June 7th Primary Election Ballot

There are two candidates in each party running for the June 7th primary election for the First District Congressional seat currently occupied by Trent Kelly.

On the Republican side, incumbent Trent Kelly is being challenged by Mark D. Strauss, of Olive Branch.

On the Democratic side candidates are Hunter Avery, apparently from Belmont according to a website, and Dianne Black, a small business owner probably from the metro Desoto County area.

Man Up Bible Study Group Making a Difference in Member Lives and Beyond

by Madelyne Pruitt
News Intern

A Friday morning prayer group is making a difference in the lives of its members and in the lives of others around their community.

Eddie Horner, leader of “Man Up” bible study group talked about the difference the prayer group is making in Iuka.

Horner and his wife are originally from Collierville, Tennessee, where Horner was involved in a prayer group on Friday mornings. Usually, 200 to 300 men would attend the bible study prayer group. In March of 2022, Horner and his family moved to Iuka where he found that he missed his prayer group terribly.

“Iron sharpens iron, and one man sharpens the face of his neighbor. Proverbs 27:17 states,” said Horner.

He realized that he needed to sharpen others, and also needed to be sharpened by others. He talked with Shannon Battles, the pastor for Oakland at Tishomingo County High School, and decided to begin the Man Up Bible Study.

During Bible studies, the group prays over certain situations within the town and for the town’s local businesses. The group enjoys helping and making a difference in the community, donating locally to people who need it. “We are doing great things,” Horner said. The group meets every Friday morning at a local cafe, Cream & Sugar.

Cream & Sugar, owned and operated by Laura Lind, serves all-day breakfast and lunch and is located in downtown Iuka next to Moore’s Jewelry and Iuka

Baptist Church.

“I can’t imagine a better place on the planet to live than Iuka, Mississippi,” said Horner. The bible study group is very appreciative of the staff at Cream & Sugar. As soon as they are seated, drinks are placed in front of them. The serving staff knows exactly what each individual wants, confirming before bringing the food out.

“I always get asked if I want my special, the Eddie,” he said. He mentioned the names of a couple of servers that treat them well, including Laura Lind, Miranda Turner, Katie Lind, and sometimes Mariah Adams.

“It is a true blessing to have these men on Friday mornings. They have really become a part of our family,”

2nd Annual Edition of The View from Woodall Released

Tishomingo Arts Council celebrated the release of the second annual edition of its arts and letters magazine “The View from Woodall” this past weekend at the Belmont Hotel in Belmont, Mississippi.

TAC members, sponsors, and magazine contributors spanning counties and states met at the Belmont Hotel to get their first look at this year’s well-anticipated magazine. With the publication of last year’s magazine falling during COVID, this year was, for those present, the first time to meet those they had come to know through TAC’s online programs. Writers and artists packed the Belmont Hotel, mingling with each other, signing each other’s magazines, enjoying the music of Starkville’s Honeyboy & Boots, sampling food from local food makers such as BB’s Custom Cakes, Brooks, Farmhouse Restaurant, Frankie’s Cheesecakes, and Piggly Wiggly deli as well as enjoying the long-awaited fruit of labors of love.

Recognized at the event were recent winners of TAC’s April Ekphrastic Poetry Competition as well as a “View from Woodall” Best in Show and Cover Art winner, Sean Burnley of Opelika, Alabama.

Also recognized were the winners of the 2022 Lila Mae Ham Scholarship for the Arts and 2022 Artist-Mentor of the Year, the Lila Ham going this year to Carson McClung and the AMY being awarded to Austry Davis Ratliff for his efforts in theatre and in creating the Crossroads Poetry Project, and organization which has served Alcorn and Tishomingo Counties alike.

“It was a such a special night! I was so impressed by the eclectic mix of artists and writers TAC brought together in “The View from Woodall,” said Southaven Arts Council President Kelly Adkins, who attended. “And I loved getting to Clarifications:

- In the May 5th story about the Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors, let it be known that the contract for Circuit Court Clerk Josh McNatt to do the redistricting line work is a NOT-TO-EXCEED amount of $7,000, and that he plans to only bill actual hours worked.
- In the May 5th City of Iuka Board meeting story, it was stated that the board was "pressuring" property owner Charles Stafford about cleaning up a property on Eastport Street where water has been sitting in a demolished building site. "Pressuring" may have been too strong a verb, and the Mayor stated that Stafford has been cooperating with the city on cleaning up the property.

