The Bridge House Helping Women Recover Lives After Addiction

by Madelyne Pruitt
 News Intern

The Bridge House for Women is a transitional home for women that have successfully completed three months of drug rehabilitation program and are turning their lives around in society by sobriety. Their saying is "Sobriety into Society." The Bridge House helps these women learn how to live independently without drugs or alcohol and make well for themselves in society.

The Bridge House for Women was founded in 2016 by The Bridge at Burnsville Church, on Highway 72. The home was started by Gena Black and the late Linda Downs. The home first began in the home of Denice Timbes but then moved to a another facility to help even more people.

While the Bridge home has been operating for five and a half years. They have helped many women, in the past five years anywhere from 35 to 40 women.

The home is now beside The Bridge Church and is operated by a Board of Directors instead of being a ministry of the church. Last year the home became a non-profit charity (501C3 status) and hired their first full time employee. They have been working on rebuilding and refreshing the home.

Tawana Stanford is there to help and support these women throughout their journey to find sobriety.

"We teach women how to go into society sober; how to go forward in life without alcohol and drugs," Stanford said. "Help them get a car, get a job, get paperwork, and when their time is over at the home, we help them purchase a home for themselves.”

“I am learning as I go, and starting ground up just like the women here have. I myself am learning my own sobriety,” Stanford continued. “I have been sober for a year and a half now, and it has been amazing. I can’t put into words how fantastic of a ministry this is for women in our area. It is very dear to my heart in many ways and it puts life into perspective.”

Many women begin this process of living a sober lifestyle and don’t have friends or family to turn to afterwards. The friends or even family themselves are involved in things that these women have worked so hard to remove out of their lives.

“I was very fortunate to receive support and comfort from my family. I have a family that was there after I was sober... I had friends who were sober. That makes a big difference,” Stanford said. “A lot of these women have no one to turn to. They don’t know where to even begin, so this home shows women they have a family and a group of friends that are here for their best interest, here to only watch them succeed.”

“This is very important to me and I am so excited to begin this journey with these women,” said Stanford.

“We not only do transitional housing, we help people,” Roberts said. “Our goal is to walk through the entire process of recovery with them. We visit and find women to try to make their life right for them. We want to build a relationship and allow these women to trust us.”

“We have built a solid community of recovery for these women,” said Roberts. “We have been blessed with churches, businesses, and individuals giving to this program. We have been blessed to be able to keep going and continue to support these women. They know that they have a huge community around them and that is good because they can’t always take the pressure of normal living without the help and support of so many.”

REGULAR EVENTS

Farmers’ Market - Jaybird Park. Every Wednesday and Saturday, 6 a.m. until noon

City Board Meetings: First Tuesday of each month. City Halls throughout the county.

County Board Meetings: 1st and 3rd Mondays, County Courthouse Board Room.

On Tuesday nights The Bridge House has celebratory recovery where the community gathers with the women and celebrates recovery and progress.

There is a process to be accepted and to see if the right place for an individual is The Bridge House. Required is a minimum of three months at a rehabilitation center. The Bridge prefers a full term and enjoys seeing the women finish rehab, but the minimum is three months. There is an application process that has to be completed, along with an interview. After both of these are completed the board of directors approves the application or decides that the individual might be better suited for another transitional home or care center.

Women a part of The Bridge House are helped to get a job and get back on their feet to live a normal life. There is a bed fee to stay at the house, which is 25% of their income from their job. Another 25% of their income is put into a savings account for the individual to have when exiting the house to be able to buy a house, get a vehicle, pay rent, pay bills, and have money to start out on their own. The other 50% is for them to keep to purchase maybe clothes, or food while they are out, or to save on their own. It is for personal use.

While being a part of The Bridge House there are a few boundaries set and procedures to be aware of. There are curfews, each woman can come and go as they please throughout the day but by 10 p.m. everyone must be back inside the house. They do have freedom while they are outside during the day. There are also drug tests. The women do chores, attend bible study and a prayer meeting, have two sobriety meetings a week, and two church services a week. The women do not have to attend The Bridge Church but are encouraged to do so if they do not have other ties to other churches.

“We want other ministries to see the ladies in the house,” said Roberts. “We encourage other churches and ministries to get involved.”

