ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY THREE YEARS

MS Makes Room For New Improvements

Iuka Middle School will soon see construction beginning for a new activity building on its campus.

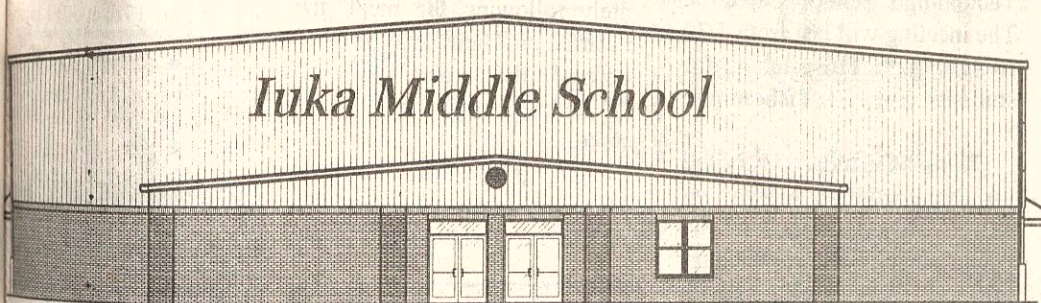

The building will help the school be in compliance with the state's physical education curriculum. A new structure was decided upon once estimates for refurbishing the rapidly deteriorating buildings that exist now were too costly.

In order to build for the future, the older structures (the auditorium, administrative building and the former bus shop) must be removed. Understandably, these older buildings have a great deal of sentimental value for many people throughout our community. However, in our preparation for our young people, both now and in the future, sacrificing the older buildings is necessary.

Efforts will be made to incorporate parts of the old building in the new structure. Some brick from the old gymnasium was retained and efforts will be made to keep brick from the auditorium in order to incorporate their importance into the new building.

Let's use our past to build for the future!

Plans For The Future—Shown here are plans for the new commons building to be built in the near future at Iuka Middle School in Iuka.

Quilt Lovers Invited To Enjoy Show 2006 This Weekend

Everyone who loves quilts is invited to come out and enjoy feast for the eyes at the 9th Annual Needle Chasers Quilt Show this weekend at Iuka Baptist Church! From old-fashioned utilitarian family treasures, to cutting edge precision hand applique and machine works, there will be more than 150 quilts on display for the public to enjoy.

In addition to a record number of 130 entries in the judged categories, the popular theme trunks and trunk shows will feature even more quilts done by talented local and regional quilters. This show is one of the mid-south's premier showcases of quilts and local quilters come out in droves to admire the quilts. In past years more than 400 visitors have attended the show, which will be Friday from 10 am to 6 pm, and Saturday from 9 am to 3 pm.

"Everyone needs to make plans to attend what is sure to be our best show ever," said quilt show chairman Jean Greene. "The quality of the quilts this year is outstanding and possibly the best ever!" The show will be held at the Iuka Baptist Church Fellowship hall on September 15-16th. Special trunk showings will be held each day. Admission is free for the show, which includes a ticket to win the guild's Opportunity Quilt, a breathtaking fan quilt made by award-winning quilter Dorothy Dailey of Burnsville.

Entertaining and informative trunk shows will be presented at noon each day by Anne Rushing, of Florence. She will share her own beautiful, award-winning quilts, as well as quilts of her late mother, Esther Welch Adams, of the North Crossroads community, other family members, and also school children's group quilts from her years as a teacher in Amory. The generations that have been connected through this one quilter are remarkable and heart-warming. Her mostly pieced quilts are ones that everyone admires for their color and precision.

Tennessee Valley Authority Scheduled Power Outages

A power outage has been planned for the Iuka Substation on Friday night, Sept. 15, beginning at 11 p.m. This outage, planned by TVA, should last about two hours. It will effect about 4,078 customers of the Tishomingo County Electric Power Association.

A power outage has been planned by TVA for the Belmont Substation on Friday, Sept. 22 beginning at 11 p.m. and should last about two hours. This should affect approximately 2,916 customers.

Both outages will take place, weather permitting.

All electric customers who will be affected by these power outages should make the necessary preparations.

Electric Rates To Be Reduced For TCEPA Customers October 1

At its July 28, 2006 board meeting, the TVA Board of Directors approved a wholesale rate reduction in electric rates to be implemented October 1, 2006. According to Tom Kilgore, TVA President and acting Chief Executive Officer, limiting an increase in non-fuel operating and maintenance costs, reduced spending at Brown's Ferry Unit 1 as it nears completion, and a fuel cost adjustment mechanism implementation make the rate reduction possible.

