GREETINGS

Public Hearing January 10th

The Mississippi Environmental Quality Permit board will conduct a public hearing in Iuka on January 10 to explain and hear comments on NASA's application for an air emissions permit to construct the ASRM production facility at Yellow Creek. The hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Howard Auditorium at Iuka High School. Before the permit is issued, public comment is solicited by the board and considered in the final decision.

The impact of the emissions of air contaminants from the project has been evaluated and the staff of the Permit Board believes that, with proper constraints and limitations on NASA, this project will operate within all state and federal air pollution control laws and standards and will protect public health and welfare. Therefore, the staff of the board has preliminarily decided, based on available information, to recommend to the board that a permit be issued containing numerous regulatory constraints specifically stated in the draft permit.

The applicant's proposed operation will consist of processes and emission facilities for the casting and curing of solid propellant. Emissions or air pollutants associated with manufacturing operations include particulate matter, carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxides, sulfur oxide, volatile organic compounds, hydrocarbons, and hydrogen chloride. Air toxics were considered in the review of the application. NASA has also submitted an application for open burning of waste propellant. However, that application is being reviewed separately and will be the subject of a separate action.

In addition to commenting at the public hearing, anyone wishing to comment on this project can do so by mailing comments directly to Jay H. Barkley at the Department of Environmental Quality, Office of Pollution Control, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, Mississippi 39289-0385. Such comments should be submitted as soon as possible, but will be considered as long as they are received on or before January 17.

A copy of the draft permit, permit application, and an information packet are available for review at the Iuka Public Library on 204 North Main St. in Iuka. The material is also available at Hardin County Library in Savannah, and the Lauderdale Public Library in Florence.

Additional information or questions concerning the permit application may be directed to Jay Barkley at the above address or telephone (601) 961-5171.

The buses will then be used on December 26 to transport the guardsmen back to active duty. Company C, the local unit, was called to service on December 7. Christmas Program

The First Baptist Church, in Burnsville, will have a Christmas program on Sunday, December 23, at 5:30 p.m. The public is invited to come and join us in this special Christmas celebration.

Shawn Yarber (left) has just presented Mr. Harvey Pendergrast, (president) of the Burnsville area Chamber of Commerce, with some 150 or more toys for distribution to the less fortunate children at Christmas.

Shawn selected cleaning and refinishing toys as his Eagle Project in Scouting. He hopes to make Christmas more joyful for the children of this area. He wishes to thank the boys who helped him clean the toys.

Also he thanks the people of Piggly Wiggly in luka and B & J in Burnsville for their contribution and help in making this effort a big success.

Shawn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby L. Yarber and a Boy Scout in Troop 75 of Burnsville with Duane Hamm as Scout Master.

A Big Leaf -- Among the mustard greens raised by Mrs. Franklin Jaynes of Rt. 1, luka, was this leaf, 15 inches by 24 inches in size. This year's garden was the first ever planted by Mrs. Jaynes.

baits and traps can also help.

Remember that young children put things in their mouths and they also touch what interests them. Follow directions on the label when using baits and traps.

WATCHING THE SCALES

Scales infestations on fruit trees and ornamental shrubs should be controlled when the trees and shrubs are dormant -- after leaves have dropped and before buds begin to swell.

Two applications of a dormant oil may be necessary at least one week and not more than 10 days apart to control these pests. Complete coverage of limbs and trunks is necessary for good control.

INSIGHT INTO EYESIGHT

DR. PHILLIP GRAY
OPTOMETRIST

CAUSES OF EYESTRAIN

There is a collection of symptoms that people lump under the term "eyestrain." This includes tiring of eyes when reading, a tight or pulling sensation around the brows, and a general feeling of fatigue centered in the eyes.

Most often eyestrain simply indicates that an individual has reached his or her threshold of eye use and is ready for a rest. Your eyes do have limits, and the limits vary from person to person. By and large, you must live with this, but there are some common-sense measures you can take to maximize the amount of time you can read or use your eyes intensely before tiring. Getting enough sleep is important, as is a good diet. Good lighting can help, and so can taking a break from time to time.

If you do find that your eyes are getting tired more often and more easily, however, visit your optometrist. He or she can rule out muscle imbalance or the need for glasses -- or prescribe them if necessary.

cover tightly. Place 2 teaspoons in cup in boiling water to serve. Yield: 30 servings.

GIFT IDEAS FROM BEVERAGE MIXES
For gift giving, place hot chocolate mix or hot mocha mix in a small coffee pot or in a large mug. You might put the spice tea mix or the orange refresher mix in a small teapot or a pretty glass jar. For a special gift, fill small plastic bags with each of the beverage mixes and place in 4 mugs on a mug tree.

HAVE A SAFE & HAPPY HOLIDAY

With Christmas just five days away, now is the time we are going over our lists and checking them twice, to be sure we've completed all of our shopping and baking for gifts. I hope that each of you can take the time to reflect on this past year and the goals you have reached and perhaps the progress you've made toward other goals.

Remember those who may be far from family and friends. Try to include them in your holiday celebrations. Fast approaching, remember that you are not the only one with deadlines to make and budgets to meet. Try to treat others around you in a way you would like to be treated. Remember family members that may not be close and give them a phone call. Just hearing a voice can help you get over the Holiday Blues, especially if you're away from family.

Do you remember the Highway Safety Slogan a few years back "Arrive Alive"? So often joyous occasions turn into tragedies because of carelessness while traveling.

Here are a few safety tips for being on the road:

- *Get plenty of rest before you start.
- *Stop for ten minutes after every two hours of driving.
- *Be aware of changing weather conditions, and plan time for possible delays.
- *Do not drink and drive and avoid riding with a person who has been drinking.
- *Select a designated driver for that special celebration.

I hope everyone has a safe and happy holiday and a wonderful new year.

May this be your brightest, happiest
Christmas!

Pharmacy & Your Health

Nitroglycerin Relieves Angina Pain

Nitroglycerin is a blood vessel dilator medicine that is used to prevent and/or reduce the severity of discomfort and pain associated with angina pectoris. Angina is thought to be caused by an insufficient flow of blood through the vessels of the heart. Nitroglycerin relieves chest pain by relaxing the muscles that surround the blood vessels in the heart, thus allowing more blood and oxygen to reach the heart.

Nitroglycerin in its various dosage forms can cause brief or temporary headache, facial and neck flushing, weakness, and dizziness. One may need to sit down for a few minutes after taking nitroglycerin.

Sublingual Tablets: Small nitroglycerin tablets that are to be placed under the tongue are called sublingual tablets. They should not be swallowed. As the sublingual tablet dissolves, the medicine is absorbed into blood vessels inside the mouth. Pain may be relieved in 2 to 3 minutes.

Oral Tablets and Capsules: Long-acting oral capsules or tablets may prevent angina pain for 8 to 12 hours.

Topical Dosage Forms: Nitroglycerin also may be absorbed through the skin from an ointment or a skin patch.

POINSETTIAS YEAR-ROUND

Poinsettias are beautiful to give and receive each Christmas. With proper care and good cultural practices, these festive plants can be kept year-round to bloom every Christmas.

Let the soil in the pot dry, but don't let the stem shrivel. Keep the plant in a warm area as it becomes semi-dormant. When the danger of frost is gone in early spring, re-pot the poinsettia and place it outdoors.

Keep the plant moist and well-fertilized during spring and summer. When cooler weather arrives in fall, move the plant back indoors. Put it in an area where it will get good sunlight during the day and a temperature no lower than 60 degrees at night.

From mid-September until blooming time in late November, protect the poinsettia from stray light after sundown. Make a cover by using dark material or a cardboard box.

CHRISTMAS STORIES

Stories circulate each holiday season in Tishomingo County that children have died from eating poinsettia leaves. Those stories simply aren't true.

If eaten, poinsettia leaves are not life-threatening. They shouldn't be eaten, of course, because some individuals could be allergic to them.