The Bridge House is a non-profit organization that accepts donations through CashApp: $TheBridgeHouse, the Facebook Page, sending it to P.O. 175 Burnsville, Mississippi 38833, and through their website support page for PayPal. The website also has a great way to get in contact with organizers and board members. For more information and personal experience stories visit www.bridgehouseburnsville.org.

In his early years, he was a registered sanitarian for Tishomingo and Alcorn County health departments. He was in the Mississippi National Guard for nine years, and while serving, he was deployed for the protection of the University of Mississippi during the riots that followed the admission of James Meredith.

He was director of the senior citizen program at Tishomingo State Park for several years and was adored by the elderly members who attended. He recently received his Masonic pin for his 60 years of service. He owned and operated the local Sunflower grocery store which later became the Sunflower Antique Mall and Flea Market.

Mack also was known for his love of writing songs and children’s books. He was a co-publisher of the well-known song “Choices” by George Jones. Also, one of the highlights of his career was accompanying Tammy Wynette on a boat tour of Bay Springs. He is the author of the children’s books Elvie the Elf, and Elvie the Elf: Finding Buckey. Summer Adventures Series!

Local Fun Activities Right Here in Our Town

by Mary Ellis Gray
(with help from mom, Rebecca)

Since there are many interesting things to see and do around Iuka, we stayed around the downtown Iuka area for our next adventure series. How lucky we are to live in a town with so many fun things to do right in our backyard!

1st stop: Iuka Library

We know it's important to keep reading during the summer (so our parents and teachers tell us), so we stopped by the Iuka Library to get a summer reading packet. It included a community-wide scavenger hunt around Iuka. This was a perfect way to get our adventure day started and to help us explore our town.

2nd stop: The Apron Museum

Did you know that Iuka has the only Apron Museum in the world? We spent almost 2 hours there looking around and learning about aprons. Carolyn and Henry Terry, the owners, told us many stories about the aprons that are hanging in the museum. They had all kinds of aprons. Many of them were donated by famous people. Our favorites were the ones that have girls in dresses on them. The Apron Museum was on the library scavenger hunt, but it was also like a scavenger hunt of aprons inside. We really enjoyed our visit there and hope to go back again soon!

construction going on and many people out shopping. Jay Bird Park is much different than Mineral Springs Park, but it is still a nice place to enjoy being outside. We hope to visit all the food trucks in Iuka before the end of summer.

5th stop: Snowcones

A couple of summers ago we started a yearly snow cone challenge with our friends, where we tried to sample every snow cone flavor from the snow cone truck. We almost did it, but school started back too soon (as always) before we marked off every flavor. This summer we are trying really hard to finish the snow cone challenge. We went to BB's Custom Cakes for our first snow cone of the summer. It was so delicious and sweet. Our tip to try all the flavors faster: get a half & half snowcone so you can try two flavors at once!

6th stop: Fire Pit

When we got home, we helped our parents build a fire in the fire pit. We love sitting outside around the fire. One of our favorite summer treats is s'mores.

A couple of years ago, while spending a week at Coleman Park with our cousins, we found an easier way to make s'mores (aka less work and less mess for the parents to clean up). We love eating "walking tacos" in the cafeteria at school, so we were excited to find a dessert version of the portable food. This is perfect for the campground or just sitting around a fire pit.

Walking S'mores Recipe

2 Ingredients: 1.) individually wrapped bag of Fudge Stripe Cookies 2.) marshmallows
Roast marshmallows to desired doneness (we like them charred)
Add marshmallows to the opened bag of cookies and mix with a fork.
Eat straight from the bag!

Piano Karate and Corn Cobs

My youngest child recently began a rite of passage for many in my family. Her fingers have reached the length and dexterity to begin piano lessons which, like her ancestors before her, will hopefully grow into the lifetime of enjoyment and therapy that only an intimate relationship with music can bring. She had just returned from a piano lesson and was showing me what she had learned and what was supposed to come next in her Piano Karate class. Having recently graduated to orange belt, she's already doing chord progressions when, at the same point, I was still trying to figure out where to put my thumbs. Look out, John W. Thompson Piano Method. The Karate Kid has the musicians of the future burning through scales and arpeggios quicker than I was playing "Chopsticks." This new and, clearly, more effective method of teaching music to children got me thinking about how we naturally resist change, even if the benefits far outweigh the disadvantages.

expectations, etc.?" and finally, "Would you like to take the modern or traditional route?" The modern or traditional route? I didn't know there was a modern route.

