Ferguson Still in Limbo About $18,617 Power Bill

Pamela McRae

Tuesday night, the board of the Tishomingo County Electric Power Association put off any decision on the re-case in which a Tishomingo business served an $18,617 bill to make up for over-billing caused by the Association's metering system.

The recent case of a Tishomingo business receiving a seemingly outlandish power bill has many wondering if the same thing could happen to them.

In early December, Pattie Ferguson opened her Tishomingo County Electric Power Association bill for Pattie's One Stop and found she owed $18,617. She thought it was a misprint, and when another bill for the more customary amount of $837 arrived, she paid it. Shortly after, she got a personal visit from TCEPA Executive Director Robert Grisham saying that the bill was correct, and that the meter the power company installed had not been correctly reporting her usage data for the past approximately two and a half years — she had, in essence, only been paying for half her actual power usage.

Tuesday night, at the regularly scheduled TCEPA Board of Directors Meeting, Gerald Barnes, acting as chairman in the absence of chairman Jimmy Marlin, who was unable to attend due to illness, said that Marlin and he had discussed it, and decided to table any vote or decision on the Pattie's One Stop bill issue until all members could be present. Board Attorney Steve Jackson was also not in attendance, due to a previous appointment, and they wanted to wait until he was able to attend, as well, Barnes said.

Members of the board still discussed the issue, because it was reported in the Tupelo paper that the power company had suggested a $450 every two weeks payment plan to business owner Ferguson, in addition to her regular bill, which is about $700-800.

Several board members said they recalled discussing a payment plan of $100 or $125 a month, and wondered where the information came from.

After the meeting, it was confirmed that Grisham had sent Ferguson a proposal dated January 10th, offering $150 be added to her monthly bill until the underbilled amount was paid, or the $450 every two weeks, neither option of which Ferguson has agreed to do without some answers.

Board members asked where the minutes were to the December meeting,

County Tournament Champs Win in Close Games

Last Thursday night, Iuka Middle School was the scene for four exciting games in the finals of the Tishomingo County Tournament.

Opening the night, the Burnsville and Belmont

7th grade girls battled until the very end, and were neck and neck. When the final buzzer sounded, Burnsville was ahead, and clinched the championship.

In 7th grade boys action, Iuka and Burnsville faced off, and the Burnsville boys accomplished a decisive victory to be the 7th grade boys champs.

The 8th grade Lady Chieftains trailed the Lady Cardinals through the first half, but then rallied during the third quarter to nearly win. Some last minute hustle by Belmont, aided by a couple fouls from Iuka, helped the Lady Cardinals to win the 8th grade title. Both Iuka and Belmont 8th grade teams advanced to play in the 5-County Tournament at Northeast Mississippi Community College this week.

The 8th grade Iuka and Burnsville boys' match-up provided more excitement, as the Mustangs and Chieftains matched scoring throughout the game. In the final seconds, Iuka was ahead by a point, and with a final possession they sealed the victory with a lay-up by Cade Butler. The score of 39-36 reflected the close game. Both first and second place teams advance to the 5-County Tournament.

since they apparently were not in the board members' papers and were not available to review or approve. Barnes reported that chairman Marlin determined that he needed to personally review the minutes of the December meeting before the other twelve members of the board saw them.

Ms. Ferguson asked the board, and Grisham, if the new bill she recently received for $742 was representative of what her bill should be, and Grisham said that her meter had been "re-programmed with a hand-held laptop" and should be working correctly now. Someone was scheduled to come examine the meter again Wednesday.

The meters are not read by humans on a regular basis anymore, Grisham has explained. In use since 2004, the "turtle" meters send a report to the substations and that is what determines the usage amount that customers are billed.

However, according to the amount "underbilled," caused by the malfunctioning reporting system for about two years, her regular bills should have been twice the (what she thought was normal) $700-800 amount.

Ferguson has filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission, and Northern District PSC Commissioner Brandon Presley said that the billing system TCEPA and others use like it has been under scrutiny by the PSC for several months.

In fact, the PSC has helped the Desoto County Schools recover more than $1 million in overbilled funds over a decade by their power provider, Entergy.

"A Civil War Valentine" at Shiloh Battlefield

"Shiloh National Military Park is inviting children to participate in a Civil War Valentine's Day program on February 8, at 2:00 pm," Superintendent John Bundy announced today. "We are excited to present this fun filled, yet educational opportunity to area children. This unique hour long program will introduce young people to how Valentine's Day was celebrated 152 years ago in our nation," stated Superintendent Bundy.

