A New Day, A New Year, A New Beginning

It's time once again to welcome in a new year. Sweet little Karlie Suzanne Smith just finished celebrating her very first Christmas and is now ready to put that holiday behind her and ring in the New Year.

She will be celebrating another first on January 3—her first birthday. Karlie is the daughter of Gerald and Rhonda Smith of Tishomingo. Grandparents are Clarie Greene Winfield and the late Dan Winfield of Tishomingo, and Selmer and Geneva Smith of Florence, Ala. Great grandmother is Ollie Belle Greene of Paden.

We at the Tishomingo County News would like to join Karlie in wishing everyone a happy and safe 1996.

New Officials To Take Office

Those recently elected to office will be officially sworn in during a ceremony on Tuesday, January 2, beginning at 9 a.m. in the courtroom of the Tishomingo County Courthouse. Everyone is invited to attend.

Bluebird Trail Gets Helping Hands From AmeriCorps

Bluebirds along the Bluebird Trail, located from the Tennessee line, down the eastern border of Mississippi all the way to the Gulf Coast, will have new or refurbished homes in which to build their nests next season thanks to a group of enthusiastic and dedicated young team members from AmeriCorps National Civilian Community Corps.

The team of 14 members, ranging in ages from 18-24, gathered at the Vo-Tech Center's building trades shop in Tishomingo Monday, December 18, to begin building 100 blue bird houses for the trail. In addition to these new houses, the group will repair another 100 existing houses.

The Bluebird Trail project sponsor in Tishomingo County is Don Jones, District Conservationist with the United States Department of Agriculture's NRCS. Jones came up with the idea for the trail and it was begun in 1984. He explained that the original plan covered nine counties; however, the other counties all the way to the coast adopted the idea and the final houses were put in place in the early 1990s.

The original materials for building the bird houses were donated by several local civic organizations, Jones explained. The materials used for this present rebuilding and refurbishing are being donated by the Tishomingo County Soil and Water Conservation District.

According to spokesman for AmeriCorps NCCC, Anne Soffin, the group will remain in the area until Thursday to work on the bluebird houses. They will place the houses back on the trail before leaving for their headquarters in Charleston, S.C.

AmeriCorps NCCC is a residential national service program made up of young people from all over the country who have come together and formed teams to meet critical needs in urban and rural communities. They focus on projects that protect and conserve natural resources, promote public safety and help meet the educational and human needs of children, older persons and others.

"We try to live up to our motto, 'getting things done,' when we go out to work on the different projects," Soffin said.

Many of the young people who join AmeriCorps NCCC are interested in helping people by giving their time and efforts, but what they get from the program outweighs what they give, according to team member Chrystal Pfeiffer, 20, of Mission Viejo, Calif.

"I mainly joined the organization so that I could help people," Pfeiffer said. "That was my main objective. However, I have gotten so much out of the program. You learn to be a team member and you get to see and experience so many different areas of the country. What I am learning are life lessons."

Before coming to Tishomingo County, the team was in Booneville where they worked on a nature trail. The group came to Mississippi in November and for their first project, they worked at the Mississippi State Hospital in Whitfield where they built an observation deck and handicap accessible ramps.

Projects are chosen for the AmeriCorps teams through the regional project office in Charleston, Soffin explained. Different organizations send in applications which must meet a list of criteria. If they do, they may be chosen for help by one of the AmeriCorps teams.

On hand at the Vo-Tech center to observe the progress of the AmeriCorps team were Reginald Spears of the state USDA/NRCS office and Elizabeth Jones of the Washington, DC office of USDA AmeriCorps.

The AmeriCorps NCCC was created by the Congress and President Clinton as part of the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993. More than 20,000 young people are a part of the organization, nationwide.

Elegant Fashions For Holiday 1995

Fashions for the holiday season are slated to be elegant but more versatile than usual. These clothes offer perfect solutions to people who work all day and rush to that special dinner or other holiday event immediately afterwards.

Important looks for the season will be "day to dinner" suits that can fulfill the needs of the entire day. Rayon and/or wool crepe will be popular fabrics with lace inserts, decorative stitching and jewel buttons that will not be over powering during the day. Special accessories or garments such as a brocade or velvet vest or evening shawl can be added at the last moment for that quick touch of elegance.

Many of the season's separates can be dressed down for days and dressed up for nights. Key items include dressy tunics over slim pants, embellished blouses and sweaters, mandarin collar tops and tunics, quilted satin jackets, velvet skirts and pants, sheer lace body suits and taffeta kilts.

