Local Girl Scouts Begin Cookie Sale Friday

It's one of the favorite times of year for most everyone. Girl Scouts with cookies are coming your way!

Carrying on a well-received tradition for over 50 years, Girl Scouts will be going door-to-door, setting up booths and selling cookies.

Seven different varieties of cookies will be on sale. The cost of each box is $2.50.

This once-a-year event helps provide for over 5,000 Girl Scouts in the Council. Our local cookie sale covers nineteen Northeast Mississippi counties.

The proceeds support special activities of Girl Scouts ages 6 to 17 as well as Council facilities and services.

Today's Girl Scouts have cookies for everyone, from traditional 35-calorie Shortbread Cookies to this year's new variety Strawberries 'n' Creme and the ever-popular Thin Mints. Girl Scout Cookies can be frozen for future enjoyment.

This year's cookie sale theme "Make It Happen" is a call to action that speaks clearly to the achievements of Girl Scouting.

For over 80 years, the Girl Scout organization has met the challenge to help "Make It Happen" for girls and young women. This theme encourages girls to "Make It Happen" through Girl Scouting, education, community service and healthy choices.

WINTER CARE OF FRUIT TREES

Insect control on fruit trees is primarily restricted to the control of scale. Using a recommended dormant oil spray twice about seven to ten days apart will work fine. Make sure you get complete coverage on all limbs and trunk. This can be applied anytime after leaves have fallen and before buds begin to swell in the Spring. Always read label precautions. I prefer to wait until February to prune, but if you have broken or dead limbs, it is okay to remove and burn them now.

PESTICIDE SAFETY

Keep pesticides in an area inaccessible to children, adults who are unfamiliar with pesticides, and animals. All pesticides should be stored under lock and key away from food, seed, clothing, or other articles. Storage areas should be well lighted and well ventilated and temperatures should not be allowed to go below freezing. Keep pesticides in their original container and keep an up-to-date inventory. Read the label and be safe.

AN ALARMING STATISTIC

According to research funded by the American Farm Bureau Research Foundation, commercially marketable yields of fruits and vegetables would decrease, on average, by SEVENTY PERCENT while per unit costs of production and per acre costs would rise if pesticides were completely eliminated from farming. And if pesticides were cut in half, the average yield would be reduced by about THIRTY-SEVEN PERCENT.

BOONEVILLE FEEDER PIG SALE

The next area feeder pig sale will be in Booneville on Thursday, January 13, 1994. REMEMBER! In order for pigs to be sold, they no longer have to be monitored for pseudorabies if they are from Mississippi. Give me a call if you have any that you would like to sell because they still have to be inspected.

USDA CONDUCTS SOYBEAN REFERENDUM, FEB. 9

To determine whether soybean producers favor the continuation of a nationally-legislated Soybean Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Program, USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) will conduct a referendum, in cooperation with the Extension Service (ES) and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

The referendum will be held on February 9, 1994 in all States.

The registration and voting will take place at cooperative ES county offices. "Our offices will determine eligibility of challenged voters, count ballots, and report referendum results," Phillip A. Horn, Director of the Tishomingo County ASCS office, said.

All producers who certify that they produced soybeans between September 1, 1991, and December 1, 1993, will be eligible to vote in the referendum. USDA officials say a simple majority vote will determine if the soybean promotion program will stay in effect.

In the referendum, producers will decide if they want to continue to pay the current assessment of 0.5 of one percent of the net market price of the soybeans they sell. The assessment is used to fund the program, according to AMS officials.

Producers who have questions should call (202)720-1115.

Home Economics Tips

FINDING A SOLUTION TO THE EPIDEMIC OF INACTIVITY

American's are suffering the effects of a long-term and increasing epidemic of inactivity. Mississippians studied have an even more inactive daily life than the average American.

Many deaths result each year from physical inactivity even though public awareness of the importance of exercise is widespread. Experts in exercise science have long proclaimed the need for exercise to prevent disease. For minimal cardiovascular conditioning, experts recommend 30 minutes of continuous exertion three times each week at an intensity that feels like work.

This guideline requires an exercise routine, and few actually accomplish this goal. Therefore, scientific experts were brought together to review and formulate a new recommendation for the amount of activity needed to prevent disease.

The new recommendation is for every adult to accumulate 30 minutes or more of moderate-intensity physical activity over the course of most days of the week. Because most Americans do not presently meet the standard described above, almost all should strive to increase their participation in moderate and/or vigorous physical activity.

