Dogwood Festival To Feature Country Singer Dan Seals

Tickets are on sale now for the day's activities at $10 for adults, $5 for students in advance and $2 for children age 12 and younger. Senior citizen tickets are $5. Phone the Iuka Area Chamber of Commerce, 424-0000 to purchase. They are also available in Iuka at Sports Plus, Grisham's Men's Wear, and Country Square Restaurant.

Rising Country Music star Dan Seals is also expected to be on hand for the opening ceremony at 10 a.m.

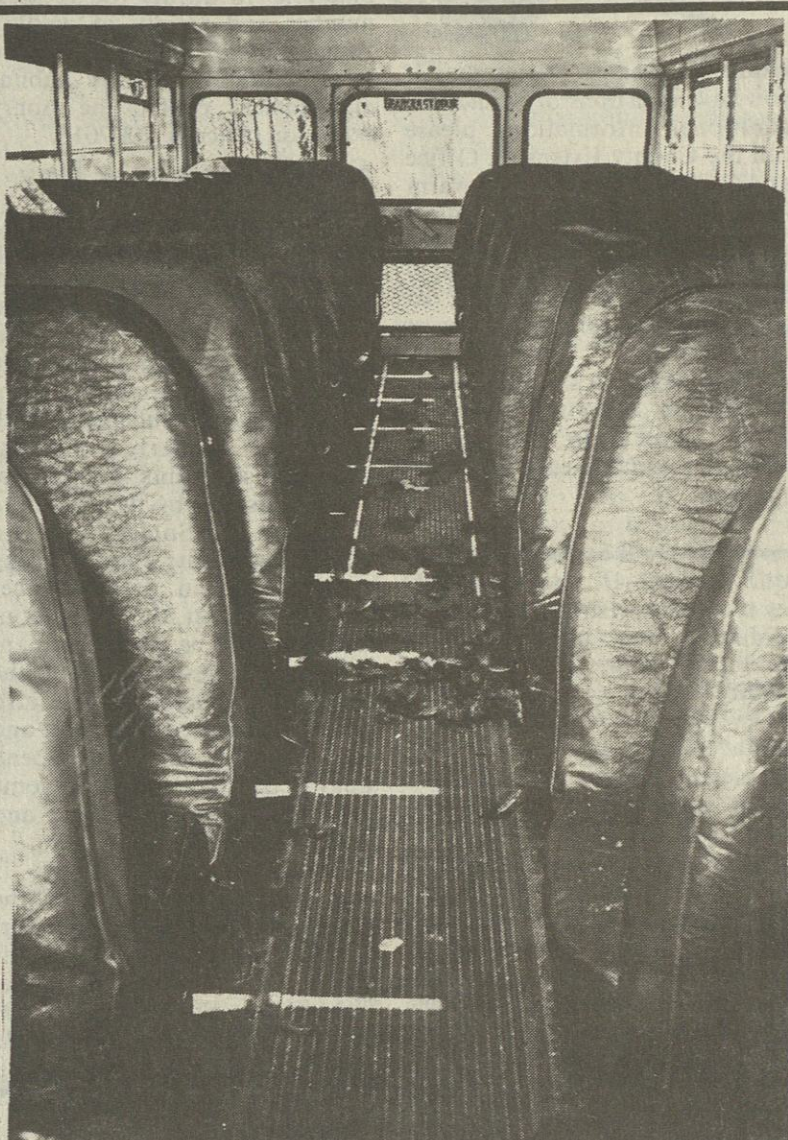

Seals was raised in West Texas where his father grew up with Ernest Tubb. Dan Seals became a star as half of England Dan and John Ford Coley. Their "I'd Really Love To See You Tonight" recorded in Hendersonville, Tenn., sold 2 million copies. As a solo artist, Dan Seals has been making the country charts consistently since 1985.

His new Warner Bros. album "Walking the Wire" offers a number of rich human scenarios from joyful to troubled - all with perspectives. Some of the songs on the album include "Someone Else's Dance," "Slower," "Mason-Dixon Line," and "Sweet Little Shoe" as well as "Sneaky Moon." His audiences are getting a kick out of one called "My Old Yellow Car" about his first - a '58 Impala his grandfather gave him.

Seals is the artist behind the Grammy-nominated "Addicted" and according to friends is a man who would rather go to the dentist than brag on himself.

Seals is known by some as the Clark Kent of country music. In a business where style often triumphs over substance, he is characterized as gentle, soft spoken and shunning self-aggrandizement the way some in the limelight flaunt it. His magic happens when he is handed a microphone and a guitar.

In addition to playing road dates such as the one in Tishomingo County on Saturday, April 9 for the Dogwood Music Festival, Seals is involved in making a video and has plans for a new single recording.

Turkey Feathers Scattered In Bus Aisle

Turkey Collides With School Bus!

Belmont Vo-Tech bus driver and teacher Jack Alexander was making his usual trip back to school from the Tishomingo County Vo-Tech Center Tuesday, March 22, when, from nowhere, a wild turkey flew in front of the windshield of the bus.

According to reports from witnesses, the large bird came through the bus' windshield causing severe cuts and bruises to Alexander and some of the students riding the bus. The turkey exited the bus through the back window, shattering the glass as it did.

Reports indicated that three of the students and Alexander were injured badly enough to receive medical treatment.

Witnesses said that the freak accident happened so quickly and was so bizarre that it's hard to know exactly what or how it happened. The only thing that was certain were the injuries sustained by the victims and the large array of turkey feathers that were scattered throughout the bus.

Letter Of Appreciation

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone that donated their time and effort to help during the recent ice storm; the Rescue Squad for their service to the public in delivering equipment and supplies, the fire departments for their assistance in clearing roads so they were passable, and to any other individuals that have given their time to help during the disaster.