The teacher explained that many students prefer to only learn how to play specific songs on an instrument, and others want to actually learn to read music and take a more "traditional" route. I immediately poked my chest out and indignantly announced, "We will be taking the traditional route. I want my child to be able to play whatever she wants to." We were assigned to the Piano Karate course, as that's what they do with us "traditionalists" these days, and her progress through the basics has been quite impressive. At the end of the course, she will be able to play the songs she likes, which is exactly what the modern method teaches you to do, only quicker. Maybe there's something to that newer way of thinking after all. Isn't it songs we wanted to play in the first place?

I've heard things...
Bo Murphy

As I contemplate the ways in which we fight the inevitable, I'm hearkened back to a simpler time. Suddenly I'm nine years old again. It's about 30 minutes after supper time at my grandparents' house and I'm sitting around with my cousins as we each spend time turning the crank on the ice cream maker that would ultimately produce peach ice cream for us all to enjoy. The fish we had for supper was also hand-caught and hand-cleaned by the same child labor that shelled the peas and strung the green beans. When we finished making all that mess, the children also got to take all the food waste to the compost pile and the garbage to the area in which it stayed until it was hauled to a dumpster in the back of a pickup truck, along with about ten kids without even a helmet on. For better or worse, all these activities of a bygone day have been replaced with modern alternatives.

sweeping statement, let's put that theory to the test. I was determined that my child would suffer through the F# melodic minor scale over and over just like I did because I assumed it was the best way to learn to play songs. Come to find out, you can learn the song first, and still learn the fundamentals as you go. Believe it or not, ice cream made with an electric machine is just as frozen as the child labor variety. Fish caught and cleaned by an adult old enough to handle a knife taste just as good. I can't tell a difference between hand-shelled peas and those from a pea-sheller, and the garbage disappearing all on its own once a week is a huge improvement from being buried under it. So, before you decide that we need to return completely to the ways of old, I challenge you to sit in an outhouse with no air conditioning during August. You'll be glad we now have antibiotics to cure that spider bite on your rear end, tetanus vaccines to protect you from the rusty nail on the seat, and toilet paper instead of an old corn cob. Well, two corn cobs. If you know, you know.

I know what many of you are thinking, and it's something akin to, "Yeah, and everything was better back then." Before we make such a bold,

Ain't No Mountain Low Enough

We have entered the dog days of summer. In beautiful, crime-free Iuka, Mississippi, we know the dog days of summer is that time of year when you have to start pulling ticks off your children like they're stray dogs. Some might argue that technically summer doesn't start until next week, but the day I'm writing this column it's going to be 99 degrees outside and if you're telling me I'm going to have to accept that it gets 99 degrees in the springtime then I'm just going to lose all hope of surviving the summer. Thanks to my illusions, I believe it's going to be a great summer, if only we can spend a few days on a beach somewhere (and avoid Lyme Disease).

whining along the way, but we reached the heights. We conquered the mountain. We scaled the peak.

We climbed ... all 806 feet to the top of Woodall Mountain.

My wife did NOT find it funny.

Yes, Tishomingo County boasts many oddities of nature - just go to the local Wal Mart after 8 PM. But we host nothing as impressive as Woodall Mountain, the highest mountain (I am legally obligated to state here it is in no way an actual mountain) in Mississippi. One might think in a state where the most famous region is famous for being flat - the Delta - folks might not care about the state's highest point. But a combination of a generation of high school children being forced to take Mississippi history and there not being a lot of Mississippi's history to cover that's not problematic, and since the uncontroversial stats always end up on the final exam, everybody knows up here we're the top of the state.