Take part in activities of daily living such as using stairs instead of elevators, yard work and walking as much as possible during the day. The recommended 30 minutes of activity also may take the form of planned activities such as walking, jogging, playing tennis, swimming and cycling.

People who do not currently engage in regular physical activity, should begin by incorporating a few minutes of increased activity into their day, and build up gradually to 30 minutes of additional physical activity.

Even though the benefits of following this guideline are relative to the intensity of the activity, scientific evidence shows that even moderate activity can provide health benefits. For those who are extremely sedentary, a little physical activity can be as beneficial as stopping the use of tobacco.

MEC Issues A Challenge

The Mississippi Economic Council celebrated its first decade of existence in 1959 by asking members to recommend long-range objectives for the organization.

As the state's largest association of business and professional individuals and firms, MEC at the time was dedicated to improving the economic opportunities for all its citizens. It still is.

Objectives identified 35 years ago by MEC members in 1959 remain those of MEC members in 1994 and should be those of every citizen.

They include:

- Increase per capita purchasing power.
- Develop human resources and improve relations among races.
- Expand use of material resources.
- Establish a more equitable tax structure.
- Improve government efficiency and increase citizen participation in government.
- Promote a better understanding of the free enterprise system.

In the span of time between 1959 and today, every MEC project has, in one way or another, related to the objectives listed above. MEC continues to work actively for a better Mississippi -- better business, better Government, better citizenship.

MEC Challenges other Mississippians to do the same.

INSIGHT INTO EYESIGHT

DR. PHILLIP GRAY
OPTOMETRIST

POLYCARBONATE LENS PROTECTION

A great boon to sports enthusiasts (and other eyeglass wearers, especially the young, rough-and-tumble set) are the new polycarbonate materials. Back in the 50's and 60's most lenses were made of glass. Then plastic became popular because it was lighter. However, polycarbonate is even lighter than plastic. As a matter of fact, it is 50% lighter than plastic and 20% thinner for the same correction. That means more comfort and style. In addition, it's a better ultraviolet (UV) protector and provides much greater impact resistance.

For this reason, it is the preferred lens for people who engage in athletics. Polycarbonate frames are also preferred. If you regularly participate in sports that involve a projectile, such as racquetball, baseball or tennis, ask your optometrist about polycarbonate lenses and frames. Polycarbonate lenses come in clear or any of the multitude of tints available. They're worth the investment.

New Traditions With Holiday Leftovers

Good cooks know that holiday leftovers can be holiday "makeovers" if we use some creativity.

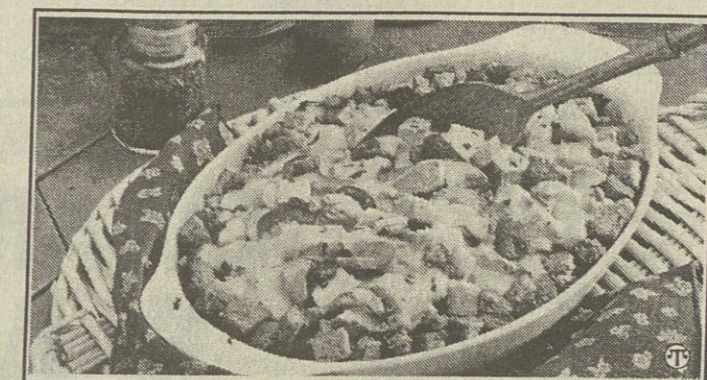

"Leftovers can be more exciting than just turkey, ham or beef sandwiches," says Donna Higgins, director of Del Monte Kitchens. "We all look forward to our favorite traditional holiday dishes, but leftovers provide an opportunity to create new traditions," Higgins adds.

Stewed tomatoes are a convenient pantry ingredient, and they are recipe-ready to provide exciting variety to leftovers. Available in Original, Italian, Mexican, Cajun and Chunky Pasta Style, their zesty flavors provide a new twist to turkey, ham or beef dishes.

Here are two recipes creating new traditions for the family to look forward to after the holidays. Both are convenient and can be ready to serve in less than 25 minutes—a real bonus especially after a long day shopping the post-holiday sales.

