Iuka Athletes Named All-State

Two young athletes from Iuka have been named by the Mississippi Sports Writers Association as members of the all-state baseball teams. Mississippi State University pitcher, Chuck Holly, was first team selection for 1989 All-Mississippi State Baseball Team. He filed the best pitching record among the all-state pitchers going 9-2 with 48 strike-outs in 66 innings. Chuck is the son of Jerry and Joan Holly of Iuka. John Sanders, of Iuka, was named to the Mississippi Sports Writers Association high school all-state baseball team. John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sanders of Iuka, was named honorable mention as a pitcher. This year John had a 12.3 pitching record, with 19 home runs.

Senator Thad Cochran and Fourth District Supervisor M. R. Whitehead discussed the proposed NASA Facility and its profound impact on the tri-state area during the Senator's recent visit to the county.

City of Iuka Left In Good Standing

Former Mayor John Biggs stated that the city of Iuka reported substantial revenue in its quarterly report issued on May 31, 1989.

According to the city's quarterly report, as of June 1, 1989, total worth of the city stood at $1,555,319.90. Revenue from gas, water and miscellaneous city funds, managed by the existing administration, made up the total. This allowed the newly elected incoming administration officials to enter the city's government in good standing, financially.

The report indicated that during the last quarter, monetary resources of the city of Iuka were divided as follows: gas fund, $188,587.05; water fund, $912,361.04; and remaining miscellaneous city funds, $454,371.81.

Cochran Visits In County

An assembly estimated at four hundred people gathered Wednesday afternoon, July 5, as U.S. Senator Thad Cochran addressed the issues concerning the conversion of Tishomingo County's abandoned Yellow Creek nuclear plant site into the proposed NASA rocket production plant.

Cochran's approximately five hour stay in the county was made up of a reception, held in his honor and hosted by the Tishomingo County Development Foundation in the courtroom of the Old Tishomingo County Courthouse and a tour of the Yellow Creek site earlier in the day, organized by Dr. Kelly Segars. "Sen. Cochran was elated at the huge turnout in his honor," said Segars.

The Congressman, after touring the proposed Tishomingo County site Wednesday, stated that although Congress will have to decide on two "fine-print issues," he believes that ground breaking on the project could take place as early as August.

Touring the facility with Cochran were members of Lockheed-Aerojet, chosen as primary contractor by NASA to build the rockets; RUST International, the Birmingham based corporation, chosen as main contractor over construction of the facility; along with Tishomingo County Development Foundation and various other public officials.

"Although the Yellow Creek site has been selected by NASA for the plant, Congress will have to authorize termination liability insurance (that would compensate contractors in the case of contract default) and also distribution of additional funding before the official "go-ahead" is given," explained Cochran. He went on to assure the group of the project's Congressional support. "I doubt if it (the project) will meet with any mentionable opposition in either the House or the Senate," said the Senator. "If all goes as projected construction could begin as early as September of this year."

City Judge Hired By New Board

The past two meetings of the Iuka City Board of Aldermen have brought about several changes concerning financial issues, as well as city employees.

Reports from the last official meeting of the old administration, held Friday, June 30, 1989, debated and brought to a vote the issue of an increase in the salary of the incoming Mayor and Board of Aldermen. Sources indicated that the motion to raise the salaries was brought forth by exiting Alderman David Yarbrough. Yarbrough, along with re-elected Aldermen Leroy Dean and Cecil Phifer, voted for, therefore passing, the increased salary proposal.

The salary of Mayor was raised from its previous amount to $1,000.00 per month and city Aldermen salaries were increased to $300.00 per month from their original amount.

The first meeting of the new city administration held Wednesday, July 5, reportedly led to the employment of, among others, a new city judge, city attorney and an additional bookkeeper.

Mike Cooke was appointed to the position of City Judge by the new governing body. At press-time, a salary for the position had not been set. In previous administrations, the position of City Judge has been held by the Mayor, therefore making this a first for the city.

The Board also accepted the resignation of City Attorney, Richard Bowen at the Wednesday night meeting. At this time, Richard Clark was appointed as Bowen's successor.

Another appointee was Connie Clark, who was chosen as bookkeeper for the city.

FREEZE YOUR SUMMER HARVEST

Freezing is the easiest and least time-consuming method of pre-serving foods at home. Frozen foods are a real convenience, enabling you to serve a variety of tasty, nutritious meals on short notice. Frozen vegetables cook more quickly than fresh ones—in a third to half the time.

Most vegetables freeze well, with the exception of some of the salad vegetables that have a high water content. Tomatoes, lettuce, cabbage and celery lose their crispness and get limp and tough when frozen.

Prepare vegetables for freezing the same as for cooking. You must also blanch or heat them before freezing.

Heat all vegetables, except green peppers, onions and herbs for seasoning. Heat destroys the natural enzymes found in vegetables. Enzymes are natural chemical substances which help vegetables grow and mature.

If enzyme action isn't stopped before freezing, they destroy the fresh flavor of vegetables during the first month of storage. Un-blanching vegetables may develop off-flavors, off-odors or may discolor or toughen.

Blanching also softens and wilts vegetables, makes them easier to pack. Proper blanching is a critical step. The most common method is to put a small amount of vegetables into a large quantity of boiling water for a short time. However, certain vegetables, such as cut okra or cream style corn, must be heated by a different method.

If you are planning to freeze large quantities of vegetables, it will be easier to blanch them if you purchase a blancher or a spaghetti pot. However, a large Dutch oven or dishpan works well, especially if you have a colander or wire basket to drain the vegetables and save your boiling blanching water for another batch.

Follow recommended blanching times for each vegetable. Drain and cool quickly in cold running water, ice water or by a fan. Then package in suitable freezing bags or containers.

