Are Your Hogs Comfortable In Your Farrowing Houses?

Extension Swine Specialist Dr. Jim Shannon says you need to keep air circulating in farrowing houses, especially during extremely hot weather. Shannon says use sprinklers and fans to cool hogs. Springs, sprinklers or a nearby wallow provide relief for hogs on dry lot or pasture. Be sure to provide plenty of shade and water to keep your hogs cool this summer.

Timber Harvest

If you own timberland, don't neglect the most important phase in the life of your timber. Extension Forestry Leader Dr. Robert Parker says most important management practice is Timber Harvest. You can prevent loss of profits and damage to trees not being harvested by making careful plans for the harvesting operation. Mark the trees you plan to cut and know the market price of your timber. Disaster Appraisals recent drought situation has made much of the corn acreage in the county almost worthless for grain. Producers are now faced with the question of whether or not to cue the corn early for silage or let the crop mature and harvest for grain. Our office cannot advise you as to what action you should take relative to drought stunted crops. However, we do want to inform you of the program provisions to follow in order that you may receive disaster benefits. An application for disaster benefits must be filed if the corn is to be harvested as silage and the potential grain production appraised by a representative of the county office before the crop is cut. If you destroy or harvest the crop for silage before it is appraised, you will lose all program benefits. If you plan to leave the corn standing until harvest, you do not need to do anything at livestock and this time. When the crop is harvested, you will need to have an accurate weight and the production from each farm stored separately. An application for disaster benefits would need to be filed for each farm and the production from each farm measured separately. If you have any questions concerdisaster program benefits, please call the Tishomingo County ASCS Office at 423-5036.

ASCS Extends Livestock Feeding Period

To enable more farmers to participate in the Emergency Program, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service recently authorized a new option for determining whether a farmer is eligible for the program. "We will consider a livestock feeding period which begins from the date of application and ends with the Elmer South, Chairperson the Tishomingo County ASC Committee, said. The agency will also consider both the feed a farmer has on hand and the estimated production for the remainder of the year. He explained that the regular requirement sometimes caused a hardship for farmers. The Emergency Feed Program authorizes ASCS to reimburse livestock owners a portion of the cost of feed purchased when a natural disaster has reduced the amount of feed normally produced on the farm. Payments are made at the rate of 50 percent of the cost of feed purchased not to exceed two cents per pound of feed grain equivalent. The applicant must buy feed in larger than normal quantities. Nearly half of all drowning deaths in a recent year involved young people between the ages of 5 and 24.

Of a total of 8,700 drownings, 1,600 occurred among 5 to 14 year olds and 2,600 among 15 to 24 year olds. These National Safety Council figures include all drownings in boating accidents and those resulting from swimming, playing in the water or falling in.

Accident statistics like these point up the need for safety increased water training for young people. This need is being met in the national 4-H safety program, which enrolls nearly 374,000 boys and girls in safety projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H members learn the importance of becoming good swimmers, swimming in approved and supervised areas, learning first aid, taking courses in small craft handling, observing boating regulations and wearing personal flotation devices.

Although safety during recreation gets more emphasis during summer months, 4-H activities revolve around safety for all seasons and in all locations. On the farm, in the home, on the highway, 4-H'ers learn by doing that accidents and injuries can be reduced, hazards identified and corrected, and safety skills practiced medals of honor throughout the year. Young people can also help educate their families, classmates and communities to the need for year-round accident prevention. 4-H members who excel in safety projects and activities are eligible for awards donated by General Motors and arranged by the National 4-H Council. General Motors offers. $1,000 college scholarships to eight national safety winners, an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress to one winner in each state and H'ers in each county For more information tact your 4-H office.

I began thinking about the old familiar surroundings I had trees, the churches, the schools, the lakes and streams, the pastures. More than anything else, my thoughts centered on the people -- all of those who make up the Mississippi I love so dearly. Now as I travel -- seven days a week, 30,000 miles a

TO THE CITIZENS OF IUKA:

At the June 4, 1980 Board meeting, the Board of Aldermen unanimously agreed to borrow $150,000.00 through a Bond Issue, to continue our Street Paving Program that was started last year.

For some unknown reason the self appointed Concerned Citizens Committee protested our doing this, this year, by getting enough people to sign a petition against our borrowing this money, thereby forcing us to have an election on this issue.

Last summer the streets were paved by all the Committee member's homes, except one. There was no protest or petition filed at that time. WHY NOW?