The fuel cost adjustment will permit TVA to recover fuel and purchased power costs as they occur. TVA will review its projected fuel and purchased power costs and adjust rates on a quarterly basis to provide for recovery of actual costs over budgeted costs. According to TCEPA Manager Robert Grisham, the implementation of a fuel cost adjustment is new for TVA but a widely-used mechanism in the investor-owned utility industry. According to TCEPA Manager Robert Grisham, the implementation of a fuel cost adjustment is new for TVA but a widely-used mechanism in the investor-owned utility industry.

The Board of Directors of TCEPA, at an August 29, 2006, board meeting, voted to pass thru the wholesale rate decrease to TCEPA retail customers. "Our customers have had high utility bills due to the extreme heat of this summer," states Grisham. "The high electric bills coupled with expensive increases in the price of gasoline have caused financial strain for our customers. The board and management of TCEPA are hopeful that TVA's fuel cost adjustment mechanism will reduce our customers' exposure to budget impacts caused by unusual changes in the cost of wholesale power."

The rate decrease will go into effect on bills with meter reading dates on or after October 1, 2006.

House Passes Cummings' Bill-Gives Okay To Riverbend

A special session of the Mississippi Legislature called by Mississippi State Governor Haley Barbour on Aug. 24 to consider legislation for the proposed Riverbend Crossing development in DeSoto County—based on a bill originally written by our own Rep. Ricky Cummings D-Iuka—passed giving the go-ahead to a multi-million dollar project in the Northwestern part of the state.

The Mississippi House adjourned Friday after its part of the special session Friday approved the final version of an economic incentive package for DeSoto County.

According to Cummings, the developers were satisfied with the final bill passed the House Friday.

The developers, which will include the world famous Metro-Goldwyn Mayer entertainment—one of the premier entertainment companies in the world—was satisfied with the final bill.

The bill, Cummings came up with in 2000, would allow new tourist attractions to keep a portion of the seven percent sales tax collected on their premises for a determined number of years. Cummings said he hopes this bill will help to attract more tourist attractions to Tishomingo County, which was his initial thought in creating the bill.

The Riverbend Project, planning to spend more than 2.7 billion in the state, will occupy a 4,500-acre tract of land and will have recreational activities, a residential area, convention facilities, etc.

Recently three fourth grade students, Jerrett Deen, Abby Lomenick, and Katie Beth Arnold, made a great discovery, a twelve foot Packing Snake. He is not a bad snake, he would rather give a kiss than a bite. The students are very proud of their discovery.

Legal Update

NEIGHBORLY ADVICE

Because we view our homes as our refuges from the cares of the world, few things can disrupt a person's happiness as much as a dispute with a neighbor. The best way to deal with such matters as noise, fence height, and overgrown trees is to have the law on your side. It does not serve your purposes, even if you approach your neighbor with the best of intentions, if you do not have the legal standing to back yourself up. When it comes to zoning matters, unfamiliarity with the law can prove to be downright expensive if you were to build before planning. These circumstances and others provide reason enough to consult with an experienced lawyer before disputes occur.

When you are involved in a legal issue, it is crucial to have a professional on your side that knows the specific laws and regulations particular to your case. For an appointment to discuss your legal concerns, call my office. I provide individual attentions to my clients and offering only the highest quality of legal representation.

INSIGHT IN EYESIGHT

Dr. Phillip Gray
 OPTOMETRIST

Don't Suffer From Bright Light

Some people squint to protect their eyes from too much light. Not only do healthy eyes adjust a range of brightness over a million to one, just as skin color varies between individuals, the amount of protective pigment in the eye varies.

If you suffer from light that others find comfortable with, you may suffer in silence! We find that relief is often in what may appear to be a simple, cosmetic eye tint. Glasses with a 20% gradient tint that is photosensitive lenses darken in response to sun's ultraviolet rays also a remedy. Under office or fluorescent lighting, a pink tint may work well.

Squinting, however, may also be a sign of uncorrected astigmatism. We also see it in children who are born nearsighted. Don't let a child develop this simple eyeglass correction problem.

In Memory of Truman (White) Williams

Black pick-up truck, white Datsun 210

Both of these make me think of him

Watermelons, cornbread, homemade silver rings

Oh, the joy these memories bring

In 92 years many hours he spent

Passing out gum and peppermint

Trials and losses so many he'd had

But, he cherished the good times and was seldom sad

With eyes of wisdom and wrinkled hands

He lived each day with few demands

He was a good-un, and cutter and all

And, he'll see ya'll back when Jesus calls

They say you left behind a legacy, but we let go of a legend.
You will be loved and missed more than can be imagined.

Marion Couch and Naomi Whitaker looking at pictures of relatives

Cousins Meet To Research Family History

In 1990, Marion and Martha (Hayes) Couch of Magerum started researching the Couch family. Marion was born in Kentucky and raised in Indiana. His father, William Couch, was orphaned at a young age and was raised by older brothers and sisters. Marion had only met a few of his uncles, as his father never took his family with him when he visited his kinfolk in Kentucky. In the fall of 1990, Marion got his father to tell him where his parents and grandparents were buried and the names of his twelve brothers and sisters. A few months later, in January of 1991, his father died of a heart attack.