There is history in this noble peak. Being a tireless researcher so long as I don't have to scroll much past Wikipedia, I recently learned that Woodall Mountain was originally called Yow Hill. Yow Hill is, of course, short for "Yow! I'm getting a huge blister walking up this gigantic hill." Now, I'm not sure if the local indigenous people had a name for it, too. Perhaps it was something beautifully lyrical like, "Hill all white kids in the 1990s drove to the top of to make out" (probably something getting lost in the translation there). The mountain (hill) was renamed for Zephaniah Woodall who, in addition to having the most heavy metal first name in history, was the Sheriff of Tishomingo County in 1887. Why is that year so important? Because that was the year someone burned down the original Tishomingo County Courthouse in Iuka, an arson committed, as the story goes, to destroy evidence in a murder case. There were no convictions.

So, the highest point in Mississippi is named after a man who might possibly be the worst sheriff in Tishomingo County history.

I propose we rename our summit. The perfect name has been staring us in the face for decades: Zephaniah's Peak.

Yow, what a good name!

Lessons From Dad

By: Lee Williams

From my father, whom I called Papa, I learned many, many lessons of unconditional love, but what made such a unique and lasting impact was the way he taught me respect for the universe, others and myself, in what I called Nature's Classroom. Often, seemingly ill at ease in interior settings, he was as comfortable as a wise old owl in the outdoors.

Papa was a large handsome muscular man, 6' 3", 215 pounds, possessing an invincible aura of honesty, strength and courage. From the time of my birth, when he was twenty-four, until his death from a heart attack at age 62, I felt safe and protected in his presence. For the longest time I believed that protection to be a good fathering prerequisite.

One of my earliest memories was sitting on Papa's sturdy knee on the old white Adirondack chair in the open dog-trot hallway that separated our farmhouse's living quarters from the opposite bedroom wing. A summer storm spiraled across the cornfield, scattering debris in its wake, and ballooned my homemade cotton print dress over my head. I hid my face in Papa's blue sweat-stained work shirt.

"What are you afraid of?" he asked, lowering and pressing my dress against my legs. "It's just the wind hugging and kissing you." His arms tightened around my waist. "Close your eyes and see if you can feel the love." I squeezed my eyes closed. I could feel it. It was like a loving mother's caresses.

When lightning streaked over a nearby hill, Papa said the gods were celebrating the Fourth of July. He explained that without lightning, we may never have had a warm fire or electricity. When I flinched at the thunder, Papa explained that it was just the warm air saying hello to the cooler breezes, and invited me to stand with him and greet the forces of nature.

Another night, we sat on the front porch with our legs dangling over the edge, with Papa's nearly touching the ground, watching what he called lightening bugs. Jumping off the porch, he chased the fireflies across the damp grass, and yelled for me to get one of Mama's Bell jars. We caught the flashing bugs and put them in the glass jar. Papa got his hammer and nails, and pounded holes in the lid. "To give them fresh air," he said. "We don't want them to suffocate."

Mama, and my toddler sister, Alta Ann, joined us. "They look like diamonds," said Mama.

Papa took a bug from the jar and somehow extracted the light from the insect. He crushed the light and placed it on my ring finger. "Now it is a diamond," he said with pride.

"Make me one," said Alta Ann, holding out her chubby hand.

"Yes, we have to share. We're family; you know what that means don't you?" "It means you have to love each other," said Alta.

Papa took additional bugs from the jar, removed the lighted parts, smashing them one by one on Alta's small, thick wrist until it was encircled.

"Now Alta has a diamond bracelet," said Mama in delight.

Papa, (Brodie Lee Franks), has been gone for forty-six years, but in many ways he's still with us. His wife, Irene Franks, and three of his children, Alta Jones, Jerry Franks and Ruth Lovelace, have joined him in perpetuity. His surviving children: Shirley Brown, and Linda Lambert of Iuka, MS, Lee Williams of Dyersburg, TN, Deanna Forbes of Florence, AL, and Kathy Warren of Gulf Breeze, FL all share his appreciation of both the simple and complex components of nature and nurture. All their lives have been enriched by his legacy of unconditional love and respect for everything good in humanity and the universe. May he always live through a perpetuation of his values through descending generations! We love you, Papa-Daddy!

Serving families for over 30 years

Our family serving your family, across the generations.

Integrity and attention to detail are essential to the success of any funeral home. Without the trust and confidence of the community, we would never have been here for 87 years. We know that those who work with us are the backbone of our ability to offer the service our community has come to expect.