SAVORY CREAMED TURKEY WITH STUFFING

3 cups cooked stuffing
1 onion, cut into wedges
2 stalks celery, sliced
1 Tbsp. olive oil
1 can (14 1/2 oz.) DEL MONTE Italian Style Stewed Tomatoes*
1/2 tsp. basil or oregano, crushed
2 cups cubed cooked turkey
1/2 cup sour cream

Stewed Tomatoes perk up holiday leftovers with Savory Creamed Turkey with Stuffing—a quick and easy recipe for relaxation after the holidays.

In 8x8-inch glass baking dish, spoon stuffing on bottom. Cover and heat in microwave or conventional oven. In skillet, cook onion and celery in oil until tender. Add tomatoes and basil; cook over medium heat 3 minutes. Stir in turkey; heat through. Just before serving, stir in sour cream. DO NOT BOIL. Pour over hot stuffing and serve. (4 servings)

*Variation: Substitute DEL MONTE Mexican Style Stewed Tomatoes.

Prep Time: 5 minutes
Cook Time: 10 minutes

Safety Tip: To store leftover turkey and stuffing, remove stuffing from cavity of roasted turkey and refrigerate.

CAJUN SKILLET HASH

1 onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, crushed

2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 (7 oz.) potato, cooked, peeled and chopped
1 can (14 1/2 oz.) DEL MONTE Cajun or Original Style Stewed Tomatoes
1/2 tsp. thyme, crushed
2 cups shredded cooked beef*
1 green pepper, chopped

In large skillet, cook onion and garlic in butter until tender-crisp. Add potato; cook 2 minutes. Stir in tomatoes and thyme; simmer over medium heat 2 to 3 minutes. Add meat and green pepper. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Simmer, stirring frequently, 3 to 5 minutes. Season with hot pepper sauce and serve with eggs, if desired. (6 servings)

*Variation: Substitute turkey or ham for beef.

Prep Time: 8 minutes
Cook Time: 14 minutes

Timber Takes Top Billing With State's Agriculture

Another year of strong demand and high prices combined to thrust forest products to the top of Mississippi's agricultural commodity list in 1993.

Forest economists at Mississippi State University estimate a 21 percent increase in the value of timber production to achieve the $972 million level -- up $162 million from last year.

Dr. Bob Daniels, extension forestry specialist at MSU, said the estimate is based on the slightly higher timber volume and substantially higher prices.

"We measure volume by reports on timber severance tax collections which are slightly higher than last year, which also was a high-volume year," Daniels said. "Prices for pine sawtimber were 19 to 22 percent higher in 1993."

Daniels said prices went up significantly early in 1993 due to demand and uncertainty about log supplies in the Northwest, but they normally come down in the summer when weather permits easier access to timber stands and log supplies improve. However, summer prices in 1993 did not drop as much as they had increased during the winter and spring.

Daniels said several factors served to keep demand high in 1993. The effects of Hurricane Andrew, which hit Florida in 1992, could continue to influence the need for lumber for another five years. This year's Midwest flood caused enough damage to structures to impact demand for building materials. Housing starts were also higher in 1993.

"Decisions made this year will result in less timber available in the future from national forests in the Northwest," Daniels said. "The industry will be looking more and more to the South for timber, and prices have moved up accordingly."

North Mississippi has become a more important timber region than in past years. The North Mississippi forest industry development around Grenada and the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, which continues to aid in timber transportation, has made the region more important in forestry.

"We've been saying for 10 years or more that the South was becoming the wood basket of the nation, and we have been encouraging landowners and farmers to plant trees," Daniels said. "The growing trend is definitely here and will continue for at least another two decades or more."

Sylvia Napper, executive vice president of the Mississippi Lumber Manufacturers' Association in Jackson, said, "lumber mills have done extremely well with the higher prices in 1993."

"We've seen an increased demand for treated lumber for outside uses and foundations," Napper said. "It would be good for the state to increase demand for treated wood in projects such as modern timber bridges. Treated wood also can supplement in bridge construction materials."

Napper said use of treated timber in bridges would be less costly for Mississippi and at the same time support a major industry in the state.

Notice Of Meeting

The North Mississippi Taxpayers Coalition will hold its monthly meeting January 8, 1994, at 2:00 p.m. at Western Sizzlin' in Booneville.

Topics for discussion: The local scene by members.

Use of 1992 sales tax increase money that is, by law, to be used to reduce your local school property taxes.

