Tishomingo County Master Gardeners Dedicate Greenhouse

by Lena Mitchell

IUKA – Tishomingo County Master Gardeners drew dozens of supporters Monday to help celebrate the dedication and ribbon-cutting for the group's greenhouse.

Betty Owen and Barbara Patterson did the honors by cutting the ribbon in memory of their late husbands, Danny Owen and Tom Patterson.

"We are so honored to have them here for this special event," said County Agent Zach Yow.

Owen served as county agent for the Mississippi State University Extension Service for more than 25 years and became a dedicated master gardener after his retirement. He died in 2018.

Patterson was in the first class to complete the Master Gardeners' course in Tishomingo County and had a long-time desire for the Master Gardeners to build their own greenhouse. He died in 2020.

Patterson was a member of the committee that began in late 2019 evaluating the feasibility of a greenhouse, and Tishomingo County Master Gardeners voted to dedicate the new facility to the two men. Area artist Tony Bullard was asked to design a sign for the greenhouse grounds to honor them, as well as others who gave support to establish the greenhouse.

"Thank you for celebrating with us, and thank you to all the officials and vendors who supported us," said David Day, president of Tishomingo County Master Gardeners.

Day noted many entities that gave financial and material support to the project: Needle Chasers Quilt Guild; Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors; city of Iuka; K & T Concrete; Miligan Ready Mix; German Installations, Tishomingo; Home Depot, Florence, Alabama; Fairless Hardware, Tishomingo; Mr. Stripes, Tishomingo.

"Of course, our master gardeners' group has been supportive all the way," Day said. "When we have our plant sale on April 23, customers can feel good knowing the plants they bought were started and grown by their neighbors."

Also attending the celebratory event was Dr. Jeff Wilson of Mississippi State University Extension, who is state coordinator of master gardener programs.

"I worked with Danny for about 10 years," Wilson said, and shared a brief anecdote about their friendship. He also emphasized the important role that master gardener groups serve throughout the state.

"There are 60 master gardener groups in our 82 counties who give about 80,000 hours of volunteer service each year," Wilson said. "We couldn't do our jobs without the help of master gardeners, and I'm very excited about this greenhouse."

In 2021, Tishomingo County Master Gardeners sold about 700 plants at its annual sale, with more than 500 tomato plants germinated in the greenhouse just as construction was completed.

This year more than 700 tomato plants alone, as well as other vegetables, fruits, and flowers are being germinated, rooted, and propagated for the April 23 sale, which will be 8 a.m.-1 p.m. at the Tishomingo County Fairgrounds.

Proceeds from the plant sale support various projects such as plantings at Jay Bird Park, container plants at each of the county libraries, a new project at the Old Tishomingo County Courthouse Museum, and others.

Tishomingo County Master Gardeners welcome new participants. Spring classes are already underway, but a new fall class will begin later in the year. For more information call the county extension office at (662) 423-7016.

Iuka Opts Out of Medical Marijuana - For Now

by Pamela McRae

Like municipalities all over the state, the city of Iuka board of aldermen voted Tuesday night to opt out of allowing the sale and manufacturing of medical marijuana in the city.

The law passed by the legislature and signed by the governor allows for counties and municipalities to opt out of any one segment of the medical marijuana business while allowing others, including cultivation, processing, sale or distribution.

The consensus of the aldermen was to wait and see how the rules and regulations would look in practice before considering to opt in their one allowed time.

In other news, the board denied a request for an open container event to fundraise for Iuka Boys and Girls Club, saying it sent the wrong signal for boys and girls to be involved. No one involved spoke to the board about the event.

Rezoning Requests

The board denied a petition to re-zone from "residential" to "commercial" the historic Painted Lady home at Mineral Springs Park, stating they had heard from neighbors who were against the idea. The house has been for sale for some time, and the potential buyer is reportedly interested in operating it as a bed and breakfast, and later as an event venue.

Neither proponents nor opponents of the rezoning appeared at the 6 p.m. rezoning hearing, as required in a public notice. The board allowed supporters to speak during the regular meeting, even though they arrived for the regular board meeting and not the hearing.

