Head down to the Parks for a “Back to Our Roots” 2022 Heritage Day Festival Saturday

Saturday is the day for fun in and around downtown Iuka! From Mineral Springs Park to the Dexter Block on Eastport Street, everyone will be celebrating Iuka’s 34th annual Heritage Day Festival with events, fun activities, entertainment, sales and more!

Bringing deeper meaning to “heritage,” the festival’s theme is “Back to our Roots,” and special guests from the Eastern Band of Cherokee Nation’s Deer Clan Productions will be featured performers in Mineral Springs Park at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

“We are so thrilled to visit with these Native Americans, and to have them share their culture with everyone,” said Rodney Windham, of the Festival Committee.

“I encourage everyone to come out, bring your kids and family to see and learn from them. It’s a magnificent show.”

Once again the kids will be thrilled with a petting zoo, a kiddie train, breakfast and pics with Princesses, bungee rides, toy vendors, inflatables and more!

Of course, tons of craft vendors will be on site, and you won’t want to miss the food vendors.

Silicon metal made in Burnsville enabling transition to clean energy

by Pamela McRae

Mississippi Silicon LLC, in Burnsville, a leading global producer of silicon metal, announced plans to work with REC Silicon to help establish a low-carbon and fully traceable U.S.-based solar supply chain. The companies have signed a memorandum of understanding (MOU) committing them to negotiate a raw material supply agreement.

This union will support the development of an end-to-end U.S. solar supply chain from silicon metal and polysilicon to fully assembled solar modules. The plan follows the August 18 passage of the Solar Energy Manufacturing for America Act (SEMA) as part of the Inflation Reduction Act, expanding U.S. production of polysilicon and metallurgical grade silicon.

Eddie Boardwine, CEO of Mississippi Silicon, noted “Mississippi Silicon was founded nearly ten years ago to be a domestic source of high-quality silicon metal to the U.S. solar, electronics, and chemical industries. We are pleased by the growing recognition of the importance of a strong end-to-end US supply chain for these materials. The passage of the SEMA Act was critical to bringing that supply chain to reality. We look forward to working with REC Silicon to strengthen our existing relationship and build out that

by Pamela McRae

About 90 Iuka church-goers are without a church home after a Saturday fire destroyed a church on Highway 72.

Iuka fire fighters initially responded to an attic fire at First Free Will Baptist Church about 3:25 Saturday afternoon, according to Iuka Fire Department Chief Blake Melton. Crews stayed about two hours trying to make sure that all the electrical fire was extinguished. Melton said that crews were called back out about 11 p.m. and the attic was burning again, flames through the roof. Other trucks responding were Harmony Central, Midway, Snowdown-Pleasant Hill and other individuals. Authorities are relatively sure the cause was electrical, and no further investigation is planned at this time.

Though the structure is a complete loss, by the grace of God several items were saved, including a special chair for a disabled parishioner, a Bible gifted to Pastor Jamie Nanney by his, now deceased, son many years ago, and the pastor's laptop, with all of his sermons and biblical teachings.

A donation fund will be set up to help with rebuilding, more information to follow. If you would like to contribute, you can send it to 1589 Pleasant Hill Road, Iuka. Pastor Nanney asks that everyone please pray for the Lord to show the church where to go from here.

vital supply chain."

"There are no electronics or solar panels made without silicon metal," said Boardwine. "We sell our silicon to companies like REC which further refine it to make polysilicon, which is the main feedstock to make electronics and solar panels. Mississippi Silicon partnering with REC to supply Silicon metal for them to make polysilicon and then to produce solar modules all in the U.S. will be a huge milestone in the industry. In the past, almost all polysilicon was shipped to China or other far east countries to make a solar panel and then ship them back to the U.S. This partnership will enable a fully integrated supply chain to be here in the U.S."

Mississippi Silicon is the first new silicon metal facility in North America in forty years. Located in the northeast corner of Mississippi State, the plant is strategically placed to take advantage of a growing domestic customer base, stable low-cost electricity, and a regional supply chain. This facility has the highest quality process and environmental controls available, which allows it to operate one of the most efficient and cleanest silicon metal plants in the world.

