Alexander was apprehended in Murray Co. Georgia last Friday, said Tishomingo County Chief Deputy Neil Edmondson.

The truck was recovered in Whitfield Co., GA, and the only damage was a broken headlight, said Barnes.

Shoals Man Leads Deputy On High Speed Chase On Natchez Trace

by Pamela McRae

A Muscle Shoals man is in custody in the Tishomingo County Jail after leading the Chief Deputy and a Natchez Trace Park Ranger on a high speed chase on the Trace and Highway 25 Monday afternoon.

Tishomingo County Chief Deputy Neil Edmondson said Mark Renegar, 41, of Muscle Shoals was pursued by a Natchez Trace Park Ranger when seen driving on the Trace. The Florence Police Department had issued a lookout for the car because they had charges on Renegar for prescription drug forgery.

Renegar failed to stop for the ranger, and led him down the Trace into Tishomingo County.

"That was where he went wrong, he never should have come into Tishomingo County," said Edmondson.

Edmondson joined the pursuit and attempted to bring Renegar to a "rolling stop" by blocking one lane of traffic, but on two attempts Renegar tried to run Edmondson off the road and eluded capture.

The chase continued off the Trace onto Highway 25, where he was eventually stopped just north of Belmont.

Edmondson said the chase reached speeds of 120 mph in a 50 mph zone at some points.

Renegar is in custody at the Tishomingo County Jail on charges of aggravated assault on a police officer with a motor vehicle and several misdemeanor traffic violations. After meeting $7,500 bond, he will be extradited to the Florence Police Department to face the forgery charges.

Prosser Company Celebrates Grand Opening of New Assembly Facility at Yellow Creek Port

by Pamela McRae

The Prosser Company, an international modular construction company, celebrated the grand opening of its new modular assembly facility at Yellow Creek Port last Friday.

A crowd of more than 70 attended the reception at the newly completed facility at the port on the Tennessee-Tombigbee

Waterway north of Iuka, and were then treated to an afternoon cruise on the river to tour the scenic area.

Local businessmen and government leaders toured the facility, which consists of a large assembly area with ceilings of more than 40 feet, and several offices for engineering, administrative and management personnel.

At the facility, the crowd was treated to snacks and heard from Joe Prosser, one of two second-generation Prosser brothers that run the company their father and uncle formed in 1960. Both founders, as well as several other family members were present.

Joe Prosser explained that Prosser builds modular chemical plants, and went on to explain that modular construction is simply building a process plant somewhere other than its final destination. He explained that they use an indoor assembly-line type concept and erect the various components of a process plant for on-site testing, then take it back apart, and ship the components to the final destination for permanent installation on a site that has been prepared at the same time the plant is being constructed, which greatly reduces the whole construction schedule.

By building indoors, the company is able to eliminate many variables, like weather delays, which traditionally add risk and uncertainty to construction projects.

The benefits of having this site, second brother Jim Prosser said in his address, is that they can utilize both barges on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway and railcars on the rail spur that comes into the port area to transport the large components.

"The people here have a good work ethic and are good at working," Jim Prosser said of the local workforce, which played a big part in the location choice.

A prepared release said that during the balance of 1996 Prosser expects to employ more than 50 workers continuously. The nature of modular plant construction is one of variable demand, which means that sometimes the shop will be very busy and sometimes the shop will be slow.

State Representative Ricky Cummings was on hand to welcome the new company, and the Prossers said that he and several others had been helpful in getting the Prosser Company located here.

Prosser literature states that they have more than 3,500 installations in 19 different countries, from a $10,000 fertilizer blender in New Jersey to a $40 million, five-plant complex in South America.

Prosser had operated a temporary facility in Columbus, Mississippi since 1990, but now that operation will move to the Yellow Creek Port site.

Iuka Baptist Church Welcomes New Pastor

by Pamela McRae

Iuka Baptist Church's new pastor is busy visiting and getting to know all his congregation.

About three weeks ago, Rev. Jim Manley began his ministry at Iuka Baptist, the largest church in the county. Now he is spending lots of time in his white Ford LTD going to visit those in his congregation.

Iuka Baptist has an average attendance of 250-300, but carries more than 700 on their membership list. Church members pray that this new beginning can pull back a lot of families that are not active, said church secretary Debbie Murrah.

Bro. Jim came from an 11-year pastorate at Cason Baptist Church in Amory, Mississippi. Both he and his wife, Ann are originally from Jackson, Tennessee. Ann is an elementary school teacher.

They have three daughters, Karen, Kathy and Kristi.

Karen is married to Sydney Kozlowitz and they live in Amory with their daughter, Whitney. Kathy is a junior at Union University in Jackson, Tennessee, and Kristi is a senior at Amory

Rev. Jim Manley

High School.

"I'm looking forward to a real active ministry," said Bro. Jim. "We feel like there is a good opportunity to serve the Lord here, and not only minister to our church members but to the whole community."

