NEMCC elects Iuka's Brianna Lowrey 2022 Homecoming Queen

BOONEVILLE - Northeast Mississippi Community College's student body recently elected Iuka's Brianna Lowrey to reign as the college's 2022 Homecoming Queen during campus-wide elections in mid-September. Tishomingo's Madison Bennett, and Iuka's Avery Tapp were also selected to the court.

Lowrey's election as homecoming queen comes just four weeks since the two-year community college started back to school for the Fall 2022 semester.

Lowrey and the 2022 Homecoming court will make their first official appearance at a pep rally in their honor on the front lawn of the Ramsey Student Services Building on Thursday, September 22, at 12:10 p.m.

Northeast's 2022 Homecoming Court will be presented during halftime of the Tiger's National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) football game against Mississippi Delta Community College on Thursday, September 22. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

For those who cannot make it to the homecoming ceremony or the game, both will be aired on the "Black Channel" of NEMCCTV.com. For those who cannot attend the ceremonies or watch them on NEMCCTV, the Tigers versus Trojans football game will be broadcast over Northeast's official radio partner, 102.3 FM The Shark out of Ripley.

Lowrey, a graduate of Tishomingo County High School, is the daughter of Casey and Brandy Johnson.

At Northeast, Lowrey has been actively involved in the Iota Zeta chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa honor society and was chosen as a freshman maid on the 2021 Homecoming Court. She is in her second season as part of the 20-person Northeast cheerleading squad and serves as the vice president of the Student Government Association.

When not busy in the classroom or on the sidelines, Lowrey embraces her entrepreneurial side with Brianna's Sweet Treats, which can be found at local festivals and summer pop-up markets that

County Board of Supervisors meeting

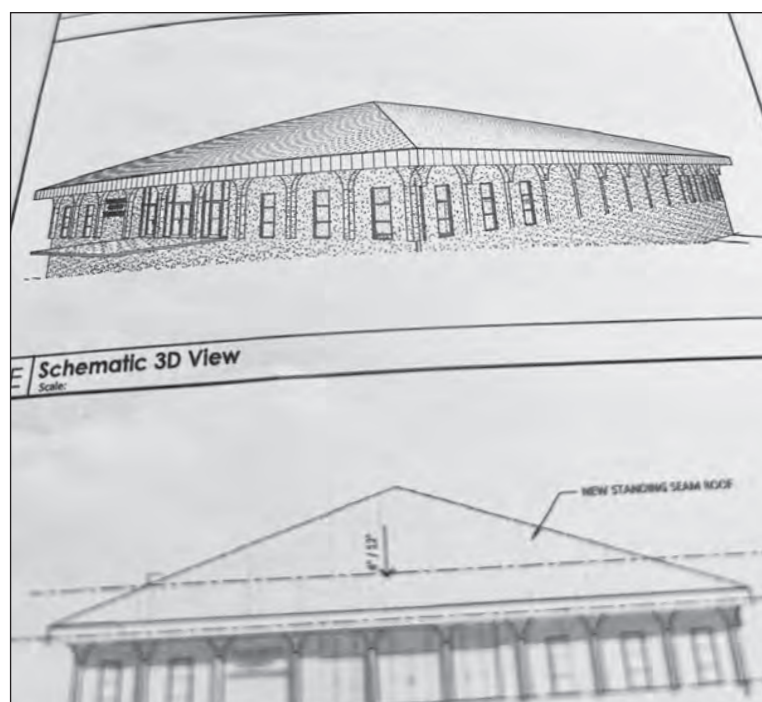

Courthouse fixes in the works

by Pamela McRae

Changes to both courthouses, old and current, as well as future options for expanded courtrooms were discussed at the regular meeting of the Tishomingo County Board of Supervisors Monday.

Engineers presented an architect's rendering of a proposed pitched roof to replace the one currently on the 1970's era Tishomingo County Courthouse. The metal roof would look like the buildings at Northeast Mississippi Community College, said Kenny Paul Geno, with Cook Coggins Engineers.

The new roof will be paid for with $400,000 allocated by the state from money Tishomingo County has been paid for keeping other counties' inmates, thanks to legislation pushed through by Senator Daniel Sparks, explained Chancery Court Clerk Peyton Cummings. The county will probably have to match some, considering rough estimates at this time are $650,000. The project is in its early stages; the board did not order the bidding process to begin. Inflation and availability of labor and materials could also impact cost and certainly the timeline for project completion.

The Old Tishomingo County Courthouse Museum, on Quitman Street, built in the 1880s, is also in line for upgrades to wiring and its heating/air conditioning system. The board approved its expected contribution of $63,140 to add to the Community Heritage Preservation Grant of $315,700 from the Mississippi Department of Archives and History for this work.

More space for court proceedings is another option the board is investigating. On certain court days, when the circuit court and justice court both meet, there are hundreds of people using the main large courtroom and a smaller one

"This has been such an amazing experience working with Regina Pyle, Dwanna Pyle, Kamel King, Scott Baretta, and Wanda Clark to make this a reality and a very deserving honor to our very own Grand Ole Opry member Pete Pyle from Burnsville," said Calvert.

