New Central Office Equipment In Iuka

South Central Bell has announced plans for the installation of new state-of-the-art digital central office equipment in Iuka. Installation of the new equipment is scheduled to begin next week and should be completed by December 15, according to Tom Bailey, District Manager for South Central Bell.

Bailey said the new switching system, which will serve all Iuka customers, is part of South Central Bell's plan to convert to an all digital network capable of bringing the advantages of the information age to Northeast Mississippi.

The digital equipment, a Remote Network Switch built by Stromberg-Carlson, is basically an advanced computer consisting of thousands of tiny transistors and integrated circuits. Telephone numbers and other local calling information will be stored in its memory banks.

"New digital long distance lines and switching equipment are bringing us a lot closer to the day when people will use their telephone to shop and bank from home, retrieve information from electronic libraries and data banks, and send or receive virtually any information they want," Bailey said. "In fact, once the new digital network is completed in 1990, South Central Bell will have the facilities in place to provide our customers with the most up-to-date communications technology available in the world today."

"Unfortunately, South Central Bell is currently prohibited by Judge Harold Greene and the Modified Final Judgment from manufacturing the equipment and providing the data banks that would make these services available to the average customer," Bailey said. "This legal barrier is the only thing that prevents this country from having the same type of advanced communications systems that now exist in many European countries."

"However, there is a piece of legislation before Congress right now that, if passed, would remove that barrier," Bailey said. The bill, called the Consumer Telecommunications Act of 1989, is designed to bring new and innovative consumer services to the American public by allowing the Bell Operating Companies to enter the equipment manufacturing and information providing markets.

The new switching system will also pave the way for South Central Bell's new Area Calling Plan, which will be available December 16, 1989. "This exciting new type of local service will enable customers to call within an expanded area at lower, distance-measured local rates without dialing a '1' before the number," Bailey said. "The expanded area for Iuka will include Burnsville, Tishomingo, Belmont, Corinth and Rienzi."

The Area Calling Plan gives customers greater control over their phone bills, while offering substantially lower rates on calls to area exchanges that are currently long distance," Bailey said. "For example, under this plan, a 5-minute daytime call to Corinth will cost only $.22. The same call at long distance rates would cost $.98."

"We will be making more information on the plan available to Iuka customers soon," Bailey said. "However, customers who would like more information now can call a service representative at 1-557-6500."

As the new equipment is installed, South Central Bell coin telephones in Iuka will be converted to dial-tone first service, which means that callers will hear a dial tone when they pick up the coin set's receiver to place a call. "They will be able to dial emergency calls from a coin telephone to 911 or '0' without depositing any money," Bailey said. "In addition, dial-tone first sets will allow callers to reach directory assistance in Mississippi (1+411 and 1+555-1212) and to place 1+800, credit card, and 1+ calls (billed to a third number or collect) without needing to deposit coins."

Modifications must be made in existing coin sets to provide dial-tone first capability. All of the coin sets in Iuka will be converted by December 20.

"We're excited by the possibilities of this new switch," Bailey said. "I'm certain we will see some amazing advances in new features added to this system in the years ahead. It holds great promise in transforming our telephone network into something altogether more flexible, useful and dynamic."

"And I personally am delighted to see the progress in Tishomingo County that means South Central Bell can commit the kind of resources to help prepare for what's to come in the future," Bailey said.

Medium Flavors: A moderate amount of these is recommended-one to two teaspoons for six servings. They are basil, celery seed and leaves, dill, fennel, French tarragon, garlic, marjoram, mint, oregano, savory (winter and summer), thyme and turmeric.

Delicate Flavors: These may be used in large quantities and combine well with most other herbs and spices. This group includes burnet, (plants in the rose family), chervil, chives and parsley.

Other options are interesting herb blends that can be placed in shakers and used instead of salt:

Saltless Surprise: Two teaspoons garlic powder and one teaspoon each of basil, oregano and powdered lemon rind (or dehydrated lemon juice). Put ingredients into a blender and mix well. Store in glass containers, label well and add rice to prevent caking.

Pungent Salt Substitute: Three teaspoons basil, two teaspoons each of savory (summer savory is best), celery seed, ground cumin seed, sage and marjoram, and one teaspoon lemon rind. Mix well and pulverize.

Spicy Saltless Seasoning: One teaspoon each of cloves, pepper and coriander seed (crushed), two teaspoons paprika and one teaspoon rosemary. Mix ingredients in a blender. Store in an airtight container.

Here are some guidelines on what spices and herbs go with what foods:

Soups: bay, chervil, French tarragon, marjoram, parsley, savory, rosemary.

Poultry: garlic, oregano, rosemary, savory, sage.

Beef: bay, chives, cloves, cumin, garlic, hot peppers, marjoram, rosemary, savory.

Lamb: garlic, marjoram, oregano, rosemary, thyme (make little slits in lamb to be roasted and insert herbs).

Pork: coriander, cumin, garlic, ginger, hot peppers, pepper, sage, savory, thyme.

SUMMER CARE OF HORSES

With the Northeast District 4-H Horse Show starting tomorrow and the State 4-H Horse Show just a week away, I thought a review of steps to take in caring for your horse during the summer heat might be useful! Hot, dry summer weather can cause problems for horses that owners need to take steps correct.

Horses need shade or some way to get away from direct sunlight. If horses are stabled, the facility should be well-ventilated. Fans can be used to move air and keep the horses more comfortable.

Clean fresh water is essential. Horses should have access to water at all times (except when the horse is overheated or has just been exercised). Fresh running water is preferable to ponds. A horse's water intake increases as the temperature goes up.

