National Library Week April 17-23

Iuka Library Plans Special Events

National Library Week is part of an annual and continuing nationwide effort on behalf of libraries to make the public more aware of the value of libraries and reading in our society. This year's theme "Libraries Change Lives," stresses that adults can get the facts they need to make their daily affairs in a more efficient or pleasant way; they can get the information they need to improve their work, family or personal lives, and they can get book and other resources to enrich their lives from the library. Children can also enjoy ready access to the books and other resources they need to learn and grow. Communities can gain enhanced prestige for having high quality library services that support good education, a healthy business environment, and opportunities for cultural enrichment. The Iuka Public Library has planned a week filled with activities to promote these ideas.

The highlight of NLW is the Art Exhibit featuring the students of Mrs. Lila Ham. The artists have been very busy this past year so you can expect an excellent presentation. A painting done by Mrs. Ham will be given away at the end of the week. You are eligible each day you register in the library. So if you visit the library each day and register each day, you become eligible 5 times during the week.

During the week books will be given away provided by the Friends of the Library. There will be many displays and exhibits. The library will be decorated with many quilts and with plants and flowers from McBride's Garden Center. You are invited to visit your library during National Library Week, April 17-23.

Maxine Lambert Dies At Age 66....

The Town of Burnsville, its organizations and its people lost a strong advocate, a fierce promoter and a loving and gentle friend Tuesday, April 12, 1994, with the death of Mrs. Maxine Marlal Lambert. She was 66.

Maxine's tireless efforts to help others and to help make her home town an even better place to live, both now and in the future, have been unmatched. Her genuine concern and gentle manner made others feel loved and at ease. Her high spirit and love of life helped to motivate and inspire all who knew her. Yet, for someone who did so much, she remained so modest.

Maxine was a very active member of the Burnsville Area Chamber of Commerce, serving on the fund-raising, education and beautification committees. She also helped organize the Burnsville Waterway Festival annually. She also was a member of the Friends of the Burnsville Library and the Order of the Easter Star.

She was retired from the Tishomingo County Superintendent of Education's office and a member of Antioch Freewill Baptist Church. Maxine was preceded in death by two sons, Michael and William Clyde Lambert. She and her family owned and operated Lambert's Hardware and Building Supply.

Services were at 1 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, at Cutshall Funeral Home Chapel in Iuka with the Rev. D.W. Jones and the Rev. Steve Nichols officiating. Interment was at Antioch Cemetery in Burnsville.

Maxine is survived by her husband, J.C. Lambert of Burnsville; one daughter, Beverly Murray of Burnsville; one son, Anthony Lambert of Burnsville; one sister, Bonnie Beaumont of Columbus, OH; nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Russ Anthony Lambert, Bradley Murray, Jay Thomas Lambert, Craig Hall, Michael Davis, Mark South and Bruce Knobbe.

Maxine touched the lives of so many during her lifetime and part of her will live on in all who knew and loved her.

Allegations Denied By Ex-Iuka City Worker During Informal Hearing Monday

Former Iuka City General Superintendent, Jerry McDaniel, dismissed by the Iuka Board of Aldermen in March of this year based on allegations of unsatisfactory job performance, participated in an informal hearing Monday where testimony and evidence were submitted to challenge the allegations brought against him by the Board.

McDaniel's attorney, Duncan "Bubba" Lott of Booneville, stated that the hearing had the purpose of giving McDaniel an opportunity to openly address and deny each allegation brought against him.

According to Iuka City Attorney Mike Cooke, the allegations against McDaniel were as follows:

1) "Since Mr. McDaniel has been employed as public works director, there has been approximately $65,000 worth of materials either missing, unaccounted for, or misappropriated in the department of public works. This reflects poor management of materials and personnel and proper accounting control and improper supervision of the entire department."

2) "Numerous city employees, materials and equipment were used to build two sheds on Mr. McDaniel's personal property--one for his private vehicle and one for a city vehicle used by Mr. McDaniel." In addition to this Cooke alleged that McDaniel used city materials and labor to put slag under these sheds and also to build a dog pen on his property.

3) "Excessive overtime was allowed by city employees sometime around 1992 or 1993 until the former Board of Aldermen stopped the practice. Overtime was given to individuals who did not work the overtime." He went on to say that the overtime was sometimes turned in by McDaniel for employees without their consent.

4) "Various city employees have been observed in clean-up and mechanic work of Mr. McDaniel's personal vehicle on city property, on city time and on city pay."

5) "A city employee was allowed to remove a large amount of the city's slag and hot mix to pave the parking lot of a local motel. Although the employee alleges that he did this on his own, Mr. McDaniel knew about this and did not attempt to stop it. The employee did not attempt to hide it. It was done in an open manner with city equipment during working hours."

After the allegations were presented, McDaniel's attorney began the hearing by questioning Iuka Mayor, David Nichols about the specific dates, times and sources of the allegations.

Concerning the first allegation, Lott asked the Mayor if there had ever been any official actions taken by the Board in the form of a reprimand or dismissal on the grounds of misappropriated, missing or mismanaged materials. Mayor Nichols replied, "Not to his knowledge." Lott went on to inquire if the Board or City had ever provided McDaniel with a list of his duties and responsibilities as the head of the department of public works. Nichols said he was not aware of any written job description. Lott asked if any individual had, through his investigation, indicated that McDaniel had misappropriated materials, etc. To this Nichols answered "yes", however, he did not disclose the name of the individual as suggested by Cooke.

Nichols also stated while being questioned that "he could not point to a specific incident" when an employee was paid for overtime he did not work.

Lott also questioned Iuka Alderman James Bates concerning his motion at a meeting on Feb. 22 to remove McDaniel from the office of City Superintendent and to replace him with Don McNeely and to realign McDaniel with with a job that he was qualified to do at an appropriate pay rate. He asked Bates what job he had in mind for McDaniel at that time. Bates said that as he had stated at the initial meeting, it would be left up to the man who was hired for the job. Lott said that he understood that during that meeting, the Board and Mayor went into executive session to discuss allegations against McDaniel. Bates said that to his knowledge, no allegations against McDaniel were brought up during that meeting. Lott then asked why, then, would you want to realign him with another job if no allegations were brought up against him.