So Marion and Martha started making trips to Owsley and Clay County Kentucky, searching for relatives. There were three uncles still living. And the hills of Kentucky were full of Couches! Marion found more cousins in three adjoining counties.

The gravesites of his grandparents and great-grandparents were located, which were marked with sand rock. Thankfully, someone had etched names on the rocks. Marion hand carved new stones for them, and other family members helped place them.

Marion has met many cousins and has heard many interesting stories about the Couch family. Marion heard of another cousin, Naomi Gilbert. Their grandfathers were brothers. This trip to meet his cousin was short. Only a fifteen minute drive to Burnsville, MS! Naomi had married William Thomas Whitaker of Burnsville in 1985. They probably passed each other many times while in the stores in Iuka, and never knew they were cousins. Now they see each other around town.

TCHS Smoke Signals

by Jenni Nichols

September 11th, 2001 was undoubtedly a day forever imprinted into the hearts of all Americans. The tragedy that took place this day was one like no other ever encountered by the United States; families were torn apart, hope was shattered, and cruel realities faced. However, at a time when America was literally on her knees crawling, a miraculous event began to take place. Churches were filled, hands were joined, and America truly began to come together for her fellow people. Citizens from all over the country united - forgetting differences in race, ethnicity, and religion - so that we were simply helping other Americans who were calling out for help. Looking back, it hardly seems possible for the 5 year anniversary to have come and gone. Although the date may have passed one more year, we must never forget this tragedy and its sorrow and despair because by doing so, we also remember to never forget the unity, love and bonds formed. May God Bless America!

It's that time again! Six weeks tests are this week, Wednesday-Friday. "All others" will be given on Wednesday, history and math on Thursday, and science and English on Friday. Remember to study because these count 25% of final grades!

- Seniors: If you have not had your senior pictures taken, be sure to see Mrs. Taylor; also, if you have had your pictures taken, be sure to be selecting your proofs and sending them into the company.
- Season athletic passes are still on sale - $40 for a student and $50 for an adult. See Ms. Jordan for more information.
- Yearbooks are still on sale; see Mrs. Taylor.
- Tutoring is available Monday-Thursday, 3-4 in Ms. Key's room (233). Feel free to stay after school and get some extra help!

Cherokee High School Tribe Football

By Shelby Waddell

Cherokee won their home opener 40-6 on Friday night. The Indians rushed for 258 yards, and Cody Lambert threw for 117 yards and one touchdown, while rushing for two others. Cherokee struck first with a two-yard run by Dominique Croom. Shelby Waddell made the extra point making it 7-0. Winston County cut it to 7-6 on a Josh Kelly pass to Ken Waldon that was tipped but caught in the end zone. The extra point was no good. Then, Cody Lambert connected with Kodi Berryman on a 10-yard pass play to extend Cherokee's lead to 14-6 with Waddell's extra point.

In the second quarter, Cherokee scored again on a Cody Lambert 36-yard run. The Waddell's extra point was good, making it 21-6 Cherokee at the half. It did not take Cherokee long to extend their lead in the third quarter. A 38-yard run by Lambert and a failed extra point snap made the Cherokee lead 27-6. Cherokee again added to their lead in the fourth quarter when D.J. Brooks scored on a 37-yard run, but the extra point was wide left giving Cherokee a 33-6 lead. Then, late in the game, the Cherokee defensive line put the icing on the cake when defensive tackle, Josh Kay, blocked a Yellow Jacket punt. The punt was scooped up by nose guard Marty McCaig and returned ten yards for a touchdown. Waddell's extra point was successful and set the final winning margin at 40-6.

Cherokee right guard Drew Malone said about the win, "We had a good week of practice, and we had a good night. It is a good win." Linebacker Josh Berrios said, "It's a win." Head Coach Barry Daniel said "It's a good win, and it's a region win. It puts us one step close to the playoffs." My MVP for the week is the Cherokee Defense, who forced seven fumbles and recovered two, blocked a punt, and held Winston County to six points in the victory. Cherokee will face the Hatton hornets this week. They are coming off a loss to state-ranked Addison 49-15 on Friday night. GO TRIBE!

This week's game: Cherokee Indians 1-1 (1-0) at Hatton Hornets 0-2 (0-1). Kickoff: 7:00 p.m. Projected Score - Cherokee: 35 at Hatton: 13.

Against the Mantachie Mustangs last Friday night, five of the Braves' tribe charged the enemy trying to make a hole big enough for #2 Tyler Walker to score. TC News would like to thank Tishomingo County High School graduate, Shelby Daniel (1993), for this week's football pictures of the Braves in action. Shelby is currently perfecting his photography skills as a freelance photographer. Anyone interested in purchasing any of Shelby's photographs may log on to www.shelbydaniel.smugmug.com to order.

