Southern Corner Stones

Chronicles & Epitaphs from the old Tishomingo County Courthouse

Dixie: Dan Emmett of Ohio Wrote It as a Minstrel Song Transcribed from The Commercial Appeal (Memphis, Tenn.), May 28, 1901, by RaNae Vaughn, on July 22, 2005.

It was in 1859 that Dan D.
Emmett, then a member of Bryant's minstrels, at 472 Broadway, New York, wrote the words and composed the music of "Dixie." A portion of Emmett's duty in the troupe was to compose "walk rounds" as the management required. The closing feature of a minstrel performance in those days was a walk round song dance and chorus.

The song and dance of "Dixie" was written between the close of a week's business, and the rehearsal on the following Monday. Bryant called for the new walk round, and Emmett replied that he would do his best, though the time was short. At the Monday rehearsal, Emmett appeared with the words and music in full, and it became a favorite from the start. It was soon presented all over the country by traveling minstrel companies.

The Buckley Serenaders first rendered it in the Southern States. It was first given at New Orleans in the Academy of Music in the winter season of 1859-60.

Many stories are extant as to how it first became popular, and was taken for the national air of the south, but the fact is that it was a catchy air, no matter where it was performed.
It is as popular in Europe today as it is in this country, and it is liked in the Northern States of America as well as it is in the South. One of the stories of how it was accepted as the Southern national air is that when Brougham's musical travestie of Pocahontas was being rendered at John E.

Owen's Theater in New Orleans, while the manager was drilling a volunteer company mainly composed of actors termed the "Cocktail Rangers," it was thought to render the production more attractive by introducing a zouave drill and march of 40 females. The leader of the orchestra was Carlo Patti, a brother of Adelina. A number of airs were tried for the march, but not until Dixie was played did one suit. The drill and march with the Dixie chorus was given, and it took at once.

Soon it caused a sensation and everybody whistled Dixie.
Thus it became the popular war song of the South as that story goes.

At Yazoo City, Miss., Dixie was first rendered by a part of the crew of the steamboat, Roebuck, then lying at the landing. A fire broke out in the town, and the boat people turned out to help extinguish it. After midnight, when the flames had been quenched, the boat folks paraded the streets and sang Dixie, and more people turned out to listen to the chorus than had been in attendance at the fire. Even ladies and children gathered to follow the serenaders and listen to Dixie.

At Jackson, Miss., in Spengler's Hall, a popular comedian named Harry McCarthy sung it to throngs, and Capt. Dinkins tells of the incident in his war book in a way that proves how it caught on with the people, making a hit there at the start. It was this way everywhere. In the South, in the North, and in Europe, it touches the popular heart now as it did then, and it will always be so.

The author of "Dixie," D.
D. Emmett, was born on October 19, 1815, at Mount Vernon, Ohio. He was the grandson of an Irish chaplain and surgeon of a regiment that served in the War of the Revolution. His father, a native of Virginia, fought in the War of 1812 under Hull.

While a youth, Dan Emmett learned to play the violin by

Christmas Under the Stars Sponsored GFWC-MFWC 20th Century Club

The third week of the "Christmas Under the Stars" award was given to Glen and Eve Hodges. The shrubbery was adorned with white lights, a lighted deer, a Christmas tree; and, the driveway was lined with lighted stationary sack luminaries. Santa Claus held a "greeting card" wishing a "Merry Christmas from the Hodges." Through the house you could see the lovely lighted, decorated Christmas tree and the lighted garland on the porch. Thanks, Glen and Eve, for the beautifully decorated home for everyone to enjoy this Christmas.

ear, and when barely 14 years old, he became second violin with Stickney's circus, the whole band including two violinists, a bugler, and a bass drum. Later he learned to play the piccolo, the fife, the snare drum, and some brass instruments by note. He became a clever performer, singing songs of his own making of the plantation Negro type and making many hits in this line. He traveled with nearly all of the circus troupes of the first half of the century, including Seth Howe, Dan Rice, and many others. In 1850, he was the leader of the brass band with a circus company that traveled along the upper Mississippi when the tents of the Chippewa Indians were to be seen in many places about Lake Pepin, and when birch bark canoes were the chief means of navigating the St. Croix and other tributaries of the greatest river of this continent.