"Because we knew of the inventory problem. We knew of all the stuff like that," Bates replied. Lott asked Bates if he was aware at that time that McDaniel did not personally misappropriate any of that himself. To this Bates said that at that time "he had been advised not to say any more about it." When asked why not, Bates said that he had been advised by his lawyer not to say any more. Lott asked him if he was "acting on his personal capacity at this meeting or as a member of the Board of Aldermen." Bates said he was acting as a member of the Board. Lott went on to ask Bates which of the five allegations brought against McDaniel were brought up during that Feb. 22 meeting. "I can't say anymore," Bates said. "So, you are refusing to answer any questions concerning your actions as a member of this Board of Aldermen," Lott questioned. "At this time," Bates declared.

McDaniel, when questioned concerning the allegations, produced receipts, copies of checks and witnesses to verify that materials, time and personnel that were supposedly missing, misappropriated or misused were indeed not. City employees said to have done work on personal projects or on personal vehicles of McDaniel's during the City's time stated unanimously that they had not done anything for McDaniel except on their own time. City Employees Omer Adcock, Bobby Adcock and Alvie Johnson all stated that as far as they knew, the allegations against McDaniel were false.

Concerning the building of two sheds on the personal property of McDaniel, former Iuka Alderman Cecil Phifer stated that the sheds were built with the knowledge of the previous Board to house a city vehicle that had a bad leak. Apparently the first shed, constructed from used cross ties donated by the railroad, was too short to pull the vehicle under and another taller structure had to be constructed. Money for the second shed was provided by the Board.

Concerning the allegations about McDaniel's knowledge of a city employee using city slag and hot-mix to pave the parking lot of a local motel and doing nothing to stop it, Mayor Nichols admitted that the individual stated that McDaniel had no knowledge of the incident at the time it was going on.

The Board has plans to discuss the testimonies heard at Monday's hearing at a meeting of the Board in the near future, according to reports. Lott stated in an interview after the hearing that if the Board does not re-evaluate and reverse their initial decision to dismiss McDaniel, then the next step would be for him, on McDaniel's behalf, to file a complaint with the EEOC alleging that his client was wrongfully and improperly discharged.

USE ACCESSORIES
TO LOOK SLIMMER

If appearing slimmer is one of your goals, then give careful thought to how you accessorize your outfits.

Bold, colorful accessories will attract the eyes of viewers to these accent areas of an outfit. If a taller, more slender appearance is desired, arrange and locate these accent accessories to cause the eyes to move in a vertical direction near the center of the figure.

Accessories might be a long scarf in a contrasting color, an attractive pin worn high on the shoulder and fairly close to the neckline or a longer necklace which creates long upward lines. Accessories which attract the viewer's eyes are best worn at or near the more attractive physical features of the body.

Shoes, hosiery, belts and handbags create a more slender illusion if their color either matches or blends closely with the color of the garment being worn. Consider the belt on a dress. If the belt matches the dress, the viewer's eyes may not notice it at all, as opposed to a belt of contrasting color or texture which would attract attention.

Notice how garments are accessorized in fashion magazines and catalogs. Take a critical look and be aware of eye movement. Be aware that vertical eye movement will create a slenderizing appearance.

PRESSING MISTAKES

Many home sewers take advantage of the late winter and early spring months when outside activities are still limited to sew some family garments or special decorating projects. Pressing is an important part of sewing and should be done throughout the sewing process.

The following are some pressing mistakes that can ruin an otherwise greatly sewn item:

IRONING INSTEAD OF PRESSING. Pressing is an up-and-down motion with a light touch. Ironing is a heavier action with a back-and-forth motion over the fabric. Ironing removes wrinkles after laundering. In sewing, ironing can flatten the fibers and give a shiny appearance to the fabric.

OVERPRESSING is just as undesirable as underpressing. It can cause too much pressure on the iron, too much heat and too much moisture. It is often the result of not using a press cloth and/or staying in one place too long. Overpressing can sometimes be corrected by holding a steam iron above the fabric so that the steam can revitalize the fibers.

Sometimes brushing is effective. There are cases and certain fibers that cannot recover. The garment or project will have an underpressed look and details will not lie flat.

WAITING UNTIL THE GARMENT IS FINISHED TO START PRESSING is a mistake because many areas will be impossible to reach effectively at this stage.

PRESSING OVER PINS AND BASTING can leave an imprint on the fabric. Pins can damage the sole plate of the iron.

Sewn garments and projects can save 75 percent of the cost of ready-to-wear or use items. However, it's important to incorporate good pressing habits to maintain professional looking garments or furnishings.

South Central Bell Estimates Ice Storm Damage....

South Central Bell announced today that the ice storm that swept across the northern part of Mississippi in February cost the company an estimated $20.5 million in repairs to its Mississippi network.

Most of the damage was in the northwestern part of Mississippi ($12.3 million), with the rest in the north central and northeast area of the state ($8.2 million).

"The company's telephone service in the affected area is normal again, but it will be a long time before we forget the Ice Storm of 1994," said Jerry Hollingsworth, South Central Bell district manager. "For one thing, we are still in the process of making temporary repairs permanent, so residents will see our trucks and crews hard at work for sometime."

The ice storm appears to be the most costly natural disaster South Central Bell has faced in Mississippi in recent years. Hurricane Frederic (1979) cost the state operation about $8.1 million, and Hurricane Camille (1969) cost SCB $16.5 million for the entire affected region.

"About 16 percent of our customer lines in the storm area were reported out of service. That's 51,000 trouble reports out of a total of 313,000 customer lines in the storm area."