As a leading producer of high-purity electronics and solar grade polysilicon with assets in Moses Lake, Washington and Butte, Montana, REC is positioned to help lead the U.S. clean energy transition. The recent Hanwha investment will enable a re-start of the currently idle Moses Lake plant in 2023 and make available high volumes of cost-competitive, high-quality, and low-carbon solar-grade polysilicon. REC shut down the Moses Lake plant in 2019 due to unfavorable global market conditions.

"A robust solar energy industry in the U.S. is crucial to our national security and clean energy goals," said James A. May II, CEO of REC Silicon. "Now that SEMA has passed as part of a broad clean energy incentive package, the solar manufacturing industry is in a position to make long-term investments that create millions of new career opportunities in cities and towns across the country and accelerate the transition to clean energy."

Where pets are family, too!

This week our Pet of the Week is Max Carr. His owners are Charles & Tami Carr. Max is a 6 year old yellow lab. He met his new family when he was 8 weeks old. Max has always had the sweetest personality and adores his humans. He loves being outside and rolling in the grass. His favorite toy is a green chew bone. He really enjoys tossing his chew toy up in the air and catching it. When the phone rings Max can always tell when it is his humans granddaughter, he gets so excited that he runs around the table and tosses his toy to catch. He loves being rubbed behind his ears and getting belly scratches. Max has fun going to stay with Dr. Jim Perkins and his staff when his family goes out of town. He is always on his best behavior and is a joy to be around.

Just like Max your pet can have fun at Iuka Animal Clinic's boarding facility while you are away. The clean and spacious boarding areas are very comfortable. Dogs also get to go outside to exercise in their own pen. They each get unlimited water, regular scheduled meals plus snacks. Cats have their own boarding areas which include soft blankets, clean litter pans, and plenty of water & cat food. If your pet only likes a certain type of food or is on a special diet you can bring it for us to feed and you can also bring your pet's favorite things such as a bed or a toy to make them feel more at home. Call our office to set up a reservation. Your pet will enjoy their vacation with us.

Tired of coronavirus; but it doesn't care

Maybe last week's column should have been about knocking on wood because the week before last's column was about narrowly dodging Covid and today my ten-year-old, for those of you who cannot grasp the concept of foreshadowing, tested positive for the Rona. Let me say first and foremost, that I am tired of talking about the coronavirus. It's been around so long I'm pretty sure those poor lepers running around behind veils in the Bible were just the Covid positive with N95 face masks on. The Pilgrims didn't leave England because of religious persecution - it was an aggressive social distancing measure. The ancient world had its plagues and Solomon the Wise King. 2020 had the plague and Joe Exotic the Tiger King.

Covid is different in late summer 2022. Remember in 2020 when, if you went to the same bathroom right after someone who subsequently tested positive for the virus you couldn't go back to work for ten days? My son built up so many excused school absences from quarantines the word is he will get to just skip eighth grade. The Pandemic really taught me what my priorities in life are. Don't believe me? Remember the first item America ran out of? Toilet paper. Now, I am an (alleged) writer. I have a Bachelor of English degree. I believe in the power of the written word to educate, embolden and enlighten. But, let me tell you, dear readers, if the Iuka Walmart would have gone much longer without my precious two-ply my library books would have started getting returned with whole chapters missing.

I kid you not. I remember when, if you tested positive for the virus, people treated you like a racehorse with two broken legs on the bus to the glue factory. Now, my son's school has the same reaction to him getting Covid that my middle school football coach had to concussions: just walk it off, son. I guess coronavirus, like cell phones, the internet, and every new big deal in our modern world, was destined to eventually become more of an annoyance than anything else.