The first minstrel company ever formed in this country was composed of Dan Emmett, Frank Brower, Richard Pelham, and William Whitlock.
It was in 1843 that this troupe performed in New York and Boston, afterward crossing to Great Britain and touring that country to disband in Scotland.
Of late years, the old minstrel has lived retired among his kindred in Ohio. Some three or four years ago he made a tour of the South with one of his traveling companions, but he took little part in the performances, merely recounting the way he came to compose "Dixie."

NMMC's Hyperbaric Unit Provides Pure Oxygen Therapy For Patients

Nathan Cleveland of Golden, Miss., became the first patient to undergo treatment at the North Mississippi Medical Center Wound Center's Hyperbaric Unit beginning Oct. 11th, and his treatment is being deemed a success.

William Beazley, M.D., medical director of the Hyperbaric Unit, supervised Cleveland's treatment for osteora-dionecrosis of the mandible, bone that has died as a complication of radiation therapy.

"The first case went great," Dr. Beazley said. "After about the fourth or fifth treatment the patient completely eliminated pain medications, which is remarkable."

Hyperbaric oxygen treatment is used to substantially increase oxygen flow within tissues to improve healing. The unit has two hyperbaric chambers, which provide 100 percent oxygen to patients receiving treatment. A typical treatment lasts approximately two hours. Diabetic foot ulcers, osteoradionecrosis, osteomyelitis (bone infection) and crush injuries are the most common conditions that will be treated in NMMC's Hyperbaric Unit, according to Dr. Beazley. Hyperbaric oxygen therapy is used to treat conditions such as monoxide poisoning, gas embolisms and burns.

Generally, the treatment is administered daily, five times a week. Some cases require only a few treatments, while others may require up to 40 treatments. Side effects are minimal, with the most common being temporary "fullness" in the ears and "popping" in the ears as atmospheric pressure changes.

Also supervising the hyperbaric unit are NMMC's Hyperbaric Unit, supervised by Dr. Beazley, and Brian L. McCoy, M.D., chief of the Hyperbaric Unit. He has supervised nurses Jennifer and Jeff Bonds have been specially trained in the use of the unit and the care of patients undergoing therapy.

For more information on NMMC's hyperbaric oxygen therapy, call the HBO Unit at 377-6256 or 1-800-438-7256

INSIGHT INTO EYESIGHT

Dr. Phillip Gray
OPTOMETRIST

Glaucoma Tests

If you're past the age of 35 and have your eyes checked regularly by your eye doctor, one of the tests he or she will make is for glaucoma. The symptoms of this disease are often difficult to detect in its early stages, but glaucoma is a very serious disease that can cause blindness if not treated early enough.

In glaucoma, there is either too much fluid produced by the eye or the fluid does not drain normally, causing a buildup of pressure within the eyeball. As the disease progresses, this can cause many symptoms in addition to painful eye pressure. Among them are blurred vision that comes and goes, seeing colored rings around lights, a loss in side vision, and difficulty in focusing.

Tests made by your eye doctor will include checking the optic nerve for any signs of the disease. You will also be given the tonometry test, which measures the pressure in your eyes. This is a completely painless test - but an important one.

Many will arrive in time to celebrate the beginning of 2006 in their own homes with family and friends. All members of the 155th are expected to be home by the middle of January.

A formal welcome home celebration, sponsored by the City of Iuka, will be held for all members of the 155th in late January.

A Snowman For Christmas!

(Front) Stephen, Christian and Hudson Enlow got a real surprise for Christmas this year. They got to build a real snowman in their grandparent's (Bobby and Caffie Enlow) front yard right here in Iuka. Their uncle, Patrick Enlow, (Back) is currently living in Saginaw Michigan; and when he left Saginaw coming home to Iuka for Christmas, he drove through heavy snow for several hours. The back of his truck was still full of snow when he arrived home in the early hours of Monday morning. Early Tuesday morning, there was still enough snow in the back of the truck to build a snowman. The boys went right to work and formed their own "short" Frosty, complete with eyes, mouth, nose, a hat, shoes, and a scarf. Having a real Frosty for Christmas was a lot of fun!