House Votes To Override Veto

The Mississippi House of Representatives voted 90-20 Friday to override Gov. Kirk Fordice's veto of the bill to make Tishomingo County Road 957 between two rock quarries the responsibility of the state.

According to District 1 Representative Harvey Benderman, one of the authors of the bill, the House only needed 76 votes to override the veto. There were, however, 90 votes, which is a reflection of the House's disapproval of the Governor's veto.

"The next action will have to come from the Senate," Benderman said. "The Senate will probably vote on the bill soon. I feel confident that the Senate will also vote to override the veto since they voted to do so on a similar bill last year."

The stretch of road, which connects with Hwy. 25, would be maintained by the State Highway Department if the Senate overrides the veto also.

Benderman stated that there is no reason that the road should not be turned over to the state since several others have already been turned over to them within the state.

Former Iuka Man Sentenced To Death

Former Iuka resident Alonzo Lydell Burgess of Cherokee, who was convicted of murder March 1 by an Alabama jury, was sentenced to death Monday, March 21 by Colbert County Judge Inge Johnson in Birmingham, where the trial was held.

Burgess, 26, also was sentenced to 99 years in prison on an attempted murder conviction for the beating and strangulation deaths of Shelia Nnodimele and her two daughters, Latoria Long, 14, and Alexis Nnodimele, 8, at their Cherokee, Ala. home. A third child, Larico Long, 3, survived the attack.

After the jury heard the case and recommended that Burgess be sentenced to life in prison, Judge Johnson ruled that he be sentenced to death in the state's electric chair.

The bodies of the family were found the morning of January 30, 1993. Burgess had used a car bumper jack to beat them and had used articles of clothing and an electrical cord to strangle them. He then shot himself in the chest a day or so later with a 20-gauge shotgun, but lived. He left two notes blaming Shelia Nnodimele's family for not accepting him, as being the reason for his actions. Apparently Burgess went in and out of the house during a 24-hour period while the bodies lay in the bedrooms. One witness testified that Burgess was a crack cocaine user and was seen pawing and attempting to sell some of the family's belongings two days before their bodies were discovered by authorities.

Colbert County District Attorney Gary Alverson told jurors that Burgess was angry because Shelia Nnodimele was about to leave him and had refused to give him her paycheck the day before the murders.

Three-year-old Larico Long, although recovered, still does not have full use of the right side as a result of the blow he received from Burgess.

County Schools Rank 4th In State

"Pleasantly Surprised" were the words most generally used in describing the reaction to school rankings as published by the Tupelo Journal.

The Tishomingo County Special Municipal Separate School District was identified as ranking fourth in the State on the recently published Mississippi Report Card. Only Ocean Springs, North Boliver, and Clinton ranked ahead of the local school district; with New Albany, Long Beach, Corinth, and Alcorn County just behind.

Dr. Ferguson, School Superintendent, gave a lot of credit for the ranking to the hard work done by parents and patrons in putting the school district together and by the hard work done by teachers and students in trying to meet the high expectations set by the State and local school board.

There are many programs in place now that were not available three years ago, such as computer labs in every school; and programs that have grown and expanded, such as the Child Development Center and the athletic programs that have all helped to identify the district as being #4.

It is a distinction to be proud of and the entire community of Tishomingo County is to be commended for their efforts and support toward making the school district one of the finest in the state.

grown trees will allow birds and other animals to choose the appropriate cover that they need for feeding, hiding, and nesting. Use a wide variety of plants with some deciduous and some evergreen. All sources of food and water should be close to good cover. Many of the plants used for cover are also good food plants.

REPRODUCTIVE AREAS - Reproductive areas must offer protection from the elements and be relatively free of predators. Nest boxes can be used to make up for a lack of mature trees which provide dens for squirrels and places for birds to nest.

The goal in backyard wildlife habitat management is to plan a habitat that offers enough combinations to attract the greatest number and variety of wildlife your area will support. For more information on wildlife habitat management, contact the county extension office at 423-7016.

County Agents Notes

WHEAT DISEASE

Scouting wheat for septoria disease in late March and April could keep Tishomingo County producers from losing money. This group of diseases can cause severe damage to wheat fields. The first step in controlling these diseases is to identify them. The Extension Office has information on identification of septoria disease. Know the signs of these diseases which attack wheat leaves and head. If wheat heads are afflicted, kernels often become shriveled and lightweight. Several methods of disease control are available to producers. Genetic control is a good and economical choice. This means using disease-resistant or disease-tolerant varieties at planting time. Cultural control includes soil sampling, planting dates/rates recommendations and proper nitrogen levels. Chemical control is the last line of defense against septoria. Carefully scout fields to Iuka Tansu Karate students move up in rank. March 1, seven students passed their first rank test. The test consisted of physical and mental testing to obtain the rank of yellow belt. Tansu is a self defense style of karate. Classes are held at Iuka Mineral determine extent of damage before applying chemicals. Also consider yield and cropping history of the field, severity of disease and weather conditions before starting treatments. If septoria disease goes unchecked, the wheat crop may be hurt and profits could be reduced.

Home Economics Tips

Extension Home Economist
MAKE YOUR SEWN CREATIONS KIDPROOF

Kids lead a active life and actually you probably wouldn't have it any other way. Often clothing can show the activity through rips, tears and detachments. Here are some tips to make your child's clothes more kidproof:

Reinforce stress areas such as armhole and crotch seams, and the top edges of pockets with rows of stitching.

Reinforce under closures. Button and buttonhole area should be interfaced.

Add decorative appliques on knees and elbows for added strength.

Allow ample fabric for hems. In general, allow a 3-inch hem at the bottom of dresses, skirts and slacks, and a 1 1/2 - to 2-inch hem at the bottom of blouses, skirts, sleeves and shirts.

Use elastic waistbands for extra comfort. When attaching elastic, make it 2 inches longer than needed so that when it becomes too tight, simply take out the stitching and add extra fullness.