This time last week, the Tishomingo County Braves were 2-0, and they were looking to make it 3-0 on Friday night at Mantachie.

The first quarter of play at Mantachie brought many punts and resulted in no scores. The second quarter brought scoring for both teams. Tyler Pritchard sprinted in from 6-yards out to put the Braves on the board first. The Mustangs answered immediately. On the ensuing kickoff, Mantachie's Jason Pettigo returned the ball 75 yards for the first Mustang touchdown. The Braves went right back to work. This time, they used the passing game. Aaron Kissinger found Steven Atkins from 15 yards out to make the halftime score 14-6. Atkins was also 4 for 5 on extra points on the night.

The third quarter was a low scoring quarter. The only score was a Kissinger 1-yard run to make the score 21-6. The fourth quarter was plagued by cramps and penalty flags. But, Tyler Pritchard didn't cave. He scored twice in the quarter on runs of 42 and 8 yards to put the game out of reach. Pettigo added his second touchdown of the night in the fourth on a 30-yard run. A "big" Tyler Walker fumble recovery ended any Mustang threat, and the Braves made it 3-0, winning 34-12.

Also this past week, the Braves moved into their first poll of the year. The Braves were ranked fourth in the Daily Journal fan poll. The top 5 were #1—West Point, #2—Oxford, #3—Lafayette County, #4—Tishomingo County, #5—Starkville. Also, this past week, Aaron Kissinger was named to the Clarion Ledger's top performers of the week list. He was nominated for his 5 TD's against Belmont. This week, Tishomingo County (3-0) will host the Pontotoc Warriors (1-2) in the first week of Division I-4A play. Come out and support the football Braves. Game time is 7:00 p.m.

TCHS Slow-Pitch Softball

The Tishomingo County Lady Braves won three games this week; two of them were Division I-4A contests. Last Tuesday, Sept. 5, the Lady Braves hosted the Shannon Lady Raiders. The Lady Braves started and never stopped. They scored 14 runs in the first inning. Four homeruns were also hit in the inning: the biggest—a Grand Slam from Hannah Thomas. The Lady Braves won easily in five innings, 19-0. Multiple hitters were Emily Barnes, Devin Reader, Carrie Keeton, Samantha Mann, Jennifer Dooley, Maegan Rinehart, and Erin James; each had 2. The JV won their game easily—thanks to home runs by Tabi Talley and Bailey Bullock, winning 16-0.

On Thursday, the TCHS Lady Braves hosted the New Albany Lady Bulldogs. This, again, was a slugfest! The Lady Braves scored 8 in the second inning. The big hit of the inning was a Grand Slam by Devin Reader. Also, in the second, TCHS history was made when Samantha Mann became the first Lady Brave to hit a homerun "OUT" of Lady Braves' Softball Field. Good job, Samantha! The Lady Braves went on to win 14-0 in five innings. Multiple hitters were Addy Brown with 3, Emily Barnes, Reader, Mann, Kelly Rone, and Jennifer Dooley each had 2. Maegan Rinehart also had a solo homerun in the game. The JV also defeated the Lady Bulldogs on a Shelby Bonds' homerun. They won 6-3.

Saturday, the Lady Braves traveled to Corinth for one of the few non-division games left on the schedule. The Lady Braves came out and scored 7 in the first—in part, to an Anna Taylor Grand Slam. But, the Lady Warriors came right back and scored 2 in the bottom half on a Samantha Yarber homerun. Corinth, though, couldn't keep up with the Lady Braves' hitting. The Lady Braves won 13-3 in six innings. Multiple hitters were Taylor with 3, Emily Barnes, Samantha Mann, Kelly Rone, and Brandy Bell each had 2. Both of Emily Barnes' hits were homeruns. Carrie Keeton came in and recorded the save for the JV; they barely held on for a 3-2 win.

This week, the Clarion Ledger and Daily Journal polls were revised. In the Clarion Ledger, Tishomingo County fell to sixth in the state. The Top 10 were #1—Petal, #2—Newton County, #3—New Hope, #4—Clarkdale, #5—Grenada, #6—Tishomingo County, #7—Mooreville, #8—Quitman, #9—Eupora, #10—Tupelo. The Daily Journal poll was flipped around a little, but the Lady Braves remained on the top. The top 5 were #1—Tishomingo County, #2—Tupelo, #3 Booneville, #4—Mooreville, and #5—East Union.

The Varsity finished this past week 17-1, 3-0 in division play. The JV is currently 10-1.

This week, Tishomingo County is on the road. On Tuesday, the Lady Braves were at Saltillo. On Thursday, the Lady Braves will face the

BULLDOG BULLETIN

The Bulldogs will meet the Belmont Cardinals at home on Tuesday, September 12th. We will play Burnsville on their field on Thursday night, the 14th, and Iuka on their turf on September, 19, 2006.

