You have a special invitation to attend this meeting.

P.T.A. Plans To Buy Computers

In our continued efforts to serve the Iuka Elementary School students and its staff members, the P.T.A. organization plans to purchase three additional computers. It was the consensus of the school board, in an earlier meeting last year, that the P.T.A. could help in implementing the computers.

It has come to our attention that three additional computers are needed. This would facilitate each classroom in the 5th and 6th grades with this advanced teaching tool.

The P.T.A. organization would provide the needed funds towards the purchase. Apple II Computers would be purchased to coincide with the ones already in place.

We ask for permission to purchase the computers under the one going state contract price. In so doing, we hope to speed up the process of providing this teaching aid to our elementary school students.

Hopefully similar purchases can also be made in the near future. Your approval in this matter would be appreciated.

Respectfully Yours,
Billy Rainey

Burglary Solved - Three Charged With Crime

The Monday arrest of an Iuka man by Police Officer, Ricky Cornelison subsequently led to the arrest of two Alabama men Tuesday and solved the January burglary of Jack's Hamburgers on Highway 25 South.

William Southward, 24, of Iuka was arrested by Officer Cornelison and additional information was obtained which led the law official and fellow officers, Bobby Flynt and Benny Parrish to Alabama for further arrests in the case.

Fugitive warrants were obtained from Alabama authorities by the three officers Tuesday, for the arrests of Reginald "Bubba" Fuqua, 20, of Cherokee, AL, and Elijah "Jun" Armstead, Jr., of Tusculumbia, AL.

Fuqua and Armstead both are charged, along with Southward, in the burglary and larceny of the local restaurant. According to the report, Southward and Armstead were on parole for similar law violations at the time of their arrests. The three remained jailed at press time.

Damages were done to at least three areas of the Jack's building during the night crime in January before the thieves gained entrance from the roof. Apparently someone dropped thru a suspended ceiling and lowered themselves inside through an exhaust fan location.

A safe containing an undetermined amount of money was stolen during the heist.

Officer Cornelison reported the whereabouts of the safe is known and proceedings to recover and return it are underway.

Additional arrests are pending in the case.

Local Contractors Meet To Discuss NASA Plant

The Hercules-Atlantic team, one of two partnerships bidding on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's proposed advanced solid rocket booster plant near Iuka, hosted a meeting Wednesday with area contractors to discuss specifics of the project and requirements of construction bidders.

The partnership, between Atlantic Research Corp. and Hercules Inc., hopes to gain a head start on the project if they receive the contract.

"We're trying to position ourselves to hit the ground running," said George Oss, a spokesman for Atlantic Research in Virginia. "We want to position ourselves so that we have the bids in and we're ready to roll when a contract is awarded."

Wednesday's meeting was to discuss the construction of an administrative building on the abandoned Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant site in Tishomingo County. Yellow Creek is NASA's choice for the $1.5 billion rocket plant that will build new solid rockets for the space shuttle program.

Oss said an administrative complex to house engineers and design personnel will be the first essential item in the plant's construction.

About 30 area contractors attended the invitation-only, morning conference Wednesday on the Yellow Creek site. "We took a map and drew a circle in a 65-mile radius of the site and tried to find all the general contractors in that area and invite them," Oss said. "We sent out about 75 invitations and we were pleased with the response."

He said his firm needed to know in advance who was coming to the meeting in order to get security clearance to visit the plant site from the Tennessee Valley Authority. TVA currently owns the property. "If we overlooked anybody, it wasn't by design," Oss said. "We just looked through the yellow pages and tried to find all the general contractors we could in that specified area."

Following the morning conference, Atlantic hosted a luncheon at J.P. Coleman State Park for the contractors and local officials.

Crime Spree Halted By Area Policemen

Cooperative police investigations conducted by the Burnsville police, Iuka Police Department and the sheriff's office has resulted in the arrest of one young man and solved several break-ins of area businesses.

Richard Dale Hudson, 19, of Burnsville, was arrested last Thursday in connection with the local thievery and now faces the consequence of the crimes. Four businesses in Burnsville and one Iuka business were hit during the crime spree.

The sheriff's office records five counts of burglary are leveled against Hudson, and the Iuka Police Department have Hudson charged with one count of break-in and entering and grand larceny.

Names of law officials who were instrumental in halting the violations of the law included county deputy, Mike Higginbottom; Burnsville Police, William Lambert; Iuka Police Officers, Bobby Flynt, Benny Parrish, and Ricky Cornelison.

Chatting With Your Home Economist

HOMEMAKER'S SELF-ESTEEM

How we feel about ourselves has a major influence on every area of our lives. Feelings of guilt, depression, fear, worthlessness, loneliness and isolation are emotions that we might experience as a result of low self-esteem.

Self-esteem is our present evaluation of ourselves, our failures, successes, talents and weaknesses.

Some full-time homemakers have a particular problem maintaining a positive sense of self. This is easy to understand when we look at how the job of homemaking is viewed in society.

Let's look at the distinguishing job features of homemaking. The most obvious feature is no salary. Additionally, homemakers receive limited job security and benefits. Most people who work, even those who make a small amount of money, are covered by Social Security and by unemployment insurance. Our society tends to value paid work over unpaid work. Any activity performed without pay is considered a hobby or pastime.

In a culture that measures accomplishment primarily in dollars, homemakers are at a disadvantage. When society does not value your work it is hard to maintain a high level of self-esteem.

For many homemakers, social interaction is limited to spouse and children. This small, and sometimes unsympathetic support system may not give the homemaker a feeling of being appreciated or enough evidence of being valued. It's often easier to get a verbal "good job" out of the boss than it is children and husband.

Homemakers do not participate in any system of rewards, advancement or professional improvement. They contribute service, not money, to their family, and service is often less valued than cash. Since society attributes relatively low status to the job of homemaking, it is very difficult for a homemaker to feel much power or influence over events or people. A feeling of powerlessness is very damaging to the self-esteem.