Supporters gave strong arguments for the economic boon an event venue like the one planned could mean to the city, describing how groups would love to come stay in the lavishly renovated antebellum home, visit nearby downtown shops and get the ultimate small-town experience. They urged the board to vote in favor of growth and to take advantage of a one-of-a-kind opportunity the availability of the historic home presents.

They did not outline any plans to address potential concerns like parking or noise con-

Local Photographer & Businessman Charles Swimmer Died Saturday

by Pamela McRae

The man who shot nearly everyone's pictures in the county at one point or another passed away Saturday.

Charles Swimmer, of Photography by Charles, was a Tishomingo County institution; a character easily recognizable behind the camera everywhere from elementary schools to beauty pageants. And he was a huge contributor to the community as an active member of Iuka Rotary, the Iuka Heritage Day Committee, and many more organizations.

At the Iuka Board Meeting Tuesday night, Iuka Mayor Joel Robertson noted the loss

Charles Swimmer

the community feels in the death of such a devoted volunteer.

"He played Santa for years in the Christmas parade, and volunteered for many, many city events," said Robertson. "He will be missed by us all."

He began his career in photography in the U. S. Air Force where he served three tours in Vietnam. He opened Photography by Charles in Iuka in 1975 and remained in business for 38 years.

He even hung around the Tishomingo County News offices years ago, providing images and using the on-site darkroom when he needed to, since he didn't have one at his Front Street studio.

Charles Franklin Swimmer, 76, of Iuka, Mississippi, died Saturday, April 2, 2022, at the North Mississippi Medical Center in Iuka.

A memorial service will be held at 6 p.m., Friday, April 8, at Cutshall Funeral Home Chapel in Iuka, officiated by Bro. Sean Glidewell.

Renaissance Day is April 23rd

Be sure to mark your calendars to attend the Sixth Annual Renaissance Day at the Old Courthouse Museum in Iuka on Saturday, April 23. The fun will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m.

Once again the grounds of the Old Courthouse Museum will come alive with fun, food, and fellowship.

Bring your lawn chair, plan to spend the day, and learn about a time when life moved at a slower pace. The courthouse lawn will be covered with presenters demonstrating blacksmithing, basket weaving, and gold panning. Sadly, many of the aforementioned skills are practically nonexistent today, so being able to observe and talk with these presenters is a rare treat. Civil War reenactors will have a camp set up and Mr. Autry, “The Poetry Man”, will be telling stories on the hour from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Upstairs in the courtroom at 10 a.m., Mr. Randy Brown will be giving a presentation about the Mexican American War and at 11 a.m. Mr. Jason Terrell will give a talk on the Cherokee Nation. Tommy Dean, the baseball legend and Iuka native, will be signing baseballs for a minimal fee. Patrons of the museum are also welcome to bring their own baseballs for Mr. Dean to sign.

We are also excited to announce that our local fly wheeler tractor club will be in attendance showcasing a variety of beautifully restored antique tractors for the public’s viewing enjoyment.

Music will be yet another facet for attendees to enjoy. Throughout the day multiple groups will be on the grounds to perform for your entertainment. Patrons of Renaissance Day will enjoy the musical stylings of The Mallards of Mayhem, Wayne Jerrolds & Savannah Grass, the Courthouse Pickers and many more.

trol. The actual potential buyer was not present, reportedly.

Aldermen Emily Wadkins and Nancy Stripling said they had a letter and had spoken to residents opposed to the idea prior to the meeting, but apparently had heard from no one supporting the idea. They did not identify any of the opposing opinions at the meeting.

The homeowner, eager to sell due to family health concerns was very disappointed with the decision.

The board voted to grant rezoning from “residential” to “commercial” property owned by the Iuka United Pentecostal Church, who plan to open a school and daycare behind their church.

The board voted to grant rezoning from “agricultural” to “residential” property someone wanted to build a house on.

Mayor Joel Robertson said that the local power company has heard from Taco Bell and that construction is coming soon for the fast food Mexican restaurant that has plans to build in the parking lot of the former Iuka Ford in Iuka.

He also said that work on the Battleground/Hwy 172/Quitman Street intersection has begun, and should complete in 8 weeks. He also referenced the progress of playground improvements in Mineral Springs Park.