Make growth tucks in hems, sleeves or at waistlines. Tucks work best in light to medium weight fabrics. Stitch them in place using machine basting or chain stitching.

Do not press hem edge flat. Press lightly so the crease will be easier to let down later.

If hem crease has faded, you might try covering with trim and repeating it in another area of the garment.

Add length to a skirt or dress by putting eyelet or fabric ruffle at the hem edge.

Sewing for children can be great fun and a real opportunity for creative expression both for the parent and for the child. And of course, there is that all-important advantage of stretching your clothing dollars in a money crunch, and this can mean a tremendous amount saved.

4-H Communicates

By: Mary C. Baldwin,
Extension 4-H/Youth Agent

Do you like to hear the songs of cardinals and mockingbirds in the morning air? How about seeing brightly colored butterflies dancing from flower to flower in your garden? If you answered yes to these questions, then you probably are interested in developing your backyard into wildlife habitat.

Developing backyard wildlife habitat is easy, once you know the secret. Knowing that all wildlife have four basic needs for survival is the first step. These basic needs are: food, water, cover, and areas in which to reproduce and raise young. Managing plants, water supply, feeder offerings, and nesting boxes to fulfill these four needs will attract a variety of wild creatures to your yard.

FOOD - Providing food for wildlife is easy. Just follow these two simple rules: 1) supply food through natural vegetation as much as possible and 2) provide food all year long. In addition, the more plant varieties you have which provide food for wildlife, the more wildlife species you can attract. Natural foods may be supplemented by artificial feeding while plants are maturing, especially in winter. However, wildlife does not live by food alone, and wildlife food must be accompanied by the other three habitat elements to enable wildlife to live in your yard.

WATER - Wildlife's critical water needs can be fulfilled with a simple birdbath or ground watering device. Most desirable is a small pool with an area large enough to support plants that grow in water as well as around the edge. Most importantly, the water source should be dependable all year long.

COVER - Cover is any place that protects animals from predators and weather. Different species have different cover requirements. Planting small shrubs mixed with tall, full-

CONTACTS FOR BETTER HEALTH

Contact lenses are now being designed to improve eye health. Disposable contacts - available now - are worn for a week or two, then discarded for a fresh pair. You always have a clean lens on, so it's healthier for your eye.

Medicated contact lenses are being developed to treat infections that are hard to get rid of with regular eye drops. The lenses store medication and release it slowly into the eye. It has a higher cure rate than eye drops.

"Bandage lenses" are sometimes used to protect the eyes for people with corneal problems. This clear lens helps keep the eye from becoming infected. It's larger and thinner and reduces the pain of the lid as it moves across the tender eye.

Fluorocarbon lenses may very well be the healthiest contact lenses ever. These are hard lenses but let more oxygen through than the plastic lenses for a more healthy, normal condition. These new lenses are available right now.

THANK YOU

FOR YOUR PATIENCE AND FOR YOUR COOPERATION

The recent disaster took quite a toll and we hope we were of some help. In 37 days, we processed more than 4,000 insurance claims. We couldn't have done it without the help and understanding of policyholders, local citizens, city and county officials (not to mention the fine cooperation from the Police and Fire Departments and the Mississippi National Guardsmen.)

Virtually all claims reported have been processed. Policyholders who have not already reported damage to their State Farm agent should do so immediately.

Again, THANKS!

Like a good neighbor,
State Farm is there.®

Wildlife And Forest Stewardship

With the majority of land in Mississippi and Alabama in private ownership there is a huge potential to both increase timber production and at the same time benefit wildlife by improving habitat. When private forest landowners practice good forest management they also benefit wildlife, one of the south's most valuable resources. These benefits can then be enjoyed by leaseholders, hunters, nature lovers and others that may use the land for recreational enjoyment.

Various agencies offer professional and financial assistance to help landowners manage their natural resources. The Mississippi Forestry Commission offers a Forest Resource Development Program (FRDP) with cost sharing for timber productions. The U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service sponsors a Forestry Incentive Program (FIP) that also provides financial help for landowners to produce timber. Their Stewardship Incentive Program (SIP) is a more comprehensive program that offers financial help for various levels of programs that include reforestation, soil and water protection and wildlife habitat development. There are other programs with incentives such as the Wetland Reserve, Urban Forestry and Conservation Reserve Program. Contact these agencies locally for information.

One of the objectives of these programs is the reforestation of understocked and eroding forestland. A plan for travel and firelanes might include seeding of these lanes and roads to prevent erosion. A more "wildlife-orientated" program might advocate the use of burning and thinning to improve timber production and the availability of forage for wildlife. Streamside Management Zones might be recommended to prevent erosion and provide acorns for wildlife to feed on. Other procedures might include: providing forest openings for wild turkey nesting and brood rearing, fertilization to improve growth and palatability of forage for wildlife, and varying the size, shape and proximity of clear cuts to make them more useful for wildlife.

The "private" landowners can make a huge impact by considering both timber and wildlife in resource management. Both the value and quality of the resource can be improved. Those who do not own land, but enjoy outdoor recreation also place a high value on opportunities to enjoy our southern forests. Good stewardship enhances these resources so everyone can reap the rewards.

What To Do In The Path Of A Deadly Twister

An average of 10 Mississippians each year lose their lives to tornadoes, among the highest average in the nation. While more tornadoes occur in other states, Mississippi is a favorite target and faces a greater threat to lives and property than almost any other state in the Union — three and a half times greater than Texas and 20,000 times greater than California.

Two of the three deadliest tornadoes in U.S. history occurred in the state: one killed 317 in natchez in 1840; another in Tupelo in 1936 killed 216 people, injured 350 others and leveled 48 city blocks. The nation's worst sped across Missouri, Illinois and Indiana in 1925, killing 700.