However, there are several Christmas plants that are poisonous. Caution and care are required in their use.

Jerusalem cherry pot plants are prized for their bright red berries. Those berries -- and other parts of the plant -- contain a poisonous substance.

Azalea plants have toxic leaves, twigs, flowers and pollen grains. Mistletoe and holly berries also contain poisonous materials. Keep these plants out of reach from young children and pets.

COLD WEATHER PESTS

Silverfish, firebrats and cockroaches are more noticeable in homes when cold weather settles in. They are also bothersome because they carry germs, breed and hide.

Control these pests with a spray containing Diazinon, Dursban or Malathion. Spray closet, cabinets, walls, storage rooms, bookcases and fireplace areas. Remove dishes, towels, clothing and food before spraying to avoid contamination.

Boxelder insects are another pest attracted to the indoors during winter. They are brownish-black with long red stripes on the throat. And while these insects won't harm clothing, food or structures, they do leave excrement and produce a foul smell if mashed.

Control boxelders with Diazinon or Malathion.

Rats and mice can be pests year-round, but like other house invaders, they get noticed when it's cold and people are home.

Rodents seek shelter for warmth and food, and the best way to control them is to close access routes into houses and storage areas. Special

At The Old Courthouse

By: Christian Evans

Two weeks before Christmas and all through the courthouse
Not a creature was stirring not even a mouse.

The trees were sitting in the corner all bare in hopes that Mrs. Thorne and her students soon would be there.

I at my desk, Mr. Wadkins on the phone, Mrs. Cutshall in her office was typing all alone.

When at the front door there arose such a clatter
I sprang from my desk to see what was the matter.
When what to my wonder,ag
eyes should appear?
Mrs. Thorne and her students full of good cheer!

They said, "My, those are the prettiest cedar trees we've every seen."
I said, "Thank you, they were donated by Mr. Dewitt Bean."
The students had strung popcorn and cranberries on a line. Which they wrapped around the trees while having a big old time.
"How," they ask "did you get these big trees in the hall?"
I replied, "It was done by Troop 26 Boy Scouts...
Shane Kramer and Trey Cutshall.

They all worked hard and had an awful lot of fun,
Mrs. Thorne, the students, and Mr. and Mrs. Harrelson.
All did a great job making ornaments for the tree, paper dolls and snowflakes by the Girl Scouts and children at Iuka Elementary.

The wreaths and poinsettias look great as into the building you enter,
Thanks to Friendly Florist,
Iuka Flower Shop, and McBrides Garden Center.

Everyone loved all the old fashioned toys
The girls liked Miss Willie Hiett's Dolls (from Iuka Baptist Church) and the iron trucks from Mr. Ed Beck were enjoyed by all the boys.

For the candy canes we would like to thank,
All the nice folks at Iuka Guaranty Bank.
Iuka Police got our mistletoe, and on the Christmas trees hang little red bows.

Mrs. Thorne, like a mother
Hen gathering her chicks
She said, "Let's go people!
Quick! Quick! Quick!

So everyone left,
It was all done.
I was sure happy, that we all had fun.
And I heard them exclaim as they walked out the door,
"Call us if you need us,
We'll come back and do more."

So now at the Old Courthouse
All is calm and ready to view,
Please come to our Christmas Open House
Thursday Evening, December 20, from 4:00 - 6:00 p.m.

We can't wait to see you!

Marie's Hamburgers Closes After 19 Years

When Marie Philbin opened Marie's Snack Bar in downtown Iuka almost 19 years ago, she served hamburgers off the grill for only ten cents apiece.

This Saturday will be her last day to open the door of the well-known cafe on Front St. Marie will turn off her grill for good when the last customer leaves on December 22.

Although she is ready to retire from cooking and running the business in the crowded, one-room building, Marie says she will miss her customers.

"This is like a second home for me, since I've been here so long," she said. "I've made many friends, and we're kind of like one big family."

Since January of 1972, from Monday through Saturday (excluding Thursday and Sunday), Marie has heated the grill for early morning customers wanting eggs, sausage, grilled cheese, or "Whatever they'd like me to fix." By mid-morning, the usual lunch crowd is ordering, and Marie hovers over the grill, preparing her famous hamburgers, cheeseburgers, hot dogs, and other specialties. Coffee, sweet rolls, snacks and soft drinks are available anytime for drop-ins stopping by to chat or share some news.

"This is probably the information center of the town," Marie said with a smile. "We always hear plenty of gossip and all the happenings."

Getting to know people has been part of the job, Marie said, since she has always chatted with her customers over the counter as she cooks.

"I guess I've learned what everybody likes when they come by," she said.

It's customary to hear "fix me two just like I like them" from the regulars, Marie's husband Dexter (Deck) added.

Sounds of laughter and good-natured talk can usually be heard from Marie's door. Some friends wave or yell a friendly hello as they pass by.

A collection of photographs on the walls of the cafe contains dozens of snapshots of some of Marie's friends -- city officials, deliverymen, regular customers, and visitors who stop in to sample her cooking.

The little building, furnished with several stools and a couple of tables against the wall, dates back to the 1950s when it was a cab stand operated by Tom Akers. The late Clarence Edmondson and his wife

Della put in the snack bar and ran it for 17 years. After that, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy James were proprietors of the snackbar. Ann Johnson, Marie's sister, assumed ownership of the cafe for 3½ years until 1972, when the Philbins became owners.

Marie confesses that she didn't know a lot about running a business when she started out, but with the help of the Lord, her daughter-in-law, who worked with her for a while, and her husband, she developed a "real good little business."

Iuka is home for the Philbins, but after Dexter joined the U.S. Air Force in 1951, the family spent the next 20 years moving here and there before returning home. The couple has four children: Barbara lives in Dallas, Texas, Janet lives in Jackson, MS., Michael lives in Atlanta, and Stephen lives at home. Marie speaks proudly of her four grandchildren -- three girls and a boy.

Marie is unsure of her long-term plans after she closes the door of the snack bar and switches the wooden pineapple sign to read CLOSED for the last time Saturday afternoon. One thing is certain, however: she leaves Sunday for a relaxing Christmas holiday in Texas with her daughter and grandchildren.

Harmony Club Christmas Party

The Harmony Extension Homemakers Club met for their Christmas Party on December 17, 1990 in the lovely home of Becky and Earl Walker.

Becky opened the meeting by giving the thought for the month, "All of us are born for a reason, but all of us don't discover why. Success in life has nothing to do with what you gain in life or accomplish for yourself. It's what you do for others."

Becky gave a reading, "A Christmas Pageant." Also ten things we could do to help others and ourselves to help make Christmas more meaningful. Each member was asked to tell the worst disappointed Christmas we had ever experienced. Then she read an article on a disappointment at Christmas.

Secret Pal gifts were opened and secret pals revealed. Names were drawn for next year.

Every member was present except one inactive member who is ill and couldn't attend. A box of gifts from the members was fixed for her and Joyce Robertson will deliver it to her.

Julie Walker was our guest and served as Santa.

Everyone gathered around the piano and sang a number of Christmas Carols, after which delicious refreshments were served.

The meeting adjourned with the January meeting to be with Marquita Greenaway.

The Hawn Family Says Goodbye to Iuka

Greg and I would like to take this time to say a special thank you to our friends at Fifth Street Baptist, to the Iuka School District, and to the community for your kindness and generosity to us during our last two and a half years here in Iuka. We have enjoyed the opportunity to work with the youth and we will miss them very much. There are so many of you that have become such a special part of our lives, we want you to know that we have many precious memories to take with us. We love you and our prayer, as we leave is that God will bless and keep you until we meet again.

Burnsville Band Returns

The return of Burnsville band last year started a long and hard journey back to the top. Burnsville had not had a band in three years, so the new band members had their work cut out for them.