It's not all bad news, however, since homemaking does provide autonomy and variety on the job. Homemakers work long but fairly flexible hours. They can choose between a variety of both active and less active tasks. A homemaker's job satisfaction is under her own control.

As a result of her independence on the job, a homemaker does have the freedom to live according to her own values and beliefs. Therefore, a homemaker has an opportunity to enhance self-esteem by achievement of self-chosen goals and by behaving consistently with her values.

Homemaking is an important job but homemakers have to work especially hard to keep their level of self-esteem high.

Extension Homemakers Clubs offer homemakers the opportunity to build positive self-esteem and for professional improvement.

BROCCOLI FRITTATA

This Italian open-face omelet is delicious for supper or brunch. Unlike a French omelet, which is cooked quickly over high heat and is creamy in the center, a frittata is cooked slowly and is set, or firm, in the center.

1 bunch broccoli
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 cup sliced onions
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
6 eggs, lightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
Pinch each nutmeg & freshly ground pepper
1/2 cup grated part skim mozzarella cheese

Trim tough ends from broccoli and peel stems. Cut stems and florets into 3/4-inch pieces (you should have about 4 cups). Steam or cook broccoli in boiling water for 3 to 5 minutes or until crisp-tender; drain thoroughly.

In 10-inch skillet, preferably nonstick, heat oil; add onion and garlic and cook over medium heat until onion is tender. Stir in broccoli.

Beat together eggs, salt, nutmeg, and pepper; pour over broccoli mixture and sprinkle with cheese. Cover, and cook over medium-low heat for 5 to 10 minutes or until set but still slightly moist on top. Place under broiler for 2 to 3 minutes to lightly brown top. (If the skillet handle isn't ovenproof, wrap in foil; since the oven door is open, most of the handle will not be directly under the heat.) Loosen edges of frittata and cut into pie-shaped wedges. Makes 4 servings.

County Agents Notes

COW NUTRITION

Cows need energy to combat stress problems caused by cold weather, age and pregnancy. They also can have lower resistance to disease and weight loss if they suffer from low energy. Low energy among the cows could mean increased costs later on for Tishomingo County producers.

Dry cows need to 8 to 9 pounds of total digestible nutrients to maintain their bodies. Producers can satisfy this nutritional need with 16 to 18 pounds of average quality hay and 1 pound of protein supplement per cow.

Cows nursing calves need an additional pound of total digestible nutrients for each 3 pounds of milk they produce. Each calf needs 10 pounds of milk for each pound of gain, particularly if the young animal is expected to gain 1 and 1/2 pounds per day.

Nursing cows, then, require an extra 5 to 6 pounds of total digestible nutrients above their weight maintenance needs.

POULTRY PESTS

Northern fowl mites are the most serious of the pests that can infest poultry houses in Tishomingo County during winter. They spend their lives sucking blood and irritating the birds.

Applications of dusts or sprays containing Co-Ral, malathion, rabon or sevin can be made directly on the birds. Co-Ral also can be used to treat litter in the houses. Read labels carefully before using.

MUSCADINE UPKEEP

Prune Tishomingo County muscadine and grape vines as late as possible during their dormancy to lessen the risk of cold injury and to allow vines to compensate for winter bud kill.

Cold weather damage is more likely to happen on pruned vines than nonpruned ones. The damage occurs on the southwest side of the trunk within the 18 inches to the soil line.

When muscadine and grape vines are pruned, they may bleed from the cut ends. Don't worry about the "bleeding" because it doesn't harm the vines.

COTTON SEED TESTS

Cotton producers in Tishomingo County are beginning to request information on the cool seed test. This type test provides them good information on choosing and planting cotton varieties.

The test is about the most misunderstood of all cotton seed tests. Let me give a quick explanation of it.

In this test, cotton seed are germinated for about seven days at a constant temperature of 64 degrees (18 degrees Celsius). When the test concludes, the seedlings are counted and measured. Seedlings reaching 1.5 inches long are considered highly vigorous.

Cool test results can be used to interpret approximate rate of emergence of cotton seed under adverse planting conditions. That's why our county cotton farmers should be interested in this test.

SOYBEAN TRIALS

If our soybean farmers haven't looked at the yield trial reports released recently, they'll be surprised by the number and quality of new varieties the reports list.

Farmers can pick up a copy of the 1988 Soybean Yield Trials report at the Tishomingo County Extension Office. They also can read the Soybean Variety Characteristics and Yield Report.

GIVE YOURSELF A HEALTHY HEART

In February our thoughts turn to hearts and valentines and, of course, romance. But we also should think about another kind of heart-the heart inside our chest that pumps life into our body. This year give yourself a Valentine -- a healthy heart!

Even though there are medical means to treat heart problems and diseases, the best treatment is prevention and precaution.

Our youth need to realize the importance of healthy eating and living in order to maintain a healthy heart for a long time. The 4-H food and nutrition project gives youth a chance to learn about the practical use of nutrition and health in their daily lives in order to reach the goal of a healthy heart.

The food and nutrition project promotes eating balanced meals and healthy snacks which include the essential nutrients for Fitness and physical activity also are encouraged. Here are some suggestions for youth to start giving their healthy hearts in order to longer:

• "Eat a variety of whole grain or bread-cereals, fruits, vegetables, meat, alternates, and dairy products."

• "Maintain ideal weight and moderation in eating sugar, fat and cholesterol in the diet."

• "Increase the complex carbohydrates in the diet."

• "Exercise regularly 30 minutes of continuous activity daily is recommended for youth."

The 4-H Food and Nutrition project gives youth to "learn by doing" a lot of fun activities to help the goal of a healthy heart.