Dry pastures can cause hooves to become dry and brittle. If possible, provide a wet area (such as an overflowing water tank) to resupply hoof moisture. Trimming and proper application of hoof dressing may become necessary.

Salt should be available at all times in an easily accessible place where horses congregate. A loose, trace-mineralized salt is best.

Short pastures in summer can cause serious problems for growing foals and nursing broodmares. The best way to determine the amount of extra feed to use is the condition of the horses.

Foals need to continue to grow properly and mares do not need to lose weight. If pastures become excessively poor, hay should be provided.

Short pastures also can increase the exposure to internal parasites, therefore, a deworming program is essential.

HERB COOKERY

Herbs can provide creative, tasteful alternatives to salt for flavoring foods. Through the skillful use of herbs and spices, imaginative flavors can be created and simple foods made into gourmet delights.

Herbs and spices differ only in that herbs tend to be plants grown in temperate areas while spices grow in tropical regions. Many people prefer to grow their own herbs to have a fresh supply through-out the growing season, thereby assuring top quality.

Professional cooks prefer fresh herbs, if available. But fresh herbs are less concentrated, and two to three times as much should be used if a recipe calls for dried herbs.

There are no strict limits to the use of herbs. A good general rule is not to mix two very strong herbs together. Rather, one strong and one or more milder flavors create the most harmonious blends.

Here are some tips for cookings with herbs and spices:

In general, the weaker the flavor of the main food in the recipe, the lower the level of added seasoning required to achieve a satisfactory balance of flavor in the end product.

Dried herbs are stronger than fresh, and powdered herbs are stronger than crumbled. A useful formula is: one-fourth teaspoon powdered herbs equals three-fourths to one teaspoon crumbled equals two teaspoons fresh.

Strong Flavors: These should be used with care-approximately one teaspoon for six servings of a recipe-since their flavors stand out. They include bay, cardamon, curry, ginger, hot peppers, mustard, black pepper,

ADULT ORTHODONTICS

Q. What is the time frame for orthodontics for adults compared to similar work for children?

A. It takes longer to correct adult teeth. The reasons are understandable. With time, the jawbone calcifies and becomes more dense, so the process of moving teeth requires a longer period. This extra time is vital because moving them too fast could damage their roots.

Also, the adult mouth may have problems which have developed over time, such as gum disease. Where such problems exist, ample time for treatment must be allowed before the orthodontic work can begin. However, no matter how much time is required, the ultimate results of adult orthodontics can make a very real and positive difference to the person who needs it.

FLUID FERTILIZERS

There are several reasons for the popularity of fluid fertilizers in Tishomingo County. Fluids are easier to handle than dry fertilizers. They can be loaded with a pump, and they usually require less labor to handle.

Another reason for the popularity of fluid fertilizers is some pesticides can be injected into the fluid, saving a trip across the field.

An experienced dealer can easily custom-blend fluid fertilizers to an individual situation.

Properly applied, fluid fertilizers are no less efficient than dry fertilizers. Most of the fluid brands use the same ingredients in their makeup as do dry ones.

a driver to lose control, but a fastened seat belt would hold the driver in place behind the steering wheel where he or she can maintain control," Terrell noted.

"Many drivers who don't use seat belts think they can brace themselves to prevent injuries, not realizing the force involved," said Roy Thigpen, director of Federal-State Programs' Department of Criminal Justice Planning. "In a collision, the vehicle begins to crush and slow down on impact, but individuals inside are moving forward at the same speed the vehicle was traveling. When the vehicle comes to a stop, passengers who are not wearing seat belts are still moving forward, slamming into the dashboard, windshield or other interior surfaces. With a fastened seat belt, they will stop before this happens."

Terrell added that "buckled seat belts are important at all speeds, and every family member, including babies, should use seat belts when traveling. Car seats for children, however, and effective only if stalled correctly. Because there are types available, should follow instructions carefully. In an accident, a child held on an adult's lap may be forced against the dashboard by the weight and crushed. "Fastening your seat belt is an easy and effective way to take before leaving the driveway", Terrell said. "We want everybody's seat belt to be fun and not a source of deaths or injuries on the highway."

Vacationers Urged To Use Seat Belts

Vacation time for many Mississippians is fast approaching, and probably no one likes to think about highway accidents...but they do happen. If an accident occurs, a fastened seat belt can make the difference between death or serious injuries and escaping virtually unharmed, according to the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs' Highway Safety Division (HSD).

"In some cases, using seat belts could actually keep minor accidents from becoming major," said HSD Director Billy Terrell. "A driver could be thrown from

Commission Holds First Meeting

The Iuka Historic Preservation Commission held an organizational meeting on Tuesday, June 27th at the Library. Chairperson, Dr. Adrienne Phillips, called the meeting to order. Those present included members, Daisy Biggs, Horace Ledgewood, Dickie Lomenick, Bette Nelson, Lucille Pruitt, Jean Sims, Robert Sims and ex-officio member, mayor-elect David Nichols.

The members elected Bette Nelson, Vice-Chairperson and Horace Ledgewood, Secretary-Treasurer.

Bette Nelson presented a report on the historic preservation projects already in progress in the Iuka area. One of these projects involves the erection of a Civil War monument on Highway 25 at the site of the Battle of Iuka. Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sims, Representative Mack Lloyd Watkins, Mayor Johnny Biggs and Mr. Elbert Hilliard, Director of the Department of Archives and History, the State Highway Department has agreed to allow the city of Iuka to erect a monument on the state highway right-of-way. For the city to maintain this privilege, some type of marker must be placed on the site within one calendar year.