Sweet Tea Jubilee

I don’t drink tea like I used to. I pay way too much to drink “loaded” tea, and yes, I’m probably hooked on it, but that’s another issue for another day. I occasionally drink diet green tea in a bottle, but only rarely, and I always regret it. It tastes about as authentic as a Kardashian.

We seem to have forgotten about the tea our ancestors drank. The kind of tea that’s as strong as your grandmother, sweet as syrup, and can’t be reproduced in mass quantities using plastic bottles. The Southern sweet tea of the past had a mystical quality. It was the common thread that wove through gatherings and relationships, porch swings and Sunday dinners, celebrations of love, and rituals of loss. There were only two kinds of people at Norma’s Country Cupboard come lunchtime on any given day - sweet and unsweet. Both kinds of people could sit down and eat together without mention of their preference for sugar, and the conversations and friendly banter flowed like Mrs. Norma’s tea from the spigot. The “sweets” and the “unsweets” gathered in harmony, enjoying the things they shared and celebrating their differences.

The passage of time brings inevitable change. Norma’s is gone and a daily “meat and three” for lunch seems as unattainable as world peace. We have gone our separate ways. The modern world, with it’s 24-hour news cycle and social media platforms that give everyone a public voice, has brought an end to personal relationships built on mutual respect and basic human decency. Now we can say anything we want to the whole world without fear of actually having to deal with the people we have insulted. We can scream our opinions as loud as we want with no requirement that they be based on any reality other than what someone said on YouTube that confirms our biases. We have found ourselves in an echo chamber where we need never be exposed to anything other than what we want to hear. We may still sit together at lunch, but often we are miles apart. It would seem that we are at an impasse. It is in these days of social, political, and religious division that I see an opportunity. I would like to propose the idea of a new party. Not a political party based on how conservative or liberal one is, but a party based on mutual respect and openness of heart and mind. We need a place in the middle where we can all express ourselves without fear of reprisal, cancellation, verbal attacks, or alienation. Not so long ago we defined each other using terms such as neighbor, friend, co-worker, or fellow American. Now we just define each other by color - not black, white, or brown, but simply red or blue. It’s time for a new tea party. I’m not talking about the Boston Tea Party or the 2009 Tea Party Movement. I’m talking about a new party altogether. I would like to propose the Sweet Tea Party. We need a place for the millions upon millions of people who are tired of hating each other. We need a party that is based on acceptance of difference and finding common ground as opposed to driving this thing further and further into the ditch of our choice. I would like to suggest that we all get a glass of sweet tea, look at each other face to face, and be the people our grandparents raised us to be. The first tea party we had in America resulted in a revolution. Maybe it’s time for a Sweet Tea Jubilee.

Snowdown School Was Where Present Day Iuka Country Club Sits

by Charlotte McVay

This wonderful photo of the old Snowdown School located in the Snowdown/Oldham community northeast of Iuka is being shared with our readers by Betty Fell Marlar. Betty only attended school at Snowdown for two years, 7th and 8th grades, before she graduated and went to Iuka. This school house was located where the Iuka Country Club now stands. The old school was moved and made a bath house for the swimming pool at the club for many years. Most old photos of the school show students, which makes this photo of the large building very special.

According to the history of Snowdown Church, early school children were taught reading, writing and arithmetic in the Snowdown Church building. The earliest record found was recorded in 1858 with Mrs. Lydia A. Kirk, as teacher. A school record in 1921 is believed to be the last school taught at the church. A new seat of learning was built and the school was moved to where the County Club now stands. At that time the school was only a short distance through the woods from Snowdown Church. The old road that many children in the community walked to school on is now gone.

In 1957, in an act of reorganization, the Iuka Separate School District and several adjacent districts were consolidated by the State Educational Financial Commission as the Iuka Special Municipal Separate School District, an area which included about 123 square miles. The old Snowdown School was closed and the elementary students were transferred to Iuka.

Students at Snowdown remember with fondness Mr. Elmer and Lizzie Curtis who lived behind the school and had a small store. The children visited the store during recess and Danny Dexter could remember enjoying homemade popcorn and other treats. Another student, Jimmy McVay could remember he didn't always have the money for recess and Mr. Curtis would charge his purchase, knowing Jimmy's dad would pay on the weekend. Ms Lizzie died in 1980 and Mr. Elmer died in 1970. They are buried in the Johnson Cemetery at Unity Baptist Church not far from the school and their home and store.

