Happy New Year

Miserable Weather

In an unusually cold and wet winter, Tishomingo County received its third significant snowfall early Tuesday morning, December 27th. This precipitation was followed by freezing rain throughout the morning and afternoon, which cast a shield of slippery ice over the ground making traveling hazardous for motorists and pedestrians alike. Prior to this weather system, county residents were victimized by several days of subfreezing temperatures caused by arctic winds. Temperature records all across the South have been broken.

1983-----IN REVIEW

Nineteen-hundred eighty-three A.D. was an eventful year for Tishomingo Countians with three major episodes causing changes in their lives. A locally high unemployment rate, coupled with nation-wide economic hard times, caused many families to cutback on spending and rely on federal help. During the early portion of the year, a ring of robberies alerted all homeowners to be on the lookout for suspicious characters and anonymous phone calls. Campaigns for state and local offices involved voters in political affairs throughout the summer and fall.

We, at The News Office, put forth our best efforts each week to give readers detailed accounts of these important events, along with the lesser happenings such as when a gospel singing was scheduled or when someone killed a great big ole' rattler. However, at the same time, plans were underway for a very special edition of "The News".

This past year held particular significance for The Vidette, since June 23, 1983, marked a century of publication for the local newspaper. A Centennial Edition was issued in celebration of the anniversary. It backtracked on the county's past happenings and gave a full account of The Vidette's history.

Given below is an outline of this year's tragedies, joys, and regular newsworthy occurrences. The greatest tragedy transpired on Monday, April 11, when the Benchmark Industries Plant in Burnsville, the county's second largest employer, burned to the ground leaving 400 local residents jobless. The county's most joyous time was during the Christmas Season when all worries were briefly set aside to celebrate the holiday season.

JANUARY 6: Miss Deana Joy Rodgers was the county's first baby born in 1983. She was delivered at 10:04 p.m., Monday, January 3.

JANUARY 13: Five members of an Iuka family were killed in a tragic automobile accident, which transpired at a location one mile south of town on Highway 25 on Tuesday afternoon, January 11, when their car collided with a Mack Truck.

JANUARY 20: Belmont High School boys' and girls' basketball teams won county tournament.

JANUARY 27: On January 19, Benjamin Franklin Ross, aged 100, dies at Tishomingo County Hospital following a lengthy illness.

FEBRUARY 3: County Agent Percle B. Stricklen retires on January 3, after a 22 year tenure of service with the Extension Office in Tishomingo County.

FEBRUARY 10: The homes of four Iuka residents (R.L. Brown, Jr., D.O. Jourdan, Herman C. Gann, and Deborah Ernsberger) were burglarized. Robbers posing as carpet salesmen steal $400.00 from Iuka woman after rolling her up in a large rug. Iuka Police Department recovers seven stolen T.V. sets valued at $3,500.00.

FEBRUARY 17: An allocation of 4.2 million dollars is granted to Yellow Creek Port Authority for clearing undeveloped areas of the port, constructing a permanent building, and purchasing a forklift and crane. Iuka sixth graders make plans to present their musical "Our Heritage" at the State Capitol Building on February 22.

MARCH 3: Burnsville's only police car destroyed by flames. Iuka Mayor John H. Biggs issues a word of caution to area residents about burglars who first call houses to see if anyone is home.

MARCH 17: Kim Bolton wins county spelling bee. Operation Fleet Watch initiated to combat area crime. Program carried out by employees of South Central Bell and T.C.E.P.A. in cooperation with law officials. They pledge to stay on the outlook for criminal activity.

MARCH 24: Iuka High School baseball team wins Diamond Classic Tournament in Corinth.

MARCH 31: $33 million appropriated for four-laning Highway 72 from Iuka to Corinth.

Help For 1984 Gardens

December brings the 1983 gardening year to a close, and for many gardeners in Tishomingo County it was a year not worth remembering. A cold, wet spring that caused replanting, summer drought and insects were all problems in 1983 gardens. Fall gardens have helped to make up for spring and summer losses. And like true sport fans, we can all take hope and say "There's always next year."

Before closing out 1983, here are some gardening chores that should be attended to. This will improve your chances in 1984.