Another project that is currently underway is an historical survey of Iuka, commissioned by the City of Iuka and the Department of Archives and History. The purpose of the survey is to determine what buildings and sites are eligible for the state historical register. The survey is to be conducted over a period of nine months and will be conducted by Ms. Joan Embree of Starkville, Mississippi.

Other projects discussed by the Commission included the need for state historical markers at Goyer Cemetery,

Sunshine Homemakers

The Sunshine Homemaker's Club met June 21st at the home of Lila Daniel for their regular monthly meeting. The president Joan Strickland called the meeting to order with the thought for the month, "The grass is greener on the other side, but just as hard to mow."

Lila Daniel gave the devotional on "Friendship, Love, and Kindness," using scriptures from Eph. 4:32, John 15:13 and Rom. 12:10. She read a poem entitled "Friendship", stating that there is no price put on true friendship. She then led in prayer.

We were happy to have Nellie Horton as our special guest and she gave an interesting report on "Water conservation in the home." Water is something that the average person takes for granted and they fail to realize that the shortage of water is a potential problem all over the country. She pointed out some very helpful ways to conserve water in the home and the importance of developing good water-use habits.

The meeting adjourned and the hostess served delicious refreshments. Those present other than those mentioned were Pearl Adams, Virgie Whitehurst and Lola Vandiver.

The July Meeting will be held at Joan Strickland's.

People Unaware They Are Eligible For S.S. Benefits

There is more to Social Security than benefits for persons over 62 years-of-age. Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group has been researching the Social Security system and the benefits it provides since 1972. One finding is that, of the 50 million persons now collecting benefits, more than 15 million are under 62 and, surprisingly, the average age is only about 30.

Robert L. Berko, consumer writer and executive director of the Center, says the organization has been publishing and updating a complete list of available benefits (and how to qualify for them) for the past 16 years. The Guide offers consumers of all ages an awareness of the benefits they are entitled to under the latest laws. The 12th update (a complete 1989 revision) is now available.

The book contains a form to get a copy of your Social Security account showing all credits and an estimate of the amount you will get upon retirement or disability. It is important to check your account frequently since the SSA will not alter records more than three years old. In many cases, the study found, workers have had too much deducted from their wages and were due a refund. In other cases employers had not sent the correct amount to be credited to accounts. If you have records of the amount deducted, you will be credited with that money and the employer's share whether or not he ever sent the money to the government.

The 240-large-page 1989 Consumers Guide to Social Security Benefits Including Medicare is available for $9 (plus $2 P&H) from CERC, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, NJ 07050 or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 (with credit card).

"Billions of dollars go unclaimed," says Mr. Berko, "because many workers do not realize they are eligible for benefits." Among the findings of the study group and included in the Guide are:

"In some cases parents of a deceased worker are eligible for benefits even if they never paid into the system."

"Many children are eligible for benefits even though their parents never paid into the system."

"Minor children and surviving spouse of a person who has worked under the SS system for as little as one day in each of six annual quarters can collect benefits."

"Income from investments, interest, annuities, rentals and royalties are not considered in determining eligibility—nor is income from a business in which the person was owner or partner if payments are made as a retirement benefits, purchase of equity or any of the above. Only income listed as payment for actual work will affect retirement benefits. And after age 70 even that restriction is lifted."

"The Supplementary Security Income (SSI) program provides benefits to aged, blind, and disabled persons even if these recipients own cars, homes or other assets. No lien is taken against these assets and a person cannot be disqualified because relatives are financially able to support the recipient."

"A divorcee (either sex) is eligible for benefits when the ex-spouse starts collecting retirement or disability payments if she is 62 or older and was married to the covered worker at least 10 years. If the divorcee was later married and that marriage ended in death or divorce, this will not affect eligibility."

Mr. Berko tells us that, "Even if you are eligible, you will not receive checks unless you apply." For that reason Consumers Guide to Social Security Benefits tells you how to apply and what to say.

The study and the book were done, the consumer leader says, because so many people contacted his organization for information they could not easily get from the Social Security Administration. People complained of not being able to contact the Social Security office because the phone lines were constantly busy.

Strangely, the agency does not publish a comprehensive book for consumers that would inform them of all benefits due under Social Security and who is eligible. In past years there were many pamphlets available which described various phases of the program but under austerity budget, many of these have been discontinued and plans for new booklets scrapped. To make things worse, no office has a complete set of the few 1989 pamphlets that are supposed to be available.

"The fact 1989 has brought 'catastrophic coverage' and other changes makes it vital that everyone have a book which reveals all well-known and little-known benefits. There is no risk in ordering this book. The risk lies in not having the guide and losing an untold amount of benefits," says Mr. Berko.

New Forester Registration Law Passes

The 1989 Legislature has amended the Foresters Registration Act. The purpose of the amendment, which becomes effective July 1, 1989, is to insure that the public receives forestry services from well trained professionals.

Mississippi is a forested state with over 16 million acres or 55 percent of the state's total area in commercial forest land. The forest resource is vital to the state's economy. Since 1980, over $2.5 billion has been spent on new or expanded forest industry facilities and another $1.5 billion will be spent by the early 1990's. These expenditures create jobs especially in rural counties. There are approximately 55,000 forest related jobs in Mississippi.

In addition to jobs in manufacturing plants, there are many other occupations created by well managed forests such as tree planters, timber harvesters, pesticide applicators, heavy equipment operators, timber buyers, cruisers and markers. None of these are affected by the amendments.