All friends and family are invited to celebrate Jesse and Sue Massey 55th Anniversary on April 16. The celebration will be held at the VFW building in Iuka from 12 to 3.

Easy Almond Bars are a Favorite of Ours

by Pamela McRae

These Almond Bars make for a light sweet ending to Sunday dinner. I love anything almond, so it was not a tough sell for me, but other family and friends who tried them gave them a “thumbs up,” too! That’s because their mouths were full of almond bar goodness! These were very easy to make, and I had everything easily on hand in my pantry, though, I guess anyone who isn’t as addicted to almonds like I am might need to make sure they had sliced almonds. After baking, let them cool about 15 minutes and cut them apart; put the cut ones on a cooling rack to cool completely. Ice them while they are on the rack, but put a cookie sheet under to keep the mess to a minimum. I think they would be a little more crunchy if you used a large rimmed cookie sheet that the recipe called for; I used a large casserole dish and mine were a bit cake-y, which I loved. It does make a large amount of bars! Enough to share at work the next day! I altered this recipe and only made about half the glaze, because I don’t love a ton of glaze. I’m glad I did! They would be too sweet for my bunch with a lot of sugary icing all over them.

Almond Bars

3 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
1 cup unsalted butter, softened
2 cups granulated sugar
2 large eggs
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons milk (any variety)
1 cup sliced almonds
icing:
2 cups powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons milk (any variety)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Generously butter (or use baking spray) on a half sheet pan (approximatedly 18”x13”). Set aside.

In a medium bowl, combine flour, baking powder, and salt. Set aside.

In a mixing bowl, beat butter and sugar until light and fluffy, about 3-4 minutes. Add in eggs and almond extract. Beat until combined. Slowly add in flour mixture. Mixing until well blended.

Press this dough into the bottom of your prepared baking dish. Use your fingers or a pastry roller to smooth the top of the dough.

Using a pastry brush, brush the milk to the top of the dough (you may not need to use all of it). Sprinkle with sliced almonds, pressing them lightly into the dough.

Bake for 18-20 minutes until done. You don’t want to brown these bars.

Cool for about 15 minutes, then cut them with a knife into bars. If they are too soft to cut, allow to cool a little bit more. Carefully remove them to a wire rack to continue cooling.

Once cooled, you can make your glaze by whisking the sugar with the almond extract and milk. Drizzle over the bars and allow to set.

Fiascos We Relive Every Year

The Ford Pinto. The Bay of Pigs. The most recent Academy Awards. Some fiascos are so great they become singular moments in history. One remembers where she was when they happened. “As long as I live, I’ll never forget when” she says, whether it’s about hearing of the sinking of the Titanic or the first time trying Crystal Clear Pepsi.

Fiascos mark American history like buoys mark a river. However there are some fiascos, albeit rare, that we as a society seem determined to repeat every year. A disaster, marked by wails of both fury and lamentation, are such that surely mankind would not make the same mistake twice - much less annually. Yet, once again, over the weekend I found myself at one of America’s great fiascos promising I would do it all differently next year: little league opening day.

Town Cryings
Nate Clark

Little league opening day is day where parents pay $5 a piece for the privilege of screaming at their children and teenage umpires while either freezing their tails off or getting their first sunburn of the year (sometimes weirdly both, or, as what happens occasionally at the Iuka Little League fields so close to the peak of Mount Woodall, windburn - which I got so bad one year it led me to offer to buy my son a Playstation5 as long as I would never be forced to sit outside and watch him do anything again short of a graduation).

No event hurts the harmonies of area church choirs more than the day-after sore throats from mommies and daddies who’ve had a four-hour yellfest the day before outside in the height of allergy season. I Surrender All has never sounded worse, mostly because we refused to surrender baby boy’s tee ball matchup against the Mighty Mites or Dragon Flies or the Piggly Wiggly featuring Ace Hardware Cubs.

This year added a new uneasiness besides the occasional queasy stomach from hamburgers cooked on a grill that hasn’t been cleaned since last year’s all stars - the nation’s supply chain issues.

Blame your least favorite politician here, but my wife and I went to six stores in Florence and couldn’t find a pair of cleats that would fit an average American child.