Clean up all dead and dying plants. Add these plants to the compost pile if they were not killed by disease. Remove bean poles and tomato stakes to a protected storage area so you can use them next year.

If your garden has been worked with a tiller for several years, try to get it plowed with a subsoiler or chisel plow. This will break up the hardpan that has formed over the years.

Have your soil tested for lime and fertilizer needs. Now is the best time to apply lime. The dry summer this year was especially hard on gardeners who over-fertilized. Don't apply fertilizer without a soil test recommendation in hand.

Plant a cover crop on part of the garden to add organic matter and keep the soil from washing in winter rains. You also can row up part of the garden to be ready for early spring planting of lettuce, cabbage, onions, English peas and snap peas.

Clean up garden tools. Remove soil and rust and apply a light coat of oil. Change the oil in the tiller, drain the gas tank and keep it in a protected area.

The Extension Service has more information to help plan your garden in 1984. For more details, come by the County Extension Office and ask for information on the garden planning computer service.

Protect Plants

Apply a fertilizer mixture of 0-20-20, which is a good way to protect your landscape plants during the winter. The phosphorus in the mixture acts like antifreeze by lowering the freezing point of the plant tissue.

Azaleas especially like this fertilizer mixture. They will drop less foliage if fed properly. Use the fertilizer at the rate of one pound per 100 square feet of planting area.

Broadcast and spread the material evenly in the shrub bed or around young trees. Don't apply in a thick ring, because it may damage the roots. Also, water the plants thoroughly after fertilizing.

Mulching is another good way to give plants winter protection. Save leaves and pine straw as mulch. Use a four to six-inch layer for winter protection.

Farmweek

Because of the Christmas holidays, Farmweek will not be shown during the weeks of Dec. 26 and Jan. 2. Farmweek resumes on Jan. 9 at its regular time slot on Mississippi Educational Television.

Matters of Health

Snoring

MY HUSBAND'S SNORING HAS BECOME SO SEVERE THAT THE NOISE IS THREATENING OUR OTHERWISE HAPPY MARRIAGE. IS THERE A CURE?

Possibly. There are a number of treatments or tips that may relieve snoring. These work because they make the air flow more easily through the airways. When you sleep, the muscles in the throat and breathing passages relax and collapse. Then the walls of the airways may be so close together they vibrate as you inhale, making snoring noises. So snoring occurs because the sleeper's airways are partially obstructed. Although no one knows why, snoring is more common among men - from birth on. If you snore, first try breathing through your nose instead of your mouth. Sleeping on your side or stomach may help too since it encourages you to breathe through your nose. When you sleep on your abdomen, your jaw has a tendency to drop forward, so breathing is more likely to be through the nose than the mouth. Your throat is open more widely, too.

Drinking alcohol is relaxing, so the muscles in the throat and breathing passages relax too when you drink. If they collapse, snoring results. If you snore more often or more loudly after drinking alcohol in the evening, then simply eliminate drinking before bed. Heavy eating before bedtime also may relax you and cause snoring.

Some people who snore a lot may have a blocked nose or deviated septum, a defect in the wall that separates the two portions of the nose. This condition can be corrected by surgery and requires a brief hospital stay. There is no guarantee, however, that it will cure the snoring completely.

Children who snore may have enlarged adenoids. If the snoring is severe enough, check with your pediatrician or otolaryngologist. He can tell you whether surgical removal of the adenoids is advisable.

Home remedies for snoring usually don't help and may even make snoring worse. For example, putting a clothespin on the nose of someone who is snoring not only makes the snorer look silly, but forces him or her to breathe through the mouth and makes the snoring louder.

Snoring can be associated with a condition known as "sleep apnea," which means a person stops breathing at times while asleep. If you snore chronically, you might want to discuss the possibility of sleep apnea with your doctor.

Several surgical procedures are available to help snorers with serious problems. A tonsillectomy eliminates snoring and sleep apnea in 50 to 80 percent of all cases. A tracheotomy - surgically making an opening in the trachea or airway - is recommended only when sleep apnea is so severe that it may be life-threatening. A new surgical procedure reconstructs the shape and contour of a part of the throat to improve the flow of air. More complicated than a tonsillectomy, this operation helps snoring and sleep apnea in a number of patients.