The dedication will draw dignitaries from across the state and be celebrated with a full slate of live musicians.

Iuka woman charged with murder in child's death

by Jebb Johnston

A woman who was babysitting two small children is accused of abusing the two, one of whom has died.

Makallie E. Durham, 23, of Thomas Street, Iuka, was charged with capital murder on Thursday and also with felony child abuse said Sheriff Ben Caldwell. She was being held in the county jail Thursday afternoon awaiting her initial court appearance.

The investigation began Tuesday night after deputies and emergency medical personnel responded to a residence on County Road 380 just outside Corinth in reference to a small child being unresponsive. Deputies found a two-year-old boy unresponsive with multiple bruises and marks.

The child was taken to Magnolia Regional Health Center.

Investigators found an 11-month-old girl in the residence had multiple injuries and was also taken to the local hospital. Both children were transferred to Le Bonheur Children's Hospital.

Caldwell said it was determined that the children were in the care of Durham, who was taken into custody on a misdemeanor warrant.

The two-year-old boy died on Thursday from the injuries, while the 11-month-old girl is in stable condition, the sheriff said.

Dog owner faces second manslaughter indictment

An Alabama dog owner is facing a second manslaughter indictment after the death of a Red Bay woman following a dog attack.

Brandy Lee Dowdy, 39, was indicted by a Franklin County Grand Jury for manslaughter in connection to the death of Michelle Sheeks.

"Dowdy...did recklessly cause the death of Michelle Ann Sheeks by keeping and/or maintaining vicious dogs, allowing them to roam freely in a pack, which attacked a caused the death of Sheeks," according to court documents.

On April 28, Michelle was walking near her home when her husband said she was attacked by a pack of wild dogs. Investigators say that several dogs dragged Michelle down a hill and a neighbor got the dogs away from her before calling 911.

Michelle suffered injuries so badly to her body that it took six surgeries and grafts to stabilize her. She was taken to the University of Mississippi Medical Center where she later died due to complications from her injuries on July 12.

The same dogs are also accused of killing Jacqueline Summer Beard, an Alabama Department of Public Health worker that tried to follow up after the April incident. Dowdy was arrested and charged with manslaughter in connection with Beard's death.

Dowdy is set to be in a Franklin County courtroom on October 12.

Waterway workers reunion

At 2 p.m., as part of the waterway art exhibit, a reunion will be held for all who worked in some capacity on the construction of the Tennessee Tombigbee Waterway. Guests to this event are encouraged to bring souvenirs from their time on the project and to share stories with each other as well as to representatives of the Tishomingo Arts Council and Old Courthouse Museum, who will be on hand to record oral histories.

Throughout the day, there will be fun for everyone and a lot of great music and food. We could not be more excited for this 30th Annual festival!

in the basement of the courthouse. Plus, the same space is used for civil/chancery court. The board is looking at two other buildings, one county-owned and one not, where they might seek to move some court proceedings, with the cooperation of the judges involved.

Currently, on days like this, all the available parking is taken up, as well as many spaces in the adjoining Walmart parking lot, explained Cummings.

"We do not anticipate fewer court proceedings in the future, unfortunately, so we are looking at how we can meet this need," said Cummings.

Equal allocation approved

In other actions, the board approved the equal allocation to each district of funds received from the county property tax collection. Prior to this, each district received what it took in based on property values, which benefited districts with high property values, but meant that others received less, even if they were larger in area, or had more roads, for instance. This allocation method has alternated over the years, explained Cummings. The last time of equal allocation was in September 2015.

The board approved changing the speed limit on County Road 472 in the Third District to 20 miles per hour.

They approved billing the Town of Tishomingo for their half of the cost of a $20,000 roof replacement for the Tishomingo Fire Department; Fourth District fire department funds paid for the county half, said Fourth District Supervisor Jeff Holt.

Where pets are family, too!

Our Pet of the Week this week is Peanut Page. Her owners are Ricky and Shara Page. Peanut is a 16 year old Chiweenie (Chihuahua & Dachshund mix). The Page's son got her when she was six weeks old. Peanut became an important member of the family very quickly and established her role as best friend to Pawpaw, Ricky. She loves Ricky very much. He is her favorite person and her favorite pastime is sitting in his chair with him. She enjoys taking long naps in the sunshine and getting treats. She has a one year old dog sister named Hope who keeps her on her toes. Her favorite time of year is Christmas because she knows she is going to get a stocking full of treats. Peanut enjoys being spoiled and living life to the fullest.

If your dog loves treats like Peanut, then you should know you can make your very own healthy dog treats at home. There are many different veterinarian-approved recipes online to choose from. Most of the recipes use common foods such as peanut butter, apples, and bananas. You can also add low sodium beef or chicken broth for that meaty flavor dogs love. You can use cookie cutters to make fun shapes before baking. It can be a great family project to involve children by making their furry friend a special one of a kind treat. If you have any questions about your pet's dietary needs or need a veterinarian call Dr. Jim Perkins today.