Update on appeal to Mississippi Supreme Court to make petition process workable to call for a constitutional convention to recommend a new Constitution for Mississippi voter approval and a process called REFERENDUM by which people can repeal state and local laws.

Everyone Welcome.

What's New in Taxes for 1993?

These are typical questions asked by taxpayers and are presented as a public service of this publication and the IRS.

Q. My employer told me that there will be changes to the Form W-2s coming out for 1993 taxes. What are they?

A. The Form W-2 contains the same information as before—it just has a new look. The new form was designed by the IRS and the Social Security Administration (SSA).

The upper right-hand side of the form contains "core information" such as wages, tips and other compensation, federal income tax withheld, social security wages and tax withheld, and Medicare wages, tips and tax withheld.

The bottom of the form contains the state data and positioned on the left side are the name, address and identifying numbers (SSNs or TINs).

Q. When will I receive the new Form W-2?

A. Your employer must still send your copy by January 31, the date hasn't changed.

Q. I'm self-employed. Can you tell me what the new tax law says about health insurance?

A. The new tax law, called OBRA '93, reinstated the deduction for 25% of the health insurance premiums for self-employed people and was to July 1, 1992. The deduction December 31, 1993.

To qualify to take the deduction you must have a net profit from employment or receive wages from a S corporation in which you are a two-percent shareholder.

You cannot take the deduction if you were eligible for health insurance from your own employer or spouse's employer. If you are a shareholder in a S corporation, you may file a Form 1040X to claim the deduction.

Q. I've heard the president is going to give a tax credit for children in your paychecks. It's for people who have children. What is it and how do I get it?

A. It's called the Advanced Child Tax Credit (ACTC) and it was expanded for 1994. Basically, people who work, have a child and will make under $10,000 in 1994.

If you qualify to receive the credit, you must fill out a Form W-2 and give it to your employer. Your employer then gives you part of the credit in your paycheck. To find out if you qualify, call 1-800-829-3676 and ask for publication 596, Earned Income Tax Credit.

MSU's Retired Mascot Dies

Mississippi State University lost one of its biggest fans Dec. 9 when Bully XV, MSU's retired mascot, passed away at the age of 11.

Dr. Gerald Radde, small animal clinical veterinarian with MSU's College of Veterinary Medicine, said Bully died Thursday of natural causes.

"Bully died very peacefully in his sleep of old age at his foster home," Radde said. "He was living with Jan and Melvin Rhodes in Starkville."

Bully was MSU's 15th bulldog. The first Bully was donated to the university in 1936.

Bully had been in retirement for the past three years. After retirement, he moved from the College of Veterinary Medicine, where he was affectionately known as "little Bully," to the Rhodes' home to enjoy living in a house with a yard and a lot of love.

"He had the run of our house and yard, and especially enjoyed sleeping on the couch or outside in the sunshine," said Melvin Rhodes. "Our whole family already misses him."

"He was a gentle dog that loved children and love to be with crowds of people," Rhodes said. "We live near campus, and if he could hear a game going on, he always wanted to be there. We used to take him for walks on campus on game days, but in recent months, he just hasn't felt up to it."

Little Bully still came to the College of Veterinary Medicine regularly for baths, check ups and visits with old friends.

MSU does have a "Bully in waiting" who has been attending football games in Little Bully's absence.

The Rhodes family and veterinarians at the College are still working on funeral arrangements, but tentative plans include cremation, with the ashes to possibly be buried or scattered over a site on the MSU campus.

Tenn-Tom Today

Mysterious Sightings Investigated On The Tenn-Tom

Winter mornings are fairly quiet along the banks of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. The moments just before and after the sunrise are met with a distinct chill as the breeze begins to churn the dense fog hanging over the water. It is times like these that outdoorsmen come to love, despite the cold. For some, it is encountered on a hike to a favorite pre-dawn hunting spot. For others it is on a brisk boat trip to a fishing hole or secluded island.

In these early morning hours the only sounds are the distant whining of an occasional outboard motor, and the sound of your own footsteps. The fog and the water have a habit of intensifying any sound. They also tend to accentuate the pre-dawn silence. The fog can be so thick at times that the beam from a flashlight scarcely reaches the ground. The motion of the breeze in the approaching dawn allows for only brief glimpses of surrounding features, the momentary silhouettes set to motion by the movement of the fog. On mornings like this, even the most familiar of areas take on a strange and mystical air. The morning of December 31, 1992, was just such a morning for two fishermen on the "Tenn-Tom."