Pack tightly to cut down on the amount of air in the package, leaving 1/2 inch headspace and close securely. Barely cover vegetables, such as green beans, butterbeans, peas, squash, whole kernel corn and greens, with ice water. It will take about a cup of water per quart of vegetables. Seal and freeze at 0 degrees F or below. This technique gives an excellent quality vegetable even after a year or so in frozen storage.

Call Nellie R. Horton, Extension Home Economist, at 423-3616 for detailed instructions for freezing all kinds of vegetables.

Nutrition For Weekend Athletes

More than ever, people are realizing regular exercise makes for a healthier body, which is more likely to remain healthy. If you are trying to eat and exercise for better health, you need to know how exercise can affect your nutritional needs, states Nellie R. Horton, Extension Home Economist. Here are some of the questions most often asked about food and fitness.

Question: What is the biggest effect exercise has on my nutrient needs?

Answer: Exercise affects your need for water more than any other nutrient. Exercise increases body heat and thus, water losses through perspiration. When exercising even in moderate temperatures, drink plenty of water, especially in hot weather. Otherwise, dehydration could occur, bringing about decreased physical performance and possible nausea, irregularities in heartbeat and even fainting.

Question: Are commercial "sports drinks" good for me?

Answer: Due to their high concentration of salts and sugars, commercial sports drinks, also called "electrolyte drinks," are not the best way to replace fluids during physical activity. Manufacturers claim these beverages replace electrolytes lost during exercise.

Actually, as long as you eat normally, the loss of electrolytes occurring during exercise will cause no physiological problems. Chilled plain water is the best thirst-quencher for weekend athletes. If you drink commercial sports drinks, dilute them with an equal amount of water.

Question: Exactly, what are electrolytes, and when should I be concerned about replacing them?

Answer: The electrolytes -- sodium, potassium and chloride -- along with water, are the components of perspiration. Electrolytes are contained in food. No special replacement is needed except in unusual situations such as:

*during strenuous exercise

repeated daily,

*when exercising for long periods of time (three to five hours) especially in hot environments, *when rest breaks are not adequate between exercise periods, and *when meals are not adequate.

Question: What is the best way to replace lost electrolytes?

Answer: Electrolytes and sugar for added energy can be obtained by drinking diluted natural juices and other fluids diluted with water. Add water in these suggested proportions:

Fruit - 1 part juice/3 parts water.

Soft drinks - 1 part drink/3 parts water
Gatorade - 1 part drink/1 part water

Vegetable juices - 1 part drink/1 part water.

The American College of Sports Medicine recommends this drink to replace fluids, electrolytes and glucose.

Water and Electrolyte Replacement Drink

- Combine:
- 6 ounce orange juice concentrate
- 3 tablespoons lime or lemon juice
- pinch of salt
- 6 ounce limeade or lemonade concentrate
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 quarts of cold water

Question: Should I take salt tablets when I work out?

Answer: Salt tablets are unnecessary, and they can be harmful. Salt tablets irritate the stomach, can cause diarrhea and increase the danger of dehydration.

Question: Is it OK to drink water while exercising?

Answer: Yes. Drinking water during exercise is the best method of reducing the body's core temperature, even better than sponging the body with water.

Question: How much water should I drink?

Answer: Physical performance will decrease when body weight decreases by about 1 percent during exercise. A good rule of thumb is to drink one pint of water for each pound of body weight lost in any one exercise, working or training session. Keep in mind that under thermal and exercise stress, people usually voluntarily drink only a about half the rate at which they are losing fluid. This is true even during moderate exercise and when fluid is lost at a low rate. So, feeling thirsty is not a good indicator of your water needs.

Question: Should I eat food high in sugar before exercising to give me quick energy?

Answer: While sugar can be absorbed quickly by our tissues, it still takes 20 to 30 minutes for it to be able to contribute energy. Therefore, little benefit can be gained if exercise lasts less than 20 minutes. Furthermore, consuming large amounts of sugar, honey, candy, commercial sports drinks or colas can result in dehydration and actually reduce sugar levels in the blood, resulting in decreased physical performance.

Overall, the large effect exercise has on our nutritional needs is water--be sure to drink plenty. Exercise does not significantly increase vitamin and mineral needs and "megadosing" on supplements can be very harmful. A balanced diet should provide all the necessary nutrient needs for the weekend athlete.

Rains Drown Hopes For '89

This time last year Mississippi farmers were desperate for rain. Now, they are equally desperate for rain to stop.

Only 70 percent of the soybean crop is planted, and the outlook for the crop continues to deteriorate. While producers did manage to plant their intended 1 million acres of cotton, the crop suffered from too much rain in May and June.

Dr. Nathan McKinney, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said the condition of most of the soybean crop is poor, and as rains continue, the outlook only gets worse.

"The final chapter has not been written, and we can't close the book," McKinney said. "But the pages are turning faster and faster."

Of the 70 percent of the soybean crop that is planted, only 50 percent has emerged. According to McKinney, even emerged plants are not growing well. Saturated fields and lack of sunshine are preventing normal plant growth.

At the beginning of the planting season, producers hoped to plant an estimated 2.5 million acres of soybeans. If conditions don't improve within the next few days, the remaining 30 percent of the crop may not get planted.

"We are already well past recommended planting dates, and late plantings are risky," McKinney said. "We need 10 days of good drying weather."

Excessive rains during and since cotton-planting time have pushed the 1989 cotton crop three to three and one-half weeks behind last year's crop, said Will McCarty, extension agronomist.

The June 26 crop report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated the crop at 33 percent squaring (flower-bud initiation) compared to the five-year average of 64 percent squaring for this time of year.