"This is where our network reliability shows up. More than 65 percent of our cables in the area are buried underground, where they could not be damaged by falling limbs or broken poles," he explained. "and the immediate availability of both on-site emergency generators and the 675 mobile generators we rushed to the area kept our switches operating throughout the disaster."

Another critical factor in the success of South Central Bell's restoral effort was the presence of more than 815 telephone company employees from all nine of BellSouth's states working to put North Mississippians back in touch with the world.

More than 475 of these workers came from out-of-state, many of them anxious to pay back Mississippi's good deed two years ago when it sent more than 100 workers to Florida and Louisiana in the wake of Hurricane Andrew.

Another 150 workers came from other parts of Mississippi to assist the 189 South Central Bell network employees normally stationed in the area.

The challenge for all of the workers proved formidable: more than 1,600 telephone poles to replace, more than 5,000 cables to repair and more than 46,000 drop lines to fix. In addition, there were 17 fiber optic cable cuts, most of them occurring during repair activities.

"But our folks were up to the challenge," said Hollingsworth. "With the assistance of the Telephone Pioneers of America, who helped feed and supply the affected area with necessities during the worst of it, we not only met the needs of our customers but were able to help out some of the communities in which we do business."

"I wouldn't want to live through another ice storm like it, but this one reminded us all that, even in this high-tech business, the spirit of service is still alive."

SAFETY FIRST

You Don't Want This Kind of Reception

Many antennas were victims of the recent ice storm. When reinstalling these, be sure to practice good safety measures. Antennas can be hard to handle so be careful. If an antenna you're installing comes into contact with an electrical line overhead, you be off the air, permanently. Make certain that your antenna can't contact any lines nearby; or to be really safe, get professional assistance.

As you go about your task of cleaning-up after the storm, please observe safety. Remember, all lines should be respected and treated as if hot. Do not assume that any electrical wire is without power.

THOSE AT RISK FROM UV
There is evidence that long-term exposure to the sun may cause damage to your eyes, including cataract formation and possibly some retinal disorders. Therefore, I advocate ultraviolet (UV)-protecting glasses, especially for those at high risk. Whose in this category?

People who have had cataract surgery (the eye lens is removed, exposing the retina). Those who spend most of the day outdoors or who work near snow, water or sand (they reflect more UV into the eyes). People who live at high altitudes (there's a 15% increase in UV for every 3,000 feet of). People who live in the southern United States. And people who regularly take medications that increase sensitivity to UV light. Some oral contraceptives, tetracycline and others.

The new excitement for those at high risk is the recent FDA-approval of UV-protecting contact lenses. These are an advantage to these because you are filtering out UV all the time - even on cloudy days when you might not normally wear your tinted sunglasses.

received two first place citations.

Marguerite Nixon, the chairperson for the American History Essay contest, introduced Matthew Langston who won the state essay contest for the 5th grade. He and his family visited the meeting. Matthew is the son of Danny and Donna Langston. He did an excellent job writing and reading his essay. It was both informative and interesting. He was presented with a certificate and pin from the local chapter. Mrs. Nixon also introduced and thanked Jane Robinson who is Matthew's teacher. Other winners for the contest were unable to attend. These are Melissa Pounders from Tishomingo and Christy O'Neal from Iuka.

Barbara Sweeney conducted the National Defense. She discussed the much debated idea of education. Reading from Dr. Mike Walter's article in the Tupelo Daily Journal, she noted that it "takes the entire village" to educate a child.

Linda Lambert conducted a patriotic program about the flag. She gave us flag etiquette tips, correct terminology for the flag, and other pertinent facts about the flag. These are important facts that every American should know.

The door prize was won by Megan Langston. The hostess for the meeting was Regent Martha Dobbins.

Voters Can Stop Government Growth

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission has released the numbers for employment growth for February, the latest tabulation.

The good news is that employment in Mississippi's non-farm sector grew by more than 40,000 jobs since February, 1993 -- another sign of the state's positive economic recovery.

The bad news is that the government sector -- state and local -- has continued to grow, as well. About 4,000 new state employees were added to the public payroll during the same period.

Once again, rather than shrinking in size, government continues to grow, costing the taxpayers of Mississippi dearly. For years, the Mississippi Economic Council has pointed to the Legislature for leadership in trimming the size of government so that taxpayer dollars can be used on priority needs.

Approximately one of every five non-farm employees in Mississippi now works in the government sector.

Now the Mississippi Economic Council is pointing to the voters of Mississippi to take charge by supporting the initiative and referendum to reduce the size of the Legislature.

Mississippians must send a clear message to the state Capitol: Time is up for those who continue to increase the size of state government and the tax burden on the people who pay their salaries -- the public.

Voters can do their part by signing a petition in support of legislative reduction. Contact the MEC office, telephone 969-0025, for more information.

Overhauling Welfare for Real

That the President has joined in proposing that welfare reform moved into the work force means there is a real opportunity for Congress to overhaul the welfare system.

This debate comes none too soon. In my recent questioning of Mississippians, an emphatic 96.2 percent supported welfare reform requiring parental responsibility and work.

While the President has yet to introduce his legislative proposal to overhaul welfare, Members of Congress have crafted a variety of bills to make major changes in the system, all a healthy prelude to substantive debate.

While I have yet to cosponsor any of these bills, I am united with most of my colleagues in the Senate in opposing any new tax or welfare overhaul. I particularly will fight any move, already favored by the Administration, to tax gaming revenues. We do not need more taxes to achieve welfare reform.

I will be seeking passage of legislation which embraces eight principles of reform, first suggested last year by the non-partisan Foundation. First, real welfare reform must establish serious work requirements. All fathers in the AFDC-UP program must be required to perform community service work 40 hours per week. Able-bodied persons in the food stamp program must be required to work, and all single mothers on AFDC must perform community work service benefits by 1996.

Second, real reform must establish sensible workfare programs. Workfare programs should be efficient and low-cost and should be established first for those persons who have the least justification for being out of the labor force. Workfare requirements should be initially on able-bodied, non-elderly single persons on welfare, followed by fathers in two-parent families on welfare and absent fathers who to pay child support. After workfare has been put in operation for groups, those single mothers on AFDC who do not have pre-arranged children should be required to work.