CHEMICALS IN THE EYE

Most medical emergencies call for the prompt attention of appropriate medical personnel. However, in the case of chemicals getting in the eyes, some immediate first-aid can be a real sight-saver.

Whether it's your eye or that of your child, and even if you don't know what the substance is, the first thing to do is to flush the eye quickly and thoroughly with water. Do not try to figure out what the substance is and devise an antidote. This can waste precious time. Flushing with lots of water will dilute and wash the substance from the eye, whether it's shampoo or lye.

The key is to remain calm and to proceed with the utmost efficiency. Don't bother searching for an eye-cup if you don't know exactly where it is. A full sink, a large bowl, even your cupped hand will do in a pinch. Then open your eyes, or hold open the eyes of your child, under water. Continue this for several minutes. Only then should you consider going for medical attention.

Buying a portable heater?

To serve you well, a portable electric heater should have a thermostat, a tip-over switch, and the UL (Underwriters' Laboratories) approval.

Then you should use the heater economically. That is, only when really needed. To run one of these small heaters full blast, full time will skyrocket your electric bill. You'll also want to use it safely by keeping it away from anything that will burn.

To help you buy and use this appliance wisely, see us for a free copy of The Portable Electric Space Heater. It'll help you keep from being burned when all you wanted was a little heat.

Hosea And The Jackrabbits

By: Ben Earl Kitchens

When Hosea Mansfield agreed to hitchhike to Texas with his old friend, Colonel Ed Lester, to catch jackrabbits, he did not realize that the winter would be so dreary or that he would be separated for so long from his wife and children in Clarksdale, Mississippi. The following scenario occurred in early March near Big Lake, Texas: "Jackrabbit land! Dars where we be!" Hosea exclaimed loudly. "Rat here amixed all dees hopping bunnies and it won't be long no mo. No suh. Satday night a coming and here we be. Sho nuff I wants to go home. Homesick I be. Laudy, oh Laudy."

Colonel Ed reached over and patted Hosea lightly on the left shoulder but he barely felt it as he was so upset. "Just try to control yourself now Hosea," Colonel Ed said, but Hosea did not pay any attention.

"Dar ain't nothing here bigger'n a broomstraw," Hosea continued, "and a shaft un at dat." He hesitated and his dark brown eyes stared across the lonesome expanse of sand. "Sho wish I wuz wib my honeychild. No mo, no mo, Laudy, help me oh Laudy cause I sho miss my honeychild." The orange Ford pickup in which they were riding struck a bump and Hosea was thrown against the right side of the truck bed. "Oh Laudy," he yelled. "How much longer, Colonel Ed?"

"Hit won't be much longer now, Hosea," Colonel Ed replied reassuringly. "Thar's a heap of money in these here jackrabbits. When weuns git home jist think how much you and Laurabeth will have to spend. Clear money, the boss don't take out nothing. This here full moon shore has the rabbits spooked, huh Hosea?"

"Dey is spooked and I is too," Hosea said despondently. Laudy, oh Laudy. Which one of us is spooked de worstest?" Hosea was staring up at the full yellow moon. "And dis wind too," Hosea continued, "hab dem bunnies wild sho nuff. Dey can see dis truck wib dees rabbits. I know we could cause we done did it. De rabbits dey smells you mo when de wind be blowing!"

"You got that right," Colonel Ed said. "I knowed something was the matter." Colonel Ed was standing in the back of the moving truck with his upper arms placed firmly over the cab. Hosea was sitting in the bed holding tightly against the side of the truck to keep from bouncing. Usually by this time of night they had caught a couple of hundred rabbits. In twelve hours they usually caught about three hundred rabbits.

"Yeah, ifn a feller jist had his own truck he could really make some money!" Colonel Ed continued. Thinking about the amount of money they could make caused a smile to creep across his weather-beaten face but Hosea was still frowning. "Thar's nuff rabbits out here around Big Lake to make me and you millionaires," Hosea. Jist figger on it. How many jackrabbits would hit take to make me and you millionaires?"

