Iuka and Belmont County Champions

The Iuka Chieftains sailed to their fourth consecutive county basketball championship, defeating Belmont 53-42 in the finals of the Tishomingo County Basketball Tournament held at Iuka Saturday night. This was the last year for the county tournament to be held with four schools competing, as consolidation of the high schools will take place in the summer.

Local Nursing Home Changes Ownership

Pickwick Manor Nursing Home in Iuka will undergo a change of ownership next month.

Mississippi Extended Care Services, Inc., will assume ownership of the home, effective February 1. The nursing home will be called Tishomingo Manor, and the facility will be managed by Magnolia Management Corporation of Jackson, MS.

Magnolia Management is Mississippi's largest nursing home management company, managing 27 facilities throughout the state.

Pickwick Manor was previously owned by Beverly Enterprises.

Hawkins added 12 and Ronald Jones 11 for Iuka. Chad Uphan led Belmont with 16 points.

Belmont's Lady Cardinals claimed yet another county championship with an easy win over Iuka in the girls division. Kelley Rutledge led Iuka with 13 points in the one-sided 77-33 contest. Amy Moore led all scorers with 20 points, followed by Bridgett Holland with 14, and Heather Mann with 11 for Belmont.

Iuka's B-team boys recorded their third consecutive triumph in tournament play, defeating Belmont by a score of 39-31.

Public Gathering To Pay Tribute To Whitten

Congressman Jamie Whitten (D-Miss.) will be honored for the beginning of his 50th year in Congress during a statewide celebration January 25, at 2 p.m., in the Mississippi Coliseum.

Admission to the Farm Bureau sponsored program is free and the public is encouraged to attend. Speakers will include Gov. Ray Mabus, American Farm Bureau President Dean Kleckner, humorist Jerry Clower and Mississippi Farm Bureau President Don Waller, in addition to Congressman Whitten.

The Mississippi Mass Choir, Guy Hovis, Paul Ott and the Fourth Marine Aircraft Wing Band will provide musical entertainment.

Vo-Tech Holds Registration

Registration for three adult classes offered at the Tishomingo County Vocational Technical Center will be held Monday, January 28, at 6 p.m. Adults may register for typing, shorthand, and welding during this registration session at the Center in Tishomingo. For more information, call 438-6689.

Reality of War Touches Home

As the war in the Persian Gulf continues into its second week, everyday life for area residents may appear to be unaffected by events happening on the other side of the world.

A closer look, however, reveals that life is different.

For one, business isn't the same as it was a week ago.

"Things are slower," said one Iuka restaurant owner on Monday. "People must be staying at home or something."

Other merchants report fewer calls and fewer customers.

The days seem longer with spirits dampened by the absence of friends and family members along with grim media reports of the conflict.

The television set acts as a magnet, drawing viewers into the reality of the war with live reports from Saudi Arabia, Jerusalem, the Pentagon, and even from Iraq for a time. The public's attention is captured.

A walk through Wal-Mart on Saturday finds aisles crowded with shoppers, yet an intent group is found huddled around the store's television sets, not wanting to miss the latest developments, if any.

An Iuka businessman, shaking his head, complained, "I'm tired of watching it, but I can't seem to get away from it. I just keep on watching it."

He is far from alone, as in million of homes, Americans, young and old, forego their favorite programs for America At War, War in the Gulf, and other network news.

In Iuka, some homes are quieter. Fathers, husbands, brothers, cousins have said their goodbyes, leaving home to go where called. Many are on active duty stationed on the front lines. Iuka's National Guard unit, now in Fort Hood, Texas, has been in training for almost two months now. They, along with their families, must deal with the uncertainties of where they will be sent next and when they will be able to return home and resume everyday life.

They are away but not forgotten.

At the Post Office, the cards, letters, and "goodie" boxes are being shipped out each day to those stationed both in the states and overseas. Local schools, community groups, neighborhoods, and churches have united in the effort.

On Sundays, special moments of prayer are held in many churches to remember our country and servicemen and to ask for their safety. Iuka Baptist Church invites all to a time of prayer next week, and other services are likely to follow as time goes on.

The County News supports each and every one of our local men and women, wherever they may be, who have responded to the call to serve our country. We reach out to their families and friends left behind with concern and compassion.

Our prayer is that it will end soon.

Additional Units At Aqua Yacht Harbor

Aqua Yacht Harbor Towers, a luxury condominium complex planned for Pickwick Lake, has expanded to offer condo buyers additional units.

A redesign of the $10 million project's interior has created an additional 16 lakefront units, said project developer Benard Blasingame of Adamsville, Tenn.

Another floor will be added to the original six-story design. The building will have a total of 82 units. A demand from buyers for additional waterfront units made the reconfiguration necessary, Blasingame said.

More than 85 percent of the condos were presold shortly after the project was announced last August. Condominiums will range from studio units beginning at $68,750 to spacious $250,000 penthouses.

Site work for the tower is set to begin in March. Construction will take several months, with the first units available late this year.

Among the tower's features are heated indoor/outdoor pool, weight training and fitness center, dining room, tennis court, and private club. Also available will be executive office services for business or personal needs including office machines, telephones, and message and paging center. Professional security will be provided, limiting access to residents and guests.

The condos are planned to be an extension of the present Aqua Yacht Harbor, located on the Mississippi side of the state line in Tishomingo County. The harbor has about 600 slips, yacht sales, full service yard, and ships store.

Blasingame also announced that the Pickwick Yacht Club has purchased space in the building for its activities.

RUST/NIC SEMINAR

A seminar conducted by RUST/NIC, Engineers' construction managers for the NASA ASRM plant, is scheduled for Tuesday, January 29, at noon at the old Tishomingo County Courthouse. This is a county-wide meeting to introduce the public to ways they can apply to become a subcontractor or supplier for RUST/NIC. Businesses interested in participating in the construction phase of the ASRM project are especially invited to attend. The meeting is cosponsored by the Iuka Chamber of Commerce. A get-acquainted session will begin at 11 a.m., with the presentation and question/answer session to follow at 12 noon.

Support the members of the Mississippi Army National Guard.

A Time Of Prayer

On Tuesday, January 29th at 7:00 p.m. we at Iuka Baptist Church would like for you to come join hands and hearts with us for a time of prayer for our service men and women at home and abroad. If you are unable to attend please notify our church office at 423-5246 of the name of your loved one so it may be mentioned in prayer.

We will also have the Glorybound Quartet, the Milligan Trio and special guest to provide music for our service. We'll be expecting YOU!

Thank You

I want to thank my many friends who greatly supported me Tuesday, January 15, in the runoff election in my bid for Alderman, Town of Burnsville, MS. It is a great joy to have the esteem of so many nice people.

I look forward to rendering good service to the citizens of the Town of Burnsville in a professional, businesslike manner and as efficiently as possible.

Thank you and may God bless you.

Conservation News

CONSERVATION SYSTEMS BENEFIT WILDLIFE

The 1985 Farm Bill conservation compliance provision dictates that farmers, who produce commodity crops on highly erodible land, must begin to implement an approved conservation plan this year to remain eligible for most United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) farm program benefits. In addition, the plan must be fully operational by 1995.

In many areas of Mississippi, conservation compliance is going to speed the adoption of "no till" or "minimum till" farming methods, and increase the use of conservation structures such as grass strips. Because of this, the quality and quantity of wildlife habitat in Mississippi should increase.