Because of the danger of tornadoes, The University of Mississippi physicist Henry Bass, who has developed a tornado warning device, urges Mississippians to take precautions and pay attention to tornado watches and warnings. A tornado watch is issued when conditions are favorable for tornado formation and you should monitor weather information sources for changes in conditions. A tornado watch is issued when a tornado has been reported or detected by radar. If you see or hear a tornado, take the following safety measures:

■Indoors. Stay indoors, preferably in a hallway or the center of the building's lowest floor. Stay away from windows, doors and outside walls.

■Outside. If caught outside, find an area clear of trees and find a depression, such as a ditch, to lie in. This prevents wind from getting between your body and the ground and giving you an unwanted ride.

■No cars. If caught in a car, stop and get out. There could be enough wind under your car to pick it up.

■Get under something. Most people killed during tornadoes are struck by flying or falling debris; therefore, it is important not to be standing when a twister hits. Crawl under a sturdy table, desk or bed.

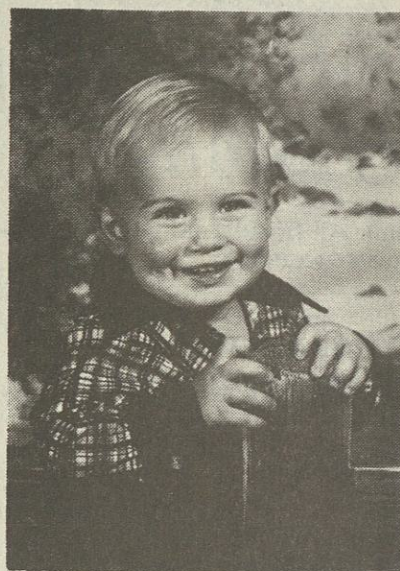

■No manufactured homes. Manufactured homes should be abandoned immediately. If there is no reinforced building or underground shelter nearby, take cover in a ditch or depression.

■Smaller is better. Never go into a large area such as a gymnasium. Head for a hallway or a smaller room — the smaller the better.

Delta Kappa Gamma Society Meeting

On February 19, 1994, the Delta Kappa Gamma Society had a joint meeting for this biennial. It was held with Eta, Theta Tau, Phi, and Upsilon chapters at the Tupelo Country

The president of Upsilon chapter, Mrs. Anna Quinn, introduced our speaker, Mrs. Gregory D. Keenum, the Zeta State President of our Delta Kappa Gamma. Mrs. Keenum challenged us to become involved in politics, business, and education, demonstrating that women in leadership will become a valuable asset. She stated that a leader is a person who has followers. In order to become a good leader, one should have confidence, energy, timing, clarity, tenacity, boldness, concern for others, morality, and faith.

What does a leader do? A leader plans, organizes, guides, communicates, initiates, coordinates, produces, recognizes achievement, and evaluates.

We are role models for children. As role models, what can women become? Women who have wisdom, strength, and fortitude can become whatever they want.

The Zeta State President was presented with a gift and door prizes were distributed. The meeting was concluded with a meal.

Local Teacher Featured On Satellite Program

Teresa Lomenick, a third grade teacher from Iuka Elementary School was a featured panelist from the county on the U.S. Department of Education GOALS 2000 satellite town meeting Tuesday, March 15.

The program, broadcast live from the Tri-State Learning Center located on the campus of Tishomingo County Magnet High School, was a part of NASA's Tri-State Education Initiative.

Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education and the U.S.

Chamber of Commerce, the satellite town meeting featured discussions with the in studio panelists and with administrators, school board members, teachers and parents from the Tri-State Education Initiative region. Educators from throughout Mississippi and Louisiana tuned in to the video teleconference. Lomenick said that the TSEI had made a tremendous difference in her teaching career. She said that before the TSEI's special programs for educators she dreaded going to school, but with all the help and encouragement she received from the programs she participated in through the TSEI, she can't wait to get into the classroom everyday.

Mrs. Maxine Wade, President of the Iuka 20th Century Club, is presenting Fredda Sanderson, Librarian of the Iuka Public Library with a check to purchase candy eggs for the annual Easter Egg Hunt to be held at the library on Thursday, March 31st at 4 p.m. The Club sponsors several events and programs for the library throughout the year.

The Burnsville Area Chamber of Commerce would like to thank each person of business that donated any item for our auction. Thanks for your generosity; the auction was a great success.

We would also like to thank the people who supported the fish fry and Campus Country Concert on March 5. These events were so successful because of you. We would also like to take this opportunity to thank each member who worked at these events and a special thanks to those who helped organize and plan for them. The people in our organization are all very devoted to the betterment of our community and our Chamber. This is why it is one of the best. Thanks once again for your help.

Sardis Church News

"A New Day". Dusk falls...and I close my eyes to wake to a new tomorrow. Gone are...the labors of life, the futility of strife, and the lingering trauma of sorrow. Dawn breaks...and I clearly see a new day of heavenly creation fresh with new hope, renewed faith and good cheer, and the promise of eternal salvation. (Karides)
"Making wrong decisions." Title of Sunday School lesson. Central truth: Every decision should have God's approval. Text: Exodus 2:11-15. Acts 7:22-25. Moses made a wrong decision and was forty years paying for it. Devotional: His Will First. James 4:13-17. Please read!

Sunday morning Bro. John's subject was: "Sin Always Kills". Romans 6:14-18,23. Read this and think about it. Especially verse 23.

Sometime in the nineteen thirties and forties Ethel and Orville Jimmerson and Minnie and Erving McBee all lived at Belmont and their children attended Belmont school. Grace Jimmerson and Dorothy McBee were classmates and best friends. Dorothy was sad when Orville and Ethel moved to Union City, Tn. where Orville had found a job. Time passed and both girls married. Grace and husband moved to Michigan. They wrote each other over the years but when Dorothy and her husband moved to Illinois she lost Gracies address and didn't hear from her anymore until she saw Gracies name in my news column. She got Gracie's address and wrote to her and they got together last fall and again the first of this month. They found that each had two boys and one girl and each had lost a boy. It had been close to 50 years since they had seen each other.