I really wanted to write about something different this week. College football is back, so the next couple of days will be the last time blood pressures in SEC

Country will be anything close to normal. Well, let's be honest, Southerners' blood pressures are never exactly "normal." Our food is too good and our women are too beautiful. But, after the college football playoffs end through the weekend before Labor Day most Southern blood pressures are in the "make an appointment with your cardiologist" zone as opposed to the second quarter of the Egg Bowl where they are in the "quick you've got 30 seconds which grandchild do you want to leave out of the will?" zone.

But, as they say, life happens. My ten-year-old is going to spend the next few days drinking 7Up and watching enough YouTube videos to put those guys from Demolition Ranch's great-grandchildren through college. Am I concerned for my son about the (however slight) possible long-term effects of Covid? Sure I am. Am I concerned about the long-term effects of YouTube videos? You betcha. Heck, am I concerned about the 7Up? It's just a bottle of empty calories. If all you do in life is worry, though, it is not much of a life. So, we're going to keep trying to actually live life at the Clark house this week.

Because, as they say, life just happens.

Flinging shoes at the Mid-South Fair

In 1958 the last of Robert and Maybelle Page's six girls and one boy had married and were off working, raising families, and experiencing the good life America had to offer.

Getting our education was very expensive and hard to achieve but if one had a mind to work? It could be achieved. We had been brought up to work. We were farmers and my mother had taught one year at Cripple Deer School before she and dad married. Mom could play an organ, tat, crochet, and cook. All our clothes had handmade trimmings. Most of them were from flour and feed sacks. There was a lot of swapping flour and feed sacks to get enough sacks with matching patterns to make a dress.

I wanted to share one more comical Memphis Mid-South Fair incident.

It takes place in the fall and we girls always tried to plan a Saturday when we could all be together. Some of our children had already married, but we always carried all the kids right along with us. We always had fun and today we got a dose of the unexpected.

My sister, Nancy, the fifth of Robert and Maybelle Page's children, was a cosmetologist, and all of us were dressed comfortably. Not in our best attire, but we looked like the average fair attendees. It was embarrassing what happened!

"Ya'll wait a minute," called Nancy. We were right in the middle of a throng of people. She stooped over, pulled off her shoes and threw them just as far as she could, and said, "You'll not hurt my feet anymore!"

The shoes flew and landed under the Pippin. Gone! There we were enjoying a day at the Mid-South Fair with a well-groomed sister who was barefooted! It was so embarrassing but so funny, one just had to laugh and walk right along on the midway with a barefooted lady with her kids.

This was years after everyone quit dressing up in their best to attend the Fair.

I don't recall the barefooted cosmetologist drawing attention to anyone except her sisters. They were shocked, but knowing their sister, they just got a big laugh and enjoyed the Midway.

How do I avoid diabetes?

Paid lifestyle coaches being recruited to help Mississippians avoid diabetes

Mississippi is assembling a statewide Lifestyle Coach workforce to help Medicare Part B beneficiaries feel good, look better, and live longer.

Thanks to the Diabetes Coalition of Mississippi, a workforce is being trained and deployed to provide the Medicare Diabetes Prevention Program by coaching Medicare Part B recipients to make healthy lifestyle changes at no cost for a full year of participation.

"For those that qualify for this Medicare Part B benefit, a Lifestyle Coach will provide in-person or live streaming coaching sessions to help participants eat healthier, exercise regularly, have less stress, adopt healthy habits, and reduce their chances of experiencing the onset of type 2 diabetes," said Phil Trotter, Diabetes Coalition prevention workstream chair. "We have just started to recruit for Lifestyle Coach positions in all zip codes, and these are paid positions which can be performed on a part-time basis."

Prediabetes is a condition where individuals have higher-than-normal blood sugar which increase the risk of developing type 2 diabetes in the future.

It is estimated that 814,000 Mississippians have prediabetes, and many do not know it.

8 out of 10 Medicare recipients are living with two or more chronic conditions, and 4 in 10 are living with four or more chronic conditions. The writing is on the wall, something must be done to make healthy lifestyle programs available. It is critical that burdensome health care costs for older adults in Mississippi with fixed incomes be addressed.