"The cotton crop is very irregular statewide," McCarty said. "Cotton stands and stages of development are not uniform within fields and within geographic locations of the state."

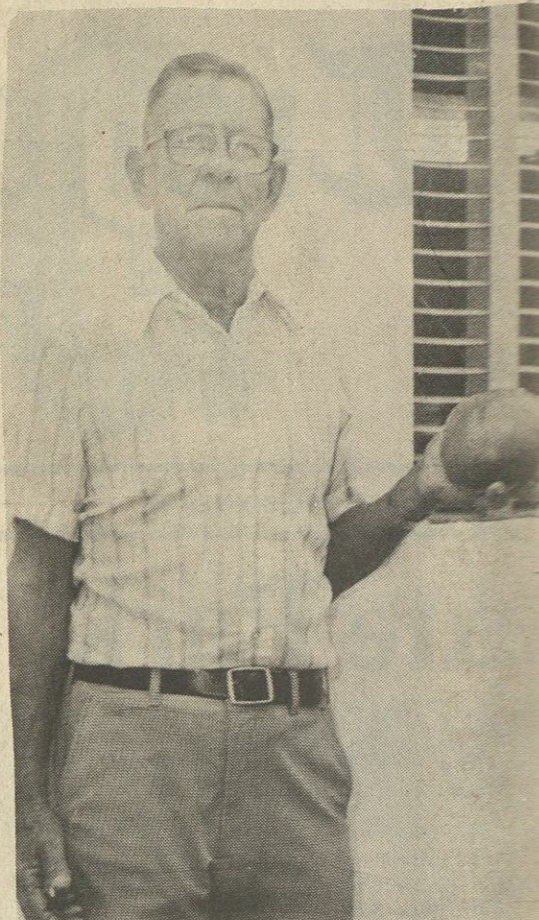

McCarty said the variability, and lateness of the crop will complicate management strategies and possibly increase production costs as farmers will be forced to protect their crop from insects and disease further into the growing season.

"The final outcome is still dependent on weather conditions for the remainder of the growing season," McCarty said. "But production levels are already hurt. Even with cooperative weather, we are looking at yields below last year's level."

INSIGHT IN EYESIGHT

DR. PHILLIP GRAY

OPTOMETRIST

MIDDLE AGE VISION

If you've had a vision problem for a long time, such as nearsightedness, and are now approaching middle age, this doesn't mean your nearsightedness will get worse. You may have other vision problems that need correcting, but your nearsightedness probably has not changed since you were 21.

The vision problems you may be experiencing now may be due to a natural condition of aging known as presbyopia. Presbyopia is caused by a weakening of the eye's focusing muscles. This results in a loss in your ability to focus on near objects. Eye exercises cannot correct this gradual loss of the eye's focusing ability. Emphasizing time you use your eyes when you are exercising these eye muscles can overcome this natural aging phenomenon.

As you approach middle age, however, it is important to have your eyes checked regularly as you often find out if you need corrections in glasses or contact lenses as you get older. It is important to be checked for the natural loss of the eyes' focusing ability.

Joe Wheeler Park Scene Of Annual Carson Reunion

Beautiful Joe Wheeler Park, overlooking the Great Tennessee River, was the setting for the Second Annual Carson Family Reunion, June 25, and 26, when approximately 30 members of the Howard Carson, Sr., family, and five guest gathered for a weekend of food, relaxation, and "catching up". A gentle breeze whipped through the oak trees outside Cabin 4 on Saturday afternoon as children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were welcomed by family Matriarch Valerie Carson, of 312 Ash Street, Iuka, MS. "Mama Carson" as she is known to all, greeted each family member with a big hug, introduced the members and guests and assigned chores and spaces the family gathered and evening events began. After Wilmer Carson, best son, delivered Thanks, a meal of homemade sausage, spaghetti, salad and peach bread, prepared by Sisters, Linda Rye and Brenda Tumlin was enjoyed by all. Assisting in meal preparation were nieces and cousins, Luann Tumlin and Becky Cobb.

China coffee cups, bearing each person's name, made by Brenda Tumlin, were distributed as "take home" reminders of the occasion. The meal was followed by ping-pong contest, Rook games, and the latest news. The evening was topped off by a Spade Tournament where nine teams played for the Championship. Finally an exhausted crew found camp beds for a short rest.

Sunday morning light on the still Tennessee produced a time of reflection and beauty as family members rose to enjoy yet another day which began with the smells of home cooked breakfast and coffee. By 10 a.m., activities have been chosen and teams of golfers, fishermen, swimmers, and those who wanted to just visit were doing their favorite thing. And as the day wore on, still more family members arrived, and the late-comers were welcomed to the evening festivities which centered on the family's favorite meal, Fresh Tennessee River Catfish and Crappie caught by family fishermen, William Carson, Mark Tumlin, and prepared by Kathy Carson who was assisted by nieces and cousins, Lisa Tumlin, Josie Isom and Brenda Dawson.

During the evening, family photographer, Eddie Carson took photos of the family in sequences beginning with Mama Carson and her children, Mama Carson and 10 of her 19 grandchildren, and Mama Carson with 4 of her 11 Great-grandchildren, then Mama Carson and each individual family. Family scribe, Janis Carson, took notes of each family member's full name, birthdate, anniversary date and addresses for a family calendar to be

DAIRY FIELD DAY

Dairy producers in Tishomingo County are invited to attend a statewide dairy field day July 18 at the North Mississippi Branch Experiment Station in Holly Springs. Registration starts at 9:30 a.m.

David Bray, a dairy scientist at the University of Florida, will discuss the effects of heat stress on dairy animals. MSU dairy scientist Bill McGee will demonstrate linear classification of dairy cattle.

