RV Company Locating in Burnsville

by Pamela McRae

A recreational vehicle company has selected an 88,000-square-foot industrial building in Burnsville to manufacture high-quality fifth-wheel campers. The company expects to begin production in March 2015 and will initially create 75 jobs, according to information from development officials.

The company is setting up a supplier network and has leased a 34,000-square-foot building at Tri-State Commerce Park for one of its suppliers to manufacture cabinetry.

The name of the company has not been released by Mississippi Development Authority, but this announcement comes on the heels of October's announcement of the county successfully landing "Project Tiffany," which has turned out to be Villa International, one of the nation's leading producers of luxury recreational vehicle furniture.

Villa will be locating operations in the former Falcon Products facility in Belmont. The Villa project represents a $250,000 corporate investment and will create 75 jobs over a five-year period.

"The Mississippi development team, from the state to the local level, was a joy to work with," said Villa International President Andrew Greenthal. "Representatives were professional, organized and sensitive to our unique business needs. Their business-friendly perspective was a breath of fresh air. We look forward to a long and prosperous partnership with the city of Belmont, Tishomingo County and the state of Mississippi."

The Mississippi Development Authority provided assistance in support of the project for the purchase of the facility and building improvements. The Appalachian Regional Commission and Tishomingo

Christmas Day Burglary Under Investigation

by Pamela McRae

Two people face charges of burglary and larceny after a Christmas day break-in of the Sunflower Antique Mall and Flea Market in Iuka.

According to Iuka Police Chief Randy Stringer, two people were seen walking behind a house near the Constitution Drive Sunflower location around noontime Thursday, and a resident called the police to report them in the suspicious location. The resident followed them at a distance until Iuka officers were able to arrive, and consequently, officers were able to stop a truck they were seen driving. Items recovered in the traffic stop were linked to the Sunflower break-in, explained Stringer.

When officers arrived at Sunflower Antique Mall, they found the glass entrance door broken, and many cases inside broken. Cabinets and drawers were emptied, and the place was just ransacked, said owner Mack Loyd Wadkins. A security camera system was destroyed, and Wadkins said the suspects must have been in the store a couple hours to do all the damage to the approximately 20 vendor booths in the antique mall.

"I know it seems to be the thing these days to trash the police, but I can't say enough good things about how helpful and competent Iuka Police Of-

2014 Year in Review

This are our highlights from 2014 from throughout the county.

Mississippi Silicon

The year 2014 opened with the announcement of a new plant in Burnsville, and though there have been several attempts by competitors through court cases to block the construction, Mississippi Silicon is still under construction. The $200 million plant on a 100-acre site in the Northeast Mississippi Waterway Industrial Park is supposed to employ about 200. The new facility will produce silicon metal for a broad range of industries in the United States including the aluminum, automotive and chemical industries.

First Female Superintendent

The Tishomingo County School Board selected its first female superintendent in March, and Christie Holly has been leading the District's 265 teachers and 3,165 students since last June when Benny McClung retired. Later in the year, First District voters elected a female board member, Emily Wadkins, to replace Michael Puckett. In the Fifth District, Greg Smith won the race to replace Ted Sparks.

Christie Holly

Byrom Death Sentence Overturned

In April, the Mississippi Supreme Court overturned the conviction of Michelle Byrom, after 14 years on death row for the 1999 murder-for-hire of her husband Edward Byrom, Sr. Though they refused to give any reason for the reversal of the 2000 conviction, the Court sent the case back to Tishomingo County for new trial, and now Ms. Byrom is a resident of the county jail. A new trial date has been set for Tuesday, September 1st, according to Assistant District Attorney Richard Bowen. Local attorney John White is her court-appointed lawyer, and he will likely be assisted by attorneys from the Innocence Project.

Since it is a capital murder case, there are a lot of preliminary matters, discovery issues and motions to complete before the pretrial conference in July, if Byrom doesn't plea before that, and both sides come to some agreement. She has served significantly more time than anyone else involved in the case, including the supposed shooter.

Iuka Closes "Hotel" as "Not Fit for Human Occupancy"

In October, the city of Iuka voted to close down the former Battlefield Inn after years of it being used as a supposed homeless shelter. Operator Jackie Bunns was cited with violations of the state innkeeper statute, which essentially requires managers of facilities run as hotels or inns in the state to keep guest facilities "in clean and sanitary condition; and to provide each guest with effective protection against flies, mosquitoes and other vermin." Police and fire personnel inspecting the facility found everything from exposed wires and black mold to insect and vermin infestations throughout the 57-room building that was built in the 1990s as a Days Inn. Bunns appealed but the appeals board upheld the decision of the aldermen.