SIGNS OF ASTIGMATISM

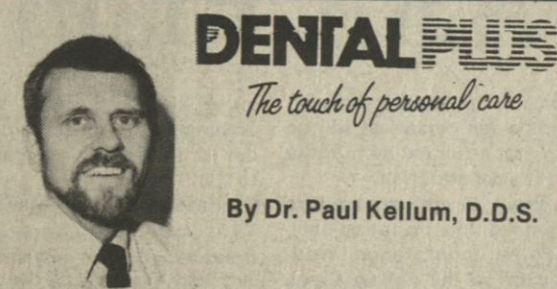

If you've noticed a slight blurring of your vision recently, whether you're looking at an object that's nearby or far away, this may be a sign of astigmatism. The habit of squinting to see an object, eye irritation and discomfort, even occasional headaches may be signs of this vision problem.

Sometimes astigmatism is present at birth and gradually gets worse during the school years. On the other hand, it may not become a serious problem until a person is much older. It usually occurs when the shape of the front of the eye is more oval than round, creating an optical error.

An unequal curvature of one or more of the refractive surfaces of the cornea, causing the eye to focus on an object at two points on the visual axis instead of one.

You'll need an examination by your doctor to find out if you have astigmatism or other vision problems. Astigmatism can be corrected by wearing carefully prescribed glasses or contact lenses.

Periodic Checkups

Q. How often should a person visit the dentist for checkups and professional cleaning?

A. Years ago the maxim was "brush your teeth twice a day and see the dentist twice a year." But that maxim is not flexible enough to meet individual needs. There is no assembly-line uniformity in people's teeth, even in the same family, and conditions that develop throughout life vary widely from one person to another.

For example, the rate of plaque buildup is very rapid for some people. They may require professional cleaning four times a year, whereas once or twice a year might suffice for others. Also, some people are more prone to tooth decay than others. Examination by the dentist at appropriate intervals can make it possible to treat small cavities easily long before they threaten the life of a tooth.

By evaluating each patient's teeth and gum conditions, the dentist determines the best schedule for checkups as a means of maintaining good dental health.

Tech Programs in Northeast The Rise

In 1961 the industrial arts program at Northeast
Mississippi Community College began with an instructor and one student.
Today there are three instructors and the vocational-technical education department, 28 programs of study and approximately 1,000 students enrolled.

Growth is only one aspect of the program that is being highlighted during National

Vocational Education Week,
February 13-18. According to Jimmy Crane, Assistant Director of Vocational-Technical Education, Northeast is taking the right steps to keep the program moving forward.

"The administration continually reviews our equipment and the entire educational process for purposes of updating and changing with the times."

Crane heads up the Engineering Technology and Occupational Education
Division in which advances have been made in the past couple of years. The civil engineering technology curriculum has been updated to include asphalt testing applications. With newly acquired special equipment, Northeast becomes the only school in the state that is able to perform this process.
Crane feels that the entire area will benefit, as well as the students.

"I believe this will be beneficial to the area because of its importance in highway construction and the students will be better prepared for employment."

A new Programmable Logic Controller (PLC) has also been added to the department. It is a device used to control machines, such as robots, by a stored computer program.

Residential construction students are working in conjunction with Governor Mabus' Office renovating a house trailer for a literacy lab.

Other programs under Crane's supervision are auto body repair, automated

manufacturing technology, auto mechanics and service technician, diesel mechanics, electrical technology, electronics technology, heavy equipment operation, machine shop, and tool and die making technology.

The Allied Health and Social Services Division at Northeast is under the direction of, Quitman Wigginton.
The medical lab technology and the respirator therapy technician programs are accredited by the National Agency for Clinical Laboratory Sciences. The division also houses the only Medical Assisting Program in the state. This program prepares students to assist physicians in an office and medical setting.

The Child Care Development Technology program was originally designed to make it easier for students with children to continue their education. Therefore, Mr. Wigginton believes the day care center has become some what of a recruiting tool. (Sophomore students get hands-on experience in working with pre-school children.)

"No doubt we get some students to come to school here because of the day care facility. The students are given first priority. The remaining space is made available to faculty, staff, then to the general public."

The Business and Business Technology Division is headed by Charles Simmons, and includes accounting, business administration, computer technology, fashion merchandising technology, hotel restaurant management technology, marketing technology, microcomputer information processing, office administration, pre-law paralegal technology.

According to Simmons, paralegal technology is a very popular major in the business division at Northeast.

"There are 85 paralegal majors which make it one of the largest programs in the department."

Judy Overall, a Booneville Attorney, is in her first semester as the paralegal instructor. Overall and the paralegal students are currently moving the county law library from the Eula Dees Memorial Library to Wright Hall.

Robert Honeycutt, Director of Vocational Education at Northeast feels this week is an excellent time to emphasize the importance of vocational-technical education has in our education system. Especially now that Northeast Mississippi may be the site of a new NASA plant."

NEMCC To Host Region 23 Tourney

Northeast Mississippi Community College will host the Region 23 basketball

Region 23 of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) is made up of 14 junior/community

Mississippi is not a member of the NJCAA, however, the

Delgado Community College in New Orleans and Bossier Parish Community College in Bossier City, Louisiana are the only two of six two-year schools in that state that are members of the NJCAA.

According to Northeast athletic director and Region 23 director Bill Ward, this years tournament should be one of the best in recent years.

"This should be an outstanding junior (community)

USDA Sets Referendum For Promotion Plan

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has set February 6-21 for watermelon growers and handlers to vote on a proposed research, advertising, and sales promotion program to improve the position of watermelons in the marketplace.

J. Patrick Boyle, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the program would operate at no cost to the federal government. It would be financed by an assessment of up to 2 cents per hundredweight on watermelons, paid by farmers who grow five or more acres of watermelons and by first handlers--the dealers who buy directly from farmers. Those growers and handlers are eligible to vote in the referendum, Boyle said.

A grower of five or more acres of watermelons who also handles watermelons would pay assessments for each function. Producers and handlers assessed under the program could request and receive refunds.

A 29-member board representing watermelon producers, handlers, and the general public would administer the program. Twenty-eight members of the board would be appointed by the secretary of agriculture from nominations originating in the industry; one would be a public member appointed from outside the industry. Industry representatives would be divided evenly between handlers and growers. As in similar research and promotion programs, the board would develop plans with approval by the secretary of agriculture, and would oversee a small administrative staff managing the program's daily work.

