Fire Academy in Jackson, MS on December 13, 2018.

issippi Association of Supervisors, as well as a member of the Mississippi State Fire Academy Advisory Council. The Mississippi State Fire Academy is a division of the Mississippi Insurance Department.

Friends of Tishomingo State Park-Unfriendly

This years "New Year's Day Hike in the Park" will be a sad one for Tishomingo State Park's Friends as their Park Manager, Terry Harp, has been transferred to another park. Park visitors believed that under his leadership the park was making a comeback from years of neglect by the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries, and Parks. Having "Parks" last in the agency's name tends to reflect the park's place in the hierarchy. That is until it comes to mismanagement from the headquarters in Jackson. For example, why did Jackson, after spending money building a new deck, close the swimming pool?

Citing a problem getting life guards, Jackson finally decided to let patrons staying in facilities swim on their own. An even greater failure to follow their mission statement to promote the Park was Jackson's closing of the Swinging Bridge, a major attraction. This was on Labor Day weekend because it had not been inspected. There were no noticeable problems with the 80 year old bridge which only allows foot traffic. Nothing wrong with conducting an inspection, but why close it when there were no issues and when the campground was full? Subsequent inspections showed everything was fine with the bridge.

In the past, the "New Year's Day Hike in the Park" allowed free admission to any state park in an attempt to get more people out to enjoy the park and in a state with the highest obesity rate encourage exercise. Well, this year Jackson decided to charge a $4 dollars admission. For the holiday the gates may not be manned, so the $4 dollars is on the honor system. It appears that Jackson is doing more harm than good in promoting state parks. It is time the Mississippi State Parks were moved to another department where they could get some respect.

Gloria's Country Line-Dancer's 13th Annual Christmas Party a Resounding Success

by Roger Foster

Monday, December 17, 2018 was a day everyone in Iuka should be proud of.

This was our 13th annual Gloria's Country Line-Dancer's Christmas Party. Gloria Keith and Cecil Mc-

Bride have provided all the gifts each year so everyone can enjoy playing 'Dirty Santa'. This year we're proud to announce it included more than forty-two in attendance and of course a gift for each one. Last year Gloria and Cecil took the time to host a special recognition of our local Vietnam Veterans during our Christmas Party and once again it was a resounding success. It should not be a secret that Gloria's Country Line-Dance group contributes to the economic development of Iuka as dancers come from Iuka, Baldwin, Booneville, Belmont, Falkner, Walnut, Guntown, Corinth, Hobo Station and even from Tennessee and Alabama to learn and enjoy Country Line-Dancing. For more information on this growing line-dance group be sure to check them out online at: <http://www.gloriaslinedance.com>

Dennis Country Store Cuts the Ribbon

Tuesday, December 18, 2018, Dennis, Mississippi. A ribbon cutting was held for Dennis Country Store. Manager Alex Qaifi reported that "people have missed the convenience of a country store at Dennis for years. We have completely rebuilt the store and have installed modern coolers and kitchen equipment. We have the usual convenience store food, soft drinks, beer, and supplies, plus we serve breakfast and lunch, dine in or take out. Pizza is available anytime. We have gasoline, diesel, and nonethanol gasoline at pay at the pump stations that are available 24 hours per day."

Board of Supervisors President Greg Collier said "we thank Alex for opening Dennis Country Store. We have no doubt the store will be very successful and a great asset for the community."

Senator J. P. Wilemon reported that "we always like to see locally owned businesses be successful. Locally owned businesses employ local people, treat their employees like family, and care about the community and its citizens. Just as importantly, locally owned businesses are more likely to purchase from other local businesses and the profits stay at home."

Dennis Country Store is located at 739 Highway 25 in Dennis. Open hours are 3:30 AM to 8 PM Monday thru Saturday and 4:30 AM to 8 PM on Sunday.

Scenes From The Last Chapter In The Bible (part XIII)

Revelation 22:17 says, "And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." Commentators have expressed different ideas as to when this call is extended. First, we may say that we know it is not extended after the events of Revelation, for the call is for all sinners who hear the message to come to Christ for salvation, even though some suppose that it is a cry of the church for Jesus' return to the earth. What is clear is what we will consider here. The Spirit of God joins hands with the church and with all who hear the message of salvation in extending a plea to the unsaved to come to Christ for salvation. Since we know that

by J. Briggs King, Evangelist,

salvation will not be offered to sinners when Jesus comes, either for the rapture of the church, or for the judgment of Armageddon, it seems the call is to go out in the present time. We know that no one can come to Jesus for salvation, unless the Spirit of God draws him, as is shown in John 6:44, so the Spirit of God has to issue a call to sinners, or else they cannot come to Christ, moreover they will see no need to come to Him. The bride is the church, as is shown in Ephesians chapter 5, so the church is to be about the Father's business of calling sinners to come to Christ and receive the water of life freely. It might be good for all of us to consider that much of our job as believers, especially of the local churches, is to be witnessing to those who are yet unsaved. Now we see also that any who have heard the message of salvation through Christ and have received Him should be calling on other sinners to come to Christ for salvation.