The Squeaky Wheel Gets the Grease

I'm not sure when humans and Chihuahuas decided to live together, but I'm sure the humans had no choice in the matter. After all, who would choose to be verbally and physically assaulted by a pint-sized dictator every day for the crime of walking in the door?

All manner of flora and fauna inhabit the slice of land my family has made into a home. The plants and animals seem to be absorbed into our greater family unit, and many of the creatures that share this spot with us will frequently interact with the lairds of their estate to communicate their displeasure with our governance or request a treat of some kind. There is an overall hierarchy of authority among the animals that is shaped somewhat like a pyramid, with thousands of mice and squirrels at the bottom, and one mercurial Chihuahua named Banjo at the very top, humans included.

No one elected the Chihuahua as the leader. He just assumed power by waging an unending campaign of self-imposed dominance backed up by threats of violence towards anyone daring to question his authority.

The other much larger dogs, along with the rest of the animal community, have been convinced that the Chihuahua is just crazy enough to follow through on his threats, and give him wide berth and his choice of pillows on the bed from which to reign over his kingdom. In exchange, Banjo allows them to live mostly unmolested in his totalitarian regime.

The overall system works as nature intended, which includes daily squabbles among the various groups of citizens. Some conflicts, such as when the dogs crowd the cats off the bed, are mundane and innocuous.

Others, like when the cats eat the birds, are deadly. The well-oiled machine stays in balance and everyone knows their place.

Everyone also agrees that no one elected the Chihuahua, yet no one seems to be interested in confronting him because he's clearly criminally insane.

This five-pound flaming ball of quivering anxiety has convinced thousands of mice and squirrels, hundreds of birds, three larger dogs, two larger cats, and five humans (including the Postal and UPS carriers) that he has the authority to instruct us all on how we should live.

We all reluctantly accept his self-imposed rule because no one ever challenged his aggression and he's just always been the loudest voice in the room. It has never occurred to the bottom 99% of that aforementioned triangle that they have come to be dominated by the smallest thing in the house simply because he is the most vocal and aggressive in expressing his opinion. Banjo represents the smallest minority in the group, yet his opinion affects thousands of other animals that never even asked for it. Banjo keeps a tiny iron paw on the meow of dissent.

I've heard things...

The politics that keep the tiny autocrat in control of a much larger and more powerful group of other animals are not that far removed from our own.

Minority rule has been the norm throughout the ages. It is not the vast majority of everyday people with more in common than not that get heard. It is the small groups on the edges that make the most noise and the best news stories that drive policy and drag the rest of us back and forth in a constant, endless battle to institute their full agenda for what they subjectively consider the "benefit" of all.

Banjo rules not because he is the biggest, the smartest, or the most plentiful. He rules because he's a loudmouth bully with the compassion of a narco-terrorist.

If the rest of the pyramid would just work together, they could easily show the emperor to have no clothes, and Banjo would just be a nervous little yapping afterthought with crazy eyes and a bark that was always bigger than his bite.

It's time to mend some fences, literally, on Turnpike Mountain Road

As we try to do hard-hitting news here at the Tishomingo County News/The Vidette, it's time to address an issue that is stampeding through local Facebook conversations. Dozens of people have weighed in on it... that's right: the loose cows on Turnpike Mountain Road.

Actually ON the road, not inside their fence. Local law enforcement has confirmed that a few times every week they respond to calls regarding cows walking loose on Turnpike Mountain Road - now commonly referred to as Cowpике.

There are photos posted daily of cows cheerfully chomping grass along the right of way, along with warnings to local motorists urging caution.