Our parents should have gotten a school memo to sign and return to school regarding two new policies recently adopted by the county school board.

"Students are not allowed to have cell phones at school. If a teacher sees or hears a cell phone, the following consequences will apply:

1st Offense - The phone will be taken up and returned at the end of the day.

2nd Offense - The phone will be held for 15 days or returned for a $15 fee.

3rd Offense & Every Offense Thereafter - The phone will be held for 25 days or returned for a $25 fee."

The board also adapted a new grading scale.

- A 93 - 100
- B 85 - 92
- C 75 - 84
- D 70 - 74
- F Below 70

The end of the first six weeks is September 15th. If you have AR points to earn before the end of the six weeks, you need to be reading! Speaking of reading, the fall book fair will arrive soon - more on that later!

Every Day Should Be A Day For Kids

All Kids Are Invited To Meet at the Tishomingo County Fairgrounds This Saturday at 9:00 AM

By Kevin Lovelace

In the United States it seems there's a "day" for just about everyone: Mothers' Day, Fathers' Day, Grandparents' Day. There's even a day for groundhogs. But there's one important group—arguably the most important in our country—that isn't recognized: Our Kids.

Millions of Americans recognize the link between spending meaningful time with their kids and tough issues facing young people, but say they don't have the time, skills or resources to do as much for their children as they feel they should.

All families experience the pressures of contemporary life, regardless of their economic status, ethnicity or cultural background. This affects the amount of positive quality time they are able to devote to their children.

On Saturday, September 16, Boys & Girls Clubs of America (BGCA) will launch the first "Boys & Girls Club Day for Kids," an event celebrating the value of meaningful time between parents and children. Millions of parents and kids will participate in some 2,000 events at Boys & Girls Clubs and other locations nationwide. With 100 years experience in providing services for youth nationwide, there's no organization as uniquely positioned to lead this effort.

But while we've designated September 16 as the official

"Day for Kids" to bring attention to the messages of Boys & Girls Clubs Day for Kids; in reality every day should be a Day for Kids. This day is intended to serve as a fun platform to reinforce an on-going message of spending meaningful time with kids. To assist parents, practitioners and other caring adults, we have created engaging educational resources to help them encourage and develop positive relationships with kids. We've launched a year-round web site (www.dayforkids.org) to provide tools, resources and tips that support their interactions with young people. Throughout the nation, corporations, non-profit organizations, public officials and caring adults are joining in this effort to celebrate and recognize the importance of positively influencing a child's life.

A recent survey showed that young people are engaging in more physical activities and games with their parents several times a week and eating home-cooked dinners together regularly. Still, they say they want their parents to work less and spend more outdoor time with them year-round.

BGC Day for Kids will provide an opportunity for adults to take a break, celebrate and renew their commitment to their children. The Day will foster stronger relationships between adults and children by educating them on the importance and value of spending meaningful time together.

On BGC Day for Kids, thousands of kids and other positive adults, including Tishomingo County 4-H, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and the Boys & Girls Club of Iuka, will gather at the Tishomingo County Fairgrounds for a day of fun meaningful activities. The event will begin at 9:00 a.m. and last until 1:00.

Other participants and sponsors included in the event are as follows:

- The Air Evac Team,
- Iuka Fire Department
- Jacks Restaurant
- Sonic Drive-In
- Coca Cola Bottling Company
- Crows Neck Environmental Center
- Wonder Bread
- Piggly Wiggly
- The Partnership for a Healthy Mississippi,

as well as many others. It should be a fun filled day of fun, engaging activities for the entire family.

In the end, it's not so much what you do that matters, but that you simply spend some meaningful time with your kids not just on one day, but throughout the year.

If you would like to learn more about Boys & Girls Club Days for Kids and the events planned for Iuka, Please visit www.dayforkids.org.

Iuka Baptist Presents "See You At The Pole" September 23, 2006

Be Still, Know God - "See You At The Pole" Rally at Iuka Baptist Church, Saturday, September 23, 2006 from 6:00 p.m. until Meal will be served at 6 PM; rally starts at 7:00 with special guests, Austin Black and the Praise Band. Snack shack will be open later that evening. Please note that this is an interdenominational youth rally! Churches please contact T.J. Stricklen at 423-6451 or the Tishomingo Baptist Association at 438-7546 by September 20, 2006 to let us know the approximate number of students attending the meal at 6 PM.

In a world full of chaos and endless activity, God is calling for us to slow down and listen to Him. Intent on making their lives count, millions of teenagers will pause to do that at "See You At The Pole" this September.

"Be STILL and KNOW that I am GOD" is the theme for SYATP this year, with prayer scheduled for Wednesday, September 27, at school flagpoles.