Projects developed under the program would favor no particular production region or variety of watermelon grown in the contiguous 48 states.

To pass, the referendum must be approved by either two-thirds of those voting or a majority of producers and a majority of handlers accounting for at least two-thirds of the volume of watermelons represented in the referendum.

The National Watermelon Association originally proposed the plan, in accordance with the 1985 Watermelon Research and Promotion Act.

Notice of the referendum will be published in the Dec. 20 Federal Register. Ballots, copies of the proposed program, and summaries of its major provisions may be obtained from county extension agents where watermelons are grown. Copies also are available from Richard H. Mathews, Marketing Order Administration Branch, Fruit and Vegetable Division, AMS, USDA, Rm. 2525-S, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 20090-6456; telephone (202)475-3916.

Pilot Workshop Will Be Feb.

The Fulton Pilot leadership workshop for women originally scheduled for February 8 has been postponed until February 13.

"We still have more participants," said Reynolds, chairman of the event.

"Leading Ladies" is a ship workshop for women" is the name of the forum which will be held at the Tupelo Ramada Inn, run from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. by Ruby Del Young, Sides and Susan May. They will conduct the workshop.

The day-long event will include five workshops and a luncheon.

The first morning session, conducted by Young, will deal with understanding and developing leadership. The second session, led by Sides, will focus on assertive self-care.

Immediately following the luncheon, Mauney, Community College administration teacher and director of the ICC Tribe, will tell participants how to go into the woman's closet and deal with the professional world.

After lunch, Young will discuss about types of behavior usually don't work in the office environment and to avoid them.

Then Sides will discuss how to meet the challenges. She will deal with situations both external and internal.

A wrap-up and critique will follow this final session.

Sides is a free lance writer and an additions editor in private practice in Memphis, Tennessee. She is recognized expert in the field of assertive self-care in the workplace, in the field of public.

She has presented workshops at national conventions and conferences on self-care and communications.

Her new book Taking Me is scheduled for publication this year.

Young is president of publisher of The County Times, a community printing firm and a newspaper in Fulton, Mississippi.

She holds her degree in guidance counseling with a graduate work in psychology and sociology.

A graduate of the Leadership Institute, she served as co-chairman of the Leadership Institute Steering Committee beginning three years ago.

Iuka School Board
School Board Meeting - February 13, 1989

The following actions were taken by the Iuka School Board in the Administrative Office of the Iuka School System.

Administrative contracts were renewed, two staff members were employed to expand the Science Curriculum in the High School and Junior High. A decision was made to allow the voters the opportunity to increase the local budget in excess of 10%. The school was remembered in the last will and testament of a local businessman, a scholarship will be established in his name.

Dr. D.B. Floyd, Dr. Jerry Stone and the Iuka School Board then reconvened for the discussion with the Mayor and the Iuka City Board of Aldermen. Dr. Floyd's report outlined several opportunities for the Iuka School System and his report will be published in its entirety. The next step in the process of improving school facilities will be field trips to new schools in the area.

Iuka School District School Facility Survey

1989
Current Status

Introduction: There are indication that there could be an increase in school enrollment in the Alcorn, Itawamba, Prentiss, and Tishomingo County area because of the Yellow Creek Project. There is concern on the part of community and school leaders of the area as to how to attract and serve new families and new students. This concern is shared by the leadership of the City of Iuka and has resulted in this study.

An attempt has been made in this study to assemble basic data, to analyze these data in terms of needed improvements, and to consider suggestions and recommendations for school improvement. The school and community leaders of the City of Iuka are to be commended for their interest in the development of a plan for school facility improvement.

Organization and Enrollment: The Iuka School District operates two schools. Iuka Elementary School contains grades Kindergarten through six, with Iuka High School providing facilities for grades 7 through 12. Refer to TABLE 1 and TABLE 2 for net membership and ADA data by grade at the end of month four of the 1988-89 school year for the elementary school and high school, respectively.

The Elementary School: The elementary school is in satisfactory to excellent condition. It is located in pleasant setting and is well maintained.

Permanent instructional areas consist of 29 regular classrooms and one library. Classes are being held in one portable classroom. refer to TABLE 3 for data concerning the number of available permanent instructional areas as compared to the number required to serve an ADA of 634.30.

The High School: The high school, for the most part, satisfactory condition. The old gymnasium and the Building are in poor condition, and the science facility inadequate for instructional activities in the sciences. One of the three science laboratories is in the Howard Building. Summary and General Recommendations

The Elementary School: The data reflect the fact that elementary school enrollment is at the point of capacity. If this school continues to serve grades K through six for an extended period of time, the recommendation made that an addition be constructed, immediately.

Consideration should be given to a design that would accommodate kindergarten classes. Three kindergarten classes are enrolled at present; however, four classes enrolled during 1987-88. The 1988-89 group appears one of those small classes that comes along from time and the number will probably return to four during 1989-90 school year. The recommendation is made that addition be designed to house no fewer than five sections.

The auxiliary support areas will accommodate significant enrollment increase with the exception of cafeteria. For the near future, the addition of a serving line will suffice. No additional space was required.

Finally, consideration should be given to the expansion of the parking area, the removal of the portable classroom and the construction of a canopy at the bus loading area.

The High School: The data reflect the fact that present enrollment at the high school is approximately 482 students below available classrooms. Some increase in pupil enrollment would not create an immediate problem. However, if the building continues to be used as the school, the recommendation is offered that an addition be constructed to provide instructional activities in the science. This area should include physics, chemistry, biology laboratories. The present science rooms converted for the instruction of general science.

A general renovation of this school plant is recommended. A good "face lift" is recommended, along with providing access to all school areas to the handicapped. Removal of asbestos, and some landscaping. Consideration should be given to the removal of the Howard Building, the old gymnasium. Perhaps, additional parking could be provided in these areas.