Third, real reform should limit welfare given to unwed teen mothers. Congress should begin to address the illegitimacy problem by ending the present policy of giving AFDC cash payments to unmarried teen mothers. AFDC funds currently given directly to unwed mothers under age 21 could be converted into block grants to the states. States could use the funds to develop innovative policies including tightly supervised group homes or programs to promote adoption to assist those teens continue to have children out of wedlock. But federal funds could no longer be used to simply give cash welfare to teen mothers.

As a fourth principle, the federal government should not provide increased AFDC and food stamp benefits to mothers who bear additional children while already enrolled in the AFDC program. Fifth, the welfare system should require establishment of the identity of the father of a child for receipt of AFDC benefits. If the father claims he cannot provide child support because he cannot find a job, community service work should be required of him to fulfill his obligation.

Sixth, the system should reduce welfare's marriage penalty by creating a tax credit for lower-income parents who are married and are working, rather than living on welfare.

Seventh, the federal government should increase funding for abstinence education over programs promoting contraception. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, among young people taking sex abstinence curricula, pregnancy rates have been reduced by over 40 percent when compared with girls who have not taken such classes.

Finally, Congress must cap the growth of welfare spending. Otherwise, we will never see real welfare reform. (4/11/94)

The period following calving is a good time to vaccinate cows before they are bred again. Check with one of our county veterinarians about putting your cow herd on a vaccination program.

CROP PLANTING TIME

The 1994 growing season is approaching. Soybean producers should carefully consider input costs. Don't radically change the operation of the bean enterprise. Staying with the basics is a good way to keep production costs in check; unnecessary expense is an unwanted burden in 1994.

As we approach soybean planting season in the county, it's helpful to review a few recommendations. This advice is based on years of research by agronomists at Mississippi State University. The best planting dates are May 1 to June 10. These dates insure the best opportunity for high yields in most circumstances. Many of our producers have had good yields with late June planting -- there is always an exception to the rule -- but May and early June are still optimum times.

Many times growers will comment that they can't afford to lime. But given the pH readings of some of the soil samples from across the state, many growers cannot afford NOT to lime their soils.

Cotton planting time is almost here. It's typical to see some cotton planted by April 24, but many producers may have to wait to plant because of cool temperatures and wet soil.

Soil temperature and moisture level are really more important in determining a planting date than the calendar is. Cotton seed is most susceptible to chilling injury the first 24 to 36 hours after it is planted. This is the period when seed soak up water.

The temperature of the soil should be at least 65 degrees and the weather forecast favorable for five days if producers want to plant.

Selection of preplant and preemergence herbicides should be based on weed pressure in fields. Rate selection should approximate the recommended rate for a particular soil type.

EXPLORING PLANTS

A Plant's Best Friends - What does a person need to order to survive? Food, water and air are the most important things. What do you suppose a plant needs in order to live? Basically the same thing human beings need. Of course, they use these things in different ways, but the requirements for humans and plants are very similar. A plant's best friends are the things that a plant needs in order to live. Water, sunlight, air and nutrients are a plant's best friends.

A nutrient may sound like a strange choice for a best friend. But, nutrients do a lot for plants. They promote growth and repair of cells. Plants take in nutrients from the soil.

The soil provides a favorable environment for the growth of plant life but is not necessary in all cases. All of these things: water, sunlight, air and nutrients work together to make life possible for plants. A process that's very important to plants is photosynthesis. It's the way plants use sunlight to make their own food. Air, sunlight, and water are needed in this process.

How We Get Them - Plants are alive just like you. They produce seeds that grow into new plants and when you eat things like rice, beans or popcorn, you are eating seeds. Even though seeds are dry and hard, they are really alive. All they need is a warm moist place to begin growing. This process is called germination.

When plants grow up, they produce flowers. The flowers are the start of the seed-making process. Flowers have several different parts. The stamen produces pollen, a powdery material. The pollen must reach the pistil for seeds to develop. Some plants must have insects move the pollen from the stamen to the pistil, or the wind can blow it from flower to flower. Once the pollen reaches the pistil, the plant begins to produce its seed. Sometimes the seed is something good to eat like watermelon or corn.

For more ways 4-H can help you explore plants, contact the county extension office at 423-7016.

Lee County Agri-Center to hold Grand Opening - The grand opening of the Lee County Agri-Center will be held on Saturday, April 16 at 7:00 p.m. The program will include livestock exhibits by 4-H members, horsemanship demonstrations and a line dancing exhibition. The public is welcome to attend. The Agri-Center is located off Business Highway 45 in Verona.

National Library Week Begins--Mayor David Nichols declares April 17-23, 1994 as National Library Week in the City of Iuka. Mayor Nichols is shown signing the proclamation which sets the week aside for observing the library's importance to the community. This year's theme, "Libraries Change Lives" emphasizes that America's libraries help millions of people each day to learn and grow, to prosper and achieve their goals. The Iuka Library encourages all residents to use their library for the purpose of improving their lives. Many activities have been planned at the library. Fredda Sanderson, librarian, and Sherrill Sweeney, NLW Chairperson, observing and signing, invites everyone to visit the library during NLW.

Capt. J.T. Formby

Marker Placed For Civil War Veteran

Bob Bentley, Sr. of Muscle Shoals, AL, recently placed a marker at the gravesite of civil war veteran Captain J.T. Formby in Box Chapel Cemetery in Alcorn County. Captain Formby was a prominent citizen of Tishomingo County during the 1800's. He donated the land where Burnsville School was built and also served as Mayor of Burnsville.

The following is a reprint of Capt. Formby's obituary, originally published June 24, 1901 in the Vidette. The clipping was found by his great-granddaughter, Mrs. Mary Etta Kay Ledbetter of Iuka.