County Board Approves Sunday Beer Sales

A year after legal beer sales began in Tishomingo County, the county board of supervisors responded to requests from marina owners and approved Sunday beer and light wine sales in the county, effective June 1st. The decision was made by a 3-2 vote in the regular May 5th meeting, but it didn't take long for anti-alcohol forces to blast the board members for the decision. After a board meeting scheduled to just be a pre-construction conference on May 12th, First District Supervisor Brandon Grissom read a prepared statement, saying that he regretted his "hasty" decision to support Sunday sales, and asked the board to support a motion to allow him to rescind his vote in favor of Sunday sales. No board members seconded the motion, and it died.

Iuka Board Passes Smoking Ban

In December, Iuka's city board joined nearly 40 other municipalities across the state in passing a smoking ban that would prohibit smoking in any public buildings. Announcement of the ban was generally well-received, except by a local bingo establishment, Riverhills Bingo, on Highway 72, whose owners fear that clientele will be reduced. This is especially critical because Riverhills funds the Tri-State Educational Foundation, a locally-based organization that pumps millions into scholarships and other funding for local efforts. The owners, Bob and Sylvia Ferguson, met with the Iuka board of aldermen to ask for an amendment that would allow them to have smoking in their establishment, but the board refused.

Deaths on Trace Result in Federal Charges

Two motorcyclists from Quebec were killed when a vehicle driven by Donnie William Sartain, 50, of Tishomingo, struck them on the Natchez Trace Parkway August 6th.

In October, Sartain pled guilty to involuntary manslaughter in federal court in connection with the deaths of Pauline Demers, 56, and Gerard Nault, 56, of Sherbrooke, Quebec, Canada. Sartain was initially charged with two counts of murder, and accident reports indicated he had been intoxicated when his pickup drifted into the oncoming lane near mile marker 289 in Prentiss County and struck the motorcycle on which the Canadians were riding.

Instead of going to trial in October, Sartain agreed to change his plea to guilty of the lesser charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Faculty, Coaching & Staff Changes in Schools

Students in Tishomingo County saw many changes in staff at county schools. At year's end, three schools, Iuka Elementary and Middle, and Belmont Elementary, all were assigned new principals. All the principals were already district administrators.

New coaches in baseball, football, and women's basketball at Tishomingo County, while inspiring some hope in the programs, have not proved to be the cure-all for which athletic supporters had hoped. Even Belmont's historically successful football program will have a new coach in 2015, with Kerry Moody's resignation.

New Principals for Three County Schools

A mid-year administration shake up means that three county schools will have new principals when students start back in January.

Debbie Walker has retired as principal of Iuka Elementary, so the administration has moved Josh McClung to that position. McClung has been principal at Iuka Middle School since August, and moved to that position from Tishomingo County High School, where he was assistant principal for a year.

Monica Moss has been promoted to principal at Iuka Middle School, from assistant principal. Her new assistant will be Mark Hood, who is moving from Belmont Elementary.

Katie Crane will be returning to Belmont as principal of Belmont Elementary. The past few years she has been at the Central Office over curriculum.

Other principal positions will be rehired, or not, by March 1st.

Two Sign with Division I Schools

On a high point, two athletes signed with Division I college athletic programs. Committed since 8th grade to Mississippi State University, Belmont senior baseball standout Luke Alexander finally officially became a Bulldog in a ceremony at the school that featured a call from MSU head coach John Cohen.

Chandler Dexter, a 2013 Tishomingo County graduate, signed in December to play tight end with Florida Atlantic University's football program, after two years as a Northeast Tiger.

Battle Best Ever

The third commemoration of the Battle of Iuka was the best ever, over the weekend of September 19th-21st, as the Iuka Battle Committee joined forces with the Battle of Farmington committee for the first time. New this year was a parade on Saturday morning through the streets of historic Downtown Iuka, more "special guests" than ever, and more public participation than in the previous years. "General" Harold Lomenick marshaled his many, many volunteer troops to produce a wonderful weekend of events that included many more reenactors than ever who helped bring history to life for Iukans and many visitors to the area.

More History, Please!

To help satisfy Iuka folks' love of history, local organizers produced a one-night "Old Town Christmas" on December 12th. Some folks again broke out the Civil war outfits and dressed in Victorian style to wish each other happy holidays on the streets of historic downtown Iuka. It was a huge hit, with area and school choirs singing carols, period Christmas worship services in the "little Episcopal church," a happy Victorian Santa Claus, carriage rides, and downtown businesses that were filled to the gills with shoppers! More than $700 was raised to support a planned renovation of the historic Church of Our Savior.

ficers Anita Mitchell and Joseph Marlar have been through this," said Wadkins. "They stayed on location until we could be located on the holiday, and stuck with us through clean up and until we were able to secure the building. They located a pick-up truck load of stuff that had been placed behind the building for the suspects to pick up later, and helped us recover 99 percent of everything we could tell was taken. They went above and beyond, and on a holiday, and we really appreciate their commitment and diligence."