We also see that "thirsty people" should come to Jesus for salvation, for no one will ever receive Him, unless he is first thirsty for Him. I think we have a problem in some of the "quick fix witnessing" that pushes for a decision on the spot and maybe within a "ten minute conversation and sales pitch". I am not belittling soul winning; I am only saying that some people, judging by the "spiritual complexion of many churches" may have been brought to a profession before they were actually thirsty for it! Yes, it is certainly possible that one can be won to Christ in one witnessing encounter, for we have many examples of that in the Bible, but all of these had to be thirsty, or to become thirsty during the witnessing session. False professions are not hard to find, for all the seed that falls on good ground brings forth some amount of fruit (see Jesus' parable in Matthew 13:18-23). These verses show that only those on the good ground "understand and bring forth fruit". Matthew 13:15 shows that understanding is necessary for conversion, so the seed on the first three kinds of ground represent those who are not really saved, even though those on stony ground may appear to be saved because of an outward show of life with no root to anchor their profession in Christ. We also seen in Revelation 22:17 that "Whosoever will" may take the water of life freely. So, there has to be an act of the will for one to receive Christ, not just a moving of the emotions. Here we could get into a great controversy, but I will not seek to do that.

I do want to say that the will of man will never be moved to receive the Savior without a moving of the Spirit of God in conviction, but even then it seems clear that men may make a decision to accept or reject the work of the Spirit of God. In John 5:40, Jesus said to some unbelieving Jews: "And ye will not come to Me, that ye might have life." So the will of man is exercised in rejecting Christ, even though Christ desires that none perish (John 3:16-18; II Peter 3:9). So, if people die without salvation, they can only blame themselves; God is not to be blamed! Mark 10:21 says: "Then Jesus beholding him loved him..." These words were said of Jesus as He spoke to the rich, young ruler, whom Jesus knew would not receive him, yet Jesus loved

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
On Thursday, December 13, I was blessed to spend Christmas dinner with my sister, the other residents at Tishomingo Community Living Center and their families.

I am always moved by the kindness and generosity shown to my sister by the staff at Tishomingo Community Living Center, but the abundance shown during this holiday gathering was heartwarming.

I am often sad when I tell my sister goodbye after out then I leave to go back into the world, but I always know she will receive excellent care and is always treated with kindness and respect.

I don't know the words to express the amount of love I have for the Tishomingo Community Living Center, I only hope they know.

Thank you also to the students at TCHS, Fifth Street Baptist, the Santas and all the others who remembered the residents.

Sincerely,
Jerry Curtis

The homeless: hard to track and aid

Problems such as tobacco use linger without cessation, education

Tobacco use is an alarming problem among the homeless. According to the Public Health Law Center, estimates of the homeless in the U.S. range from approximately 2.3 to 2.5 million people in any given year. At least 70 percent of homeless individuals smoke, which is four times that of the general population.

The disadvantages faced by this group of people are hard to diagnose and remedy due to many obstacles: not having an address or phone number, lack of transportation, and the list goes on. For these reasons, many of them go without healthcare, support and treatment.

"It's so hard to reach this group and give them the cessation service and education that they need because they are so hard to track and keep up with," said Dustin McCoy Director of the Mississippi Tobacco-Free Coalition of Prentiss and Tishomingo. "In the meantime, they're going without proper care and are continuing to use tobacco at a disturbing rate."

The Public Health Law Center also reported that approximately 20 to 30 percent of homeless adults have a serious mental illness along with a 68 to 80 percent prevalence of cigarette smoking. Due to lack of resources, this highly populated group uses tobacco in unconventional ways that raise the likelihood of ingesting infectious agents and toxins. An example of this would be sniping. Sniping is when someone unravels several discarded cigarettes, removes the remaining tobacco and uses it to reroll a new, fuller cigarette.