Iuka's Sleep Center Accreditation Status Upgraded

The Iuka Sleep Disorders Center at the Iuka Hospital recently had its accreditation status upgraded from a sleep laboratory to a full-service sleep center by the American Academy of Sleep Medicine (AASM).

While a sleep laboratory focuses on treating only sleep-related breathing disorders, such as obstructive sleep apnea, a sleep disorders center must be able to provide testing and treatment for all sleep disorders, including sleep apnea, insomnia and narcolepsy.

"The American Academy of Sleep Medicine congratulates Iuka Sleep Disorders Center on fulfilling the high standards required for receiving accreditation as a sleep disorders center," said Dr. Lawrence J. Epstein, AASM president.

"The center is a significant resource to the local medical community and will provide academic and scientific value in addition to the highest quality care for patients suffering from sleep disorders."

To receive a five-year accreditation a sleep center must meet or exceed all standards for professional health care as designated by the AASM. "The accreditation process involves detailed inspection of a center's facility and staff, including an evaluation of testing procedures, patient contacts and physician training. Additionally, the facility's goals must be clearly stated and include plans for positively affecting the quality of medical care in the community it serves."

Currently, the American Academy of Sleep Medicine accredits 900 sleep medicine centers and laboratories across the country.

Iuka Sleep Disorders Center is directed by Dr. Felix Morris and is located at Iuka Hospital, 1777 Curtis Drive. For more information, call 662-423-4565.

The American Academy of Sleep Medicine is a professional medical society for clinicians, researchers, and other health care providers in the field of sleep medicine. As the national accreditation body for sleep disorder centers and labs, the AASM is dedicated to setting standards and promoting excellence in sleep medicine health care, education, and research. Find accurate medical information about sleep and sleep disorders at www.sleepeducation.com.

Sardis Church News

By: Louise White Family

We at Sardis extend a welcoming hand to all who wish to come together in the name of the Lord Jesus. We've been blessed with another week of life and the opportunity that goes with it of spreading God's Word and enjoying good fellowship with one another. We are located at the end of CR 169 and we encourage you to visit with us anytime.

VERSE OF THE WEEK:
"Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days" (James 5:3).

In this lesson we are urged to put to death the love of treasure which drives us to sin. Our ill-gotten riches bring pain and emptiness. James 5:1-6

Iuka Middle School Basketball News

Iuka played their last game before the Christmas break as they hosted the Aggies from Kossuth. Iuka completed the sweep taking all four games of the night against the neighboring county school.

The 7th grade Lady Chieftains completely dominated the Lady Aggies by overwhelming them with good defense and strong rebounding. Iuka led at halftime 12-3 in a game that never was close as the Lady Chiefs rolled to a 22-6 win. Jasmine Shannon led the way with 8 points, 4 rebounds and 2 steals. Tage Philamlee had 4 points, 1 rebound and 2 steals.

Miranda Parsons had 4 points and 1 rebound. Milli Brown had 2 points, 8 rebounds and 2 steals. Kelsey Rone had 2 points, 2 rebounds and 4 steals. Marlee Tigner had 2 points, 2 rebounds and 2 steals.

The 8th grade Lady Chiefs followed their younger counterparts with the same pressure defense. Iuka came out strong in the first quarter scoring 13 points and led at the half 20-11. Iuka pulled away in the second half to win the game 34-17. Shelby Bonds had her high scoring game of the season as she put up 14 points, 4 rebounds and 4 steals. Carlee Puckett had 5 points and 3 rebounds. Bailey Bullock had 5 points, 2 rebounds and 2 steals.

Courtney Tigner had 4 points and 3 rebounds. Tiffany Flynt had 2 points, 4 rebounds and 1 steal. Pazlee Walker had 2 points and 2 steals. Marcie Anne Sykes had 2 points and 1 steal.