The short slim cocktail dress will be quite popular this holiday season along with long column dresses and cocktail suits. This also promises to be a fabulous sweater season featuring mohairs, angoras and chenilles.

It's destined to be a highly colorful season with black continuing as one of the most elegant and popular holiday looks. Other hues will include jewel tones pastels, and infusion of browns, hunter green and burgundy that will look especially sophisticated in velvets, satins and taffetas. Metallic tones such as platinum, silver, copper, gold and bronze in matte and high gloss finishes also will be popular.

Roundup Ready Soybeans Have Arrived

Roundup Ready soybeans will be on the market next year. Roundup Ready simply means that you can make over-the-top applications of Roundup Herbicide on these varieties of soybeans. Hartz and Asgrow Seed Companies will have varieties available. This will be great news for those producers with severe weed problem fields. I have some information in the office and I hope to get more soon.

How To Care For The Poinsettia

If properly cared for during the holidays, the life of the poinsettia can be extended throughout the year. When the soil surface is dry to the touch, water thoroughly but do not leave the excess water in the saucer. Keep temperature around 60 degrees at night and 72 degrees during the day. Maintain high humidity and protect from cold drafts. In order to keep until next year, fertilize lightly every three to four weeks. When leaves fade, cut back to about eight inches. When nighttime temperatures are above 50 degrees in the spring, you can

Kidney disease:
Common Problem In Older Pets
By: Dr. Perkins

Aging pets are at higher risk for health problems than their younger counterparts, and one of the most common health problems we see in older patients is kidney disease.

Medically speaking, "kidney disease" is any destructive process within the kidney. Most adult pets have some degree of kidney damage, but the signs of kidney disease don't become evident until an animal loses more than two-thirds of his kidney's function. That's why managing the risk factors associated with kidney disease are so important.

Along with decreased appetite and increased thirst, other signs of the disease include frequent or no urination, poor hair coat, depression and vomiting. These signs can appear suddenly or develop slowly over time. It's important to monitor your pet's eating, drinking, and elimination habits and alert us to any changes immediately.

The kidneys act as a filter to clean the blood and eliminate waste products from the blood stream. If the kidneys are not functioning properly, the waste products can reach toxic levels leading to progressive kidney damage and complete kidney failure. What causes kidney disease? Many factors such as aging, inherited defects, infections, nutritional factors, trauma (injury) and ingestion of toxic substances. Often, we cannot determine the exact cause of the disease but we can help your pet live with it.

One way we can do this is with nutritional therapy, using special dietary foods, such as Prescription Diet Canine k/d or Canine u/d for dogs or Prescription diet Feline k/d for cats. Pets with kidney disease need diets that are lower in phosphorus and sodium and that contain lower levels of high-quality proteins. Nutritional therapy helps prevent the accumulation of waste materials in the blood without overworking a pet's damaged kidneys.

Once we prescribe a specific diet for your pet, it's important that your pet eat only that diet. Ask us for specific suggestions on how you can help your pet make the transition to its new food.

Although you can't halt the aging process or reverse kidney damage once it occurs, it is possible to manage the risk factors through regular veterinary care, proper diet, exercise and an awareness of your pet's health risks. Please feel free to talk to us about any concerns you may have about your pet's health.

Christmas in Heaven

I've had my first Christmas in Heaven

A glorious, wonderful day

I stood with the saints of the ages

Who found Christ, the Truth and the Way,

I sang with the Heavenly choir

Just think! I who so longed to sing

And oh! What celestial music

We brought to our Saviour and King!

We sang the glad songs of redemption

How Jesus of Bethlehem came

And how they had called his name Jesus

That all might be saved through his name.

We sang once again with the Angels

The song that they sang that blest morn

When shepherds first heard the glad story

That Jesus, the Saviour, was born.

Oh, how I wish you had been there,

No Christmas on earth can compare

With all the rapture and Glory

We witnessed in Heaven so fair.

You know how much I loved Christmas

It seems such a wonderful day

With all my loved ones around me

The family so happy and gay.

Yes, now I can see why I loved it

And oh, what a joy it will be

When you and my loved ones are here with me

To share all the Glories I see.

So, dear ones on earth, here's my greeting

Look up till the day dawn appears,

And oh, what a Christmas awaits us

Beyond all our partings and tears.