Happy Hippie makes things happen for Pickwick Lake visitors

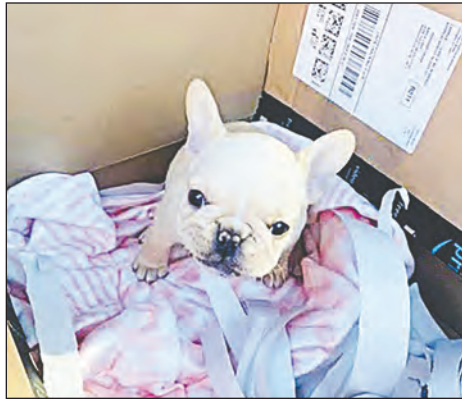

In a world where it's hard to find people to work, the Happy Hippie doesn't stop working.

An entrepreneurial spirit led Brian Riley to start his own business, offering concierge services to the Pickwick Lake area. This was a much-needed position, given how many people use their homes as secondary residences. A dream that started from deciding to rent his primary home as an Airbnb destination at Pickwick Lake and a Facebook request to deliver food to a group of visitors eventually landed him a permanent career.

When I asked Brian about meeting to discuss an article for the paper, I requested an interview around the Labor Day weekend. Selfishly, that timing worked best for me since I had a long weekend in town. He was so excited to be included in the Vidette, but I could hear the hesitation in his voice - Labor Day weekend is one of his busiest times and while he assured me he would make it work, I asked him to meet with me later as taking care of customers always comes first. And that's why he thrives as a business owner.

His list of services is impossible to pin down. He literally will help anyone with almost anything at any time. The most memorable I've seen are rescuing a dog in the lake, stocking refrigerators before guests' arrival, trash pickup, and most recently, his own Happy Hippie Retreats.

When I asked Brian about his most memorable task, he stated it was a child's Christmas wish. A client he serves in Pickwick, also a Memphian, had a Santa request from his 4-year-old to have a puppy for Christmas fall apart at the last minute. As Brian had saved him many times in Pickwick, the client asked if he would help him once again. This time it was a delivery to Collierville, Tennessee, but the backup puppy was coming from Georgia. Without pause, Brian agreed to do the 10-hour drive there and back to make the cutoff of Christmas Eve. After picking up the puppy, he realized it was a special breed that could be stolen due to its value. Because of this, Brian loaded up as much water and necessities for the puppy to make the full drive back without stopping to be sure the puppy arrived unharmed and always attended. The sheer joy of the family and child having a new puppy on Christmas Eve is one neither he nor the family will forget.

His most recent venture is his purchase of fifteen acres in Counce, Tennessee to start Happy Hippie Retreats. This scenic place will feature 21 RV camping spots with septic and electrical hookup, with six pads already up and running within weeks of ownership. While I had asked to adventure into the land, I was not expected to find a bamboo palace, unlike anything I'd seen at Pickwick Lake before. Being a land realtor, I love to explore the options for the use of space and I was excited to brainstorm his upcoming ideas with him.

He says he does what he does for his daughter. He wanted her to see the importance of hard work and sharing kindness with people all around. In a world where everyone is pushed to the ideal corporate career, he hopes to show her there are creative and multiple ways to produce revenue streams through innovation and assisting others.

In royals and fantasy, it's all about the name

Charles the Third has become the King of England, which is pretty good work if you can get it. King of England is like how jobs at the power company were in the 1980s - they only come open when somebody dies. I confess, as a red-blooded patriot proud of our win in the revolution the way Nebraska football fans cling to old victories, I am not as up to date on all the inner workings concerning the transfer of power of the monarchy. I figured Game of Thrones settled all that. Much of my confusion comes from how many medals Charles wears. His chest is covered in medals like a banana republic dictator in an early 80s action film about to be single-handedly overthrown by Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Trying to educate myself on the matter, I turned to Wikipedia. Searching for "Charles III," I found the eighth-century French monarch also named Charles III, who was hilariously known as "Charles the Simple."

Charles the Simple? Like, you are king, man, hire a better public relations team. Or send your current one to the guillotine. He was the son of, and I swear it says this, the even worse-named Louis the Stammerer. I imagine poor Louis stumbled over his words one day in elementary school and his mother said, "Don't worry, the other kids will forget it by tomorrow," and a thousand years later he's still Louis the Stammerer.

Town Cryings

His father was - and I know this sounds like I'm making this up - Charles the Bald. Charles II, or Charles the Bald, was the grandson of Charlemagne but did not have the same brand awareness. The Bald did have a son known as, and this is my favorite, Lothar the Lame. Now, you cannot tell me poor Lothar didn't get that nickname on a playground somewhere. Obviously, what with the black plague and getting married at 13 they weren't as concerned with bullying back then. I mean, Lothar was a prince!

Lothar, I'm assuming to escape the shame, lived a great deal of his life in a monastery. Perhaps that's where the moniker came from: Lothar the Lame does sound like the title of an unpopular youth pastor.

Kings and royalty seem more like fantasy to a small-town boy like me. It should not be so surprising, then, that all this talk of fantasy-land royal succession is happening during the most important time of imagining the impossible ... fantasy football season.

Every year I host a fantasy football auction draft with such high stakes some participants put more research into the draft than they did their last automobile purchase. Of course, fantasy football is not the same as acquiring a means to transport your family safely to school, doctors, and church - fantasy football is about sticking it to your friends which is way more important.