BURNSVILLE NEWS

June 24th, 1901

Ed. Vidette:

One of our oldest citizens, Captain J.T. Formby, died on last Saturday, the 22nd at 3:30 p.m., after 4 months prostration from heart trouble.

We feel and realize that we have lost a warm friend and it will be hard to find a man that can fill his place in the hearts of the people in this community, for he was ever ready to counsel us and we could always rely upon his judgment in cases where experience was required.

He was born Nov. 7th, 1834 in the state of Georgia, and while young moved to St. Clair County, Ala., and at 22 years of age he was elected justice of the peace. In 1859 he moved to Marshall County, Miss., living there until the outbreak of the Civil War. In July 1861 he enlisted in the 22nd Miss. regiment, was elected captain of Co. H in Burnsville's regiment and served until the close of the war. He participated in several hard fought battles. He was at Shiloh and Corinth and received a severe wound in foot on Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta, Ga., July 20th, 1864.

He was married to Miss Nannie C. Brown of Marshall County. Unto them was born seven children. He leaves a widow, two sons and one daughter to mourn his loss.

In 1861 he moved to Calhoun County, Ala., lived there until 1871 and then moved to Alcorn County, Miss. He lived there until 1875 and then moved to Ripley, Miss., engaging in the mercantile business until 1877 when he moved back to Alcorn County near old Farmington and engaged in farming. In 1880 he moved to Burnsville and farmed for two years. Then was elected mayor for two years for the town of Burnsville. He served one term as Mayor and ex officio and then was elected justice of the peace and served until his death.

He lived in the Missionary Baptist Church for 21 years but while at Ripley he joined the Christian church. He was very devoted to the cause and was a consistent Christian until his Master called him away from the pain and troubles of this life to receive the reward that is promised the faithful followers of the Lord.

His remains were laid to rest at Boxes Chapel, 3 miles from Corinth, on the Corinth and Hamburg Rd. He belonged to the Masonic order for many years. He was a member of the Burnsville lodge at death. The remains were met by the Corinth lodge and the burial services were conducted by Rev's Taylor, of Corinth, and McGahey of Burnsville.

Something New.

1(601)352-9993

There's something new to remember. From now on, when you make long distance calls to telephone numbers within Mississippi's 601 area code, dial 0 or 1 + 601 and then the number you're calling.

The nation's continued telecommunications growth has created a shortage of telephone numbers. By dialing the appropriate area code on all long distance calls, numbers are freed up for new business and residential customers.

If you have long distance numbers within the 601 area code on any programmed services or equipment like Speed Calling, Call Forwarding, modems, or even a FAX machine, now's the time to reprogram them. Effective May 1, 1994, dialing the area code will be necessary to complete long distance calls to telephone numbers within the 601 area.

Daddy

Humble as a little child was he,
He loved the Lord it was plain to see.

The front pew at church was favorite seat,
And in my eyes he couldn't be beat.

As a witness for Christ, he was devout,
He knew what witnessing was all about.

Attending church made his life complete,
You could find him there in his favorite seat.

Tears of joy often ran down his face,
While praising the Lord for his marvelous grace.

Then one day God called him out of his pain,
Our earthly loss was Heaven's gain.

I know that up there in his favorite seat,
He'll be praising the Lord in eternity.

Humble as a little child was he!

In Loving Memory Of My Daddy,
Earl Whitehurst

Who Passed Away April 13, 1988.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

MELCHIZEDEK--MAN OF MYSTERY!

IF EVER THERE WAS A MYSTERY, A PUZZLE IN THE BIBLE, IT WOULD HAVE TO BE THE PRIEST-KING, MELCHIZEDEK, THE KING OF SALEM. IN THE ONE MEETING ABRAHAM HAD WITH MELCHIZEDEK, HE IMMEDIATELY RECOGNIZED HIM AS SUPERIOR TO HIMSELF IN THE EYES OF GOD! MELCHIZEDEK BROUGHT TO ABRAHAM BREAD AND WINE, AND BLESSED HIM. THROUGHOUT THE SCRIPTURES HE IS REFERRED TO AS THE HIGH PRIEST OF GOD, COMING NOT FROM A FATHER OR A MOTHER, HAVING NO END TO HIS LIFE AND NO BEGINNING. STUDENTS AND AUTHORITIES ON THE BIBLE HAVE SPECULATED ENDLESSLY ON THIS PRIEST-KING; SOME HAVE ARGUED THAT HE WAS A SURVIVOR OF THE FLOOD, THE PATRIARCH SHEM, OTHERS THAT HE WAS AN ANGEL OF GOD--ONE JEWISH TRADITION IS THAT HE WAS THE MESSIAH; SOME SAY THAT SALEM, WHERE HE RULED, LATER BECAME JERUSALEM--BUT ONE THING IS CERTAIN, WHOMEVER MELCHIZEDEK WAS, HE CERTAINLY AROUSED THE CURIOSITY OF SCHOLARS DOWN THROUGH THE AGES!

New Dialing For Mississippi Goes Into Effect May 1st

Easter, Passover, St. Patrick's Day, the first day of Spring and Spring Break all have come and gone, but there's one more important date to mark on the spring calendar, according to Hollingsworth, district manager for South Central Bell.

"May 1 is more than the day our mother lets you go barefoot for the first time, or a day to wrap ribbons around a maypole," Hollingsworth said. "It's Area Code Plus day!"

Area Code Plus refers to the dialing pattern all Mississippians will be required to adopt on May 1st when dialing in-state, long-distance calls.

"Instead of being able to dial one or zero plus the seven-digit telephone number, everyone will need to dial one or zero plus the area code and the seven-digit number," Hollingsworth explained.

Mississippi have been able to practice including the area code on all long-distance calls since December 1, when South Central Bell and the other telephone companies in Mississippi opened their networks to "optional dialing." In other words, a call dialed either way went through. The purpose was to let the state get used to the new method before it became mandatory.