Options For Consideration

The following options are offered for consideration:
Option one: Continue to operate the schools as presently organized with the implementation of construction renovation as recommended:

Elementary School: Construction of the kindergarten (five classrooms), and consider other recommendations. High School: Renovation as recommended construction of a science addition (three laboratories) school as follows:

School	Grades	Present Enrollment
Iuka Elementary School	K-4
Iuka Middle School	5-8
Iuka High School	9-12

With this arrangement, expansion of the elementary school would not be necessary. The recommendation the high school would still apply.

Option Three: Construct a high school and organize schools as in Option Two. In this case, the elementary and science addition would not be necessary. The present high school would be renovated for use as a school.

Cost Estimates

The estimates provided in this study are limited to proximate costs of projects that have been recently completed in the north Mississippi area, and (2) consultants with technicians employed by the Public School Board Division of the State Department of Education.

Kindergarten Addition: The Winona School District constructed a kindergarten addition to the Winona Elementary School two years ago. This building contains an area enough for six classrooms and an activity area with approximately 1200 square feet. The cost, which includes architects' fees, was $335,000.

High School Building: The Pontotoc School District recently constructed a high school building with enrollment of 550-600 pupils for a cost of $2,600,000. amount included architects fees, bond issuance, and athletics fields were not moved and a gymnasium was included in the new school. This school is described by Superintendent as a "show case" with a number of excellent features.
Science Building Addition: This type of construction estimated by a State Department technician to cost approximately $100 per square foot. This includes equipment. This addition will require approximately 3000 square feet for a total of $300,000.

Free Access for the Handicapped: These alterations cost approximately $60,000.

Renovation: Estimate information concerning renovation of the high school can be obtained when the specific determined.

Asbestos Removal: According to the records of the Department of Education, there is present in 44,000 square feet of the school buildings in Iuka material that contains asbestos. The approximate cost of removal is $528,000.

Funding Potential

The assessed valuation of the Iuka School District is $18,586,827. Section 37-59-5 of the Mississippi Code limits school bonded indebtedness to no more than fifteen percent of the assessed value of the taxable property within the school district. This would yield a total of $2,788,024.

Outstanding bonded indebtedness at the end of the 1988 school year was in the amount of $355,000. However, present collections indicate that there will be available funds in the bond account to redeem the bond balance of FY 1990 or FY 1991. At present, there is a 9.5 mill levy for this purpose.

Lambert Wins Geography Bee

Nelson Lambert, an 8th grade student at Burnsville, Mississippi, won the National Geography Bee. He was the first place winner in the new National Geography Bee that is being sponsored by National Geographic World, the society's magazine for children. The Bee was kicked off the week of January 9 in thousands of schools around the United States and in four territories. The school winners, including Lambert, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state Bee April 7. The National Geographic Society will fly all first-place winners from the state Bees, along with their teacher escorts, to Washington, D.C., to participate in the National Geography Bee finals on May 18 and 19. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and the third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

The Bee featured questions on the broad subject of geography-the study of the earth and its inhabitants. All of the questions could be answered with a word or a simple phrase.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A nine-country Gallup Survey conducted for the Society last May found that people in the U.S. ages 18 to 24, the youngest group surveyed, knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries.

The National Geographic Society, which celebrated its centennial in 1988, has nearly 11 million members. Its mission is the "increase and diffusion of geographic knowledge." Besides the National Geography Bee, the Society is working on a number of other geography education initiatives, including the Summer Geography Institute for teachers, the National Geographic Society Education Foundation, and the Geographic Alliance Network, which currently involves 28 states.

ASCS Farm News

CRP SIGNUP OPEN
The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service reminds farmers that certain wetlands and other flood-prone lands are now eligible for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). The eight CRP signup opens February 6 and ends February 24.

During this signup, farmers may bid to enter cropland wetlands and cropland subject to scour erosion into the program provided the land meets other program requirements. To be eligible, the land must have been cropped in two of the five crop years from 1981 through 1985.

Designed to help farmers prevent or control critical soil erosion, the voluntary CRP removes eligible cropland out of farming into trees or other permanent vegetative cover. The program authorizes each farmer to receive up to $50,000 per year based on the bids per acre and the number of acres under the 10 year contract. Rental payments are made annually to producers with approved contracts, and cost-share payments are made after the approved conservation practice is completed.

To further the goal of improving water quality in streams and other water bodies, the ASCS official encourages farmers to establish filter strips, trees or grass on eligible CRP acres.

ASCS REMINDS FARMERS OF DEADLINE FOR DISASTER CLAIMS

County farmers who have not applied for assistance on their 1988 disaster-affected crops still have time to do so. The deadline is March 31, for filing applications on crop production losses caused by the drought.

To compensate producers for their 1988 crop losses, the Disaster Assistance Program will provide payments on most commercially-grown crops to all eligible producers. Farmers who lost more than 35 percent of their crop production during the disaster may be eligible for assistance.

Farmers are reminded of the emergency provision under the disaster program that allows farm program participants who received advance deficiency payments for the annual 1988 wheat, feed grains, cotton, or rice programs to retain that part of the advance payment which represents loss of crop production up to 35 percent of their normal production. To be eligible, producers must sign up under the Disaster Assistance Program. Farmers who did not request advance payments at the time of signing up for the annual program had until October 27, 1988 to request these payments.

125 farmers in the county had applied for disaster payments as of February 10, 1989.

Farmers who apply for the 1988 Disaster Assistance Program must furnish ASCS with acreage and crop production reports, and certify that they have complied with sodbuster and swam-buster provisions of the law.

USDA Offers Purchase Plan

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration is offering rural communities with water, sewer and other essential facility loans from FmHA an opportunity to purchase them at a discount, Acting FmHA Administrator Neal Sox Johnson said today.