Apparently, not much consideration is being given to the "urging caution" part. When asked, one resident said they had never seen a speed limit sign on that road, and cars and motorcycles go "60-70-80" miles per hour along the twisting two-lane county road. For future reference, unmarked county roads have a speed limit of 55.

Residents along the road say there are bulls, cows, longhorns, and calves participating in this bovine rebellion against fences. They are usually along the right-of-way, where, of course, the grass is always greener, but they do move to the other side of the road, where surely, the grass is even greener. The cows seem to have little respect for traffic, naturally, and even less respect for a gate that is reportedly "leaning" in place.

Having experienced a driver colliding with a small draft horse of our own on our road, the editor can assure you it is no small thing to experience a car-livestock collision, for either the livestock or the vehicle. Most times the lives of both are seriously at risk. If it only seriously injures and doesn't kill the animal, you may have to wait for a vet to humanely end its suffering, if there is not someone nearby to help with that - all terrible options.

Most vehicles fare similarly when colliding with something weighing 1,000 to 2,000 pounds. The livestock owner has liability if something happens.

An officer said the owners claim the cows jump the fence at will.

It may be time for Turnpike Mountain residents to purchase a "Cow Crossing" sign to warn motorists, but it's doubtful the cows are going to respect that, so it remains a danger until some serious fence repair is accomplished.

Until then, we at the News really, really, really hope we don't have to go to the scene of a collision between a cow and motorist on Turnpike Mountain Road.

The Other Facebook Firestorm

In other Facebook firestorms, we voice our support for finding a satisfactory, responsible solution to the cheerleading coaching situation at Tishomingo County High School. The only sports alumni in this county with more state championship rings among them are probably former Belmont girls basketball players, and surely the tryout and hiring of a coach for such an illustrious program deserves the MOST care and diligence. TC cheer has been an excellent, championship producing program, and needs the best possible leadership. The kids involved deserve our best effort.

Parents and students throwing firebombs around on Facebook does not help the situation at this point, and drags it down even further. Don't encourage the fiery discourse by those inside the program, and especially by those outside the program.

Testing, Testing, 1, 2,4?

Spring has sprung here in beautiful, crime-free Iuka, Mississippi. And by "spring has sprung," I mean it's that week where your allergies finally back down, either by the pollen washing away or by you ingesting enough pseudoephedrine to power a cartel meth lab, and you can finally see nature's budding glory ... for the next three days before it gets unbearably hot and everything starts the slow roast to August brown. As I write this column, it is a pleasant 70 degrees and, by the time you read it in the paper, it will be 90. And don't forget the humidity, which is forecasted to be so high meteorologists cannot assign it a number, rather they will just say, "Y'all, we're going to be sweatin' like Ashley Judd in A Time to Kill."

Spring in Mississippi is not so much a season as it is a four-day workweek.

This week is tricky for the bravest among us - our public school teachers.

You don't think our school teachers are brave? Well, you try spending eight straight hours with your kids. It's miserable! Teachers cannot ignore them either by staring at their iPads, iPhones, or whatever technology Apple has invented by the time I type the end of this sentence. Little League, 4H, Boy and Girl Scouts - do you think these organizations were created to build character in children? Ha! These things were created so parents could get a break from their kids for a couple of hours a week. Parents need it. Time Out isn't punishment for kids; it's "me time" for adults.

If you are one of those parents who is reading this and thinking to yourself, "This is terrible! I LOVE spending time with my kids - we're best friends!" then I hate to tell you but that's because no adult will be your friend so you're forced to hang out with children and you should feel bad about yourself and your life choices.

Town Cryings

What makes this time of year especially challenging for teachers? Well, you see, years ago in America we used to let teachers teach their subjects in whatever way they saw fit, since the teachers were the ones in the classroom and knew their students' learning styles, strengths, and weaknesses best. Coincidentally, we had the best education system in the world. Then, we decided we didn't want to do that anymore. We decided every child was the exact same and teachers don't know what's best for them - executives at corporations that write tests do.

So, the United States took the goals of teaching away from the people who went to college to learn how to teach and spent a lifetime gaining experience in what best makes children learn and put it in the hands of a CEO who worked his way up the corporate ladder at a company that made low-flow toilet bowls.