Participants can view educational exhibits and tour forage, reproduction and calf management systems at the station. A sponsored lunch will be provided.

The event is sponsored by the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station, the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, Mississippi Farm Bureau and the American Dairy Association of Mississippi.

Everyone is invited to this field day. If you would like to go, call Bill Hopper, County Agent, 423-3616 so arrangements can be made.

SOYBEAN PLANTING
Forget the rules about planting soybeans at this late date. There are none. Here are some suggestions for late plantings.

Seeding rates should be 25 to 30 percent higher than for May plantings.

You may have an advantage with rows of 20 inches or less.

Later maturing varieties have a better chance of producing than do early maturing varieties. The later varieties don't always outperform the early varieties but they have more TIME for production.

Don't plow up anything unless you are confident you'll get effective control for your particular weed or insect problem.

Don't spend money unless you are confident you'll get effective control for your particular weed or insect problem.

COTTON CROP UPDATE
The cotton crop in Tishomingo County is in varied condition. Some producers have excellent stands; some have stands that are two to three weeks behind.

It is important for all producers to get stands to set and hold the highest possible percentage of squares set in the first four weeks of the squaring period. Squares set at this time account for 90 percent or more of the final yield.

Keep cultural practices current. Cultivate as needed, but do so in a manner to avoid excessive root damage.

Wet fields have contributed to poor root growth in many stands in the county. Some stands of large cotton may begin wilting as the soil dries.

Smaller cotton plants should be able to extend their root systems as soil dries.

WATERMELON GRASSES
Control grasses in watermelons with Poast. According to the label, Poast can be used on melons at any growth stage.

There could be some damage to leaves and melon flowers from the crop oil concentrate in the spray solution. Check labels.

well-stocked stand than one in which the trees are scattered. Total volume included in the sale is also very important because the time spent moving from one tract of timber to another is nonproductive time for the logger; he would prefer to cut larger tracts of timber and minimize his downtime for moving. As a result, loggers insist on being paid more per unit volume to cut a small volume of timber than to cut a large volume. And, having committed himself to paying more for the logging cost, the buyer has no choice but to offer a lower stumpage price in order to keep his total delivered price in line.

Timber quality can be a critical factor affecting stumpage prices. Solid wood products such as lumber and poles must be made from relatively straight trees with few knots, or the final product quality will be inferior. Straightness is easily observed in standing trees, and the number and size of knots can be estimated fairly well by observing the number and diameter of branches. Defects such as fire scars, disease cankers, and hollow boles also reduce the stumpage value. Hidden defects are more common and more difficult to detect in hardwoods than in pines, and as a result buyers tend to be very conservative when appraising hardwoods. Tree age and the width of the growth rings are commonly assumed to affect wood quality; consequently, young trees which have grown very rapidly are the same size.

Landowners probably do not consider access to the timber as being a major problem, but the logger's equipment is much larger than the owner's personal truck. Narrow, winding roads through timber which is not included in the sale area do not provide good access for a typical logging crew. Often such roads must be widened by the logger in order to remove the timber which has been sold. In many cases, roads which are wide enough are not able to hold up under heavy loads of wood and must be constantly repaired by the logger. And, of course, the landowner will expect the roads to be serviceable when the logging operation is completed. Thus a tract of timber which is readily accessible via all-weather roads is more valuable than a similar tract which will require substantial road work by the logger.

Another factor closely related to access is the actual ground conditions in the woods. Given a choice, buyers would prefer to purchase timber located on well-drained, level or gently sloping tracts with numerous rocks and thick brush. Wet tracts can only be logged during dry weather. That can make it difficult to meet time limitations in the timber sale contract if seasonal dry weather does not occur when expected. Steep slopes, gullies, thick brush, and rocks can not only slow production but lead to equipment damage and personal injuries.

The existence of any of the above unfavorable conditions will cause the buyer to try to get a longer-term cutting contract with the landowner, especially if the timber is being paid for with a lump sum in advance. If he is unable to get as long a lease as he would like, the stumpage price offered will be lowered somewhat to cover the risk of not being able to finish the logging on time. Ordinarily the buyer will want at least 12 months to cut upland timber and over 24 months to cut swamp timber, when it is purchased in a lump sum fashion.

Next week we'll conclude this series with a discussion of some additional factors that affect the market value of your timber.

Curtin Family Reunion - 1989

The families of the late Curtin and Dora Curtin met on Saturday and Sunday, July 14 and 15 at Tishomingo State Park for a very special reunion. Underwood Reunion Held At State Park

John and Ercell Underwood had ten children. Seven of those ten children were present at the Tishomingo State Park Saturday, July 8th. This was the first time this many had been together since the death of their mother in January of 1985. Thirty-nine members of the family enjoyed sharing memories, future plans, pictures, and as always an abundance of good food. The decision was made to make this an annual gathering of the clan!

Those present were Ursula U. Hood of Tishomingo, Thomas Harold, Sue and Tara Hood of Florence, AL, Arch B. Underwood, Sr., of Tishomingo, Francis, Mildred and Vicki Underwood of Belmont, Russell and Sherry Wilburn, Jimmy and Melissa McCallum of Collierville, TN, Bobby, Michelle, Kami and Kendall Skelton of Bartlett, TN; Ruth U. Bowen of Middleburg, FL, Rick Nunley of St. Augustine, FL, and Margaret Bowen of Jacksonville, FL; Harold and Martha Underwood of Harriman, TN, Roger, Anita, Jesse and Chelsea Richmond of Kingston, TN, Roger, Teresa, Emily, and Dylan Underwood of Kingston, TN, Greg, Abby and Joshua Underwood of Madison, AL, Tommy and Lynn Lee of Huntsville, AL; Karl, Kathy, Kelly, Kristy Underwood of Tupelo, Brady and Karla Garrett of Tupelo; Margaret and Amy Wildes of Tishomingo.