Another reason for the "optional dialing" period was to give individuals and businesses with automatic dialing equipment time to reprogram their equipment to use the area code on all long-distance calls. If they don't May 1 may be a day for confusion, since on that date, only long-distance calls made with the area code will go through.

"This is not news to most of our customers, we hope," said Hollingsworth. "In the last few weeks we have added television and newspaper advertisements to the newsletters and bill inserts we have been using for months to notify customers that this change is coming."

Why the change? America's pool of available telephone numbers and area codes is all but depleted. While Mississippi still has plenty of numbers, South Central Bell is cooperating with other telephone companies across the United States to introduce this new dialing plan to free up more numbers. Within the next year or so, the Area Code Plus method of dialing will be common everywhere, Hollingsworth said.

Mississippi's conversion to Area Code Plus will make available approximately 1.5 million telephone numbers. A new area code creates more than 7 million numerical combinations.

Customers with questions about Area Code Plus can dial their service representative at 557-6500 (residence) and 557-6000 (business), toll-free.

Fans of all ages listened attentively as Dan Seals performed during Saturday's first annual Dogwood Festival.

Singer/Songwriter Dan Seals and Dogwood Festival Chairman Vicki White (Iuka Chamber's Exec. Dir.) are pictured with the pink dogwood tree donated to the Tishomingo County Magnet High School in honor of the event.

Dogwood Festival A Success Despite Power Outage

With the efforts of many volunteers, and the talent of many local artists, and one big star, the first Dogwood Music Festival was quite a show. Despite the early threat of rain, and one "small" power outage, for two hours, those in attendance enjoyed the performances, the good food, and the company of friends.

Molly Lomenick and Dena Crum opened the festival with the Star Spangled Banner while Angie Biggs and Debra Wren presented the American flag on horseback. Miss Lomenick and Miss Crum then sang several country favorites to a gathering audience. Ricky Gillingham continued with entertainment on his karioke machine and guitar, but was hampered several times with power outages. By the time six-year old Misty Lynne began, the power went off completely.

Campus Country, of Northeast Mississippi Community College, kept the crowd in music mood with an old fashioned jam session without amps or microphones. Several volunteers scrambled for generators, while the Tishomingo County Electric Power Association tried to locate and fix the problem. Once the power was restored, Campus Country continued with an awesome show and finished with a bang.

Dan Seals was able to perform pretty much on schedule and wow, did he perform. He started out with one of his new tunes from his soon to be released album. He continued with some of his tunes from the 80's when Seals first started in country music, including "You Still Move Me" nominated for a grammy. When he pulled out his saxophone, Dan Seals won the hearts of many new and old fans alike.

"I enjoyed his casualness and that he mingled with the people, he made everyone feel right at home" according to Dana Degraw, an avid country music fan and volunteer for the festival. Earl and Donna Solomen of "Sports Plus" in Iuka were also volunteers for the festival who couldn't say enough about how personable Dan Seals was. "He just didn't act like the big star that he is, the whole band and road group were a nice bunch of gentlemen. We were impressed by them all," said Mrs. Solomen afterwards. The best quote of the day came from Mayor David Nichols, who presented Dan with the Key to the City, when he said "You may call him Mr. Seals, you may call him Dan, but to me he will always be known as England Dan." Truly, you may call him any of the above, but what ever you choose, Dan Seals will be remembered in the hearts and minds of those who attended the Dogwood Music Festival of 1994 as a great entertainer who left a wonderful impression on Iuka fans.

The days events were finished out with the tunes of the Howard Woodruff Band. The Iuka Area Chamber of Commerce would like to thank them and all those who entertained for the day's events. We would also like to thank all of our sponsors that assisted us in making the Dogwood Festival a success: Iuka Guaranty Bank, First American National Bank, Peoples Bank, McBride's Garden Center for the lovely dogwood tree they donated to festival at the High School, Piggly Wiggly, Country Squire Restaurant, Bet's Restaurant, Western Auto, WFXO for the great job of promoting, Lamberts Hardware, the Tishomingo County Rescue Squad, Tishomingo County Sheriff's Dept., Harold Lomenick/State Farm; Dr. Phillip Gray, Encore Products, Pizza Hut, Subway, The New Salem Baptist Church Clowns, The Shriners for the Cotton Candy machine, the T.C.H.S. Band Boosters, Red Stone Credit Union, Consolidated Aluminum, Grisham's Men's Wear, Yellow Creek Communications/Bell South Mobility for the cellular phones and hand-held communications, Mid South Oxygen, The Tishomingo County News for wonderful coverage leading up to the festival, Pam Morris and Brenda Nichols, Ray Curtis, Dana DeGraw, Ronnie Ryan and his friends, Becky Fowler and Mac, Mrs. Martha White, Alex Fulton and the Boy Scout group that helped out, Bobby Riley for his flat bed truck, Key West Inn, Sonic, and Pepsi for the banners, drinks and support. We would like to extend a very special thank you to Ms. Bess Young, City Alderwomen, and David Nichols, Mayor, for their wonderful help and support. And of course, no festival would be complete without true die-hard fans like the ones who arrived before the opening and stayed till the very end, we appreciate you one and all. See ya next year.

Deadline Nears

With less than two weeks left until the April 15 filing deadline, the Internal Revenue Service advises people who haven't done their tax forms to wait no longer, because time is running out to get the forms, publications or other help they need.

The IRS has extended their toll-free telephone service hours. The toll-free number is 1-800-TAX-1040. In Mississippi, the new hours of service from now through April 15 are Monday - Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The IRS also has a special toll-free line for federal tax forms or publications - 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). Many banks, post offices and libraries stock some of the common forms. The IRS also gives libraries reference sets of forms and publications that can be photocopied.

If you can't finish your tax form on time, you can get an extra four months - until August 15 - to file your return by sending Form 4868 to the IRS by April 15. This filing extension does not give you more time to pay any taxes owed. You must estimate your total tax liability when requesting the extension. You may pay any projected balance due with the Form 4868, but if you can't pay the full amount, you can still get the extension. Interest charges apply to any tax not paid by April 15. You may also be liable for a late payment penalty if the amount paid by April 15 is less than 90 percent of your actual 1993 tax.