The "Be STILL" theme is taken from Psalm 46:10, where God says, "Be still and know that I am God. I will be exalted among the nations." Many are familiar with this Old Testament verse. But fewer would be aware that in context, the admonition was God's recommended response to the chaos of natural disaster and wartime conflict, two conditions that are as familiar to modern man as to the ancients.

Americans were reeling from the impact of Hurricane Katrina at the time of last year's SYATP. And in Quezon City in the Philippines, more than 1,200 gathered solemnly at Jubilee Christian Academy, praying for the world in spite of typhoon-driven weather.

"See You At The Pole" is a student-initiated and student-led movement that started in the Ft. Worth suburb of Burleson, TX in 1990. It originated with just one youth group, who met at night at several schools around Burleson during a weekend retreat. SYATP brings students to their school flagpoles to intercede for their leaders, schools, and families, asking God to bring moral and spiritual awakening to their campuses and countries.

In 2005, more than 2 million teenagers met for "See You At The Pole" in all 50 states. Internationally, reports came in from countries on six continents, including the Democratic Republic of Congo, Ecuador, Germany, Ghana, Guam, Hong Kong, Japan, Kenya, South Korea, Malaysia, Nigeria, Norway, Peru, Portugal, Scotland, and South Africa.

Please encourage your young people to participate in "See You At The Pole" by attending the SYATP Rally Saturday, September 23 and by gathering to pray at their schools Wednesday, September 27.

Sardis Church News

We at Sardis extend a welcoming hand to all who wish to come together in the name of the Lord Jesus. We've been blessed with another week of life and the opportunity that goes with it of spreading God's Word and enjoying good fellowship with one another.

Verse of the Week: "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night"

(Psalm 1:1-2).

In this lesson we are urged to live every day according to the principles set forth in God's Word. Psalm 1:1-6; Psalm 1:5.

Letter To The Editor...

I can't tell you how much I enjoy the snake pictures and Tommy Cadle's commentaries on the pictures and snakes in general. (I really enjoyed the Jim Autry poem this past week.) I now look for Mr. Cadle's letter each week of snake season before I look at the birthday pictures or read the grocery ads, which have always been the highlight of my week.

It is my opinion that others in our area are equally impressed and as a result your circulation surely must have increased. I can attest to that fact as the rack at Piggly Wiggly is often empty if I don't get there to pick up a paper by early Thursday afternoon. Therefore, I suggest that you consider giving Mr. Cadle a FREE lifetime subscription to the Tishomingo County News, especially if he agrees to keep the letters coming each week.

Before we sold the Iuka Piggly Wiggly store to good folks from Belmont (the Vinsons and the Pharrs), I saw Mr. Cadle on a regular basis. At that time I had no idea that he was such an expert on snakes. I'm glad he decided to share his expertise with all of us.

Keep up the good work, Tommy, and I hope Odle has a snake worthy of a picture in the County News soon.

Sincerely,
Janet Fulton

Across U.S., Members Divide
On Making Sermons, Music
More 'Purpose-Driven'

No More 'Wrath of God'?

By SUZANNE SATALINE
September 5, 2006; Page A1

IUKA, Miss. -- In April, 150 members of Iuka Baptist Church voted to kick Charles Jones off the deacons' board. The punishment followed weeks of complaints by Mr. Jones and his friends that the pastor was following the teachings of the Rev. Rick Warren, the best-selling author and church-growth guru. After the vote, about 40 other members quit the church to support Mr. Jones.

Mr. Warren, the effusive pastor of stadium-sized Saddleback Church in Lake Forest, Calif., is best known for his book "The Purpose-Driven Life," which has sold 25 million copies and urges people to follow God's plan for them. He has spawned an industry advising churches to become "purpose-driven" by attracting nonbelievers with lively worship services, classes and sermons that discuss Jesus' impact on their lives, and invitations to volunteer.

But the purpose-driven movement is dividing the country's more than 50 million evangelicals. Some evangelicals, like the Iuka castoffs, say it's inappropriate for churches to use growth tactics akin to modern management tools, including concepts such as researching the church "market" and writing mission statements. Others say it encourages simplistic Bible teaching. Anger over the adoption of Mr. Warren's methods has driven off older Christians from their longtime churches. Congregations nationwide have split or expelled members who fought the changes, roiling working-class Baptist congregations and affluent nondenominational churches.

Last summer, the evangelical church of onetime Supreme Court nominee Harriet Miers split after adopting Mr. Warren's techniques. That church, Valley View Christian Church in Dallas, wanted to increase membership and had built a huge sanctuary several years ago to accommodate hundreds of people. Church leaders adopted a strategic plan built around Mr. Warren's five "fundamental purposes": worship, fellowship, discipleship, ministry and evangelism. One goal was to make sure more than 19% of the church's members were adults in their 20s and 30s, says the pastor, the Rev. Barry McCarty.