Although daylight brings with it the realization that the Tenn-Tom is now a modern waterway, the blanket of fog and silence that hangs heavily over the old river in the early morning hours is the same one that has greeted winter mornings for thousands of years. The banks of the old Tombigbee River have seen a million sunrises. The river traces history with its path, cutting through layers of soil, rock, and chalk back to the time when the area was covered by a shallow sea. Evidence of earlier times can be found along the banks in the form of ancient shark's teeth and mollusks. Times like these make it easy to imagine what life would have been like in time prehistoric, but on this particular morning the use of imagination would not be necessary.

It is probably safe to assume that many sightings of unexplained phenomena occur during inclement weather and/or poor visibility conditions. A boater navigating the fog on the Loch Ness could easily mistake a dead snag for something out of the ordinary. Someone hiking the mountains in a heavy snowstorm might be convinced that a brief apparition belonged to a sasquatch. Likewise, the old riverbanks of the Tombigbee lend themselves to strange encounters as they give way to time. The last years of many giant hardwoods are spent in a slow descent into the dark waters below. There can be no doubt that many an unwary boater has been startled by the sudden emergence of a towering giant looming overhead. Add to this the area folklore with its tales of the unexplained and the northward movement in recent years of the American alligator, and you get a wealth of strange sightings. No combination of personal experience and scientific knowledge, however, could have prepared the fishermen and investigating officials for what happened on this particular morning...

Although there is uncertainty as to the identity of the fishermen, the remaining details of the story have been well documented. The report received by park rangers and lock personnel was that a giant lizard-like creature had been spotted on the banks of the old river. Initial estimates put the monster at over 30 feet long, with sharp teeth and massive jaws. It had been spotted on a bank of selma chalk which had emerged from the receding flood waters. It reportedly had a long tail and some sort of fins running the entire length of its body. The fishermen wasted no time in concluding their own investigation and quickly alerted the proper authorities. The following is a compilation of the reports of investigating officials.

Park rangers had little trouble in locating the area in which the creature was spotted. The bank was still wet from the waning flood, and evidence remained of some large creature all along the chalk embankment. The rangers quickly concluded that resolving this mystery would require specialized assistance. Paleontologists from the University of Alabama's Museum of Natural History were contacted.

In an investigation of this type, time would be of the essence. The forecast was calling for additional rainfall. If the bank became inundated by flood waters before the scientists could perform an investigation, the incident might remain a mystery forever. The agencies would have to work together quickly to gather the evidence.

After an initial investigation, it was clear that a great deal of equipment would be required at the site. One of the chief curators at the Museum was assigned to lead the efforts. Fortunately, the flood waters remained low enough for the team to conduct a thorough investigation. Although studies of this nature often provide evidence for the scientific community, they can take a great deal of time to complete. Even when completed, many of the answers simply lead to further questions. At this point in the ongoing study, however, a number of conclusions have been reached.

The creature spotted on the banks of the river has been identified as a "mosasaur". Also known as the "giant swimming lizard," mosasaurs occupied the shallow seas of the area during the later Cretaceous period. These creatures are characterized by a pointed snout, sharply-toothed jaws, paddle-like appendages, and a long tail. Although the appendages resembled the feet of modern sea-turtles and the long tail was not unlike that of today's alligator, analysis of the vertebrae of the mosasaur leads most scientists to conclude that it swam more like a fish than modern reptiles. This was undoubtedly an aid in its carnivorous activities.

Excavation in the area thus far has yielded the remains of not one, but four of these mosasaurs. Other skeletal remains have included a duckbill dinosaur, two flying reptiles (pterosaurs), an as yet unidentified dinosaur with the tooth of a carnivore imbedded in its leg-bone, three turtles, numerous fish, and other assorted fossils.