Herman and I stopped by the Garner Woodruff's Sunday morning before church. Blanch can't walk by herself yet but she is still trying. Help us pray for her.

We wish to welcome all our visitors to Sardis Sunday. Please come again. We also welcome our Sunday night visitors.

"Salvation Now". Bro. John made this very plain Sunday night by reading 2nd Corinthians 6:1,2. Please read. If you are uncertain of your salvation, after death will be too late. Verse 2: now is the day of salvation.

We are planning something nice for the young folks this Sunday at Sardis. Hope to see you there.

Club News:

Sometimes Who You Know Makes All The Difference
Whether you're a member of a garden club, homemakers club, 4-H club or some other organization, you often have a single goal in mind: Getting news of the group's activities into your local newspaper. Judy Wall Crump, assistant journalism professor at The University of Mississippi, says who you know on a newspaper staff can make a difference.

Crump's advice has nothing to do with political savvy or name dropping. "If you give them a face to connect with the name, you'll have a better chance of getting your articles used," she said. A good way to get to know the person responsible for club news (often someone in the news department) is to drop by the newspaper office before you try to get something printed. "Introduce yourself and leave," Crump said. Her point is that you shouldn't take up a lot of time; just make sure the staffer knows who you are and what club you represent. Her other suggestions include:

■ Know the deadline. No matter how good the information is or how well you know the newspaper's staff, your news will not be printed if you don't get the story there on time.

■ Find out the rules. In addition to deadlines, be sure to ask about the newspaper's policies regarding club news. Some newspapers may have a prepared handout, but be ready to write your information down if yours doesn't. Also, ask about options. If the newspaper can't use everything you've brought in, perhaps parts of it will meet its

Dead or Alive--This unusual hognose snake, shown here with Becky Lindsey, age 10 of Burnsville, has a peculiar habit--he can play dead even though he is very much alive! Becky's parents, Dwight and Brenda Lindsey, found the snake in the strawberry patch Saturday. The snake is alive; however, when gets the notion, it turns over and plays dead, lying upside down several minutes. After a while turns over and goes back business as usual.

■ Let them know in advance. If you have a scheduled meeting or event that you think merits press coverage, contact the newspaper two to four weeks in advance, Crum said. With less than two weeks notice, you stand the chance of running into a scheduling problem for the newspaper.

■ Writing tips. If your main goal is to get in monthly reports of your meeting, ask about forms for routine club news. Some newspapers will provide these, so you will give the exact information they are willing to print. Otherwise, stick with the basics: Who, what, when and where. Long, flowery pieces likely will be trimming to fit available space anyway. Also, it is better to provide the newspaper with something in writing rather than calling.

■ Let them know who to contact. Anytime you provide a newspaper with information, whether its routine club news or a special event, be sure to include in writing a contact name and telephone number. Instead of possibly running incorrect information, many newspaper staffer will opt to not run anything at all, if they can't confirm a question they have.

■ Think broadly. It's okay to suggest things about your club for possible stories, but don't be upset if not every suggestion is acted on. "What seems special to one group, may not be appropriate for mass readership," Crump said. "But, many things that club do may warrant a short feature story."

ask IRS

These are typical questions asked by taxpayers and are presented as a public service of this publication and the IRS.

Q. My sister told me that she is getting some extra money in each of her checks. She said it was called a "credit" and she gets it because she has a job and is raising her daughter. What is the tax credit and how do I get it?

A. Your sister is talking about the advance Earned Income Credit (EIC). Basically, it's for people who have at least one child and will receive under $23,760 this year.

If you qualify to receive this credit, you must fill out a Form W-5 and give it to your employer. Your employer gives you part of the credit on your paycheck. (You cannot receive the advance EIC if your only income is from self-employment.)

If at any time during the year your circumstances change and you are no longer eligible to get the advance credit, you will have to repay the amount advanced to you when you file your tax return. To stop the advance payments, you must fill out a new Form W-5 and give it to your employer.

Q. I think I may qualify for the EIC. Where do I get more information?

Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, explains all the rules to qualify for and claim the Advance EIC.

Housekeeping

By: Representative Harvey Benderman

Scores of bills including a large stack of appropriation measures to fund state agencies and institutions have been turned over to conference committees in an effort to hammer out House-Senate differences as the 1994 legislative session goes into its final stages. Meanwhile, legislative action has been completed on a wide range of other proposed new laws.

Other highlights of the week included House passage of a series of bills authorizing the sale of more than $200 million in bonds for a variety of construction and renovation projects around the state, including $64 million for work at the eight universities, $14 million for the community colleges, and $9 million for the University Medical Center. Amounts earmarked for projects at the universities were: Alcorn State, $9.5 million; Delta State, $3.2 million; Jackson State, $12 million; Mississippi University for Women $4,450,000; Mississippi State $12.8 million; Mississippi Valley State, $2 million; University of Mississippi, $10.3 million; and University of Southern Mississippi, $10.2 million.

The House approved $90 million bonds for expansion and renovation of three office buildings adjacent to the State Capitol -- the Woolfolk, Sillers and Gartin buildings -- to provide more office space and parking facilities for several state agencies in a single, centralized location. Originally, the bill as passed by the Senate would have authorized up to $35 million in bonds to purchase the old Jackson Mall shopping center, now largely deserted, for use by agencies currently paying rent to space in privately owned buildings. The Jackson Mall provisions were deleted in committee in the House, and efforts to put them back in the bill through a floor amendment were voted down.