They had to start over from the beginning. During the first year they did not even have a Band Booster Club supporting them. This year everything seemed to take a turn for the better. A new band director, Mr. Charles Crum, took on the responsibility of training the new band members (approximately 34). It took a lot of hard work and dedication by Mr. Crum as well as the band members to achieve their goals. A new Booster Club was formed during the year. New uniforms made and paid for by the new Booster Club.

The hard work paid off for the band, they placed first place in two parades, and second in one parade. Congratulations Band!

Special thanks to Mr. Charles Crum, who helped make all of this possible!

In Appreciation

On behalf of Company C, 1st 198th Armor, I would like to express by great appreciation to the luka Separate Municipal School District and the City of luka, in providing bus transportation to the soldiers of the unit during this holiday period. It has been our prayer that we soon join our loved ones to celebrate the birth of our Savior. Your support and sacrifice has answered this prayer and insured a joyful holiday, during this most trying time. We recognized the burden placed on families, with fathers, sons, and husbands absent from their families. We pray that this absence is short and the conflict peacefully solved. However, our soldiers are committed to the mission and each man knows his duty.

Continue to hold us in your prayers as we serve our State and Nation. Again, thank you for your support. We salute you.

James Oliver, Captain
Armor Commanding

Tishomingo Homemakers' Christmas

The Tishomingo Homemaker's Club met December 7 for a night of fellowship, food, and gift giving.

We first receive a blessing by visiting with the residents at the luka Nursing Facility and presenting each resident with a gift.

In route back to the restaurant, we stopped at Wal-Mart for a few minutes of shopping.

Back at the Southern Style Restaurant in Midway, Shirley Thorne opened the program by reading the thought for the month: "All of us are born for a reason, but all of us don't discover why. Success in life has nothing to do with what you gain in life or accomplish or yourself. It's what you do for others." She then read "Twas the Night Before Jesus Came", and Jean Starkey led in prayer. Jean then suggested that we all forget our problems at home and enjoy an evening of fun, and that we did.

Plans were made to take fruit to the clients at Timber Hills the week before Christmas.

After an enjoyable meal, the highlight of the evening came when we exchanged our gifts and discovered who our secret pal had been this year. We then drew for our new secret pals for 1991.

We welcome our newest member, Gail Strickland.

Those enjoying this special occasion were Johnnie Strickland, Kathy Bryam, Ruth Gatlin, Willard Strickland, Letris Byram, Prncie Morgan, Eva Mae Strickland, Johnnie Hopkins, Gail Strickland, Jean Starkey, and Shirley Thorne, JoAnn Blackburn was unable to attend, and we all missed her.

Our next meeting will be January 15 at Willard's house.

Merry Christmas

Vitamins, Minerals & Your Health

Iron and Vitamin C: A Good Combination

I am trying to control my cholesterol level. Rarely do I eat red meat. I take an iron supplement to prevent anemia. Are there other vitamins or minerals that I should consider taking?

Red meat is a primary source of iron. Iron deficiency anemia and low iron levels are especially common in children, teenagers, and premenopausal women. It may be wise for persons who seldom eat red meat to obtain additional iron.

Most iron that is consumed is not absorbed, however. A significant quantity of the mineral passes through the gastrointestinal tract and is excreted. A report published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition indicates that taking vitamin C with iron increases the amount of the mineral that is absorbed into the bloodstream. Therefore, getting additional vitamin C in the diet should be considered.

Eleven women having low iron levels were studied. Some of the women took 500 mg of vitamin C with meals three times a day. The others did not receive the vitamin. All of the women were placed on diets that contained the same amount of iron and calories (about 14 mg of elemental iron in 2,000 calories). During the six-week study, the women who received vitamin C absorbed 38% of the iron in their diets as compared to 27% absorption in women who did not receive the vitamin.

PEACE ON EARTH

The legends of the season add to its beauty

There are countless legends that have grown up around the season of Christmas.

In Italy, the legend of La Befana tells of the Three Kings who came to her home, in search of the Infant Jesus. They invited La Befana to join them on their journey to Bethlehem, but she refused, for she was too busy cleaning her house. The following day, the old woman set out to overtake the Three Kings, but she never did, nor did she ever reach Bethlehem.

She would stop wherever there was a child, leaving a gift, in hopes that she would find the Christ Child. That is why Italian children await gifts brought by La Befana on January 5th. If they've been naughty however, she will leave them lumps of coal instead!

A legend that originated in Sweden tells of the Christmas rose. According to the story, a monk was tending his garden when a woman appeared, saying that she was the wife of a robber living in the forest. She told the monk of some beautiful flowers that bloomed in the forest on Christmas Eve. He persuaded her to lead him to the forest in exchange for obtaining a pardon for her husband.

On Christmas Eve, the snow disappeared and the forest bloomed, as the woman had said. But the snow began to fall again, and the monk, heartbroken, died clutching one of the blossoms. Its root was planted in the monastery garden, where it bloomed into a beautiful rose, and the robber was pardoned.

Another legend tells of a woodcutter and his wife and children who lived in a hut in the forest. The family was poor, but their home was filled with love.

One Christmas Eve, as the family ate a humble meal, there was a knock at the door.

The woodcutter opened the door to find a small boy, shivering with cold. A blanket was wrapped about him and he was given some of the modest repast. That night, the boy stayed with the woodcutter's family, and the next morning, the woodcutter found the boy standing in the middle of the room, surrounded by a dazzling light. It was the Christ Child.

He took a stick from the fireplace and thrust it into the ground outside the hut. Promising the woodcutter that the stick would become an evergreen tree to bear fruit so that the family need never suffer from hunger during winter, the Christ Child disappeared.

A beautiful legend concerning the poinsettia comes to us from Mexico. It seems that a poor young boy had nothing to offer the Christ Child on Christmas Eve, as was the custom in his village.

Thinking that at least he could pray, he knelt outside the church window. Rising to his feet, he discovered a beautiful plant with scarlet leaves right in the spot where he had knelt. He took the flower and placed it on the altar. The plant became known as "The Flower of the Holy Night" in Mexico.

ourselves were immortal.

It was a time of slower pace, when we seemed to see, hear and savor more...the ordinary things such as the squeak of the snow under our boots, the frosty feel of a snowflake on our cheek - the tingle as our ears burned in the wintry wind.

With what joyous anticipation we watched Father uncover the sleds, noted with pride the name "Flexible Flyer, for they were the fleetest on the icy hills.

We remember the delicious fragrances coming from the kitchen as Mother prepared the fruit cakes, baked the cookies and foolishly set them aside to cool, not beyond our childish reach. We remember the great Bird and its crusty brown goodness, and the crunchy, tart whole cranberry sauce accompanying.

And caroling! We looked forward to it to gathering with friends and caroling on street-corners as the lamps overhead flickered and lighted up each rosy face. How proud we were to "sing in part", to give each jolly song, each hymn its special best.

And when we came in from our various rounds, we remember the all-encompassing warmth as we stood over the floor grate! The heat rushed through our corduroys and serge garments and our boots.

These are the senses of home, the wondrously comforting "little" things that meant Christmas to many of us. Many years ago. We Return to them, nostalgically.

"The Robin"

The Robin legend was designed by Jonathan King in London in 1867. The robin wears a red vest because he fanned the embers of the stable fire, to keep the Christ child warm, legend says.

From our family to yours, the merriest of Christmas holidays!

The joyous bells heard this Christmas have roots dating back to historical times

We experience Christmas with all of our senses, enjoying the evocative fragrance of evergreens, the bright colors of the decorations festooned everywhere, the haunting, spicy flavor of freshly baked cookies.

The traditional glass balls hung from the tree have a particular feel to them, smooth and cool to the fingertips, and markedly in contrast to the roughness of bark or the stinging prick of pine needles.

But, most of all, we hear Christmas in a myriad of ways—the joyful carols, the laughter of children as the holiday excitement builds, and the ringing of bells...everywhere, the ringing of bells.