Bro. Jimmy Rich

Strength of character and devotion to serving those in need are the hallmarks of the people we consider leaders, and no one represents those characteristics more than Bro. Jimmy Rich. His dedication to his Lord, his church, his family, and community have been shown throughout a lifetime of service to his fellow man. With a pastoral demeanor and wise counsel, Bro. Rich has been an invaluable asset to not only our funeral home, but to the entire community. We are blessed to have such a perfectly suited individual on our team.

Bro. James “Jimmy” Rich was born in Ripley and graduated from Walnut High School. In 1983, he and his wife, Barbara, made the move to Tishomingo County to become the pastor of Burnsville Pentecostal Church which has now become The Bridge at Burnsville. He has remained the senior pastor there for 39 years. Bro. Rich also serves as Tishomingo County Deputy Coroner and is very involved in community organizations such as Corinth Kiwanis.

Bro. Rich and Barbara, along with their children, Leanne Roberts (Jason) and Darren Rich, and grandchildren, Miley and Jathan, have made the Glen community their permanent home. He has worked in the funeral industry since 1992, and says, “I was privileged to be asked to come on board with Cutshall Funeral Home in 2004. To me this is just an extension of ministry as we are able to comfort, pray with, and advise families during what is probably the worst time of their life. I count it an honor to stand with our capable and professional staff to offer this service. Although this is a part time venture for me, caring for people in our community has always been full time.” It is that full time commitment to serving his fellow man that makes men like Bro. Rich stand apart, and why we are a better organization with him on our team.

Local Verdict on Pontius Pilate: a Hung Jury

by Pamela McRae

A few dozen local folks enjoyed a great play last Saturday night as Tishomingo Arts Council presented “The Case of Humanity vs Pontius Pilate” and a jury selected from audience members gave Pilate a pass for his role in the death of Jesus Christ.

Pilate was “put on trial” in a very realistic way, as he was “appealing” how he had been judged for the last 2,020 years or so. The old courtroom enhanced the experience for everyone, and the acting troupe obviously enjoyed the chance to stage it in the courtroom.

Twelve audience members were selected, including yours truly - apparently being a member of the press was not going to get me out of jury duty this time! When it came time to render a verdict, jury members started to vote as we expected WE were expected to - guilty, of course...right? But upon a second vote, considering only the testimony presented during the “trial,” four or five of us voted not guilty, so it was a hung jury.

Apparently our hung jury is the most common result during other productions, confirmed the “bailiff,” giving us some reassurance we weren’t completely crazy for voting the way we did.

The cast of “The Case of Pontius Pilate vs. Humanity” last Saturday night in Iuka.

The three-part collaboration between the Old Courthouse Museum, Tishomingo Arts Council, and William Freeman’s theatre group, who first brought the show to life at the Shoals Community Theatre, was a one-time show, and a lesson in jumping on an opportunity like this when it comes along!

The actors clearly enjoyed the production and gave very good “modern” portrayals of historical characters like Pilate, head priest Caiaphas, Mary Magdelene and others. And the prosecutor and Pilate’s defense attorney rose to the challenge of getting testimony from Nicodemus, Joseph of Aramethea, Pilate’s wife, and Annas.

Everyone really seemed to enjoy the production. Thanks to Tishomingo Arts Council, and the Old Courthouse Museum, for bringing this play to be enjoyed locally!

If you get a chance to see one of TAC’s productions, be sure to jump on it quickly!

“Always... Patsy Cline” to be Presented at Jacinto Courthouse

With “Always... Patsy Cline,” Jacinto Courthouse adds plays to their already large and growing list of community events. The musical drama, well-loved across the nation, comes to the Jacinto grounds, performed live in the evenings on June 23-25.

“This is a first for Jacinto,” explains Charlette Foster, Director of Jacinto, “I think it will attract all ages of folks and is family-friendly. Also, the music will be awesome!”

The play, written and originally directed by Ted Swindley, is based on the true story and centers around the friendship between Cline and Texas housewife Louise Seger.

At the heart of the play is the music, and this makes the drama a natural fit for the grounds at Jacinto.