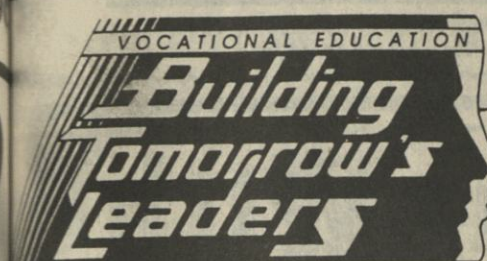

Letters explaining the purchase offer should reach borrowers throughout the country early this week, he said.

FmHA is required to raise $584 million from asset sales this fiscal year, the third sale mandated by the 1986 Reconciliation Act. Last year, more than $900 million was collected when borrowers bought 3,300 loans.

"We don't know what to expect in terms of purchases this year," Johnson said. "But if we don't raise enough in that way, we will have to consider other approaches, including a sale of loan assets, to enable us to meet the target."

No deposits will be required for loans purchased by March 9. For loans purchased between March 10 and May 9, a 5 percent good-faith deposit is required by March 9, and the sale must be completed by May 9.

The discount will depend on factors such as the loan's interest rate, type of financing, and maturity. Letters to borrowers include a "pricing grid" to help borrowers determine the discount.

Vocational Education Week Feb. 12-18, 1989

Leaders is what vocational education is all about. We invite you to visit the Tishomingo County Vocational Center (where training in 20 skill areas is offered either during the day or the night classes) and see firsthand the "building" in progress! We hope you will see our display at Walmart in Iuka also.

Local Proclamation

Vocational Education Week February 12-18, 1989

WHEREAS: The American Vocational Association has designated the week of February 12-18, 1989 as Vocational Education Week; and

WHEREAS: the theme for Vocational Education Week is Building Tomorrow's Leaders; and

WHEREAS: vocational education supplies our country with a strong, well-trained work force, which enhances productivity in business and industry and protects America's leadership in the international marketplace; and

WHEREAS: vocational education serves individual citizens by enables them to find satisfying careers that suit their own skills and interests, by providing technical skills that let them excel in their chosen careers, and by teaching leadership skills that serve them on the job, at home and in the community; and

WHEREAS: vocational education enhances high school students' education by offering practical, meaningful applications of basic skills such as reading, writing, and mathematics, thus improving the quality of their education, motivating those at risk of dropping out, and giving all students the potential to become leaders in their fields and in their communities; and

WHEREAS: vocational education stimulates the growth and vitality of businesses and industries and those of the entire nation by preparing workers for the occupations forecast to experience the largest and fastest growth in the next decade; and

WHEREAS: a strong vocational education program planned and carried out by trained vocational educators is vital to the future economic development of our community and vocational education, while only 20 percent of the jobs require a college degree. Not all students are cut out for college; some prefer to learn a trade and enter the working world. If we try to force these students into an academic mold, they are likely to become frustrated and drop out of high school.

If our nation is to regain its industrial competitiveness, a smarter, harder-working labor force will be essential. Today's vocational education students will make up the backbone of that force! These young people deserve an education suited to their interests and goals—whether they plan to go to work after high school, after one or more years of college, or after earning an advanced degree. Many of tomorrow's best and brightest leaders in business, industry, education, and government are building their skills today in vocational classrooms and shops. Many of these students are preparing for good-paying, satisfying careers in fields that were once closed to them.

The vital role vocational education plays in our society is emphasized when we consider these statistics:

1. Almost 16 million Americans are enrolled in our 26,000 secondary or post-secondary vocational education institutions;
2. Vocational education prepares about two million workers each year for the marketplace;
3. About 97 percent of all high school graduates take at least one vocational course in high school. Half of these take four or more courses; and
4. Sixty percent of all high school vocational graduates enter some form of post-secondary education with a success rate similar to that of general students.

In Tishomingo County a high school student can take a vocational course at our vocational center and still get all the academic subjects needed to meet the requirements for high school graduation and also meet the entrance requirements for college.

Building Tomorrow's

By: Gary Taylor
Vocational Director

Vocational Education Week (February 12-18) is an ideal time to consider what vocational education is all about! The aim of vocational education is to prepare highly skilled people for the work force—workers who have had "Hands-on" training (the most effective way of teaching for many students); workers who have had experience in working as a team, solving problems, and developing good work habits; and workers who have learned the importance of being dependable, cooperative, and punctual. Because of this type of training, vocational education gives students an edge in the highly competitive work world.

A recent directory of occupations released by the U.S. Labor Department indicates that fully 80 percent of the occupations now and in the future have ties to

Pre-Planning Provides Peace of Mind & Substantial Savings

Because some day, someone in every family will be faced with making funeral arrangements for a loved one, a Pre-Need Plan offered through Cutshall Funeral Home is designed to take unnecessary hardships out of a death in a family.

One big advantage of planning in advance is that a funeral is planned at today's values. While prices are escalating, your cost remains the same. You have greater flexibility than a pre-need trust or pre-paid funeral.

Example: A person pre-planning a $3,000 funeral at age 65 would pay $2,223, saving $777.00. At age 50 that person would pay $1,771, saving $1,229. (These figures are for example and funeral of different price and for persons of different ages would reflect similar savings. This pre-need plan offered through American Funeral Assurance Company is available from age 0 to 100)

Remember the Cutshall Pre-Need Funeral Plan offered through American Funeral Assurance Company guarantees future values at today's prices, regardless of the rate of inflation.

Find out how easy and beneficial a Pre-Need Plan provided through Cutshall Funeral Home can be. Mail this coupon or call for an appointment with one of our professional planners.

Thank You

I would like to thank everyone for their prayers, cards, visits, phone calls, flowers and food while I was in the E.C.M. Hospital and after I came home. I would also like to extend words of appreciation to Bro. Larry Finger for his visit when I was in the C.C.U., for Dr. Flannery's quick service, and the ambulance crew who were so nice.

May God bless each one.

Jehovah's Witnesses Attend Assembly

Jehovah's Witnesses from the Iuka Congregation attended a two-day assembly in Memphis, February 4th and 5th.