"Mississippi Lifestyle Care is focused on healthy lifestyle change to reduce the massive chronic disease burden on the state's health care systems," said Trotter. "Never has a statewide effort launched a border-to-border Lifestyle Coach workforce to confront type 2 diabetes, obesity, and social determinants of health barriers. This is a real opportunity for those wanting to make a difference in the lives of others while getting paid to do it."

Choosing a funeral home is something many of us avoid until the need arises because it touches on a subject with which we're not entirely comfortable. Becoming better informed now will make decision-making easier when the time comes.

Is the funeral home you are considering fully licensed for both at-need arrangements and also pre-arrangements?

Does it have a good long-term standing in the community?

Does the funeral home you are considering have a firm sense of traditional values as well as extensive knowledge of modern and future trends?

And most of all, does the funeral home you are considering have the people, facilities, and training to serve your needs at a cost that is at or below their competitors?

We invite you to stop by Cutshall Funeral Home and ask us these questions. There is a reason why 87 years later it is still...

Tomato Bruschetta for late summer snacking

by Kirby McRae

Last week I received an email from the NY Times cooking section titled: Tomato recipes for late-summer snacking, and immediately forwarded three of them to my lovely bride for consideration in an upcoming edition of the paper that is all about Tishomingo County. Imagine my surprise when she did not immediately offer to include one of the recipes, considering we have had homegrown tomatoes on our kitchen counter for almost four months now!

I had to inform her about my discussion that day in the grocery store with my good friend Judy Vaughn, and how she was so excited about the tomato recipes she wanted to know how to get on that email list. Pay the money, I told her.

My lovely bride agreed on the condition that I prepare the dish and write the review, so here I am.

My recipe selection was Tomato Bruschetta, which is a fine light appetizer we order often at restaurants but for some reason have never made at home. For starters, I selected Oxheart and one or two Amish Paste tomatoes since they are the meatiest. Whatever variety you use, make sure and let them drain as instructed.

I picked up some sourdough bread and toasted both sides in the oven beforehand, to give it that good hard crust.

In addition to the recipe instructions, I added a few sprinkles of feta cheese to give it a little bite.

Finally, to make it a Friday night meal I added Cheddar Bay Biscuit Sausage Balls with homemade ranch dressing, but that would be a recipe for another day!

Here you are Judy, free with your subscription:

Bruschetta - Fresh tomatoes with a few simple ingredients and you have a restaurant-worthy appetizer or snack from your own kitchen.

Tomato Bruschetta

1 pound plum tomatoes (about 4 to 5 large), or another variety of ripe tomatoes

1 teaspoon kosher salt

5 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil

2 large garlic cloves, minced

8 large basil leaves

Grilled or toasted bread, for serving

Step 1 - Core and chop tomatoes, then transfer to a colander over a bowl or in the sink (Tip - use a bowl so you can drink the juice that drains out). Add the salt and gently stir. Let drain for up to 2 hours.

Step 2 - Meanwhile, make the garlic oil: In a small saucepan, warm the olive oil and garlic over low heat until the garlic is softened and fragrant, about 5 minutes, making sure the garlic doesn't brown. Set aside to cool.

Step 3 - Roll the basil leaves up and thinly slice crosswise.

Step 4 - When the oil is cool and the tomatoes are well drained, combine the tomatoes, garlic oil and basil in a medium bowl. Season with additional salt, to taste. Spoon over toasted bread.

Early Circuit Court Books will now be maintained at the Old Courthouse

Twenty-four hand-written books containing court and marriage records from 1887 through the 1960s have been moved to the Old Tishomingo County Courthouse Museum, allowing the public to better access historic records.

According to Circuit Court Clerk Josh McNatt,

the old books have been stored in the basement of the county courthouse, and this will free up space for storage on site, as well as provide better access under the careful care of the Museum. In the exchange, all parties agreed to keep the books in museum custody, allow the public to access them, and never allow them out of the county without the approval of the circuit clerk or board of supervisors. McNatt says another project planned is to scan all marriage records to allow electronic access and preserve them, and to work with the South Tishomingo County Museum on similar projects in the future.