The draft itself is an event with so much food and drink it reminds me of an ironically-named general assembly of the states of the former Holy Roman Empire, which I learned in my royal internet "research" was called a diet. That is true at our modern diet, instead of choosing a ridiculously-named man king, we choose to live and die following the exploits of a guy named Cooper Kupp.

Fantasy is about imagining the impossible, whether in royalty or the National Football League.

This leads me back to ol' Charles the Simple. You see, the Simple was often overshadowed by his cousin, also named Charles, who was the Holy Roman Emperor until he was deposed at the Diet of Tribur in 887. Cousin Charles was better known as Charles the Fat. Yes, the Fat lost at a diet.

You can't make that up, not in your wildest fantasies.

More adventures at Cypress Pond

I'm still reminiscing about the farming days with Chester, and remembered one scary moment. Maybe if I tell you, someone else will avoid similar danger.

While harvesting the corn we worked so hard for, I was standing in the wagon bed and Chester made a quick turn to harvest the next row. The chute that emptied the corn into the wagon just missed my head by inches as it swung around! Scared us both to death, but taught me to never stand in the bed of the wagon within reach of the harvester!

I almost didn't get to share what I'm going to tell you next!

There is a spring that runs from near the field into the ponds. One of my favorite things to do was go to the Pond by the spring, and a big beech-nut tree there, and just sit. Memories flood my soul today as I relive some of the happiest days of my life. You had to watch for snakes, but the sounds that I could hear would keep me alert and filled with wonder. I could imagine the travels of this spring water as I sat there. It fed the Pond, the canal, Bear Creek, the Tennessee River, and even the great Mississippi River. Every drop that flowed was useful.

Then, there stood the big beech-nut tree. Names of long ago, and now, are carved on the tree. Many of the people are gone, but I had memories of most of them. Years ago, there was an old wooden boat used for fishing and just exploring the beauty of this wonderland.

A few years ago, my daughter Angie carried me to the Tupelo Elvis Presley center that was hosting Joe Hudspeth, Jr. with his new colorful book of photos of nature in Mississippi.

His mother and I were friends when we taught together in Memphis/Whitehaven. She moved to Mississippi for her husband, Joe, to work on the campaign of soon-to-be governor Cliff Finch.

We would get into the boat and meander through the trees over to Highway 30, check out the cypress knees (where many had been cut and I'd carried them to Mississippi State in the 1940s.) the professors used them for making table lamps! I wonder today who has them and do they know the history of where they came from?

I told Joe, Jr., at our Tupelo visit that, "he hadn't filmed nature until you come to Tishomingo count and visit the Cypress Pond."

Time spent there was one of my most cherished memories of my almost sixty years of married life.

Here, I'd listen. I'd hear all kinds of animal and bird sounds. I'd think, these are sounds of God's wonderful nature. Birds, fish slapping the water, and echoes of sounds far, far away. Sometimes a big splash would come from an alligator rolling off a big log, his splash waking the quiet of the pond and sending many scurrying away. They knew the big alligator had slept, and woke up hungry! He would forage for his supper.

I still sit in wonder sometimes at having been given the privilege of this wonderful gift of experiencing nature at its best.

I still love the smell of the good earth, sounds of more creatures than I can name, as I waited for the tractor to stop. It was my day-dreaming wake-up call, and I needed to get back to work!

One more anecdote about the spring: My husband, Chester, and his brothers Faye and Ray grew up in the 1930s and one of their tasks was to fetch water from the spring in little casks and bring them back for the farm workers. Their mama was terrified they'd encounter snakes she was sure infested the path to the spring, and instilled in them the same fear. Once, Big Daddy (Frank) knew they had been gone too long to bring fresh water. He cut him a switch, and headed for the spring to help them remember their task.

Before he got to the spring, there stood Ray in the path, frozen still, just looking down, unaware of anything. He gave him a lick, said nothing and moved along. There stood Chester looking down, also frozen stiff with fear after seeing a big snake cross the path. Big Daddy gave him a lick, and Chester jumped into the spring! He knew he had done been caught by one of those big snakes Big Mama had told them about!

"Boys! Get your kegs, fill them and hurry back to those thirsty men!" No other words! Big Daddy knew the fear built up in those boys by their mama. I laugh every time I think of this story.

(Editor's note: a quick check with an authority confirmed that, indeed, the department of fish and wildlife introduced alligators to this area in an effort to control beavers. One was killed near Jeff Daniels' garage on Highway 30, and was apparently in the Vidette. This editor will no longer be longing to canoe.)

Burnsville Medical Clinic Celebrates Open House

IUKA, Mississippi – Burnsville Medical Clinic welcomed its neighbors to an open house event on Sept. 18.

The clinic is staffed by Brad Murray, M.D., and Jade James, FNP, who both have deep roots in the Crossroads region. Dr. Murray is the only physician currently seeing patients in Burnsville.

“We’re bringing things home that the clinic hasn’t had here in a long time,” said Dr. Murray shortly before the ribbon cutting at the clinic’s Sunday afternoon open house.

Along with innovative technology and the latest approaches to clinical care, Dr. Murray and James bring a personal touch to provide high-quality health care to their community.