Those facing burglary and larceny charges in connection with break-in are Sam Lynn Byrom, 32, and a male suspect that apparently fled the vehicle to the traffic stop and is still at large. Byrom is in custody at the Tishomingo County Jail. Any with information leading to the apprehension of the male suspect is encouraged to call the Police at 423-6340.

With the help of many of the 20 or so donors at the Antique Market, the clean up is nearly complete, and they were to be open on Saturday, reported Wadkins.

County provided assistance, as well.

"Working together with economic developers throughout the state, we strive to provide an inviting business climate that encourages new businesses to locate in Mississippi and our existing businesses to grow. Villa International's decision to locate in Belmont is a result of that team work and collaboration," said MDA Executive Director Brent Christensen. "We thank our partners at the Apalachian Regional Commission and Tishomingo County for working to bring this great company to our state."

Focused primarily on the recreational vehicle market, Villa International provides original furniture to more than 30 of the top motorhome manufacturers in the industry. These include Airstream, Wood, Foretravel, River, Gulf Stream, Newell, Newmar, Winnebago, and more.

Mississippi Senator J. P. Wilemon, Jr. makes presentation to Kyle Carpenter

Kyle Carpenter Day Celebrated in Savannah, TN

by a Edwards
f Writer
annah Courier

Dressed in civilian attire of dress slacks, sport coat and tie, the Medal of Honor around his neck, retired Marine Cpl. Kyle Carpenter was among distinguished guests representing Hardin County, and the states of Tennessee and Mississippi.

The air was cold but sun a welcome presence at the outdoor event. Kyle Carpenter was at the outdoor event at Court Square next to the Hardin County courthouse in Savannah, TN.

For more than an hour, accolades were given to Carpenter, while a crowd of hundreds gathered and applauded. Carpenter's family members from Mississippi and North Carolina were given special seating.

Also in attendance were members of the local Harrison family, which has a relative who was awarded the Medal of Honor.

After music by the Hardin County High School band and opening prayer by Dr. Ron Brown, Tykes introduced keynote speaker Billy Kennedy, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hardin County.

"Kyle was a good kid," Kennedy said. "When you have teens on a trip, some of them need close monitoring, but Kyle was not one of those kids. He had a good heart and made friends easily."

Kennedy told of a sad memory when he and his family learned the Carpenter family would be moving to Hardin County.

"A few years later, we heard Kyle had joined the Marine Corps. We all knew he was a dedicated young man and loved his country," said Kennedy.

Kennedy spoke of the tears shed when the news came of the grenade attack on Carpenter and his fellow Marine.

"After many surgeries, Kyle was on the mend but still in the hospital. We arranged a phone conversation where, all the church members could hear Kyle's voice for the first time. As Kyle spoke, there wasn't a dry eye in the place," said Kennedy.

"Today we want to thank Kyle for doing what most of us are incapable of doing," he said.

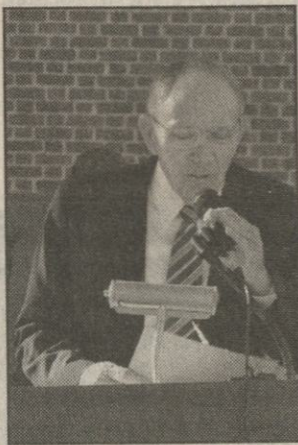

Kennedy said the ability to sacrifice for another comes from "something deep inside" and is a rare thing.

Tennessee state Sen. Dolores Gresham, a former Marine herself, said, "The Marines did good on this one. When we joined, they told us, 'Don't look for awards for doing what a Marine is supposed to do anyway.' Kyle went above and beyond the call of duty and deserves to be recognized."

Gresham invited the audience to stand, whether military background or not, and "salute Cpl. Kyle Carpenter" for being an exemplary Marine.

Other remarks came from Tennessee District 26 Rep. David Byrd, Mississippi State Senator J.P. Wilemon Jr., Marsha Blackburn representative Johnny Blakely, Hardin County Mayor Kevin Davis, Veterans Affairs C.D. Rickman, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Blakely read a proclamation declaring Dec. 20 as Cpl. Kyle Carpenter Day in the state of Tennessee. Davis had a similar proclamation making the day a significant one in Hardin County.

Retired U.S. Air Force Lt. Gen. Joe Hurd shared the history of Medal of Honor and told the stories of the three Medal of Honor recipients in Hardin County — Carpenter, Bolden Rush Harrison and Vernon McGarity.

Carpenter was invited to view the veteran memorial in Court Square where his name had been etched next to the title, "Medal of Honor Recipient."