After hours pickup available with lockers at Iuka Library

Are you in a rush and don't want to come into the library to pick up materials you have requested? Do you have kids and don't want to get them out of the car just to run into the library for a few minutes? Do you work while the library is open and can't get by to pick up your materials while its open? Then the Northeast Regional Library has a new service just for YOU!

Library branches at Baldwyn, Belmont, Blue Mountain, Booneville, Burnsville, Corinth, Iuka, Rienzi, Ripley, and Tishomingo are now offering After Hours Pick-up using outdoor lockers that have been installed at each branch. Just call and let library staff know what items you wish to pick up and they will place them in our secure outdoor locker for you to grab at a time that is convenient for you. One section of the locker will be coded with a number that is unique to you. Instructions for using the locks will be posted on the lockers. Library staff will also be available to demonstrate the procedure at any time.

"We are so excited to begin this new phase of library services," says NERL Director Dee Hare. "We often get phone calls from patrons who are wanting to get a book or movie, particularly around the weekend, but cannot get to the library before it closes. This service will allow us to better serve our patrons by letting them get their items at any time." Iuka Branch Manager Teresa Templeton agrees. "These lockers will be a convenient way for our patrons to pick up books or DVD's after hours."

Items for this project were purchased with ARPA (American Rescue Plan Act) funds administered by the Institute of Museum & Library Services (IMLS) and the Mississippi Library Commission (MLC). For more information, please contact your local library branch at 662-423-6300 or call the Northeast Regional Library at 662-287-7311.

Ready for Belmont Friday; Homecoming coming up

Esports kicked off this past week with their first practice! They started practicing in the library after school. We would like to wish head coach Noah Robertson and his players good luck as they start their season. ESports is an Electronic Sports team. They compete virtually in an activity that is on a rise in the United States! It is allowing kids who excel in gaming to be put into a competitive environment! TC is lucky to have this added to our extracurriculars!

TCHS News
Paden Strickland

This Friday, September 3rd, TCHS will hold another pep rally. Those take place during the end of the 4th block, which is around 2:30, in the gym. The game will be at 7:30 against our county rival Belmont, so be sure to show up and show out!

To follow up on a fun-filled Friday, we will have a three-day weekend! Labor Day will be Monday, September 5th and there will be no school! Students, let's please remember why we celebrate this holiday! It's not just a free day, this is a day that celebrates the hard-working men and women that help build up America's strength, prosperity, and well-being!

Homecoming is sneaking up on everyone! The homecoming game will be on October 7th at 7:30 against Caledonia! Saturday, October 8th TC will be hosting a homecoming dance! More news on that soon! Ms. Erica Taylor is soliciting suggestions on the theme for homecoming. Students, please respond to her email by the end of the week!

Senior spotlight

This week I got the honor of speaking with two of TC's seniors! Each week I will be doing a short paragraph recognizing our talented people at Tish County.

This week I asked senior Audrey Williams about what she thinks are the most important things that make a team successful.

"The art of compromise is not to be overlooked; we have had to learn to sacrifice ourselves for the betterment of the squad," she said. She followed up by saying that these qualities help make successful teams and help each individual become a strong and independent person.

"Success doesn't look the same on every team...I've learned trophies lose their shine and many awards are forgotten. This year I am choosing to celebrate even the smallest victories," she said. She wears her Braves uniforms with pride each Friday night to cheer on the football team and looks forward to post-season competition when the cheerleaders hope to bring back another state championship to add to several over the past decade.

"Our goal is to bring a little bit of Tish County football game day excitement to the mats in Jackson!" she said.

"My fondest high school memories were made under those stadium lights, and my biggest hope is that the underclassmen cheerleaders will one day reminisce on their cheer seasons with the same affinity," she said.