See ya in Heaven,

Jay Darwin

A Special Message From

Sammy and Teresa Darwin & Family

We wish to send a special thank you to all those who continue to keep in touch and send words of encouragement to us. These words and other acts have helped us to make it through the bad times, as well as the good this past year.

We continue to receive lots of things on behalf of Jay and we are very appreciative of them all. Two donations since our last thank you that we would like to acknowledge are from the Methodist Parish VBS, who made a memorial contribution to LeBonheur Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., and the Dixie Youth Baseball League Memorial Award.

Organ Donor Update: Of those who received Jay's organs after his death, we know of the condition of four. We would like to pass this information along to any who might be interested:

Three of the recipients were children—all girls. A 6-year-old from Knoxville, Tenn. received a kidney, a 15-year-old from St. Louis, MO received the heart and a 15-year-old from Memphis, Tenn. received the liver. All three of the girls are doing great and were able to return to school this year thanks to these organ transplants. A Memphis man—the father of seven—was the recipient of a kidney and he too is doing well. All of these successes are examples of how important it is to be an organ donor. As one saying expressed, "Remember, you can't take your organs with you to Heaven."

Cost-of-Living Adjustments For PERS

Cost-of-Living Adjustment (COLA) payments will be issued this month to 38,903 retirees of the Public Employee's Retirement System (PERS), the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol Retirement System and the Supplemental Legislative Retirement Plan.

The largest percentage COLA ever was approved by the PERS Board of Trustees in October.

State law requires that retirees and beneficiaries who have been receiving retirement benefits for at least one full fiscal year (July-June) receive a COLA equal to the increase in the consumer price index during the previous calendar year, with a maximum of 2.5% of annual benefits, for each fiscal year of retirement. The Board also has the discretion of adding up to 1.5% of annual benefits for each fiscal year of retirement, based upon excess earnings during the previous fiscal year.

The 2.5% was approved last spring due to a 2.7% increase in the consumer price index during

Researching A University's History

When it comes to history, there's nothing like reading the stories of people who lived it.

With that in mind, The University of Mississippi is asking that people contact its Sesquicentennial Office if they have old diaries or letters relating to the early years of the institution. Old photos and other memorabilia also are being sought, as well as oral histories.

Any information shared or loaned will be in good hands — those, in fact, of Dr. David Sansing, Ole Miss professor emeritus of history. He's undertaken the challenge of writing the history of the University to be published in 1998 for the conclusion of the ongoing Sesquicentennial celebration.

Thousands of Mississippi school children have learned the history of their state through the textbook Sansing co-authored, "Mississippi History Through Four Centuries," which is used in over 80 percent of the state's public schools. He is the author of a number of other books examining the history of the state, including "Making Haste Slowly: The Troubled History of Higher Education in Mississippi." He is a past president of the Mississippi Historical Society and past recipient of a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship.

Sansing has been researching the University for five months and describes the project as a "Herculean task" to do what he wants to do with the history in the amount of time that he has.

"I plan to supplement historical records with personal remembrances and anecdotal material to make this book readable and meaningful," he said. "That's how the people of this state can help me. There are letters and diaries in attics and trunks that could give a very personal view of early campus life."

If there is an author who can bring the University's history to life, Sansing is the person for the job, says Dr. Gloria Kellum, executive director of the University's Sesquicentennial. "The perfect choice for this historic project has accepted the job. When Dr. Sansing drops by the Sesquicentennial Office to share something he's unearthed in his research, he's absolutely captivating. His love of history is contagious. In addition to our graduates, I think all Mississippians will be intrigued with this book, as it will paint a fascinating picture of people who shaped higher education in this state," she said.

The Mississippi Legislature chartered Ole Miss in 1844, creating the first public institution of higher learning in the state. Four years later (1848), the University opened the doors of the new Lyceum to its first 80 students.

The historian isn't the first to tackle such a project. "A History of the University of Mississippi" — a narrative of Ole Miss from 1848 through November 1948 — was written by Dr. James Allen Cabaniss, a professor of history, for the University's Centennial.

As Sansing works to add the personal angle to his book, he said, "The most enjoyable part so far has been reading the publications produced by the students." Two Ole Miss student literary societies joined in 1875 to start publishing Mississippi Magazine, and students began publishing an annual in 1897.

Anyone with information — such as diaries, letters, photos, memorabilia, and personal recollections of events and people — pertaining to the early years of the University, particularly the 1800s, is encouraged to call the Sesquicentennial Office at (601) 232-5826.