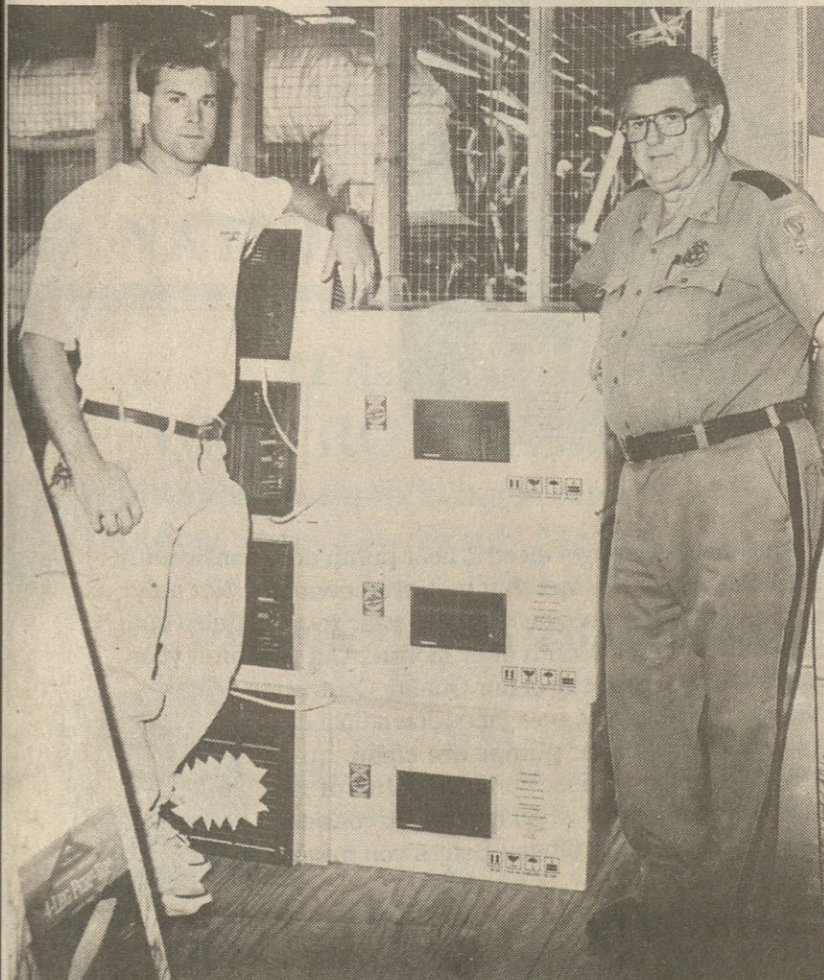

Manley received his education at Jackson State Community College in Jackson, TN and New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

Corinth Man Caught Taking Air Conditioners From Wal-Mart

by Pamela McRae

A Corinth man was apprehended Sunday while allegedly stealing the third of three air conditioners from the Iuka Wal-Mart.

According to Iuka Police Chief Amos Bates, about 6:15 Sunday evening, July 21, Claudius Shane Gurley, 36, of Corinth, was observed by a Wal-Mart customer placing two of the $297 units in his pickup truck and driving off without paying.

Wal-Mart Air Conditioners Recovered - Wal-Mart Assistant Manager Chris Rutledge and Iuka Police Chief Amos Bates with the recovered merchandise.

Tishomingo County Sheriff's Department Investigator Steve Vatalaro was in Wal-Mart at the time and put the call into the police radio dispatcher. Iuka Police Department units responded to the call to look for a red-haired man driving a dark blue Nissan pickup truck.

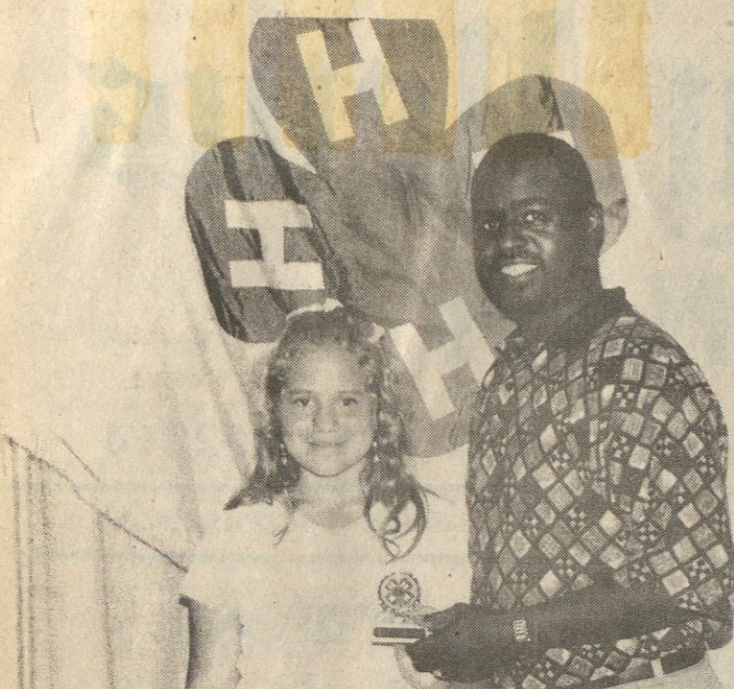

Chief Amos Bates said after hearing the radio call he met the truck driving down Business Highway 25 and turned around to follow it to Wal-Mart. When he and officers Anita Mitchell and J.C. Ledgewood arrived at the scene, Wal-Mart employees were detaining the man, who had apparently returned to Wal-Mart to get a third unit after taking the other two off the premises, according to Iuka Police Department reports.

The almost $900 in merchandise has been recovered and returned to Wal-Mart.

Life Insurance

Insurance helps you plan for the unknown. Life insurance, which is one form of insurance, is used for paying bills you acquire before death or as a protection for your dependents. Life insurance can also be used as a form of forced savings or as equity for loans.

There are three basic types of life insurance: term, whole life, and endowment. Each type pays a set amount of money to the beneficiaries at the time of death.

Term insurance is the least expensive type of life insurance and is most popular with young families. Protection provided by term insurance is for a limited time, such as a year, and is then renewable at the set amount of payment. The payment may rise with age. If a term policy is not renewed or if payments are not paid on time, the policy is dropped. Term insurance does not have value at the end of the term designated.

Sometimes a term insurance policy is used to insure a mortgage or other costly contract, should the owner die before the contract is paid. Some term policies are also convertible. This feature allows you to trade the term policy for a whole life or endowment policy before the end of the conversion period.

Whole life insurance includes a savings plan with insurance protection. As long as the policy terms are followed, protection continues for life. Some whole life policies have cash value that can either be borrowed or cashed in. Some of these policies continue for a set period of time, such as 20 years or to age 65. At the end of the time, the policy is "paid up" so that no more payments are necessary. Whole life policies can also be used as collateral on a loan.

Endowment insurance gives a sum of money or income to the holder of the policy at a set time. If the policy holder dies, the money goes to a beneficiary.