Just walk downtown, and listen to the bells rung by the Santas posted at every street corner. Their bells serve as a reminder, not only of the season's pleasures, but of the season's spirit—the importance of giving to those less fortunate than we are.

Merry little bells decorate Christmas stockings and hang from tree branches, tinkling every time the tree is touched. And, great, sonorous bells call the faithful to prayer, their ringing adding an important top note to the Christmas tableau.

Like so many other aspects of the Christmas season, bell-ringing has ancient roots. During many pre-Christian mid-winter celebrations, bells were rung because it was believed that repeated loud noise would drive away the lurking evil spirits that caused the frightening phenomenon of winter, and ensure the rebirth of life which occurred in spring.

Early Christians believed bells to have powers over their physical well-being as well as their spiritual health, so much so that in the early centuries A.D. priests regularly blessed bells before they were hung in the church steeple.

Even after being taken down and buried (in wartime, for instance), church bells can still be heard ringing on Christmas Eve, according to legend, at least by true believers.

In medieval times, the church bells were rung to announce Christ's redemption of the world. And, in parts of England, church bells would ring each morning for three days before Christmas as a reminder of that holiday's approach.

One English custom, still practiced in some localities even today, is Tolling the Devil's Knell, also called The Old Lad's Passing Bell, which occurs on Christmas Eve.

The sonorous sounds of church bells ringing the Devil's Knell—a death knell, because folklore holds that the Devil died at Christ's birth—precede the joyous ringing after midnight has struck, to mark the day of Christ's birth.

An eerie folk story of Christmas bell-ringing comes from the French region of Brittany.

According to this tale, a blacksmith chose to ignore the bells which rang for Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve and, despite the sacred nature of the evening, continued with his work.

He was interrupted by a customer, an old, crooked man carrying a broken scythe, which he asked the smith to repair. This the blacksmith did, not knowing that the old man was the personification of Death, and his scythe the tool he used for his work.

By dawn of Christmas Day, the blacksmith was dead, a victim of his own blasphemy, for by working on such a holy day he had grievously flouted its sanctity.

Church bells were not the only bells associated with traditional Christmas celebrations. In many communities, carolers were accompanied by hand bell-ringers when they made their rounds.

In other communities, bell-ringers donned masks and went from door to door on Christmas Eve. These bell-ringers, called Belsnickles, were often repaid with a plate of cookies, also called Belsnickles, a recipe for which [reproduced from Mimi Sheraton's classic cookbook of Christmas sweets, Visions of Sugarplums (Harper & Row)] is given below.

- BELSNICKLES
- 1/2 cup (1/4 pound) melted unsalted butter
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 whole egg
 - 2 egg yolks
 - 1 to 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 - Pinch of salt
 - Granulated sugar, for sprinkling

Pour butter over sugar and beat until creamy. Add eggs and beat well. Sift flour twice with baking soda and salt. Resift gradually into butter mixture, adding only enough flour to make a dough you can roll. Beat thoroughly until mixture holds together. Chill several hours. Roll out to paper thinness on a lightly floured board. Cut into 1-inch rounds, sprinkle liberally with granulated sugar and place on a buttered baking sheet. Bake in preheated 400° oven for 8 to 10 minutes, or until faintly golden around the edges.

Makes 4 to 5 dozen cookies.

Today, some of our most popular holiday songs evoke the cheerful chiming of bells at Christmastime. "Jingle Bells," which dates from the middle of the 19th century and which was written for a Boston Sunday School event, is probably the most famous of these, but also very well-known is the enchanting "Silver Bells," a paean to the joys of Christmas in the city, which was performed in the 1951 Bob Hope movie, The Lemon Drop Kid, but popularized by Bing Crosby.

More meaningful by far is the poem "Christmas Bells," by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, which has, since its composition during the Civil War, been set to a variety of tunes. In it, the joy the Christmas bells evoke is contrasted with the pain caused by war and killing. The poet cries out in anguish, but the bells peel their reassuring response:

"The Wrong shall fail,
The Right prevail,
With peace on earth, good-will to men!"

It is this message that Christmas brings to the world each year, reminding us anew of the importance of love, compassion and kindness—the most basic fabric of the Christmas spirit.

Dixie Doin's: Feasts, Festivities Adapted For Southern-Style Christmas

Centuries-old European customs are the most commonly practiced during the Christmas season, but an encyclopedia co-edited by two University of Mississippi professors credits Southerners with having created in few holiday traditions of their own.

For example, according to the "Encyclopedia of Southern Culture," the wide-spread acceptance of poinsettias as the Christmas flower dates from 1825, when a Charleston, S.C., man with that name brought the red-leaved plant from Mexico as a gift.

Southerners also replaced the European firs and cedars with pines as the Christmas tree in the South. Other regional touches include the substitution of turkey and seafood for the traditional European beef and goose at holiday feasts.

Parties and the exchanging of gifts at Christmas were toned down by the Puritans, who regarded excessive holiday festivities as almost sacrilegious. That all changed once

THE JOYFUL RINGING OF BELLS ushers in the merriment of the Christmas season. Here, in an 1874 illustration from Harper's Weekly entitled "Santa Claus is Coming!" by Thomas Worth, a bearded angel rings the bells as Santa arrives in his reindeer-driven sleigh. SX901859

Christmas made its way south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

The encyclopedia states that in back-country rural areas, plantation houses became the scene of sometimes extravagant Christmas parties, eating and drinking. Bourbon-soaked fruitcakes baked from family recipes and eggnog with rum quickly became Southern favorites at Christmas. Games -- including an early-morning hunt for deer, rabbit, duck or quail -- became a standard activity by men and boys on Christmas day.

The French in Louisiana originated the use of fireworks at Christmas and burning of bonfires along the Mississippi River on Christmas Eve. To this day, in the South fireworks can be seen and heard on Christmas Day as much, or even more so, than on the Fourth of July.

"Perhaps the reason Southerners seem to go all out for Christmas is that they have always enjoyed having a good time," said Dr. Bill Ferris, director of the Center for Southern Studies at Ole Miss and co-editor with Dr. Charles Wilson of the "Encyclopedia of Southern Culture." "It dates back to antebellum days when living was much more simple and people got together for relaxation and recreation."

"Though Southerners are not exempt from the stress and pressures life can bring, they find celebrations and festivities as ways to ease the tension," Ferris added.

As an example, Ferris related the story circulated in Cajun country of how Santa Claus used alligators to pull his sleigh through the Louisiana away from the South, if they have family in the South, they always come home for Christmas," he added.

The Wassail Bowl

The Wassail Bowl is the center of adult festivities in Scotland. Its origin is lost in antiquity, but tradition has endowed the Wassail Bowl with legendary romance. It is ornate in design and decorated with branches of greenery. The mixture within is warm and sweet, and wine is sometimes added to the ale and sugar and spices.

Old-fashioned Christmas has special appeal

An old-fashioned Christmas! What wonderful memories and images that expression evokes! In the days before Christmas, Mother would be busy at the old wood stove, baking special breads, pies, cakes and sugar cookies, or making maple sugar candy. Sister would be helping mother in the kitchen, while brother kept the wood box filled with wood. Dad would go into the woods and chop down the Christmas tree, bringing it home triumphantly on a sled. The tree was placed in the parlor, with real candles decorating it, as well as strings of popcorn and cranberries that had been strung by the children. Popcorn balls wrapped in tinfoil, and paper cones filled with homemade candy also decorated the tree.

The Christmas season actually began much earlier in the old days, for most gifts were handmade and so had to be worked on months in advance. The boys often made wooden objects, while the girls might embroider handkerchiefs or aprons. Mother, of course, kept her needles busy as she knit or crocheted garments for the whole family. Dad would whittle whistles or animals, or make a hobby horse or wooden doll.

On Christmas Eve, at the old country church, the tree was the biggest you'd ever seen, ablaze with candles.

Nearby someone held a ten-foot pole that had a wet sponge tied on the end, should a fire start.