Too Much Speed Can Be Costly

With considerable discussion about raising motor vehicle speed limits in states across the nation, the Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning is emphasizing that too much speed can be costly. In terms of lost lives, serious injuries and financial losses.

"For every 10 miles over 50 miles per hour, the chance of being killed or seriously injured in a crash is doubled," said Donald O'Cain, Public Safety Planning's executive director and governor's representative for highway safety, "and each year, the number of people killed in motor vehicle crashes in the United States is almost twice the number murdered."

Thirty-one percent of fatal crashes are speed-related, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, and in Mississippi this would translate into 245 lives lost last year.

"Obviously, the loss of lives and serious injuries are our greatest concerns," O'Cain said, "but motorists also should be aware that speed-related crash costs are estimated at $24 billion a year, which averages $44,660 per minute or $744 per second. More specifically, passenger automobiles use approximately 50 percent more fuel traveling at miles per hour than they do at 50 miles per hour, and, as the number of crashes increases, insurance premiums increase for motorists. Insurance companies cannot afford to honor a large increase in claims and, at the same time, not pass along these costs as increased premiums.

"A motorist might ask how speed contributes to more crashes," he noted. "The answer is that when a vehicle is traveling at a high rate of speed, the driver has less time to react to a hazard because the vehicle is traveling more distance in the same amount of time than it would at a lower rate. Also, the stopping distance of a vehicle traveling 70 miles per hour is longer than a football field."

"Probably most motorists want to reach their destination as soon as possible," O'Cain said, "but, if this requires traveling at a high rate of speed, motorists may encounter a long delay or perhaps never reach their destinations. The Division of Public Safety Planning urges all drivers to keep their mind as they travel on Mississippi roadways."

Report From Congress

By: Roger Wicker

While budget negotiations between the White House and Congress continue every day, there are a number of other reforms taking place in Washington. One example of the need for such change is the unwise policy that limits the annual amount senior citizens can earn between the ages of 65 and 70. Under current law, a senior citizen is penalized if they earn more than a set amount ($1,520 for 1996). For every dollar earned over this limit, the retiree loses one dollar in Social Security benefits.

Ironically, this earnings limit was instituted as a means to gradually bring seniors into the Social Security program over a period of time. However, the earnings limit amounts to poor government policy for several reasons.

First, the Social Security program was established to compensate seniors for lost earnings due to retirement and was originally intended to fully provide for every citizen 65 years and older. The earnings limit has forced seniors into dependence on the Social Security program and has violated the original charter of the Social Security system.

Secondly, this law counts only income from wages and does not consider income from stocks, bonds and other investments. As a result, the earnings limit has hurt seniors who rely on a job to make ends meet. In effect, the earnings limit cuts into the "golden years" of older Americans who can least afford it.

Third, this unwise law severely hinders our economy. Obviously, working seniors will continue to pay taxes and have more money in their pockets to spend. Also, when these experienced Americans are forced out of the workforce, many businesses are deprived of their advanced skills and strong work ethic. In short, our country is not making the best use of its God-given resources.

In addition, the current law discourages a healthy lifestyle for our senior citizens. At a time when the health of these Americans is at tremendous risk, the earnings limit effectively penalized older Americans who wish to remain productive and active.

In an effort to correct this misguided policy, on December 5 the House passed the Senior Citizens' Right to Work Act, H.R. 2684, by a recorded vote of 411 to 4. This long-overdue legislation would gradually raise the earnings limit for 65 to 69 year-old Americans to $14,000 for 1996 and to $30,000 by the year 2002. After the year 2002, the law would require that the limit automatically be raised as the average wage grows. Because raising the earnings limit will result in a net increase in federal spending, the legislation also includes responsible and bi-partisan cuts in the Washington bureaucracy.

In the end, this legislation is good public policy that will strengthen the Social Security program, provide a helping hand for middle to low-income seniors, bolster our economy and encourage a healthy lifestyle for at-risk older Americans. Passage of the Senior Citizen's Right to Work Act exemplified this new Congress' commitment to fundamental change in the way Washington conducts business. I am proud to be part of a Congress that is not only working to fulfill our promise to balance the budget, but also attacking government policies which hurt working Americans and make no sense.

I welcome your comments by writing to me at 206 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515, or by phoning me at (202)225-4306.