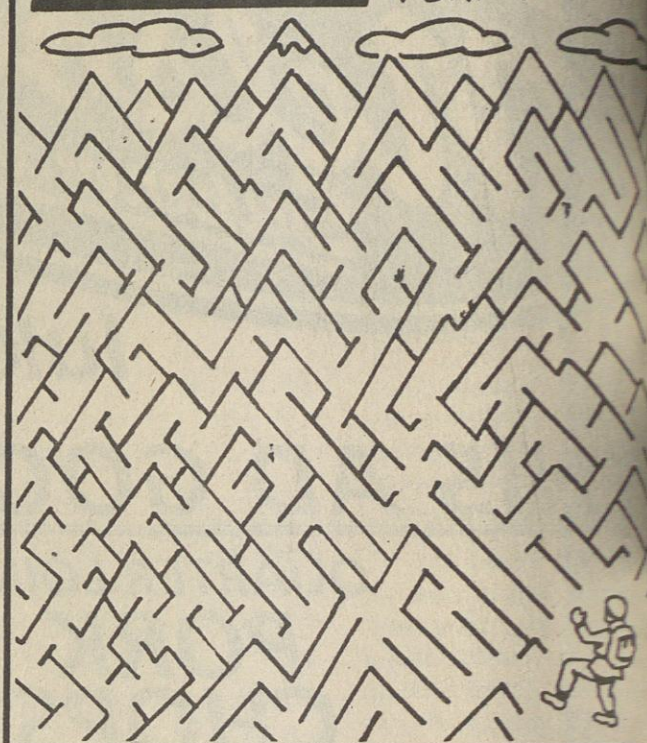

Only further study and investigation will show the total wealth of information that will be found in what the paleontologists are considering a very significant find. The search for the answer to the mystery on the Tenn-Tom, then, is just part of an ongoing investigation into a much larger mystery. For now, however, word has it that on foggy mornings on the Tenn-Tom Waterway, you'd better keep your eyes wide open.

Making Plans For Heritage Day '94

A new year has started and the Christmas lights in Mineral Springs Park have all gone out. If you had a tree lit and wish to pick up your lights and sign, please come to the cabin between 10 a.m. and 12 noon on Saturday, January 12. If you want them stored at the cabin until next year, just let me know.

I would like to thank everyone who took part in lighting up the Park this year. There were many who helped. I hope you know how much I appreciate you for helping me on my part. Especially the Rescue Squad.

I am starting this new year with a very special prayer for our town. I am praying that all though the Christmas lights have gone out, we will remember "the one true light" that will never go out or leave us in the dark. If we will allow "God's Light" to shine in our city and on each other, our town will glow in unity. As a team we can pull together all of our little lights and really make things happen.

Let's not make hollow resolutions that we will probably break, but let's offer up prayers for our leaders and ask for the wisdom and strength we need to help upgrade ourselves and our city.

It is time to start making plans for Heritage Day '94'. The Defense Dept. of the United States Government has declared "Iuka" as a "World War II Commemorative Community". The next two years will be celebrated as the 50th anniversary of W.W. II. "Heritage Day '94" will be dedicated to that part of our history. If you have an interest in helping with this project, please call me at 423-3047. Tishomingo County was very patriotic during all of the war years. You can and should, stand proud. Thank you Iuka for 1993. "Go team" in 1994.

WINTER COOKING FOR THE FAMILY

Winter is a wonderful season to get to know your family better. Because of the cold temperatures and shorter daylight hours, families spend a great deal of time inside. Why not spend this time involved in family projects and activities that will improve life skills for the children (and perhaps fathers) and bring the family closer together.

This would be especially good for children who are enrolled in the 4-H food and nutrition projects. They could take the leadership in planning these projects for the family.

Regardless of what activities a family is interested in or their talents, a good place to start these family activities is in the kitchen. We all have to eat, so this will achieve two purposes. Think about these ideas for winter cooking experiences that can involve the whole family.

*Make a pot of soup or stew that reflects your family heritage, i.e., an Irish Stew if you are Irish or Minestrone if your family originated in Italy. Let each member of the family prepare an ingredient for the soup pot and put it all together to cook. While the soup is cooking, prepare an appropriate bread and perhaps a dessert to accompany the soup or stew.

*Go to a foreign land in your own home through food. Decide on the country you want to visit. Plan a menu and let each person be responsible for a dish. Try simple foods or use convenience foods. Try the grocery store for a good selection of Mexican and Oriental foods that are easy to make. Add an extra touch by dressing in costume for the meal.

*Make cookies or bread. This is especially good for the younger children. Choose a simple recipe and let each family member do something in the recipe. For an added touch, when the cookies or bread are cooked, package them for gifts to a lonely neighbor or sick friend. Then have the family make a visit to give them to the recipient.