"Why Fear the True God" was the title of the public address given on Sunday by Don Emshoff, a district overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses. The speaker blamed moral breakdown and rise in crime and violence on human failure to fear God and show respect for right principles.

Emshoff explained, "Fear of God involves awe, a profound reverence, a wholesome dread of displeasing Jehovah. The person fearing God will endeavor to use knowledge in a right manner. His fear will move him to act wisely and make wise decisions. He will demonstrate a proper fear of God by avoiding works of the flesh. The Bible lists these at Galatians 5:19-21, and says, 'Those who practice such things will not inherit God's kingdom.' At Philippians 2:12 the apostle Paul wrote to those Christians, 'Keep working out your own salvation with fear and trembling.' Godly fear coupled with love is a protection against bad conduct."

The speaker listed other benefits: spiritual health, a close relationship with God and freedom to approach him in prayer, protection against the fear of man and the morbid fear of death caused by man.

Despite the bad weather of snow and ice the maximum attendance was 859.

Where were you in 02?

Happy Birthday You Two

Billy Scruggs, Chairman Of Mississippi Gem Society

The Mississippi Gem and Mineral Society is celebrating its 20th Anniversary with a special Gem and Mineral Show in the A & I Building at the State Fairgrounds on February 25 and 26, 1989. Show hours are 9 to 6 on Saturday and 10 to 6 on Sunday. Gemstones, custom engraved and hand crafted jewelry, mineral specimens, even dinosaurs will be featured.

Chairman of the Show Committee this year is Mr. Billy Scruggs. He and his wife, Rea, have lived in Tishomingo since 1962 and have been Society members for over 10 years. They started the Lapidary Workshop at the Gardens in 1981. For the last five years, they have had the Lapidary Workshop in their garage and have offered valuable assistance to interested members. Rea has helped in making and demonstrating jewelry by "wearing all that I can put on." They have participated in field trips throughout the south, and found the largest garnet in North Carolina, which she now wears in a ring. Mr. Scruggs is the son of Alameda Scruggs of Iuka.

This annual Gem and Mineral Show began in 1960 and has expanded each year. It is now known throughout the nation for its excellent exhibits and demonstrations. Each year, more than 20 retail dealers from across the United States will be present. Special exhibitors will be Bob Tims of Tucson, Arizona, with their channel jewelry; John Fishner of Greenville, Texas, with his dinosaur models and fossil reproductions; and Lois and Bill Patillo of Robstown, Texas, with their acclaimed rock food display. There will also be manufacturing dealers, working exhibits, touch and see exhibits, non-competitive and competitive exhibits, films, door prizes, and many special activities for children.

For anyone interested in gemstones, jewelry, minerals and fossils, the show is truly a delight. Detailed exhibits explain about the earth and its amazing treasures. Films and slide shows will show all phases of the earth sciences as well as specific facets of this fascinating hobby.

Retail dealers will have specimens for sale - for the collector, for the student, or for the hobbyist. Books and supplies will also be for sale. Manufacturing dealers will demonstrate how they make the things they sell, so people can see how they do it. (Dealers apply for exhibition privileges in the Mississippi Gem and Mineral Show and return by invitation only. The number of dealers is limited and there is a waiting list for applications.)

A very popular display will be presented by the local Lapidary Workshop. Members of this club will demonstrate how to cut and polish cabochons, how to make jewelry, and how to facet gemstones.

The "Touch and See" table will allow children to handle the various stones, minerals, fossils and other treasures from the earth. Members of the Society will be present to answer questions and tell

State "Earth Team"
The Tishomingo County Soil and Water Conservation District received the State "Earth Team" award for 1988. This award was presented to the District for work that they and their 25 Earth Team volunteers have done to promote conservation and wise use of our natural resources. The award was presented at the annual winter meeting of Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts in Jackson, MS, January 13, 1989. Receiving the awards for the District are L to R: Sidney Branch, visitors where these specimens can be found in our state. A special note: this table is especially for the blind, since the labels are in both regular and Braille writing. This table is presented by the Junior members of the Society. The Junior members are also conducting special games during the show, with prizes for the games and also hourly door-prizes.

Competitive exhibits are always eagerly anticipated in the Mississippi show. Judges are invited from all over the United States. These judges have received certification and are very knowledgeable about gems, minerals and fossils. In the past few years, the judges have been very meticulous and demanding in their standard for competitive exhibits, which has resulted in many of our local exhibitors placing quite well in the national competitions.

Ticket prices are $3.00 for adults/$1.50 for students. Group tickets are $2.75 for adults/$1.25 for students. This year, a special two-day ticket will be offered to adults for $5.00/students for $2.00. The two-day ticket will allow browsers all day Saturday to see everything that is offered; they can then come back on Sunday to make their purchases after having given lots of thought to their choices. And there's so much to see and so many beautiful things to choose from, coming back on Sunday is a wise decision.

I tell my teenage son that even if my decision is wrong - then before God I will be held accountable, and before God he will be blessed if he honors and obeys. I have heard children say repeatedly, "no matter what I do I cannot please my parents." I am here to tell you children or adults - one thing will bring pleasure to your parents - TRUST THEM.

If we, as young children learn to trust our earthly parents then trusting our heavenly Father comes much easier. We must trust God before we can please Him.

Today - start one step at a time. Ask God to forgive you ALL sins, trust Him to do it. Second step trust Him with every thought and every sentence you say. Trusting God with every step, one at a time will be the greatest thing you ever do in your life.

PROVERBS 6: 20-23 "My son keep thy fathers commandment, and forsake not the law of thy mother - 21 - Bind them continually upon thine heart, and tie them about thy neck: 22 - When thou goest, it shall lead thee; when thou sleepest, it shall keep thee; and when thou awakest, it shall talk with thee: 23 - For the commandment is a lamp; and the law is light; and reproofs of instruction are the way of life.

How Can We Please God?