The repayment of the Bonds will be done without any addditional taxation to anyone. The Bonds will be retired from monies received from the increase in our Sales Tax Revenues.

August 12th - NEXT TUESDAY - will be election day for this very important issue. Don't any of you be misinformed again. Go to City Hall and vote for this Bond Issue, so that we can continue our badly needed street improvement program and help eliminate our rough, broken and pothole filled streets.

Pentecostal Church News

There's a correct way to get into the church of the Lord Jesus Christ. You are born into this church. The Bible plainly declares that "ye must be born again." In the Book of Acts it was asked what must we do to be saved? Acts 2:38 answers that quite plainly with three steps: 1 - Repentance: 2 - Baptism in the name of Jesus Christ; 3 - Receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. Three distinct, separate and necessary acts. When this is accomplished one is in "The Church" and will remain a part of "The Church" as long as he lives a Holy dedicated life. "The Church" is the body of Christ and signing a book, shaking the pastor's hand, or just a desire to turn over a new leaf will not get the job done. Hell will be full of those type people. Be not deceived. It's a matter of Heaven or hell. This life will soon pass. Will it be worth it for you to go sit with a dead congregation that has lost all of the spirit of God they ever felt, trying to pretend you're saved and then die lost. If you are in doubt about your future destination, make certain. Try an old fashioned experience at an old fashioned altar. Give

Jesus a chance. He will make things right.

Message For Meditation

By: Terry L. Booker, Pastor New Lebanon Church Be More Understanding

"Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad" - (I Kings 3:9). This was Solomon's request to the Lord God. Oh. that this would be our simple request to the Lord for our lives today. There are so many conflicts and opinions as to the situations in life that somehow we have forgotten what the word "understanding" really means. It doesn't mean compromise but simply an awareness with a motivation to act to resolve any differences. When we think we really do have problems, all we need to do is to take an examination of those around us to see whether we are justified in our plight. How do we take examination in order that we may be more understanding?

Look With Compassion. Matthew 9:36 - "When he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them." Christ looked with compassion. He saw the sin, suffering, and sorrow of mankind. We must see the needs of others, too. Having compassion on the less fortunate and concern for the lost increases our understanding. I John 3:17 - "But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need. and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how swelleth the love of God in Lift With Cheerfulness. Mark 9:27 - "Jesus took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he arose." Jesus didn't stop with seeing and hearing the needs of others. He lifted burdens, healed the sick, and forgave the sinful. When we cheerfully help the burdens of others, pray for the needy, and ungrudgingly pay our tithes and offerings into the church to meet its needs, we find joy and satisfaction. I Thessalonians 5:14-15 - "Now we exhort you. the kind words, also Cutshall brethern, warn them that are comfort feebleminded, support the weak, be patient toward all men. See that none render good, both among yourselves, and to all men. Love With Christ-Likeness. I John 4:11 - "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another." Love is the world's greatest need. Christ brings fulfillment for that need. John 15:12-14 - "This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have

Of course, any question of importance, would be discussed, and voted on, by the entire board, but the alderman assigned to that zone would automatically be chairman of any proceedings concerning that zone. Also, the fact that any remarks I might make concerning the "creeping communism" of TVA, as described by President Eisenhower, just might be construed as slander! In his appeal to show

Alcorn and Tishomingo countians his concern to four-lane U.S. 72, Moffett made a 27mile walk along the highway Saturday, stopping to greet supporters in luka, Corinth

"Our elected officials in the state favor four-laning the highway, however, they are not receiving favorable support from the North Mississippi congressional delegation," Moffett added.

While our congressman has been in Washington 39 vears and has more seniority than any other Mississippi Congressman, our district has the fewest four-lane roads in the state. Moffett said. Highways 78, 45, and 72 should be priorities for fourlaning in Mississippi, he charged.

"I have talked with officials in Washington and know U.S. 72 could be part of the Appalachian Corridor system," Moffett stated. U.S. 72 is fourlaned to the Mississippi-Alabama line and then becomes a narrow two-lane road connecting the Alabama Tri-Cities to Memphis.

In closing his 1980 campaign kickoff speech, Moffett said, "if Mississippi's First District continues to re-elect a retired congressman, we will fall further behind. We need an active, aggressive congressman."