"Such habits put them at a higher risk of getting gum disease, such as gingivitis and periodontitis," said Amy Winter, Director of the Office of Tobacco Control at the Mississippi State Department of Health (MSDH). "If these conditions go untreated, it can lead to pain, tooth loss and other health problems. Over age 65, only 20 percent of nonsmokers are toothless, but more than 41 percent of daily smokers are toothless. Tooth loss is a serious condition that can increase the risk of heart disease and other detrimental health issues."

For help with quitting, and information on the health dangers of tobacco products, visit www.quitlinems.com, or call the Mississippi Tobacco Quitline at 1-800-QUIT-NOW.

How to Fight the 'Holiday Blues'

(Jackson, Miss.) – For many people, December brings the most wonderful time of the year. Happiness and cheer are all around, holiday decorations are everywhere, and a season of giving and joy is right around the corner.

But that's not true for everyone. For some people, this time of year can mean increased levels of depression or anxiety. It can be brought about by the stresses and difficulties of preparing for the holidays and the financial strains of gift giving or travel, or it may be brought on by circumstances that leave people feeling isolated or without close companions to celebrate the holidays. For others, it can be triggered through physiological changes brought on by the shorter, darker days of the winter months.

No matter the cause, these "holiday blues" are real for many people. The good news though, is there are ways to fight these feelings of depression and anxiety that so many people experience during this time of year. First of all, make sure not to neglect physical health. The days are shorter, but people shouldn't let that stop them from making time to get in their exercise, which can help relieve stress and improve their state of mind. That exercise could be a simple walk outside or a full routine at the gym, but both activities can enhance someone's mood, reduce stress, and help burn a few calories.

Staying healthy doesn't just include exercising. Overeating can lead to stress and guilt. Make sure to watch the meals at holiday parties, which often have a lot of tempting foods that are delicious, but far from healthy. People heading out to a party may want to eat a light snack before they leave so they make sure not to overdo it.

Also, remember that overuse of alcohol can contribute to depression and guilt as well. Take care not to use alcohol to cope with negative feelings, because it often has the opposite effect. For those who have struggled with alcohol use in the past, plan ahead if a party or gathering may have alcohol flowing freely. It's ok to refuse a cocktail or to leave early if you feel the need.

The decreased exposure to sunlight has been linked to feelings of depression during winter, as it can change the levels of melatonin and serotonin in the brain, affecting sleep cycles and mood. Try to get sunlight when possible, whether that's from sitting near a window or taking a walk during a lunch break. Some people even use special light bulbs or lamps for what is known as light therapy, exposing themselves to the same frequency of light as the sun's natural warmth.

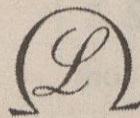

Perhaps most importantly, remember to be realistic. The holidays may not be perfect or just like they were last year, but that's ok. Most people are happy with the time they spend and memories they make with each other. Technology has even made it easy to connect with one another through phones, the internet, and video calling, which are always options to consider for friends and family who can't be together during the holidays.

It's normal to feel depressed or anxious at times, but if those feelings begin to affect your everyday life, reach out to someone for help. Call the DMH Help Line at 1-877-210-8513 for information about services that are near you.

Our Staff will provide Personal Care for you and Your loved ones during your time of need.

Good Citizen Awards Presented by DAR

On December 8, 2018, the Tishomingo Chapter DAR met at the Iuka Library for their annual Christmas Tea and Good Citizen Award Presentation. Regent Judy Ryan welcomed our guests and members and called the meeting to order with the opening DAR ritual with members participating and followed with the pledge of allegiance and the entire group sang "America".

The DAR Good Citizen awards, under the direction and leadership of Sue Kerby, was the main part of this meeting. The students selected must have qualities of Dependability, Service, Leadership and Patriotism demonstrated in a good citizen. The school counselors pick 3 seniors and the senior class chose one student to honor as the DAR Good Citizen for their high school. This consists of two parts: Their grade transcript and two letters of recommendations and they must write an essay under the supervision of a faculty member or a DAR member and other certain restrictions. The award recipient from Tishomingo County High School was Caroline M. Bonds, daughter of Bradley and Cindy Bonds. She read her essay which was outstanding. She was accompanied by her mother and her school counselor Shane Wigginton. The Award recipient from Belmont High School was Bailee M. Ozborn, daughter of Sally Day and Kevin Ozborn. She was unable to attend the meeting; however, Mrs. Kerby read her essay which was outstanding. Both recipients received a "Good Citizen" pin and certificate. Mrs. Bonds pinned the pin on her daughter.

After the ceremony, everyone was invited to the refreshment table provided by the members. A period of picture-taking, great fellowship and delicious food was enjoyed by the Good Citizen winner and her mother, and DAR members. To conclude the meeting, we had a brief business meeting.