“We have metal cleats,” a store clerk would offer, which led me to wonder what underground Hunger Games are being played where it’s legal for children to strap metal spikes to their feet. Most dugout moms spend entire tee ball games just trying to make sure the kids don’t hit each other with their bats. Add metal spikes to the festivities and I don’t think you could get insurance to cover the event.

Once again this year, as I say about my youthful indiscretions, we lived to tell about it.

Not even a fistfight, which used to create confusion when local prisoner trustees grilled hot dogs for time off their sentences, “Is Timmy’s dad not coaching this year? Nah, he’s gotta work the concession stand for his community service.”

Our kids looked good - in cleats or old tennis shoes. The grass was cut, it didn’t rain and the wind didn’t burn our skin. Nothing says spring is here more than a pretty opening day of baseball. So let’s play ball, have a great year, and remember that the umpires getting paid in wrinkled $1 bills with pickle sickle juice on them are people, too.

May the odds be ever in the Mighty Mites’ favor.

Baseball Braves pick up key division road win

from Staff Reports

TC 7, Shannon 1

Senior Spence Coffman got the win for the Braves against Shannon Friday night improving his record to 4-1. Coffman struck out twelve and walked one allowing no earned runs in the 7-1 victory. The Braves struck first when Junior Dylan Kirk scored on a Coffman single in the top of the first inning. The contest then turned into a pitcher's duel with the two power pitchers squaring off. The Braves' opportunity to extend the lead came in the 4th inning when they loaded the bases with two outs. Spence Coffman delivered the decisive blow clearing the bases with a line-drive triple off the right-field fence. Coffman lead the Braves going 3 for 4. Jackson Moore also had multiple hits going 2 for 4 in the game.

TC 13, Independence 1

The Braves cruised to the easy 13-1 victory versus an out-matched Independence team Saturday. Junior Jake Wilmeth picked up the win for the Braves improving his record to 1-1 on the season. Wilmeth allowed zero runs in three innings, striking out three and walking two. Senior Mason James did his job in middle relief and Junior Blayne Sparks closed the game for the Braves pitching the final two innings.

Offensively, the Braves feasted on the Wildcats' pitching. Senior Spence Coffman lead the way going 2 for 2 on the day. Junior Dylan Kirk's bat is red hot going 2 for 3 while seniors Gage Tackett and Blake Counce collected two hits each in four tries. Freshman Jackson Moore was 1 for 4 and flexed on a Wildcat fast-ball for a two-run home run.

Mooreville 20, TC 5

The Braves faced off with division-leading Mooreville Monday night. The Troopers' ace settled in after a rocky first and only allowed one Braves hit in the contest. The Troopers cruised to a 20-5 win. Errors proved to be the difference in the game. The Braves were charged with 6 errors.

The Brave's lone hit came in the 2nd inning when senior Spence Coffman hammered a home run over the centerfield fence.

Senior Spence Coffman delivers a pitch in a division win vs Shannon Friday. Coffman has been up to 92 MPH and is one of the states top pitchers. (4W-1L, 1.55 ERA, 48Ks, 10 BB)

Senior Jackson Gray is locked in vs Shannon. Gray has been solid at 1B this season for the Braves.

CONCERNING REDISTRICTING OF COUNCIL ELECTION WARDS FOR TISHOMINGO COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that Tishomingo County will hold a public hearing for the purpose of giving the citizens of this County an opportunity to provide input regarding redistricting the election districts from which members of the Board of Supervisors are elected.

The public hearing will be held at TISHOMINGO COUNTY COURTHOUSE,1008 BATTLEGROUND DRIVE, IUKA, MS
on APRIL 29, 2022 AT 9:00 A.M.

The Board is calling this hearing for the purpose of enabling redistricting plans to correct population imbalance among the various election districts revealed by the 2020 Census

Federal law requires that the population of election wards vary no more than ten percent (10%) to insure equal representation and compliance with the One Person,

Boundaries of the aforementioned election districts must be realigned to balance the population.

The proposed redistricting plan has been prepared and is available for review. Any interested party desiring to review the redistricting plans may do so at TISHOMINGO COUNTY COURTHOUSE wherein copies of the maps and corresponding demographic data are available in the office of the Chancery Clerk.