House Passes Historic Welfare Reform Package: Bill Places Emphasis On Work, Personal Responsibility

The house of Representatives has passed historic legislation that replaces the federal government's failed welfare system with a program that stresses the work ethic and encourages personal responsibility.

The original purpose of welfare was to provide a temporary helping hand to individuals and families experiencing financial hard times. But over the past 30 years, the program has evolved into a way of life for millions, trapping them in a system that offers little hope for escape or opportunity to share in the American dream.

This welfare reform bill is built on five strong pillars, but the centerpiece of the plan is a solid emphasis on work. For the first time ever, able-bodied welfare recipients will be required to work for their benefits. Adults receiving welfare must work within two years or lose benefits, and lifetime benefits will be limited to five years.

States will also be given the authority and resources to track down absent parents and collect the $34 billion in child support that goes unpaid each year. Another important part of the personal responsibility component is a national family cap. If they choose, states could stop payment of additional welfare benefits for those who have more children while already on welfare.

Non-citizens will no longer be eligible for welfare benefits under this plan, nor will felons in state and local jails be able to collect checks. This provision alone will save taxpayers $181 million over six years.

Passing welfare reform will save $60 billion over the next six years. The savings is an important benefit, but the best thing about this legislation is that offers a brighter future for those on welfare today, especially the children. For the first time in three decades, a program will be in place to move these families up and out of the system and to become productive members of society.

that provide incentives to lift the poor out of this cycle of poverty. They will no longer have to come to Washington to seek federal waivers for their programs.

This measure emphasizes personal responsibility to halt the rising illegitimacy rate, which stands at 50 percent in today's welfare families. To reverse this trend, efforts will be increased to establish paternity and make fathers pay child support. Mothers will be encouraged to identify the father or face the risk of a reduced benefit.

Aiming And Focusing

The integration between aiming and focusing skills keeps us in a happy balance. Aiming tells us where something is. Focusing gives the brain a clear image so we can see what it is. Aiming is controlled by the voluntary muscles. You want to look east — you look east. Focusing is directed by the involuntary system. Your eyes focus automatically on an object and you see it clearly and sharply. If the two are not operating smoothly together, the result can be a combination of difficulty and stress.

At approximately age one, these two systems line up, but one must allow the other a certain bit of freedom. If the linkage is too sloppy (one system way ahead of the other), you are likely to be disorganized in thinking and acting. Conversely, if the gears are too tightly jammed together (one interferes with the smooth functioning of the other), this causes friction and discomfort. People with this problem will often avoid doing close work, or become irritable when they do.

What You Need To Know About...Canine Cough

Canine cough is a highly contagious infectious disease of the upper respiratory tract of the dog. Also termed infectious canine tracheobronchitis, this disease is caused primarily by the bacterium, Bordetella bronchiseptica, and the canine parainfluenza virus. Like the common cold in humans, the organisms that cause canine cough are spread through coughing and sneezing. Your dog can catch the disease simply by being in close proximity to an infected dog. Training kennels, humane societies, pet shops, boarding kennels, dog shows, veterinary hospitals, grooming salons or your local park are just some of the places where your dog may come in contact with this debilitating disease.

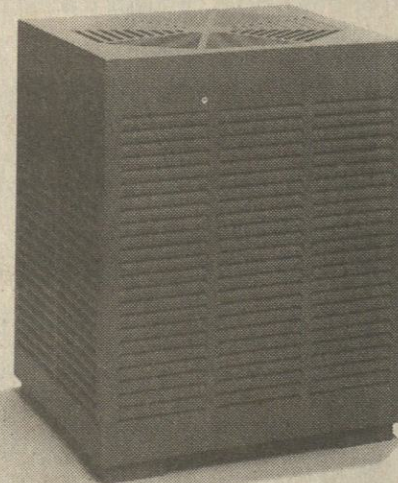

Initially the infective organisms colonize and irritate the lining of the upper respiratory tract. Coughing, sneezing and retching, often accompanied by a nasal discharge are the common clinical signs of canine cough. The cough is usually described as a deep, hacking cough and can be quite persistent, many times keeping both you and your dog awake all night. In some cases, dogs may run a fever, have a decreased appetite, and demonstrate signs of depression. These clinical signs can last from a few days to several weeks depending on the severity of the disease.

Several different treatment regimens exist to treat canine cough. Antibiotics, cough suppressants, and anti-inflammatory drugs are often used alone or in combination to treat this disease. Because of the resiliency of the organisms that cause canine cough, response to treatment can be unpredictable and prolonged treatment regimens are often employed to bring this disease under control.

Vaccination serves as our best means to prevent canine cough. Different vaccine options do exist for your dog. The vaccine starts to provide protection at the site of infection as early as 48 hours after being administered. Injectable vaccines that work through your dog's bloodstream also exist; however, these vaccines require multiple shots over several weeks to build up long-term protection against canine cough.

See your veterinarian and ask about vaccinations for this disease.

Mother you could do anything
(or so I always thought)
You would sew my dress, and it would look
Just like it was store bought.

From nothing much, you would make a pie
And with your magic touch
It looked and taste "O" so good
Wish I could do as much.

And if you never had the time
To stop and tie a bow
Peel an apple, kiss a hurt
You never let me know.