Will we please God
1- If we give 5 hours a day to Bible reading?
2- Witness to 3 people every day?
3- Give 50% income on Sunday instead of 10%?
4- Never smoke, cuss, or drink?

These are good things to do, but the Bible tells Christians that it is impossible to please God without Faith. Faith is total trust. Our lives will drastically change when we begin to totally trust our heavenly Father:

1- To forgive all our sins.
2- To transform our hearts and desires.
3- To always do what is best for us, and always be with us.
4- To control all in our lives, even our enemies!
What do you think causes the pain - fear - trouble - accidents and fights in families? I believe it's the simple fact that children do not trust their parents to make the right decisions or judgements for their best interest. Parents are tormented with pain and react much of the time in anger because of

House Of Representatives

By Representative
Mack Loyd Wadkins

The state-funded charity hospitals at Laurel, Meridian and Vicksburg would be closed as of July 1 under one of the numerous bills approved by the House of Representatives during the past week in a drive by lawmakers to meet a crucial deadline.

Generally viewed as one of the session's hottest issues, the charity hospitals' bill was recommended by a Select House Committee and triggered lengthy debate before finally being passed, 68-52. Under the plan, an estimated $6 million going to the three hospitals would be shifted into the Medicaid program to be matched with federal dollars.

Backers said the legislation, if finally enacted, would allow an expansion of Medicaid to provide indigent health care for an additional 50,000 needy people throughout Mississippi, including children under age 5, elderly citizens, and the disabled. The ceiling on state funding for Medicaid would go from $100 million to $130 million.

House members differed sharply on the bill. Supporters said the proposal would mean better use of health care dollars and improved health care for the needy. Others said the hospitals provide a valuable service and should be allowed to stay in operation. An amendment was defeated that would have allowed for an expansion of Medicaid, but left the charity hospitals alone.

Overall, more than 90 bills cleared the House last week dealing with everything from tort reform to child abuse to hunting accidents. Legislators worked at a stepped-up pace despite a crippling ice storm which forced many school and businesses in the Jackson area to shut down. Most of the attention was expected to switch this week to revenue bills, appropriations, and general legislation passed by the opposite chamber as the 90-day session reaches its halfway point.

Among the last bills approved prior to last week's deadline was a bill to stiffen penalties for drunk driving, especially motorists under age 21. Under the measure, anyone convicted for a third DUI offense could be fined $1,000 and sentenced to up to three years in prison. Originally, the bill provided for the driver's car to be forfeited on a third conviction, but the felony penalty was substituted after some lawmakers said taking the car would unfairly penalize the violator's spouse and children in a one-car household.

Also approved in the final hours on the deadline day were bills to set up an educational program for gifted students in the public schools; extend the minimum school year for public school students from 175 to 180 days; revamp laws involving disposition of electric power associations and provide for arbitration of disputes; revise laws involving county purchasing; provide loans for persons to study nursing, occupational therapy and physical therapy; and keep elected officials from benefiting from issuance of bonds by government entities.

Several bills failed to survive last week's deadline for original floor action in the House and Senate on their own general bills. The casualties included measures to tighten bingo laws, permit school districts to operate day care programs, and allow dog-racing on a local-option basis. In addition, the House defeated a proposed constitutional amendment that would have let people vote on whether to allow lotteries in the state. An earlier lottery bill died in the Senate.

The general statute of limitations for filing damage suits in the state would be reduced from six to three years under a tort reform bill passed by the House. Other key features would prohibit an out-of-state damage suit from being filed in Mississippi if the statute of limitations has expired in the state where the cause of action occurred. And the bill revises the doctrine of joint and several liability in cases involving more than one defendant, providing for payment of damages according to a defendant's percentage of fault as determined in a separate legal action.

Sponsors said the bill is a reasonable compromise and deals with the issue of tort reform in a significant manner. Others maintained the bill didn't go far enough for meaningful reform. A separate bill involving product liability actions died when the House refused to let the bill be called up on the deadline day.

Other measures winning House approval last week would:

--Allow school districts to charge a reasonable fee for workbooks and other instructional materials; no fee would be required of any pupil not able to pay. The bill follows an Attorney General's opinion that current laws do not authorize such fees.

--Require any inmates sentenced to the state penitentiary after January 1, 1990, to pass a literacy test to become eligible for parole; inmates with mental problems or learning disabilities would be exempt.

--Tighten child abuse laws and set a maximum 30-year sentence for felonious mistreatment of a child resulting in serious bodily harm; another House bill makes it a misdemeanor for certain people such as doctors, teachers and law enforcement officers to fail to report suspected cases of child abuse or neglect.

The House voted to establish a uniform commercial driver's license as required by new federal laws, update laws dealing with credit life insurance, provide for regulation of infectious wastes by state health officials and the Department of Natural Resources, and extend a 1986 state law to protect senior citizens and other vulnerable adults from neglect, abuse and exploitation.

Another bill winning House approval would make it a felony to abuse or exploit nursing home residents. The measure was expanded to include hospitals, rehabilitation centers and other institutions providing health care to the elderly.

In addition, the scores of bills passed by the House included proposals to delete references to the defunct poll tax from the state constitution; make motorboat operators subject to the state's implied consent law for influence of alcohol; expand the authority of wildlife conservation officers to investigate hunting accidents; provide for accreditation of workers involved in removing asbestos from schools and other public buildings; establish a dairy promotion act; authorize a compensation program for crime victims; permit appointment of special trial judges under certain conditions; bring child support laws in line with federal requirements; and the state's enterprise law; and revise some court laws.

A bill was passed which calls for the state's oil and gas severance tax to be paid into the educational trust fund with 10 percent of that adding 10 percent to all of the state's funds into the fund by Fiscal 2000.

Anyone convicted of a capital crime would become eligible for parole under another measure. At present, a convicted of a capital crime can get a parole after 10 years. The bill also provides more flexibility in eligibility for armed forces and specifies that a person shall be eligible for parole if the victim was under 18.