Children will gain insight into the history of Valentine's Day, Valentine keepsakes, and how soldiers celebrated the holiday during the Civil War. In the early 1800s most Valentine cards and keepsakes were handmade, and had become the most popular way to express feelings of love. During the Civil War, they combined sentiments of patriotism, love, duty, and loss. The keepsakes appealed to the soldiers who were far away from their loved ones, and were cherished when received in camp.

A particular type of keepsake was the puzzle purse; which is an intricately folded piece of paper that reveals a love message, or another Valentine surprise. Each child will construct a Civil War Valentine puzzle purse to give to someone special.

If your child is interested in attending the annual Civil War Valentine program, please register by contacting Heather Henson at 731-689-5696.

Thank You!

On Saturday, January 18th, our house on Bear Creek caught fire. The volunteer fire departments from Mill Creek/Eastport/Snowdown as well as Mr. Grissom from the Iuka Fire Department arrived in less than 15 minutes and had the fire contained and put out. The firemen were very conscientious, efficient and careful with our home and furnishings. Although we lost part of the home to the fire, thanks to their efforts, we didn't lose our entire home. We would also like to thank all that called and came by to check on us. We have had our home on Bear Creek for over 40 years and it is neighbors and volunteers like this that make us blessed to be part of this community.

Many thanks,
Frank and Edith Barlow

Seeking Identification of World War II Photo

The above photo was found in Tishomingo, among a collection of local old photographs. Researchers have not been able to identify any of the soldiers, but they are hoping that some Vidette readers might. The group is in front of the Eiffel Tower in Paris, so perhaps a photo like that might stand out in someone's memory.

If you have any information on this photo, please call Tishomingo City Hall at 438-6402.

Iuka, Miss. Closing Exercises of the Iuka Female Institute

IUKA, June 27, 1875—It was my good fortune to witness the closing exercises of the above far-famed institution. The concert came off Tuesday night, 15th instant. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity with a large and appreciative audience, who was held spellbound for the hours. Mrs. Steger, formerly Mrs. Tepe of your city, was the principal of this department, and more than sustained her high reputation on the occasion. We had solos, duets, trios, and quartettes of the most elevated and soul-thrilling character. The pieces were admirably selected; the time was perfect, and all performed with an ease and grace which showed that they had a teacher of the highest order of musical talent. The music, which poured forth from the piano and organ in unison, was the most heavenly I ever heard.

Wednesday, the 16th, was commencement day, and seldom have I looked upon a class of graduates who presented so fine an appearance. Beauty and intellect, culture and refinement, beamed in every countenance. The first exercise was the presentation of certificates to the graduates and others for excellency in mathematics, by Miss Hunt, the teacher in this department, who delivered a short and eloquent address. This superior teacher, I learn, has had charge of this department and others for nine sessions in this school, and no male professor could fill her place with more acceptability to her numerous patrons. After the presentation of the certificates, the young ladies delivered their essays—some by speaking, others by reading. The first was a salutatory in Latin, by Miss Shanda, of Senatobia, which she spoke in a style so eloquent that it would almost have won the applause of Cicero himself. Miss Durrett, of Panola, followed with an English salutatory which did honor to the head and heart of the fair young lady. Miss Wadley, of Iuka, read a most beautiful essay in French. Four others, Misses Barbee of Shelby, Ellis and Johnson of Memphis, read essays which would do honor to the more experienced. The valedictory was delivered by Miss Stelle, of Iuka, formerly of DeSoto, in a manner so pathetic, and the matter was so soul-stirring, that nearly all present were bathed in tears. After the graduates had delivered their essays, T. A. Blair, Esq., of Jackson, Tenn., was introduced by the president of the school (Dr. Douglass) to the audience as the orator of the day. When I saw a young man arise to follow all that I had heard, and learned from his exordium that he had only a week's notice, I feared he would fail; but he soon relieved me from these groundless apprehensions. Never did I see any speaker more perfectly at home. His speech was replete with intellect, wit, humor and good sense; gems sparkled in almost every sentence, and the frequent applause from the large and intelligent audience showed how highly this young orator, who once lived among them, was still appreciated by them. I predict for Mr. Blair a most brilliant future. The presentation of diplomas and gold medals to the graduates, which was done by the president in his usual felicitous style, closed the exercises of the occasion. Long will this school live in the hearts of its friends and patrons. I had intended to say something about the beautiful hotel here, now almost completed, the town and its mineral waters, but my sheet is full and I must close. By an observer, June 26, 1875. ### The Coyote by James L. Cummins

A popular figure in folklore and pop culture, coyotes are usually depicted as inventive, mischievous and evasive. The most widely-recognized representation of the coyote is the animated, Wile E. Coyote, of the popular Road Runner cartoon series.