"The best advice I ever got was none. When I was a freshman/sophomore cheerleader, I always got frustrated when the advice I was receiving wasn't helping me overcome the situation. Since then, I have simply realized that human words will never compare to the goodness of 'The Word,'" she said. "If I were to give TC Cheer a motto, it would be Romans 12:21. 'Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.'"

McKinley Davis, a senior football player said he likes being a part of a sports team because it teaches you teamwork and problem-solving skills.

"I enjoy the competition and friendships," he said. After high school he plans to pursue a degree in criminal justice, maybe be a game warden and join the army like his dad.

"Work hard, push yourself, and always do your best," is McKinley's advice for freshmen.

You can support him and Audrey, and all the football and band Braves by showing out this Friday night wearing your best TC gear and being loud as we play the Cardinals!

For more information on that please go listen to TC Braves Nation on Spotify or Apple podcasts! To get caught up with past information then please see TC News Now and Sports on YouTube!

This week at Tishomingo County High, we finally had action from all three fall sports teams. Cross Country, Football, and Volleyball are now all in full swing. These teams have all spent the summer working and getting better. Now, they get to show us all how much they've improved.

Cross Country
Cross Country had its first meet of the season on Saturday, August 27 at New Albany. The Braves all ran well, but there was one undeniable headliner. Tyson Anglin kicked off his sophomore campaign with a top twenty finish in the race. Tyson has put in a lot of work over the offseason, as he was one of the four Braves to run in the Nightcrawler Race in Tupelo over the summer, alongside Spencer White, William Methvin, and Tag Hart. The next scheduled meet for the team is September 10 at Hickory Flat.

TCHS Sports

Volleyball

The Lady Braves Volleyball Team had a very, very busy week. They had 4 home games in the span of four days. First on Monday was the division opener against North Pontotoc as they got the win in three sets. Then there was a doubleheader, as the Braves hosted Kossuth and Hardin County in a tri-match. These games were only best of 3, as the Lady Braves got the victory over Kossuth in two sets, then got the win over Hardin County in three. The team then had a tough game against defending 3A State Champions Alcorn Central. They lost in three sets, bringing their record on the week to 3-1.

That was not all the volleyball action for the week, however. The Lady Braves traveled to Alcorn Central to play in a tournament with some of the best teams in the area. They would lose to Belmont in two sets, then lose to Kossuth in two sets. They would get a win against Middleton (TN) in two sets, but end the day 1-3 with a loss to Walnut in two sets. Despite the rough win-loss record, the

The Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing on its proposed budget for fiscal year 2022-23 Tuesday September 6th, 2022 at 9 a.m. at the Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors Office. At this meeting, a proposed ad valorem tax revenue increase in the proposed budget will be considered.

The Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors is operating with projected total revenue of $17,178,910 and $5,881,050 (34 percent) of such revenue is obtained through ad valorem taxes.

For next fiscal year, the proposed budget has total projected revenue of $16,175,661. Of that amount $6,603,612 (41 percent) is proposed to be financed through a total ad valorem tax levy.

This increase in ad valorem tax revenue means that you will pay more in ad valorem taxes on your home, automobile tag, utilities, business fixtures, and equipment and rental real property.

Any citizen of Tishomingo County is invited to attend this public hearing on the proposed ad valorem tax revenue increase in the budget and will be allowed to speak for a reasonable amount of time and offer tangible evidence before any vote is taken."

IMS starts student Tech Team

In today's world of ever-changing technology and endless cables and computer parts, it is increasingly difficult for an IT staff member to be everywhere for minor issues. This is one of the reasons Iuka Middle School started a student Tech Team. In addition, one of the primary goals of the Tech Team is to spark natural technical skills and enhance student communication skills by providing an opportunity to use their skills to service classmates and teachers. Additional duties for the team include live streaming home games, conducting interviews, creating promotional videos for school functions, and lending a helping hand throughout the school whenever they are needed. In 2020, Mrs. Walker designed the tech team to help relieve the IT staff's stress and duties and help students learn about responsibility, technology, entrepreneurship, and marketing.