If you've completed your tax forms, but you can't pay the full amount owed, you can ask the IRS for an installment plan when you file. Send as large a payment as possible with your return to lessen interest and penalty charges, which currently total an annual rate of 13 percent - seven percent annual interest, plus a late payment penalty of 0.5 percent per month. To request an installment arrangement with the IRS, just attach Form 940 in front of your tax return, the amount you propose to pay each month and on what date. The IRS should let you know within 30 days if your proposal is acceptable.

If you did not have enough withheld last year, you also act now to avoid a problem next year. Get Form W-4 from your employer or from the IRS and use the proper number for withholding allowances in situation.

As of March 25, Mississippians had filed returns. The IRS expects usual, 200,000 Mississippians file their return on April 15. The IRS has issued nearly $1,196, the average refund up $105 from last year.

The 50th Anniversary Of World War II Commemorative Community Program

The Department of Defense has designated Iuka, Mississippi as a World War II Commemorative Community. The program honors and thanks World War II Veterans, their families, and those who served on the home front.

The 50th Anniversary of World War II Commemorative Community Program is a "grassroots" initiative designed to encourage communities, cities, states, federal agencies, military installations, service/social and veterans organizations to thank and honor World War II veterans through commemorative events and activities. The commemoration period lasts through Veterans Day, 1995.

Lieutenant General Claude M. Kicklighter, United States Army, Retired, executive director of the Department of Defense 50th Anniversary Commemoration Committee, said, "No matter what our nation does to thank and honor this very special group of Americans, it won't be enough. We hope through this program, we will be able to touch in some fashion the almost nine million living World War II veterans, no matter where they are."

This program not only allows Americans an opportunity to recognize and remember the sacrifices of our armed forces and all those who served on the home front, but also offers Americans a chance to study the history and lessons of World War II.

A Life Magazine survey in 1985 revealed that three out of five Americans had no knowledge of World War II -- a war in which nearly 15 million people died in battle and more than 38 million civilians were killed.

In 1990, Newsweek Magazine reported that nearly one-third of America's 17-year-olds could not identify which countries the United States fought against in World War II. In short, Americans have little understanding of how this war began, who fought it, why it was fought, or how radically it changed the world as we know it today.

Many historians have referred to World War II as the central event of the 20th century. Perhaps, even more importantly, the 50th anniversary offers Americans an opportunity to say, "a grateful nation remembers."

One of the many young men from our area to serve in World War II was Mr. James Jackson. Mr. Jackson left Iuka at the age of eighteen (18). Mr. Jackson went to war not because he was drafted, but for the simple fact his country needed him. Becoming a hero was the last thing on his mind. In his own words Mr. Jackson states "In war you live day to day, protecting your life and the lives of your friends. To make it to another day...to make it home."

In 1944, while serving in Germany, Mr. Jackson became a POW along with forty six (46) other GIs. After seven days in the camp, he and the other GIs decided that they would escape. There were only three (3) prison guards. Mr. Jackson and the other GIs knew they were taking a risk, some of the men would probably be killed, but it was a risk, all were willing to take. One of the American officers informed the English speaking guard about the plans the GIs had made. The guards were given a choice; they could go with the Americans or just go about their business.

The German soldiers knew they had been fighting a losing war for seven years. They handed their weapons to the GIs and lead the American GIs to the front line in France.

On the way, the men crossed paths with other German soldiers. The GIs gave the guards back their weapons; they were POW again. After the German troops had passed, the guards returned the weapons to the American GIs. Mr. Jackson remembers being treated well by the German guards. What ever the guards had they shared with Mr. Jackson and the other American GIs. When going through the villages, the guards would find food for all to eat. Being a war torn country there wasn't much; but what there was, was shared by all.

While attending the Heritage Days Festival, stop by old Tishomingo County Courthouse and view many of Mr. Jackson's medals and other war memorabilia. This year's festival will be held the first weekend in June. The Heritage Days will honor the 50th Anniversary of World War II. Anyone wishing to take part in this year's festival please contact Iuka Heritage Day Committee, P.O. Box 1016, Iuka, MS 38852 or call 423-3047.

Sure Sign of Spring—With the devastation done to trees throughout the area during Ice Storm 1994, it is such a delight to see survivors such as this magnificent flowering cherry tree. This 12-year-old beauty, located in the yard of Cecil and Gladys Sumners at 602 N. Pearl St. in Iuka, is rare to the area. Cecil explained that the tree was originally given to him by Mrs. Forest Wright of Belmont. Its plentiful light pink blossoms are a sure sign that the long, hard winter is finally coming to a close. Cecil and Gladys have lived at their residence, lovingly called "Homeplace," for 42 years.

"Memories Of Mississippi"

The University Museums of the University of Mississippi has been funded for "Memories of Mississippi", an elderly writing project, by the Mississippi Humanities Council, the Friends of the Museum, the W.H. Durham Foundation, and the University of Mississippi Graduate School. Other sponsors include Itwamba Community College, Northeast Community College, Coahoma Community College, and the Tate County Historical Society. The project, in conjunction with the fifty-five year celebration of the establishment of the Mary Buie Museum as a Federal Art Center, seeks to encourage elderly residents of northern Mississippi to write about their memories of Mississippi during the Depression Era (1929-1941).

"Memories of Mississippi" will be conducted in the form of a regional writing contest. Potential contestants are encouraged to compose their experiences in the form of essays, then, type and send them in to the University Museums. Monetary prizes will be awarded to the top entries and some essays will be chosen for possible publication. Contestants are allowed to team up with someone willing to assist them in order to complete their entry.

Some guidelines for the contest include: the subject of the essay must have occurred in Mississippi; the subject must be from the personal experience of the author; length must not exceed five double-spaced, typed pages; each paper must center on only one topic; and entries must be postmarked by May 31, 1994. Damaged Timber Concerns Rise With Temperatures

The great ice storm of '94 is over, but assessing the damage to north Mississippi's forests has just begun. As spring temperatures climb, concerns about fungi, insects and wildfires also are rising for the damaged trees.