The new law covers those individuals who offer professional forestry services to the public. In the future, such individuals must be licensed by the Board of Registration for Foresters. Licensees must have a BS degree or higher in forestry, pass a comprehensive written examination and satisfy other requirements administered by the Board of Registration.

The law in no way restricts the forest landowner in the practice of forestry on his or her land. It offers a vehicle for those landowners relying on others for forest management advice to insure they receive such advice from qualified professionals.

For additional information, persons should contact the Mississippi Board of Registration for Foresters, P.O. Box FR, Mississippi State, MS 39762.

Pre-Planning Provides Peace of Mind & Substantial Savings

Because some day, someone in every family will be faced with making funeral arrangements for a loved one, a Pre-Need Plan offered through Cutshall Funeral Home is designed to take unnecessary hardships out of a death in a family.

One big advantage of planning in advance is that a funeral is planned at today's values. While prices are escalating, your cost remains the same. You have greater flexibility than a pre-need trust or pre-paid funeral.

Example: A person pre-planning a $3,000 funeral at age 65 would pay $2,223, saving $777.00. At age 50 that person would pay $1,771, saving $1,229. (These figures are for example and funeral of different price and for persons of different ages would reflect similar savings. This pre-need plan offered through American Funeral Assurance Company is available from age 0 to 100)

Remember the Cutshall Pre-Need Funeral Plan offered through American Funeral Assurance Company guarantees future values at today's prices, regardless of the rate of inflation.

Find out how easy and beneficial a Pre-Need Plan provided through Cutshall Funeral Home can be. Mail this coupon or call for an appointment with one of our professional planners.

Miss Science Institute

"Science for Citizenship" institute at The University of Mississippi. Dr. Hein, who is a member of the Old Miss

School of education faculty, helped coordinate the four week summer program for middle and junior high school science teachers in 22 North Mississippi counties. Sponsored by the Division of Teacher Preparation and Enhancement of the National Science Foundation, the program offers teachers the opportunity to update, expand and refine their teaching skills.

Strategic Defense, while Dena chose Marine Science. The girls truly enjoyed a wonderful experience, learned a lot, and were able to be put in touch with people in high rankings in the career fields they chose.

The girls would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. William Wayne Barnett for their kindness in taking them on the trip.

Stop! Thieves

The Corps of Engineers would like to remind everyone visiting the Tenn-Tom Waterway to secure their valuables while engaged in recreational activities. How? By making it difficult for thieves to run off with your property.

Below are a few ways to help:

1. If you are going on an extended boating trip, have someone launch your vessel then pick you up at a predetermined time and location.

2. When camping, secure all pilferable items inside a vehicle. You should do this EVEN INSIDE a campground with a gate attendant, since the gate attendant cannot keep surveillance on all parts of the campground at all times. Remember, thieves also go camping!!

3. Lock your vehicle when camping or if you plan to be away from it.

4. Write the serial numbers of your equipment on a piece of paper and keep the paper in a safe place.

5. For items that don't have serial numbers (such as ice coolers) place an identifiable mark in an inconspicuous place.

6. If persons make frequent trips past an area, report their actions with a brief description of them, and their vehicle or vessel (tag or ID number if possible) to a ranger or deputy sheriff.

It's difficult to stop all acts of theft, but you can slow it down considerably by taking precautions.

Local Girls Attend Science Conference

April 2 and 3, two young women from Iuka High School attended the Women's Science and Technology Conference held at the Gay Inn, downtown Jackson. The two girls, Dena and Rhea, are 7th graders who have high moral standards, good grades, and hope to pursue a career in the field of science.

The girls interested in the conference submitted an essay of what their career goals were. The winning essays, written by Miss Rhea Harris and Miss Dena, pertained to the field of medicine. Christe, who hopes to become a surgeon, and Dena, who hopes to attend Vanderbilt University while Dena hopes to attend Mississippi University for Women and become a veterinarian. While at the conference, the girls learned many things. That night, they attended "The Mars Show" at the Davis Planetarium. The next day the girls attended the actual conference and enjoyed listening to the key note speaker, Dr. Sandra Harpole. Dr. Harpole is the assistant professor of the Department of Physics and Astronomy at Mississippi State University.

The girls were allowed to choose three out of the eight hour long panel sessions to attend throughout the day. Out of the eight sessions, the girls both chose Telecommunications and Computer Technology and Health Technology. Christe also chose Aeronautics, Space Technology, and

Miss Ashlea Enlow Crowned Queen

Lovely Miss Ashlea Enlow, 8 year old daughter of Greg and Danette Enlow of Iuka, was recently crowned as Little League Queen for the 1989 season in the Iuka Dixie Minor League division. Ashlea and her escort, Dan Aldridge, 8 year old son of Danny and Gayla Aldridge, represented the Tishomingo County News baseball team. The amount collected by Ashlea and her team, $616.50, set a new record for the highest amount raised in this division. Team member Brett Embry added $230 to the total by selling the most tickets.

Letter To The Editor

I am a 1964 graduate of High School. After graduation, I joined the U.S. Air Force, and have spent the last 24 years roaming the globe. While stationed here in Iuka (for the third time), I decided to meet another Iuka resident, Peggy (Vess) Hale. She told me that she received

The Belmont News & Vidette, and that I was welcome to read them. Having lost touch with many of my old friends and relatives, I readily accepted her offer. I enjoyed the paper so much, I decided to get my own subscription. Each issue is carefully scanned for familiar names, faces, and places. I was delighted to read of Hayden Ables's election to Chancery Clerk and Donnie Brown's successful insurance business (both former classmates). In more recent issues, I have shared your sadness when the violent storms left many people, members of my own family (Great-uncle Ted and Great-aunt Wilma Walker) included, homeless. I then found out that the old community spirit is still alive and well in Iuka, when all of the friends and families came together to salvage hope from chaos.