The bells would ring out over the countryside, bringing families in their sleighs or bobsleds, eager to worship the new-born King. What a delightful, jingling sound the bells on the horses would make, as they trotted through the snowy countryside. The bobsled or sleigh would be filled with hay, and the youngsters would snuggle under lap robes and gaze at the stars above, or hop on one of the heavy runners for an exciting ride.

A Christmas play would be performed at the church by the children, and afterwards Santa would make an appearance, rewarding the youngsters with goodies.

After hanging their stockings over the fireplace on Christmas Eve, the children would go to bed, happy with anticipation. They slept in big, fluffy beds, with feather ticks and feather comforters. If it was an especially cold night, mother would wrap a hot iron in flannel to warm their feet.

On Christmas morning, the youngsters would dash downstairs to find their stockings filled with nuts, apples, peppermint canes, hard ribbon candy, tin horns and a real orange in the toe of each stocking!

After Christmas dinner, the youngsters would go sledding or skating. Later, by the lamplight, the family might gather around the organ and sing carols, or perhaps dad would read a favorite scripture passage or a poem.

Christmas of long ago was a simple, unhurried, and happy time.

Poinsettias Make Home Festive For Holidays

The Aztecs valued poinsettias for their red brilliance centuries ago, and little has changed since then except the varieties and patterns of color introduced by today's plant breeders.

Down through history, decorators have graced hallways, tables and windows with the colorful plants. And in 1990, consumers are finding new ways to use poinsettias to make their home a little more festive for Christmas.

"Christmas just wouldn't be Christmas without the beautiful poinsettias," said Dr. David Tatum, extension ornamentals specialist with the horticulture department at Mississippi State University. "Because of the choice in color, size, shape and texture, there is a poinsettia out there to fit every mood, color scheme and pocketbook."

Poinsettias are native to Mexico, and were first cultivated in the present-day region of Taxco. The plant the Aztecs called "Cuetlaxochitl" symbolized purity and it also had practical value. The colorful leaves, or bracts, were used to make a reddish-purple dye; the milky juice, or latex, was made in medicine to combat fever.

In the 17th century, some Franciscan priests settled in Taxco, and fell in love with the vivid red plant classified by a German taxonomist as Euphorbia Pulcherrima. Because the blooming time fell near Christmas, the priests used poinsettias in the Fiesta of Santa Pesebre, a nativity celebration.

Poinsettias were imported to the United States in the early 1800s by Joe Robert Poinsett, the first United States ambassador to Mexico. Poinsett was a noted botanist, and he shared the plant with other horticulturists and botanical gardens. Named in his honor, the plants were initially marketed as the Euphorbia poinsettia.

What really kicked off the popularity and worldwide availability of the poinsettia were the efforts of Albert Ecke, a German immigrant who settled near Los Angeles in 1902. Ecke and his family saw an opportunity to sell poinsettias in the fresh flower market. Ecke's descendants still produce poinsettias, and they own patents for the majority of the poinsettia varieties grown commercially today.

"The most popular color, of course, is red," Tatum said. "But because of the Eckes, the consumer can choose from a variety of hues such as petal pink, deep rose, gold, ivory and cream."

Because of a marbled characteristic introduced into new varieties by plant breeders, consumers need not choose red over white or pink over yellow. Consumers can buy poinsettias that carry two or more colors and create a dazzling effect by the hearth or through a walkway.

"Some older homes that have been restored are decorated in deep burgundies and dusty colors," said Dr. Lester Estes, professor of horticulture at MSU. "The marbled poinsettias and new shades go splendidly with those color schemes."

Tradition says that poinsettias be used as centerpieces on dining and coffee tables. New sizing and container arrangements have opened up decorating possibilities in non-traditional areas.

"Placing poinsettias in the bathroom and the bedroom is a perfect way to add festivity to a household," Tatum said.

"Miniature poinsettias can be arranged with lighted candles to create a warm, rosy glow in windows and kitchen nooks. Hanging baskets in the den or dining room can also heighten the mood."

Hanging Stockings

St. Nicholas, so legend says, secretly gave gifts of gold for the dowries of poor spinsters. He tossed the gold down a chimney on Christmas Eve, and on one occasion the gift landed in a stocking hung by the fireplace to dry.

Christmas traditions of other countries

The magic of Christmas reaches across continents to touch people of all races and tongues in a special way. Wherever you may travel, you will find the holiday season celebrated in a way that is special to the country you are in.

For instance, in Sweden, St. Lucia's Day, December 13, ushers in the holiday season. Tradition dictates that the eldest daughter of the family must rise at dawn to serve coffee and cakes to her family. As St. Lucia, she wears a white robe and a halo of lighted candles. Public appearances by St. Lucia are quite common in Sweden today, where white-robed girls can be seen in schools and civic buildings on the saint's day.

Holiday festivities begin with a parade in Mexico on December 16. For nine consecutive nights, "Joseph" and "Mary" search for a room at the inn, a reenactment known as "Las Posadas" in this country south of the border. At the end of the nine nights, the searchers are finally given posada, and a fiesta follows. For the children, the highlight of the fiesta is the breaking of the pinata, a clay container stuffed with candies and other goodies.

In Argentina, families attend midnight mass on Christmas Eve, then sit down to a big dinner with pork as the main course. After dinner, it's customary to enjoy a glass of sidra, similar to our cider, with pan dulce or panetone, as it is also called, due to the strong Italian influence in that country.

Another midnight libation is clari-co, a blend of white wine, sugar and natural fruits of the season. After several toasts, it's time to visit friends and wish them a happy holiday. These visits go on until the wee hours of the morning! Children in Argentina don't receive their presents until January 6th. The night before, they put their shoes outside the door or window, a long with a tray holding a glass of water and some grass for the camels of Los Reyes Magos, the Three Kings. In the morning, the grass and water will be gone, and in their shoes will be presents. Instead of Christmas trees in their homes, most Argentinians will have a presepe or nativity scene.

The holiday season begins two weeks before Christmas Eve in Portugal, when families go looking for their Christmas tree. In small towns, this usually means a trip to the forest, but in the cities, artificial trees are often used. The tree is decorated with lights and ornaments a few days before Christmas Eve. In Portugal, Christmas is a family affair, with everyone getting together for midnight supper, which may feature turkey. The young children place their shoes around the fireplace for Santa to fill during the night. In the morning, the shoes will hold toys, candies and other gifts.

Down under, Christmas comes in the summertime, a contrast to the snowy scenes of Europe and many parts of the United States. Australians celebrate the season with a Christmas Day picnic and with another holiday tradition, the community sing. This gathering is always held out of doors, at night, by the light of torches and candles. Special candles are sold in the shops, with the proceeds going to charity. The custom of community caroling goes back to the Cornish miners of the last century, who would gather on Christmas Eve in the Australian mines to sing carols, by the light of candles stuck to the brims of their safety hats. Today, some of the community sings attract over 100,000 carolers.

Christmas and New Year Bells

BY ALFRED TENNYSON

The time draws near the birth of Christ:

*The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the mist.*

*Four voices of four hamlets round,
From far and near, on mead and moor,
Swell out and fail, as if a door
Were shut between me and the sound:*

*Each voice four changes on the wind,
That now dilate, and now decrease
Peace and goodwill, goodwill and peace,
Peace and goodwill, to all mankind.*

*This year I slept and woke with pain,
I almost wish'd no more to wake,
And that my hold on life would break
Before I heard those bells again:*

*But they the troubled spirit rule,
For they controll'd me when a boy;
They bring me sorrow touch'd with joy,
The merry, merry bells of Yule.*

*Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light:
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.*

*Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.*

*Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.*

The caroling goes on until midnight, ending with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

In France, the creche is the center of attraction at Christmas time. Every church, no matter how small, has its nativity scene for the faithful to admire. And, each French household has its own version of the nativity. Much care is taken in the setting up of the creche, which has holly or other greens for a background. A star of Bethlehem is suspended over the Christ Child, as candles add a reverent glow to the setting. Around the world, wherever Christmas is celebrated, customs may vary from country to country, but the spirit of the season is ever the same.