"Laudy, Colonel Ed," Hosea replied, "I'd hab to figga on dat. It would be a stack sho nuff high. Higher dan dem oak trees in my back yard. Oh, Colonel Ed, jist thinking bout dem trees gibbs me de sadness. Dees folks out here in Texas, deys don't hab trees. Deys hab oil wells but no trees. I'd radder hab a big ole tree and a ribber da fish out ob. Dees ribbers dat dey call ribbers, dey don't be ribbers at all. Dey don't nuttin out here in Texas be normal!"

"Yeah, you're right, Hosea," Colonel Ed agreed. There ain't much to these rivers. You remember that one we ran over awhile ago? Why it didn't even wet the pickup tires!"

"Sho nuff . . . dat is sho nuff de truth," Hosea verified. "Why Lawbeth flings out mo dishwater in de back yard dan dey is in dees ribbers!"

"Thar's one," Colonel Ed interrupted. Cool wind was whistling overhead. Hosea shined the spotlight in the direction Colonel Ed was pointing. They could see a huge jackrabbit racing parallel to the right side of the truck. Colonel Ed tapped two times on the top of the cab, alerting the driver that a rabbit had been sighted. The mammoth jackrabbit was running about 45 miles an hour alongside the truck.

"Hand me the rifle," Colonel Ed directed nervously. When Hosea gave it to him he placed it on top of the cab for support. Colonel Ed took aim several feet in front of the scurrying jackrabbit. KA-POW! The loud noise rang across the miles of em-

HIRAM RUSHED HIM HOME AND WAS IN THE BACKYARD TRYING TO SEW BOOZE'S TAIL BACK ON. JUST THEN THE SHERIFF DROVE UP. "YOU'RE UNDER ARREST, HIRAM," HE SAID. "BUT WHY, SHERIFF? WHAT HAVE I DONE?" pty space and sand. A cloud of dust arose in front of the rabbit and when it ran into it, it stopped. Colonel Ed tapped again on the cab and the driver stopped the truck. Hosea leaped from the truck bed over the tail gate and ran over the threw a large net over the frightened animal. He brought the quivering jackrabbit over to the truck and together the two men shoved it into the opened wooden box. Colonel Ed quickly closed the lid.

"How much you figger he'll weigh, Hosea?" Colonel Ed wanted to know.

"He sho be a biggon," Hosea answered. "Mo probably he go nineteen pounds. Might go twenty. De jackrabbits sho ain't like de bunnies we hab at home are dey? Dey ain't like de cotton-tails!"

"Which you like the most, Hosea?" Colonel Ed asked. He enjoyed hearing Hosea talk and would get him started whenever a good occasion arose.

"Why de cotton-tails!" he answered emphatically and without hesitation. "I like de cotton-tails mo. Dees jackrabbits is mo near de rat family dan dey is de rabbit family. Dees Texas folks, dey calls dees jackrabbits roogers but I calls dem RATS! Dar ain't no way dat I'd eat one ob dem. And you know sompin, Colonel Ed? I done about lost all de cravings I had to de cotton-tails!"

"It's been several nights since we've caught a cotton-tail," Colonel Ed reminded.

"Dat's right," Hosea agreed. "De last one we got was de one dat jumped up on de motor mount. You member him don't you Colonel Ed? Why genely dees cotton-tails ain't hard to catch. We dis hops out ob dis truck and puts de net ober de bunny's head. But I don't likes to catch de mama rabbits."

"Why not Hosea?" Colonel Ed knew why but just wanted to hear Hosea tell about it again.

"Why Laudy Colonel Ed!" Hosea was becoming dramatic. "You KNOWS why! I can't stand to hear de mama rabbits a crying. When you catch de mama rabbits dey hollars 'Why... Why... Why... Laudy Colonel Ed I can't stands dat. Yes Suh. I done be ober wib my rabbit eating!'"

They were again in the back of the pickup and the driver had begun to move deeper into the desert. "Hosea," Colonel Ed began, "what do you think they do with all of these here rabbits?"

"I knows," Hosea answered. "De Bossman done told me what dey does wib dem. He say dey is loaded into a big truck and all took to Arkansas and Alabama. He say deys a big track dar in dem places and de runs dem wib dar dogs. De dogs runs de rabbits round and round de track. But he say de dogs dey ain't like de rabbit dogs we got in Miss-ippi. He say dey is bigger and skinner. De dog, he by nature gon chase after de rabbit and de rabbit, by nature, he gon run from de dog. But de rabbit, he been de faster. Some ob de older dogs, dey knows how to catch de bunnies but de young-uns, dey gets dar after de bunny done be in de hole."