The Rev. Ron Key, then the senior minister, says he objected to the church's "Madison Avenue" marketing. "I believe Jesus died for everybody," Mr. Key says, not just people in a "target audience." He says the leaders wanted church that was "more edgy," with a worship service using modern music. Mr. Key was demoted, then fired for being divisive and insubordinate.

About 200 people, many of whom had left the church earlier because they thought it should give more money to mission work, began worshiping in a Doubletree Hotel, and later in a college gym, with Mr. Key as pastor. Ms. Miers, the White House counsel, worships with them when she comes to town; a White House spokeswoman says.

At a time when many churches are struggling with declining or aging congregations, advocates of the purpose-driven movement credit it with energizing congregations, doubling the size of some churches and boosting the number of "megachurches" of more than 2,000 members. Mr. Warren says his church and nonprofit arm have trained 400,000 pastors world-wide. He reaches many more through sales of his sermons, books and lessons on the Web. Mr. Warren says he donates 90% of his money to fund philanthropy and overseas training.

Mr. Warren preaches in sandals and a Hawaiian shirt, and he encourages ministers to banish church traditions such as hymns, choirs and pews. He and his followers use "praise team" singers, backed by rock bands playing contemporary Christian songs. His sermons rarely linger on self-denial and fighting sin, instead focusing on healing modern American angst, such as troubled marriages and stress.

As membership in Protestant churches stagnated in the 1980s, Mr. Warren, a Southern Baptist in Orange County, Calif., learned from surveys that the region's Reagan-era baby boomers said they didn't connect with their parents' churches. He figured they might find God if they could sit in a theater-style auditorium and listen to live pop music and sermons that could help them with ennui and personal problems. Through Mr. Warren's Internet marketing savvy, tens of thousands of subscribing pastors learned about his church, which draws 20,000 people each weekend. In the past decade, many pastors jumped to replicate his methods, creating new churches and transforming existing ones. Christians have long divided over efforts to adapt and modernize their faith. Some believers worry that purpose-driven techniques are so widespread among Protestant churches that they are permanently altering the way Christians worship. Some traditionalists say Mr. Warren's messages misread Bible passages and undermine traditions. Mr. Warren is "gutting" Christianity, says the Rev. Bob DeWaay, author of a book critical of the approach. "The Bible's theme is about redemption and atonement, not finding meaning and solving problems," the Minneapolis pastor says. A spokesman said Mr. Warren believes the Bible addresses sin and redemption, as well as human problems.

Some pastors learn how to make their churches purpose-driven through training workshops. Speakers at Church Transitions Inc., a Waxhaw, N.C., nonprofit that works closely with Mr. Warren's church, stress that the transition will be rough. At a seminar outside of Austin, Texas, in April, the Revs. Roddy Clyde and Glen Sartain advised 80 audience members to trust very few people with their plans. "All the forces of hell are going to come at you when you wake up that church," said Mr. Sartain, who has taught the material at Mr. Warren's Saddleback Church.

During a session titled "Dealing with Opposition," Mr. Clyde recommended that the pastor speak to critical members, then help them leave if they don't stop objecting. Then when those congregants join a new church, Mr. Clyde instructed, pastors should call their new minister and suggest that the congregants be barred from any leadership role.

"There are moments when you've got to play hardball," said the Rev. Dan Southerland, Church Transitions' president, in an interview. "You cannot transition a church...and placate every whiny Christian along the way."

Mr. Warren acknowledges that splits occur in congregations that adopt his ideas, though he says he opposes efforts to expel church members. "There is no growth without change and there is no change without loss and there is no loss without pain," he says. "Probably 10% of all churches are in conflict at any given point, regardless of what they're doing." That, he contends, "is not just symptomatic of changing to purpose-driven. It would be symptomatic in changing to anything."

Despite successes elsewhere, the exodus at some churches adopting the purpose-driven approach has been dramatic. Since taking the job of senior pastor of First Baptist Church of Lakewood in Long Beach, Calif., seven years ago, the Rev. John Dickau has watched attendance slide to 550 from 700. "I've often wondered, where's the bottom?" he says. Mr. Dickau has emulated Mr. Warren by favoring sermons about marital and family issues. He says he has attended several Church Transitions conferences to glean new insights and is personally coached by Mr. Sartain. Still, Mr. Dickau says, he made plenty of missteps, mainly, moving too fast. He proposed that the church drop the word "Baptist" from the name, to reach people who wouldn't identify with a denomination, but the congregation vote failed.

He jettisoned the piano for a guitar. And still people left, he says -- because the music is modern, because the congregation no longer uses hymn books, because the center screen that displays the song lyrics obscures the cross. Having a smaller congregation has meant trimming the $1.7 million budget to be able to afford adding to the sound system and new stage lights, which cost $150,000, Mr. Dickau says.

Still, he says he doesn't regret adopting a purpose-driven approach. "This church won't be here that much longer if we don't make these changes," he says.