Conservation tillage benefits wildlife by retaining crop and other vegetative residues. Conventionally tilled fields plowed in the fall remain barren of vegetative cover and wildlife food for up to 6 months of each year. No-till corn or soybean fields retain a minimum of 60 percent residue, but conventional fields retain less than 15 percent. In addition, conventionally tilled corn and soybean fields contain 74 to 90 percent less waste grain than untilled fields.

Residue from no-till fields provide (1) food in the form of waste grain in the soil surface, (2) protective cover that enables quail and other wildlife to utilize food resources that would be less available in conventionally tilled fields, and (3) residual vegetation used for constructing nests.

Quail will readily nest in no-till fields. For nesting, quail prefer soybeans planted in the previous years stubble and residue. Nesting in no-till crop fields apparently does not reduce nest success. Actually, quail nesting losses are reduced because of the reduced surface tillage during the nesting season.

No-till fields surrounded by moderately good habitat will support intermediate quail densities. Lowest quail densities occur on conventionally managed farmland where crop lands are plowed in the fall. However, conventionally tilled fields surrounded by good habitat will support quail densities equivalent to no-till fields when fall plowing is eliminated.

Conservation structures such as grass strips are also beneficial to wildlife. Grass strips provide a corridor for wildlife movement. They also are important breeding areas for birds and other wildlife, and they provide food and/or cover for deer, quail, nongame birds, rabbits, and small mammals.

Implementing your conservation plan will benefit you and your family in many other ways. You will be able to enjoy and share the aesthetic beauty of trees, plants, and wildlife that your efforts made possible. Most importantly, you will improve the soil and water resources of your farm so that your children may enjoy farm life for many years to come.

For more information on how the conservation systems in your plan will improve wildlife habitat on your property, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office. Assistance and Programs of the USDA are available without regard to race, color, sex, national origin, marital status, age, religion, or handicap.

LIVING WILLS

A living will is not actually a will. It is a legal declaration similar to a limited power of attorney. Like a limited power of attorney, it empowers another person to act on your behalf with respect to a specific issue or circumstances.

A living will involves the issue of life-prolonging measures. The circumstances are those in which: (1) you are so ill or injured that you cannot act on your own behalf; (2) your illness or injury is terminal with no hope of recovery; and (3) your life would end of its own accord were it not prolonged by artificial measures.

A living will gives a person or persons you trust the power to declare on your behalf your wishes for discontinuing or refusing medical treatment that would simply prolong your life by artificial means in the face of impending death.

Consult your family doctor or the local health department for information on preparing and registering a living will.

BUYING ANTIQUES FOR YOUR HOME

Incorporating antiques into your interior design scheme is one of the most enjoyable ways to personalize your home. It is important to be well prepared when as you begin the hunt for those special pieces to add to your home.

Become better informed by visiting shops, museums, and shows, talking with dealers and collectors, and reading books and magazines on the subject. The more you know, the better prepared you will be to evaluate quality and price.

One way to insure you are getting what you are paying for is to buy from reputable shops run by professionals. Prices are sometimes higher at shops than at other outlets, because you are paying for the assurance the dealer is providing you with an authentic piece. When dealing with an antique shop, take full advantage of the dealer's experience and inquire about various pieces.

Antique shows are another reliable source of antique furniture. Shows give buyers an opportunity to meet and talk with dealers. As with shops, buyers are free to ask questions about the dealer's wares.

Flea markets and garage sales are a relaxed, inexpensive way to acquire furnishings. Although there are few "undiscovered" gems found in barns and attics anymore, antiques are too popular for that, you can find pieces to suit your needs at a reasonable price.

Most of your finds will be used items, pieces that need repair, old furniture, but not antiques. Prices are generally low because you are not dealing with professionals with guaranteed standards.

Eventually, every antiques shopper will attend an auction. Auctions offer a wonderful assortment of furniture, they are entertaining and exciting for bidders. When you attend an auction, allow time to thoroughly examine pieces during the preview.

Establish a firm limit on what you can pay for a particular piece. Find out in advance of bidding if an item is offered as a single piece, or if it is part of a pair, or perhaps a set of several items.

You will probably be bidding against experienced collectors for top-quality items. But there is always the chance you may be able to find some unbelievable bargains.

After successfully bidding on a piece, you will have to present the number assigned to you when entering the auction. It is a good idea to jot down your final bids on items, to compare with the house's total. Keep in mind, that part of the auction experience is learning to let a piece you love go to the highest bidder.

5% Expense Money Returned to State's General Fund

Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye has announced that the Senate Contingent Expense Committee, of which he is chairman, has voluntarily returned 5% of the Senate's appropriated expenses to the state's General Fund.

The Lieutenant Governor stated that "the committee's action reflects the deep concern of the Senate for the budgetary problems the state faces."

In a meeting following today's session of the Senate, upon motion of President Pro Tem Glen Deweese, the Contingent Expense Committee voted unanimously to agree to the voluntary reduction. Previously, the Lieutenant Governor and Speaker Tim Ford had recognized the need for the Legislature to reduce its budget by 5%.

In addition to the 5% cut in the Contingent Expense Fund, which amounted to $196,214, the Senate Committee joined the House of Representatives to transfer to the General Fund, $52,614 of the Joint Legislative Operations budget.

The Lieutenant Governor concluded that "today's action is an indication of the Senate's determination to return state government to fiscal integrity."

Singing At Palestine

WAR IN THE GULF

A lot has happened in the Persian Gulf in the span of one week.

On January 12, Congress granted President Bush the authority to use force, if necessary, if Iraq did not end its occupation of Kuwait by January 15, as required by the United Nations Security Council.

On January 16, the President ordered air strikes on strategic targets in Iraq and Kuwait. To date these strikes have been very effective in had a dramatic impact on Saddam Hussein's air power, as well as biological, chemical, and nuclear power.

Americans have been awed by the skill, effectiveness, and technology capabilities of our military weaponry. Our F-117 "stealth" characteristics made them hard to detect by Iraq units they had released their weapons. That's why they were able to penetrate heavily defended sites like the Iraqi communications centers.

One Scud ground-to-ground missile fired into the Dhahran area Thursday night in eastern Saudi Arabia, site of a large air base from which Saudi and U.S. forces are operating, was shot down in the air by a U.S. Patriot air defense missile and did not land. The Patriot missile is a part of this nation's Strategic Defense Initiative program, often-times ridiculed by liberals in Congress.

In the first 24 hours of Operation Desert Storm, as the battle for free Kuwait has been dubbed by the Pentagon, most of Iraq's Scud ground-to-ground Scud sites were believed destroyed. About 10 separate targets were hit, including not only military but political targets such as the Baath party headquarters and the defense ministry in Baghdad.

The outstanding performance of our troops and our military equipment are directly attributable to those leaders like President Reagan and our own Senator John Stennis who urged our nation's climb to military excellence. I called Senator Stennis to discuss it with him.

The Senate on January 17 belatedly adopted a resolution praising the President and "unequivocally" supporting our troops in the Persian Gulf "who are carrying out their missions with professional competence, dedicated patriotism, and exemplary bravery."

While the initial reports of our military mission have exceeded expectations, I am disturbed by Saddam Hussein's unprovoked attack on Israel which is not a party to this conflict. Iraq's strike against Israel is yet another example of Hussein's raw aggression and further makes the Allies' case for checking that aggression now.