Colonel Ed had reassumed his position as rabbit spotter and was shining the spotlight to the right and left of the moving truck. Hosea was sitting in the truck bed with one foot propped on a rabbit box. A puff of wind and sand blew against their faces. Hosea glanced up at the moon. He knew there was about four more hours of moonlight and hunting time remaining. He was more dejected and homesick than he had ever been before.

Colonel Ed glanced over at Hosea and saw the intense gloom that permeated his facial expression. They could barely hear each other over the roar of the pickup motor. Hosea was staring straight up at the bright yellow moon.

"I'd mo radder be home in Miss-ippi dan hab all de rabbits in Texas!" Hosea moaned emphatically. Colonel Ed nodded in agreement but Hosea was still staring up at the moon and did not see him. Colonel Ed slowly reached deep into the right front pocket of his imitation leather pants. He withdrew a worn pocketknife and with the bone handle he struck the top of the pickup cab three times. The driver took the cue and suddenly the pickup made a sharp U-turn in the desert sand and began heading back toward Big Lake.

"Oh Laudy, Colonel Ed," Hosea sighed loudly. He raised himself from the truck bed and looked disbelievingly in the direction the pickup was traveling. "We're gwine home!" he yelled. "We're gwine home!"

The driver turned around and winked at Colonel Ed through the back window of the pickup. Hosea was smiling from ear to ear. "We're gwine home! We're gwine home!" Hosea hollared again and again. "Thank you oh Laudy! Thank you oh Laudy!"

DON'T DIE OF EMBARRASSMENT.

It starts quite innocently: you convince yourself the symptoms aren't serious. So if you sought medical help you'd just look foolish. And later it's too late.

Each year 350,000 Americans die from heart attacks before reaching the hospital. Often after a deadly, unnecessary delay. In fact, the average victim waits over three hours before consulting a doctor. Because he doesn't realize what his symptoms mean. And he doesn't want to seem silly.

Please, learn the warning signals of a heart attack. And, if you experience any of them, get help. Call a paramedic at once. Or, if you can get to an emergency room faster another way, do so. Without a second thought.

After all, saving face means nothing compared to saving your life.

WARNING SIGNALS OF A HEART ATTACK

1. An uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest behind the breastbone.
2. The sensation may spread to your shoulders, neck or arms. If it lasts for two minutes or more, you could be having a heart attack.
3. Severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur, but are not always present.

HEARL McANALLY TO RETIRE AFTER 39 YEARS OF FEDERAL SERVICE

An Iuka native who works at the U.S. Army Finance and Accounting Center in Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, will retire January 3, with more than 39 years federal service.

Hearl McAnally, a field quality assurance examiner in the Directorate of Finance Network Quality, is a Tishomingo High School graduate and plans to return home after his retirement. Mr. McAnally was a warrant officer in the U.S. Army and entered civil service in Washington, D.C., in June 1965.

"I've got my rocking chair already sitting on the front porch waiting," he said. "But I don't plan to occupy it that much." He said he plans to pursue his interests in fishing and hunting, play a little golf, and 'play' with his model railroad.

Mr. McAnally has been in the accounting field his entire government career. He entered military service in December 1940 and was assigned to the Finance Corps in 1941. He worked in a number of finance offices until January 1952. He was then appointed to the rank of warrant officer, serving as a deputy finance officer, acting corps finance officer and deputy finance and accounting officer, before being assigned to the Army Finance and Accounting Center in June 1956.

His civil service career began in June 1965 as an accounting clerk in the Government Printing Office in Washington. From there he moved to an accounting clerk job at the finance and accounting office at Fort Myers, Va.