NEMCC STAFFERS PLAN EMPLOYEE CERTIFICATION PROGRAM IN ALCORN COUNTY

Northeast Mississippi Community College Skill Tech Center staff members Nadara Cole (1), work force specialist, and Tommye Walker, personal development specialist, recently met with representatives from ten Alcorn County industries to develop a pilot Employee Certification Program for the county. The program is a 40-hour training program for unemployed or underemployed individuals who meet entrance requirements. Two skills assessment and orientation sessions are scheduled for January 10 and 11 at Northeast's Extension Center in the Corinth's Industrial Park at 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to certify participants. For more information contact Cole at 601 720-7227 or Walker at 601 720-7204. Also pictured is Jimmy Rowland of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

Industrial Community Embraces Certified Employee Program

Businesses and industries in today's world market must be competitive not only in price and quality but in the abilities of the people. Local manufacturers have taken this lesson to heart not only by aggressively training their existing workers but also by demanding better informed and mentally focused candidates when interviewing potential new workers.

Representatives from ten Alcorn County industries met recently to discuss building an ongoing supply of informed and focused candidates for employment. Northeast Mississippi Community College's Skill Tech Center employees Nadara Cole, workforce specialist, and Tommye Walker, personal development specialist, presented the concept of the Certified Industrial Employee Program in addressing this obvious training need.

Certified Employee evening classes will meet January 15 - 26 from 4:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. daily. Day classes will run January 22 - 26 from 7 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily. All classes will be held at Northeast's Extension Center located in Corinth's Industrial Park.

Topics to be covered will include Self Esteem, Personal Skills, Communication, Attitude, Core Values, Work ethics, Workplace Safety; Economics, SPC Overview; Industrial Math, TQM Overview, Team Building, and Quality Assurance.

Individuals who complete the program will be guaranteed interviews by one or more of the participating businesses and industries, when employment opportunities arise.

According to Cole, the individual who takes advantage of this opportunity "will increase the chances of becoming employed because he will have already received training in the 'essentials' identified by specific industries and businesses in what they require.

"The skills will be transferable from industry to industry and will increase employment opportunities."

Walker added that individuals completing the certification process will have a competitive edge when participating companies are hiring. Employers will select from this pool of applicants first, thus giving them an opportunity to be considered for employment first, and most likely hired first.

Two skills assessment and orientation sessions are scheduled for January 10 and 11 at the Extension Center at 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to certify participants for the program.

Alcorn County industries participating include Automatic Machine Products; CMC; Caterpillar; Corinthian, Inc.; Developmental Industries; Intex; Leedo; Magnolia Hospital; Ringier America; and Timber Products. For more information contact Cole at 601-720-7227 or Walker at 601-720-7204.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

BENEVOLENCE TO THE STRANGER

THERE WERE CERTAIN CUSTOMS REGARDING STRANGERS AMONG THE HEBREWS THAT WERE CONSIDERED UNWRITTEN LAW IN REGARD TO THEIR SAFETY AND WELL BEING. A MAN IN A STRANGE TOWN, NEEDING LODGING FOR THE NIGHT, WOULD, BY CUSTOM, SEAT HIMSELF ON THE GROUND OF THE MARKETPLACE OR THE MAIN THOROUGHFARE AND WAIT FOR ONE OF THE NATIVES TO ISSUE AN INVITATION TO STAY THE NIGHT. THIS WAS INVARIABLY DONE SO THAT THE STRANGER WOULD NOT BECOME PREY FOR THIEVES. AN ILLUSTRATION OF THIS IS TO BE FOUND IN GEN. 24, WHERE ABRAHAM'S STEWARD IS SENT TO FIND A BRIDE FOR ABRAHAM'S SON, ISAAC, AND IS GREETED BY LABAN WHO EXCLAIMS, 'COME IN THOU BLESSED OF THE LORD, WHEREFOR STANDEST THOU WITHOUT? FOR I HAVE PREPARED THE HOUSE, AND ROOM FOR THE CAMELS.'

THIS DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE BUSINESSES WHO ENCOURAGE ALL OF US TO ATTEND WORSHIP SERVICES.

Sardis Church News

By: Ova Reno

When your out-go exceeds your income, then your up-keep will be your down-fall.

What a beautiful Christmas day it started out to be, then clouds came over the sun and the wind seemed to become colder.

I spent the day in the nursing home with Herman. He needed more care than I could give him. Our daughter Jean Johnson and granddaughter Shalom, came and stayed a while. He is in the Tishomingo Care Center in the old hospital building.