Any loss of human life is tragic, but they are fewer than we anticipated in undertaking such a massive operation.

My fervent hope is that this conflict will be short in duration, but the reality is that stopping Saddam Hussein could take time. We should be prepared for that eventuality.

In the past few days we have witnessed the power of Iraq's military and the insanity of Saddam Hussein. President John F. Kennedy speaking in 1962 said, "Aggressive conduct, if allowed to go unchecked and unchallenged, ultimately leads to war."

The choice is clear. America can face down the Iraqi dictator or chance allowing him to become more dangerous down the road.

We support the men and women of the Mississippi Army National Guard.

Uncoordinated Eye Movement

If you've noticed that your son or daughter's eye movement don't seem to be as coordinated as they should be, this may be caused by an eye condition known as strabismus. The most common and probably the most alarming form of this condition is crossed eyes in which the eyes deviate inwardly. In other forms of this ailment they can also deviate upward or outward. In any of these forms of strabismus the deviation may be constant or it may only happen occasionally. But whatever the form, strabismus is a serious condition that should be treated as soon as possible so both eyes can learn to see properly at the same time.

In a child's first year of life, his eyes may wander somewhat because of insufficiently developed muscle coordination. This is usually temporary and the eyes will straighten into normal vision and stay that way. But if uncoordinated eye movement is still evident before the child reaches the age of four, he probably has a strabismus problem that should be treated without delay, so both eyes can learn to see clearly.

Burnsville High School Senior Named Semifinalist In Coca-Cola Scholars Program

Pamela A. Lambert, daughter of Sidney W. Lambert, has been selected from more than 60,000 applicants as one of the 1800 1991 Coca-Cola Semifinalists. A senior at Burnsville High School, Pamela is a member of the Student Council, School Newspaper Editor and Beta Club.

"Pamela exemplifies the balance of leadership, character, and achievement, in school and the community, that we are searching for in our Coca-Cola Scholars. We are delighted to have a Semifinalist from our area, and wish her success in the final stages of the selection process", said Larry Stanford, General Manager of Corinth Coca-Cola Bottling Works.

The Semifinalists will complete additional materials, which will be screened by the Foundation's Program Review Committee in March. Following the Review Committee's selection of 150 Coca-Cola Scholars, these students will attend the National Competition in Atlanta from April 18-20, 1991, where they will compete for designation as a National or Regional Coca-Cola Scholar. The 50 National Scholars will receive awards of $5,000 per year and the 100 Regional Scholars will receive $1,000 per year, both renewable for up to four years.

The largest business-sponsored scholarship program in the country, the Foundation is funded by a $25 million endowment contributed by participating Coca-Cola bottlers and the Coca-Cola Company. Building from the first 150 Coca-Cola Scholars selected in spring 1989, the Founation will support 600 scholarships a year by 1992 with annual outlays of more than $1.4 million.

Anti-Smoking Activities At Burnsville

On January 25, third grade students from Burnsville Elementary will be participating in anti-smoking activities in an effort to become a generation of children who are free of cigarettes. They are joining tens of thousands of other children across the nation in the SmokeFree Class of 2000 project sponsored by the American Cancer Society (ACS), American Heart Association (AHA), and the American Lung Association (ALA).

The 12-year education and awareness campaign has focused on children who entered first grade in 1988 and will graduate in the spring of the year 2000. This program is part of the ACS/AHA/ALA response to the Surgeon General's call for a smoke-free generation of Americans by the year 2000. Third graders this year are the graduating class of 2000 and will again be presented information about the dangers of cigarette smoking.

"We are asking the children to promise not to smoke, and to ask their brothers and sisters, friends, teachers, and parents not to smoke," said Velson Taylor, Rhonda Bullard and Debra Brewer.

According to the three agencies, the initiation of regular daily smoking is highest among children in the seventh to ninth grades. About sixty percent of adult smokers say they got hooked on cigarettes by the age of 14. An estimated 390,000 Americans die prematurely each year of smoking-related causes, including lung cancer, emphysema, and coronary heart disease, making smoking the number one preventable cause of death in America.

"That's what we are enrolling our third grade students in the SmokeFree Class of 2000. We know that regular daily smoking usually begins between the ages of 12 and 14, so we want them to be fully prepared to say "no" to cigarettes when they are offered to them," said Velson Taylor, Rhonda Bullard, Debra Brewer.

Teachers have planned various classroom activities utilizing educational kits provided by the American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, and the American Lung Association. At the conclusion of the day, all third grade students will have the opportunity to sign a pledge, promising not to smoke. Each child will take their signed pledge home and present it to their parents.

Sunshine Homemakers Club Holds Meeting

Sunshine Homemakers Club met in the home of Sadie Gist, January 16, 1991. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mary Sue Wright. Thought For The Month: Time is one of the precious ingredients. Everyday brings 86,400 seconds...Whatever isn't used is gone forever. Devotional was given by Mary Sue Wright, Proverbs 31. Odeen Kenaum led in prayer. We filled out year books, and made plans for this year's activities.

Refreshments were served and enjoyed by all.

The meeting was adjourned. Those present other than ones mentioned above were: Joan Strickland, Pearl Adams, Earline Whitfield, and Nellie Wilemon.

WILDLIFE AND TIMBER: A NATURAL COMBINATION

Whether I'm talking to civic clubs or to individual landowners, I often stress the importance of growing the proper species of trees on the proper sites. I especially emphasize that upland sites should be converted from hardwood to pine. Pine trees are worth more than hardwoods, and they grow faster.

People are often justifiably concerned about the effect this stand conversion will have on wildlife, especially squirrels. Now we at the Forestry Commission like squirrels and other animals as well as anybody, and we aren't about to suggest that we make them an endangered species.

Notice that I recommend converting upland sites to pine. By this I mean the upper slopes and tops of ridges and hills. Stream bottoms, drainages, and coves will grow good quality hardwood trees, and they are expensive to convert to pine. Hardwoods are probably the proper species for these sites.

By following this system of timber management, you can increase your timber income, and at the same time make your forest more attractive to a wider variety of wildlife. Some animals that don't like open hardwood forests are attracted to the brushy conditions that exist in young pine plantations. Examples of these are rabbits, quail, many songbirds, and, to some extent, deer.

Wildlife biologists tell us that many animals are attracted to the areas where different stands meet. This is called the "edge effect". The system of timber management described here will produce much of this.

There are many other things you can do to improve wildlife habitat on your land. Some of them are:

Supplemental feeding - Small open areas can be planted with game food, and firelanes and woods roads can be planted with a green cover crop. This will control erosion and also improve their fire control effectiveness, as well as supply food for animals.

