraved on selected wood solids, wood products and Lehigh specifications.