TVA's Long-Term Power Supply Outlook Reviewed

For the past several weeks, Tennessee Valley Authority's Power Planning staff has been intensively reviewing TVA's long-term power supply outlook. The staff's projections raise questions about the current construction schedule for the 10 nuclear generating units TVA expects to complete by the end of this decade.

When TVA ordered the units now under construction, loads were estimated to grow at 7 percent per year. More recent forecasts projected growth in the demand for electricity in the rest of this century at an average or 3-4 percent annually. The latest analysis reveals that the best estimate of future growth is now down to 2-21/2 percent

TVA has already deferred four of the 14 units under construction in recognition of the reduced demand. Based on this lower growth forecast. an argument could be made for the deferral of additional units. But, several factors must be considered in making such a decision, in-

1. While there would be some short-term savings from additional deferrals, there would be no long-term savings on deferring additional units because of inflation and the inefficiencies of closing down a construction job. However, there is a limit to what the current ratepayer can absorb in financing a large construction program for future needs. This concern for the recognized last year when the TVA Board decided to defer four nuclear units. 2. TVA is planning with other discussions utilities, particularly those that rely on oil-fired turbines, to see if attractive interchange arrangements can be made for TVA's ratepayers. TVA would even consider restarting one or more of the units deferred last year if negotiations for the interchange of power prove successful. Such arrangements would, of course, be made only if they resulted in benefits to TVA customers.

3. TVA must recognize that this region's economy could defy the forecasters and grow faster than projected. TVA intends to do everything it can to promote quality economic growth, Such growth could be seriously impaired if a shortage of generating capacity were to develop in the future.

4. TVA's experience this summer demonstrated conclusively that loads are very weather sensitive and TVA must have adequate capacity to meet loads' during extreme heat or cold. Without sizeable reserves TVA customers would have suffered burnouts

TVA's construction program is costly and will account for sizeable portions of rate increases for the next 3-5 years. Almost a third of the anticipated fall increase of about 20 percent will go toward interest costs on plants now under construcand prosperity in the Tennessee Valley in the years ahead. The job is to promote jobs and prosperity, and not risk economic stagnation and blackouts.

In light of these considerations and in view of TVA's commitment to the future economic growth of this region, the staff does not recommend any change in the construction schedule. The power supply situation will continue to be analyzed, and if new facts come to light, they will be brought to the Board's attention.

News From YCNP

They came in under a hazy, late afternoon sky. They were unlike anything typical family boat riders are accustomed to seeing on a summer day at Pickwick Lake.

However, in one sense. they were a family. All bore basically the same characteristics, including color and outer markings. Some were larger than others and had different shapes. This group brought along an aura of admiration among pleasure riders, skiers, and swimmers in the Yellow Creek embayment of the Tennessee River.

Minutes later the group arrived at the barge slip of the Tennessee Valley Authority's Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant. A small greeting party waited for the barge to dock with the same respect reminiscent of the great ocean liners of the Milam Smallwood was in charge of the welcoming committee that was to provide a temporary "vacation spot" for the group until early 1982. That's when the "family" members, which include a 140-ton pressurizer, 775-ton steam generators, a 500-ton reactor pressure vessel, and a 100ton reactor closure head, leave an interim storage site for their final destination: the unit 1 reactor building.

Since unloading of the day barge unloading acmajor components began June 25, Smallwood has been in charge of the delicate handling, lifting, and transporting operations. chemical plant at Muscle operations and tests are also Shoals as a laborer making 47.5 cents per hour," said Smallwood, a resident of Tuscumbia, Alabama, about his first TVA position. "I then got a job as a mailman making $1,060 a year."

Smallwood, 60, who is an assistant construction superintendent Superintendent Bill Roper, is responsible for ironworkers, boilermakers, sheet metal workers, and machinists here at Yellow Creek. "Dag" is a classic example of a man moving up in an organization. He became an apprentice ironworker at the ammonia plant in Muscle Shoals, next a journeyman structural ironworker, and after several years at Colbert Steam Plant, Wilson Lock, Wheeler Lock, and Browns Ferry Nuclear Plant, moved up from ironworker superintendent to his present job position at Har-Nuclear Smallwood then came to

"He's always been dependable and conscientious,' notes fellow Yellow Creek Assistant Construction Superintendent Red Hayes. 'Milam is the type of fellow who thinks things through before answering you. I've never known him to do a bad job." Hayes, who is assisting Smallwood with the barge unloading operations, says this is the third job he has worked with him.