“We’ve got a wonderful staff here,” James said during the open house program. “We are excited to have the opportunity to grow here.”

As visitors toured the clinic, they were able to see the paintings of Burnsville landmarks in the exam rooms and historic photos in the hallways.

“This clinic has been a dream of ours for a long time,” said Barry Keel, administrator of North

Mississippi Medical Center-Iuka. “We are excited to have our third clinic in Tishomingo County,” joining Iuka Medical Clinic and Belmont Family Medical Clinic.

The clinic fills a need for the Crossroads region, making access to primary care more convenient for those in eastern Alcorn County and northwest Tishomingo County.

“What benefits Burnsville benefits the whole county,” said James Tennyson, chairman of the board for NMMC-Iuka.

Also attending the open house were David Wilson, chief operating officer for North Mississippi Health Services; State Sen. Daniel Sparks, R-Belmont; State Rep. Bubba Carpenter, R-Burnsville; and Gary Matthews, Tishomingo County Development Foundation executive director.

Dr. Murray is a Burnsville native. He received his bachelor’s degree in nursing from Mississippi University for Women in Columbus, and his medical degree from the University of Mississippi School of Medicine in Jackson. Dr. Murray completed his residency training at North Mississippi Medical Center’s Family Medicine Residency Program in Tupelo in 2021 and has been seeing patients at Belmont Family Medical Clinic and NMMC-Iuka since then.

He is the son of Elmer and Beverly Murray of Burnsville. He and his wife, Amanda, have four children-- Devin, Jaycee, Addison Sloan and Emma.

James is an Alcorn County native. A graduate of Alcorn Central High School, she earned her bachelor’s from the Mississippi University for Women in Columbus and master’s degree in nursing from the University of North Alabama in Florence. James and her husband, Kenny, live in Corinth and have two children, Neely and Owen.

“We believe in the power of primary care to deliver the best outcomes for the patients and families we serve,” said David Barber, president of North Mississippi Medical Clinics and NMHS chief network development officer. “We’re thrilled to have a wonderful team here.”

Burnsville Medical Clinic is open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday. Walk-ins are welcome. To make an appointment, call (662) 427-2073 or 1-800-THE DESK (1-800-843-3375).

Our family serving your family, across the generations.

Choosing a funeral home is something many of us avoid until the need arises because it touches on a subject with which we're not entirely comfortable. Becoming better informed now will make decision-making easier when the time comes.

Is the funeral home you are considering fully licensed for both at-need arrangements and also pre-arrangements?

Does it have a good long-term standing in the community?

Does the funeral home you are considering have a firm sense of traditional values as well as extensive knowledge of modern and future trends?

And most of all, does the funeral home you are considering have the people, facilities, and training to serve your needs at a cost that is at or below their competitors?

We invite you to stop by Cutshall Funeral Home and ask us these questions. There is a reason why 87 years later it is still...

New congregation gives old Iuka church New Life

New Life Church preparing to host third annual Camp Meeting October 19-23

by Pamela McRae

A local group of Christians has truly given “new life” to an old church and will be having their annual camp meeting soon. They are reaching out to the community to spread the good news, and overcome some ghosts.

Pastors Charles and Martha Stafford lead the non-denominational church located at 1360 Constitution Drive in Iuka and also publish a Christian newspaper. The Staffords have been in Iuka for many years; their former church was located across from Country Squire on Old Highway 72.

When the former congregation sold the church on Constitution Drive, it was the perfect opportunity for the New Life congregation to expand. Its 100 or so members have been working for the past three years to renovate the brick church and its adjoining buildings. There’s no connection to the former pastor or congregation.

Impacted like all churches by Covid, they are in rebuilding mode, and members describe a sweet relationship in the body of Christ worshipping together there.

The church is located on Constitution Drive in Iuka.

“Pastors Charles and Martha are the nicest, most sincere people you’ve ever met, and my whole family goes there. We’ve been there several years now, and we love it,” said Mechelle Pounders, of Tishomingo. Her husband Roger and other men share in leading worship and Wednesday evening services, she said. “My sister and her husband, my parents, we all attend there now.”

Each year in October since moving to the new location New Life hosts an old fashion Camp Meeting with ministers coming from several states away to fellowship and worship together.

The meeting will be from October 19th through the 23rd. There will be praise and worship, special singing and preaching. The first service will be Wednesday evening at 7 pm and there will be two services daily from Thursday through Sunday at 11 am and 7 pm. There will be a meal served after each service in their newly renovated fellowship hall and dining area.

There is no connection to the previous congregation.

“From the beginning, New Life Church has been about bringing people together and helping the community,”

Pastors Charles and Martha Stafford lead New Life Church in Iuka and invite everyone to come out and worship with them during their camp meeting this fall.

said Pastor Charles. “Iuka is our home and we want to do our best to be a light in the darkness, a shining city set on a hill.”

Everyone is welcome at New Life Church and, the sign says, “come as you are!”

“I tell folks that visit you are only a stranger once at New Life Church,” said Pastor Martha.