When it comes to tech support, the tech team gives students hands-on experiences and a window into a lucrative career field. I have been on the Tech Team since, 2021-2022 school year. This class is unlike any other classes I have had before. It is a very interesting and challenging class. We receive hands-on experience working with fixing and building computers and robots.

Already this school year, we have built three Maker Block Robots and one AI robot that was donated by O'Claire's Boutique. We will soon start building another robot that uses Raspberry PI technology. This year's Tech Team is composed of five 7th graders and eight 8th graders. The Tech Team meets daily during first period in Mrs. Melissa's room. To be on the Tech Team students must be: in 7th-8th grade, have on record minimal tardies, be recommended by teachers, and have a problem-solving mindset. Team member qualities include integrity, organization, working well with others, being responsible, respect, and critical thinking. We are looking forward to a great class and school year.

Events this week

This Friday the 7th and 8th grades will have a guest speaker on local history and a first aid class.

Braves showed a lot of fight on Saturday. The whole team is looking better, and they will get a chance to prove it with games against Belmont at home on Tuesday, and again at Hardin County on Thursday.

Football

Last but not least, football had its season opener on the road at Mantachie. A couple of early special teams mistakes saw the Braves fall down early, but the Braves showed fight and passion throughout the entirety of the contest. One thing they showed off was their ability to execute trick plays, as the Braves showed an unconventional two-point conversion stance that sees the whole line of scrimmage minus the center line up on the left sideline, with a receiver out wide on both sides. They went 2 for 2 in 2-point conversions with this formation. Despite their best efforts, the Braves fell to 0-1 with a 42-16 loss to the Mustangs. There isn't time to dwell on it, as they face off against heated rival Belmont this Friday at home.

Music enhances all our learning

As we settle into our schedules, the music teachers have something to say. I asked them-the Band and Chorus teachers- what benefits do their students get from their classes. The Band teacher, Mary Phillips-or Ms. P to her students- said that her students get a better grasp of teamwork and tolerance in her classroom. The Chorus teacher, Ms. Bethany Cheaves, said that she incorporates what the students are learning in their mandatory classes, such as reading, writing, and arithmetic, into her lessons. The math comes in on note counts and reading in the song's words. She even does this for her youngest students, having them sing about the colors they are learning and such.

In addition the junior high-or 7th and 8th grades-have voted on homecoming court the votes have not been tallied yet so the results will be in next week's article. Learning is still happening at Burnsville school.

United Way provides school supplies to schools in Tishomingo County

TISHOMINGO COUNTY, Miss. - Thanks to United Way of Northeast Mississippi and their partners, students in Tishomingo County will be a little more prepared for the school year.

As part of the Back 2 School Project, United Way delivered school supplies to each school serving kindergarten through sixth-grade students in Tishomingo County. The supplies were purchased with donations from businesses and individuals across the region.

"We are glad to be able to help provide some of the items that the students need to start the school year," said BJ Kent, campaign director at United Way. "A lot of families struggle to provide everything, and teachers usually make up that difference out of their own pockets. This project lets the community help fill in that gap and make sure all students have basic supplies."

Kent and co-campaign director, Case Knight,

Burnsville Principal Jonathan Jones and B. J. Kent

Belmont's Jacquelin Middleton and B.J. Kent

Tishomingo's Assistant Principal Casey James

IMS Principal Chrystal Smith and B. J. Kent delivered supplies to over 60 elementary schools in the eight counties served by United Way of Northeast Mississippi.

"The school staff is always really excited when we show up," said Kent. "At every school, they tell us how thankful they are that the community wants to support their students."

Across Tishomingo County School District, United Way provided 539 packs of notebook paper, 5,173 pencils, and 423 glue sticks.

"We couldn't do it without the support of our corporate sponsors and Back 2 School Project donors," said Kent. "Thankfully we live in a community that really cares about supporting our children in all the ways they can."

Listen for the Train

by Anne Taylor

The old railroad trestle bridge in Tishomingo is gone.