“We have ‘Pickin’ At Jacinto’ every third Saturday night, where we invite local bluegrass bands to come play. This production goes right along with all the music we have been bringing to Jacinto since February,” explains Foster.

It was the love of Patsy that attracted local actress Jenny Jordan to the show: “I’ve been singing Patsy Cline songs since I was six years old,” says Jordan, who plays Louise Seger opposite Kayla Frazier Meyers’ Patsy Cline, “So, to be a part of this show is a dream come true.”

The play comes about as a cooperative effort between the Tishomingo Arts Council, The Jacinto Foundation, and Ripley Arts Council.

“Jacinto has such a beautiful campus,” explains Brent Bonds, Chair of TAC, “It’s a great place to be able to put on shows of all kinds, indoors or out. We were grateful to be able to initiate the partnership in putting this event on with Jacinto and Ripley. This is a great show and it fits what Jacinto is doing; and Jacinto – being the old center of Tishomingo County before it was broken up into Tishomingo, Alcorn, and Prentiss – is a really cool place for groups to come together. We push for building community across communities, so this collaboration, set here, is a really awesome thing we hope to see more of.”

The show’s director Amy Marsh is excited to be at the helm of a project that offers something for everyone:

“Comedy, drama, and of course all of Patsy’s hits make for an exciting night of family friendly entertainment.”

Sponsored by Nicholas R. Bain, Attorney; Kudzu 104.9; Hearn Law Firm; The Purple Helmet Initiative; and RCTV 19, “Always... Patsy Cline” will run 7 pm nightly, June 23-25 at Jacinto Courthouse in Rienzi. Tickets are currently on sale for $15 and are available in-person at The Jacinto Courthouse or at Renasant Bank in Iuka, MS. Tickets may be acquired online by emailing Tishomingo Arts Council at tishcoarts@gmail.com

“Leading Ladies” at Red Bay Starting June 23rd

The Bay Tree Council for the Performing Arts in Red Bay, Alabama announces its fourth and final production of the season, Leading Ladies, written by Ken Ludwig and directed by Mary-Elizabeth Moore.

Performance dates are June 23-25, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, June 26th at 2. Tickets will go on sale Monday, June 13, at the Weatherford Center in Red Bay. You may go by between the hours of 2-4 p.m. weekdays to purchase your tickets or call 256-356-9829 to reserve them. Please leave a message if no answer and your call will be returned.

For this production, a dinner is available on Thursday, June 23rd and Sunday, June 26th. Since the BTCPA is charged per plate, those tickets must be reserved in advance and confirmed. You may contact Beth Hammock at 256-668-0045 for more information. This play was performed by BTCPA 14 years ago with Zeb Wallace returning in the same role from that production.

The cast includes Theron Struzik, Zeb Wallace, Brandy Cook, Molly Thorn, Chris Perea, Carol Murphree, Mary-Elizabeth Moore, and Dominic Rogers.

In this hilarious comedy by the author of “Lend Me A Tenor” and “Moon Over Buffalo,” two English Shakespearean actors, Jack and Leo, find themselves so down on their luck that they are performing “Scenes from Shakespeare” on the Moose Lodge circuit in the Amish country of Pennsylvania. When they hear that an old lady in York, Pennsylvania is about to die and leave her fortune to her two long lost English nephews, they resolve to pass themselves off as her beloved relatives and get the cash. The trouble is, when they get to York, they find out that the relatives aren’t nephews, but nieces! Romantic entanglements abound, especially when Leo falls head-over-petticoat in love with the old lady’s vivacious niece, Meg, who’s engaged to the local minister. Meg knows that there’s a wide world out there, but it’s not until she meets “Maxine and Stephanie” that she finally gets a taste of it.

This production wraps up the BTCPA’s 25th Season. Over the years, they have produced over 75 productions with hundreds of actors, directors, and behind the scenes individuals. The BTCPA would like to thank all of those who have been involved over the years and the wonderful community who continues to support local theatre.

Keep your cool as summer heats up

Avoid the burn of higher bills with simple energy-saving solutions

Signs of summer are already here: longer days, fresh garden vegetables, road trips and blazing temperatures. The hot and humid weather can drive up your energy use, but you – and your electric bill – can avoid the burn without sacrificing comfort.