Now, the U.S. is 38th in math in the world (and how can we trust that number when the points were totaled by a dumb American?) How do we get back to that time before standardized testing? More standardized testing, of course!

Here's the problem now: just about all standardized tests are taken in April. So, in our schools, the month of May has turned into the educational equivalent of a two-weeks notice. Have you ever tried to get an employee to do something once he's turned in a two-weeks notice?

Well, take that and multiply it by "they know they can't be criminally charged as adults" and that's what teachers are going to be dealing with for the next couple of weeks.

Send your prayers willingly, your tax dollars begrudgingly, and your children thankfully. In a couple of weeks, these kids will be our problem again.

Does anybody know of any good summer camps?

Man Up Bible Study Group, continued from front

Laura said. The men collect money and accept donations for local food banks for local families in need. It brings her joy to see these God-serving men in the mornings, praying over Cream & Sugar, and many locally owned businesses in Iuka.

“God is in every encounter we have. He is intentional. He puts things in our way to see what we are going to do with it. He made us impact players,” Horner said. “My prayer is that we are exporting what we are importing. I pray we take that into our homes, our neighborhoods, and into our town. A win-win for Iuka.”

If you have any questions or would like to join this group of men, contact Eddie Horner at 901-338-0833. Also, some men meet at Jack’s on Monday nights, if you have any questions contact Michael Davis at 662-279-2934.

Some members of the group also meet at Jack’s in Iuka on Monday nights. One Monday night, it was dark, around 8:30 and the group witnessed a couple on their bicycles. The group decided to go out and ask if there was anything the two needed or wanted them to pray over them about. The couple was traveling from Nashville to Natchez on bicycles, but had been having to walk while pushing their bikes due to construction on the highways. After they prayed over the couple, someone loaded the bicycles in the back of their truck and took the couple to Tishomingo State Park, where they were staying for the night. They were both believers, praying for God to send someone their way.

“We do life with each other and pray for each other,” Horner said. “It is truly an amazing opportunity. We would love to have anyone who wants to join.”

Mary Lou Thomas Tickell

On Monday, May 2, 2022, at approximately 10:30 a.m., God, in His infinite wisdom, sent His messenger to Southern Magnolia Estates in Iuka, Mississippi, to call for His own, Rev. Mary Lou Tickell. Mary Lou had been “pleasantly confused” for the last two years as a result of dementia. Born in 1937 in the small town of Iuka to Herbert Sr. and Mary Thomas, here she was born and here she died. The life in between was lived as a servant of God. A true and faithful member of the Methodist Church, it being her desire and ambition to do the will of God and to direct her friends and associates to Jesus as a place of refuge. She was a strong prayer warrior and disciple of God’s Word. She never became too weary to give a word of encouragement or advice to her friends and family about how they should live. She was ready to walk through the pearly gate, meet her Maker, and hear the welcome plaudit, “Well done, thou good and faithful servant!”

Mary Lou’s life on the earth was lived as a daughter, wife, mother, missionary, minister, and a lifelong servant of God. Upon graduation from Iuka High School, Mary Lou continued her education at the University of Tennessee and became a medical lab technician. This career led her to Houston, MS, where she met her husband, Doyle Leland House. They only had nine short years together before he left her a widow. Mary Lou continued her work in the medical field, working in Houston, Huntsville, Sheffield, and back to Iuka. After some years, she began to feel God’s tug on her heart to take her calling and minister to the people of Haiti. While in Haiti, God once again called on His servant and once again Mary Lou answered His call. She returned to the United States and became an ordained Methodist minister and spent the next 20 years pastoring churches in Mississippi and Alabama. As He often does, God rewarded His servant. Mary Lou met and married Rev. Bob Tickell in 1988. They were able to share eight years, hand in hand, serving the Lord. Oh, that all the people of the world would be so willing to heed the call of Our Heavenly Father, to make their hearts tender and their ambition stronger to know God and follow His purpose for our lives! Now, while this world has lost a noble servant, heaven has gained a bright jewel. Mary Lou leaves behind a small but loving family to mourn her death. She is survived by her son, David House and his wife, Janie; a grandson, Andrew House; a granddaughter, Ali Rogers (Shon); two great-grandchildren, William and Brooke; and her step-son, Mickey House. Mary Lou was preceded in death by a host of family and friends.