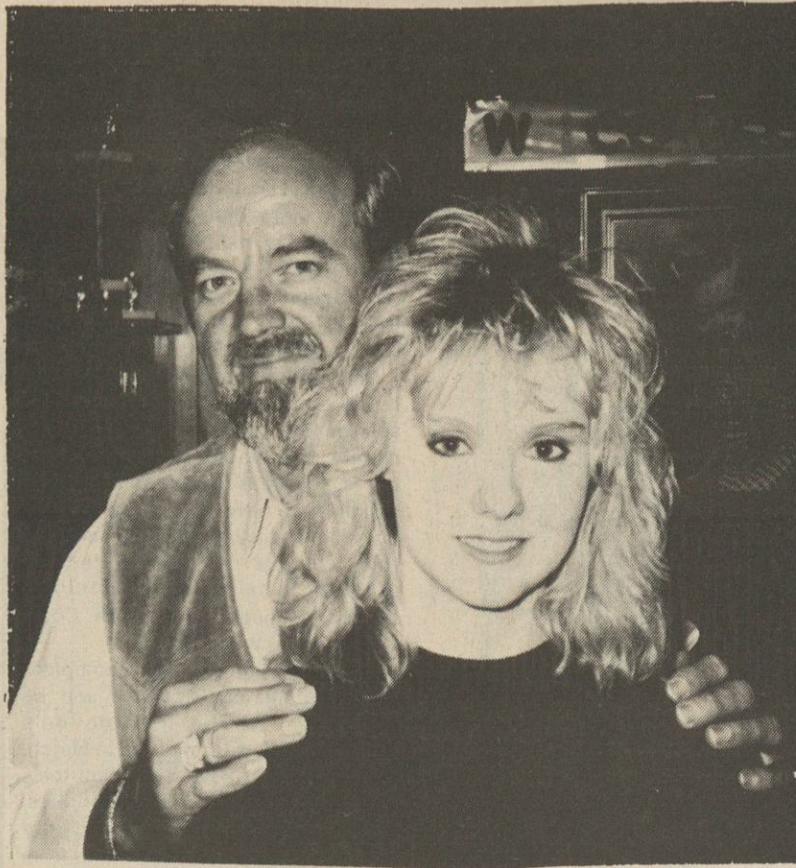

Here's a trick you may want to try: Drive a large nail about one inch deep into an old tree that will not be sold. File the head end to a sharp point, and stick an ear of corn on it. Replace the corn when all the grain is gone. Your squirrels will love you for it!

Maintain natural food and den trees - when deadening hardwood trees to prepare a site for planting pine seedlings, leave a few large hardwood trees that show evidence of heavy wildlife use. Don't leave too many. The shade will stunt your pine seedlings. Maintain fruit and nut trees around old house sites.

Use forest management techniques that benefit wildlife - prescribed burning and thinning of pine stands encourages the growth of grass and food-bearing shrubs.

Good timber management is often good wildlife management. It is possible to increase your timber income and make your woodlands more attractive to wildlife. It just takes a little planning.

Older People Prone To Sleep Disorders

There's no substitute for a good night's sleep; yet many older people find it increasingly difficult to get this needed rest. The Mississippi Department of Human Services' Council on Aging points out that, while sleep patterns do change with age, disturbed or disrupted sleep is not an inevitable part of aging.

"Sleeping problems may be a sign of emotional or physical disorders and should be discussed with a physician," said Billie Marshall, director of the Council on Aging.

The amount of sleep each person needs varies, but the range is usually between seven and eight hours a night. Many sleep specialists agree that, although individual requirements remain fairly constant throughout adulthood, aging does reduce the amount of sleep one can expect to get at any one time. By age 75, some people may find that they are waking up several times each night.

According to the National Institute on Aging (NIA), there are several common sleep disorders that may affect the elderly. A wide range of treatments is available, but definite diagnosis is needed by a physician specializing in sleep disorders. The Council on Aging and NIA offer the following suggestions for a good night's sleep:

--Follow a regular schedule. Try to go to sleep and get up at the same time each day.

--Exercise everyday. Moderate activity 2 to 4 hours before bedtime may improve your sleep.

--Avoid caffeinated beverages late in the day. Caffeine is a stimulant that can keep you awake.

--Do not drink alcohol to help you sleep. Drinking even small amounts can make it harder to stay asleep.

--Develop a bedtime routine. Do the same things each night to tell the body it's time to wind down. Some people watch the news, read a book or soak in a warm tub.

--Give yourself 15 minutes to fall asleep after getting in bed. Then if you're still awake or lose your drowsiness, go into another room until you feel sleepy.

--Create a safe and comfortable sleeping environment. The room should be dark, well ventilated and have all nonessential sounds blocked out.

"Anyone who is so tired during the day that he or she cannot function normally should see a family physician or a sleep disorders specialist for a complete evaluation," Ms. Marshall suggests.

For additional information on matters relating to the elderly, contact the Council on Aging at 949-2070.

Thomas Hayes Receives Promotion

Thomas D. Hayes, assistant vice president and loan officer at AmSouth Bank's main office in Arab, AL., has been promoted to vice president.

"We are pleased that AmSouth's operations in Arab, combined with Mr. Hayes' outstanding career performance, have earned him this opportunity to assume additional responsibilities in our Arab bank," said Roy Marshall, AmSouth's Arab city president.

Hayes joined the Bank of Arab in 1973 after gaining lending experience with companies in Huntsville and Tennessee. Bank of Arab subsequently affiliated with AmSouth Bancorporation in 1975 and became part of the statewide AmSouth Bank N.A. in 1983.

Hayes was promoted to assistant cashier in 1975 and to assistant vice president in 1977.

During his tenure with AmSouth, Hayes transferred to the bank's Huntsville affiliate in 1978 and returned to Arab in 1986.

Hayes' experience includes commercial and consumer lending, business development and branch supervision.

He attend Northeast State Junior College in Rainsville and earned his degree in business administration from Livingston University.

Hayes is president of Arab Lions Club and a member of the Arab Chamber of Commerce and First United Methodist Church.

He and his wife Saron have one daughter, Tracy, who is presently a student at the University of South Alabama.

AmSouth Bank in Arab is part of the statewide AmSouth Bank N.A., cornerstone of AmSouth Bancorporation, which has assets of approximately $8.5 billion.

AmSouth Bancorporation operates 156 banking offices throughout Alabama, and 23 offices in Northeast

Florida. In addition, the corporation's mortgage banking affiliate, AmSouth Mortgage Company, operates 14 offices in seven Southeastern states.

AmSouth also provides business banking services through an office in New Orleans, and the company is in the process of opening a bank in Nashville.

Thomas is the son of Dorothy Hayes, of Iuka, Mississippi.

Pharmacy & Your Health

How to Choose the Best Pain Reliever

Pain relievers are among the most commonly used of the non-prescription medicines. Billions of dollars are spent by the public for relief of pain associated with headache, arthritis, bursitis, muscle soreness, premenstrual syndrome (PMS), and other conditions. For headache alone, Americans spend approximately $400 million each year for nonprescription medicines. The most popular products contain aspirin, acetaminophen, and ibuprofen. Which pain reliever is the best? Here are three tips on how to select a product:

1. Discuss the pain with your pharmacist to help determine its possible cause or causes. A common cause of headache, for example, is sinus congestion. A properly selected decongestant may provide better pain relief than pain reliever medicines alone.

2. Be aware of potential side effects and interactions associated with pain relievers. Avoid aspirin during pregnancy or if there is a history of intestinal bleeding. Aspirin and ibuprofen interact with a number of prescription medicines. Discuss this possibility with the pharmacist.

3. Resist purchasing products simply because they are highly advertised. Less advertised products often are just as effective.

Bells

Have you ever thought how many times a day we hear bells? The telephone rings, it's a bell ringing. The door bell rings, it's a bell ringing. When the times up on a microwave a "ding" sounds. Most of us think of a bell for communication, but it is also considered a musical instrument. Handbell choirs, carrolons, chimes and cowbells or drum sets are examples of these.