Unique Calendar

The Moslem calendar is unique: the 12 months of the year began with the approximate new moon without any intercalation to keep them geared to the seasonal equinoxes. Thus the months, and New Years, too, retrograde through the entire year in about 33 1/2 years.

Lighting The Tree

Martin Luther started the custom of lighting the tree, legend says. To symbolize stars glowing forth on a snow-filled winter's night, he placed lighted candles on his family's traditional Christmas tree.

L. M. Alcott's "Christmas at Orchard House"

Jo was the first to wake in the gray dawn of Christmas morning. No stockings hung at the fireplace, and for a moment she felt as much disappointed as she did long ago, when her little sock fell down because it was so crammed with goodies. Then she remembered her mother's promise, and slipping her hand under her pillow, drew out a little crimson-covered book. She knew it very well, for it was that beautiful old story of the best life ever lived, and Jo felt that it was a true guidebook for any pilgrim going the long journey.

She woke Meg with a "Merry Christmas," and bade her see what was under her pillow. A green-covered book appeared, with the same picture inside, and a few words written by their mother, which made their one present very precious in their eyes. Presently Beth and Amy woke, to rummage and find their little books also — one dove-colored, the other blue; and all sat looking at and talking about them, while the east grew rosy with the coming day. In spite of her small vanities, Margaret had a sweet and pious nature, which unconsciously influenced her sisters, especially Jo, who loved her very tenderly, and obeyed her because her advice was so gently given.

"Girls," said Meg seriously, looking from the tumbled head beside her to the two little night-capped ones in the room beyond, "mother wants us to read and love and mind these books, and we must begin at once. We used to be faithful about it; but since father went away, and all this war trouble unsettled us, we have neglected many things. You can do as you please; but I shall keep my book on the table near, and read a little every morning as soon as I wake, for I know it will do me good, and help me through the day."

Then she opened her new book and began to read. Jo put her arm round her, and, leaning cheek to cheek, read also, with the quiet expression so seldom seen on her restless face.

"How good Meg is! Come, Amy, let's do as they do. I'll help you with the hard words, and they'll explain things if we don't understand," whispered Beth, very much impressed by the pretty books and her sisters' example.

"I'm glad mine is blue," said Amy; and then the rooms were very still while the pages were softly turned, and the winter sunshine crept in to touch the bright heads and serious faces with a Christmas greeting.

"How nice my handkerchiefs look, don't they? Hannah washed and ironed them for me, and I marked them all myself," said Beth, looking proudly at the somewhat uneven letters which had cost her such labor.

"Bless the child! she's gone and put 'Mother' on them instead of 'M. March.' How funny!" cried Jo, taking up one.

"Isn't it right? I thought it was better to do it so, because Meg's initials are 'M.M.' and I don't want anyone to use these but Marmee," said Beth, looking troubled.

"It's all right, dear and a very pretty idea — quite sensible, too, for no one can ever mistake now. It will please her very much, I know," said Meg, with a frown for Jo and a smile for Beth.

Now a very splendid show, but there was a great deal of love done up in the few little bundles; and the tall vase of red roses, white chrysanthemums, and trailing vines, which stood in the middle, gave quite an elegant air to the table.

"She's coming! Strike up, Beth! Open the door, Amy! Three cheers for Marmee!" cried Jo, prancing about, while Meg went to conduct mother to the seat of honor.

Beth played her gayest march, Amy threw open the door, and Meg enacted escort with great dignity.

Mrs. March was both surprised and touched; and smiled with her eyes full as she examined her presents, and read the little notes which accompanied them. The slippers went on at once, a new handkerchief was slipped into her pocket, well scented with Amy's cologne, the rose was fastened in her bosom, and the nice gloves were pronounced a "perfect fit."

Why the Christmas Tree Wears Icicles And Tinsel

One of the most beloved stories is about the little spiders and how they helped trim the tree.

According to the old tale, one Christmas morning after the tree had been trimmed, it reposed there in all its glory, awaiting the children.

Every old house (and many a new) has spiders; curious creatures that they are, they wanted to see the lovely tree, too...not just from the floor, but up close. So they crept all over it until they had satisfied themselves completely that the tree was indeed a wondrously beautiful thing. But as they crept, they left cobwebs...beautiful, also, to Nature's eyes, but not so attractive to mothers'.

When the Christ Child came to bless the tree, he realized that the mother of the household would be dismayed. So He touched the webs...and they all turned to silver.

Ever since that time, Christmas trees are hung with shining tinsel.

Shining icicles are also part of the pretty Christmas picture. Another old story gives a reason.

One wintry night the Christ Child was wandering through a forest. It was cold and he knew he must find shelter for the night. The trees were bare. But a pine tree with low-hanging branches offered some protection from the wind.

When the pine tree, with its prescience that is known only to God, realized it was caring for the Christ Child, tears of joy fell from its branches. As they fell, they froze into icicles.

In the morning the pine tree had been transformed into a vision of dazzling brilliance.

And that is why at Christmastime we trim the tree with icicles.

Joyous Tidings

for togetherness and rejoicing. And a modern Christmas, just like an old-fashioned Christmas, calls for gatherings of family and friends, with much merriment, fun and feasting. Right now in this community, families are celebrating the holiday with just such gatherings, such merriment, fun and feasting. Like families of yesteryear, they celebrate with gifts and greens, with the warmth of a glowing hearth and the gleam of a lighted tree, with stockings hung by the chimney with care and even with candles, though these beckon brightly from candleholders rather than from the tree.

From St. Nicholas to Santa

Christmas and Santa Claus are synonymous in many countries, but this was not always so. The jolly old gent is actually the result of an evolving process through the centuries, although he does have his origins as a real person. To be more accurate, he is probably a combination of St. Nicholas, and an ancient yule god.

St. Nicholas was a fourth-century bishop of Myra in Asia Minor, who had won a reputation for generosity. According to the legend, the good bishop had saved three young maidens from spinsterhood or worse, by providing their impoverished father with dowries for each of the daughters. He supposedly left three bags of gold on the man's window ledge. This is why pawnbrokers, who consider St. Nicholas their patron saint, traditionally have three golden balls outside their shops.

Another legend about St. Nicholas tells of the holy man's discovery of three murdered youngsters; the saint brought them back to life, hence his association with children.

In Holland, St. Nicholas became Santa Klaas, eagerly awaited by youngsters, who would fill their wooden shoes with hay, water and carrots for the saint's horse, and place them before the fireplace.

In the morning, these clogs would be filled with sweets and small presents if the youngsters had been good, or birch rods if they had been naughty.

Santa Claus' connection with the fireplace or chimney can be traced to pre-Christian times when hearth gods and gods of the yule log were honored. In ancient times, there was always a yule figure associated with mid-winter festivals; he was seen sometimes as an old man whose head was wreathed with mistletoe or holly. The northern tribes worshipped the god Woden, who rode across frozen wastes to bring presents to his devotees in the middle of winter.

In some cultures, this pagan yule figure evolved into Father Christmas as Christianity took root. In Sweden, Father Christmas still retains a gnome-like aspect, but the English see Father Christmas as a tall, wine-flushed reveler.

The Dutch who came to America brought with them their tradition of the benevolent Santa Klaas. It remained for an imaginative professor of Oriental and Greek literature to bring together the elements of the stately bishop of the Dutch and the elfish figures of Northern Europe.

His name was Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, and during the Christmas season of 1822, he wrote a poem for his children that brought to life his own conception of Santa Klaas, now named Santa Claus. He called his poem The Visit of St. Nicholas, and in it he described Santa as "a jolly old elf" with twinkling eyes and merry dimples. Interestingly enough, Moore is said to have based his description of Santa on a Dutchman who lived nearby. The man was short and chubby and smoked a pipe. Moore was certainly familiar with the writings of Washington Irving, who had described St. Nicholas, the patron saint of the Dutch colony, and the saint's annual ride over the tree tops in a wagon filled with gifts.