Cutshall Funeral Home of Iuka, MS, is entrusted with arrangements. A graveside celebration of Mary Lou’s life on the earth was held Saturday, May 7, 2022, at 11 a.m., at Oak Grove Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to The Arc of Dekalb County, which Mary Lou’s grandson attends, by mail at 201 Grand Ave. SW, Fort Payne, AL 35967. An online guest book may be accessed at www.cutshallfuneralhome.com.

Tom Tiernan

Local Preacher Tom Tiernan to Speak in Booneville

Preacher Tom Tiernan of Iuka, Ms., will minister at Victory Harvest Church in Booneville on Saturday night, May 14, at 6 p.m.

The church is located at 600 N. College St., just past the Northeast Mississippi Community College campus.

Pastor Jimmie Edge said the church invited Tiernan to return and preach this upcoming May 14th Saturday service after a powerful service he ministered at on a Sunday morning in April.

"That April service was truly a blessing to our church. People were healed, delivered from addictions, received a life-changing word of encouragement. The presence of God was very strong. We are expecting even greater things May 14," Edge said.

meet so many of these interesting, talented people. It was a delight to be a part of this event. We at SAC have enjoyed TAC's desire to work together with other arts councils and have enjoyed working together with them. They have a great program."

"The real beauty of this evening," said TAC Chair Brent Bonds, "is seeing the efforts of the past two years come together for the first time. Having worked mainly with digital programs on account of COVID, we've built a very wide community of artists from across states, and it was something really worth celebrating to see these people come together physically inside of Tishomingo County for the first time. It's a validation of our efforts so far, and a strong promise for the future. We've had here artists and writers coming from the Gulf Coast, from east Tennessee, from deep down in Alabama, and they've come to know each other as friends through TAC. Tishomingo County has become to them an important point of connection."

For Tishomingo Arts Council, the evening was a milestone in a carefully organized plan for the future of arts and tourism in the county.

"This was our first event of this kind, and we had all these people coming in, several renting rooms here at the Belmont Hotel. It's been our goal to forge these genuine relationships through the arts from across wide distances but centered on Tishomingo County -- to realize Tishomingo for what it is: a meeting place of different states. The last two years have been about building these relationships. With the wide-ranging community we've built comes opportunities for concerts, readings, full weekend-long arts festivals on the scale of Double Decker or Juke Joint... And with the hospitality industry ramping up, these possibilities we've created are ready to become reality. We have something special here, and with community and local government support, there's no reason we can't see Tishomingo become as synonymous with the arts as Oxford, Laurel, or anywhere else. That work has been put in," said Bonds.

For Bonds particularly, the event held importance.

"When we first began to bring the arts council alive again, I spoke in terms of a two-year timetable. As I prepare to make transition away from TAC to focus on some new projects, I'm extremely positive about TAC and its value to the county's future, especially in terms of tourism," said Bonds. "With COVID out of the way, we have two plays coming up in June, one at the Old Courthouse Museum in Iuka and another at Jacinto, we have a set schedule of art exhibitions at the Iuka Library, and some really cool events coming in the fall. The Lila Ham waterway paintings are set to go on public display in September. We have a great thing here, and this weekend of celebrating the release of a legitimate arts magazine, recognizing scholarship and service, hosting artists from out of town, having them stay here, having them want to come back... these are all very good things especially on the heels of our April events, which again included famous poets from across the nation reading poetry specifically to Tishomingo County -- these are things we've never had before -- and the time is ripe to get behind these efforts. I look forward to the greater local govern-

May 2022 Wild Hog Control Program Application Period Ends May 16th

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) is now accepting a new round of applications for its Wild Hog Control Program (WHCP). The application period will close on Monday, May 16. All Mississippi counties are eligible for the application period. In Mississippi alone, wild hogs cause more than $60 million in damages annually.