Family seeks information about the ladies that took a stand against TVA

by Pamela McRae

Back in 1974 TVA wanted to build a nuclear plant on the Tennessee River. The government bought up much of the adjoining land to establish a “buffer zone,” as a safety measure. Many old homes were purchased, and families moved elsewhere, but a few ladies at Hubbard Salem Church, near the TVA site, objected to the church and cemetery being sold. They fought the government, and they eventually won - Hubbard Salem Church sits on County Road 989 just as it has for generations. According to the Tishomingo County cemetery book, some graves are from the 1800s.

Now, descendants of a Hubbard Salem church member are trying to learn more about these ladies willing to act on their convictions. Green Finley

Hubbard donated land for the church and his descendants, Glenda, Wheeler and Steve Hubbard are asking if anyone has information about this incident. They would like to memorialize the event at the church, and have an exhibit at the Old Courthouse Museum.

They know the ladies have all passed, and they include Bernice Grissom, Betty Ruth Hardwick, Willow Bugg, Eula Lard and Lois Bugg. They are seeking information, and maybe some photos of the ladies, and it would be amazing to hear from family members who may know about this.

Call the paper at 662-423-2211, or email us at contact@tishco.news, or contact the family directly: 619-420-5612 or email: visionsoffrance@cox.net.

We look forward to learning more about this event.

IMS honors the legacy of Michael Walker's short life

"Love Like Mike" day observed throughout county, in and outside of schools

by Pamela McRae

Tuesday, students, staff, and visitors at Iuka Middle School wore orange, heard from national and local speakers, and participated in many activities to remember and mark the one-year anniversary of the tragic death of Michael Scott Walker. Walker was killed in a two-vehicle accident that also severely injured his mother, IMS teacher Melissa Walker and sister Macie Walker, a UNA basketball player.

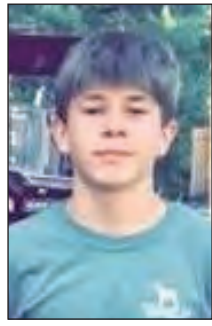

Michael was by all reports a fun-loving, active, and very charismatic 13-year-old, about whom the saying "to know him was to love him," was clearly the perfect description. His unbridled enthusiasm, competitiveness, and compassion gave birth to the phrase/hashtag "Love Like Mike" soon after his loss, and so Tuesday was Love Like Mike Day. Students and staff throughout the school system also wore orange in his memory.

The morning started with a video including stories about Michael for any who may not have been close to him, like new fifth graders. People from principals to best friends testified about the fun-loving boy, with stories about "rehomeing" the groundhog menace on the IMS grounds, gifting teachers with watermelons, and just generally positively affecting all those he knew.

Then, the entire student body politely moved into the activity building to hear a dynamic message from former Alabama and Philadelphia Eagles football player Siran Stacy. In his motivating speech, he urged young people to make good decisions, be determined about meeting their goals, and be true about all parts of their life. He also shared the story of the fatal accident in 2007 when the van he was driving was struck by a drunk driver about a mile from his house, putting him in a coma, and killing his wife and four of his five children.

Some moved to tears, the students flooded onto the floor to dedicate their lives to finding light from the darkness. Dozens stood in line afterward to talk and get photos with the former All-American running back, and he patiently listened and prayed with them all. Stacy is a friend of the Robert and competition coming up! You can show up and support the Pride of the Tribe!!

Senior Spotlight: Eliza Cavness

This week's senior spotlight was Eliza Cavness, a Bravette Dancer. I asked Eliza what her plans with dance were after high school. She plans to attend the University of Mississippi, and would "love to use what I've learned and my talents to teach dance and choreograph for teams in the area."

I also asked her how they are preparing for competition this year. They are working very hard during practice and organizing weekend practices as well as after school. She told me they take advantage of the time they are given and every girl on the team works their hardest to be better every day.

"For any girl interested in trying out for dance next year, my first tip is to just do it!" she said. "Dance is so rewarding and although tryouts are scary, they can lead you into a program that I love so dearly," she said. "Secondly, start working now on flexibility, technique, and tricks!" She told me practice makes perfect, and when tryouts roll around, being extra prepared makes everything go much smoother.

"Just have confidence in everything you do! Confidence plays a key role in performing and the overall success of a dance team."

The Bravettes can be seen during pep rallies, on the sidelines Friday nights, and they really shine during basketball season.

Cross Country is Still on a Roll

by Caleb Castile
TCHS Sports

A lot of Braves XC members set personal records and qualified for the MHSAA State Championships in their meet last Saturday at Saltillo High School. The Braves have been improving race by race, and last Saturday is no different.

Several Braves set personal records, and a ton of improvement has been made from the start of the season. Qualifying for state is every runner's goal, and it's really good news to hear that TC will send several to the state meet.

Next meet is Saturday, September 24 at Tupelo.

Volleyball Continues Success

25 kills from Moore drive a 3-0 sweep of Corinth in division match

Volleyball has had a very successful week. On Thursday, the Lady Braves traveled just up the road to take on Corinth. From the start of the game to the finish line, they were always one step ahead of the Corinth Lady Warriors. TC would win the game 3-0. They have continued to show us all the improvement that they have made this year. Before the game on Thursday however, there was an injury. Middle blocker Margret Claire Riley has gone down with a hand injury. We wish her all the best in her recovery and return to the court.