Clement's poem was published a year later and had immediate success with the public. It remained only for the famed cartoonist Thomas Nast to illustrate Moore's conception of Santa Claus to firmly plant that image in the public's mind. Nast's illustrations were closer to the gnome-like figures of the past than contemporary versions of Santa Claus, however. As time went on, other artists changed the furry suit and furry round hat to a red suit and a cap with a tassel.

Today, the image of a jolly and chubby Santa Claus is one that is universally accepted as a symbol of good cheer and generosity to children all over the world.

When Families Gather, It's Christmas!

Through the years, the ways of celebrating Christmas have taken on many different forms.

Today's Christmas tree is apt to be plastic or aluminum, rather than nature's own fir, spruce or pine. The glow of tiny beeswax candles on a tree is only a memory, replaced now by strings of twinkling electric lights.

Jolly Santa, once transported only by reindeer-drawn sleigh, may now arrive by helicopter or jet plane.

But in spite of changes, the essence of the season, the basic spirit of Christmas, stays the same.

Christmastide is, above all, a time

ORIGINS OF RUDOLPH

One of the most beloved figures in modern Christmas lore, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, was born when a Montgomery Ward advertising copywriter named Robert L. May was told to create a booklet which could be given to children at Christmastime.

That was in 1939, and "Rudolph with his nose so bright," the nose which made him a laughingstock among the other reindeer, has charmed generations of children for over 50 years.

Interestingly enough, the words of the song, "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," were not included in the original booklet that told Rudolph's story, and were not written by May.

Rather, 10 years after May's original creation, his brother-in-law, composer Johnny Marks, put Rudolph's tale to music, and wrote the lyrics with which we are familiar today.

Cowboy-singer Gene Autry recorded the tune, which was released in the fall of 1949 and quickly became a smash hit.

KIDS! COLOR THE CHRISTMAS WREATH!

Story of the little match-girl

BY HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN

In the cold and gloom a poor little girl, bareheaded and barefoot, was walking through the streets. In an old apron she carried a number of matches and a bundle of them in her hand. No one had bought anything of her all day!

Her little hands were almost benumbed with the cold. Ah, a match might do her good, if she could only draw one from the bundle and rub it against the wall and warm her hands at it. She drew one out. R-r-atch! How it sputtered and burned! It was a warm, bright flame, like a little candle, when she held her hands over it. But the little flame went out... and she had only the remains of the burnt match in her hand.

A second was rubbed against the wall. It burned up, and when the light fell upon the wall it became transparent like a thin veil, and she could see through it into the room. On the table a snow-white cloth was spread; upon it stood a shining dinner service; the roast goose smoked gloriously, stuffed with apples and dried plums. Then the match went out and only the thick, cold wall was before her. She lighted another match. Then she was sitting under a beautiful Christmas tree. Thousands of candles burned upon the green branches. The little girl stretched forth her hand toward them; then the match went out. The Christmas lights mounted higher. She saw them now as stars in the sky; one of them fell down, forming a long line of fire.

"Now someone is dying," thought the little girl, for her old grandmother, the only person who had loved her, and who was now dead, had told her that when a star fell down a soul mounted up to God.

She rubbed another match against the wall; it became bright again, and in the brightness the old grandmother stood clear and shining, mild and Timmy hung their stockings over the chimney.

On Christmas morning, Timmy was the first one out of bed. He dashed into the living room and soon he came running into Sally's room to wake her up. "Sally!" he said, "Come see what Santa brought you!" Sally jumped out of bed and ran to the living room. There, under the tree, was a big box marked "To Sally from Santa."

Sally ran to the box and looked inside. Inside was an adorable puppy! Sally scooped the puppy up and hugged it. The puppy licked Sally's face and wagged its tail happily.

Just then, Sally's parents came into the living room. "Look what Santa brought me," Sally said, showing them the puppy. Sally's mother smiled. "I guess Santa knew there was something you didn't already have."

"Yes, and it's the best present ever," said Sally, hugging her new puppy.

CHRISTMAS

First greeting

"A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU," read the first commercial Christmas card, above, from the collection of the Pierpont Morgan Library in New York. Designed in 1843 by John Calcott Horsley at the initiative of Henry Cole, 1,000 copies of the hand-colored lithograph were printed in postcard form, to be sent to the recipients via England's recently inaugurated "penny post." This innovation allowed people to forward traditional New Year's greetings (previously delivered by hand, an arrangement which could be as costly as it was unreliable), both inexpensively and efficiently.

A visit from St. Nick

POISED IN FRONT OF THE FIREPLACE, Santa Claus looks back over his shoulder in "A Visit From St. Nicholas," by Robert W. Weir, an oil painting on wood from the collections of the New York Historical Society. Painted circa 1837, it's the earliest known color painting of Santa. Weir, who taught drawing at West Point, was a friend of Clement Clarke Moore, author of the immortal Christmas poem, "A Visit From St. Nicholas."

Who's coming down the chimney?

ONE OF THE EARLIEST ILLUSTRATIONS of Santa Claus is this one from The Great Pictorial Annual Brother Jonathan, dated January 1, 1845. The reindeer and sleigh were already part of his image, though the great white beard and face full of wrinkles were still to come.

Make holiday entertaining healthful and fun

In every family, it is important to maintain holiday traditions for the next generation...and those to follow. Many fond memories are created during caroling parties, family decorating sessions and cookie baking. Every family has its own unique traditions...and as children grow and begin their own families, some old traditions take hold and new ones begin.

Update your recipes

As families get busier, some traditional customs need to be modified to fit into their schedules. And, some traditional holiday foods might need to be updated to reduce their calorie and fat content. People are getting fit and trying to stay that way. They are watching their weight, blood pressure and cholesterol levels, too.

Creating warm memories for the family during the holidays doesn't have to be difficult or time consuming. A simplified holiday treat will take the stress away from the baker...and the family will still love the tradition it represents.

Start a new tradition

Sometimes creating a tradition can be as easy as updating an old favorite. The home economists at Oster have updated three holiday favorites that your family will love. Why not try all three soon?

Here's a nonalcoholic replacement for champagne punch. Sparkling and delightful, it is sure to please.

SPARKLING HOLIDAY PUNCH

Put grapefruit juice, lemon juice and sugar into blender container. Process at low speed until sugar is dissolved. Add maraschino cherries and process at high speed, remove feeder cap and add ice, processing until slushy. Slowly pour in ginger ale and pulse once at low speed to combine. Serve immediately.

Yield: 4 cups

- 1/4 cup water
- 1 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder

- ice cubes

Put egg substitute, water, instant nonfat dry milk powder, sugar, vanilla, nutmeg and 6 ice cubes into Osterizer blender container.

Cover and process at a high speed until smooth. With motor running, remove feeder cap and gradually add remaining ice cubes.

Continue processing until smooth. Pour into cups, sprinkling with additional nutmeg.

Advent is time of anticipation

In the Christian liturgy, Advent is the four-week period leading up to Christmas. It is a time of preparation and of waiting; as such, it can provide an opportunity for families to anticipate the coming of Christmas with special observances.

An Advent wreath is a beautiful reminder of the joy that is to come. It takes its origins from pagan times, when the sun-worshipping tribes of northern Europe would wind greens around a cartwheel and decorate it with lights to appease the sun god during dark winter days.

Today, Christians look upon the Advent wreath as a symbol of the light which is to come at Christmas time. The wreath's circular shape symbolizes God's unending eternity. The evergreen represents our immortality and God's unchanging nature. The four candles remind us of the hundreds of years mankind waited for the coming of Christ.

During the first and second weeks of Advent, violet candles are lit, symbolizing longing and expectation. A rose candle, symbolizing joy and hope because Christmas is near, is lit during the third week of Advent. A violet candle is lit during the final week of Advent to complete the cycle of anticipation.