The 7th grade boys had little problems with the Aggies as well as they proved to be too much on both ends of the court. Iuka jumped out early and led at halftime 17-5. The scoring tandem of Luke White and Jake Walker left Kossuth scratching their heads and Iuka went on to win the game 34-15. Coach Shannon Edmondson said, "We played well on both ends of the floor". White and Walker each had 11 points for the Chieftains. The 8th grade boys game was the closest game of the night and Iuka had a tough time pulling away from Kossuth. Iuka took a 16-13 halftime lead and was able to extend it some in the second half. Iuka won the game 32-25 for a much needed win. Coach Edmondson added, "After losing four straight we needed to win the game. I think we are about to turn the corner and finish strong." Payton Brown, Daniel Aday and Tyler Thomas all had 6 points each for the Chieftains.

After the Christmas break, Iuka will travel to Kossuth on Monday, January 2nd and then travel to Belmont on Thursday, January 5th.

Letter to Santa

This letter arrived at the news office too late for publication, but we are sure it arrived at the North Pole just in time.

Dear Santa,

My name is Jake Presley and I have been a real good boy this year at least as good as a 5 year old boy can be. I would love to have a dirt bike, a remote control General Lee, John Deere 4-wheeler, a bat mobile, a t.v. (mine was stolen this summer), a Game Boy and lots of car games and Chicken Little. I would also like to have some new light bulbs for my Lava Lamp, a new basketball, and a diecast Hemi Cuda. Have a safe trip to my house. I will make sure to leave some milk and cookies, in case you are hungry and some carrots for the reindeer.

Love, Jake

PS: Please make sure all the boys and girls that lost their homes in Hurricane Katrina have a good Christmas. It made me sad to see their houses under the water.

Carbohydrate Cravings May Signal A More Serious Medical Problem

(NAPS)—Can't help yourself? Do you just have to eat that bowl of pasta, that big piece of cake? And when you do, even though you feel a little guilty, do you feel better?

A new study published in the Journal of Psychiatric Practice found that people who were diagnosed with atypical depression, the most common subtype of depression, and who also experienced carbohydrate cravings, achieved relief from their cravings when they took a simple mineral—chromium picolinate.

People who crave carbohydrates—cravings as intense as those associated with pregnancy—might also have mood disorders or underlying body chemistry problems related to insulin regulation.

"The exciting news is that this natural element, chromium picolinate, may significantly reduce these symptoms and is available in once-daily capsules," said the study's lead investigator John Docherty, M.D. "A supplement that effectively reduces carbohydrate craving, is well-tolerated and has low side-effects would be a very useful contribution to improve overall health outcomes."

Despite its name, atypical depression is very common and occurs in as many as 25-42 percent of the 19 million Americans diagnosed with depression. People with atypical depression often experience cravings for carbohydrates, weight lethargy, heavy limbs, the arms and legs feel like they are easily hurt.

"Carbohydrate cravings signal the presence of a serious underlying condition and physical and mental health problems need to be more closely monitored by patients who report this symptom," Dr. Docherty says.

The chromium picolinate supplement, Chromium Nutrition 21, a bioactive supplement that develops and maintains chromium-based nutrition. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has allowed a qualified claim for chromium picolinate that confirms that it is for use as a dietary supplement. ## Teach Children To Take Responsibility By Giving Them Age Appropriate Jobs

Do you long for the day when your child will put away his own toys after playtime? For a while, you don't have much choice but to clean up after him. However, you can be teaching your child to take some responsibilities by the time he is able to walk.

Teaching your child to take responsibility is a life skill that will benefit you, the child and society. Children who never learn to take responsibility at home often grow into adults who don't take responsibility for their actions.

If you have not started a family clean-up routine in your home, now is a good time to begin. Consider the following tips:

- For young children, make a game of doing chores. Sing a fun tune such as "This is the way we pick up our toys, pick up our toys, pick up our toys. This is the way we pick up our toys, so early in the morning." (Adapt the tune and words to fit the task.)
- Make your child's room "clean-up friendly." Place bookshelves or plastic stackable crates at child's eye level. Label shelves so children will know where the toys or books are to be placed. Labeling items in your child's room also helps him with letter and word recognition.
- Hang over-the-door organizers for items such as small toys, games, jewelry, and accessories.
- Keep brightly colored storage bins handy for quick pick-up of games and toys.
- Place a bulletin board at your child's eye level so he can see pictures that are displayed.