*If someone in your family hunts, use the game as the focal point of a meal. After the kill and the game is dressed, have the family participate in cooking the venison, the rabbit or whatever it happens to be.

*Of course, all of this doesn't just happen, even in the closest of families it will take some planning and lots of patience and understanding from everyone.

The 4-H food project materials have some excellent ideas. If the kids are not enrolled in 4-H, this would be a good introduction to project work.

For more information on the 4-H Food Nutrition Project call 423-7016.

Evelyn Gearleen "Gerry" Bruce was born on March 19, 1932 at Winona, Missouri to Marshall R. "Mock" Atkins and Ora E. Huddleston Atkins. She married Joseph V. Bruce, on July 20, 1963, at Winona, MO. No children were born to this union. She passed away on January 1, 1994, 9:30 p.m. at Ozark Medical Center in West Plains, following a long battle with cancer.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Joseph V. Bruce; her mother, Ora Atkins; one brother, Gary Ray Atkins; and one nephew, Marshall Ray Atkins; all of Winona, Missouri.

She was preceded in death by her father, Mock Atkins, in 1982. Gerry was a graduate of Winona High School.

She worked for several years with her husband, as the office manager of the Winona Medical Clinic. She previously worked many years as the manager of a clinic in Tishomingo, Mississippi, where Dr. Bruce also practiced, before they returned to Missouri to care for her father while he was terminally ill with cancer. That was one of the hardest decisions of their life, leaving the people they loved in Mississippi for the people they loved in Missouri.

Before she began her career in the medical field, she worked for several years in women's clothing and shoes, loving decorating and design.

Gerry tried to practice the Golden Rule, and was a Christian all of her life. She was baptized in the Methodist faith on December 12, 1993. She was a comfort to everyone whom she met.

Funeral services were held January 4, 1994, 1 p.m. in Duncan Funeral Chapel in Winona with Rev. Glenn Hampton and the Herald DeWeese officiating. Interment was in Mount Zion Cemetery under the direction of Duncan Funeral Home of Winona.

down and shut up I'll explain what happened.

Everything was going along real good, right on schedule like when we invaded Russia years ago and took over that country. All demons were staying invisible like the wind and we were slowly winning on all fronts. Company A attacked the churches and were knocking holes in their financial bucket to slow them down. Company B was assigned to attack the pulpits, to destroy as many preachers as possible, to get them in a squeeze and keep the pressure on until at least some of them goofed up, then use them as bad apples to turn people against the whole bushel. Demons from Company C scattered out all over the country, whispering in people's ear to laugh and tell dirty jokes about preachers to help kill their influence and weaken the churches more. Company D invaded and seized partial control of that invention called television and used it to corrupt the environment in even Christian homes and now lots of Christians are so full of whats being fed into their minds they have no appetite for anything spiritual their pastor or church can cook up.

Our evil forces also invaded the school system, forcing most leaders to surrender and now freedom of religion is even off the football fields and out of the class rooms so the youths can be programmed different.

Like I said Sir, our evil forces were winning on all fronts, until some Christians in Mississippi started fighting back. Thats what started it all. Churches of all faiths, race and color begin to unite into one great body like Indian tribes on a war path; Sir, it was like waking up a sleeping giant. All over America churches are beating the drums, whooping it up, crying out for freedom. Sir, they are desperate and there's no stopping them now. The situation has got out of hand. Your demon army had no choice but to flee, get out of America or get cast out into deep space for a thousand years. Sir, one thing we learned about the America people. Their religion is like a nail. The harder you hit it, the deeper it'll go. I'm not a big somebody, a retired small town barber felt a strong urge to write this; And, to say: Hurrah for people in Mississippi for the lead, like Moses to free people from the invisible force that led Russia down wrong road and is now America swallowing our bite by bite.

Card Of Thanks

To everyone who came by during the loss of loved one; we say thank you. True friends are hard to find. You all are the best. We not say what it means. Thanks to all who sent flowers and money. A thanks to the Pruitts and Whitaker for the beautiful service, to the Jimmy Daniels, Rev. Tran and Rev. Clayton Little, the kind and touching during the service and a pallbearer I know Leroy, a friend and how hard it was of you. Thanks to Cutshall the good job you did. Our heaven's gain and each made it a little easier for can never thank you enough. Patsy R. Childs Grand

Christmas Down South

Antebellum gentlemen in the South regarded Christmas Day more as a time of rest and social activity than religious holiday. Although preserved such customs as caroling, burning yule log and decorating greenery, native seafood turkey replaced the traditional European dishes of goose. Southerners add regional touches, too, eating fried oysters, an egg nog with rum and go Christmas-morning hot foxes or small game. From try by Allen Cabaniss, a cyclopedia of Southern Christmas

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

IF YOU WANTED BREAD, YOU HAD TO MAKE IT—FROM START TO FINISH!