Bells date back to 800 B.C. in Asia. In Ancient Greece bells announced the return of ships with the catch of the day. Rome was known to have bells for worship. They were not introduced to Europe until 550 A.D. Bells became important to religion and government as a way to call the people or signal then if trouble arose.

The largest cast bell in the world weighed 80 tons and is located in Burma. The largest carrolon in the world is located in Riverside Church in New York City. It consist of 72 bells and weighs over 100 tons.

The Liberty Bell is probably the most famous bell in America. It was cast in Europe in 1752 and shipped to the Colony of Pennsylvania in America in 1753. The bell broke shortly after arrival. It was recast in 1753 and bore an inscription from the Bible: "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all inhabitants thereof." (Leviticus 25:10). The bell weighs over 2080 pounds. The Liberty Bell cost $300 when the colony of Pennsylvania bought it and placed it in their parliament, later known as Independence Hall. On July 8, 1776 it was rung to sound the news of the drafting of the Declaration of Independence. The bell was rung each year for various ceremonies and events until 1835. In that year the bell was rung to mark the death of Chief Justice John Marshal and cracked. The bell is not rung today, but is struck with a small hammer on only very special occasions. One of these was the bicentennial on July 4, 1976.

On that day, July 4, 1976 bells rang out all over the country. The bells rang in Iuka that day. The Methodist Church bell, which was placed in the tower of the church in 1859, rang that day. It is still rung every Sunday morning. The church also has a carrolon, but it was struck by lightning several years ago and has not been repaired. Those of us who remember the sweet music from the carrolon miss it.

The Episcopal Church in Iuka also are 228,400 veterans living in Mississippi. The Jackson Regional Office handles VA claims for benefits by veterans, their dependents, and their survivors living in the state.

VA wants to make this new number widely known because there will be a delay before it is published in local telephone directories, as telephone companies publish new directories at different times throughout the year.

Mr. Woodard said, "In addition to providing better service, the new number will save the government a considerable amount of money when compared to present telephone line charges." During the last fiscal year, the Jackson VA Regional Office received nearly 133,500 telephone calls from throughout the state on its toll-free telephone lines.

William Kennedy

William Jessie Kennedy, 86, died Monday January 21, 1991 at the Red Bay Hospital. He was a member of Mount Carmel Church of God near Red Bay, and a retired farmer and school bus driver.

Services were at the Deaton Funeral Home Chapel in Red Bay with the Rev. Hubert White and the Rev. R.C. Byram officiating. Burial was in the Oakland Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Lula Marie Kennedy of Golden; one daughter, Jennell Trulove of Red Bay; three sisters, Mattie Dulaney and Edna Moore, both of Memphis, and Minnie Moore of Amory; two grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Charles Ridge, Robert Grissom, Gary Pounders, Mike Sides, Emzell Ewing and Keith Grimes.

Memorabilia including programs, schedules, and pictures of earlier days at the Iuka campus are needed. Contributions will be labeled and returned to owners.

Harmony Homemakers Meet

The January 1991 meeting of the Harmony Extension Homemakers' Club met in the lovely home of Marquita Greenaway with eleven members and three visitors present.

The President, Lois Tucker, called the meeting to order giving the thought for the month: "Time is one of the precious ingredients. Everyday brings 86,400 seconds...Whatever isn't used is gone forever."

The Council Collect was read by Becky Walker.

Annual financial report was given by the secretary.

Thank you notes read from Dorothy Hayes and the family of Ora Cresap.

Community projects were discussed, continuing our highway project. June is our month to help with the magazine project at the hospital. Also, we are sponsoring a service man, the son of one of our members.

The door prize was won by Lois Tucker.

Members present other than the above mentioned ones were: Margie Davis, Opal Dean, Sara Hayes, Glenda Johnson, Vada Day, Mary Jo McAnally and Louise Sanderson.

We were delighted to have as our guest Billie Catherine Lewis, Julie Walker and "Little Tabo" McAnally.

The meeting adjourned with the February meeting to be with Dorothy and Sara Hayes.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

New Toll-Free Number For VA

Veterans and their dependents can now reach the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Regional Office in Jackson on a new toll-free number, according to Larry Woodard, VARO Director. "Beginning December 24, 1990, people living outside the local Jackson calling area can call the VA Regional Office by dialing Toll-free 1-800-827-2028, while veterans and dependents living in the local Jackson calling area can still reach VA by dialing 965-4873," he said.

According to Mr. Woodard, there

ASRM Plant To Have Pollution Control Measures

The advanced solid rocket motor plant which will operate at Yellow Creek will have the most efficient and most modern pollution control devices available to minimize emissions, says Lockheed and Aerojet, contractors on the space project.

In addition, plant operators will use the smallest possible quantities of hazardous materials and will avoid using hazardous materials whenever possible.

A number of air pollutants are associated with the planned manufacturing operation, including particulate matter, carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxides, sulfur oxide, volatile organic compounds, hydrocarbons, and hydrogen chloride.

NASA has applied for several environmental permits to begin construction of the advanced solid rocket motor facility.

Because the operation includes disposal of waste propellant by open burning, NASA must be issued a hazardous waste permit under the RCRA (Resource Conservation and Recovery Act), said Dwight Wylie, chief of the state pollution control bureau's air division.

In the meantime, Lockheed and Aerojet have formulated environmental safeguards for the plant. Safety and environmental protection are part of Lockheed and Aerojet corporate policy and are priorities. Both firms have long worked under California environmental regulations, which are among the most stringent in the country, the contractors said. These federal and state regulations are considered essential to a high quality of life for employees and neighbors, and the same is true for all facets of ASRM project operations in Mississippi.

The following procedures are planned for Yellow Creek:

- Open burning of waste propellant will be conducted in the development phase of the ASRM program, during the equipment check-out, plant qualification, and development/qualification motor fabrication period.
- A propellant thermal processor (PTP), a two-stage incinerator, will be designed and fabricated to use as an alternative to open burning of waste propellant at the start of the ASRM production contract.
- When it is necessary to burn waste propellant in the open, the burning will be conducted only during acceptable meteorological conditions specific to Yellow Creek.
- No waste will be released or directed to the rivers, lake, or other waterways. All domestic waste will be treated in a regional sewage treatment plant. All ASRM hazardous material storage tanks at Yellow Creek will be above ground and protected by secondary containment capable of containing any spill and preventing runoff to the lake.
- Air will be protected by using the best available control technology for vents and exhaust stacks. Carbon filters, scrubbers, baghouses, and closed loop systems designed to be 95-99 percent efficient will be integral to plant operations.
- Water from the lake will not be used for plant operations. Instead, potable industrial process and fire fighting water will be provided by the Short-Coleman Park Water Association which serves the site and surrounding area.
- The plant fire protection system will include two 500,000-gallon storage tanks. Lake water will be used for fire fighting only if this storage is not adequate to suppress a fire.
- Incidents involving ignition of propellant materials and other flammable materials will be minimized by the use of lightning ground protection, explosion proof electrical fixtures, automatic process shut offs, and fire extinguishing systems integral to each manufacturing building. In addition, the facility will have a fire service group on site responsible for fire protection and safety. This group will also evaluate design changes and manufacturing procedures, and perform routine inspections throughout the facility.
- Water used to clean ASRM cases returned to Yellow Creek for refurbishment will be recycled. Solids removed from the used motor cases, like all other hazardous waste, will be transported to an appropriate waste disposal site.
- Waste generated will be transported to approved waste disposal sites. At these sites, there will be as much recycling of waste as possible.