I also cheered when I read of the successes of the high school sports teams, in particular the triumphs of the baseball team.

The Heritage Day issue was excellent. I must confess that I learned more about the history of Iuka from that issue than I did during the four years I attended school there.

Whenever I come across a familiar name or face, particularly family or family friends, I send the article to my mother, Mrs. Lillian (Walker) Carpenter in Florida. I realize this is a longish letter, but I just wanted to let you know how much I have enjoyed your newspaper. I will definitely be renewing my subscription.

"The Scopes Trial"

Historic Jacinto Courthouse near Corinth, MS, will again be the scene of a trial by jury when "The Scopes Trial: Destiny in Dayton" is performed there July 6-7-8-9.

The original play, written by Frank Chapin, is based on the actual transcript of the 1925 Dayton, TN, trial which pitted nationally noted attorneys Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan against one another.

"Scopes" was first staged last July in the same East Tennessee County Courthouse where John Thomas Scopes, a young biology teacher, was tried for teaching the theory of evolution contrary to a new state law.

Hank Worsham and Lewis Floyd, both veteran Corinth Theatre-Arts performers, portrayed the Darrow and Bryan roles in Dayton and will do so again in the Jacinto production. Chapin, a former CT-A resident director now of New York City, is directing the Alcorn County production.

Mark Tilley is portraying the accused Scopes. Others cast in the play in the roles of attorneys, jurors, witnesses, sheriff, judge and clerk include Bo Mitchell, Jody McKewen, Tony Gates, Matt McWhirter, Clay Crockett and Clay Crockett Jr., Tony Stella, Vic Marlar, Chig Biggers, Tom Wilemon, Harry Lockett, Mike McClamrock, Jeremy Glidewell, Bob Scott and Bobby Scott, Neal Atkins, Hayden Worsham and Jan Pike, according to Director Chapin.

The Jacinto Foundation which operates to preserve the 135 year-old courthouse and its surrounding grounds, will benefit from the proceeds of the performances.

Tickets will be $6 per person, according to Betsy Whitehurst, Foundation director. Seating will not be reserved and tickets will be sold at the door, she said.

Performance times will be at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 6-7-8, and at 3 on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, July 8-9.

Jacinto is located in southeast Alcorn County east of Highway 45. It originally was the county seat of Old Tishomingo County until 1870 when the one large county was divided into Alcorn, Prentiss and Tishomingo counties.

The beautiful old brick structure, built in 1854, is reminiscent of Colonial Williamsburg and was saved from destruction in 1964. It has been authentically restored and refurbished.

Chapin noted that several non-speaking jury roles are open and will be selected from the audience. Information can be obtained by calling (901)286-8662.

What's Happening At Coleman State Park

This past weekend was the second big holiday weekend for the recreational summer. Despite the rain and inclement weather conditions, the park's facilities were utilized to over capacity rate.

On Saturday, July 1, 1989, Coleman State Park, local businessess of Iuka, Tishomingo County, and Northeast Mississippi helped to sponsor the annual Fireworks

Show. Even though it rained, this special event took place, as planned, and the crowd of an estimated 600 people enjoyed a good fireworks display. The crowd was also entertained by "Southern Railroad" of Red Bay, AL. We want to thank everyone who came out in the bad weather to support Coleman park and one of it's planned activities.

Because of the favorable response from the park's visitors, we are planning to schedule a street dance for Labor Day Weekend. When the plans for this activity are finalized, we will inform the public of the details.

At the present time we have two events sponsored for July: an Art Show which will be at the restaurant on July 8-9, and an Antique Car Show on July 15, 1989. We encourage everyone to take advantage of these activities.

We wish to thank the following companies and individuals for their support in making our fireworks show and street dance successful:

Southern Railroad Band, Coca Cola of Corinth, Second Shoppe, Pizza Hut, Inc., Briarwood Mobile Homes, River Bend, Inc., R.H. Miller Company, Weather's Body Shop, Rogers LP-Gas Company, First American National Bank, P.O. Beard Real Estate, Waterway Marine, L.E. Ms. Zettler Receives Scholarship

The Mississippi Press Association Education Foundation awarded its first two journalism scholarships at the Association's annual meeting in Biloxi. "The purpose of the Foundation is to promote the advancement of journalism in our State and to help worthy students," said Ken Prillhart, Chairman of the MPA Education Foundation.

In addition to the Foundation's own scholarship, the MPA announced that the Tom C. Parry Journalism Scholarship has been established through the Association's Education Foundation. The annual scholarship has been named for Tom Parry who serves as President of Mississippi Chemical and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Newsprint South, Inc. NSI has designed and built the state's first newsprint mill. Located in Grenada County, the new 224,000 ton-per-year mill will begin operations in July.

This year's Foundation scholarship was awarded to a University of Mississippi junior, Linda Zettler of Golden, Mississippi. Miss Zettler has served on the staff of The Itawamba County Times (Fulton, MS) and The Red Bay News (Alabama) since 1981 while completing high school and her first two years of college. Her journalistic talents have already been recognized by awards won in newspaper contests in 1987 and 1988.

The recipient of the Tim Parry Journalism Scholarship is Tara Hart of Louisville, Mississippi. Miss Hart is a junior at the University of Mississippi. She is currently working as a summer intern at the Starkville Daily News and is helping to run the Webster Progress Times at Eupora. While working on a journalism degree at the University of Mississippi, she serves on the staff of the Daily Mississippian.