IN BIBLICAL TIMES, THE MISTRESS OF THE HOUSE, FIRST THING ON ARISING, WOULD ATTEND HER FAMILY'S DAILY NEED FOR BREAD. FIRST, THE GRAIN (USUALLY BARLEY OR RYE) HAD TO BE GROUND INTO MEAL, SIFTED TO FLOUR, THEN MIXED INTO A PASTE WITH WATER. NOW IT WAS KNEADED INTO DOUGH AND LEAVEN FOR IT TO RISE, THEN THE DOUGH WAS DIVIDED AND SHAPED INTO CAKES FOR BAKING. A FAMILY HAD ITS OWN PORTABLE OVEN OF STONE, WHICH STOOD ABOUT THREE FEET HIGH AND WAS HEATED ON THE INSIDE BY WOOD OR DRY GRASS FIRE. THE CAKES OF DOUGH BEING PLASTERED ON THE OUTSIDE TO BE BAKED....

USUALLY, IT WAS ONE OF THE YOUNGER DAUGHTERS OF THE HOUSEHOLD WHO SUPERVISED THE BAKING OF THE CAKES, FOR THEY HAD TO BE CAREFULLY TURNED DURING THE PROCESS LEFT ONE SIDE BE BURNT.

BREAD OVER 3,500 YEARS OLD
EGYPTIAN LOAVES LIKE THIS ARE ON DISPLAY AT THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART, NEW YORK CITY, HAVING BEEN FOUND IN ANCIENT TOMBS AT THEBES, EXACTLY AS THEY WERE BAKED!

NEXT WEEK: ONE STRAY ARROW!

Farmers Home Admin.

Taking Grant Applications

George E. Irvin, Sr., State
Director of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), announces that the agency is soliciting competitive applications under its Housing Preservation Grant (HPG) program. Eligible entities for the competitively awarded grants include state and local governments, nonprofit corporations, federally recognized Indian Tribes and consortia of eligible entities.

The HPG program will be available to provide repair and rehabilitation assistance to owner
(s) of single or multi-unit rental properties and cooperative housing projects, as well as, homeowners. This is the first time the HPG program will be available to provide repair and rehabilitation assistance to owners of rental properties. Also, the selection criteria has been changed from previous years.

The pre-application should state whether the proposal is to assist individual homeowners, rental property or cooperative housing projects. The preapplication may not combine proposals. The fiscal year 1994 allocation is $589,720 and no more than 50% of Mississippi's allocation may be awarded to a single entity.

Irvin said that the agency will begin receiving pre-applications on January 3, 1994, and the closing date for acceptance is April 5, 1994. This period will be the only time during the current fiscal year that FmHA accepts pre-applications for the HPG program. Pre-applications must be received by or postmarked on or before this date.

The FmHA State Office will be the processing/servicing office for the HPG program. For further information or a preapplication package, contact Don Thames, Housing Preservation
Grant Coordinator, USDA, FmHA, Suite 831, Federal Building, Jackson, MS 39269, telephone (601)965-4325.

How Long, Mississippi?

Results of the recent national survey of reading skills among public school students were disappointing. More than two-thirds of the fourth, eighth, and twelfth graders tested lacked proficiency in reading.

Adding frustration to the disappointment for Mississippians was the September 20
editorial of the Los Angeles Times which commented:

"Especially dismaying was the performance by fourth graders in California. They tied with children in Mississippi -- which has traditionally placed at or near the bottom in tested educational skills -- as the nation's worst readers."

How long, Mississippi, are you going to be willing to be the bad example of education for America?

Taxpayers are pumping millions of dollars into education
-- some 62 percent of the total state General Fund Budget goes for education.

The state "reformed" education in the early 1980s.

Still, Mississippi is at the foot of the class.

States with significantly lower per pupil expenditures are outperforming Mississippi in the classroom.

How long, Mississippi; how long?