Use the kind that has ribbon dividers so there is no need for pushpins to hold pictures.

- Use colors for walls, floors, windows, and bedding that camouflage dirt and spills.
  - Try oversized switch plates on light switches to keep sticky little hands off the paint.
  - Allow toddlers to bring a diaper or baby wipe to you when it's time for a diaper change. Children enjoy feeling that they can help take care of themselves. Be sure to say "thank you" for their help!
  - Let children bring in the mail (with your help), feed the pet (with your help and/or supervision), or clear their dishes after meals.
  - By the time a child is 3 to 5 years old, he can dress himself, make his bed, and several other activities. Keep in mind that your child may not do these tasks perfectly at first, but that is part of the learning process.
  - Be patient! Learning to be a "big boy" or "big girl" is a process that requires lots of understanding from parents and caregivers.
  - Enjoy the process!
- Parenting, like life, is a journey, not a destination. Yes, you may say, "Parenting ends when they turn eighteen." That's not necessarily true. It is different for different families and parents should always be open and available to listen, support, and be role models. Family support is important to everyone. Enjoy the previous time you have with your children - before you know it, they will be grown and gone! Happy Parenting!

Attention: TCHS Class Of 1996!

Plans are now underway for our ten year class reunion. At this time a 10 year reunion date for the class of 1996 has been set for Saturday, May 27th at Shiloh Falls, Pickwick, TN. Members of the class are still in the planning process for the reunion and would like every member from the class to be able to attend. There are some projects in the works that we want everyone to be a part of.