The cartoon character would have you believe that coyotes are found only in the desert and chase only long-legged birds when in fact, the coyote (Canis latrans) is a species of canine found in all parts of the United States, except for Hawaii. Unlike the wolf, the coyote's range has expanded along with human civilization, and coyotes readily reproduce in metropolitan areas.

Coyotes have grayish-brown to yellowish-brown fur on top and whitish, or buff, fur on their under parts. The forelegs, sides of the head, muzzle and paws are reddish-brown. With large, triangular ears and a long, narrow muzzle, the coyote has a black nose, yellow eyes and a long, bushy tail. In fact, the tail can help to distinguish between coyotes, wolves and dogs. When running, the coyote keeps its tail down; dogs keep their tails up; and wolves run with their tails straight out.

From the muzzle to the tip of the tail, full-grown coyotes typically measure just over 4 feet. Coyotes stand a little over 2 feet and weigh anywhere between 15 and 50 pounds. However, some coyotes have been recorded weighing nearly 75 pounds and measuring over 5 feet in total length.

Coyotes are known for their agility. Reaching speeds up to 45 miles per hour and jumping distances of over 13 feet, coyotes have been observed to travel in large groups, though they primarily hunt in pairs. Typical packs consist of six closely related adults, yearlings and young. Coyote groups are often called bands, packs and rovers.

The coyote is active at night. Coyotes primarily eat small mammals, such as rabbits, voles, squirrels, prairie dogs and mice though they will also eat birds, snakes, lizards, deer and livestock, as well as large insects and other large invertebrates. In the fall and winter months, fruits and vegetables are a significant part of the coyote's diet. Part of the coyote's success as a species is its dietary adaptability. With this, coyotes have been known to eat human garbage and domestic pets.

Female coyotes are monestrous (in "heat" once per year), between late January and late March. The gestation period lasts from 60 to 63 days. Litter sizes range anywhere from 1 to 19 pups. Sexual maturity is reached by 12 months.

The coyote is a very vocal animal. The calls a coyote makes are high-pitched and variously described as howls, yips, yelps, barks, whines and growls. The federal government routinely shoots, poisons, traps and kills around 90,000 coyotes each year to protect livestock. Coyotes are often attracted to dog food and small animals. Items like garbage, pet food and even feeding stations for birds and squirrels will attract coyotes into backyards.

On What Basis Did God Elect Anyone?

This is perhaps one of the most disputed Bible questions in all of church history! We have the wide gap between Calvinists and Armenians, which I do not have space to cover in these articles. We have those who believe that God elected those whom He chose to elect, without any decision whatever on the part of the one elected or not elected. My position will not suit everyone who reads these articles, most likely, but I do want to throw out some food for thought. First, it seems inconceivable to me that God made some people for the sole purpose of going to hell, as some people teach. Second, it seems also inconceivable to me that God makes anyone go to heaven without any decision on the part of the individual. I am saying that Scripture seems to teach that everybody who goes to heaven makes a decision to receive Christ, and everybody who goes to hell makes a decision to turn away from the truth of God that he knows, whether or not he has had the correct information about the death and resurrection of Christ. The Bible is clear on the point that human beings are responsible for the reception of the light that God gives them. I will likely say more on this in another article.

Let me say first that election is clearly based on the foreknowledge of God. I Peter 1:1-2 says, "Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace unto you, and peace be multiplied." Peter wrote to believers in the areas mentioned in verse one and assured them that their election was according to the foreknowledge of God. Now the problem is in trying to understand just what is included here in the foreknowledge of God. Of course we know that God knows everything, but what foreknowledge was involved in the matter of election? My answer will not be accepted by everybody, but we would have to say that God knew beforehand what decision every person would make concerning salvation, so His election was according to that foreknowledge. Why would foreknowledge even be involved, if humans make no decision at all? If God made all of the decisions, He would not need to know anything before electing!