The sale of $21 million in bonds was approved to develop or improve various historic and cultural sites, with $10 million for the state wildlife agency to acquire and restore various properties for wildlife management purposes; $4 million for an education center and other work at the Jackson Zoo; $2 million for the Beauvoir mansion on the Gulf Coast; $2 million for a list of projects to be selected by the Department of Archives and History; $1 million for a cultural complex in Natchez; $1 million for historic areas in Canton; $500,000 for a Eudora Welty Writers' Center in Jackson; $400,000 for Fort Maurepas in Ocean Springs; and $200,000 for the Seabee Museum in Gulfport.

In other action, the House voted to increase the amount of bonds that may be issued from $75 million to $125 million under the Small Enterprise Development Finance Act, from $50 million to $60 million under the Economic Development Highway Act, and from $24 million to $36 million under the Small Business Assistance Act. Another bill would raise the amount of revenue bonds that may be issued for regional solid waste authorities from $25 million to $50 million, and allow the advance purchase or energy through the Mississippi Development Bank for a municipality that operates a gas or electric distribution system.

The House-passed appropriation bills included $216 million from the state's General Fund for support of the eight universities, an increase of more than $30 million over the current fiscal year. Another $78 million approved for the University Medical Center, an increase of $13 million over this year's budget. Other key appropriations winning House approval, involving General Fund money, included $92 million for the community colleges, an increase of $22 million; $117 million for mental health programs, an increase of more than $11 million; $99.9 million for the Department of Corrections, up almost $9.9 million; and $42 million for the Department of Public Safety, up $5.4 million. In addition, a special allocation of $25 million was approved for the Office of State Aid Road Construction to be used to help cities and counties in repair and replacement of local bridges.

A supplemental $17.7 million appropriation was approved for the Department of Corrections, including almost $2.5 million to pay for damages at the Parchman penitentiary caused by recent ice storms, $2 million to operate a "house arrest" program for about 500 state inmates, and $2 million to defray costs of holding state prisoners in county jails.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

IN BIBLICAL TIMES, WHEN LONG DROUGHTS SET IN AND FAMINE STRUCK THE LANDS, THE PEOPLE GENERALLY REACTED ACCORDING TO THE TRADITION OF THEIR OWN LAND. THE PHILISTINES, THE AMORITES, THE EGYPTIANS, THE MOBITES, ETC. REMAINED IN THEIR TOWNS AND CITIES TO SUFFER STARVATION - BUT THE ISRAELITES....

...BY HERITAGE, ALWAYS
NOMADIC SHEPHERDS, WHO FOLLOWED THEIR EVER-MOVING
HERDS TO GREENER PASTURES
SINCE THE DAYS OF ABRAHAM, WERE WONT TO PICK UP ALL THEIR BELONGINGS AND LEAVE THEIR HOMES TO SEARCH FOR AREAS UNAFFECTED BY THE FAMINE. SOMETIMES THEY WOULD STAY IN A FOREIGN COUNTRY FOR GENERATIONS,
BUT ALWAYS LOOKED UPON THEIR TRUE HOME AS THE ONE
WHICH THEY HAD LEFT YEARS BEFORE - TO WHICH SOME FUTURE GENERATION WOULD EVENTUALLY RETURN!

...And The Trees Were Crying

by Janelle Abshire Stegall

As I woke out of a light sleep, early that Thursday morning of the great ice storm of 1994, the power kept clicking on and off, so I decided to get up and take a look outside. When I saw the thick glaze of ice covering my car, I knew the weatherman was right, this time, and there would be no school this day. I quickly went and started that all important pot of coffee hoping the power would stay on long enough to brew it. It didn't and I got 1/2 of a cup for which I was very grateful.

As the day began, I ventured outside to talk with my neighbors. When I did so I realized this was not just an inconvenience, but a major shutdown. Being a mother I began to think creatively and was very proud of myself for putting some play-doh on top of the refrigerator for a rainy (icy) day. I was also very anxious to get my car deiced and moved from underneath the trees, as the thickness of the ice that had formed on my car had also formed on my car had also formed on every tree with respecter of any. With the help of my neighbor's daughter, who was very bright and adept at deicing, we did manage to get my car moved.

Then it started happening...everywhere, shrill artillery sounds with a cracking, crisp and cold noise...the sounds were the trees popping, snapping and crashing to the ground or whatever lay below them. It was like nothing I've ever seen or heard before. Wires were falling down in submission to the heavy laden limbs from trees that had been standing tall and proud for years.

I went inside and turned on my two battery operated radios and listened (in stereo) to the only radio station I could receive out of Florence, AL. As they talked continuously about the damage, immobility, people in need, who to call, or what to do if you needed help, I couldn't help but reflect back to when I was growing up in the suburbs of Chicago. The great snow blizzard hit us, causing the hustle and bustle of big city life to come to a screeching halt overnight. It was reawakening of times long ago. There we were taking sleds out of attics and trudging down the middle of normally heavy travelled roads to the only store open in an area of Chicago that usually was off limits. None the less we were all in the same boat, so to speak, waving to perfect strangers, asking them if they needed any help. It was a kind of a spiritual experience in a neighborhood that had not too long before been riddled with racial riots and unrest, including a bullet shot through my house and others on the block in the neighborhood I grew up in. Somehow though, this storm, this blizzard seemed to heal all wounds and break down the barriers to the lowest of human needs - food and shelter. It was one of those times in life that are so important to children growing up, increasing and building their faith in human kind. Those times that teach you survival on the lowest of levels.

The rest of the first day of ice storm, my kids and I spent running to the windows to see newly fallen trees and cars, that dared to venture out, go by. When my friends from Chicago called to see how I was faring, she said she was watching us on the news (for a change) and that we looked as if we were in a war zone.

The next day, when I finally decided to venture out in my car, I went to the only service station open and saw the crowds of people standing in line for the only coffee in town. As we all helped each other start new pots of coffee and pour the last drop in the next cup, I saw a young lady standing there waiting for her cup and she had tears in her eyes. We started talking and she said she lived on 80 acres of trees that were 80 years and older, and when she walked out this morning she could see all the way into town. This was something she never dreamed of being able to do. It was devastating to her and I felt her pain. This same kind person, offered me and my kids a place to stay since she had gas heat, and we did not, affirming the human kindness that seems to shine through in times of disaster.