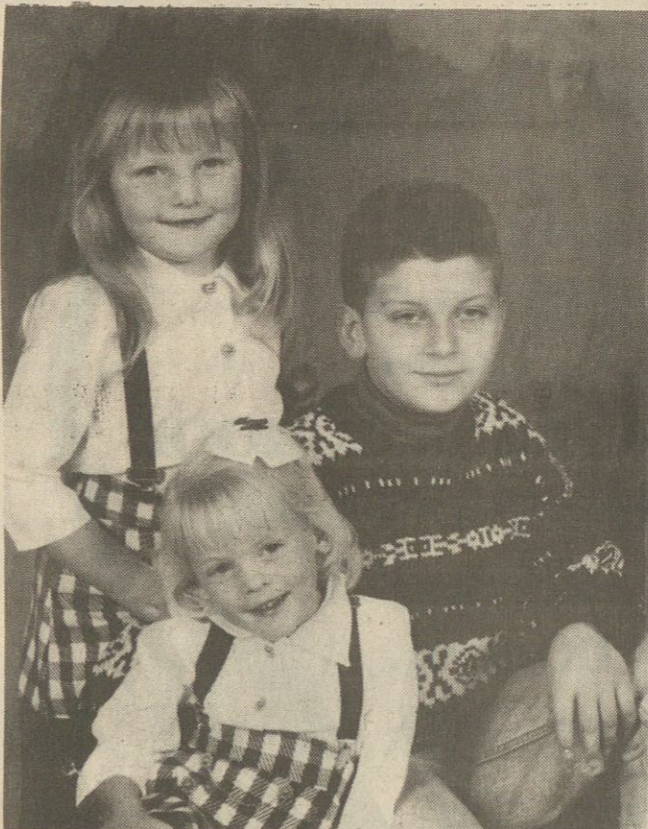

When I was sick
And confined to my bed
You sat right beside me
With your hand upon my head.

You always tried to ease my pain
And dry away my tears
Oh, if I only had you now
To soothe my grown-up years.

Oh, how I wish for you
To brighten up my day
But God, came and took you
On earth you could not stay.

I've asked God for a portion now
A smidgen, just a tad
Of patience, love and wisdom like my mother had.

Herman spent a while in the hospital but was carried back to the nursing home Monday morning. He is doing much better but is kinda weak.

Have you ever been depressed? I imagine everyone has at one time or another. In our Sunday School lesson we learned of a man that gained victory over depression and also told us whom to turn to.

Elijah: "Victory Over Depression". The main characters; Ahab a king; Jezebel a idol worshiper and Elijah a prophet of God. Elijah has just returned from killing a great number of the prophets of Jezebel. She sends him word that he will be slain just as they were. Elijah feels so alone and doesn't think there is anyone to help him, so he flees from Jezebel. But like all humans that flee before the Lord, he goes the wrong way and God has to straighten him out. But he sure cured Elijah's depression. So He also will cure ours. Text: I Kings 19:1-4,14. Also read II Corinthians 4: 8,9,15-18.

Central Truth of Lesson: Following God's instructions brings you out of depression.

Sunday night Bro. John took his message from the Book of Acts 9: 17-20. Verse 20. And straightway he preached Christ in the Synagogues that His is the Son of God. Read it all.

Devotional: "The Lord is my Rock". II Samuel 22: 1-4. Verse 2. And he said, the Lord is my Rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer. Read it all.

Tishomingo
Homemakers Travel
To Tupelo

The Tishomingo Homemaker volunteers Club met in Tishomingo on Thursday night, July 11, and from there traveled to Tupelo, Mississippi for an evening of good food and fellowship.

Upon their arrival in Tupelo, Mrs. Johnnie Strickland joined them after completing her nursing shift at the North Mississippi Medical Center.

Inside the Golden Corral, after everyone had seated, Ms. Katie Strickland gave an inspiring devotion on "A Passion For Integrity" based on the scripture Genesis 39:9, and then Ms. Shirley Thorne said the blessing.

By this time, everyone was getting hungry and ready to "dig in". First it was a trip to the salad bar, then back for the main course, and, of course, we couldn't leave without sampling at least part of the desserts.

Ms. Eva Mae Strickland read the thought of the month: "True friends are like diamonds, precious and rare. False ones like autumn leaves; found everywhere."

Club members were encouraged to attend the Tishomingo County Homemaker Volunteers Outing on July 13 at the Pickwick Landing Restaurant.

Of course, pictures were taken throughout the evening to be placed in the club's scrapbook.

Everyone reported a good time and arrived back in Tishomingo, probably weighing a few pounds more than when they left.

Others to enjoy this special occasion, not already mentioned, were: Mrs. Kathy Byram, Mrs. Willard Strickland, Ms. Louise Puckett, Mrs. Gail Strickland, Mrs. Kay Jerden, and Ms. Michelle Strickland. Of course, our outing would not have been the same without Katie!

Our club was, indeed, well represented at the Tishomingo County Homemaker Volunteers Outing on July 13th at the Pickwick Landing Restaurant. Those from our club to enjoy the good food and fellowship there were Ms. Eva Mae Strickland, Mrs. Kathy Byram, Ms. Michelle Strickland, Ms. Louise Puckett, Mrs. Gail Strickland, and Ms. Shirley Thorne.

We were all glad to have Mrs. Barbara Guinn, our recently retired Extension Home Economist, with us for our county outing. We understand she is really enjoying her retirement, but we all miss her and are going to expect her to visit us often!

Our next meeting will be Thursday night, August 8, at 6:30 p.m. at A & B Bar-B-Q in Tishomingo. Anyone is welcome to come meet with us, regardless of age, sex, race, or color. Ask any club member, and they will tell you that we work hard on our projects through the year, but we also have times of fun and always good fellowship. Come try us, you might like us!

Slats and Sissy

By: Jim Oaks

A statement last summer by my late uncle, Fletcher Oaks, kindled a desire for me to learn more about former Olympic hurdler Glen "Slats" Hardin.

You wouldn't have any trouble finding out about him. He was one beautiful athlete," my uncle said of Hardin.

The quote came when I interviewed my uncle about the Mississippi high school state track meet in 1930, a year when my father had run in the meet for Tishomingo Agricultural High School.

Although I did not know about Hardin before talking with Uncle Fletcher, I have learned a lot since.

Hardin, from the heart of the Delta, was a junior at Greenwood High School in 1930 when he entered three individual events at the state meet, the quarter-mile, half-mile and 220-yard hurdles.

He won them all.

"Slats Hardin, Greenwood, broke three records and was high point man," the Jackson Daily Clarion-Ledger reported on May 4, 1930. "The tall blonde boy ran the 220-yard hurdles in 25 flat. The old record was 25.6. He stepped the quarter-mile in 50 and the half-mile in 1:59, clipping 5 seconds off the latter record.