The family of the late J.O. Underwood, Jr., could not be present this year but plan to join in the reunion next year. Bluford's family and Ken's family will certainly join in the fun next time.

The family was happy to see Mrs. Esther Rushing, Opal Malone, Tulon Rushing, David Rushing, Jimmy and Shirley Pounders, Eddie Wooten, H.R. Nash, and Diane Rushing. Mrs. Rushing and the late Mrs. Underwood are daughters of the late William Arch Blunt.

The Lodge at Tishomingo State Park will be the meeting place next year on the seventh of July. All friends and relatives of the Underwood family will be heartily welcomed to visit and "catch up" on the latest happenings.

June 14, 1885 - the first observance of Flag Day, was held in a little country schoolhouse on Stoney Hill, near Fredonia, Wisconsin. Bernard J. Cigrand, a young school teacher, there began his crusade to honor the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by Continental Congress as a kind of "Flag Birthday."

Young Cigrand was born October 1, 1866, at Waubeka, Wisconsin. He displayed an early interest in American history and great patriotism and devotion to the country's flag. As a young boy and as a young man, he always had a flag on his desk.

As a nineteen year old, forty dollars per month teacher, he turned graduation day into Flag Day. This began his effort to bring about national recognition of Flag Day.

Finally, thirty-one years later, in 1916, President Woodrow Wilson declared June 14 as National Flag Day. Bernard Cigrand's career as a teacher was brief as he studied dentistry and became a Chicago dentist and a professor at Northwestern. He was also a surgeon in the Spanish-American War and was famous as an author and public speaker. He is best remembered, however, as "The father of Flag Day."

On June 14, 1946, thirty years after National Flag Day was established, the village of Waubeka honored Dr. Cigrand. The memorial to him was a flagpole erected near the little Stoney Hill School.

Three years later President Harry S. Truman proclaimed that the flag would be displayed on all public buildings. He also asked that all Americans join in flying the flag.

The National Fraternal Congress of America sponsors the Observance at Stoney Hill. Some groups who participate in the celebration are the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, the many veterans organizations, fraternal societies, and Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant religious groups.

Thousands visit the site of the celebration every year and remember Bernard J. Cigrand for his youthful dream that became National Flag Day.

South Central Bell Explains Operator Services

While South Central Bell operators provide local and long distance operator services inside the company's calling zones, South Central Bell emphasized today that callers must reach their long distance carrier's operator if they want an operator's help in placing calls outside the Calling Zone.

Callers can reach a long distance carrier's operator by dialing "zero (0)" plus the telephone number they are calling or by dialing "zero-zero (00)."

District Manager Tom Bailey explained that dialing only "0" reaches a South Central Bell operator, who provides assistance on local and long distance calls within the Calling Zone. The South Central Bell operator cannot connect callers to long distance companies.

Bailey said information on Calling Zones is included in the Customer Guide section at the front of South Central Bell telephone directories.

"Callers who want an operator's help in placing collect, credit card and bill-to-third-number calls through a long distance company other than South Central Bell need to reach the operator services of the long distance company," Bailey said. "They can do that by dialing 'zero (0)' plus the telephone number they are calling or by dialing 'zero-zero (00).' They can also call their selected, long distance company for information on how to get operator assistance."

mer. They include special classes in chemistry, mathematics and biology.

"Since little physics-related equipment exists in state high schools, we have developed equipment prototypes that are essential in studying the basic principles of motion," Hughes said.

"We have designed the instruments with parts that are easily attainable at a Radio Shack or a hardware store," he added, noting the total cost of such "homemade-but-sophisticated" equipment would be far less than commercial scientific instrumentation.

Hughes said the equipment constructed during the workshop will allow teachers and their students to build equipment -- the Kinetics Cart for as little as $30 -- in their hometown classrooms to study, test and prove basic Newtonian theories such as acceleration and velocity.

Kits to build the Kinetics Cart and Force Table -- designed and compiled by Hughes -- will be laid out in "mini assembly lines" for workshop participants. Following the USM workshop, the teachers will be able to take the "homemade" devices back to their respective high school classrooms, and will be encouraged to duplicate the workshop prototypes for instructional purposes.

Hughes's Kinetics Cart will allow many of Mississippi's high school students to test Newton's Second Law of Motion through an experiment, which Hughes said has never before "been run with any degree of accuracy in the state of Mississippi."

Workshop Force Tables -- constructed of plywood, fishing rod eyelets, paint pails and computer-generated degree circles, at a cost of around $10 -- allow measurements to within one degree of accuracy and also are essential in conducting the most basic experiments, the USM professor said.

According to Hughes, examination of the fundamentals of physics is basic to understanding all physical sciences, which include physics, chemistry, astronomy and geology.

Ask Ochsner

Q. A friend of mine tells me that if I feel better, I don't have to finish my prescription. Is this true?

A. "No, patients should finish all the medicine prescribed," says Jeanne Fant, pharmacist at Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans. "In fact," she says, "patient compliance with all directions on prescriptions is one of the most important things to remember for those taking prescribed medication."

Learning how to take medication, or patient compliance, means much more than just finishing a prescription. Timing, for example, is just one factor that can influence the effectiveness of medications. If a prescription label says that you should take your medicine "four times a day," it could mean every six hours including the middle of the night, or with every meal and at bedtime. "Patients should make sure they understand what their doctor is telling them when receiving prescription medication," Fant says.