Do you know the first time in the Bible where the coming of Jesus is mentioned? I found it in the 4th chapter of Genesis, third verse. Anyway, Jesus has already been, is always here and shall always be. Bless His Holy name, Amen.

Bro. John brought his message Sunday morning from the book of Luke 1:26-38. The Proclamation of the Birth of Jesus Christ. Verse 31. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a Son, and shalt call His name JESUS. Isaiah 9:6, Zechariah 9:9, John 12:15, Luke 2:11,12. Jesus was born, He lived on earth 33 years, He was crucified, He was resurrected and nor, very soon, He will return. Are you ready? Or are you waiting for more convenient time as Felix wanted in Acts 24:25. I wonder if Felix was ever saved, I don't believe he was. He was a very sinful man.

We didn't have services Sunday night as every one wanted to spend time with their children and grandchildren, that had traveled so far to be with their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents.

All seven children of Bro. Milton and Corrine Phifer's were at home for the first time in a long while. All eight grandchildren, and one great-grandson. I got to see him, he sure was sweet. They had a good turn-out for their Golden Wedding Anniversary and received several nice gifts, and cards. We wish them many more.

and received several nice gifts, and cards. We wish them many more.

All the Ashley children but two, attended the Ashley reunion at Golden City Hall this past week. There was plenty of food and everyone enjoyed it. That was Bro. John's wife's people.

I received a telephone call from Herman's brother's wife, Louise Reno. She has moved from her country home to a Condo almost in the heart of Atlanta, GA. Said there sure were a lot of people there.

Christmas cards came from here, there, and everywhere. They are my friends and kin-folks, God bless them, I love them all.

Had a visit from Herman's youngest sister, Elnora Singleton, her daughter Sharon and two sons, from Kentucky. They didn't get to stay long.

Amanda Roberts visited with me and Herman in the Nursing Home Christmas morning. She is always a welcome visitor.

"Aunt" Letha Taylor passes away Christmas morning in the Nursing Home. I asked her, a long time ago, if I could call her "Aunt". and she said yes. She went to be with Jesus and will be waiting for us where there will be no sorrow, no tears, and most of all, no dying. Please Lord, bless her loved ones left behind and give peace to their hearts.

Preparing For The Flu Season

Traditionally a time of stuffy heads and the sniffles, December also marks the beginning of the flu season.

Though many will escape its grip, the unfortunate will fall victim between now and February or March to the dreaded virus that is a close cousin of the common cold.

"The main difference between the common cold and the flu lies in the symptoms," according to Karen Pittman, health educator for the Longest Student Health Center at Mississippi State University.

"The flu is usually accompanied by high fever, body aches, fatigue, a barking cough, and possibly a sore throat and stuffy nose," she said.

Pittman says fever can be categorized in one of two ways and should not always be a cause for concern. "Depending on whether it's low or high grade, a fever is not necessarily bad because it's your body's way of fighting off viral infections. However, a high-grade fever of over 101 degrees should be treated."

According to Pittman, there are several ways of avoiding a viral infection. "The flu is airborne, which makes it a very contagious virus. It can be spread via sneezing or coughing, or by contact with environmental surfaces."

Since the flu is such a communicable virus, good hygiene and good eating and drinking habits are very important. Pittman says hand washing, as well as the avoidance of eating and drinking from dishes used or handled by the infected, are good ideas.

According to Pittman, there also are ways to strengthen resistance to infection.

"If you're really stressed out, your resistance tends to be lower," she said. "Explore different relaxation techniques to reduce stress. Also, steer clear of drugs and alcohol, since they can lower your body's resistance as well."

The most effective way of preventing infection, said Pittman, is a flu vaccine. "A vaccination is probably the best and, in order for a vaccine to be most effective, it should be given six to eight weeks before flu season. Obviously, we have passed that point, but that doesn't mean that you shouldn't get the vaccine."

find themselves infected by the virus, Pittman offers this advice:

Get plenty of bed rest. "Bed rest is very important. When you're suffering from the flu, your body becomes very fatigued. That fatigue signals the need for your body to regroup so that it can begin warding off the virus."

Drink lots of fluids. "In the process of fighting off viral infections, our bodies tend to become dehydrated. Replenish your body's liquids by drinking plenty of water and juice. Caffeinated beverages are OK in moderation."