The two-day state meet was held on the A & M College (Mississippi State) track. My uncle was a student at State that year, but had missed the first day of competition, a day when Dad had been among those handily beaten by Hardin in the half-mile, but a very close second to another Delta area runner, Mony Helms, in his mile race.

Uncle Fletcher witnessed the second day of competition, the day Hardin won his third race, the quarter-mile.

"He (Hardin) was a tall, lanky, long-legged boy," Uncle Fletcher said.

"There was a boy I went to school with at Progress (a high school in south Mississippi), Jack Burnett. Jack had won the 100-yard and the 220. Hardin had won the hurdles and the half-mile. So these two men were both running the quarter on the second day.

"When they got on the line, Jack had to make a 'to-do' about it. He had to turn around and shake hands with Hardin before the race started, as if Hardin needed some luck."

"Now Jack ran a good race, but he was no match for Glenn Hardin. He (Burnett) had to run hard. Glenn Hardin was just loping out there - that was the easiest looking stride - just like a deer running."

Since learning about Hardin from my uncle, I had been curious about the origin of the nickname, "Slats". This week I learned the answer from one of Hardin's school mates, Tabb Johnston, who still lives in Greenwood. Johnston was two years behind Hardin at Greenwood High, and fondly recalls his affable schoolmate.

"Slats' Daddy was a farmer, so they lived out of town," the 82-year-old retired Coca Cola manager said. "They were not poor, but they had to work hard for a living."

"He had the nickname 'Slats' before he came to high school in Greenwood. They called him that because of his long legs."

"He wasn't just good in track. He was a half-back on our 1930 state championship football team. I saw every game that year. Once Slats turned the corner around the end, there was no stopping him. We won every game that year and only had six points scored on us.

"Two players from that team had outstanding college careers. One was Riley Smith who became an All-American at Alabama, and the other was George Pillow, one of the few men to letter in four sports at Mississippi State.

"Slats went to LSU thinking he would run track and play football, but when they saw how good he was in track, they made him stick to that."

In the late '20s and early '30s, LSU dominated the old Southern Conference in track, so it was a logical choice of schools for Hardin.

"I only saw Slats one time after he left Greenwood for LSU," Paul Thomas, another member of the Greenwood High's undefeated '30 football team said. "He tried to help me get a football scholarship to LSU, but I was just too small for college ball.

"I sure remember some good times with him when he was in high school. He was two years ahead of me, but I ran on our mile relay team with him. His senior year we were the best in the state, and made a trip to Atlanta to run in the Southern Relays.

"There are not many of us left from that 1930 team," the 84-year-old pulling guard concluded.

While Hardin was at LSU he won four NCAA individual titles, the 440 yards in '33 and '34 and the 220-yards low hurdles in the same two years. His senior year at LSU, '35, he finished second in the hurdles at the NCAA championships to an Ohio State runner who was one year away from everlasting fame. That runner was Jesse Owens.

Perhaps the most memorable college year for Hardin was 1933. After winning the first SEC meet by a wide margin, LSU coach Bernie Moore took five men to the NCAA meet where they proceeded to upset heavily-favored Southern California for the team title. In addition to Hardin's two wins, Jack Torrance won the shot put and was third in the discus; Matt Gordy won the pole vault; Al Moreau took second in the 120-yard high hurdles; and Buddy Blair placed fourth in the javelin.

Neither Mississippi State nor Ole Miss was happy when Hardin chose LSU over the two state schools.

"Daddy once told me about the steak dinner the LSU coaches bought him when they visited Greenwood," Hardin's daughter Linda Caston said. "He said he knew after that meal that he was going to LSU, and he was determined to run hard once he got there. He said he didn't want to ever pick cotton again."

When Hardin left his father's farm outside Greenwood in the fall of 1931 to join Bernie Moore's LSU Tiger team, he had become one of Mississippi's greatest high school track performers in state history. But as wide as this 21-year-old's running reputation was in the South, it is doubtful that even his most optimistic supporters expected that in less than a year he would set a world record for the 400 meter hurdles.

Even though Hardin could have contributed significantly to the Tiger's track team in the spring of '32 college freshmen were not eligible in those days. Not that LSU needed any help. They won the last Southern conference meet in Atlanta that year by a comfortable margin.

But with the Olympics in Los Angeles that summer, Hardin had another goal that did not exclude freshmen.

In high school his best events had been the quarter-mile and the 220-yard hurdles. Although he had never competed in the 400 meter hurdles until the summer of '32, he began a series of races to attempt to qualify for the U.S. Olympic team in that event. He was a natural for it.

He won his first 400 meter hurdle race in 54.0 in New Orleans on June 4. Next, at the Central semi-final tryout in Chicago, he improved to 53.4. After reaching the finals through two heat races in the Olympic Trials at Stanford on July 15-16, he won to make the U.S. Olympic team in only his fifth hurdle race at this distance. The Olympics followed in Los Angeles in two weeks.

There were two major obstacles to the success of the 1932 Olympics: the Depression and the geographic isolation of California. This was the first time since 1904 that the Olympics were held outside of Europe. The participation by European teams was low. To try to cut team cost, the Olympic Village concept was first used.

One positive factor was the new track in the Los Angeles Coliseum. It was fast. By then, Hardin was comfortable with the longer hurdle event. He advanced through the heats to the final, a race noted for it unusual results.

Robert Tisdall of Ireland won the race with Hardin second, and both runners bettered the world record. However, Tisdall knocked down the last hurdle and the rules at that time did not allow his time to be official. Therefore, Hardin's second place time of 52.0 was accepted as the new world record.

The LSU freshman, less than a year off the Mississippi cotton fields, went back to Baton Rouge that summer with an Olympic silver medal and a world record.

In the next four years he never lost another 400 meter hurdle race.

In addition to helping LSU win the NCAA track title in '33, and SEC crowns in '33, '34, and '35, he lowered his world record to 50.6 at a meet in Stockholm in the summer of 1934. (That record stood for 19 years before it was lowered to 50.4 by Yuri Lituyev of Russia in 1953.)