Because people over the age of 65 have a tendency to buy over-the-counter drugs more often than younger people, these patients especially should become more active by asking their doctor or pharmacist questions about a particular drug. "Understanding the purpose of a prescription as well as any possible side effects is important, especially if a patient is taking over-the-counter products while taking prescribed medication," says Fant. Some questions you should ask are: Can I take the medicine on an empty stomach? Should I avoid certain foods or beverages? Does liquid medication require a teaspoon or tablespoon?

By providing your doctor or pharmacist with a complete list of what medications you are currently taking, including over-the-counter products such as relievers, antacids, remedies and laxatives can also minimize the dangerous combination. Once you have prescribed medication only the prescribed warns Fant. Avoid the amount if you dosage. Patients should share their medication anyone and should not old prescription for ailment. They should store drugs in a place, out of direct and discard any medications which be in the home.

Tenn-Tom Today

Hunter Safety Education on the Tenn-Tom? You bet. Last year the Corps of Engineers issued 10,000 hunting permits on Government lands from Demopolis Lake to Alabama to Bay Springs Lake in Mississippi to people all over the United States. When this many people hunt on Government owned lands it is imperative that we strive to teach hunters and firearm users good sportsmanship and firearm safety. There are other objectives as well which will make hunting in Alabama and Mississippi not only a safer sport, but a more pleasant, productive and enjoyable recreation experience. The Department of Conservation and Natural Resources in Alabama and Mississippi have trained Corps of Engineers' employees as instructors, along with other State, County, City and local officials, so that hunters can learn to protect our hunting heritage, as well as enjoy it. The Hunter Safety Education Program is a big plus for the sportsman. Students who successfully complete this course will have a better understanding of their outdoor obligations to the landowners, to the natural resources, to other hunters and to themselves.

Many organizations, agencies, and individuals are cooperating to make certain that every person in Alabama and Mississippi has an opportunity to receive this training. Businesses civic and fraternal organizations, gun clubs, churches, and colleges have pledged assistance.

Among the Hunter Safety Education course topics are several important items that all hunters need to help keep our hunting heritage alive for our children and other generations. Topics like "Personal Code of Ethics," which teaches us "If someone else behaved the way I do, would I respect him?" or "Hunter-Landowner Relations" where an ethical hunter realizes he is a guest of the landowner while hunting on private, as well as public land. While he is hunting, he takes care to leave gates as he found them; is careful to avoid littering; and understands that ruts left by four-wheel drive vehicles can cause soil erosion and other damage to the environment. Sportsmen realize future opportunities for sport hunting will depend on the hunters' public image. If hunters are seen as people who shoot up everything in sight, destroy property, and lack respect, they will lose the privilege to hunt. If, however, hunters follow the traditions of their sport and practice a Personal Code of Ethics that meets public expectations, the future of sport hunting will be assured.

The decision is yours! Courses may be scheduled by calling: Tom Beville Resource Management & Visitor Center, Pickensville, Alabama, Phone (205)373-8705; Waterway Management Center, Columbus, Mississippi, Phone (601) 327-2142 or Bay Springs Resource Management Office, Dennis, Mississippi, Phone (601)454-3481.

USM Physics Workshop Designed For Teachers

Some 20 Mississippi high school teachers will soon make the "Kossuth to the Coast Connection" when the scientific principles of a "Kinetics Cart" and "Force Table" are plugged into a two-week physics workshop at the University of Southern Mississippi July 17-28.

The "K-C Connection" is a phrase USM Physics Professor and workshop director Bill Hughes uses to describe the wide variety of hometowns represented in the workshop, which is funded by the university and state College Board to broaden the scope of physics instruction in Mississippi's secondary schools.

The USM workshop is geared to the college board's "Project '95" teacher education program, which will train teachers to provide "rigorous college preparatory courses" that will help students meet more stringent university admission requirements by 1995. The project also stresses minority access and retention programs.

In addition to the physics workshop, USM educators are involved in several other teacher education programs in the sciences on the Hattiesburg campus this summer.

To date, over 400,000 acres of erodible cropland in Mississippi has been converted to trees under the program.
Recent changes in eligibility standards for CRP now allow for reforestation of certain "cropped wetland" acreages. Several thousand acres of bottomland cropland is expected to be planted to hardwood trees under the new change. Some 7,000 acres of wetlands was designated for tree planting during the previous sign-up period.
Mississippi has the third highest rate of topsoil loss in the nation and CRP and tree planting is one way we can stop soil loss and actually rebuild our soil. Check with your Mississippi Forestry Commission County Forester, Soil Conservationist or the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office for ways you can help to reduce soil loss in Mississippi.

Margaret Wildes Is Guest Speaker

Dr. J.W. Selman of Auburn University has announced that Margaret Underwood Wildes of Tishomingo is one of the guest speakers for the Vocational Administrators' Summer Workshop July 11-13 in Huntsville, AL. Mrs. Wildes teaches a "pilot program" of applied mathematics at Muscle Shoals High School. She has also been teaching advanced algebra and trigonometry.
Occupationally specific problem-solving activities of the applied math program that involve students in relevant activities comprise the course. Materials are based on an integrated presentation of topics in arithmetic, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, probability, estimation, and problem-solving. The materials are oriented toward the application and practice of mathematics concepts and skills in hands-on labs and world-of-work problems.
The course was developed through a consortium of 41 states of Center for Occupational Research and Development in Waco, Texas. The program is being field tested at Muscle Shoals. Mrs. Wildes believes Applied Mathematics ... competency-based, occupationally related modular materials help students develop and refine their skills. She states that it did reduce mathematics anxiety, stressed applications in real-world job situations, emphasized more than a "pencil and paper" level of learning, allowed for a broad range of students entry-level capabilities, and reflected equity standards in both the text and video.
Mrs. Wildes will also be involved in a workshop at CORD headquarters in Waco, Texas, July 24-26. She will be the instructor for "Helping Teachers Use Applied Mathematics" at Auburn University, August 7-11.