Through the WHCP, MDAC provides "smart" wild hog traps to landowners and managers for the control of wild hogs on private agricultural and forestry lands in Mississippi. MDAC provides the training necessary to use the "smart" traps and technical guidance regarding the most effective methods to trap and control wild hogs on private lands.

"The next trapping period will occur during the early months of summer which is normally a very successful time for trapping wild hogs. I urge farmers and landowners that are impacted by these nuisance animals to submit an application," said Commissioner Gipson. "Use of the traps is free of charge; however, users must supply bait and labor to use the traps."

recommended, depending on the landscape and land use.

Visit www.mdac.ms.gov/whcp for program guidelines, applications, and additional information. Submit questions regarding the WHCP to Chris McDonald at chris@mdac.ms.gov.

Beautiful Banana Pudding Reminds Us of Old Friends

by Pamela McRae

My friend, Sharon Stegall of Iuka sent me some mouthwatering photos of a banana pudding she made recently to celebrate several successful months on a diet.

“I’ve been on a strict diet since January, trying to drop some pandemic weight,” explained Sharon. Like others, she started cooking more at home during Covid isolation. “We had extra bananas at the house, and I looked up an old favorite Southern Living recipe for banana pudding and had good results.”

With friends like Jean Crane, who makes a to-die-for banana pudding even we at the News have heard about, making a banana pudding can be intimidating, said Sharon. But she was pleased with the results and even has some tips to make it a little easier.

Sharon said it was easier for her to do the pudding cooking part of the recipe in the microwave, watching carefully and stirring occasionally. Once it thickens, she added the vanilla and butter. She also suggests adding ¼ teaspoon of cream of tartar to the meringue, which helps it hold up and not to weep.

The vintage cornflower Corning ware bowl pictured was from the kitchen of a long-time friend, Olivia Jones, with whom she and other quilters from the Needle Chasers Quilt Guild had many an adventure. From quilting workshops to trips to quilt shows and retreats, Olivia was always fun. I particularly remember her telling of a visit to a topless beach... and I’ll not say more. Sharon was given the bowl by Olivia’s daughter after she died, along with much of Olivia’s stash of quilting fabrics.

Writing this has me thinking of searching for Olivia’s chicken salad recipe, which was one of my favorites! I remember it was written on a red file folder during a quilt show a long time ago. But until then, I’m determined to try this banana pudding recipe when I get some time.

Let us know if you try it, and we at the News office would not hesitate to help try any banana puddings brought to us!

This vintage classic cornflower Corning ware deep dish was perfect for a classic banana pudding.

Banana Pudding

- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon of salt
- 2 ¼ cups milk
- 4 large eggs, separated
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3 1/3 cups vanilla wafers
- 4 ripe bananas, sliced
- 3 tablespoons sugar

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Whisk together first three ingredients in a small bowl. Whisk together sugar mixture, milk, and 4 egg yolks in a medium-size heavy saucepan until well blended. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, 6-8 minutes or until thickened. Remove from heat; stir in butter and vanilla.

Layer half of vanilla wafers in an 8-inch square baking dish. Top with half of banana slices, and half of pudding. Repeat procedure with remaining banana slices, wafers and pudding.

Beat egg whites at high speed with an electric mixer until foamy. Gradually add three tablespoons sugar, beating until sugar dissolves and stiff peaks form. Spread meringue over pudding, sealing to edge of dish.

Bake at 375 degrees for 7-10 minutes or until golden. Let cool 30 minutes, and serve warm; or chill an additional hour, and serve cold.

TCSD “Setting” Volleyball in County up for Future Success

by Madelyne Pruitt
News Intern

Head volleyball coaches at both Belmont High School and Tishomingo County High School will be paid supplements comparable to the basketball programs if the board approves proposed coaching supplement increases at the June School Board meeting.