Mr. McAnally was assigned to the finance and accounting office at Fort Harrison in January 1966, where he worked until August 1972 -- first as a pay clerk, then as a cashier. He became chief of civilian pay and, later, chief of disbursing. "I'll always remember the help the clerks in civilian pay gave me," he

Making Christmas Merrier
In the spirit of goodwill, this cache of groceries and other household items was distributed among the county's needy families last week. The community-wide effort, which was sponsored by the Iuka Baptist Church and the Iuka United Methodist Church, made Christmas a more happy occasion for many unemployed, elderly, handicapped, and poverty-stricken people. Several local businesses and private individuals assisted the two churches in their Christmas basket drive.

nine out of ten smokers say they want to quit smoking. If you smoke, you learned to smoke and you can learn to be a non-smoker. It may take practice, but if you want to quit, you will.

It is easier to win the battle if you fully recognize the enemy . . . and cigarette smoking is public health enemy number one. Smoking is the single largest preventable cause of death in America. Every year, 340,000 Americans die prematurely from diseases caused by cigarette smoking. You only last as long as your lungs do . . . so take care of your lungs . . . they're only human.

Please, give yourself a chance for better lung health. To "kick the cigarette habit", make a 1983 New Year's resolution to quit smoking and contact the Mississippi Lung Association on the self-help kit, "Freedom from Smoking in Twenty Days.

Healthy lungs are for a lifetime, so contact the Christmas Seal people today for your help with your "life and breath-saving" resolution. Write the Mississippi Lung Association at Post Office Box 9865, Jackson, Ms 39206 or telephone 362-5453. You'll be glad you did!

POINT OF LAW

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: My husband was ordered by the court to pay his ex-wife $300 per month for child support. Now he has been laid off from his job and cannot afford to pay her. What should we do? Can his ex-wife have him put in jail for not being able to pay?

A: Under Mississippi law, your husband's duty to pay child support continues unchanged until the court that ordered the amount of child support changes its order. He should immediately file papers in court to have his child support reduced or suspended until he can return to work. If he does not do so, his ex-wife may file suit against him asking the court to find him in contempt for not paying. The court will give her a judgment for all due and unpaid support, and may impose a fine and a jail term on your husband. He may also be ordered to pay all court costs and his ex-wife's attorney's fees. Time is important in this situation, and your husband should contact an attorney right away.

Q: I have had to go to court or contact a lawyer for child support four times in the last three or four years. My ex-husband says he cannot have to pay because his daughter spent most of summer with our relatives in now three months in payments. Can he get away with this?

A: Unless the support order makes a specific provision suspending the child support payments when the child is not in your physical custody, your ex-husband must pay the support payments when your daughter is staying with the relatives.

Services were held Monday at Deaton Funeral Home Chapel in Belmont with Bro. Dale Blackman officiating. Burial was in Paradise Cemetery.

He is survived by a son,

Cortez Blunt, of Tishomingo; three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Gardner and Mrs. Reba Pennington, both of Tishomingo, and Mrs. Earline Riddle, of Booneville; five brothers, Vardie Blunt, Johnny Blunt, Herman Blunt, Leon Blunt and Bro. J.A. Blunt, all of Tishomingo; and a granddaughter.

ONE WHO CARES

Dear Nita,

People have been telling me that Jesus was tempted like us, but that he couldn't sin because he did not share our common humanity. What do you think about this?

In Christ,
A Friend

flict were a mere deception, how can the narrative of it profit us? If we have to fight the battle clad in that armour of human freewill, . . . what comfort is it to us if our great Captain fought not only victoriously, but without real danger; not only uninjured, but without even the possibility of a wound . . . let us beware of contradicting the express teaching of the Scriptures . . .

Ready To Make Your New Year's Resolutions?

The Mississippi Lung Association has some "life and breath-saving" advice.

You are beginning a brand new year. Why not give yourself a gift . . . a promise for better health by quitting smoking. Be your own best friend and get control of your life . . . and breathe.

New Year is the perfect time to do something nice for yourself, your family and everyone around you. In fact, you might start early and put an "I Kicked the Cigarette Habit" announcement under the Christmas tree. Then, wait for the applause!

If your wife, husband, children, relatives, friends, or neighbors smoke too, why not make a New Year's pact to quit together? In a season of joy and good will, why not share your good "will-power"?

COME TO CHURCH

We all have times when things go wrong,
And Fortune's in reverse;
Yet we're expected to be strong,
Though things could not get worse . . .