- All employees who will work with hazardous material will receive rigorous, regular training in handling, use, and disposal methods.
- All buildings and storage areas at Yellow Creek will be located in ways which ensure that normal operations and contingency situations will not create hazardous conditions beyond plant boundaries.
- The ASRM team is preparing an emergency plan for activation in the case of an accident. Civil authorities, police departments, and local residents will be involved in this plan to ensure proper coordination. Under to plan, Lockheed and Aerojet will identify all local residents prior to plant activation and provide them with additional information on plant activities and emergency procedures.
- Local residents, even those closest to the facility, will not hear loud noises, and will not see gas or particle emissions. There will be no unpleasant odors coming from the site.

TN. River Pulp & Paper Announces Plans For Scholarship Program

Tennessee River Pulp & Paper Company has announced plans for its 1991 Scholarship Program. Two $500 grants will be presented to spring graduates from area senior high schools; one from the three schools in Hardin & McNairy Counties in Tennessee, and one from among Corinth, Alcorn Central, Iuka and Burnsville high schools in Mississippi. The scholarships will be renewable on an annual basis up to a maximum of four years. Included with the awards will be an opportunity to work for the Company during the summers while attending college. The awards are made to encourage and financially assist outstanding high school seniors in furthering their education.

Application forms and instructional material have been provided the guidance counselors at the above schools. The counselors will assist eligible students with the applications which are to be returned to the Company by April 1.

Selection of the scholarship winners will be made on the basis of high school academic records, national test scores, and financial need. The winners will be selected from a screening and interview process by the Company Scholarship committee. The awarding of these scholarships will bring to 39 the number of scholarships awarded by the Company since the beginning of its student aid program twenty-nine years ago.

Jerry Clower Leads Tribute To Jamie Whitten

Jerry Clower will join with Gov. Ray Mabus and leaders of the American and Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, in paying tribute to Congressman Jamie Whitten for his 50 years of service to the nation and the state of Mississippi.

The January 25 celebration, which the entire Mississippi congressional delegation is expected to attend, will highlight Farm Bureau Week Jan. 21-26. Admission is free, with the program beginning at 2 p.m. in the Mississippi Coliseum.

"Jerry Clower was a natural choice to honor Mississippi's most senior statesman, not only because he's a landmark entertainer, but because of his special relationship with our state's farm industry," Don Waller, president of Farm Bureau, said.

After receiving his degree in agriculture from Mississippi State University, Clower was an assistant county agent. Later he was employed for 18 years by Mississippi Chemical Company (which has its roots in Farm Bureau) where he rose to director of field services. It was through his job selling fertilizer to farmers that Clower began establishing a reputation for "talkin'." His first album, "Jerry Clower from Yazoo City, Mississippi, Talkin'" kicked off his new career, and today, he has over 12 albums with MCA Records.

In 1976, Clower received the National 4-H Alumni Gold Key Award for the state of Mississippi. He also received the highest national honor that the Future Farmers of America Bestows on its alumni.

Named "Country Comic of the Year" for nine consecutive years by major country music trade and fan publications, he has also written three books and appears in several radio and television commercials. He also hosts the most widely syndicated country radio show in the world, "Country Crossroads."

Other activities during Farm Bureau Week will include open houses at county Farm Bureaus, a public affairs conference in Jackson, the Southern Agri-Business Forum, women's conference and a legislative reception.

WAL-MART DONATES SAFETY BEARS - Gina Bonds and Jill Lovelace pose with complimentary teddy bears donated by Wal-Mart to the Burnsville FBLA community service project. The bears will ride in Mississippi Highway patrol cars in the Northern District to be given to children involved in an accident or other traumatic event. The goal of the project is to help increase the bond between the public and the state troopers and to help promote seat belt safety.

make them better? How were your personal relationships with school faculty and with peers? Evaluating honestly, what could you do to improve in that area?

How's your physical health? Do you have plenty of energy; are you in the average weight range for your height and body type? Do you eat three well-balanced meals a day and exercise regularly (that means doing more than walking from your chair to the TV to change channels when the remote is broken)?

Your mental health? Are you dealing with stress before it becomes distress? Do you talk out your concerns with someone you trust before you let things get out of control? Do you read, watch, and listen to things that build you up? You tend to become what you spend your time thinking about.

Set your goals and make plans to reach those goals. A wise person once said, "People don't plan to fail. They just fail to plan." Plan to succeed and work to carry out those plans.

Eastport Homemakers

The Eastport Homemakers Club has started it's new year.

The first meeting took place January 14, 1991, at Margaret Smiths house, with the newly elected officers taking their positions.

Although a lot of our members were absent due to sickness and such, we had a pleasant meeting.

Our club President Mrs. Roberta Luttrall called the meeting to order by reading the THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH; Time is one of the precious ingredients. Every day brings 86,400 seconds...Whatever isn't used is gone forever. (With this thought in mind we should consider how much time a day we do waste.)

Margaret Smith gave the devotion on the 23rd. Psalm. She also read a poem on letting God be our Shepherd and allowing him to take care of our every need and care.

We read over our goals for the coming year, and appointed our new Educational Chairmen.

We were glad to have as our visitor, Kimberly Cook. Hope she will come and visit us again.

After our meeting we had refreshments and a nice time of fellowship.

Others attending not mentioned above are as follows, Sue Borden, Jimmie Hampton, and Pauline Stafford.

We missed our other members and hope they can make our next meeting.

SAFETY BEARS TO RIDE HIGHWAYS As a community service project, the FBLA chapter at Burnsville High School has presented "Safety Bears" to the Mississippi Highway Patrol Northern District. The bears will be placed in patrol cars and will be given to children involved in an accident or experiencing a traumatic event while travelling on Mississippi highways. The bears are to promote moral support and guidance for the children, and to help bond the child to the trooper and diminish fears the child may have about policemen. Bears were donated by committee members, local merchants, and through the FBLA department at Burnsville,

NEW BEGINNING

Don't you like the times when you get to make a fresh start. Beginning the study of a new subject, starting a different project, opening a fresh, clean notebook or an unused textbook feels good.

A new school semester is a good time to take stock of where you are now and what you would like to accomplish before the semester ends. A look back at the previous semester may give you clues about your direction for the one you're entering.

How were your grades? What are the things you did to make them good, or what could you have done to

In Memory

I am home in heaven, dear ones;
All's so happy, all's so bright!
There's perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief are over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly
Trod the Valley of the Shade?
Oh, but Jesus' love illumined
Every dark and fearful glade!

And He came Himself to meet me
On the way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely,
For I love you dearly still:
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's will.

There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idle stand;
Do your work while life remaineth-
You shall rest in Jesus' land.

When that work is all completed,
He will gently call you home;
Oh, the rapture of the meeting!
Oh, the joy to see you come!