After practically laying out of hurdles a year, he qualified for his second Olympic team at the trials in Randall's Island, N.Y., in 1936.

If Jesse Owens was a "reasonable bet" to win his three individual events, the 100, 200 and long jump, at the '36 Olympics in Berlin, Slats Hardin was close to a "sure thing" for a gold in the 400 hurdles.

He did not disappoint.

In the 400 hurdle final of six runners, Hardin drew the outside lane. U.S. teammate Joe Patterson, running from the inside lane, went out so fast that he was actually ahead of Hardin by the half-way point despite the difference in the staggered start.

In the third 100 meters, Hardin surged and passed the fading Patterson and entered the final straight one meter ahead of John Loaring of Canada. Hardin held his lead over the final hurdles to add a gold medal to his Olympic collection.

Between the silver and gold medals-- specifically, in the fall of '35 -- Hardin discovered a more precious treasure.

Charles Riddle, a state legislator from Marks, brought his daughter Margaret, then a student at Louisiana Tech, to Baton Rouge to attend summer school at LSU during a summer legislative session.

Margaret had so much fun that summer that she decided to finish college at LSU. That fall she and Hardin met at a fraternity dance. He, the tall Olympic medalist in a white suit, and she, the LSU beauty on campus for her senior year, made a story-book couple. He asked her to dance, and...

"Slats didn't finish college at LSU," Mrs. Hardin said from her home in Baton Rouge. "That was during the depression and I guess he wanted to make some money so we could get married."

Remember that Olympic running meant pure amateurism in those days, so even with a gold medal there wasn't any income or support associated with running track after college.

Hardin and some other stars from the '36 Olympics stayed in

New York after returning from the Games and a tour of Europe. They tried to organize a professional track circuit, but it didn't prosper.

"He tried a few other things while he lived in New York that winter," his daughter said. "We have a picture of him on a billboard on Broadway advertising, of all things, Camel cigarettes. He also auditioned for the part of Ashley Wilkes for the movie of Gone With The Wind. They told him that he had too much of a southern accent."

In February, 1937, Margaret took a train to Washington and Slats came down from New York. They married at a chapel in D.C. It was a simple wedding, but one that would last.

Later the couple settled in Baton Rouge where Hardin worked for the Ethel Corporation and his wife taught high school history. In the late '60s he began to travel for the State, overseeing voting machines. This job allowed him to visit throughout Louisiana and see people who knew him from his running days at LSU.

"Daddy really loved that job," his daughter said. "He was a 'people person', and it suited his personality completely."

Hardin died from a massive heart attack in 1975, just months before his planned retirement.

His second oldest son, Billy, was also a NCAA champion hurdler for LSU in the early '60s and made the U. S. Olympic team in '64 in his Dad's event, the 400 meter hurdles.

"Slats was so proud of Billy when he ran in the Olympics in Tokyo that year," Mrs. Hardin said. "Even though he lives in Dallas now, Billy was selected as one of the torch bearers here a few weeks ago when it came through Baton Rouge."

"Slats' Olympic medals are on display in the Louisiana Archives here in Baton Rouge."

"By the way, if you use my name, nobody will know me as Margaret," Mrs. Hardin cautioned. "Most people call me Sis."

Then she spoke quietly, almost as if whispering a secret.

"But Slats always called me Sissy."

Iuka 11 & 12 Year Old All Stars Go To State - The 11 and 12 year old Iuka girls softball team played in the state tournament on July 12-14 in Purvis, MS. They lost the opening game of the tournament to Pearl River City 6-5, then came back to shut out Carthage the next morning 10-0. After being rained out that night, they played Purvis on Sunday morning and lost another close one 13-10. Iuka should be proud of these girls. They played hard and never gave up. Paden Baptist Youth At Gulfshore Baptist Assembly Youth Week

Bake sales, car washes, chili suppers and yard work were all part of the effort that was made by the youth of Paden Baptist Church of Tishomingo in order to be able to attend the Youth Week held at Gulfshore Baptist Assembly during the month of June.

Gulfshore hosts six youth week conferences attended by 500 teenagers in each conference. The retreats consist of "small group" activities, "family group" devotions, and evening worship services.

The theme of this year's retreat was "Set to Serve" and it emphasized serving other people while being of service to Christ. Educational, inspirational, and recreational programs were taught by the small group leaders through activities that could be applied to everyday life.

"The youth began making plans to return to Gulfshore the day they returned from camp last year," said Nancy Floyd, the Youth Director at Paden Baptist. "They love it here, some of them even want to come and work here on the summer staff when they get in college."

Gulfshore Baptist assembly was established in 1978 and is sponsored by the Mississippi Baptist Convention Board.

Tishomingo friends extends their sympathy to Mrs. Ruth Harp at the passing of her husband Kermit. His funeral was Sunday at Iuka and was buried at Palestine Cemetery near Paden.

Iuka House Burns

by Pamela McRae

An Iuka home burned three times in the last week, finally burning to the ground late Tuesday.

A small frame house belonging to Sheila Wilson at 133 County Road 995 (Airport Road) caught fire last Thursday night, probably because of an overloaded electrical outlet, according to Nelda Degraw, a Snowdown Pleasant Hill Volunteer Firefighter who was at all three fires.

The origin of the second fire, which was called in about 10 a.m. July 23 is unknown, said Degraw, but there were some hot spots left that caused the third blaze around 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, which eventually burned the house to the ground.

Ms. Wilson was at the second fire with one of her three sons and said they just didn't know what they would do now. "Just pray for us," she said.

No arson investigation was requested by the fire department.

Locally Produced Natchez Trace Driving Tour Wins National Commendation

The self-guided driving tour audio tape series Natchez Trace: A Road Through the Wilderness has won Thomasfilms, Inc. of Iuka a significant national award. The local company is to receive a 1996 Certificate of Commendation from the American Association for State and Local History (AASLH).