South Central Bell Gives Customers RightTouch Service

If you've ever wished the telephone company was "open all night," your wish is about to come true -- at least for some transactions.
Starting in July, South Central Bell customers in the Iuka area will be able to use a new convenience service for home telephones, called RightTouch service, that will allow them to get billing information, check account balances, order a duplicate bill, make payment arrangements, request service be disconnected, or even order Custom Calling features -- all without talking to a service representative.

"RightTouch service is available 24 hours a day for home telephones," said Tom Bailey, South Central Bell District Manager. "Now, some transactions that had to be handled during our normal business hours can be handled at the customer's convenience."
Bailey explained that the service is easy to use and that there is no additional charge for using the service. All anyone needs is a touch-tone phone with tone dialing to place the call and a personal access code.
To do business with RightTouch service, a customer will dial 1 + 557-7777. The customer will be guided step-by-step through the call, responding the questions by pressing the appropriate touch-tone buttons.
Does this mean that anyone has access to your account?
"No," Bailey said. "Each customer will have a personal access code assigned to his or her account. The personal access code allows the customer to access only his or her account when using RightTouch service."
Bailey said the personal access code will be provided on the message section of the customer's telephone bill.
Customers who do not have Touch-Tone service will also get a personal access code, which they can use from any touch-tone telephone in any South Central Bell service area in the state.
"We believe customers will like the choice of doing business with us at their convenience," Bailey said. "It's not a totally new idea. Many businesses, particularly banks, already offer similar services to customers. We see it as another step toward making it easier to do business with us."

Cost-Share Money For Landowners

In the face of rising costs and increasing management complexity, Mississippi Tree Farmers are finding various landowner cost-share programs to be of great value.

Cost-share programs available to Mississippi landowners are as follows:

1. Forest Resource Development Program (FRDP)
2. Forestry Incentive Program (FIP)
3. Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP)

These programs are designed to help private landowners with the cost of establishing or re-establishing a stand of trees. Demand for wood products is expected to exceed supply within 25 years unless more forest land comes under forest management. Most small landowners who control the majority of forest lands in Mississippi do not have the funds to make such long term investments. Therefore, cost-share assistance programs are designed to share their expense.

There are two basic practices available for cost-sharing: planting trees for timber production and improving an existing stand.

The purpose of tree planting under the cost-share programs must be to produce timber and improve the environment. Site preparation is authorized but must be certified by a forester as being necessary.

The purpose of stand improvement must be to increase the growth of sawtimber. Softwood and hardwood improvement practices, and releasing desirable trees are accepted, as well as site preparation for natural reseeding.

To participate in FIP or ACP the landowner should contact the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office. For FRDP, the local Mississippi Forestry Commission County Forester is the initial contact.

Upon qualifying and being approved for cost-share assistance, the landowner is responsible for securing a vendor and completing the work. Upon approval, the following steps need to be taken by the landowner:

1. Secure a management plan approved by the County Forester showing the number of seedlings to be planted and the recommended spacing.
2. Make arrangements for purchasing seedlings.
3. Have boundary lines

clearly established.

4. Contract with reputable vendor to complete recommended work.

5. Notify the County Forester when the work is completed.

Presently a landowner may receive cost-share rates of 65 percent of actual cost, not to exceed established rates.

Whether planting seedlings or improving an existing stand, Mississippi landowners should look into the use of available cost-share assistance.

Words Of Appreciation

I want to say a special thanks to all my family, relatives, and friends who supported me in such a wonderful way during my stay at the Women's Health Center in Tupelo. A warm feeling of gratitude is extended to the churches who had special prayer for me. Also I want to thank everyone who sent cards, flowers and other gifts, those who called by telephone, those who visited both in the hospital and since I have been home, but most of all for your prayers.

God was good to me in answers to the prayers of his people. There's nothing like friends! A short poem on friendship given to me when I was a child by a beloved grandfather goes like this:

"Friendship is not of earthly lineage, but, born in Heaven, it reigns the chiefest Prince among the sons of earth."

He who knows the secret of true friendship has found the heart of God.
May God bless you.

Pre-Planning Provides Peace of Mind & Substantial Savings

Because some day, someone in every family will be faced with making funeral arrangements for a loved one, a Pre-Need Plan offered through Cutshall Funeral Home is designed to take unnecessary hardships out of a death in a family.

One big advantage of planning in advance is that a funeral is planned at today's values. While prices are escalating, your cost remains the same. You have greater flexibility than a pre-need trust or pre-paid funeral.

Example: A person pre-planning a $3,000 funeral at age 65 would pay $2,223, saving $777.00. At age 50 that person would pay $1,771, saving $1,229. (These figures are for example and funeral of different price and for persons of different ages would reflect similar savings. This pre-need plan offered through American Funeral Assurance Company is available from age 0 to 100)

Remember the Cutshall Pre-Need Funeral Plan offered through American Funeral Assurance Company guarantees future values at today's prices, regardless of the rate of inflation.

Find out how easy and beneficial a Pre-Need Plan provided through Cutshall Funeral Home can be. Mail this coupon or call for an appointment with one of our professional planners.

Corinth To Host Slugburger Fest

The Second Annual National Slugburger Fest is scheduled for July 13-15, 1989, at Courtsquare in downtown Corinth. This festival stars Corinth's "escargot," the slugburger, that unique food item only to be found in and around Corinth. The slugburger is a special sandwich made from meat products, soybean meal, and other secret ingredients, deep-fried to perfection and served on a bun with mustard, pickle, and onion.