The railroad bridge was a fixture for more than a hundred years. It was built in a time when dozens of trains sped along the Illinois Central line between Chicago and Birmingham and on to points south. The tracks ran one block off Main Street, behind the old lumber mills, the cotton gin, and the feed mill.

There was so much traffic in the area that a hotel was built to care for the travelers. And at the end of the business area, the humped-backed bridge let local vehicles avoid the frequent trains.

The bridge was built of large, strong creosote timbers and wooden decking. The deck was eventually covered over with asphalt to smooth the ride. It was not wide enough for two modern vehicles to pass on it and pitched so steeply that the drivers could not see over to the other side. Young drivers were always cautioned to ease up to the ridge "to be sure no one else is coming".

Time and heavier vehicles took a toll on the bridge so it was patched and repaired often. Finally the "load limit" signs went up even though locals with the faith in what had always been mostly ignored them. Then the school buses were turned away and went another longer route.

Like the bridge, the railroad suffered through changes. First the train no longer stopped and then there were no longer passenger trains. The trains that came through were slower and less frequent. Then the Illinois Central ultimately sold the line to a private company. Still the community saw the bridge as a landmark and could not imagine the town would be the same without it.

But time took its toll and when it could no longer be trusted with the safety of the citizens, the bridge came down. The replacement was not a bridge at all but a streamlined, sleek crossing. The red lights would flash and the safety arms would drop when the train approached. The line of sight to the other side was clear.

No locals protested or marched in anger. Instead it was a quiet mourning for a monument, just a soft word: "I guess you knew they tore the railroad bridge down."

Perhaps for smaller towns, it is always a struggle to build and pave and up-date. So nothing is discarded easily. Anything that encroaches on what has been before seems a threat. It is not logical that a bridge, a water tank, or a building should have a psychic hold on

Circuit Clerk speaks at council meeting

The Midway Homemaker Volunteers and County Council members met Tuesday, August 16, at 9 a.m. at the Fairgrounds building. The club members, one agent and one guest were present.

Leadership training topic today was regarding "Iuka's Redistricting," and the speaker was Circuit Clerk Josh McNatt. He explained how redistricting could possibly change a citizen's tax rate, voting precinct, and local supervisor. He gave colorful hand-outs that reflected the old district lines from those newly established. Also, he demonstrated the new voting machines that put a "paper-trail" back in the voting procedures. Club members were given a 'sample' ballot to get the feel of the new hands-on voting method. Members enjoyed his explanations and his demonstration and thanked him for his kind and courteous presentation.

Barbara gave the devotion entitled, "Always There," from an Upper Room publication. Scriptures were from John 14:15-31; 20:29.

The thought-for-the-day was, "Prayer and Bible Reading helps us to feel God's presence" by Norma Sarian of Sao Paulo, Brazil, from the aforementioned publication.

New Business

Betty reminded club members of the Fair coming in October and to consider the food that they would like to bring from our usual menu. The club serves chili, stews, and beans for main course items, and desserts are usually brownies, cobblers or puddings. She reminded members that club dues are to be paid in September.

The Club will provide food for the Adult Day Care Center September 16th, as designated by the Center managers. Two club members will order/purchase and deliver the food at the appointed time that day.

Barbara brought one of her beautiful blue-ribbon quilts she had made to display today. With no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 10:45 a.m. Be a MHV in your free time; call Extension Office 662-423-7016 and volunteer.

modern citizens of the world.

But then no one ever suggested Southerners in particular were born to logic.

Now days, it is the sound of a train that reaches out to the people. The new crossing requires that the train blow its whistle on approach - a redundant warning it seems when flashing lights are barricades are present. The sound may be unnecessary, but it is welcome.

People lift their heads at the sound and smile. Most have never ridden a train and don't remember when the train came flying through on its way to Chicago. But small town citizens generally take their blessing where they find them and if the bridge had to go, then at least there is the long low whistle echoing through the town occasionally.