During the school board meeting Monday, May 9, Fifth District Board member Stacy Stepp proposed volleyball coaches’ supplements be raised. Stepp explained that volleyball coaches put just as much time and effort into their season as basketball coaches and also touched on the success of volleyball programs at both high schools. If approved, the supplements would be $5,500 for the head coach, $2,500 for the assistant coach, and $1,250 for a junior high coach at each junior high school.

“These programs are growing,” said Superintendent Christie Holly. Both volleyball programs at BHS and TCHS have developed strong programs since they started in 2012.

Belmont VB State Champions 2021

Under Coach Stephanie Cleveland for the past 6 years, the Lady Cardinals are 2021 State Champions and have made three State appearances beginning in 2019. Cleveland is assisted by Coach Anna Brooke Wooten. Cleveland was the 2021 North All-Star Coach and NEMVCA (Northeast Mississippi All-Star Volleyball Game) Coach. She’s had two players go on to play in college; Kate Greene at Blue Mountain and Maggie Ledbetter at Mississippi University for Women.

The Tishomingo County Lady Braves are coached by Division 1-4A Volleyball Coach of the Year, Brian Middleton. Middleton led the Lady Braves to the playoffs in the 2021 season.

A key part of the board’s decision was to provide a $1,250 supplement for a junior high coach at all four junior high schools, as many other districts have.

“Junior high interest is exploding,” said Cleveland. “Every time we schedule a game, they ask if we have a junior high team that can also play theirs. That will help and benefit our high school teams.”

“I think it’s exciting that volleyball is getting pushed in our county!” said Middleton. “I think our student-athletes deserve every opportunity they can get to be successful. This will definitely help us develop our younger kids.”

Cleveland pointed out that Northeast Mississippi Community College is adding women’s volleyball to it’s athletic program this year, too.

Raising the volleyball head coaches’ supplements will be officially placed on the agenda and voted on at the next school board meeting.

Cheer Issue Addressed

Also on the agenda was a proposed new coach for TCHS cheer, a program that has experienced significant controversy since spring break. The board denied the proposed candidate, sending the decision back to the school, who will need to post the position again, said Stepp, who made the motion to individually consider that position out of 39 other personnel proposals. Kayla Smith (TC State Championship squad 2010) was approved as assistant cheer coach as part of that long list.

Since 2010, TCHS cheer has been 4A Mississippi State champions several times, and runner-up state champions a few times as well. During that time, they were coached by Beth James and Chasity Moore, and then Amy Webb and Beverly Butler.

Northeast Serves Up Volleyball as Newest Athletic Offering

BOONEVILLE, Miss. - One of the fastest growing sports in the Magnolia State is making its way to Northeast Mississippi Community College.

Northeast is starting a women's volleyball program to its lineup of athletic offerings. The Tigers will officially begin head-to-head competition during the fall 2023 semester.

"We're happy and looking forward to providing volleyball for student-athletes in our district and also the entire state of Mississippi," said Northeast president Dr. Ricky Ford. "With so many K-12 schools adding volleyball, this will allow all those student-athletes a chance to continue their experience on to the collegiate level."

The Tigers will be classified as a Division II affiliate of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA). Northeast will contend for berths to the national tournament inside the NJCAA's Region 23 and Gulf District.

Northeast is one of only five members of the Mississippi Association of Community Colleges Conference (MACCC) to sponsor volleyball. The sport is not sanctioned by the MACCC at this time.

Itawamba Community College, Northwest Mississippi Community College and Pearl River Community College have each fielded volleyball teams for less than five years. Jones College recently announced its intentions to add the sport as well.

This increases the total number of athletic programs at Northeast to 11. It is the fourth addition in the last two academic years along with men's and women's tennis plus co-ed archery.

Northeast also proudly boasts successful baseball, men's and women's basketball, cheerleading, football, men's golf and softball programs with first-class facilities for each sport.

Historic Bonner Arnold Coliseum will serve as the home venue of the Tigers. Volleyball lines and the sleeves for the nets were added to the main court during the summer of 2021.

The regular season for volleyball in the NJCAA begins in mid-August and concludes with region and district post-season tournaments that run from late October into early November.

Volleyball is increasing in popularity locally. All but one of the high schools in Northeast's traditional five-county service area will offer the sport during the upcoming 2022-23 academic year.

