Iuka Man Killed in Wreck Tuesday

Pamela McRae

An Iuka man was killed in a collision on U.S. Highway 72 early Tuesday morning.

According to the Mississippi Highway Patrol release, troopers were dispatched at approximately 6 a.m., to the scene at U.S. Highway 72, near the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) scales. Upon arriving, it appeared Clive Carvey, of Marietta, GA, operating a 2011 Freightliner tractor/trailer owned by Werner Enterprises, was in the east bound lane when a 2007 GMC Yukon, driven by Christopher Littlejohn, 26, of Iuka, collided with the back of the Werner truck.

Some eyewitnesses reported that the truck had apparently missed the turnoff to the scales, and appeared to be backing up to access the entrance ramp, when the Yukon ran up under the back of the truck. The accident is still under investigation by the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Littlejohn received fatal injuries in the wreck, according to Tishomingo County Coroner Jack Wilemon. He was reportedly in route to the Subway restaurant in Cherokee, Alabama, and Wilemon. The Littlejohn family owns the Subway restaurants in Iuka, Cherokee and Belmont.

Christopher was a very outgoing person, a brother, a son, and a devoted boss at Subway. Everyone that met Christopher loved him. He had a contagious smile on his face that you couldn't help but love. Cars were his passion, along with spending time with family and friends out on the river. Christopher was devoted to running his store in Cherokee and will be greatly missed by his family, friends, and employees. -Jeremiah 29:11

Cutshall Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Visitation will be held Wednesday at 6 p.m. at First Freewill Baptist Church, Iuka. Funeral services will be Thursday at 1 at the church.

Tishomingo Nurse Loses 160 Pounds, Gains Life Back

A nurse for 21 years, Cherri Southward Cox of Tishomingo knew excess weight was the culprit behind her blood pressure, diabetes and sleep apnea.

Cox was working on a medical/surgical unit at North Mississippi Medical Center in Tupelo when surgeon Terry Pinson, M.D., started laying the groundwork for a Bariatric Center. She transferred to her new position in January 2007, and the center opened that September.

Heavy all her life, Cox was missing out on her son's activities. "I was so tired all of the time," she said. "All I wanted to do was sleep-I had no energy whatsoever."

At 300 pounds, she wondered if patients would even listen to her advice. "I was afraid my patients would look at me and say 'she needs to practice what she preaches,'" she said.

Weighing the Options

Dr. Pinson performs three types of bariatric procedures at NMMC: gastric bypass, laparoscopic adjustable gastric band and laparoscopic vertical sleeve gastrectomy.

Gastric bypass creates a very small upper stomach pouch-less than one ounce-by transecting the stomach. Because it doesn't take much food or liquid to fill the new, small pouch, the person enjoys eating a lot less. In addition, food is not absorbed as well as it once was, contributing to rapid weight loss.

Laparoscopic adjustable gastric band surgery consists of placing a silicone band around the upper part of the stomach and filling it with saline. This creates a new, smaller stomach pouch that can hold only a small amount of food. Gastric band surgery is the least invasive of the three procedures, as it does not require stomach cutting and stapling or gastrointestinal re-routing to bypass normal digestion.

Laparoscopic vertical sleeve gastrectomy generates weight loss by restricting the amount of food that may be consumed without bypassing the stomach or a portion of the small intestine. A portion of the stomach is removed and a new stomach pouch is formed. This procedure helps to reduce the sensation of hunger by possibly eliminating some of the gastrointestinal hormones responsible for the hunger pains. While the stomach is reduced in volume, it functions normally so most food items can be consumed but in smaller portions.

After talking with Dr. Pinson, Cox underwent laparoscopic adjustable gastric band surgery in December 2007. Since then she has since lost 160 pounds, and her health issues have all resolved. Now she works out regularly, runs 5Ks and keeps up with her son's school activities and sports, even serving as vice president of his football league. She has learned to shoot a rifle and fishes with her son often. She joined the church choir and coordinates children's activities on Wednesday nights.

"I am much more active and will try almost anything once," she said. "We are always on the go and I'm ready for more, bring it on!"

Cox studied to become a Certified Bariatric Nurse, so she has specialized training to complement her years of nursing practice and firsthand experience. In addition to meeting with patients one-on-one, she often speaks at educational seminars and Weight Loss Support Group meetings. Because she has traveled the same journey, others feel comfortable asking questions and sharing concerns.

"Being around for my son and sharing life with him is the main reason I had my surgery, and for that alone I would do it again in a heartbeat. I have no regrets," Cox said. "Bariatric surgery gave me life. I am healthier and happier than I have ever been, and I only see my life getting better and better."