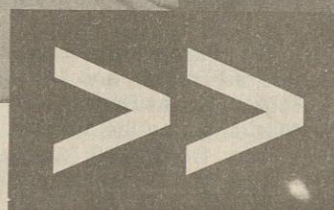

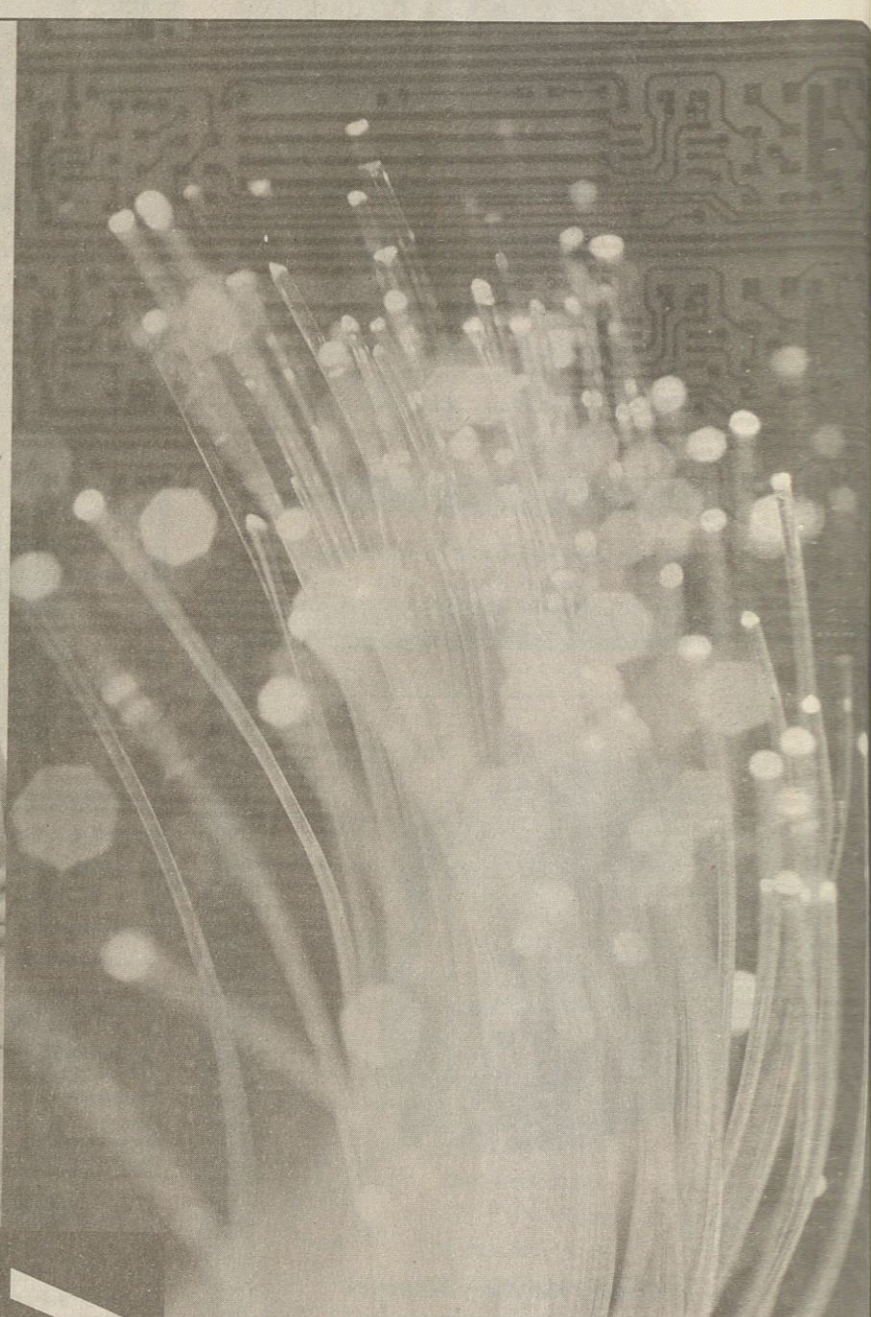

We need the help of everyone that was in our class - as well as parents or friends of TCHS '96 graduates - to spread the word regarding this matter.

In conjunction with this, a website has been created to help plan our reunion and also to get all class members back in touch with each other again. It is a password-protected environment where we can discuss options and make plans. If you are interested in being on the website, please contact Heather at ernart@bellsouth.net or Vanessa at vsc1978@bellsouth.net. If you do not have an email, please feel free to contact Vanessa at 662-5603.

The communications business is changing. And so is your phone company.

Change is a way of life in the communications business. Some of us remember adjusting the rabbit ears on our television sets trying to receive the one station broadcasting in our area. We've gone from carrying a heavy bag phone to a razor-thin video phone that downloads music and takes pictures.

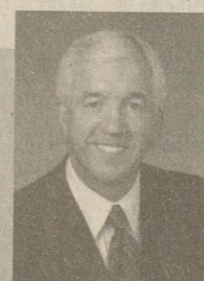

Now we have hundreds of movie, sports and other channels at our fingertips. We can even watch television shows whenever and wherever we want thanks to portable hand-held screens. And it's all brought to you by advancements in cable, broadcast television, satellite, the Internet and yes, even the phone company.

BellSouth works hard to stay on the cutting edge of this rapidly changing industry.

As the communications industry moves toward more head-to-head competition for your business, innovation will be the key to long term success.

That's why BellSouth plans to invest billions of dollars over the next several years, and we want as much of that money as possible to come to Mississippi. This increased investment will help us provide you the latest technology, more products and services and better value for your money.

Mississippians deserve to be at the forefront of communications technology. The men and women of BellSouth in Mississippi will continue to work hard every day to make sure we lead the way.

A Message From The Tish. County Rescue Squad

Through the efforts of the squad and the many donors from surrounding areas, the squad was able to send 3, 2 ton truckloads of relief supplies to Mississippi Gulf Coast Hurricane survivors, which were extremely grateful. We will try to make at least one more trip to the coast with more much needed supplies the third week in January. If you wish to donate to this cause, we will continue to accept donations up to that point. Please no more clothing. Clothing is not needed at this time. Consider food and sanitary supplies, charcoal, and blankets and other warm items. The Tishomingo County Rescue Squad would like to express our thanks to all participants in these relief efforts and the many donations great and small.