Highlight performance of the game would definitely be Reese Moore. She had an absolutely historic performance, scoring 25 kills throughout the game. This is made even more impressive when you consider the fact that it was only a three set game. She's been the Lady Brave's main scoring threat this season, and will look to continue to impress on the court. The Lady Braves are set to take on two huge division foes this week. They play Ripley on Tuesday and New Albany on Thursday.

Football Continues the Season

Last Friday the football team took another blow with a 47-7 loss to Kossuth on the road. The Braves, coming off a rough loss, looked to improve their season and make a statement. Kossuth had other plans. The Aggies are a very stout, very strong opponent and it's not an easy task to play against them. On top of all of that, it was the Aggies homecoming game, so the Maroon and White faithful were out in bunches Friday night.

The Braves couldn't seem to get anything to go their way during the game, and they would end up losing 47-7.

The only touchdown they scored was off of a Chandler Williams TD pass to Eli Edwards. The Braves will try to rebound with another road trip next Friday as they take on South Pontotoc.

<https://www.law.cornell.edu/cfr/text/5/2635.101>

§ 2635.101 Basic obligation of public service.

- (a) Public service is a public trust Each employee has a responsibility to the United States Government and its citizens to place loyalty to the Constitution, laws and ethical principles above private gain. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each employee shall respect and adhere to the principles of ethical conduct set forth in this section, as well as the implementing standards contained in this part and in supplemental agency regulations.
- (b) General principles. The following general principles apply to every employee and may form the basis for the standards contained in this part. Where a situation is not covered by the standards set forth in this part, employees shall apply the principles set forth in this section in determining whether their conduct is proper.
- (1) Public service is a public trust, requiring employees to place loyalty to the Constitution, the laws and ethical principles above private gain.
- (2) Employees shall not hold financial interests that conflict with the conscientious performance of duty.
- (3) Employees shall not engage in financial transactions using nonpublic Government information or allow the improper use of such information to further any private interest. [Insider Trading]
- (4) An employee shall not, except as permitted by subpart B of this part, solicit or accept any gift or other item of monetary value from any person or entity seeking official action from, doing business with, or conducting activities regulated by the employee's agency, or whose interests may be substantially affected by the performance or nonperformance of the employee's duties.
- (5) Employees shall put forth honest effort in the performance of their duties.
- (6) Employees shall not knowingly make unauthorized commitments or promises of any kind purporting to bind the Government.
- (7) Employees shall not use public office for private gain
- (8) Employees shall act impartially and not give preferential treatment to any private organization or individual.
- (9) Employees shall protect and conserve Federal property and shall not use it for other than authorized activities
- (10) Employees shall not engage in outside employment or activities, including seeking or negotiating for employment, that conflict with official Government duties and responsibilities.
- (11) Employees shall disclose waste, fraud, abuse, and corruption to appropriate authorities.
- (12) Employees shall satisfy in good faith their obligations as citizens, including all just financial obligations, especially those - such as Federal, State, or local taxes - that are imposed by law.
- (13) Employees shall adhere to all laws and regulations that provide equal opportunity for all Americans regardless of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, or handicap
- (14) Employees shall endeavor to avoid any actions creating the appearance that they are violating the law or the ethical standards set forth in this part. Whether particular circumstances create an appearance that the law or these standards have been violated shall be determined from the perspective of a reasonable person with knowledge of the relevant facts.
- (c) Related statutes. In addition to the standards of ethical conduct set forth in this part, there are conflict of interest statutes that prohibit certain conduct. Criminal conflict of interest statutes of general applicability to all employees, 18 U.S.C. 201, 203, 205, 208, and 209, are summarized in the appropriate subparts of this part and must be taken into consideration in determining whether conduct is proper. Citations to other generally applicable statutes relating to employee conduct are set forth in subpart I and employees are further cautioned that there may be additional statutory and regulatory restrictions applicable to them generally or as employee of their specific agencies. Because an employee is considered to be on notice of the requirements of any statute, an employee should not rely upon any description or synopsis of a statutory restriction, but should refer to the statute itself and obtain the advice of an agency ethics official as needed.

All unconscionable bargain or contract is one which no man in his senses, not under delusion, would make, on the one hand, and which no fair and honest man would accept, on the other hand. -Hume v US, 10 S.Ct. 134, 132 US 406, 33 L.Ed. 393; Edler v Frazier, 174 Iowa 46, 156 N.W. 182, 187; Hall v Wingate, 159 Ga. 630, 126 S.E. 796,813; 2 Ves. 125; 4 Bouv. McNally v. U.S., 483 U.S. 350, 371-372 (1987), Quoting U.S. v. Holzer, 816 F.2d. 304,307:

"Fraud in its elementary common law sense of deceit - and this is one of the meanings that fraud bears in the statute, see United States v. Dial, 757 F.2d 163, 168 (7th Cir. 1985) - includes the deliberate concealment of material information in a setting of fiduciary obligation. A public official is a fiduciary toward the public, including, in the case of a judge, the litigants who appear before him, and if he deliberately conceals material information from them he is guilty of fraud."