In his letter notifying Thomasfilms of the award the executive director of AASLH, Terry L. Davis, says, "On behalf of the officers, council, staff and membership of AASLH, I offer my heartiest congratulations on this recognition of your achievement and your excellent work."

The AASLH award program was initiated in 1945 to establish and encourage standards of excellence in the collection, preservation and interpretation of state, provincial and local history throughout North America. It is the nation's most prestigious competition for recognition of achievement in local, state and regional history. Awards for 1996 represent 117 organizations and individuals from 47 states and one Canadian province, and the winners will be celebrated at a special banquet during the 1996 AASLH Annual Meeting in Nashville, TN, September 12, 1996.

The Natchez Trace: A Road Through the Wilderness self-guided driving tour previously earned Thomasfilms a 1995 Benjamin Franklin Award from Publishers Marketing Association and an Award of Merit from the Mississippi Historical Society and the Mississippi Heritage Trust. The tape series has also been placed on Mississippi's Social Studies Resource List for use in teaching Mississippi history.

The award-winning driving tour, The Natchez Trace: A Road Through the Wilderness, is something you'll have to experience to believe. It brings American history to life with music, song and enthralling stories of "one of the oldest roads in the world," the Natchez Trace. The 8.5 hour, six-cassette series is queued to the mileposts along the 450-mile-long Natchez Trace Parkway, and offers a matchless vacation experience for motorists.

For more information call Eddie or Frank Thomas at 423-3333 or visit their Internet Web site at <http://members.aol.com/RoadMusic> where you can listen to audio clips from this award-winning driving tour.

Burnsville Happenings

by: Donna Burns

We have had some beautiful weather this month I hope everyone has been able to enjoy it. It has been great for gardens and yard sales.

I have noticed some people who have had fresh produce for sale around Burnsville area and yes, some really fun yard sales!

I have heard that there will be a big yard sale at Sisters in Burnsville Saturday the 27th starting at 7 a.m. until. If you are out and about that early on a Saturday, I'll bet you will run into several more sales and you can pick up some bargains.

The Burnsville Chamber of Commerce has been having a training session for some of the Chamber members on leadership and how to help build and improve our town. By understanding the needs of our town and area we will be able to help improve and grow in a more positive way. This will enable our towns people to enjoy a more efficient and improved community. In the sessions you learn about the advantages of your area and how to expand on these plusses.

Burnsville and the surrounding area is really a fine place for homes as well as business. These sessions helps you realize these advantages and how to take an advantage of what our area has to offer. Burnsville is a rainbow of promise for the future.

It seems other businesses think this also. Burnsville is getting some new businesses it seems. As they come into the new shops I'll let you know. Right now I know that Bushwhackers Family Hair Care Center has relocated to Burnsville. It's new location is just off 72 at the businesses location just below Sister's Restaurant, about two doors from Hobb's Video. Andrew Williams is owner and operator, welcome Andrew, and good luck!

4-H news the Standard of Excellence trip is Thursday, July 25 to Libertyland in Memphis. This trip is for those 4-H'ers who have achieved high points in 4-H. We are sending several from our area. Cross-carriers Gene Dermott, and Art Robles pause for a picture with Days Inn's Becky Talley before heading out on the road to Corinth on their way across country.

Pair Carry Their Crosses Cross-Country

Art Robles, a 41-year-old Florida man, stopped in Iuka this weekend on his way walking across the country with a 12-foot-long 7-foot-wide cedar cross that he carries on his shoulder.

He said Iuka was one of the nicest places he has been on his travels, which this trip will eventually take him to Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"In all my years of carrying the cross, and walking 13,000 miles Iuka has treated me the best," he said of the local hospitality. "God bless Iuka."

The Days Inn was kind enough to allow him to stay at the hotel free for two days, which has never happened in all his travels, Robles said.

He said he enjoyed fellowshiping at Harvest Assembly of God Church and afterwards was treated to a true Tishomingo County treat, a country dinner with the pastor and his wife. "Thank you, Iuka, Mississippi," he said to tell everyone.

Robles was on his way down U.S. 72 Monday morning, and another cross-carrying friend, Gene Dermott, 55, of Pensacola, Florida was joining him for the 19 miles or so to Corinth. Dermott was planning to head west. He has walked 3,000 miles, averaging 20 miles a day.

Trails at State Park Open Up

The improvement efforts being made at Tishomingo State Park are finally paying off and we are beginning to see results. The trail on the other side of the swinging bridge is now open, with many improvements and several facilities and cabins have been renovated. A church group from Birmingham that has been coming to the park for years finished up some improvements last week in an effort to pay back to the park the many great times they have had there. A big thanks to our new park manager, Bill Brecken and his staff for heading up this campaign to make our park what it should be.

Church News

South Crossroads Baptist Church will celebrate its 100th anniversary on August 4th with special worship services and a noon meal. Following will be a presentation on the history of the church. Bro. Bicky Pennington invites everyone to come celebrate with them, especially former members or family members. They will be taking a group picture on the day of the homecoming.

Carter's Branch MB Church has their revival services this week, July 22-26 at 7:15 nightly. Rev. Harold Hunter of Rock Hill MB Church in Tiptonville, Ms. will be the guest evangelist. Everyone is invited to enjoy the revival!

Highland Baptist Church will be having their Vacation Bible School all on this Saturday, July 27th. All the fun packed into one day! If your children need a ride, you can call Ann Clingan, 438-7489.

Tishomingo Methodist is having their Vacation Bible SHIP this week and all the kids are having a great time learning about Noah, Jonah and other Bible characters. One of the highlights is a 20-foot "whale" that the kids actually go inside to hear about the story of Jonah. Friday night is parents' night and all parents are encouraged to come view a video of the week, and help their child(ren) collect a group picture, certificate, and all the other goodies from Bible school. They had 94 there on Monday night, including adults to help. One of the most impressive sights was several Methodist men who prepared the snacks for the classes outside in under the parking shed! What good positive role models those men were, teaching the kids that everyone needs to help in the church.