John Hay, author of The Undiscovered Country, wrote this about Trees: "They hang on from a past no theory can recover. They will survive us. The air makes their music. Otherwise they live in silence, though mites and nematodes and spiders team at their roots, and though the energy with which they feed on the sun and are able to draw water sometimes hundreds of feet up their trunks and into their twigs and branches call for a deafening volume of sound."

I will never forget the deafening loud and painful sounds and the sadness I felt as the trees fell all around me. I will also never forget the morning when the temperature began rising, I heard the whistle of the 10:04 a.m. train, the dogs howling along with it, and I heard what sounded like more rain falling gently, but when I opened the door to check it out, I realized it was not rain, but it was the trees, bowing to the ground, AND THE TREES WERE CRYING.

T.C.H.S. Baseball Season Begins

TCHS Baseball team played its first game ever at its brand new stadium last Saturday against Belmont. The varsity won by a 12-0 score, while the B-team won 28-3. The field and atmosphere of the crowd both were great. The new field sets up behind the fieldhouse and most people think it is as good as they have ever seen. The field is green, the outfield large, we have nice dug outs, nice bleachers and a press box on top. Lights have been installed and hopefully the first night game will be next week.

Zack DePoyster got the first hit on the new field, and Glenn Tapp knocked in the first two runs with the 1st double. The winning pitcher was Steve Seagraves and he came within one strike of pitching a no-hitter! It was a good day to open a beautiful new stadium. Thanks to all who have helped with the stadium; we know who you are!

I.E.S. P.T.A. Meeting Tonight

"My son is only 7 years old -- I don't have to think about drugs yet, right?"

WRONG. As early as fourth grade, your children may have some knowledge of the drug scene, says the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

Why do your children use alcohol and other drugs? The reasons are complex and varied. Your challenge as a parent, however, is to try to keep your children from using drugs in the first place. The time to begin is now, whether your child is 5, 7 or 10 years old.

Alcohol and other drug awareness will be the focus of the tonight's meeting of the Iuka Elementary School P.T.A. The meeting will begin at 7:00 p.m. in the Commons Building on the IES Campus. Officer Trip Lomenick and McGruff the Crime Dog will present a program on alcohol and drug awareness/prevention. You DO have the power to raise a child who will be able to say "no thanks" to alcohol and other drugs.

Following the meeting, the children's art work will be on display in the IES cafeteria. Each year the children enter their art in various categories during the annual Arts Festival. Recognition has been made in the different categories by a panel of judges and various local organizations.

Winn To Display Art

Several of the works of artist Carole Danielle Winn will be on display during the month of March in a show sponsored by the Courtstreet Cafe and the Adrienne Ford Gallery (on the piazza.)

Winn holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of North Alabama with an emphasis in painting and is best known for her whimsical, colorful Matisse-like style. Those who know Winn's work also recognize her passion for chairs: Van Gogh's, Matisse's, even hairdryer chairs. When asked to explain her work, Winn says, "If I could explain I wouldn't have to paint it."

Ms. Winn's work can be seen from Nashville to New York in numerous private and corporate collections here in the Shoals area. She is represented locally by the Adrienne Ford Gallery on Mobile St. in Florence.

Shoals Area Natives Exhibit Art

Works by Shoals area natives Amy Pieroni and Rick Larkin Adams will be on display at Louisiana the Restaurant in Sheffield during the month of March. The show is the second in a collaboration between the restaurant and the Adrienne Ford Gallery in Florence.

Ms. Pieroni received her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of North Alabama with an emphasis in painting. While she was still a student, she was selected as one of five young artists to study under renowned artist Helen Frankenthaler in Santa Fe. Pieroni is now a student at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Rick Larkin Adams is also a graduate of the University of North Alabama. Adams, a sculptor, potter and photographer now lives and teaches in Neptune Beach, Florida. Adams sculpts his mythological figures, angels, birds and animals from magnolia, boxwood, cypress cedar and camphor woods.

Both Ms Pieroni and Mr. Adams are represented locally by the Adrienne Ford Gallery 115 E. Mobile St. in Florence.

Something Old,

Something New.

1(601) 352-9993

There's something new to remember. From now on, when you make long distance calls to telephone numbers within Mississippi's 601 area code, dial 0 or 1 + 601 and then the number you're calling.

The nation's continued telecommunications growth has created a shortage of telephone numbers. By dialing the appropriate area code on all long distance calls, numbers are freed up for new business and residential customers.

If you have long distance numbers within the 601 area code on any programmed services or equipment like Speed Calling, Call Forwarding, modems, or even a FAX machine, now's the time to reprogram them. Effective May 1, 1994, dialing the area code will be necessary to complete long distance calls to telephone numbers within the 601 area.

Congratulations! Matthew Cummings

Matthew Cummings will be representing Burnsville School in the state Geography Bee on April 8, 1994, in Jackson. Matthew won the school bee held in January. The other contestants in the school were as follows: Fourth Grade: Andrew Burns and Shamus Burcham; Fifth Grade: Mickey Robbins and Rhianna Helton; Sixth Grade: Lisann Blackman and Jamie Wilson; Seventh Grade: Dustin King; Eighth Grade: Becky Dalman and Josie Trim.

Matthew took a written exam to qualify for the state competition. Only the top 100 students will compete in the state wide Geography Bee in April. Matthew is the son of Ricky and Wanda Cummings of Piney Flat Community.

Paden News Amber Polk

Congratulations to Amber for having been selected for membership in the Garrett Jones Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society. Selection was based upon careful consideration of scholarship, service, character, leadership, conduct and citizenship. The faculty works very carefully in the selection of new members.