Take other supportive measures. "Treat your other symptoms appropriately: Use ice packs for fever, vitamin C for overall health and acetaminophen-based medication for body aches. It is extremely important that people who are suffering from the flu, especially children and teenagers, be wary of the possible effects of the use of aspirin-based products during illness. Aspirin is associated with Reye's syndrome, and often fatal disease which is characterized by neurological disorders."

"The general principles of staying healthy certainly apply in preventing and treating the flu," Pittman continued. "Good eating habits, plenty of exercise and other health-minded activities will help your body maintain an optimum level of functioning."

Laid-off Workers May Qualify For Added Benefits

Laid-off garment workers on opposite ends of the state may qualify for additional unemployment insurance benefits, according to Charles Ballard, director of unemployment insurance for the Mississippi Employment Security Commission. Employees of Woodville Apparel Corporation in Woodville and Rienzi Manufacturing Inc. of Rienzi, both companies which manufactured for Fruit of the Loom, have been approved for Trade Act assistance benefits.

According to Ballard, former employees of either of these companies may be eligible to draw extra unemployment benefits and services. The plants produced men's, women's and children's underwear and other knit wear.

A trade Act petition approved on November 30, 1995, covers Woodville Apparel workers who were laid off or had hours reduced after October 10, 1994, Ballard said. A second petition covers Rienzi Manufacturing workers who were laid off or had hours reduced after October 9, 1994.

If you think you might be eligible for these benefits, contact the nearest Unemployment Insurance office of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

The federal Trade Act provides additional weeks of unemployment benefits to people who have exhausted regular benefits. As much as 26 more weeks of benefits may be provided for an individual to complete an approved training course.

The Trade Act helps workers who were laid off or have suffered a cutback because of the competition of foreign imports. Areas affected by these imports include the oil and gas, garment, electronics and automobile industries.

Card of Thanks

The family of Rhonda Welch would like to thank you for all your prayers, calls, cards, flowers, food and visits. Your loving care and concern were of comfort to us in our loss. Our special thanks go to Bro. Gene Tennison, Dr. Ralph Culp and Tishomingo Baptist Church for the friendship and words that meant so much to us. To Deaton's Funeral Home for their help and extra effort, thank you. Rhonda always loved all of you (her family and friends) and looked forward to coming home to Tishomingo.

Report From Congress

By: Rep. Roger Wicker

At the request of the House leadership, I recently went to Bosnia with a Congressional delegation to assess first hand the situation facing our troops. As a result, I still believe that America does not have enough of a vital interest in the region to merit the deployment of U.S. ground forces.

On this trip I visited some of the most troubled spots in the region. The delegation travelled to the capital cities of Zagreb, Sarajevo and Belgrade. I was also able to visit at length with the U.S. commanders in charge of this mission and our troops staged in Germany, who were preparing for deployment to Bosnia.

The deployment of more than 100,000 U.S. troops is being based on a peace agreement signed by the warring factions last week in Paris. President Clinton promised this level of U.S. forces to assist our NATO allies in enforcing the peace plan.

I believe the deployment of U.S. soldiers to the region presents monumental problems which will make it very difficult for the mission to succeed. The Bosnians, Serbs and Croats each have a very different expectation about what the U.S. role will actually be.

The peace accord calls for stabilization of military strength for the three nations according to a ratio agreed to by all sides. The Bosnian federation leaders told me they expect the U.S. to implement this provision by equipping, arming and training the Bosnian military. However, President Slobodan Milosevic of Serbia

First National Loans-Office Of The Year
Parker, Manager Of The Year
(2nd Year In A Row!)

NATIONAL LOANS, INC. in Holly Springs, Mississippi is proud to announce that NATIONAL LOANS in Iuka, has been chosen OFFICE OF THE YEAR. Members of the Iuka office are Anna Parker, Branch Manager, Dionne Lambert, Melanie Johnson, and Wendy Linkous.

The FIRST NATIONAL LOANS office was chosen from twenty six remote branches for outstanding growth and performance for the year ending September 1995.

Also, being honored for the second year in a row was Anna Parker, as Manager of the Year. This award was based on her outstanding leadership and performance in this office.

J. R. Hinson, Executive vice-president of NATIONAL LOANS, INC. stated, "The members of the Iuka office have done a superb job and we look forward to following their continued growth and excellent performance, all of these women are a vital part of the success of this office and we are very happy to have them as part of our team."

made it clear that he expects the agreed upon ration in military strength to be reached totally through mutual disarmament.