In addition, in-district schools Alcorn Central, Belmont, New Albany and Walnut have either won or played for Mississippi High School Activities Association (MHSAA) state championships over the last three years.

Midway Homemakers and County Council Help with Renaissance Day

The Midway Homemaker's Club and County Council Club members, thanks to Ms. Lane Meeks' invitation, joined their efforts with others of the Iuka community, and neighboring areas, at the Old Court House Museum for the celebration of Renaissance Day. The Club's exhibit table displayed a sign composed of the club's name and photos on which members involved in the various community projects were pictured. Homemade articles, made by club members such as various quilt blocks, a quilt, a crocheted shawl, and 'Luv Buddies' for children, were arranged below the Club's sign.

Club volunteers Linda Hester, Bonita Roberts, and Freida Bishop attended the Club's display table. The weather was accommodating for the day by giving out sunshine and breezy air.

The Club members enjoyed the music and singing provided by several groups. It's always a special treat to hear so many accomplished musicians and singers playing Country, Gospel, or contemporary songs.

There was a wide assortment of mouth-watering foods such as hamburgers, chips, Bar-B-Q, ice cream, shaved ice, and cotton candy. Some other exhibits, to name a few, were pottery, Civil War apparel and weapons, the Boy Scouts, and basket weaving.

Our local celebrity, Tommy Dean professional baseball player formerly with the Dodgers baseball team, autographed baseballs and photos of himself in action in a game. We appreciate him so much.

The Old Court House Museum was open for visitors to refresh their memory of Iuka's history. Many thanks to Ms. Lane Meeks, her staff and dedicated volunteers, and all the local citizens who labored tirelessly to make this year's Renaissance Day a pleasant and memorable event.

Homemakers Study Dendrology in April Meeting

The Midway Homemaker’s Club and County Council met Tuesday, April 19th. The club members, one agent, and one visitor/speaker were present.

Leadership training today was presented by speaker Michael Vestal. Michael taught the second half of Dendrology, or using a common definition, “Tree Identification and Classification.” For the second and last half, he used a PowerPoint presentation and club members continued with the hand-out that contained pictures and particular characteristics of each tree contained within the final lesson. Club members expressed their appreciation to Michael for the informative and enjoyable presentation.

Midway County Council President

Linda Hester called the meeting to order and led the members in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. She read the ‘Thought for-the-Month,’ “For every minute you are angry you lose sixty seconds of happiness,” by Ralph Waldo Emerson. Linda gave the devotion entitled, “Don’t Give the Enemy a Seat at Your Table,” by Lewis Giglio, who warned his readers to never allow the enemy to take control of their minds; stay focused on Jesus, instead. She then read the 23rd Psalm. Council Vice President Barbara Pardue led the prayer.

County Council Secretary/Treasurer, Betty Hickey, read the minutes of the last meeting. They were approved as read. She also gave the Council’s financial report.

Old Business

Cultural Arts exhibits were judged and Barbara Pardue won the Best of the Exhibits; Blue Ribbon winners were Betty Hickey, Joyce Borden, and Freida Bishop.

New Business

The Spring Area Meeting will be Thursday, April 21st in Pontotoc County. Club members are looking forward to participating once again. Then this Saturday, April 23rd is Renaissance Day at the Old Court House Museum in Iuka. The club has been invited to participate and will set up an exhibit table which those who have volunteered will oversee.

The Mississippi Homemaker Volunteer’s State Council will be from May 23rd through 25th, 2022. The Club’s Voting Delegate and alternate have been selected.

President Linda Hester mentioned the upcoming Dairy foods Contest in June.

With no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 11:15 a.m.

If you would like to use your free time to help with the club’s community projects, please contact the Extension Office at 662-423-7016 and become a Homemaker Volunteer.

[Correction to Thought-of-the-Month passage in March 8, 2022 County Council Meeting; Dr. Seuss: “Today you are ‘you,’ that is truer than true. There is no one alive who is ‘Y-o-u-e-r’ than you.”]