Membership in the National Junior Honor Society is one of the highest honors that can be awarded to a student. Membership, however, is more than a honor. It carries with it more than certain privileges. It incurs a responsibility and an obligation to demonstrate those outstanding qualities that resulted in Amber being selected. The date for the induction ceremony will be announced at a later time.

Amber is the 13 year old daughter of Rodney and Cherri Polk of Cordova, Tenn. She is a 7th grade student at Mt. Pisgah Middle School in Cordova. Her grandparents are Billy Mae and Sissie Parrish of Memphis. Great-grandparents are Scott and Bea Stephens of Paden, and Miss Otte Parrish of Tishomingo.

In Service

Marine Pvt. Shannon B. McMeans, son of Shirley Skinner of Iuka, Miss., recently returned from a six-month Mediterranean Sea and Indian Ocean deployment with 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

McMeans's unit was part of the USS Guadalcanal Amphibious Ready Group (ARG), which comprised part of USS America Joint Task Group 93-2. The 1,800 Marines of the 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit were embarked among the ships of the three-ship ARG.

The ARG served in the Adriatic Sea in support of Operations Deny Flight, Provide Promise and Sharp Guard. These operations helped enforce United Nations' sanctions in the former Yugoslavia. The ship also participated in Operation Restore Hope, supporting U.N. humanitarian operations in Somalia.

Additionally, the ARG participated in an amphibious landing exercise off the southern coast of France; a combined ground, air, and amphibious exercise with Egyptian forces and exercise Dynamic Guard off the coast of Turkey.

Elements of the 22nd MEU made port visits to Rota, Barcelona and Palma de Mallorca, Spain; Izmir, Turkey; Trieste, Italy; Toulon, France and Naples, Italy.

This deployment exemplified the mobility, flexibility and capability of the Navy and Marine Corps team -- from the sea.

The 1989 graduate of Iuka High School of Iuka, Miss., joined the Marine Corps in May 1990.

People ask me what our secret is.

I say, "You'll have to ask her that one. She's put up with me for 52 years!"

We're a little bit unusual. I look after the tomatoes and she looks after the checkbook. Although I really think she just likes gettin' down to the bank and tradin' a few recipes and such.

I'm not sure why it's lasted so long between us. But I remember it was love at first sight.

And she's always doing something to remind me why.

ASCS Farm News

By: Phillip A. Horn
1994 FARM PROGRAMS
SIGN-UP UNDERWAY

The Tishomingo County ASCS Office began accepting applications for the 1994 farm programs on March 1, 1994. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is requiring acreage reductions of 11 percent for upland cotton, 15 percent for extra long staple cotton, and zero percent for wheat, rice, corn, grain sorghum, oats and barley.

Farmers who meet acreage reduction and other program requirements will be eligible for price support loans and deficiency payments. Producers may request 50 percent of the estimated total deficiency payments for wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice when they sign up for the 1994 programs. The payments will be issued in cash, and will be limited to the farmer's intended program acreage.

The 1994 programs have flexible planting features, the same as in 1993. Up to 25 percent of the crop acreage base or flex acres, may be planted to any program crop, any oilseed, industrial, or experimental crop designated by USDA. The prohibited crops are fruits, vegetables, peanuts, tobacco, wild rice, trees, tree crops and nuts.

The 1994 farm program sign-up period closes April 29.

Chess Tournament on Saturday, March 19. It was held at the Chastain Middle School in Jackson, Mississippi. The four students who made up the team were the seventh and eighth grade first and second place winners from a previously held GEMS class chess tournament. The eighth grade members were Lamelle Malone and Jonathan Pharr. The seventh grade members were Adam Archer and Miranda McGaughy. The teacher of the GEMS class is Cindy Pharr.

Each team member played five games with five different opponents. After each round, each team member received a rating based on their number of wins. For example, if one of our team members had won two games out of three, their next opponent would have the same record. The time limit of each game was one hour, giving each member thirty minutes of playing time. The tournament was played with the "touch move" rule. This meant that if a player touched a piece, he had to move that piece. Also, if he touched an opponent's piece, he had to capture that piece.

The students had a great time and began talking about "next year" even before the tournament ended. We hope to take several teams next year. The students would like to thank Mr. McClung for bringing this tournament to their attention and for allowing them to attend.

Risk Of Wildfire Is High

The Mississippi Forestry Commission is urging rural landowners and homeowners to think twice before conducting any outdoor burning—especially during the next few weeks.

"Historically, March is the worst month of the year for wildfires in Mississippi," said State Forester Jim Sledge. "The high winds, dry days and warming temperatures of March create conditions favorable for seemingly safe fires to spread quickly and cause severe damage to timber and threaten homes adjacent to wooded areas."

Bill Lambert, the Commission's Chief of Forest Protection, advises all residents to be extra attentive when doing any type of outdoor burning. "Carelessness is the cause of most wildfires in Mississippi," he said.

According to Mississippi fire laws, it is a misdemeanor offense to allow a fire to escape control and advance onto adjoining property. Arson, the intentional setting of fire on another's property, is a felony offense and subject to imprisonment.

To protect property from wildfire, the Commission recommends landowners to consider the condition of existing firebreaks and the need for establishing new ones.

"Old firebreaks should be re-disked, or plowed, to remove the buildup of leaves, limbs and dried grasses," said Lambert. "New firebreaks should be constructed where needed to provide protection for homes and timber." The Commission also recommends that firebreaks be planted in a cover crop which will prevent soil erosion and provide forage for wildlife.

The Commission advises homeowners to take appropriate actions to "fire proof" homes built adjacent to wooded areas. Suggestions include locating available water sources and having ready water hoses, shovels, rakes and other tools suitable for firefighting. Local fire departments and Forestry Commission can provide fire prevention advice and tips on how to safely and responsibly. Keep phone numbers posted in a phone to have ready in a fire-related emergency.

Come all to church, good people.