"Since Mississippi

Chemical has a history of supporting educational endeavors, it is only fitting for our paper mill, Newsprint South, Inc., to help students majoring in journalism," stated Tom Parry. This will be an on-going project, and each year at the Mississippi Press Association's annual convention a scholarship will be awarded to a deserving journalism student.

Charles Dunagin, president of the Mississippi Press Association stated, "Throughout Parry's years as President of Mississippi Chemical, he has not only been an effective business leader but has been very interested in higher education. This new scholarship that he has established will help promote careers in journalism."

Club To Meet

The Happy Excelsior Club of the Iuka parish will meet Thursday July 6, at Mt. Evergreen UMC at 12:00 noon. There will be a covered dish noon meal and a program.

Note of Thanks

We would like to thank all our family and many friends who have reached out to us in so many ways during John and Todd's accident and recovery. Words cannot fully express the heartfelt appreciation we feel for the many acts of love, kindness, concern, and support given our family. Thank you for the many cards, phone calls, visits, and gifts of money that have been sent to the boys during our long stay in Tupelo. Thanks to all the churches and people who have sent love offerings and prayed so fervently for John and Todd's recovery. This has been a long and hard road, but with God's help and wonderful friends like all of you, we have made it.

Also, we would like to thank the V.F.W. Hut and all the wonderful family and friends who planned and worked so hard making the benefit fish fry a great success. We were so touched by this huge act of love on the part of so many. To all who helped prepare the food, served, or donated your time, we shall ever be grateful. To the merchants and all the people who supported, or made donations, we thank you.

Another special thank you is extended to Jerry Holly and the Iuka Dixie Youth League for their kindness and help during our misfortune.

Thanks also to Dr. Kitchens and the Staff of Tishomingo Hospital for the care they gave John and Todd while there in the emergency room and in their transfer to North MS Medical Center.

May God always bless each of you in a very special way is our prayer, because you truly lightened our load during this time.

We love all you dearly,
Isaac, Kathy, John,
Tony and Todd Williams

Earlier Period Of Time Recounted

Mrs. Lila Nixon of Tishomingo shares the following news item concerning her grandfather, the late Jim E. Shackelford. The article was copied from an October 1936 edition of The Primitive Baptist.

BIOGRAPHICAL

I was born in old Tishomingo County, Miss., on the 22nd day of August, 1854. In 1861 the Civil War broke out. My father was a union man as long as there was any union; and when the union was no longer he was for his country. He joined the southern army and was elected captain in company H in the 26th Mississippi regiment of infantry. He served in war and in prison until October, 1864, when he was exchanged at Fort Delaware and came home and found our country, almost in a destitute condition, but being courageous, he went to work and being a good farmer, soon built back the ruins of the war.

I stayed on the farm with my father until I was nearly 20 years old. By this time I had found a beautiful 16 year old girl, Miss Josie Ryan, and we married Oct. 5, 1873. We lived in the home with my father for about 18 months, then we thought it best to get out and manage for ourselves. My father gave me a small tract of land, so I built a house on it, and wife and I went to work and opened up a little farm and went to farming. We thought we were making it fine and were as happy as children could be, but in the course of time it seemed that all the castles we had built for the future began to decay, and all the flowers that we had strewn in our future pathway had become withered. But we decided to press on, and I thought we were doing fine again, and everything was going well with us until I was about 22 years old. Then a feeling came over me that I had never felt before and I began to wonder, "What does all this mean?" I soon began to see that I was a condemned sinner in the sight of God. My first impulse was to try to pray, and I began to call upon God to have mercy on me, a vile and wretched sinner as I saw myself to be. I went on in this condition for nearly three years, when I had lost all hope of there being any mercy for me and thought I was condemned to die. On a certain night in August, 1879, I verily believed that I should never see the sun rise again, and I thought if I died in that condition eternal woe and misery would be my doom. But about the hour of midnight, another feeling suddenly came upon me, which filled my heart and soul with joy and praise to God, and there was a man standing in front of me clothed in white. I reached forth my arms to embrace Him, but he disappeared from me and left me to pour out my joy in tears. My soul was filled with love. It seemed to me that I loved all humanity. My mind then was centered on Mackey's Creek Church. I thought I would go to the church and tell them what had occurred with me and ask them for a home, but before the time arrived I began to doubt and think I was mistaken and would deceive those good people, and my love for the cause was such that I could not do that; so I went on in doubts and fears, making vows and breaking them, until a greater trouble came upon me. It was a strong impression that if I joined the church I would have to enter the stand and try to proclaim the riches of God's grace to His dear children, and this was more than I could bear. All this time I had a great desire to join the church, and I thought as soon as I could get relieved of those impressions I would offer myself to the church. But it seemed the impressions grew stronger day by day, so I decided that the best way for me to get out of this trouble was to never go to meeting again, and for about twenty months I did not hear a gospel sermon preached. Then I decided if I would change occupations I could get along much better. I was offered jobs at the courthouse, to work for the sheriff and in the chancery clerk's office with my brother-in-law. After this I would get along very well so long as my mind was engaged in official work, but when I was not busy in the office my burden was heavy. During all this time of trouble I was reading the Bible, but did not know what I was reading it for.