The Rev. Bob Felts, pastor of Brookwood Church in Burlington, N.C., says his former congregation seemed enthusiastic about the purpose-driven approach in the 1990s. So he eagerly introduced the concepts to his new church starting in 2001.

Half the members, he said, balked at his decisions to dress casually, restrict choir performances and use electric instruments. Services now may start with a piercing electric-guitar solo, boosted with amplifiers from the $50,000 sound system. Nearly five years into the process, Mr. Felts says he has more young people than in years past: 40% of those who attend are under 22, as opposed to 20% years earlier. But attendance shrank to 275 this summer from 600. (He expects returning students from the area college to swell the rolls by 70.) Mr. Felts says he had to cut tens of thousands of dollars from the annual budget, which is now $600,000. He says some departing members have accused him of "ruining the church."

Mr. Felts says that despite his church's troubles, most churches that follow the purpose-driven way are growing. "It takes time and persistence," he says. "You're talking about a new paradigm." Mr. Warren's philosophy has become such a lightning rod that some church leaders are reluctant to declare that they are using purpose-driven methods -- and some congregants see hidden agendas in the smallest changes at their churches.

Since Iuka Baptist's founding in 1859, its services had remained much the same. Sunday morning began with hymns such as "How Great Thou Art" and "O Worship the King," followed by prayer and a lengthy sermon. Many of the white working-class families who attend the church have known each other since high school.

But the church was in debt and wasn't growing. After Iuka's pastor moved to another church in 2003, a search committee recruited the Rev. Jim Holcomb, 48. He preached with gusto, liberally salting his sermons with personal stories and jokes. Changes were coming, he told members, and he warned that the church could lose some members because of it.

Mr. Holcomb says he partially read an earlier Warren book called "The Purpose-Driven Church" and read Mr. Warren's essays in the Ladies' Home Journal. He says Mr. Warren's teachings were never part of his agenda. He was promoting "aggressive, evangelistic outreach" to bolster the church. "If that's purpose-driven, then I'm purpose-driven," he says.

Innovations that are hallmarks of many purpose-driven churches soon began rippling through Iuka Baptist. Mr. Holcomb began a second worship service at 8:30 a.m. Sundays with a "praise team" that sang hymns as well as Christian pop songs with lyrics beamed on a screen. In 2005, Iuka Baptist adopted its first mission statement, a tactic that Mr. Warren says helps the church focus on its objectives. One of the school's adult Sunday school teachers bought each of his 12 students a copy of "The Purpose-Driven Life." The church's youth minister assigned the book to his 60 middle-school and high-school students.

The church began to grow. Membership this spring was 694 local members, up 170 since Mr. Holcomb became pastor, according to church staff. But the changes dismayed several older members. Charles Jones, 67, had belonged to Iuka Baptist for 59 years and was one of 15 deacons, or lay officers. He and his wife, Nena, were married at the church, as was their daughter.

The Joneses grew disappointed that they rarely heard Mr. Holcomb deliver messages from the pulpit about God's wrath or redemption. "He didn't preach on somebody going to hell," says Mrs. Jones, 61. Mr. Holcomb says he has always preached sound biblical messages.

Mrs. Jones began scouring the Internet to investigate all the changes taking place at Iuka. Her searches led her to Web sites run by critics of Mr. Warren as well as to Mr. Warren's own Web site.

More than a dozen church members, including the Joneses, began meeting privately to complain about changes. Church leaders became angry. "The Rev. Jim Holcomb has been slandered and insulted by some of you," the church's minister for education, the Rev. Kim Leonard, thundered at one service. Mr. Holcomb and Mr. Leonard deny that Iuka Baptist was becoming purpose-driven. Mr. Leonard says it was "coincidence" that the new initiatives resembled strategies advocated by Mr. Warren and his movement.

Then a Web site run by a critic of Mr. Warren posted a letter from Mrs. Jones describing her worries about Iuka Baptist and comparing the congregation's admiration for Mr. Holcomb to the cult followings of Jim Jones and David Koresh. The posting sparked angry emails from church members. A church meeting was soon called. Hundreds of people packed into the pews. After heated arguments, the congregation voted 150-to-41 to throw Mr. Jones off the board. The members also accepted the resignations of two other deacons, friends of Mr. Jones who had been asked to leave the board. In the weeks that followed, 40 church members quit.

With no church to worship in this spring, Mr. Jones led 30 former Iuka members in prayer one May night at a public park. He asked God to bless their former spiritual home and those who had forced them from it.

"Keep your eyes on Iuka Baptist Church, Lord," Mr. Jones said, his head bowed, "that you may open their eyes and their hearts."

Mr. Holcomb, the pastor whose changes at the church started the controversy, has left Iuka for another church. A search committee continues to look for a new pastor. Deacon Kenny Phifer said the committee won't hire a pastor who will make Iuka purpose-driven.