MOB AUTHOR TO SPEAK-- W.R. Morris, of Shiloh, Tenn., author of several books on mobs and their activities, will be the guest speaker at the luka Library's Lunch Break on Tuesday, January 29, at noon at the library. Morris is the author of "The Twelfth of August," upon which the movie "Walking Tall" was based. His newest book "The State-Line Mob" tells the story of a mob that led a string of crime activities along the Mississippi-Tennessee state line between McNairy and Alcorn counties. Mr. Morris will be available to sign copies of his book. Lunch is $2, and a drawing will be held for a Bread Machine to be given away. The Lunch Break is sponsored by the Friends of the luka Library. Everyone is invited.

Stress Line

Dear Dr. Morris:

I am in a managerial position in a local plant. I have a number of people working under me. Many of them seem to be unhappy on the job and some seem to be angry towards me. I do not feel I am becoming paranoid, but the situation seems to be getting more serious. Our work setting is a high pressured one. Do you have any ideas as to how I might deal with my employees' feelings as well as my own?

Response:

Many people in high pressured jobs allow their emotions to build up within. Feelings have to go somewhere. If we do not express them in appropriate ways, unhealthy behaviors can result.

I would recommend setting aside some time for your workers to let off steam. Besides giving them a chance to vent their feelings, you will probably get information helping you to identify problems that lead to excessive stress in the workplace.

I realize this approach can be threatening to some "bosses", but most research points out that in reality people become more clear-headed and more energetic and many even wanted to work harder.

Give your employees a chance to gripe their way to productivity.

SEAT BELT CONTEST WINNERS AT BURNSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL...In the recent Future Business Leaders of America at Burnsville High School "Seat Belt Awareness Project," awards were given in four divisions. A fifth contest winner will be announced at a late date. The following students received recognition for about these days about obese or overweight children. One such theory my husband and I recently heard suggested that fat children get their fatness from their parents. Is this true? My husband and I are both overweight.

Response: First, let's define obesity or overweight: It is the excessive accumulation of body fat which exceeds normal weight by 20% or more. The research does suggest a strong connection with parents. For example, obesity tends to increase from 7% when neither parent is obese, to 40% with one obese parent, to 80% with both parents obese. Of children grossly overweight at ages 9-13, 83% continue obese as middle-aged adults, based upon one research sample. The heavier the child and the earlier the onset of weight excess, the greater the likelihood of adult obesity.

Don't flirt with a heart attack! The American Heart Association says to reduce your risk: stop smoking; control high blood pressure; eat a low-saturated fat, low-cholesterol, low-sodium diet; maintain proper weight; and exercise regularly.

More than 57 percent of adult Americans have blood cholesterol levels above 200 milligrams per deciliter, a level at which the risk of coronary heart disease begins to rise sharply, says the American Heart Association.

WAL-MART DONATION ASSISTS LOCAL ENVIRONMENTAL EFFORT
In continuing its commitment to help improve our environment, Wal-Mart of luka recently presented a $500 check to the Tishomingo County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited. The funds are to be used for community environmental projects. John Pickle (left), manager of Wal-Mart makes the presentation to John Castleberry, Ducks Unlimited treasurer. Each Wal-Mart store, SAM's Club, Wal-Mart's Hypermart USA, and Distribution Center across the company's 32-state trade territory is making this donation to a non-profit environmental organization serving its immediate community, resulting in a total of $1.3 million to be given away by the company.

Resolution

The Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Iuka, Mississippi, took up for consideration the matter of issuing general obligation bonds of said Municipality in the maximum principal amount of One million Seven Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($1,725,000). After a discussion of the subject, Alderman Scotty Skinner offered and moved the adoption of the following resolution:

RESOLUTION DECLARING THE INTENTION OF THE MAYOR AND BOARD OF ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF IUKA, MISSISSIPPI, TO ISSUE GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS OF SAID MUNICIPALITY IN THE MAXIMUM PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF ONE MILLION SEVEN HUNDRED TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($1,725,000) TO RAISE MONEY FOR THE PURPOSE OF REPAIRING, IMPROVING AND EXTENDING THE WATERWORKS DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM AND CONSTRUCTING A NEW WATERWORKS PLANT, AND DIRECTING PUBLICATION OF NOTICE OF SUCH INTENTION.

WHEREAS, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Iuka, Mississippi (the "Governing Body"), acting for and on behalf of the said City of Iuka, Mississippi (the "Municipality"), hereby finds, determines, adjudicates and declares as follows:

1. It is necessary and in the public interest to issue general obligation bonds of the Municipality in the maximum principal amount of One Million Seven Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($1,725,000) to raise money for the purpose of repairing, improving and extending the waterworks distribution system and constructing a new waterworks plant.

2. The assessed value of all taxable property within the Municipality, according to the last completed assessment for taxation, is Ten Million Five Hundred Fifty-five Thousand Seven Hundred Fifty-one Dollars ($10,555,751); the Municipality has outstanding bonded indebtedness subject to the fifteen percent (15%) debt limit prescribed by Section 21-33-303, Mississippi Code of 1972, in the amount of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000), and outstanding bonded and floating indebtedness subject to the twenty percent (20%) debt limit prescribed by Section 21-33-303, Mississippi Code of 1972 (which amount includes the sum set forth above subject to the 15% debt limit), in the amount of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000); the bonds herein proposed to be issued are subject only to the twenty percent

(20%) debt limit set forth in the aforesaid Section 21-33-303, Mississippi Code of 1972; the issuance of the bonds hereinafter proposed to be issued, when added to the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the Municipality, will not result in bonded indebtedness, exclusive of indebtedness not subject to the aforesaid fifteen percent (15%) debt limit, of more than fifteen percent (15%) of the assessed value of taxable property within the Municipality, and will not result in indebtedness, both bonded and floating, exclusive of indebtedness not subject to the aforesaid twenty percent (20%) debt limit, in excess of twenty percent (20%) of the assessed value of taxable property within the Municipality and will not exceed any constitutional or statutory limitation upon indebtedness which may be incurred by the Municipality.

3. The Municipality is authorized by Sections 21-33-301 to 21-33-329, Mississippi Code of 1972, to issue the bonds hereinafter proposed to be issued for the purpose hereinafter set forth, for which purpose there are no other available funds on hand.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. The Governing Body hereby declares its intention to issue general obligation bonds of the Municipality in the maximum principal amount of One Million Seven Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($1,725,000) (the "Bonds") to raise money for the purpose of repairing, improving and extending the waterworks distribution system and constructing a new waterworks plant. The Bonds will be general obligations of the Municipality payable as to principal and interest out of and secured by an irrevocable pledge of the avals of a direct and continuing tax to be levied annually without limitation as to rate or amount upon all the taxable property within the geographical limits of the Municipality.

SECTION 2. The Governing Body proposes to direct the issuance of the Bonds in the amount, for the purpose and secured as aforesaid at a meeting of the Governing Body to be held at its regular meeting place in the City Hall of the Municipality at 3 o'clock p.m. on February 1, 1991, or at some meeting held subsequent thereto. If ten percent (10%) of the qualified electors of the Municipality, or fifteen hundred (1,500), whichever is the lesser, shall file a written protest with the Clerk of the Municipality against the issuance of such Bonds on or before the aforesaid date and hour, then the Bonds shall not be issued unless authorized at an election on the question of the issuance of such Bonds to be called and held as provided by law. If no protest be filed, then such Bonds may be issued without an election on the question of the issuance thereof at any time within a period of two (2) years after the date above specified.