One Monday morning the sheriff sent me out with a lot of official work which kept me out all the week. I spent Saturday night in my old home settlement with one of my sisters. On Sunday morning I learned that there would be preaching at a Missionary Baptist church by a man who was a great friend of mine, and as I had not heard any preaching in so long I decided to call by and hear him. He preached on a line of duty, and when he ended his discourse I got up and gave him my hand. When I did that I suppose I forgot who I was and where I was, and when I came to my senses I was talking with all the power that was in me. I don't know how long I talked nor what I said, but when I looked around at the congregation, tears were flowing from the eyes of many of my old friends. I got out of the house as quickly as possible, so ashamed of myself that I did not even want to look at anyone. I was in more trouble than ever before. I began to ask myself the question, "What do those good friends of mine think of me?" I imagined they would think I was drunk and would try to indict me for disturbing public worship. Then I decided they could not think that of me, as they had never known me to be intoxicated on liquor. I was getting well reconciled over the matter when an old friend of mine came to the courthouse and named the child he was telling my brother-in-law that I had preached for them at that church on a certain Sunday. My good wife heard about it, and one night after we had retired and lain for some time without a word being spoken by either of us, finally she said to me, "I suppose you preached for them at Jackson Camp Church the other Sunday." Then I thought I was almost ruined. As soon as I could speak I said to her, "Mollie, I have had enough trouble over that meeting to almost kill me, and I hope I will never hear it mentioned again." Then she said to me, "If you want to join the church, why don't you go and join?" I said, "If I could believe that joining the church would relieve my mind I would join." She said, "You go, and if that don't relieve your mind you go on and relieve it." So I took wife's advice and joined Mackey's Creek Church and was baptized by Elder J.J. Akers. When I was raised up out of the water I was so happy I thought that the impressions I had been carrying for fifteen years were forever gone, but it was not so long until they returned with more force than ever, and they stayed with me until I was forced to tell my troubles to the church. When they heard my statement they proceeded to liberate me to exercise in public, and then I began to get some relief. In course of time the church called for my ordination. I said everything I could think of to try to get them to drop that question and never speak of it anymore, but they called a presbytery and I was ordained on the fifth Sunday in April, 1899. Then began the care of churches. I served three churches for a number of years, and they seemed to grow and prosper. I am now pastor of two churches that I had the care of for about thirty-five years. I served the New Hope Association as moderator for about sixteen years.

During all this time I have passed through many sad seasons, but when I can view the right side, I can see that the dear Lord has wonderfully blessed me and my family. My wife joined the Primitive Baptist Church more than thirty years ago, and it was my happy privilege to baptize her. Of the great number that I had baptized, this was the happiest time with me that I had ever experienced when baptizing one of God's children. Wife and I lived together nearly fifty-nine years. She was so good to me. She was always ready to make preparations for me to go and to give me encouragement on the way. On the 9th day of August, 1932, she was stricken down with pneumonia and only lived about twelve hours. Then I was in trouble again. I had lost all the good company I had at home. I was never contented after her death. I went on for more than a year in grief and sorrow, and I decided it was not good for me to be alone, so on the 29th day of August, 1933, I was married to Mrs. Rosetta Hester. She is a member of the Primitive Church, and is so good and kind to me and all the time ready to encourage me and all the time courage me to go. I am now contented. Brethren, pray for me and mine when at a throne of God's grace. Your unworthy brother, Jim E. Shackelford Tishomingo, Miss.

"Phantom Cars"

I live on the northern end of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. A couple of weeks ago I was outside at about 7:00 AM talking with my son while he was waiting for the school bus. Even at this hour I was already doing those things that aren't good for you; on my second cup of coffee and smoking a cigarette. We don't live in town and at this hour it's still fairly quiet. You can hear a dove or quail but not much more than that.

Anyway, there's a lull in the conversation. Both of us are thinking that we'd rather be in bed but not saying anything. I turn my head looking for the car coming down the road, but there isn't one. Pretty neat trick. Who's doing it? I wait. No car. I wait some more. Still no car.

I begin to doubt myself but remember something; I've got my bad ear keyed on the car. When I turn my good ear in the direction of the "Phantom Car" I can still hear it, only louder. Now I am thinking that either my good ear is going bad or my heart is racing. I decide to slow down on the coffee and quit smoking cigarettes (It's easy, I've done it eight times in seven years.). About this time the bus is rolling down the road so I go inside.

Next day, same thing happens only this time my son can hear it too. I don't know if this is good or bad; either there is a "Phantom Car" (and I can keep smoking) or we're both going deaf. Going back in the house on this day, I realize what's happening when I see a big bug with orange wings and bulging eyes. It's a cicada! It's one of the periodic types. In the South they may appear every 13 years and in the North, every 17. These are the things many people refer to as locusts.

These cicadas cause more damage to trees from laying eggs than from eating. The female may deposit 24 to 28 eggs in two rows along a branch, then repeats the process until she has deposited 5 to 20 batches of eggs. To do this she has something called an "ovipositor" which has a saw-like edge. She punctures the bark, then saws it open, depositing her eggs on the way.

Usually, unless a tree is very young, old, or sick, cicada's don't kill the entire tree. Some botanists feel that cicadas are beneficial to healthy trees because when many of the young branches are killed, the tree produces more twigs. It's nature's way of pruning. Trees will often grow leafier the year after the cicadas are gone.

After the eggs hatch, the nymphs fall to the ground where they may burrow nearly two feet deep and feed on roots. Next thing you know, 13 (or 17) years go by, they climb out of the ground and start all over.

They're not all that bad. I think they're the world's best baby-sitters. Kids will play with them for hours. Just make sure the kids don't eat them. The bugs may not be bad for them, but a child could choke. Bass love them, too. Check the next time you catch a bass. By the way, only the males make that racket.