A strength of which the Scriptures name
Examples plain to see:
Like Job, whose faith remained the same
Throughout adversity.

So why not go to Church this week,
Whichever one you choose,
And listen to the Bible speak;
There's not a thing to lose!

Then, what those passages command
You'll follow to the letter;
And let God take your life in hand,
To change it for the better! —Gloria Nowak

Party Time!
To kick off the holiday season, these employees at Tishomingo County Hospital enjoyed a day of festivity at their recent Christmas party. Each of the hospital's employees was given a turkey to take home. Members of the hospital staff receiving certificates for perfect atten-

highest teenage birthrates in the nation, 22 percent of all births.

16 babies were born with low birthweight (6.0 percent). Low birthweight is a leading cause of infant mortality and mental retardation.

Teenagers are more likely to have low birthweight babies. HIGH RISK MOTHERS NEED MEDICAL CARE TO PREVENT PROBLEMS. Often they cannot afford the cost because they are poor, unemployed, uninsured. 12.6 percent of the work force in Tishomingo County is unemployed. Ninety-two percent of the unemployed are uninsured.

13.5 percent of the citizens in Tishomingo County have incomes below poverty level. Twenty-four percent of Mississippians live in poverty, more than in any other state. The county's per capita income is $7,345, compared to $10,495 nationally. Mississippi has the lowest per capita income among states.

BABIES FROM THESE FAMILIES NEED OUR HELP. We can pay now for inexpensive preventive care for mothers and babies or we can pay much more later for damaged and dying babies. Support measures to improve our quality of birth in Mississippi. We need to insure that all babies have the opportunity to become productive, tax-paying citizens.

County Executive Director

Emergency Feed Assistance Program

The Tishomingo County ASCS Office is currently conducting an Emergency Feed Assistance Program (EFAP) sign up from December 27, through January 3, 1984. Tishomingo County farmers must have had a loss of hay or feed grain crops. Check with the county office for

Table Filled With Goodies

These employees of Tishomingo County Hospital are standing guard over the holiday Department's many Christmas treats making certain that no mischievous fellow worker snatches an oatmeal cookie or chocolate covered cherry before the appropriate time. The Christmas party, an annual event to honor all employees, was held on December 16, 1983. Several employees were presented service pins for their years of dedication. Those receiving fifteen year pins were Christine Jackson and Betty Nunley. Gladys Shelton, H.B. Southward, Sandra Puckett, Jerome Parsons, and Mary Daniel were all given ten year pins. Recipients of five year pins were Dale White, Judy Johnson, Imogene Price, M. Arnold, Ilene Berryman, Vera Stephens, Ann Barnes, Glenda Matlock, Betty Moore, Lydia Linton, William Owens and Brenda Edmondson.

Our Children, Our Future

The health of our economy depends upon the health of our children. In Tishomingo County 266 babies were born in 1982. Three of these babies died before their first birthday. For every baby who dies, three will live but with handicapping conditions. Nine people from Tishomingo County are in institutions for the mentally retarded at an annual cost of $14,335 per person ($700,000 for a 50-year lifetime of care). But 30 percent of retardation is preventable.

EVERYONE PAYS FOR BABIES WHO DIE UNNECESSARILY OR HAVE HANDICAPPING CONDITIONS. Mississippi pays $10 million per year for 2,052 institutionalized retarded citizens. Over 50,000 disabled children in Mississippi need services for mental, physical, and emotional disturbances. Each marginally handicapped child costs

$1,667 per school year. For 50,000 children, the total education cost is $83,350,000 each year. Babies who die unnecessarily or are handicapped cost every taxpayer, everyone with health insurance, every hospital. Hospitals shift costs from nonpaying to paying patients by raising daily rates. In response, insurance rates rise. Hospitals need help.

HOW DO WE PREVENT BABIES FROM DYING OR BEING BORN DAMAGED? The problem begins with mothers-at-risk. 85 babies were identified as born to mothers-at-risk in Tishomingo County (32 percent). Mothers-at-risk are too young, undereducated, or lack prenatal care. But they can be helped.

66 babies were born to teenagers in Tishomingo County (25 percent). Mississippi has one of the