On Christmas Eve, four white candles replace the rose and violet candles, as a sign of the coming of the light of the world, Jesus.

Another Advent custom that children enjoy is the Advent calendar. This calendar features tiny little windows for each day of the Advent season. As the youngster opens each window, he or she finds a special message or picture inside. Not only does the calendar help youngsters to "count down" to the big day, it can also be instructive and entertaining.

Yet another Advent custom is the Jesse tree, so named for the father of King David, an ancestor of Jesus. It is the family tree of Jesus in a way, for it is adorned with symbols of His ancestors and prophecies foretelling His coming.

Among the symbols that can be used are tablets of the law, the key of David, Noah's ark, the apple and the Star of David. These symbols can be either attached to a real tree or to a tree made of construction paper. The Jesse tree is another way of enhancing the Advent season for the whole family.

Exchanging Gifts

Exchanging gifts at Christmas is one of the most time honored of customs, and toys, dolls and games for the children have always ranked high on the gifts list.

In the not-so-long-ago, however, just one important present - a doll for a little girl, perhaps, and a toy accordion for her brother - was all that youngsters might expect at Christmas.

Though Santa is more bountiful nowadays, the gifts he brings are like those of yesteryear in at least one way. They reflect the interests and fashions of their times.

Dolls, yesterday and today, dress in the favorite styles of the moment. Toys, too, show the influence of

New Year's Was Once Spring Affair

The celebration of the New Year was once a Spring affair in Egypt and Rome. Ancient Egypt used the overflowing of the Nile as a calendar and celebrated the New Year accordingly. The Babylonians began their New Year in March, and the early Romans followed the Babylonian pattern.

Bearing this in mind, the custom of invoking the goods of fertility at New Year's time -- the origin of which is lost in antiquity -- seems logical and appropriate.

ROMAN MASKS

The Romans were accustomed to hanging tiny masks of Bacchus upon trees and vines, the idea being to impart fertility to every side of the tree to which the masks were turned by the wind.

In the old days Roman youths went from house to house singing and wishing everyone a prosperous New Year.

Scottish lads always had a howling good time going about on New Year's Eve switching the trunks of trees and petitioning "a good, howling crop."

Reflecting the fear of starvation, peasant families in various parts of the world baked a special New Year's cake which they dashed against the door; members of the household hastened to pick up a piece and prayerful that whoever enters the house during the ensuing New Year hunger nor want should be that year.

Delicious yuletide customs from Scotland entice America

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind,
Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And days of auld lang syne!"

Fittingly, the most traditional of all New Year's tunes, Robbie Burns' immortal anthem, hails from Scotland, the land where seeing the Old Year out and welcoming the New Year in has been serious business for hundreds of years.

But, while virtually every person in the English-speaking world has undoubtedly hummed a bar of Robbie Burns' New Year's melody on at least one occasion, very few people know of the many and varied New Year's customs that have originated in his homeland.

Some of these have their origins in folk traditions; still others date from the Reformation, when the devout Scots, taking a clerical rebuke to heart, chose to observe Christmas Eve and Day with all due solemnity, transferring the merriment to the less sacred occasion of New Year's Eve and Day (so much so that many Scots refer to them as "Daft Days").

Known as Hogmanay, New Year's Eve was treated in Scotland as an important opportunity for making sure that fortune smiled on you in the year to come.

Good luck was ensured in a variety of ways. In many communities, it was customary to light bonfires to burn the Old Year out prior to the beginning of the New Year. In some coastal towns, an old fishing boat was set on fire; its embers were considered to bring good luck, causing those present at the ceremony to compete for them.

Children had an important role to play in the Hogmanay festivities. Throughout Scotland, groups of local youngsters would wrap themselves up together in a large sheet, then parade through town, crying out a traditional rhyme: "Get up, goodwife, and shake your feathers, / And dinna think that we are beggars; / For we are bairns come out to play, / Get up and gie's our hogmanay." For their efforts, they would be given cheese or oatmeal cakes, also called hogmanay.

On New Year's Day, in some places, the boys would hit the streets again, asking at each house for food or money, by singing the following song: I wish you a Merry Christmas / And a Happy New Year, / A pocketful of money / And a cellar full of beer, / And a good fat pig / To serve you all the year. / Ladies and gentlemen / Sitting by the fire, / Pity us poor boys / Out in the mire.

Truly, New Year's Eve was a bustling occasion in most Scottish households, as everyone in the home strove to complete the Old Year's business before midnight, returning all borrowed objects, paying all debts, winding clocks, sweeping out all the old dust, and so on. In addition, the householders would search for stray dogs on their property and evict them, as they were believed to bring bad luck.

Similarly, it was believed to be lucky to wear a new garment on New Year's Day, and it was an especially good omen if its pockets were filled with money, as this could indicate a prosperous year to come.

However, the most prevalent of Hogmanay customs was certainly first-footing, for it was believed that the first person who walked through the door of a house after the New Year began would have a major effect on the fortunes of its occupants.

In Scotland, it was considered lucky for the first-footer to be a red-headed male. He would carry with him some sort of offering, traditionally a piece of wood for the fire in one hand (household fires on Hogmanay were as carefully tended as the communal bonfires) and a stalk of mistletoe in the other (it was his privilege to kiss all the women of the household beneath his branch of mistletoe). After wishing the family a Happy New Year, he was thanked for his efforts with a glass of whiskey and a slice of cake.

It was considered unlucky for the first-footer to be dark or blond-haired, or to carry a knife or other sharp object. A female first-footer was the unluckiest of all.

In fact, this tradition was taken so seriously that many families would make arrangements for the proper first-footer to be waiting on their doorstep as the church bell tolled the beginning of the New Year.

In addition, as the New Year arrived, a great clamor would begin, as everyone in the household rang bells and clanged pots to frighten any lurking evil spirits from the premises. The front door and the windows would be opened to facilitate their departure; later, all possible points of entry would be shut tight, to prevent their return.

There are several traditional Hogmanay delicacies. The beverage of choice is hot pint, a blend of warm ale and whiskey that's been flavored with nutmeg. This "cup of kindness" would wash down quantities of homemade cheese and home-baked delicacies, such as black bun, ankersocks and shortbread.

Black bun, a spiced cake studded with dried fruits and nuts, and laced with brandy, was perhaps the richest of the offerings; the oddly named ankersocks were loaves of rye gingerbread.

Shortbread, a buttery cookie traditionally baked in a circular form with ridged edges, is the descendant of the oat bannock that was intrinsic to pagan Yule rites, and whose shape was meant to mirror the sun and its rays.

The following recipe for Scotch Shortbread is reproduced from Martha Stewart's Christmas (Clarkson N. Potter, Inc.), a personal celebration of the season with Stewart's own inventive recipes, plus instructions for creating striking homemade decorations, ornaments and gift wrap.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

Makes 1 giant cookie
1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter
1/4 pound sugar
1 pound sifted all-purpose flour

Preheat the oven to 350° F. Butter an 8-inch round baking tin and line bottom with parchment paper.

Cream the butter and sugar. Add the flour and mix well; the mixture will be very crumbly.

Pack the mixture into the tin, smoothing the top with a rubber scraper. Mark the top with a decorative pattern (we used a butter knife and the tines of a fork).

Bake for about 25 minutes; do not allow to brown. Cool 10 minutes in tin, then turn onto rack.

Remember that it's considered bad luck to cut the shortbread with a knife. Break it for serving and have a happy Hogmanay!

Bulgarian Holiday

New Year's Day is a great day for Bulgarian children who receive their presents and small sums of money in return for the gifts they ceremoniously present.

Teen-agers go visiting, and wishing neighbors a happy New Year, expect treats and refreshments. But unlike our "trick or treat" of Halloween, should the supply of goodies run short, the situation is accepted graciously.