As Carpenter approached the podium to speak, a hush came over the audience while the flashing of cameras from several media organizations snapped their best shots of the honored guest who had traveled from South Carolina to attend the ceremony.

"I usually know what I'm going to say at these sorts of events. I had a speech prepared for today, but that all went out of my head," said Carpenter. "You all came here today to thank me. And all I can think of, is to thank you. I remember living about three minutes down the road from here and how many things have happened since that time. I feel the support of the people in Hardin County. Words cannot express how I feel today."

Carpenter talked about wearing the Medal of Honor and how he is the "face of it," but he wears it for many reasons. For him, it stands for the dedication of thousands of service men and women, the support families and friends give to them and the high standards the United States has in the world for democracy and freedom.

Taps closed out the event, then crowds of well-wishers gathered for a chance to shake Carpenter's hand and give him personal words of gratitude.

Iuka Presents L. O. Bishop with Key to City

Last week, Iuka Mayor John Castleberry presented barbecue entrepreneur L.O. Bishop with the "key to the city," as a symbol of the city's appreciation for his many acts of kindness through the years.

For the past several years, Bishop has provided a Christmastime barbecue lunch for the employees of the city, explained Castleberry.

"He does so many behind-the-scenes things for people, and we wanted to show him how much we appreciate him," said the mayor.

Former Student Speaks at Tishomingo Middle School

Mr. Jalen Stone spoke to students at Tishomingo Middle School on December 3rd about some of the life lessons he has learned since the time he left middle school.

Some of the topics he discussed included making good decisions and treating others the way they would want to be treated. He admitted that as a middle school student he had not always followed the "golden rule." He also stressed to the students that decisions they make now could affect them, as well as others, for the rest of their life.

He encouraged the students to have a vision of what they wanted to become and to strive to reach their goals.

Jalen attended Tishomingo Elementary and Middle School, Belmont High School and is currently a junior at Mississippi State University, majoring in social studies education. He is also an equipment manager for the MSU football team.

The Best Reason To Rejoice

People often think of the Christmas season as a time to rejoice and enjoy the company of family and friends, and I do not think this is bad, for most of us do enjoy such times of rejoicing. Jesus, however, gave a better reason for rejoicing, which may not have entered the minds of some people. In Luke chapter 10, we have the record of Jesus having sent 70 people out to publish the message of His kingdom.

Luke 10:17-20 shows what happened when the 70 returned to Jesus: "And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through Thy name. And He said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. Behold, I give unto you power to tread upon serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing shall by any means hurt you. Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven."

It has always interested me that some people love to talk about the "power of God on their lives", even though such "power" may not be evident to others. It is also interesting to me that God chooses to use whom He will in whatever way He chooses, and all of us do not do the exact same things in the kingdom of God. Even though the main work of God in time is to bring men into reconciliation with Himself, as II Corinthians 5:18-20 so clearly shows, yet not all of us do the exact same things to bring men to God. The 70 in our verses were more than pleased that God had made demons to be subject to them, but Jesus said that should not be their biggest reason for rejoicing. He told them that they should rejoice, because their names were written in heaven. The very language of this statement indicates that not everyone has his name recorded in heaven. Only those who are saved would be included in such a record. If, as some suppose, we cannot know that we are saved in the present time, how could anyone know that his name is recorded in heaven, so that it would be a real reason for rejoicing? The fact is that we can know that we belong to God and that our names are already written in heaven, thus we can rejoice over this fact at any season of the year and under any circumstance! Is your name written there?

Early Roman Calendar: March 1st Rings in the New Year

The early Roman calendar designated March 1 as the new year. The calendar had just ten months, beginning with March. That the new year once began with the month of March is still reflected in some of the names of the months. September through December, our ninth through twelfth months, were originally positioned as the seventh through tenth months (septem is Latin for "seven," octo is "eight," novem is "nine," and decem is "ten.")

January Joins the Calendar

The first time the new year was celebrated on January 1st was in Rome in 153 B.C. (In fact, the month of January did not even exist until around 700 B.C., when the second king of Rome, Numa Pontilius, added the months of January and February.) The new year was moved from March to January because that was the beginning of the civil year, the month that the two newly elected Roman consuls—the highest officials in the Roman republic—began their one-year tenure. But this new year date was not always strictly and widely observed, and the new year was still sometimes celebrated on March 1.

Julian Calendar: January 1st Officially Instituted as the New Year

In 46 B.C. Julius Caesar introduced a new, solar-based calendar that was a vast improvement on the ancient Roman calendar, which was a lunar system that had become wildly inaccurate over the years. The Julian calendar decreed that the new year would occur with January 1, and within the Roman world, January 1 became the consistently observed start of the new year.