Tishomingo Baptist is proud to say that we just celebrated the second anniversary of Bro. Billy Burge's ministry at our church, in our town and, most importantly, in our hearts. He and his wife, Cindy and their children have been such a blessing in the lives of everyone at church, and many in the community. We pray that God will keep them all safe and with us for many years.

Facts About The BIBLE

ANCIENT IDOLS!

THE PROPHETS IN THE BIBLE VILLIFIED THE PAGAN WORSHIP OF FALSE GODS. ALL OF WHOM WERE REPRESENTED BY SOME FIGURE IN STONE, OR WOOD, OR SOMETIMES BY PRECIOUS METALS. WHEN THE IDOL WAS METALLIC IT WAS FASHIONED BY RUNNING MELTED METAL INTO A MOLD, IN WHICH CASE THEY WERE CALLED "MOLTEN IMAGES." WHEN OF WOOD OR STONE THEY WERE MADE BY GRAVING TOOLS AND NATURALLY CALLED "GRAVEN IMAGES." THE WHOLE PROCESS OF MANUFACTURE IS SATIRICALLY DESCRIBED IN ISAIAH (44:9-20). SOME WERE SMALL OBJECTS, ESPECIALLY THOSE DESIGNED FOR USE IN THE HOUSEHOLD. SOME WERE AS LARGE AS A HUMAN BEING (1 SAM. 19:16) AND SOME WERE COLOSSAL LIKE THE HUGE GOLDEN IMAGE THAT WAS ERECTED BY NEBUCHAD-NEZZAR IN THE PLAIN OF DURAI--WHICH ALMOST CAUSED THE DEATH OF SHAD-BACH, MESHAH, AND ABEDENEGO. (BOOK OF DANIEL, CHAPTER 3)

THIS DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE BUSINESSES WHO ENCOURAGE ALL OF US TO ATTEND WORSHIP SERVICES.

Safely Home

I am home in heaven, dear ones;
All's so happy, all's so bright!
There's perfect joy and beauty in this everlasting light.
All the pain and grief is over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly trod the valley of the shade?
Oh, but Jesus' love illumined every dark and fearful glade!
And He came Himself to meet me on the way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely,
For I love you dearly still:
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's will.
There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idle stand;
Do you work while life remaineth
You shall rest in Jesus' land.
When that work is all complete,
He will gently call you home;
Oh, the rapture of the meeting!
Oh, the joy to see you come!

The American Association of State Troopers has less than 10 percent of active sworn officers of the Mississippi highway Safety Patrol as members of their organization. The Mississippi State Troopers Association includes 95 percent of the active state troopers as members of our organization.

All of the organizations listed above are only interested in taking the hard earned money of the citizens of our great state and using it for personal gain. The Mississippi State Troopers Association is in no way affiliated with any of these organizations.

The Mississippi State Troopers Association conducts business with Mississippi Businesses and contributes to and is concerned with the needs of our state.

Iuka Lions Club News

Our meeting, July 16th, was called to order (5-minutes late) by President, Lion Ned Boston. But don't worry, he paid for it. Lion Don Hobart, Secretary/Treasurer, read the minutes and gave the treasurer report from our July 2nd meeting, thanks to Lion J.R. Long's record keeping. Our Invocation was given by Lion Toney Mobley and Lion Jerry Lambert led our pledge to the flag.

No major decisions were made at our meeting, just lots of discussion. Lion Don Cowell, Sight Conservation Committee, informed us he's about to run out of money for glasses. Well, the Taitwister made the budget, if that will help. and we still have our penny jug going. Yea, would you believe the Iuka Lions Club saves pennies? At every meeting we empty our pockets of pennies, they do mount up, you know. But we gotta find a way to raise more funds! Got any suggestions?

We had a good attendance at our last meeting, but we missed you Lions that were not there. Hope to see...you at our next meeting, Tuesday, August 6th, 7:00 p.m., Directors at 6:30 p.m.,

Country Cupboard.

Now, you folks don't forget to check on your neighbor these hot, dry days, and watch your pets, and take care of yourself.

After-thought: We have investigate why we didn't have Lions roar at our last meeting. Lion Bob Riley was present somebody get in a hurry?

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

This letter is in response to the besieging number of telephone calls that have been placed to most citizens of the State of Mississippi. I feel compelled to write this letter to advise the citizens of our great state of the scams and misrepresentations that are taking place every day.

Recently there have been and will continue to be telephone calls placed to our Mississippi residents and businesses by people that represent themselves as being supporters of police survivors and sometimes represent themselves as being state troopers. Not only do these organizations claim to support "widows" of officers that chose to serve and protect the citizens of our state, but some even claim to be troopers of the State of Mississippi.

The truth of the matter is these organizations are NOT affiliated with the Mississippi State Troopers Association. There are numerous citizens of the State of Mississippi that actively support law enforcement. Not only do our citizens support their local law enforcement but they support the state troopers of our great state.

The Mississippi State Troopers Association is a non-profit organization. The Mississippi State Troopers Association monetarily supports the Mississippi Special Olympics, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, St. Jude's Children's Hospital, Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Center, March of Dimes, Concerns of Police Survivors (COPS) Drug Awareness Programs in our states educational system as well as offering assistance to troopers that are in need of financial due to a sickness or death in their immediate family. In addition to these contributions, is a death benefit that goes to the beneficiary of any trooper that is killed in the line of duty or dies of natural causes. These are just a few of the many charities that the Mississippi State Troopers Association contributes to each year.

The Mississippi State Troopers Association has an official publication. The Mississippi Troopers Magazine that is published by Brent, Wyatt West Publishers. This company is the only group that can legally solicit for the Mississippi State Troopers Association. All of the daily solicitation conducted by this magazine occurs between 5 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Mondays thru Thursdays. Anyone that works for the Mississippi Troopers Magazine will NEVER lead anyone into believing they are a Mississippi State Trooper.

There are several organizations that are conducting telemarketing programs in our state at the present time. The American Association of State Troopers the National Association of State Troopers and the Southern States Police Benevolent Association.