Yellow Creek two years ago.

Hayes remarked, "He has worked his way up on his ability and doesn't mind giving advice when asked. I trust his judgment and have confidence in his decisions." Currently, "Dag's" day-to-tivities are on schedule. Through July pressurizer and one steam generator were offloaded and workweeks have consisted of from Chattanooga's seven days and up to 15 hours per day over the past three weeks. Prior to arrival of the barge shipment, he Smallwood, who was supervised erection of the Lampson 1,200-ton jacking sporter, and the 112-wheel "I began working in the French trailer. requirements.

According Shanlever, QC-Materials Services supervisor who resides in Corinth, the components will be stored outside with no special housing required except for the closure head. It will be kept under controlled storage.

"We will have a building over the closure head," says Shanlever, "in order to later install control rod drives."

Preventive maintenance will be performed by the unit the components. Shanlever added. Inert gas, desicant, or a spray lat coating will be used on the inside of the different components.

The transporting process from barge to storage area is being accomplished by a Lampson crawler transporter. The transporter runs on two separate track sections and is operated by two persons. It has four diesel engines and is connected by nine horizontal hauling frames. The transporter is positioned under the jacking frame after each component is lifted to the proper height Smallwood supervises the operations in order to ensure timely unloading. He is a quiet man who is described by one worker as "resembling a dignified old country squire.

Unlike stereotyped construction personnel who often are vociferous and hardnoted for his good sense of things through.

Another aspect which few survival people know is that "Dag" had heart arterial blockage and had open heart surgery two years ago. He has now fully recovered as evidenced by steady 10-hour workdays. According to Milton Price, project manager, "Milam has saved the project and TVA money with his ideas to expedite work. He has certainly done a fine job for us and has been the primary reason we are ahead of schedule in unit 1 turbine building."

For example, Smallwood's money-saving ideas have resulted in a reduction of approximately $30,000 in the current barge unloading operation and over $100,000 annually in the method of transporting buckets around the project.

Southern Pine Beetle

The southern pine beetle (SPB) is native to the southern United States and is the most serious insect pest of southern pines. Each year large numbers of pine trees are killed due to the activity of this insect. Mild weather conditions this past winter and extreme dry summer conditions favor a future increase in SPB population in the south. Presently SPB are active and causing timber losses in Tishomingo County. The SPB is a small reddish-brown or black beetle approximately 1/8 inch long. Adult beetles attack weaken trees by boring through the bark and construct S-shaped egg galleries in the inner bar where they lay eggs. Small larvae hatch from the eggs and feed in the cambium region. The construction of egg galleries and feeding of larvae girdle the tree of needed moisture and nutrient supplies. In addition, woodstaining fungi invade the trees and hasten their death.

The SPB typically kill pines in groups ranging in size from a few trees to stands of several acres in size. In the spring and summer pine needles turn yellow in the crown after the tree has been attacked, and finally the entire tree turns a reddish-Upon examination of dead and dying trees, you may find reddish-brown particles of boring dust in the bark crevices and at the tree base. Small light vellow to reddishbrown pitch tubes may be seen on the bark of the tree. To determine if a dving tree is being attacked by the SPB, remove a section of bark. Examine the inner surface of the bark for the typical winding, S-shaped egg galleries; these S-shaped galleries are a good indication that the SPB is attacking the tree.

The best way to avoid beetle loss is to prevent successful attack. Beetles are attracted to trees weakened by littleleaf disease, lightning strikes, wind damage, wildfire, poor harvesting practices, overmature trees and low soil fertility. Most cases in Tishomingo County are found in overmature shortleaf stands with littleleaf disease growing on poor soil types. The Mississippi Forestry. presently Commission recommends two types of control for SPB. 1. Removal of infested trees by salvage. This method allows the landowner to recover a portion of his investment while at the same time removing active beetles from his property. 2. Cut and Leave. The cutting of infested trees and leaving them on the ground has been shown to be an effective method of control during the warm summer months. This fested trees which are unmerchantable or inaccessible. In either control a our State and Federal Aid 40-70 foot buffer strip of money approipriated to our green trees surrounding actively infested trees should be cut to reduce the possibility of breakouts. County are urged to inspect their pine stands frequently. For assistance in identification of SPB infestation and information concerning salvage or treatment, contact your County Forester, Brendix Glasgow, at the Tishomingo County Courthouse or phone 423-9070.