SECTION 3. This resolution shall be published once a week for a least three (3) consecutive weeks in the Tishomingo County News, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in the Municipality and qualified under the provisions of Section 13-3-31, Mississippi Code of 1972. The first publication of this resolution shall be made not less than twenty-one (21) days prior to the date fixed herein for the issuance of the Bonds, and the last publication shall be made not more than seven (7) days prior to such date.

SECTION 4. The Clerk of the Municipality is hereby directed to procure from the publisher of the aforesaid newspaper the customary proof of the publication of this resolution and have the same before this Governing Body on the date and hour specified in Section 2 hereof.

Alderman Jackie Bryant seconded the motion to adopt the foregoing resolution, and the question being put to a roll call vote, the result was as follows:

Alderman Jackie Bryant	voted: Aye
Alderman Scotty Skinner	voted: Aye
Alderman Cecil Phifer	voted: Aye
Alderman Buddy James	voted: Aye
Alderman Leroy Dean	voted: Aye

The motion having received the affirmative vote of a majority of the members present, the Mayor declared the motion carried and the resolution adopted this the 2nd day of January, 1991.

Letter To Editor

This editorial is to those who are gouging the residents of Iuka.

For instance right now you can go to Burnsville and find a difference of ten cents in gas prices lower than Iuka.

You do not have to be a rocket scientist to figure out that these gas stations are taking unfair profits and, it hurts us all as a community, and how it makes us look to those who may want to locate here.

The same can be said for rents and land prices.

However I stress not all businesses are doing this, but it only takes a few to make us all look bad.

This is not to say there is not some hope for us.

For instance I live in a house in town and they told me that the only reason they would raise my rent is if their taxes or their insurance went up and it did, but it only went up $25.00 a month, which is fair.

I would like to thank them publicly. I have heard of peoples rents being doubled and almost tripled mostly to get them out of there, so they can rent the property at a higher price.

When we moved here in 1982 from up north, I was looking for a community that took pride in being fair to all people and I found it here in Iuka, it was also a community which took pride in helping its people, I still find that true still today for the most part.

Within the past few months, ever since the rocket plant and NASA will be locating here somethings have changed.

Again I stress it is the minority who have made these changes.

But these few that make us look bad, and I am afraid that it will get worse before it gets better!

I hope I am wrong in my assessment, I hope that we will wake up before we turn this community into one that say "whats in it just for me" to a community that says "whats best for the whole community"!!!

News From The House Of Representatives

By: Mack Loyd Wadkins

The emphasis was on committee work in the House of Representatives during the past week but concern over the Middle East largely overshadowed the state's budgetary troubles and other major issues facing lawmakers.

The House opened the tense week with a prayer for peace and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. While legislative committees continued going about their usual tasks, lawmakers managed to keep abreast of the historic developments in the Persian Gulf by monitoring newspaper, radio and TV reports.

Among the bills winning speedy passage in the House was a health insurance measure aimed at helping members of the Mississippi National guard and others called to duty because of the Middle East crisis.

Under the bill, if an insurance firm is providing health insurance to someone when that person is called to active duty, then the same coverage must be resumed when the insured returns to civilian life. The measure cleared the House without a single vote against it.

House members also unanimously approved a resolution commending the U.S. Armed Forces and pledging full support for all Americans involved in Operation Desert Shield and Operation Desert Storm.

In other key developments of the past week:

--The Governor revealed he had ordered another $15 million in budget cuts for the current fiscal year, boosting overall reductions to $43 million over the past five months. However, this compares with a projected shortfall of around $105 million for the year. The Governor said an additional $17 million in cuts may be necessary in February.

--A bill to provide for licensing and regulation of abortion clinics by the State Health Department finally became law when both House and Senate voted to override the Governor's veto of the bill. The bill had been approved in the 1990 session but the veto message was not received until after the session ended.

--Two bills were signed into law authorizing a transfer of $400,000 to the Emergency Management Agency to assist counties which sustained heavy damages from recent storms and flooding. The legislation, which cleared both House and Senate earlier, was to cover the state's share of the disaster relief cost.

Other bills winning House approval included a measure to expand the jurisdiction of county courts to include cases in which the monetary amount involved does not exceed $50,000. The present limit is $25,000. There has been no increase since 1984.

The House also voted to designate a segment of Highway 18 in Rankin County in memory of longtime Representative Jimmy Morrow of Brandon. The veteran legislator died last fall.

There was a strong effort by appropriations subcommittees in the House to complete a detailed study of budget requests from state agencies and institutions and get the massive stack of funding proposals ready as soon as possible for floor action. The Appropriations Committee was expected to review the subcommittees' reports in the current week, and hopes to bring the bills to the full House starting January 8.

Usually, it takes several weeks to complete the appropriations process. This year's effort to accelerate the process is part of a move to find a fiscally responsible path through the state's financial quagmire.

Numerous other committees and subcommittees continued work during the past week on hundreds of bills and resolutions introduced since the session started January 8. Monday (January 21) was the deadline for introduction of general bills and constitutional amendments.

Governor Mabus was slated to address a joint session of the House and Senate on Tuesday (January 22). Lawmakers are due to hear an address on Thursday by Major General Paul Harvey, the Commanding Officer of Keesler Air Force Base, in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the Biloxi facility.

The House also had a very special visitor during the past week -- 5-year-old A.J. Davidson, currently serving as State Ambassador for the March of Dimes. The youngster, who got a standing ovation from legislators, was accompanied to the Capitol by his mother, Mrs. Sheri Davidson, and March of Dimes officials.

Ask Ochsner

When should I have my infant's hearing tested and what are some signs that I should look for that would indicate whether or not he has a hearing impairment?

A. "Basically infants and toddlers are not routinely evaluated for their hearing unless they are at risk for a hearing problem. For instance, children who are born prematurely, children who have had a viral infection such as meningitis are at greater risk for hearing loss and it's very important that their hearing be checked," says Dr. Rhonda Kelley, the Director of Communicative Disorders at Ochsner Clinic.

Hearing is not usually checked by a professional until the child is around preschool age unless the parents notice usually behavior and suspects that the child may have a hearing deficiency. In order for a parent to detect a hearing problem, Dr. Kelley suggests that parents be aware of how their infants react to environmental sounds such as a person's voice, a knock at the door or the ringing of the telephone. An infant's normal reaction to the ringing of the phone, for instance, is to be startled by the sound. By two months of age an infant should be reacting pretty normally to these environmental noises. Pulling on the ears, crankiness and unresponsiveness are classic signs a child gives when he has an earache. It is important for parents to be able to interpret their child's behavior.

Most area preschools, both public and private, offer screenings that test students' speech, language and hearing skills. It is a good idea to have your child's hearing screened annually from preschool age until the age of seven or eight. By this age most children stop having recurring ear problems and your child should be able to tell you if he is having trouble hearing. "I think annual screenings are always wise because basically it's an easy, simple procedure and it verifies for the parents that there are no problems," says Dr. Kelley.

If you suspect that your child has a hearing problem, you should contact your pediatrician or your primary care physician. Your doctor will be able to test your child to determine the cause of the ear pain or hearing loss. The problem may be as simple as fluid in the ear canal or an ear infection, problems which are usually easily treated.

"It is important that parents and doctors catch a hearing problem in the early stages of a youngster's life because hearing loss impacts children in all aspects of their development, especially their speech and language. Hearing is the most basic means of communication and a hearing deficiency may result in a delay in speech and learning problems," concludes Dr. Kelley.