Looks like there's no Phantom Car, my good ear is still OK and my heart isn't racing. My new target date to stop smoking is July 6th.

Ask Ochsner

Q. What is Parkinson's disease and have there been any recent developments in arresting or treating the disease?

A. Parkinson's disease is a degenerative brain disease in which a specific group of nerve cells in the brain slowly deteriorate, says Dr. Richard L. Strub, neurologist at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans. This deterioration causes an imbalance between two chemicals in the brain, dopamine and acetylcholine, which control the transmission of nerve impulses.

The chemical imbalance results in a group of symptoms characteristic to those with Parkinson's disease. They include a tremor, rigidity in the arms and legs, slowness of movement and thought, and loss of equilibrium. Mental depression often occurs in this disease and is actually a part of the disease and not a reaction to the physical disability.

The cause of the most common form of the disease is not known. In a small percentage of the cases the disease is hereditary. Recently, there has been a suggestion that environmental toxins may somehow be involved, however this is merely speculative at this time.

No treatment has been found that slows the progression of Parkinson's disease, but modern treatments have given many with the illness relief from its symptoms. The most common techniques use one drug which decreases the acetylcholine and another which increase the dopamine in order to restore the chemical balance. However, the drugs used may produce side effects, and Dr. Strub says the patients must be monitored closely.

New drugs and other techniques are constantly being developed. One involves the possible use of Vitamin E along with an antidepressant which, when combined, seems to block the entrance of toxins possibly arresting the progression of the disease in some cases. It will be years until the results of the study are complete.

More immediate progress are the developments of the forms of the medication. Although are not on the market long acting forms of dopamine-increasing seem to be promising benefits of this medication include frequent dosage with sustained benefit to the patient and the possibility of decrease in side effects. Dr. Strub.

Mississippi Leads Use Of Wood Energy

Burning of sawdust, chips and bark for energy by Mississippi industries already may be coming more than six percent of total energy consumed in the state, making Mississippi a national leader in use of wood energy. One finding of an inventory of biomass facilities conducted by the Mississippi Biomass Energy Coordinator, a cooperative effort between the Mississippi Forestry Association (MFA), the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation. The program's purpose is to identify biomass technologies with the most potential for Mississippi and develop programs for greater usage of technologies. A biomass inventory that would energy 89 large and small industries in the state. Those in the vicinity of Iuka County include: Weiger Industries,

Booneville; and T.F. Evans Lumber Company, Fulton. A 1984 regional survey found that 19 million green tons of wood are available annually in Mississippi, including logging residues, cull trees and surplus growth. Other biomass energy sources include crop residues and animal wastes. Biomass technology can provide industrial scale energy, while it utilizes alternative energy resources, provides an additional market for the forest products industry and alleviates such environmental problems as the "greenhouse effect" and acid rain. To contact Dr. Harold Draper, Biomass Energy Coordinator, write to MFA, 620 N. State St., Suite 201, Jackson, MS 39202-3398, or call Dr. Draper at 601-961-4733. Dr. Draper works with a Biomass Advisory Council and focuses his efforts on coordination of technical assistance and dissemination of information about the potential for biomass energy. Tick-Borne Diseases Bite Mississippians

Lyme disease is getting all the press, but Rocky Mountain spotted fever is still the more common and more deadly of the two tick-borne diseases. Seven cases of Lyme disease were reported last year (five confirmed) and four so far this year (none confirmed) in Mississippi, according to Bruce Brackin, public health epidemiologist with the state Department of Health. During the same time period, 36 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever have been reported. Brackin said geographically Rocky Mountain spotted fever is primarily reported in northeast Mississippi. The illness may or may not include a rash with a fever. Symptoms usually develop within two weeks of a tick bite. He said two or three deaths occur in the state annually from Rocky Mountain spotted fever. Lyme disease, with the exception of cases reported in Grenada and Holmes counties, is located in south Mississippi, primarily in coastal counties. Originally diagnosed in Lyme, Conn., in 1975, Lyme disease is caused by a corkscrew-shaped organism. The disease is spread by infected ticks living in or near wooded areas, brush or tall grass. Symptoms of Lyme disease include a rash at or near the bite, migratory arthritis (stiff joints), a stiff neck, flu-like symptoms and fatigue. Unlike the potential danger of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Lyme disease is not fatal, but it can be debilitating, Brackin said. "The tick has to be attached for several hours before it can transmit the organism," Brackin said. "Avoiding potentially tick-infested areas, proper clothing and checking the body often for ticks are good evasive tactics." Proper clothing includes light-colored pants with the cuffs tucked into the socks. Light-colored clothing makes it easier to see the poppy-seed-sized ticks. Attached ticks should be removed using tweezers grasping near the head and slowly pulling out. A victim may have a few or all of the symptoms for Lyme disease, Brackin said. Some symptoms, such as the rash, may surface within a few days of the bite. Other symptoms may not occur until long after the bite has been forgotten, making diagnosis even more difficult. The epidemiologist said self diagnosis doesn't work. Often a person with arthritis will misdiagnose Lyme, which unlike arthritis can be treated with antibiotics. Brackin said Medical tests are still in the developmental stages and can be a waste of money. Dr. Jim Hamer, pest management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said people can take several steps to control ticks in and around the house. Hamer said people who walk in woods or areas with a deer population are at the highest risk for tick bites if their feet or legs are exposed. "Homeowners should keep grass on the premises cut short," Hamer said. "They can also use the insecticides diazinon, dichlorvos and chlorpyrifos (Dursban) in areas known to harbor ticks."