9.If this office holder is not properly sworn and insured, he is an actor acting outside of the lawful Scope of this office, designed to work for the best interests of the people, not for their own personal gain.

dedicated in honor of his memory. The garden will not only be used as an educational and productive garden but also as a peaceful, tranquil place for students to visit.

Students painted rocks for a walkway to the classroom, played chess and games that Michael loved, and heard from Zach Yow, MSU extension agent, who led "Tribe Time." He spoke about 4H, in which Michael was very involved. Other speakers and visitors included NMMC EMS, Iuka Fire Department, Iuka Police Department, Mississippi Highway Patrol, and Tishomingo County Sheriff's Department.

Iuka Middle School staff members aspire for the garden to provide a calm sanctuary and want to allocate a space where students can destress and relax. While the only way to heal from a loss is with time, creating a memorial garden in honor of our loved one is an inspirational way to pay tribute to his life while giving students a quiet place to remember him. Creating this memorial garden will also give students a peaceful place to retreat when working through the waves of emotion. The very act of building and maintaining the garden will help students keep their minds focused on something beautiful and symbolic while they are dealing with grief in a constructive way. Once our garden is complete, students and staff will always have a quiet place to visit, reflect and remember. #lovelikemike

Darling Iuka dancers in the 1950s

I have been looking for these two photos for some time, and there they were in one of Mama's many photo albums! Made in the late 1950s these photos show the dance students of Rita Moody at a recital held at the Howard Auditorium in Iuka.

Rita was from Cherokee and taught lessons both in Cherokee and Iuka. We gathered each Saturday morning at the old VFW Hut (now the American Legion Building) in Iuka and were taught both tap and ballet.

I was sorry to learn that Rita Moody George, loved by all her students, passed away in 2020 in Bristol, Tennessee. She was the daughter of the late Lottie Jean Lomenick and Clarence Moody. Lottie Jean was from Iuka, the daughter of James and Icy Thomas Lomenick and the sister of former Post Master, Dickie Lomenick (all deceased).

Sawin' on the Strings October 22nd at Old Courthouse

Event to raise awareness of Tishomingo County fiddle players features Tim Avalon of Clinton

On October 22nd, at 3 p.m. the Old Courthouse Museum in Iuka is planning an Old-Time Mississippi Fiddle Concert to raise awareness about two Tishomingo County fiddle players: John Alexander Brown and John Hatcher.

During the height of the Great Depression, both of these men recorded fiddle music for the Works Progress Administration's Mississippi folk music collection for the Library of Congress. Recording sessions were prearranged, and often several musicians gathered at one central location to meet "the sound wagon."

John Hatcher was an "orphan boy" raised by his grandfather near Burnsville. Hatcher was a farmer and wood hauler and, for the recordings, was dressed in his Sunday-go-to-meeting suit with his hair neatly parted down the middle. He enjoyed playing at fiddle contests in Corinth and Sheffield, and for some time he played with the Tishomingo County Jamboree Boys on the radio in Jackson, Tennessee. His favorite, however, was playing at local dances and when folks took a break from dancing, Hatcher often sang. In the WPA recordings, Hatcher can be heard singing while John Brown plays "Wolves a-Howling".

John Alexander Brown, father of 13, was 67 years old when he made his recording. He lived near Mill Creek. According to Albert Ferris, the project's photographer, when Brown played "music animated his eyes, as he swayed from side to side. His interest, his enthusiasm to everything that he said, and his kindly attitude toward others made him delightful". The story goes, when the recording wagon arrived in town, Brown was in the field plowing with his team of oxen. He came straight from the field to record so his dress was in sharp contrast to Hatcher. After recording, he said he had to hurry home because he "left his oxen in the field."

On October 22nd, composer, performer, and music teacher Tim Avalon of Clinton, Mississippi will be performing a concert exclusively featuring songs by Hatcher and Brown. Mr. Avalon launched a career at the age of 13, thanks to his "Aunt Vangie" who gifted him with his first guitar. It was the beginning of a lifelong love-affair with music. Self-taught, he also mastered the banjo and mandolin and began playing professionally while in his teens joining rock and roll and country bands. The fiddle was next on the agenda, which he studied for a couple of years after learning that his grandfather had been an accomplished player. Since that time, Tim's musical taste has developed to include Celtic, swing, jazz, bluegrass, and old-time.

For the past 40 years, he has been teaching private lessons at the Avalon School for String Instruments, with students ranging in age from 5 years to 90. Many of his students have won contests for the traditional musical forms at the State Fair or in fiddling competitions.

His awards and honors include state championship at the State Fair for two consecutive years in mandolin, and Mississippi Folk Artist of the Year, 2000. He is also the author of numerous old-time and Celtic tunes and has published a collection of Irish and Old Time Fiddle Tunes, a book of Traditional Music of Mississippi, and The Tim Avalon Alphabet Anthology which includes over 400 original tunes.

This concert will introduce a new exhibit on Hatcher and Brown at the Old Courthouse Museum and bring awareness to an ongoing effort to erect historical markers in honor of these two accomplished musicians.

We would like to extend a huge thank you to our sponsors, Tishomingo County Tourism Council, Nicholas and Adrienne Phillips, The Sparks CPA Firm of Iuka P.C., and Just A Kind Word Florist.