Why Weight?

Dr. Pinson and his staff present a free Bariatric Educational Seminar at noon the first Thursday of each month and at 6 p.m. the third Thursday of each month. Both seminars are held at NMMC's Wellness Center in Tupelo.

Fredda and Sam, and Frankie and Mike Beard, her sister and brother-in-law, traveled for two weeks this past summer enjoying many beautiful sights including the first national park, Yellowstone, which was established in 1872. They learned about conservation of wildlife and land preserved by the United States government for public enjoyment. Fredda showed a PowerPoint presentation of several beautiful photos they made during their trip.

Is There A Bible Doctrine Of Election?

One of the most heated debates over the Bible doctrine of election. The opinions on this subject range from those who believe everybody has been elected, to those who believe only certain ones have been elected and the rest must go to hell, with no real opportunity to be saved. Let me say up front that I will not give the last word on the doctrine of election, but I do believe that the subject is a major one in the Bible and deserves our best attention in seeking to understand it as much as possible. I need to say also that I have strong doubts that anyone, except God, fully understands this doctrine. This by no means should keep us from studying this truth, for everything that God has put in His word is for our learning, even the Old Testament law given to Moses. I say this, because some Christians say that we have no real need to read or study the Old Testament, since, as they assume, it is not for our day. Romans 15:4 says, "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope." This means that the Old Testament was written for the learning of the church also! It is a cheap kind of laziness that is willing to lay aside the Old Testament, as if it had no value for our day!

With this said, let me say that the doctrine of election is for people of all ages, even if the Old Testament does not actually use the word "election"; it does use the word "elect" four times. All of these are from the Book of Isaiah. Isaiah 42:1 speaks of the coming Messiah as God's elect; Isaiah 45:4 speaks of Israel as God's elect, as does Isaiah 65:9 and 65:22. The Hebrew word for "elect" in the Old Testament means: "to select". It is translated as: "choose, chosen one, elect." The reference to the Messiah (anointed One = Jesus) in Isaiah 42:1 means that God the Father chose His Son to come to earth, first as the humble servant, Who would die for our sins, then as the conquering King, Who will bring all nations into subjection to Himself. So, in this case of "election", there could be nobody else who could "fit the bill" to do what Jesus was elected to do. So, election does not always refer to the salvation of the one elected, for Jesus needed no salvation, since He has never sinned. In the case of Israel's election, mentioned in Isaiah 45:4; 65:9,22, we have God choosing a particular nation for a particular purpose, namely that it should be a missionary nation to the entire world. Although Israel utterly failed to do what God had planned for her, she still is God's chosen nation. No other nation has ever had the privileged position that Israel occupies. Deuteronomy 9:5-7 shows that God's election of Israel was because of His covenant with Abraham, not because of their righteousness, for they were rebellious!

Charles Kennedy Black

Long time Tishomingo educator and principal, Charles Kennedy Black died at his home Wednesday, January 15th, 2014 after an extended illness. He was born December 14th, 1944, the only son of the late Woodrow and Clara Kennedy Black of Tishomingo. 1962 graduate of Tishomingo High School, "Coach Black" as he was widely known, attended Mississippi State University and earned his Masters and Specialist Degrees in Education. At the request of then-principal, C. Strickland, he returned home to teach at his alma mater, specifically to help the school successfully integrate in the 1966-67 school year. He taught high school and then junior high science to countless Tishomingo students for 39 years and coached basketball and football teams early in his career. He drove the bus for the Carter's Branch community, and had a special relationship with the people of that area. He was a behind-the-scenes leader and administrator, supporting the work of many of Tishomingo's principals. He was principal of Tishomingo Middle School when he retired a few years ago.

Charles served the county for many years as a member of the Tishomingo County Electric Power Association Board of Directors, including through the 1994 ice storm.

There was seemingly no person or family in Tishomingo with whom Charles Black was not familiar, and he had nearly perfect recall if you asked him about someone. He was a member of Tishomingo Baptist Church.

Services were held at 10 a.m. on Friday, January 18th, at Tishomingo Baptist Church with Bro. Robbie Kane and Bro. Todd Cecil officiating. Burial was in Tishomingo City Cemetery. Deaton Funeral Home of Belmont was in charge of the arrangements.

Survivors include his wife, Marcia McRae Black; and their son, Alan, who was his pride and joy; and an uncle, Dwight Kennedy.

Pallbearers were Connor McRae, Jeremy Ray, Jody McClung, Paul Whitlock, Jon Paul Whitlock and Harry Bowman.