This year's event will be highlighted by some exciting entertainment featuring Corinth's own Buddy and Kay Bain and The Mornin' Show Band performing from 7 til 9 on Friday night and The Coasters bringing back memories of the 50's singing their super hits on Saturday night with two performances, one at 7:30 followed by the second show at 9:00. Other local and area performers will be on hand throughout the festival to entertain the audience who may want to take a break from riding the many rides of the street carnival and browsing through the arts and crafts booths. Plenty of slugburgers will be serve dup, and for the true slug connoisseur, the tops will be dipped!! Be sure to ask for this special slugburger touch!!

Saturday afternoon promises to be a barrel of laughs with the slugburger eating contest, the Slugburger Queen pageant, and other zany games featuring the slugburger. Anyone interested in reserving a booth for arts and crafts may contact the Downtown Corinth Association office at 286-6733 for further information. Boating accident At Spillway

The body of an Alcorn County man was recovered yesterday, approximately three miles downstream from Pickwick Dam, after a three day search by the Hardin County Rescue Squad and other volunteers. He and his wife were involved in a boating accident Sunday afternoon, July 9, according to reports.

The body of John Samuel Weatherbee, 26, of Route 4 Corinth, was found mid-day Tuesday, July 11, near Shiloh, a Hardin County spokesman confirmed.

Lindy Weatherbee, 25, wife of the victim was rescued by witnesses soon after the couple's 16-foot fiberglass ski boat was sucked through the spillway at the dam, just across the Tennessee state line, a report indicated. Apparently the couple, who had only recently been married, pulled their boat up along side the back of the dam (on the lake side) where they hoped to watch the water spilling over, when strong currents pulled them and their boat down and through the spillgate, said sources.

The boat, the couple was in at the time of the accident, was found only in pieces throughout the area below the dam.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:
Recently the Red Cross in Tishomingo County conducted a fund drive by mail. The following letter was sent to many county businesses. If you did not receive a letter and would like to make a donation, please do so. Even though this drive was very helpful we still need monies for new equipment.
Dear Local Business,
It has been four years since the Tishomingo County

Chapter of the American Red Cross has had any kind of fund drive or major contributions. Since I have been executive secretary, I have tried to limit our solicitations. But due to rising costs and wear and tear on equipment, it is now necessary for me to ask for your help.

Our chapter may be a quiet one, but that doesn't mean we haven't been busy. In the past four years, we have taught 453 people CPR, 167 people 1st Aid, and 108 people Lifeguard Training. We have helped 9 families in replacing or finding living quarters and living necessities following natural disaster in the amount of $2628.00.

Recently 12 CPR instructors spent two whole days being retrained. Some of these people had tolliterally miss two days of work, while others paid child care. No instructor is ever paid, and they have donated 1041 hours in teaching safety classes to our county.

Our Resusiannes (used in CPR) are being reworked (instead of buying new ones) to save money, but an occasional new one is needed. These manikins are quite expensive.

Did you know that due to efforts of the Red Cross, deaths from drowning each year have decreased from 7000 to less than 700, in just a few short years?

Also, your chapter offers help to our servicemen and their families. Last year the Tishomingo County Red

Save Your Eyesight

If you wear contact lenses, you may get a lecture on the misuse of homemade solutions made from salt tablets for the cleaning of your lenses. Listen. That lecture may save your eyesight.

To save money, some contact lens wearers make their own saline solutions from salt tablets dissolved in water instead of buying bottles of sterile saline solution. But even homemade solutions using distilled water are not sterile. So the Food and Drug Administration has required strong new warnings on salt tablets intended for this use.

But since people don't always notice a label change on a product they've been using, FDA also have written the nation's 50,000 ophthalmologists, optometrists and opticians asking them to warn patients:

-Don't put homemade salt solutions directly in your eyes.

-Use homemade salt solutions only in connection with heat disinfection never afterward.

Some contact lens users think the salt itself kills germs. But it doesn't kill much microorganisms as Acanthamoeba, which can be present in water. And Acanthamoeba infections, which can lead to blindness, may be on the increase. Recently about 200 cases have been reported.

Once Acanthamoeba is established, a surgeon have to cut into the eye to remove the infection. To restore vision, a corneal transplant may be needed. One recently appeared on television—at FDA's describing two years and six operations restored only a little eye's vision.

FDA says:
-You can safely use homemade saline in connection with heat disinfection, but NEVER WARD.

-Never use in the eye a wetting solution.

-Never use with hydrogen peroxide or hydrogen peroxide solution, because it not always kill the amoeba.

-If you prepare a saline solution from tablets, prepare it fresh, discarding what's left and sterilize the bottle with boiling water once a week.

Chocolate Cream Pie makes a comeback as a delectable "comfort food." "Never-fail" corn starch meringue assures delicious results.

Chocolate Cream Pie

- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup Argo corn starch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 2 squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate, coarsely chopped
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 baked (9-inch) pastry shell
- Never Fail Meringue

In 2-quart saucepan stir sugar, corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in milk until smooth. Stir in egg yolks; add chocolate. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium-low heat; boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Turn into large bowl; cover surface with plastic wrap. Cool slightly (no longer than 1 hour). Spoon into pastry shell. Spread with Never Fail Meringue, sealing edges to crust. Bake in 350°F oven 15 to 18 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool at room temperature. Makes 8 servings.

Never Fail Meringue: In 1-quart saucepan stir 1 tablespoon Argo corn starch and 2/3 cup water until smooth. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat; boil 1 minute. Cover surface with plastic wrap; cool to room temperature. In small bowl beat 3 room-temperature egg whites and dash salt at high speed until foamy. Add 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; beat well after each addition. Continue beating just until stiff peaks form; beat in corn starch mixture.