There are other significant problems which I discovered during my trip regarding U.S. troop deployment in Bosnia. The warring parties - particularly the Bosnians - expect a massive infusion of American foreign aid in addition to military involvement. At a time when we are struggling to balance our own budget, I am opposed to sending foreign aid to Bosnia.

President Clinton has promised our troops will be in the region for only one year. However, I have the clear impression from my discussions with the leaders of the Bosnians, Serbs and Croats that they all expect us to be there for more than a year.

My colleagues and I pressed President Milosevic on the subject of whether he will cooperate in bringing indicted Bosnian-Serb war criminals to trial. His unwillingness to commit to such cooperation presents a major problem in my judgment.

The peace accord stipulates internal borders within the former Yugoslavian region. The agreement requires some of the parties to relocate based on the newly established lines. The fact that former combatants are burning homes in order to keep other ethnic groups from living there indicates to me that many individuals in the region are not ready to accept the terms of the peace agreement. Also, the devastation of Sarajevo from four bitter years of fighting has displaced countless thousands.

As a result of my trip I still have grave reservations about the policy of sending our young servicemen into Bosnia. I believe there are other alternatives which are better suited to the situation than sending in U.S. ground forces. Our nation can still provide NATO leadership through air and sea lift support without making American soldiers a target for warring factions who are not satisfied with the peace agreement.

While I am opposed to the President's decision, now that our U.S. soldiers are on the ground in Bosnia, I will do everything I can to support them and make sure they have adequate supplies and ammunition. Our nation must come together to stand strongly in support of our armed forces while they carry out their duties.

I continue to be interested in your opinions on these and other issues before Congress. You may write me at 206 Cannon Building, Washington, D.C. 20515, or phone me at (202)225-4306.

James D. Quin Recipient of Thomas H. MacDonald Memorial Award

James D. Quin, deputy director/chief engineer for the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT), is the recipient of the 1995 Thomas H. MacDonald Memorial Award, according to Robert L. Robinson, MDOT executive director.

The award, which was established in 1957 by the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO), recognizes, on a national level, outstanding achievements in the fields of highway administration, engineering and research. Quin received the award at the annual AASHTO meeting in Norfolk, Va.

Quin is being honored by AASHTO for his many contributions throughout his career to highway transportation, including his leadership as a charter member of the Executive Committee of the Strategic Highway Research Program; as Chairman of the National Cooperative Highway Research Program 20-7 Panel; as a member of the AASHTO Associated General Contractor/American Road & Transportation Builders Association Joint Committee; as past chairman of the Designated Chief Highway Engineers Committee; and as past vice-chairman of AASHTO's Standing Committee on Highways.

Quin, 60 is a University of Mississippi Graduate with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering, and possesses a sterling employment history that began with the Department in 1958 as an assistant project engineer. Throughout the years, as his talents and abilities were recognized, Quin was consistently promoted upwards through the ranks to his current position of deputy director/chief engineer, which he has held for the past 18 years.

Quin is noted for his ability to work with others as a team player. He currently represents Mississippi in the Corridor 18 Feasibility Study, a proposed major transportation link expected to facilitate trade with Mexico and Canada. He also serves on the statewide Transportation Plan Advisory Council, which determines the direction of all modes of transportation in Mississippi for years to come by facilitating a working partnership between county, city, state and federal governments.

Over the years, Quin has been a major player in passing significant Mississippi highway legislation, including the 1969 Highway Program, the 1972 Program and the 1987 Four-Lane Highway Program.

Proper Disposal of Antifreeze

Antifreeze (ethylene or propylene glycol) used as a freeze protection in water cooled engines is changed periodically because the rust inhibitor breaks down. The basic compound is still present in its original form. It should not be dumped on the ground or left in containers so that pets can consume it. The glycol will crystallize in the kidneys resulting in death of the animal. According to the manufacturer, proper disposal is by flushing with plenty of water into a sewer or septic system. Since antifreeze is biodegradable when diluted, the bacteria in the septic system will break the compound down to harmless carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. Antifreeze should not be poured into a storm drain, since it may quickly be carried directly into a water supply before it has a chance to break down.

Firewood

Check firewood for cockroaches, beetles, spiders, etc., BEFORE bringing into the house. Hit two pieces together to "jar" insects off. Don't spray firewood with insecticides because poisonous fumes may be given off when wood is burned. For the most part, pests living in firewood pose no threat to people, furniture, or to structures. However, most people are opposed to their presence. When stored outside, treat the ground beneath the wood with an approved insecticide for control of termites.