When there is a big difference between inside and outside temperatures, it takes more energy to maintain a pleasant climate in your home. Since heating and cooling costs make up about 55% of the typical customer's electric bill, taking steps to save energy can help keep bills low when temperatures are hot. Keep your cool and save money with these easy tips:

Make sure the air coming into your home is clean and healthy. Air filters on some air conditioning units require monthly cleaning or replacing. You can also get your A/C inspected to make sure your system is leak-free and operating as efficiently as possible. Entergy Mississippi customers can get incentives of up to $150 with a tune-up through the Entergy Solutions program.

Set your thermostat at 78 degrees or the highest comfortable temperature. Every degree lower than 78 can raise your bill as much as 3%. If you crank down the A/C to a cooler 72 degrees, you've already increased your bill by 18%.

Buy a programmable thermostat. As energy use rises, costs also rise. A programmable thermostat can help you manage those costs when you are away, whether for the day or on an extended vacation. (Get up to a $100 incentive on select advanced smart thermostats.)

Use fans to cool off, but remember – fans cool people, not rooms. Ceiling fans, box fans and oscillating fans use very little electricity to circulate the air, which helps you feel several degrees cooler. Make sure ceiling fans are rotating in the right direction – counter-clockwise during summer – to push cooler air down into the room. To save more energy, be sure to turn all fans off when you leave the room.

Close blinds, shades and curtains to keep the sun out and the cool air in. Also, close air conditioning vents in rooms that are not in use.

Seal cracks and holes around doors, windows and ductwork. Weather stripping and caulk will help keep the cold air in and the hot air out.

Use the myAdvisor tool on myentergy.com to learn when you use the most energy. The usage and cost tool can compare your usage history by month, day and hour.

Visit entergy.com/savemoney to access a variety of energy-saving tips and calculators that will help you determine the best cost-cutting scenarios to suit your needs.

Life in 1940, My Graduation Year

I would be remiss if I didn't write one more article about the difference between graduation in 1944 and 2022.

In 1940, my class enrolled 41 and we graduated 18. World War II had taken its toll on students from our class, boys and girls. We were one of the classes that did not lose a single young man -- the class that graduated in 1945, lost three young men.

Many of those were drafted, several volunteered where they could choose the branch of service. When they returned, many came back and finished their studies to graduate. Others took night classes offered and several took the GED examination.

Gas was so scarce that our neighbor had a new Model T. It sat in the car shed and the tires rotted off. That was a common event for many.

Several of the girls quit school and went to work in defense plants.

During the 1940's if a student in grades 9th through the 12th was getting a medal, it was graduation night. We met in the auditorium for our graduation, and it was packed. I was the salutatorian and gave the welcome address. I remembered all the boys and girls who had answered the call to service. I remember many shed tears unashamedly. It was so sad for mothers, dads, and us, too.

Most of the parents had come to the graduation on a school bus or they would not have been able to attend due to gas shortage.

The attire/dress code was formal. Girls wore evening dresses with a corsage of red and white ribbon...I still have mine. The boys wore suits and ties. I was also the recipient of a medal each year.

Another interesting thing was happening in our town at that time: we were getting over the Great Depression and a New Deal program that President Franklin D. Roosevelt authorized called the Civilian Conservation Corps helped America in building roads, dams, and campgrounds. Camps were set up all over the various states to employ young men. The Tishomingo State Park was built by the CCC boys. I believe their salary, except $5.00 a month, was mailed to their parents. Seems like it was $17 they received. People who lived in the county fared much better than those in the cities. We had gardens, food was canned and dried for the winter. Notice, I didn't mention freezing food - because we had no electricity.

Back to graduation, I was getting a gold wristwatch for the highest-grade in-Home Economics. Mom and dad were so proud of me, I had never had a "store-bought dress." My dad bought me a beautiful dress so I would look pretty when I went to the stage to accept the watch.

Let me brag a little... I received the Simplicity Serving medal, the Citizenship medal in the 10th grade, and the activity medal in the 11th grade. I played basketball, baseball, and ran track. Our competition was among our local students, again, because: no gas.

After graduation night activities we boarded a school bus and went to Booneville to Nunley Studio for class pictures. Then on to a restaurant for a late dinner.