State foresters believe millions of dollars worth of timber has been damaged, and forest growth will be affected for years.

Dr. Bob Daniels, extension forester at Mississippi State University, said the best response for forest landowners in storm-affected areas is to stay calm, get professional advice about your timber's condition and then act.

"Wait for advice from a professional forester before selling timber," Daniels said. "But landowners with seriously damaged timber need to take action soon."

Forest stands that are not yet marketable or have only limb damage can be set aside for the moment, but marketable stands (pulpwood size and larger) with broken stems should receive attention now. Immediate action for these stands is needed since blue-stain fungi attack becomes a greater threat as temperatures rise.

Blue-stain fungi attack unprotected sapwood, discoloring it and making it unmarketable.

"Blue-stain will become a problem for north Mississippi landowners in late April, as temperatures become consistently favorable for fungi growth," Daniels said. "When night temperatures are in the high 60s or lower 70s, the fungi will rapidly stain the damaged timber."

Southern pine beetle also will be a threat for north Mississippi during the spring and summer months. The beetles are attracted to the resins secreted by injured pine trees, but hopefully most of the resins will be shed and hardened before the beetles become active.

George Butler, district forester in Tupelo, said bark beetles could become a problem for the state's damaged timber.

"Southern pine beetles may not cause too many problems this year since we don't have a residual population left from 1993," Butler said. "Other beetles such as ips and black turpentine beetles also may cause problems."

Rising temperatures also pose a threat to forest landowners as fallen trees and limbs dry out to become potential fuel for wildfires.

Kent Grizzard, information education forester with the state Forestry Commission, recommended that landowners and homeowners take care when disposing of damaged timber.

"One immediate danger is that fallen limbs are drying up and may become fuel for wildfires. We are in the peak of wildfire season," Grizzard said. "Homeowners and landowners must be cautious with debris cleanup -- don't burn debris on windy days."

The Forestry Commission recommends landowners check regulations for outdoor fires when burning anything other than limbs or plan materials.

"Temperatures already are rising, so forest landowners should begin doing all they can to clean up their damage timber, starting with the most severely affected stands," Daniels said. "The damage stands of north Mississippi need attention, so get a professional's opinion and move to salvage your timber."

Daniels recommended that landowners work to get the best price for timber, but remain flexible, and work with foresters to avoid value-damaging problems with fungi, beetles and wildfires.

Unfortunately, the timber damage has come at a time when many of the area's log yard saw are full and north Mississippi pulpwood prices are down, Daniels said.

"The forest industries of north Mississippi are interested in the area as a source of wood for their mills and are working to assess their own damage and to buy as much of the damaged wood as they can," Daniels said. "The 'word on the street' is that most of the major wood buyers in the area are committed to keeping prices steady and taking as much of the damaged wood as they can."

Mount Gilead Homecoming

This Saturday, April 16, 1994 is clean-up day at Mount Gilead cemetery. We want to get our cemetery ready to mow. Leaves need to be raked and sticks picked up and make our cemetery clean as possible. Do not throw old flowers in the woods.

Some have never paid anything on our cemetery trust fund. If you would like to pay something on this fund it will be appreciated. We thank all who have helped on this work.

Our homecoming day will be on the second Sunday in May. Preaching at 11:00 a.m. Lunch at noon. After lunch we will have special singing in the afternoon. All are invited to come and enjoy this day with us.

Statistics Provide Snapshot Of Economic Growth In Region

Northeast Mississippi shows economic growth in the region in terms of labor force, retail sales, and new and expanded facility announcements, according to statistics compiled and analyzed by the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development (MDECD).

The agency looked at economic trends in its six Field Office regions between December 1991 and December 1993. All areas experienced increases in the civilian labor force and monthly retail sales and decreases in the unemployment rate. New and expanded facility announcements in 1993 show growth in both the manufacturing and non-manufacturing sectors.

"Mississippi's economy is growing across the board, a reflection of the diversity in our business and industry base and the pro-business climate that makes our state favorable for business investment," said Jimmy Heidel, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development.

In northeast Mississippi, the civilian labor force grew by 4.78 percent over the two-year period, from 178,010 to 186,510 persons. Concurrently, the region's unemployment dropped 2.4 percent from 7.39 percent to 4.99 percent. Retail sales in northeast Mississippi grew 9.74 percent from $229.79 million in December 1991 to $252.17 million two years later.

New and expanded facility announcements in the region totaled 151 during 1993, with an estimated capital investment of $244.6 million and approximately 3,631 in job creation. In the manufacturing sector, companies announced 141 locations and expansions, creating an estimated 3,470 jobs and representing a capital investment of $241.98 million. In the non-manufacturing category, companies announced 10 locations and expansions with 161 job creation and an estimated total investment of $2.27 million.

"Mississippi is on the right course to continued economic growth and increased opportunity, all leading to a better standard of living for Mississippians," said Heidel. "The MDECD Field Offices are on the scene locally to assist communities in capitalizing on that opportunity to achieve economic and community development."

The Northeast Field Office, based in Tupelo, is one of six managed by MDECD across the state to serve as local points of contact with communities. Each office serves the counties in its region with representatives from the agency's Community Services Division and Existing Industry and Business Division. The Northeast Field Office serves Alcorn, Benton, Calhoun, Chickasaw, Itawamba, Lafayette, Lee Marshall, Monroe, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tippah, Tishomingo, and Union counties. The agency's other field offices are located in Greenwood, Hattiesburg, Jackson, Meridian, and Summit.

Sources of the labor, employment, and retail sales figures were the Mississippi Employment Security Commission, Labor Market Information Department; the State Tax Commission, Sales Tax Division; and the Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning, Center for Policy Research and Planning. The Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development compiled the new and expanded facility data.