Our class was happy to receive this much attention. Mrs. Marie Edwards was our class sponsor. Mr. Edwards went with us. I don't remember who drove the bus. It could have been him. He was the agriculture teacher.

It was so sad that night to say "good-bye" because all the rest of the boys were in the military in a few weeks. They went gladly and served our country until the war ended. Most didn't get to come home for some time, though.

On August 6, 1945, the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan at Hiroshima. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after breaking the record by being elected President for the 4th time died shortly after being elected and Harry S. Truman called the "shot" for the dropping of the atomic bomb that surprised the world—including America!
God Bless.

20th Century Club June Yard of the Month

The GFWC-MFWC 20th Century Club of Iuka Yard of the Month for June is the beautifully groomed yard of Mrs. Betty Mitchell at 1908 Independence Square. Situated on a hill, the yard features a mature Japanese maple. The burgandy color of the maple is echoed in the alternating burgundy and green shrubbery. Big healthy ferns on white pedestals guard the front door. Bright spots of color in various containers are placed artistically in a palette pleasing to the eye. Mrs. Mitchell received a Walmart $20 gift card from the club.

UDC Studies Confederacy's Chief Foreign Agent

The John Marshall Stone, Chapter 394 held their May Meeting by phone due to illness in chapter. We complete UDC rituals and played "Dixie." Reports were given, discussed and approved.

The topic for May's program was "James Dunwoody Bulloch," Confederacy's Chief Foreign Agent. Many southern families would spend the hot summers in the cooler northern states. This is what James (age 6) family did in 1829 and they then returned back home in Savannah in October. They did this for the next few years due to his mother's health. She died in 1831.

After his mother died his father married his widowed step-mother-in-law and moved Hartford, Connecticut, James was 8 at this time. When he was twelve he was enrolled in an academy.

James began his military career in the navy on June 21, 1839. Some of the ships he was assigned to were USS United States, USS Potomac, USS Decatur, USS Delaware, USS Pennsylvania, USS Erie, USS Stark, USS Warren and USS Lexington.

In 1851 he met and married his first wife, Elizabeth "Lizzie" Caskie, her family was very wealthy. He was released from sea duty and after a honeymoon and visiting his family in Georgia he reported back to Washington, DC. He was assigned to desk duty for the next three months. He then resigned his Navel Commission (1852) He then obtained a position on the USS Mail, steamship in Georgia. His wife Lizzie died in 1854. In 1857 he married Harriott Cross Foster.

In 1861 after the war started he contacted the Confederacy and offered his services at that time he was Captain of a New York steamer. He returned the ship to its owners in England and then reported to Montgomery where he was sent to Europe. He was to buy ships, guns, ammunition and any other Navel

His wife and three children joined him in Liverpool, England. Within three months of his arrival he had brought a large quantity of much needed Navel supplies. He also order two ships to be build in England.

In 1864 he was able to get a ship out of England (Sea King), later called Shenandoah. She travel 58,000 miles, captured 38 ships and 1,053 prisoners. After the war he stayed in Liverpool, England. He was never charged or pardoned for his activities during the war.

After the war, James made only one trip back to the United States to visit family and friends. He died in England on January 7, 1901. The English papers called him a man of "remarkable character and engaging manners."

We will not meet again until September.

Second Traffic Signal Going Up this Week

by Pamela McRae

Iuka will again be a two-red light town shortly, observed many this week.

MDOT crews were putting up the poles and signals at the intersection of Highway 25 and Quitman St/Old Hwy 72 near Sonic on Monday and they will be functioning as a full traffic signal.

The new signals join the new ones recently installed at the “red light” in Iuka at the intersection of Battleground and Quitman streets - for decades the only “red light” in our county.

Soon, there will also be a full red-light signal at the intersection of Highway 25 and Battleground, near the McDonalds/Jacks restaurants and the soon to be opening hotel. There are special left turn lanes being constructed as well.

The improvements are part of the $5.7 million in an overall safety improvement project for about 36 miles Highway 25, the two-lane main artery through the county – from the Highway 350 intersection in the north to nearly the Itawamba County line south of Belmont. The work is supposed to be completed this fall.

Local and through drivers are urged to be observant of the new signals to avoid accidents.
